Fords Ferry Road work to close road

Travel along Fords Ferry Road will be interrupted beginning next week. Brian Thomas, utilities director for the City of Marion, said work to complete the widening project will limit the flow of traffic beginning next week. While residents along the portion of road affected will be free to travel to and from their homes, through traffic on the street will be prohibited. The work will disrupt travel between Whippoorwill Drive and Main Street. The $200,000-plus project began last year, incorporating sewer line extensions and a widening of the narrow road. Work on the joint city-county project has been delayed this year due to the weather and fiscal factors. The roadway will be widened to 24 feet, with two 11-foot lanes and a 1-foot shoulder on either side. It will also be striped.

Meet the Bobcats planned for Friday

Bobcat fans will have the chance to meet the team off the field this week. A Meet the Bobcats dinner has been planned for Friday evening at Pizza Roundup in Marion. The informal dinner begins at 6 p.m., with team and management on hand to meet fans, talk baseball and answer questions. Owner Steve Haire will be feeding the team on their off day at his restaurant on U.S. 60 West across from the livestock market. Though the team will be eating for free, Bobcat fans are expected to pay for their own meal. Richard Cruce is planning another Meet the Bobcats dinner later this season at his restaurant, Just-a-Burg'r.

WorkKeys results available at CCHS

Results for the 26 participants in the WorkKeys job skills assessment test offered this year for the first time locally can be picked up at Crittenden County High School next week. Results can be obtained at the office from 8 to 11 a.m., Monday through Thursday. The test, which scores participants on various areas looked at by employers, was provided at no cost to students by the board of education and Crittenden County Economic Development Corporation.

Highway fatalities drop to 6-year low

The number of people killed on Kentucky's highways dropped to a six-year low in 2007. Transportation Cabinet records show 864 fatalities in Kentucky last year. It was the lowest total since 2001, when the death toll was 843, and the second consecutive year in which the number of fatalities declined. The death toll for 2006 was 913 - 49 more than in 2007. It was 985 in 2005 - 121 more than last year. Secretary of Transportation Joe Prather attributed the improvement to a number of factors, including the passage of a primary seat belt law, increased education and enforcement, and engineering safety improvements, such as wider shoulders and cable barriers in medians of divided highways.

STAFF REPORT

To make ends meet next year, Crittenden County Board of Education on Tuesday cut on-site security at the middle and high schools and increased the price of student meals as much as 35 cents.

Eliminating the school resource officer's position created two years ago will save the school system $24,000. While cutting the position started under his leadership was a difficult decision for Superintendent John Belt, $250,000 more in additional cuts will still be needed in order to balance the school system's upcoming $10 million budget.

"We're coming closer to a balanced budget, but we are not there yet," he said.

The position of resource officer, funded with an additional $6,000 each from the fiscal court and City of Marion, was held by Deputy Greg Rushing, who was provided by the Crittenden County Sheriff's Department. Other school positions and services have also been cut or scaled back to reduce costs for the district.

Though Rushing will not necessarily be out of a job, Sheriff Wayne Agent may be faced with cutting staff without the additional funding.

Another significant step by the board of education in addressing the budget was approving an increase in school meal prices. Food Services Director Janet Stevens said the bump in both breakfast and lunch prices was needed to offset growing food costs.

"Last year, milk was up 26 percent and the cost of food 12 percent," Stevens said. "And that's not even what it's going to be this year."

Breakfast will up 20 cents across the board to students beginning this fall. Lunch at the middle and high schools will be 35 cents more and 30 cents at CCES. Reduced-rate lunch prices will not change.

Remains of World War II fighter pilot returned to U.S. for burial

Howard Enoch III has spent his life wishing for more information about his father, Cliff, who was killed in action in World War II.

In fact, throughout his entire life, his father's life and death were a bit of a mystery to the younger Enoch, who was born just months after his father's warplane went down over Germany. For more than 60 years, the family believed Cliff Enoch's body was unretrievable; but with the result of modern DNA research and the diligent efforts of a non-profit organization, Cliff Enoch's remains have been recovered, identified and returned to the United States.

In recent weeks, Cliff Enoch's son, who lives in Framingham, Mass., has been in contact with U.S. Department of Defense representatives who are planning a burial in Arlington National Cemetery. Tentative plans are to hold a memorial service in August.

Second Lt. Howard Clifton Enoch II was born in Crittenden County, the son of Howard Clifton "H.C." and Mattie Lucas Enoch. He was a 1942 graduate of Marion High School and enrolled at the University of Cincinnati, where he was involved in the school's ROTC program. He left school and joined the United States Army Air Corps in November 1942, about a year after the United States entered World War II. After entering the Corps, he attended basic training in Tallahassee, Fla., where he married Margarette Wylie of Princeton in September 1944.

2nd Lt. Howard Clifton "Cliff" Enoch was a 1942 graduate of Marion High School and left college in November of that year to join the U.S. Army Air Corps. While flying with the famed Eighth Air Force as a member of the 368th Fighter Squadron, 359th Fighter Group, Enoch was killed in Germany when his P-51D Mustang crashed. The plane above shows just how Enoch's high-performance fighter would have looked at the time, carrying a green nose and yellow tail. While on a mission near Halle, Germany, his plane went down on March 19, 1945. His son's research uncovered eyewitness accounts of the accident, which are different than the official military report that says Cliff Enoch, who was flying solo, became distracted and crashed.

"This (eyewitness) account says he was engaged in an air battle and both planes crashed. There are additional eyewitness reports, but they are a little too graphic," Enoch says. "These two reports contain the essential facts as I believe they happened."

Shown with the plane on Feb. 1, 1945, are members of "E" Flight of the 368th Fighter Squadron, of which Enoch was a member. He is not pictured in this photo, but the plane is easily identified as the one in which Enoch died from its name and serial number (44-15371) and squadron and individual codes (CV-Z). The name of the plane, "Happy," can be seen on the nose of the aircraft. The squadron flew Mustangs with green noses and a yellow tail. The Mustang was normally flown by Capt. James L. Way Jr.

Enoch obtained the following report issued by the fire department of Eilenburg detailing the plane crash.

"On March 19, at 13:00 (1 p.m.) air raid alarm. The announcement was 'All fire brigades to the police department.' An air battle over Eilenburg. An American fighter and an Me 110 were in combat and did strafe each other. Both came down burning. The German (aircraft) came down near the village exit to Battaune and the American (aircraft) crashed near the railway embankment.

Both crews were dead. The deployment (of the fire brigade) finished at 18:00 (6 p.m.)."

A second eyewitness account said an American fighter came down burning, exploding and totally crushing with only a few human remains and metal parts found.

Team discovers remains

In 2004, an investigative team surveyed the site where Cliff Enoch's plane crashed, and in August 2006, an excavation led to the recovery of his remains.

In April of this year, Howard Enoch III received the shocking - though welcome - news that his father, who was believed missing forever, had been found and identified after matching a DNA sample provided by a maternal relative in Jackson,

County accepting bids for trash pick-up

STAFF REPORT

Garbage pickup will be a primary issue in Crittenden County in the coming months as the county begins accepting competitive sealed bids for the collection and disposal of trash.

Crittenden County Judge-Executive Fred Brown told magistrates Tuesday during the regular fiscal court meeting that the county's contract with Freedom Waste is expiring this fall. The contract was assigned to Freedom Waste, which purchased Waste Management's local operation last winter. Waste Management had originally been given the county's franchise agreement to collect and dispose of refuse in 1993. It had been given two five-year extensions prior to selling off this and other area county operations to Freedom Waste.

Freedom Waste, which operates a landfill in Mayfield, wants to retain the county's business, Joe Buchanan told the court this week. Buchanan is a part-owner and spokesman for the company. He said Freedom is prepared to negotiate a new contract with the county, which would include a small price increase for residential customers.

County residents are paying $11.76 a month without a cart now or $14.86 with a cart. Freedom Waste's new proposal calls for prices to go up to $12.76 per month without a cart and $15.86 with a cart. Commercial dumpsters are priced based on a rate of $4.86 per cubic yard and frequency of pickup.

Freedom is currently levying a 14 percent fuel surcharge to offset high energy costs, an amount tacked onto the bill.

Buchanan told magistrates that 14 percent is a low surcharge compared to prices paid in other area counties. He said some fuel charges are higher than 20 percent.

Buchanan also provided a price list of what residents are paying for curbside trash pickup in other counties.

Crittenden is the lowest, he said. His documents showed Caldwell at $14.22 without a cart and $17.33 with one. Lyon $21 with a cart; Union $21 without and $23 with a company cart; Webster is $21 and $23; and Livingston $22 in Smithland and $24 outside the city with a cart.

Although Freedom has already disclosed its proposed rate structure and other contract provisions, the service will be advertised for bid, according to state law.

Freedom Waste wants to give the county $1,500 a month to take over operation of the convenience center that accepts refuse at the county garage on U.S. 60. Because the operation is not profitable, Freedom is agreeing to subsidize the county to operate it.

Judge Brown said he thinks the county can operate the facility and make it more appealing to county residents by standardizing the rate structure and making recycling easier.

By increasing recycling and reducing the tonnage that goes to the landfill, the county can cut its costs to operate the convenience center, Brown said.

Brown said that based on current information, he would recommend sticking with Freedom Waste when the contact period ends later this year.

U.S. guilty of spiritual treason

God will hold all accountable who are destroying this great nation with spiritual treason, be they preachers, professed Christians, or the uninformed.

God's patience is remarkable but not forever. China is the oldest nation on earth, 4,150 years old. China's religion has gone from ancestral worship, three forms of pagan worship, and now to atheism.

Watching the horrible destruction of the recent earthquake in China brings home two eternal truths. Number one, God's Spirit will not always strive with man and destruction will follow. Number two, Jesus said we would know of the last days when there would be famine and earthquakes in many places.

Paul also tells us what the near end will be. He said, "Times will be perilous, because men will love self, boasters, proud, blas-phemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, same sex sins, word breakers, false accusers, without self control, fierce, traitors,... lovers of pleasures rather than lovers of God, having a form of godliness, but denying the power to live godly." 2nd Tim.3:1-5.

Sound familiar? We in this area have been warned with the recent quake, as well as in many other places. We are experiencing upheaval in every phase of life, here and around the world. There are food shortages; energy supply is dropping; there's drought in some places in America and floods in others; uncontrollable fires all around the country; minds and lives are destroyed with drug addiction at an alarming rate; one in every 99 adults is in prison or jail, totaling 2.3 million inmates; one in 30 men between the ages of 20 and 34 is behind bars; thousands of others that age are shacking up, leaving babies everywhere for taxpayers to support; thousands of others are in the wretched sin of homosexuality; there's murder; sexual abuse; and child abuse. Moreover, Muslims around the world are dedicated to wiping us off the face of the earth; unheard of laws are being passed for same-sex marriages; there are all kinds of incurable diseases; the cost of living is soaring; and the most tragic and telling of all is, millions, many of whom say they are Christians, are supporting two people vying for the presidency of this nation that are for killing unborn innocent human beings and support homosexuality and same-sex hookups in one form or another.

Further erosion that is cause for alarm includes the following: Atheists are fighting to take "In God We Trust" off our money and "One Nation Under God" out of the pledge; they want no prayer or mention of God in government schools and many businesses; ministers are being threatened with jail if they preach against the moral evils listed in the Bible; more people are at ball games and in taverns and casinos than in church; more than half of all marriages end in divorce; children are without any real guidance; most college professors are atheists, far left and haters of the America that feeds them quite well; and a wicked government makes millions dependant on welfare programs so they themselves can stay in the well-paid welfare program of politics with big pay for destroying this nation, and getting a hefty pension to sit back and watch its demise.

The list goes on and on. What is the cause of all of this turning the greatest nation on earth into a Sodom and Gomorrah, a third world country, and a cesspool of sin and debauchery heading into the storm of God's wrath?

Isaiah gives it to us from God. "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil:...Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes,... Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink, which justify the wicked for reward..." 5:20-23

This just about covers it.

Israel was destroyed because of the very sins America is sporting these days. Not only in TV, movies, books and on the Web, promoting unmitigated filth and hate for God and America, but people are being permitted by professed Christians and preachers to believe they are Christians that commit these despicable acts of murdering the innocent unborn, are homosexuals, lesbians, adulterers, fornicators, liars and haters of those who are good.

Not only will they end up in a devil's hell, but so will the ones who help them to believe these lies, or do not tell them any better.

God commands Christians to warn people that claim to be His and are not, or we as Christians will suffer the same fate as the deceived and hypocrites. Take God's word for it. Ezekiel 33:8,12,13.

NPR's left me with no satisfaction

Sometimes, I like to let down my hair that has yet to fall out and tune in to NPR.

Much to the chagrin of close right-winged friends — or at least one in particular — National Public Radio has been one of my favorite listening tools for news that goes beyond Page 1 and the Hollywood flavor of the month. For much the same reason, I also enjoy BBC World News from across the pond. I find that together, along with decidedly biased dispatches from other domestic outlets, one can get a general idea of the mess we've made of this world.

But enough is enough. Apparently, in the last week, the only thing happening in the world, or at least in NPR's opinion, is gay marriage in California.

The Golden State's high court began allowing the legal union of man and man or woman and woman Monday. Paving the way for this week's ongoing headlines on the issue with end-less enterprises last week, NPR's love affair with the issue is clear.

The Iraq war has become blasé to virtually all media. Hillary vs. Barack is over for now. Immigration has taken a back seat to gas prices as the leading domestic issue. Even oil prices are running on fumes with NPR's gay marriage parade.

And I do mean parade. Story after story has been lined up on the morning broadcasts. Interviews with the groom's groom and bride's bride. Insight into the economic impact for caterers and wedding planners. Investigative pieces on the expected influx of marriage-seeking gays to California's population. Tips on where to find a master of ceremonies now that anyone who can officiate a wedding is knee-deep in marriage requests.

For someone who has never been enamoured with the idea of even traditional marriage, it's enough to make a person change the station — or podcast in this particular situation.

NPR is not the only form of communication with a journalistic license to abuse a subject — beat it to death, in fact. But I've foolishly come to expect more from this segment of broadcast journalism, one that has traveled the world over to unveil interesting and important stories outside of the realm of cable and the 5:30 nightly news.

But again, enough is enough! What happens in California should stay in California.

So, it's back to iTunes on the office computer instead of NPR podcasts. Seems as if what Mick Jagger has been saying for the last 43 years is more relevant than what I may hear in the so-called news, where I just can't get no satisfaction.

Three high school juniors named to Governor's Scholars Program

STAFF REPORT

Three Crittenden County High School juniors have been accepted into the Kentucky Governor's Scholar program this summer.

Molly Beavers, daughter of Ronnie and Teresa Beavers of the Mexico community, and Kayla Buntin, the daughter of Curt and Melody Buntin of Sheridan, will be living on campus next month and experiencing life much like college students.

Beavers

Buntin

What began as a program for 230 students has grown to more than 1,000 each year. It's mission is to prepare some of Kentucky's top-performing high school students for college and mold them to become future leaders in the state, said Aris Ceden, program coordinator.

Beavers is attending Bellarmine University in Louisville for five weeks. As a senior at CCHS this fall, she will be co-editor of the Rockette yearbook and is considering the University of Kentucky for her post-secondary education. Beavers' educational goal is medical school, so she will be studying the healthcare industry in this summer's scholar program. She also works part-time at Crittenden County Health and Rehab.

Buntin will visit Morehead State University to complete her Governor's Scholar work. An active member of the Crittenden County FFA, she was recently elected secretary of the Pennyryle Regional FFA

Program coping with cuts

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — An educational program that for 25 years has aimed at keeping high-performing teens in Kentucky after college is facing tight financial times because of state budget cuts. The Governor's Scholars Program, which starts this week at Bellarmine University in Louisville, will be shy about 100 students from last year's class. The exclusive program, which operates through a mixture of public and private funding, will have to dip a little further into its financial reserves this year, organizers say.

"The budget cuts have made it difficult for us," Aris Ceden, the program's academic coordinator. "It's just the financial realities of the state — something that everybody in America is facing right now."

The program, which boasts alumni such as Kentucky's current secretary of state and a NASA rocket scientist, is starting its five-week summer program this week at the Bellarmine campus. Other groups of students will be arriving for programs at Morehead State University and Centre College.

board and has been successful in raising and showing goats. Buntin plans to be a veterinarian and is looking at several Kentucky universities for undergraduate studies.

Ironically, Beavers and Buntin are best friends, said Melody Buntin.

Because of previous commitments as state president of Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA), Hollamon will be unable to participate in the Governor's Scholar program. The five-week course falls in July, the same period as the national FCCLA National Leadership Meeting in Orlando, Fla., for which Hollamon has multiple responsibilities as a state leader. However, she will be participating in the Harding Honors Symposium this summer at Harding University in Searcy, Ark.

The symposium is a two-week academic program similar to the Kentucky Governor's Scholar program.

Fiscal court considering wholesale alternative for county fuel savings

STAFF REPORT

Rising fuel costs are prompting county officials to look for new ways to save.

Judge-Executive Fred Brown has proposed a plan that would allow the county to quit buying fuel at retail prices. Right now the county is paying normal rates at the pump, but it gets a small discount for using a BP credit card and federal highway fuel taxes are waived.

By purchasing or leasing three large fuel storage tanks and buying gas and diesel at wholesale prices, the county can save anywhere between 12 and 22 cents per gallon.

Last year, Crittenden County budgeted to spend a little more than $70,000 on fuel. It eclipsed that mark by more than $30,000. Next year's budget calls for $125,000 for fuel.

Brown has contacted one area wholesaler that can supply bulk storage tanks ranging from 4,000 to 6,000 gallons. The county uses gasoline, diesel and off-road diesel. It would need three separate tanks, which would cost upwards of $50,000 to install. Fuel terminals offer a tank leasing program, Brown said, which covers all of the maintenance costs during a contract period.

"We could sign up for three, five or 10 years," he said. All county agencies would have access to the fuel center during normal operating hours. Some agencies, such as the sheriff's department, might be able to fuel up at night, but those details will be worked out later, Brown said.

Savings would be large over a year's time, Brown said, although he had not figured the potential savings because there are so many different alternatives available.

"It will depend on whether we buy our own tanks or lease them and the terms of the lease," he said. "I think leasing is best because I don't know where we would come up with the money to buy our own tanks."

The county will draw up bid specifications and advertise for tanks and wholesale fuel prices.

Rocket baseball team a class act

To the editor:

On the night of May 29, about 20 or so of your fine students participated in a Region 2 semifinal (baseball game) against Henderson County. I want you to know that it was an honor to be a part of this fine game. All the players played their hearts out and the fans were tremendous as well!

Coach (Denis) Hodge, whom I do not know personally, has obviously been a tremendous asset to your school and community. Your team was well coached and played to the highest level. Your kids fought hard and left everything they had on the field.

I was extremely happy that we were able to pull it out, but I do feel pain in knowing that someone had to lose that game. It was not the most aesthetically pleasing game, but that did not take away from the fact that your boys and ours continued to get up and keep going throughout all of it. Your team played baseball like they had been there (a regional semifinal) before.

I read that the last time CCHS had been to the semifinals (1977) all of these boys weren't even born! You couldn't tell. They executed the little things, got a couple of breaks and made the most of them.

In the end, I am thankful that we did win, but I felt a pull to write this and show some well-earned respect to your Crittenden County

Rockets. They were a class act, and it was obvious that they truly enjoy playing baseball. You should be very proud of the way they represented your school and your community. I can say with some certainty that they will be back.

As I write this, I don't know any outcome of the game which we will play tonight. I do know that it cannot be much better than the one your boys played last night. I just wanted you to know that as a self-proclaimed baseball geek, your team filled my cup last night, and in the process became my second favorite team. Not to get too corny, but it was an honor to share the field with a team like that.

Good luck, and I am sure we will see you again. I tip my hat to Coach Hodge and his team. I hope that the good citizens of Crittenden County with do the same.

Reward offered in pawn burglary

Crittenden County Tipline is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons who stole several items from Jones Pawn Brokers on U.S. 641 south of Marion on the night of June 4, 2008.

Burglars broke a window in an overhead door and gained entry to the pawn shop. Once inside they stole cash, jewelry, knives, a .410 shotgun, three ATVs and other merchandise valued at around $10,000. Two of the ATVs and other items were recovered on Axle Creek in southern Crittenden County.

Anyone with information regarding the thefts can call 965-3000 and remain anonymous. A reward is paid if an arrest is made.

Farm Bureau gives two scholarships

Jennifer Harris and Elise Hill, 2008 graduates of Crittenden County High School, have each earned a $1,500 college scholarship from Farm Bureau.

Harris plans to attend Murray State University, majoring in pre-veterinary medicine and equine science. She is the daughter of David and Tina Harris of Salem.

Hill, the daughter of Stephen and Marty Hill of Marion, plans to attend Kentucky Wesleyan College to major in communication disorders.

Fifty-nine Kentucky students have been chosen to receive scholarship grants totaling $88,500 from programs administered through the Kentucky Farm Bureau Education Foundation. Since its inception in 1953, the Farm Bureau Education Foundation has distributed more than $1 million to high school seniors in Farm Bureau member families.

Henderson portion of U.S. 60 to close

Travelers through Henderson later this month will need to find a detour if they plan on taking U.S. 60 through the city.

South Green Street, which runs along the federal highway, will be closed from the U.S. 41-A intersection to the U.S. 425 bypass June 28-30. The closure at mile point 9.53 is to allow CSX Railroad to make adjustments to a rail crossing at the site and prepare to add crossing gates as part of ongoing highway improvements through the area, according to Keith Todd, Kentucky Transportation Cabinet spokesperson.

U.S. 60 is expected to reopen to traffic sometime the afternoon of June 30, Todd said. Traffic will be detoured via Ky 425 and U.S. 41-A. Approximately 15,600

Cherokee classes taught by Wilkes

Marion resident and Cherokee language expert Brian Wilkes has organized a series of classes and presentations on the Native American tongue and culture to be offered at the Harrisburg (Ill.) District Library.

On Sunday, Wilkes' presentation on Cherokee heritage and language will run from 2 to 4 p.m.

"I'll give a presentation on the Cherokee language and how it has been shaped by centuries of migration and contact with other cultures," said Wilkes, who has been organizing classes in the language since 1996. "Since the language is inseparable from the people and its history, the talk will cross into many areas of Cherokee culture."

Beginning next month, he will start a series of five classes on the Cherokee language. The class will run five consecutive Sundays beginning July 13, and each session will run from 2 to 4 p.m.

The library is located at 2 W. Walnut St., in Harrisburg, about 20 miles north of Cave in Rock. Call (618) 253-7455 for more information on the free presentation and classes.

Wilkes

on Friday and truck and tractor pulls on Saturday. Several other events and shows are held throughout the week.

Admission is $8, but children under three feet tall enter free. More information can be found online at www.UCFairExpo.com.

Tomatoes headed back to menus

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) – Tomatoes are coming back on the menus at Yum Brands' restaurants, like Pizza Hut in Marion.

The Louisville-based fast-food company says it's starting to resupply its restaurants with tomatoes from areas that have been cleared of salmonella risk by federal health officials.

Yum is the parent company of Taco Bell, KFC, Pizza Hut, A&W and Long John Silver's restaurants.

Other Marion eateries have also been slowly restocking with tomatoes cleared for use. Federal officials claim the outbreak sickened 277 people across the country.

Final road plan retains local work

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) – Gov. Steve Beshear's administration released its 2008 road plan Monday, despite an ongoing court challenge questioning its constitutionality.

The official six-year plan remains unchanged for projects in Crittenden and Livingston counties despite Beshear's veto of the $3.8 billion version the General Assembly approved earlier this year. The governor at the time signaled his intentions to substitute the legislatively approved plan with one written up by his administration.

In Crittenden County, the commonwealth has set aside $660,000 to fund the Ohio River Ferry through the next two fiscal years, an amount that will be matched by the state of Illinois. U.S. 641 will receive $49.54 million for two more phases of the 5.2 miles of the new four-lane road from Marion to Eddyville.

In Livingston County, $12.92 million has been slated for 2009-10 reconstruction 2.1 miles of U.S. 60 east of Dyer Hill Mine Road to Livingston County Middle School. Also, beginning in 2011, $1.625 million will be spent over four years to replace the bridge and approaches on Ky. 453 over Echo Spring Branch.

Senate President David Williams has a lawsuit pending against Beshear over the matter. Williams says the governor was too late in vetoing the proposal and does not have authority to spend money on road projects the legislature has not approved. Williams says the new plan violates state law and the constitution.

Kentucky lawmakers have passed a two-year, $19 billion state budget, but the road projects bill was passed separately.

Special session to start next week

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) – Gov. Steve Beshear has called the General Assembly into a special legislative session to deal with pension reform for public employees.

Beshear signed an order Tuesday calling lawmakers back to Frankfort on Monday. The governor previously said he would call lawmakers back to the Capitol if leaders agreed on a plan to shore up the state's financially unstable pension system.

"I'm hoping in a five-day period that it will go ahead and clear the House and the Senate and I can sign the bill," the governor said.

Kentucky's state retirement system, which covers retirement benefits for more than 445,000 people, is facing an unfunded liability of more than $26 billion. Rep. Mike

Cherry

Cherry (D-Princeton) said he believes the plan agreed upon by lawmakers could stop the state's unfunded liability from increasing by up to $250 million per year.

Among the proposed changes, which would affect only new hires: State employees would have to wait until the sum of their age and years of employment totals 87 to retire with full benefits. But employees who are 65 or older could retire with full benefits and five years of service. The plan would also require new employees to contribute one percent of their salaries to health insurance.

Correction

Due to a reporting error, a story in last week's Crittenden Press incorrectly listed the school board districts up for re-election in the fall. Only races in districts 1, 3 and 4 will be on the ballot in November. Those positions are currently held by Bill Asbridge, Chris Cook and Ronald "Red" Howton, respectively.

Religionbriefs

'With One Voice' slated for Sept. 10

Kentucky Baptists all across the state are being called to prayer on Sept. 10 to ask God to bring spiritual awakening and renewal to the commonwealth.

Using the theme "With One Voice," the prayer services will be held at Baptist churches all across Kentucky. Hundreds of churches are expected to participate.

"We will pray for people we know who do not yet know Jesus, for spiritual awakening in our community, for a movement of God in each church and for Kentucky Baptist ministries across the commonwealth," said Dr. Bill Mackey, executive director of the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

At each location, Baptists and other Christians will gather for approximately one hour of concerted prayer. The prayer gatherings are open to the public with everyone invited to attend.

The (Louisville) Courier-Journal reported on its Web site that church representatives meeting in Indianapolis overwhelmingly elected Henard to the number two position in the Southern Baptist Convention.

Kentucky Baptists aid flood victims

The Kentucky Baptist Convention has mobilized disaster relief volunteers in response to recent flooding that caused damage in Franklin, Ind.

According to Coy Webb, disaster relief associate for KBC, almost 20 volunteers have served as a relief team in the Indiana Baptist disaster relief kitchen. Webb anticipates the unit will serve at least 1,000 meals each day though Saturday.

City approves monies for various agency requests

STAFF REPORT
The health and welfare of Marion's citizenry got a shot in the arm Monday with almost a quarter of a million dollars in approved funding over the next 12 months for various agencies and organizations serving the city and county.

Included in the $226,450 given the okay by city council members is $5,000 to be used by the county's health department to supplement revenue from taxes, fiscal court contributions and service fees. The allotment to the Pennyrile District Health Department is for day-to-day provision of health services to the public. The city has also agreed to contribute $200,000 through its revolving loan fund for erecting a new 9,000-square-foot health department building, for which construction is to begin this fall.

The largest of the agency budgets approved is for Marion Tourism Commission. An operating budget of $189,150 was presented by Director Michele Edwards, with $162,250 in revenue anticipated from the city's three percent lodging and restaurant tax.

Edwards showed $17,000 in carryover from the previous year that she hopes will be a growing reserve of funds for an eventual large tourism project. However, there are no specific plans at present.

"There's got to be something out there this county will need to promote tourism," she told council members of a possible use for reserve funds.

The tourism commission, under the direct supervision of a city-appointed board of directors, will pour in almost $40,000 to various tourism projects over the next year, including the county fair, Heritage Day Festival, Backroads, Marion-Crittenden County Park and the Community Foundations.

Edwards

Marion Main Street Inc., Director Rose Crider also presented a budget for that agency's $7,500 request. Besides oversight of Backroads and other projects, Main Street oversees the farmers market and maintains the city's eligibility for downtown improvement grants, like those that have funded streetscape projects that have added new sidewalks and lighting along various streets.

"We need money from the city in order to survive," she said.

Council members also approved $10,000 each to the Crittenden County Economic Development Corporation and Marion-Crittenden County Airport.

The airport board will rely heavily upon the city's allocation for the coming year's operation and upkeep. Major improvements at the facility – runway upgrades, the terminal building and fueling systems – have been financed almost completely through federal and state funds. In fact, the new automated aviation fueling system should be fully functional by the end of this month.

The city's contribution and another $60,000 from other investors, including the fiscal court, make up more than half of the money in its $136,154 proposed budget for 2008-09. Approval of Director Stan Hoover's spending plan, which includes $2,247 in restitution from former Director Steve Davidson, is expected by the board of directors today (Thursday).

Council members also approved $1,200 to the Pennyrile Allied Community Services' senior citizens center for bingo prizes and floor maintenance, as well as $3,600 for the monthly food give-away from the Senior Citizens Food Bank. Charles Sisco said the food bank relies on an equal amount from the city and county as well as $2,400 from three area churches to provide food to Crittenden Countians of any age in need.

In other action, the city council:

- Accepted on first reading the Marion Planning Commission's recommendation to amend the city's zoning ordinance to rezone 326 N. Main St., from residential to general business. The change has been requested so that The Peoples Bank may construct a new drive-thru branch bank. The property, ironically, is located adjacent to Fifth Third Bank.

The final reading of the ordinance change is expected at July's regular council meeting.

- Wrote off 28 past due utility bills totaling $1,707.03, the largest of which was $281.06. All 28 past due accounts belong to individuals.

Rodeo Champion

Jessi Hodge, 15, of Marion gets ready for the home stretch in the barrel racing competition at the High School Rodeo Finals last weekend at Liberty.

Hodge is All-Around; Wallace qualifies, too

State champion is top rookie on once sold horse

STAFF REPORT

Several years ago, Cheyenne was expendable.

The part quarterhorse, part thoroughbred was actually even sold for a short period of time.

The new owner eventually returned her, and Jessi Hodge hasn't been off her back since.

Last weekend, Hodge, 15, rode the dapple gray mare to an All Around Championship at the Kentucky High School Rodeo finals at Liberty, Ky.

"We were cutting down on the number of horses we had and she was one we sold," Jessi's mother Shannon Hodge said about the decision to get rid of Cheyenne about eight years ago.

When the horse was returned, Jessi decided she'd give it a go. Jessi was just getting into junior rodeo competition at the time, and picked out the grey horse with no certified registration papers to be her primary mount.

The relationship has worked wonderfully for horse and cowgirl. The two have qualified for the fourth straight year for the national rodeo finals. The previous three trips to the national finals were in the Junior Rodeo Association competition.

Jessi Hodge was All-Around Champion last year in Division 2 Junior Rodeo and in her first year on the high school circuit, she's been unstoppable.

At the state finals last weekend, Hodge was all-around champion, captured rookie of the year honors, won championship buckles in goat tying and breakaway roping, was reserve champion in pole bending, finished third in barrel racing and won weekend average buckles for breakaway and goat tying. In each event, she was carried by that gray horse that was almost gone forever.

Hodge, Wynne Wallace, Misty

Wallace and Clint McConnell each competed in the state high school rodeo finals last weekend.

Wynne Wallace also qualified for the national finals in the breakaway roping.

Hodge and her family will load up their horse trailer and head out West to Farmington, N.M., for the July 20-26 national finals. However, they'll have to leave a bit earlier to catch the junior rodeo championships in Gallup, N.M., too. That's where her younger brother, Jake, has qualified to compete.

"Because of fuel costs, we're just going to stay out there between events," said Shannon Hodge.

That will mean staying a month in their cabin-type horse trailer between the June 29 junior event and the July 20 start of the high school rodeo finals.

Jessi Hodge finished 13th in the nation last year in her final season as a junior rodeo cowgirl.

Logistics will be of primary concern while the young cowgirl is in New Mexico. Beyond staying in their horse trailer's living quarters, they will also have to find a suitable place for Jessi to practice while she awaits her turn in the arena near the last part of July.

"This is going to pretty well be the rest of our summer," said Jessi's mother, who is also a school teacher and girls' basketball coach.

Olympic medalists

The Crittenden County Rockets Special Olympics team competed June 6-8 at the 2008 State Special Olympics Games held at Eastern Kentucky University. The team collected a total of three gold medals, three silver medals, three bronze medals, four fourth-place ribbons, one fifth-place ribbon and two sixth-place ribbons. Events included the softball throw, 100 meter dash, 100 meter walk, standing long jump and shot put. There were 1,100 athletes in attendance at this year's events. Special Olympics is possible because of its many volunteers.
