Benefit planned to help Willis family

There will be a benefit chili supper for the Willis family from 4-6 p.m., Jan. 15 at the Crittenden County High School multi-purpose room. Tickets are $6 each. There will also be a benefit raffle. All proceeds go to the family, whose boys, Jayden and Bryce, were in a November accident. Taylor Keister was also in the wreck and is still recovering. The Willis families' medical bills have exceeded the $100,000 bodily injury coverage provided by automobile insurance.

Baby photos due for year review

To include your baby of 2010 in The Press' annual special celebration of newborns, send it to us by email at pressnews@the-press.com or bring a copy to our office at 125 East Bellville street by noon Friday. Cost is $10.

Free flu shots available now

The Pennyriple District Health Department is now offering free flu vaccinations to children age 6 months to 18 years. Get your vaccination at the Crittenden County Health Department in Industrial Park South next to the Marion Ed-Tech Center or in Caldwell, Livingston, Lyon or Trigg counties. Shots are also available at school clinics. If you would like your child to receive a flu shot at school, call the school clinic to make an appointment. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends the flu shot for everyone six months and older, especially those with chronic illnesses. Cost of the shot for those 19 and older is $25 and free to those with Medicaid and Medicare.

Reflections of a Year

Tragic deaths mark news of 2010 with grief, sorrow

The year that was 2010 was full of headlines in Crittenden County. Here is a list of what our staff and our on-line readers selected as the top news events of last year.

① It was a tough year for many Crittenden County residents. There were 11 tragic deaths reported in The Press last year. Perhaps the most poignant was the fire that took the life of 47-year-old volunteer fireman Glenda Tinsley in August. Her husband Pat has been charged in connection with the fire and death.

Five people died in automobile accidents in the county, including Ricky Bradham, 31; Carlos Aguilar, 22; Ronnie Pitre, 27; Donald Bollman, 42; and Willard Oliver, 78. Bollman was visiting the area and traveling on a motorcycle on Dam 50 road. The others were local men.

Reports of auto accidents were up more than 40 percent last year.

Oliver's death remains an unsolved potential crime. A Ford Focus ran him off the highway on U.S. 60 East on Oct. 1. He died four days later. Despite an extensive police search, the driver of the Ford Focus has not been identified.

A local woman, Linda Hunter Edwards, 58, was also killed in a motorcycle wreck in Florida.

There were four other tragic deaths, including an Alabama man, Timothy Earl Watson, 55, who died in a crop dusting accident on a farm in the Caldwell Springs Community in July. Brian Sosh, 25, of Marion died in a firewood cutting accident in October. Two drowned. William G. Darnell, 48, drowned in January after he crashed a scooter on Ky. 723 and fell into a creek while walking toward a nearby home, and Travis Conditt, 19, drowned while swimming with a friend in the Cumberland River at Dycusburg.

③ West Kentucky Livestock Market was closed in November and by year's end there was still no idea of when it might reopen. The market is caught up in the apparent financial collapse of Eastern Livestock Company, which is now in receivership. Although the local market is not directly owned by Eastern Livestock, its close affiliation prompted legal advisors to recommend that it remain idle until the Eastern matter is resolved.

④ Perry Newcom, 47, a political newcomer, handily won primary and general elections to become the county's judge-executive. Owner of the Southern States farm store in Marion, Newcom won a three-way Republican primary, garnering more than twice as many votes as the two other candidates together, then captured 65 percent of the vote in a three-way general election over a Democrat and Independent.

⑤ The City of Marion spent a large portion of the year discussing and planning the construction of a new fire station. The city bought and cleared two lots on the corner of Main and Bellville streets for the new station. Some criticized the location, and later council members rejected original bids for the project, saying they were over budget. New

Hospital breaks ground on new operating room

Crittenden Health Systems hosted a groundbreaking ceremony Dec. 22 to formally kick off a construction project that will include renovation and expansion of the hospital operating room at a cost of about $2.6 million. Several hospital officials, staff and representatives from financial institutions and engineering and construction groups attended the event.

The hospital also announced that Dr. Rex Manayan has joined the health provider as a staff surgeon. He was also at the groundbreaking.

Resolve to turn back to God while we still can

Many people have failed so many times with their sincere New Year's resolutions that they have hung that tradition up on the do-nothing peg. Similarly, we are doing nothing as our country is going to hell. Its ending will be as sure and as deadly as Sodom's and Gomorrah's.

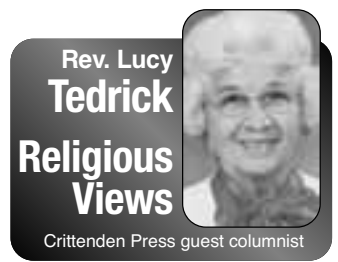

This is because Americans have either walked away from God, His commands and way of life, or have been seduced into accepting a sterilized, insipid, worldly, cheap religion that brings reproach on Jesus and His suffering and death that bought our salvation. Jesus said, "Except a man deny himself, pick up his cross and follow Me, he cannot be My disciple."

This happens when people want an easy life, get all they ever know about Christianity from man, or they are too deceived to read the Word of God and depend on God's Spirit to teach them. It seems as though they have been deceived by the enemy of their souls and they can't understand the Bible themselves, so they must get it as it is already digested, nutritionally-empty food from someone else.

As Bible teachers, we are to teach people to read it for themselves and ask God to save them and then fill them with His Spirit. His Spirit will teach them, and there should not be all this carnal division among professing Christians.

There are thousands of poor deceived souls who believe these so-called prophets, many of whom as late as the late 1800s, wrote down what they believe or some outlandish notion that God gave them a personal message. Instead, people should be sticking to the simple holy Gospel that Jesus gave His life to provide for us. The sad truth is, Mohammad and Buddha were not the only poor deceived and deceiving souls.

Saddest of all, is that so many who know about Jesus and believe He is the true Savior are too shallow or have never truly been born again and experienced that drastic, earth-shaking and total life-changing experience of being saved. They have not accepted Him and have failed to do as Paul teaches: To "go on unto perfection" and present their bodies as a living sacrifice so they could be filled with God's power, which is the only way you can live His life with faith, joy and determination.

Too many have started out, but did as the Israelites of old and would not stand pat and go through the first tests. Many fall by the way-side, griping because of a few disappointments. They look back to the flesh pots of Egypt, forgetting all the hell and suffering the taskmaster Satan put them through while leading them blindly to a devil's hell forever.

Many good people have been inundated with making a living, getting what they want for this life, giving their children everything they see, making sure they keep up with the world around them, making sure they are in every sport, school function and never missing a day of school. They make sure the children get their school lessons so they can get a good job, and carry on perpetrating the life for this short stay, but letting their minds and souls go, begging of God's Word, prayer in the home and too often good examples from parents.

Children are sponges and they will be filled up. What with? Will they be filled with the words of eternal life or the words of the Hollywood life-wreckers; school peers or God's lifesaving words?

The soul and America wreckers in Washington have now opened the flood-gates for homosexuals to lay siege to our young, homesick servicemen and women. They are constantly looking for recruits for their perverted appetites.

Every nation in history that has accepted this sin has been put to death by God. He has destroyed them one way or another.

"I have sent among you pestilence... your young men have I slain... I have overthrown some of you as I overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, yet you have not returned unto me saith the Lord. Therefore thus will I do unto thee Oh Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, prepare to meet thy God." Amos 10-12.

I've been preaching this for years but few would listen. I warned you that Obama would take us here. He said he would, but some of you wanted him anyway. Now you have him and so have the rest of us. Now we all better prepare to meet our God, and the Muslims want to help us do it.

We better make a New Year's resolution to turn back to God in forsaking all sin and asking forgiveness, asking Him for help and stick to it. Just maybe He will give us one more chance.

Don't expect much from odd-year session

By DARYL K. TABOR
PRESS CORRESPONDENT

Painted against a backdrop of red and blue, the 2011 session of the Kentucky legislature could be one of the more colorful, if not ineffective, in recent history. Never before has a session started with Republicans and Democrats each in control of a chamber while the state's top party leaders are pitted against one another in a gubernatorial election year.

"It's going to be an interesting session because of the governor's race," said Rep. Mike Cherry, a member of the Democratic majority in the House.

Posturing between Democratic Gov. Steve Beshear, who is seeking re-election, and Republican Senate President David Williams, who wants the state's top job for himself, began well before Tuesday's start of the 2011 session. Williams, as leader of the GOP-controlled senate, is pushing an aggressive conservative agenda while

Special Kentucky Legislative Report

Beshear is challenging his counterpart to put his gubernatorial aspirations on hold until the current legislative session ends in late March.

"That is going to set the tone," said Sen. Dorsey Ridley, a minority Democrat in the Senate, of the Beshear-Williams relationship.

Adding to the partisan divide, setting the mood in Frankfort are two chambers separated by overwhelming control of rival parties. Despite a loss of seven seats in the 2010 election, Democrats have command of 58 of 100 seats in the House. Across the capitol, the GOP added two seats to its majority in last year's election, outpacing Democrats 22-15, with an additional Independent caucusing with the Republicans.

Two-party control can have its ups and downs, according to Cherry.

"It creates good safeguards, but it also causes some roadblocks."

One example of such a pitfall could be the fate of legislation ensuring transparency in government finances. Prior to the start of the current session, Cherry prefled a bill calling for continued openness in state spending, while a similar bill was filed by Republican Damon Thayer in the Senate. Though majority parties in each chamber are calling for the same transparency, Cherry said the sides will be reluctant to let one other get credit for passage.

"Both might pass this in the first week, but political posturing could create problems," Cherry said.

Each party holds enough of an advantage in the chamber it controls to pass virtually any legislation it desires or quash any bill originating from the other party. Only a bipartisan effort will result in significant progress during the 30-day session, both Cherry and Ridley agree.

Louisville businessman Phil Moffett, a Tea Party candidate seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination over Williams, said he doesn't have high expectations for the legislative session.

"What Williams and Beshear will get out of the 2011 session are pension credits and face-time on TV playing partisan games," Moffett said. "What Kentuckians will get is more debt and no resolution to our most pressing problems."

The Crittenden Press will continue coverage of the general assembly each week until the session adjourns March 22. Former Press reporter Daryl K. Tabor will be acting as special correspondent during the session.

State line's crooked history

Take out a map of Kentucky with the counties identified.

Going west to east, proceed across our southern line to Simpson County. There, in the otherwise straight boundary, you will see a tiny gig which cuts down into Tennessee like an inverted triangle. I've wondered about that oddity in our southern boundary all my life.

I've heard lots of stories about it. One is that there was a wealthy plantation owner in Kentucky who wanted all of his land to remain in Kentucky. So, when they came to survey the boundary, he put a barrel of hard cider underneath a tree on the southern tip and told the surveyors if they would survey out to that point and back as part of their work, they could have the cider.

I never really believed that story.

Now I know what happened. Sometimes truth is more interesting than fiction. And sometimes it's not very interesting at all. In the case of the gig – it's the latter.

The deviation in the straight line was caused simply by faulty surveying equipment. According to compilation of the historic surveys and reports by James W. Sames, III, "there was a heavy iron deposit in that area which threw off the reading of the compass."

So much for that.

What about the variation in the boundary line of the Jackson Purchase from the rest of the state? The Jackson Purchase is that far western part of Kentucky west of the Tennessee River. That portion did not become a part of Kentucky until 1818 after a negotiated purchase of the land by Gov. Isaac Shelby and Gen. Andrew Jackson from the Chickasaw Indians. Thus, it is called the Jackson Purchase. The rest of Kentucky had been carved out of Virginia into a state in 1792.

I'd also heard some stories about the deviation in the southern line of the Jackson Purchase. One was that the surveyors started from the Mississippi River going east instead of from Virginia going west, and – oops – the lines didn't match up. Too bad Tennessee.

This account is basically correct. But the rest of the story is both complicated and interesting.

In 1779, with the War of Independence in full throttle, the expectant states of Virginia and North Carolina had their western boundaries surveyed to the Tennessee River. It was a joint effort with Dr. Thomas Walker and Daniel Smith chosen by Virginia, and Col. Richard Henderson and William Smith selected by North Carolina. The accepted latitude was to be 36-30. Almost from the start, the two groups grumbled and complained with each other until finally the line was established across the two states. It was known as the Walker line. Almost from the outset, it was believed that the line was in error and should have been further south – which would have put about 2,500 more square miles of territory into Kentucky.

These critics were proven right when – 40 years later using better surveying equipment and techniques – the Jackson Purchase line was surveyed out from the Mississippi River to the Tennessee River. The Walker line was off by nine miles. Surveyors of the Purchase line were Robert Alexander and Luke Munsell.

Needless to say, this created quite a controversy between the states of Kentucky and Tennessee. Kentucky wanted those nine miles. Trying to be good neighbors, the two states negotiated the discrepancy until a compromise was reached in 1820. In retrospect, it appears that Kentucky "got taken to the cleaners." Tennessee agreed to the more southern Kentucky line across the Jackson Purchase, and Kentucky agreed to the more northern Walker line across the rest of the state. There seems little dispute today that the Alexander-Munsell of the Jackson Purchase line would have stood up in a court of law, causing it to run from the Tennessee River to Virginia. In other words, Kentucky ceded 2,500 square miles of territory to the Volunteer state.

Still got that map? Draw a straight line from Kentucky's southern boundary west of the Tennessee River across the rest of the state. In that so called compromise, we gave Tennessee the cities of Clarksville, Springfield and Kingsport.

And they still insist on beating up on us in football. No gratitude at all.

Letters to the Editor

No-kill shelter appreciates community's special support

To the Editor:

The board of directors of the Mary Hall Ruddiman Canine Shelter Inc., would like to thank everyone who came to the grand opening on Dec. 5. We would also like to thank Food Giant, Conrad's, Frito Lay, Louise's Flowers, State Farm Insurance, Bowtanicals, Main Street Italian Grill and Health Quest Wellness Center for their donations. A special thank you goes out to all the individuals who donated pet food, blankets, toys and money to help the shelter.

We were overwhelmed by the community's attendance and interest in the no-kill shelter! We feel that our community has been given a great gift – the gift to save a life.

Melissa Guill
Marion, Ky.

Community Christmas was successful thanks to you

To the Editor:

On behalf of the 36th annual Community Christmas Committee, we would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who assisted making the holidays a little brighter for 175 households in Crittenden County. We will not attempt to list the names of all who were involved, but whether you donated a $1 or a $1,000 or more, sponsored one child or 20, provided a learning experience for students, volunteered on set-up or distribution day, helped contact potential donors, held a fundraiser or any of the many other things that helped make this event successful, we thank you for being a good neighbor to those in need.

We also wish to thank the staffs from local agencies and churches that assisted with the planning and distribution. Without them this event could not take place. From the generous donations of money, gifts, food and time we were able to help 275 adults and 308 children.

Nancy Hunt and Mona Manley
Marion, Ky.

Thanks to area road crews

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the Crittenden County road crew for the great job it did working on clearing the snow on our roads on Christmas Eve and Christmas morning. The crew's individual sacrifices made a special day a lot safer for us all.

Dennis Hrapeck
Marion, Ky.

Hill receives award for banking spirit

Janey Hill has been honored with the 2010 Employee Spirit Award from The Peoples Bank.

Terry L. Bunnell, chairman, president and CEO of the bank, made the presentation during the company Christmas party on Dec. 21.

Hill has been an employee of the bank for 35 years and has served in various capacities. She is presently vice president of customer service and manager of human resources.

Hill received an engraved clock. She is the first employee to receive the honor.

"Janey is very deserving of the Spirit Award based on her commitment to the bank's customers and staff," Bunnell said during the presentation.

Bank donates bucks for 24 Rocket TDs

Farmers Bank and Trust Co., of Marion recently presented Denis Hodge of the Jake Hodge Foundation a check for $2,400 for its sponsorship of touchdowns scored during varsity football games at Rocket Stadium in 2010.

The bank donated $100 for each touchdown the home team scored. Denis Hodge is an assistant coach for the Rockets and father of Jake Hodge for whom the foundation was named.

The Jake Hodge Foundation grants educational scholarships to students who display honesty, character and integrity. The foundation rewards students who excel in the classroom and in their chosen field of competition. These students who are singled out for recognition are forever challenged to lead a purpose-driven life and to leave a positive and profound legacy.

"The Jake Hodge Foundation would like to thank the Farmers Bank for its generous support," Denis Hodge said. "I wrote my first check in about 1976 for two hogs using the Farmers Bank. I am still involved in agriculture and still trust the same bank and so does my family.

"When I wrote that first check I remember the bank staff as a lot of old stately people. Now days they are still professional and stately, but

Kares-Workman retires from Press

Marty Kares-Workman, a long-time employee of The Crittenden Press, has retired.

Kares-Workman became advertising manager at The Press on Aug. 1, 1989 and served in that capacity for more than 20 years. For the past year, she served as office manager.

Although retiring from her professional career, Kares-Workman plans to remain active in community endeavors such as serving on the Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, handling promotions and marketing for the Marion Bobcats and serving as director of the Three Rivers Home Builders Association.

The expansion will give the shop better exposure right next to the new coin laundry and Marion Eyecare Center and across the street from Marion Pit Barbecue.

A need to keep up with advancing technology is also part of Lain's need for expansion.

"It's hard to try and keep up with rapidly-growing technology, but that's what we strive for – to provide top-notch service with up-to-date equipment," he said.

Lain says new equipment will allow him to provide service for smart and hybrid cars.

"That's a new market for us as more and more Crittenden County residents are buying those cars," Lain said. "With the expansion, we'll be able to provide the services required for those as well as providing a more one-on-one relationship with our customers with the convenience of not having to drive to the nearest city."

Once the weather warms, Lain is hoping to begin the expansion project.

Holland honored for 35 years at Akridge

Gary Holland, manager of Akridge Farm Supply of Fredonia, was recently honored for 35 years of service to the 77-year-old company.

Holland, a Murray State University graduate with a degree in agriculture, started with the company in 1975. He specializes in seeds and use of crop protection products.

A certificate and monetary gift were presented to Holland by Paul Akridge, president and manager of the Eddyville store, at the annual employee Christmas dinner at Patti's in Grand Rivers.

Dean Akridge was also recognized for his involvement with the company for more than 50 years. Logan Akridge was introduced as the fourth generation in the company. He recently graduated from Murray State with a bachelor's degree and has joined the company.

At 77, Dean Akridge is still tending to the store after more than 50 years.

State seits rate for homestead relief

The maximum homestead exemption on real estate owned by qualified persons has been set at $34,000 for the 2011 and 2012 tax periods. The 2011-2012 exemption reflects a $300 increase over the 2009-2010 exemption of $33,700.

The amount of the homestead exemption is adjusted every two years in accordance with KRS 132.810 to compensate for changes in the purchasing power of the dollar. The exemption provided state and local property tax savings of approximately $155 million for more than 399,000 elderly or disabled Kentuckians during the 2010 tax year.

To qualify for the homestead exemption, a person must be at least 65 years old during the tax period or must be classified as totally disabled by any public or private retirement system. The property must also be owned, occupied and maintained by the taxpayer as a personal residence on the Jan. 1 assessment date. Disabled persons less than 65 years of age must make an application on an annual basis with the exception of service-connected totally disabled veterans of the United States Armed Forces.

For more information about Kentucky's Homestead Exemption program and how to qualify for the Homestead Exemption, contact Ronnie Heady, the Crittenden County property valuation administrator.

State jobless rate increases to 10.2%

Kentucky's seasonally adjusted preliminary unemployment rate increased to 10.2 percent in November 2010 from a revised 10 percent in October, according to the Office of Employment and Training (OET), an agency of the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet.

The November 2010 jobless rate is one-half of a percentage point lower than the 10.7 percent rate recorded in November 2009 for the state. The 10.2 percent rate recorded in November 2010 is the highest rate since May 2010 when it was 10.4 percent.

"In November 2010, Kentucky's economy sputtered, as the unemployment rate climbed to 10.2 percent. However, a portion of that increase is attributed to a rise in the number of entrants and re-entrants into the civilian labor force," said Dr. Justine Detzel, OET chief labor market analyst.

The U.S. seasonally adjusted jobless rate increased from 9.6 percent in October 2010 to 9.8 percent in November 2010, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working.

Four are indicted by December grand jury

Four people were indicted in December by the Crittenden County Grand Jury.

Those indicted were:

- Merrill L. Knight, 52, of Paducah on a felony charge of flagrant non-support of a minor child. According to court records, Knight is behind in child support payments in the amount of $31,841.31.
- Jimmy Lee Newland, 34, of Marion was indicted on charges of possession of marijuana, illegal possession of a legend drug, first-degree possession of a controlled substance (Oxycodone); possession of drug paraphernalia; and for being a second-degree persistent felony offender. According to court records, police assisted probation and parole officers on Oct. 27 in a home visit to Newland's address. There, they found the alleged drugs and paraphernalia. Newland's probation has also been revoked in response to the new charges.
- Donald Wayne Woodall, 48, of Marion was indicted on a charge of failure to comply with requirements of the Kentucky State Police Sex Offender Registry program. Woodall was charged on Nov. 20 after Trooper Matt Foster found him residing at a location on Arlene Street. He was registered at a residence on East Bellville Street.
- Matthew E. Young, 27, of Louisville was indicted on charges of third-degree assault and being a second-degree persistent felony offender. The charges stem from an Oct. 17 altercation with a deputy at the Crittenden County Detention Center where Young was being held as an inmate.

bids were received in December, which appears will save the city money. The project was not finalized in 2010, but most believe a contractor will be selected early this year. Total cost of the project will be around $1 million.

6 From flooding to drought, weather played a starring role in 2010. Spring flooding forced evacuations in Dycusburg as the Cumberland River rose rapidly over a 24-hour period as gates of Barkley Dam released thousands of gallons of water per minute in order to relieve greater flooding in the Nashville area. More than 25,000 sandbags were used to protect homes and buildings in Dycusburg. When the spring rains ended, summer's heat pounded the area. From June through August just 8.15 inches of rain fell on Crittenden County. Meanwhile the temperatures soared to record levels. There were two days above 100 degrees in August and seven of 95 or hotter. From June through August, there were 43 days with temperatures over 90 degrees. The dry, hot weather parched the landscape, stunted crops and forced county officials to prohibit outdoor burning for most of the late summer and fall.

7 In September, Rogers Group started a new limestone quarry on Ky. 1668 in rural Crittenden County. For 10 years, the company had operated a quarry on U.S. 60 East, which it bought from Hanson Aggregates. The expansion to another part of the county gives the Nashville-based limestone company long-term reserves in the area. Rogers permitted 125 acres on Ky. 1668 leased from Bill and Bohn Frazer.

8 Fluorspar mining came back to the area in 2010 after a 30-year absence. Hastie Mining and Trucking of Cave In Rock, Ill., invested more than $3 million in Crittenden and Livingston counties to mine and mill fluorspar. Surface mining started at the former Klondike Mine area near Burna and Hastie also purchased the former Cerro mill and mine area in Crittenden County near Salem. The company projects it has reserves to allow about 20 years of mining. It also projects employing up to 40 workers once the mine is in full operation in 2011.

9 A three-way land deal will increase the size of the Crittenden County High School school campus, give the state a new maintenance facility and a new road into Industrial Park North. Local officials hailed the land swap as a win for everyone involved. It was agreed that the current Kentucky Department of Highways maintenance facility on Old Salem Road would be given to the Crittenden County Economic Development Corporation in return for a tract of land in the new industrial park on the former Tyson Foods property. The economic development group will have debt on the property forgiven in return for deeding the old highway facility to the Crittenden County Board of Education. The high school and middle school campus is adjacent to the highway garage. Additionally, the state is using economic development funds to build a wide access road into the industrial park, which local officials agree will boost its chance of landing other tenants for the park.

10 Crittenden Health Systems announced its plans to renovate and expand its operating room. An official groundbreaking was held just before Christmas for the $2.6 million project. Additionally, the hospital hired a new surgeon, Dr. Rex Manayan.

Conservation Stewardship deadline Jan. 21

Kentucky landowners interested in signing up for the Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) at their local Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office are facing a quick deadline for the Fiscal Year 2011 CSP application ranking period. Friday, Jan. 21, is the last day to apply. CSP is a voluntary program that encourages producers to maintain existing conservation activities and adopt additional practices on their operations. The program is popular for producers who go the extra mile with conservation and sustainable operations – whether they’ve accomplished goals on their own, with other conservation partners or through USDA and NRCS programs. While CSP applications are accepted on a continuous basis, at this time only applications received by tomorrow will be considered for funding in 2011. To apply locally, or for more information about CSP, including eligibility requirements, contact District Conservationist Larry Starr or the local conservation district office located at 118 East Bellville Street in Marion or 360 West Main in Salem. You may call 965-3921, extension 3 in Marion or 988-2180, extension 3 in Salem.

Deadline for EQIP, WHIP periods is Jan. 28

First ranking cut-off period for Fiscal Year 2011Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) and Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program (WHIP) applications will be later this month. Each year, the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) sets ranking period dates for applications taken for USDA Farm Bill programs. Although ranking dates may vary from program to program, landowners may sign-up at any time for all conservation programs. The next ranking cut-off date is Jan. 28 and will include applications for both the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP) and the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP). The WHIP program can provide financial and technical assistance to develop upland, wetland, riparian and aquatic habitat areas on your property. There is a 10-acre minimum to apply for this program. The EQIP program can provide financial and technical assistance to plan and design measures on your property such as but not limited to: grazing management (fencing and livestock watering systems); nutrient management (manure storage structures, planned nutrient applications); and erosion control (grade control structures, diversions, grassed waterways). The EQIP program can also assist farms that are currently certified organic or transitioning to organic. If interested in participating in either or both of these programs, sign up as soon as possible and request a conservation plan if you do not have an existing plan. Anyone seeking cost-share assistance must develop a conservation plan with the local NRCS office. For more information, contact District Conservationist Larry Starr or the local conservation district office located at 118 East Bellville Street in Marion or 360 West Main in Salem. You may call 965-3921, extension 3 in Marion or 988-2180, extension 3 in Salem.

USDA SURE sign-up period begins Jan. 10

The sign-up period for the 2009 crop year Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payments (SURE) program begins Jan. 10. SURE is one of five disaster programs USDA Farm Service Agency offers that provides assistance to farmers and ranchers who have suffered losses due to natural disasters. This program provides assistance to producers who have suffered from natural disasters. USDA encourages producers who suffered losses during the 2009 crop year to visit their local FSA office to learn more about the SURE program. To be eligible for SURE, a farm must have at least a 10-percent production loss on a crop of economic significance; a policy or plan of insurance under the Federal Crop Insurance Act or the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) for all economically significant crops; been physically located in a county that was declared a primary disaster county or contiguous county by the Agriculture Secretary under a Secretarial Disaster Designation. Without a Secretarial Disaster Designation, individual producers may be eligible if the actual production on the farm is less than 50 percent of the normal production on the farm due to a natural disaster.

Men take first bears of modern KY hunting

Danny Smith of Phelps, Ky. carved his name into Kentucky’s hunting annals Saturday, Dec. 18 when he claimed the state’s first legally harvested black bear in the modern era. Smith took the 265-pound male bear in Pike County about five hours into his hunt. He owned the state’s record for the largest bear for about a day, until Billy Joe Dixon, of Cumberland, took a 280-pound male on the second day. Smith, a lifetime Pike County resident and long-time coyote and deer hunter, was hunting coyotes last Friday when he came across “a lot of bear sign in the snow near a stand of Autumn Olive.” That prompted him to go buy his bear hunting license. Kentucky’s first black bear season last year was tough on bear hunters after a winter storm dumped nearly two-feet of snow across Pike, Harlan and Letcher counties and kept the hunters off the mountains. They were the only three counties open to bear hunting and no bears were taken in that first season. Dixon, 35, a lifetime resident of Cumberland, took the only other bear claimed this season on the Harlan County mine property where he works. “Bears are good opportunity for Kentucky,” said Dixon. “For those who don’t work in the mines, there’s not a lot to do. With our elk, deer and now bear, we have some real tourism opportunities.” Kentucky’s initial bear seasons have been held in December in order to gauge hunter participation and success rates, while concentrating the harvest on male bears. Most female bears in Kentucky enter dens by mid-November.

Marion hunter bags cow

Brosnihan’s elk was one originally re-introduced

JERRITT HOVEY-BROWN
STAFF WRITER

When Peggy Brosnihan opened her letter from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, she couldn’t believe it. Her name had been drawn for the annual elk hunt and she was one of the few chosen to harvest a female elk, called a cow. Brosnihan and her husband Jack, both of Marion, have always put in for the hunt, but when it came time to enter this year’s drawing, some strife ensued. “I just really didn’t want to put in for the hunt, which of course, started a little argument,” Brosnihan said with a laugh. “Jack wanted both of us to put in. Two other friends of ours from Florida put in for the hunt as well and we have an agreement that if one of us gets drawn, we’ll share our meat. He kept on persisting and finally, I just gave in and did.” None too soon. They were both officially entered two days before the cutoff date in April. Months went by before either of them heard anything so it came as a shock when Brosnihan checked the mail and discovered the letter. “It was exciting, but I was nervous, too,” she said. Brosnihan’s hunt took place in Knott County in the eastern part of Kentucky on Dec. 10. Two other hunters drawn for the cow hunt were also grouped with Brosnihan. For four days, they searched for elk, which have been re-established to their native range in Kentucky. It wasn’t until the last day of their hunt that a herd was spotted. “The last three days of our hunt, the temperature dropped dramatically and it snowed and sleeted and iced on us,” Brosnihan said. “Only the guides and hunters were allowed to go due to the conditions, so Jack had to sit out and miss my shot.” Using a high-powered rifle, Brosnihan took two shots to harvest her cow which was the lead animal of the herd. It weighed over 600 pounds. An accompanying biologist was able to inform Brosnihan that the cow was tagged in the ear with a transmitter, giving them not only the age of the elk, but also its origin. “Come to find out, this was one of the original elk brought in from North Dakota to start the herd,” Brosnihan explained. “She was 13 and a half years old, which made her six months old when they brought her over. Knowing that now just gives me that rush all over again.” The Brosnihans are having a shoulder mount done of her elk by Butch’s Taxidermy. The meat has been divided and put in the freezer, but not before sampling a bit of it. “The sausage is just delicious,” she said.

Fishing not dormant due to weather

BY LEE MCCLELLAN
KENTUCKY AFIELD

With ice covering yards for a good part of the last month, common sense dictates that fish would dawdle in an early winter slumber during such weather. In this case, common sense fails. The ice and snow bother us much more than the fish swimming in the lakes and rivers of Kentucky. Now is the time to fish for striped bass, crappie and smallmouth bass. “I didn’t even get all of my lines out before they hit,” said Joe McWilliams, an avid striper angler who fishes Lake Cumberland year-round. “I put out two lines with bobbers and I just put out a third line with a planer board when one of the bobbers went down. It was a 28-inch striper.” McWilliams landed the fish on Dec. 27. “I just got my fourth line out when one hit the line with the planer board. It was a 30-incher,” he said. “I started fishing at 4 p.m. By 4:20 I had my limit of stripers.” Smallmouth bass fishing also warmed up as the temperatures dropped. Laurel River Lake, Lake Cumberland and Dale Hollow Lake all produced quality smallmouth bass fishing over the past couple of weeks. Anglers report catching smallmouth on Lake Cumberland by casting red deep-diving crankbaits in the middle and backs of creeks. The float and fly pattern is also producing some fish on main lake points. Drift crappie minnows along channel drops near the mouths of major coves on Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley for winter crappie. Also, target bridge abutments for winter crappie on these lakes. Those abutments closest to a channel drop or a cove often hold the most crappie. A mid-winter warming trend sends black crappie to the shallows on these two lakes. Cast small white, blue or chartreuse tube jigs along the banks during these warming trends. This fishing pattern gathers more steam from late winter into early spring. Black crappie spook easily, so keep boat noise to a minimum. Don’t mope the winter away, waiting for sunshine and 70 degree days. Layer up your clothing and get to the lake right now. You may catch the biggest fish of the year without hearing the sound of another outboard all day long.

Author Lee McClellan is an award-winning associate editor for Kentucky Afield magazine, the official publication of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. He is a life-long hunter and angler, with a passion for smallmouth bass fishing.

Wetlands Reserve program deadline in April

The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is accepting applications for the Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP). Upcoming application ranking cut-off dates are April 8 and June 17. The WRP is a voluntary program offering landowners the opportunity to protect, restore and enhance wetlands on their property. Through this program, NRCS has provided Kentucky landowners with more than $29 million to restore over 17,000 acres of cropland, pastureland and other altered lands to their original wetland conditions. While NRCS purchases an easement and all management rights under the program, the landowner retains the rights to hunting and fishing and can keep, sell or will the land title. The 2008 Farm Bill authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to pay the fair market value of the land, as determined by an appraisal or an area-wide market analysis or survey.

Ferrell 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ferrell of Salem will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Jan. 6 with a family dinner.

Mr. Ferrell and the former Linda Croft were married Jan. 6, 1961 at the home of Rev. Joe S. Vanada. Their attendants were Linda Ferrell Woodward and the late Terry Radcliffe.

Mrs. Ferrell is the daughter of Mildred Croft and the late Tracy Croft.

Mr. Ferrell is a retired truck driver for Rayloc. He is the son of the late Ollie and Thelma Ferrell Wallace.

They have two daughters, Debbie Damron of Marion and Eugena Champion of Salem, and two grandsons Lane and Trent Champion.

Hopper

Ashley Catherine Schweizer and Andrew Ryan Hopper were united in marriage July 3 at Smithland First Baptist Church with Rev. Herbert Alexander officiating. Music was provided by Linda Brown, pianist, of Marion; and Josh and Natasia Champion, guitarist and vocalist, of Bowling Green.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Dale and Janice Schweizer of Salem and the granddaughter of Melva Schweizer of Olney, Ill., and the late Paul Schweizer.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Durenda Hopper of Anderson, Ind., and the late Judge David Hopper.

The bride chose her sister, Mrs. Amy Ramage of Smithland, as her matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sarah Williams of Lexington, Mrs. Lindsay Shull of Peoria, Ill., and Mrs. Rhajon Smith of Jonesboro, Tenn.

Serving as flowergirls were Miss Emersyn Ramage, daughter of Garrick and Amy Ramage of Smithland and Miss Hannahjean Hopper, daughter of Hugh and Jessica Hopper of Charlotte, N. C. Ringbearers were Ethan Ramage, son of Garrick and Amy Ramage and Jon-David Hopper, son of Hugh and Jessica Hopper.

The groom chose Matt Doerr of Indianapolis, Ind., as his best man. Groomsmen were Hugh Hopper of Charlotte, N. C., David Nydeggar of Waco, Tex., and Jonathan Colson of Blountville, Tenn. Serving as ushers and candle lighters were Adam Hill of Marion and Nate Hosek of Arcanum, Ohio.

A reception followed at Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park in Gilbertsville. Servers were Anna Sue Harmon Jennings, Linda Harris and Tina Tinsley, all of Salem, and Rhea Colson of Anderson, Ind.

The bride is a 2001 graduate of Livingston Central High School and a 2005 Summa Cum Laude graduate of Murray State University with a bachelor's degree in political science. She graduated with distinction from Ohio Northern University School of Law in Ada, Ohio, in 2008 with a juris doctorate and is a 2009 graduate of University of Arkansas School of Law with a Master's of Law degree in Food and Agriculture Law. She is employed by the Madison County, Ind., unified courts.

The groom is a 2000 graduate of Pendleton Heights High School and a 2005 magna cum laude graduate of Milligan College in Johnson City, Tenn., with a bachelor's degree in business administration. He graduated from Ohio Northern University School of Law, Ada, Ohio, in 2008 with a juris doctorate and is a 2010 graduate of the University of Arkansas School of Law with a Master's of Law degree in Food and Agriculture Law. He is a deputy prosecutor in Madison County, Ind.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii following the wedding.

Resolve to keep a healthy home

Nancy Hunt Home Notes

UK Cooperative Extension Agent

It's that time of the year when renewal, rejuvenation, and resolutions are in order. In addition to your personal New Year's Resolution, add one more that will not only benefit you, but everyone in your home: keeping a healthy home.

Even though we consider our homes to be the safest places, we face considerable and significant health threats at home. Having a healthy home is extremely important.

Consider this — we spend 90 percent of our time indoors. Researchers have found that there is a connection between health outcomes and substandard housing.

A healthy home supports the physical, psychological, and social health of those who live in the home. According to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, healthy homes is a concept that promotes safe, decent, and sanitary housing as a means for preventing disease and injury. HUD has outlined seven over-arching healthy home principles to follow to make a home healthy. The principles are to keep your home:

- dry,
- clean,
- pest-free,
- safe,
- contaminant-free,
- well-ventilated, and
- well-maintained.

Use the following checklist to keep and maintain a healthy home in the New Year!

Keep a working light bulb in overhead lights in the hall and stairs

Lock prescription and over-the-counter medications away from children and use child proof locks

Lock up products used for cleaning, car maintenance, gardening, and pest control

Place safety covers on electrical outlets

Use a range hood fan or kitchen exhaust fan that vents outside

Keep the trash can covered with a lid

Fix holes, cracks, and leaks on the exterior of the house

Set hot water at 120° F to prevent burns

Install handrails on stairs, smoke alarms on every floor, and carbon monoxide detectors near bathrooms

Keep floors clear of electrical cords and clutter

Use mats with nonslip rubber backs on bathroom floors

Seal gaps around roofing and attic openings to keep rodents and insects out

Maintain gutters, downspouts, and roof to prevent moisture from entering the home

Be ready in case of a disaster: have a kit for shelter in place and plan escape routes.

Salem Garden Club report

Submitted by Janet Hughes

The Salem Garden Club was able to step back in time in December when they were toured the home of Tommy and Lisa Beard of the Crayne community.

The house was built by the Cruce family in 1840 and has remained in the same family. The Beards purchased the property in 1997. At that time there were no kitchen cabinets, years of paint, paneling and four layers of wallpaper. They carefully set out to bring the home back to its original character by remodeling and even revealing the original logs in the living room.

Every room is filled with antiques that have been passed down from family or purchased at auctions or flea markets. A tin cake closet and 1902 Sears and Roebuck catalog are on display in the dining room. Each room had a Christmas tree that was decorated in a specific theme.

The most interesting room is the bathroom, which is full of wood that surrounds a round galvanized watering trough that has been plumbed into a bathtub. The sink is also a galvanized bucket. When asked where the idea came from, the answer was Dolly Parton, whose tub is oval.

The Beard home will be on the garden club 2011

Christmas home tour. A tour that will include the Salem and Marion area is still in the works. If anyone is interested in putting their home on the tour please call Linda Padon at 988-3330.

The club will not meet in January but their next meeting will be 6:30 p.m., Feb. 14 at Salem City Hall. The special guest speaker will be Carmen Owen Brown who will share her love of heirloom gardening.

Living in Salem or Livingston County is not a requirement to be a member of the Salem Garden Club.

Anyone interested in becoming a member should call Janet Hughes at 988-3835.

Dinner raises $2,000

Chris Hodge, grandmother of the late Jake Hodge, recently arranged for a dinner to be held at the Oasis to help raise funds for the Jake Hodge Memorial Scholarship fund. Over 300 people attended the dinner as they met with friends and helped to raise funds.

"It was a great time to meet old friends," Hodge said.

Even the U-12 baseball team that Jake had played with had a small reunion at the dinner.

Overall, the event was able to raise $2,032 of which 100 percent of it will be used for the scholarship.

"We're all so excited and thankful for the support," Hodge said. "It means a lot to us."

Mott, Wheeler inducted into athletic Hall of Fame

Mott was a running back ‘natural’

Dubbed the "Natural" by then-Rocket football coach Billy Huff, Dennis Mott was a shifty running back in the 1960s. This week, he will be immortalized as one of the finest players to ever hit the gridiron for Crittenden County High School.

Mott will be inducted into the Farmers Bank Marion-Crittenden County Athletics Hall of Fame during a halftime ceremony at Friday's Crittenden-Livingston boys' basketball game at Rocket Arena.

Mott played on one of the Rockets' best football teams, the 1963 regional championship squad. As a junior, he was a vital part of the team's success.

That year, Mott rushed for 1,161 yards and recorded 20 rushing touchdowns despite having to share the backfield with Jimmy Hopper, currently the school's fourth all-time leading rusher and member of the hall of fame. In Mott's senior season, he was the featured back. Although rushing statistics are not available for 1964, he scored 17 touchdowns. Mott said much of his success was thanks to linemen like Charlie Dooms, who later died while serving in Vietnam.

By the end of his career, Mott was the school's all-time leading scorer with 267 points and held the record for most rushing touchdowns. Both marks have since been eclipsed. In 2009, J.D. Gray broke Mott's record of 38 rushing touchdowns. Mott's scoring record lasted for 41 seasons before it was broken in 2005. He is now No. 4 on the career points list. His 44 career touchdowns are also among the school's best.

"It's an honor to be inducted into the Hall of Fame," Mott said. "Especially after 45 years to be remembered and with my son being in the Hall already, maybe that will be a little motivation for my grandson coming up since he loves football."

Mott's son Chad, who played at Crittenden and Murray State University, was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 2006. Grandson Gabe is a second grader.

Mott grew up in southern Crittenden County and attended Crayne and Frances schools where there were no football programs. He credited much of his natural ability to pure speed, which carried him during his playing days. Also, chemistry with teammates and coaches helped him along the way.

"I really enjoyed the camaraderie of the team and I am still good friends to this day with many of them," Mott said. "Coach Huff and Coach Elder were like father figures to us, and I really appreciated their inspirations."

Mott also had success on the basketball court where he accumulated 565 career points for the Rockets. That currently ranks 39th on the school's all-time scoring list. He was 10th on that list when he graduated. Mott played 58 career basketball games and averaged 9.7 points.

He was also a good baseball player, but statistics from his era are virtually nonexistent.

Wheeler played in the big leagues

Floyd C. "Rip" Wheeler of Marion accomplished what many youngsters only dream of. He played big-league baseball. Friday night he will be inducted into the Farmers Bank Marion-Crittenden County Athletics Hall of Fame.

In the 1920s, baseball was flourishing with the rise of the greatest home run hitter in history, Babe Ruth. It was in that era that Wheeler made his way into the Major Leagues as a pitcher.

Only 16 teams existed at the time, and making one of the clubs was very difficult. Most pitchers of the time went a full nine innings, so rosters were not full of people who threw the ball.

Wheeler earned the nickname "Rip," or the Tennessee Ripper, while playing in the Texas League with the Wichita Falls Minor League club.

"He would leave the team hotel and go to workouts early and take a nap in the shade of the scoreboard. His teammates gave him the name, Rip Van Winkle," said Floyd "Rip" Wheeler Jr., who lives on East Carlisle Street in Marion.

The Pirates took notice of Wheeler's arm while he was in the Texas League and bought the contract of the 23-year-old from the Spuds on June 7, 1921. The St. Louis Browns of the American League had also expressed an interest in the Marion native.

Wheeler struggled with the Pirates, appearing in only one game while on the team roster in 1921 and 1922. He was sent back to the minors where he had a 22-win season with Wichita Falls in 1923. He pitched both games of a double header four times that season, something unheard of today. He completed and won seven of those eight games. That notoriety drew the attention of the Chicago Cubs in late 1923.

Wheeler appeared in three games for the Cubs in 1923, exacting revenge on the Pirates with a 5-4 victory exactly two years after first appearing with the Bucs. His contract for the 1924 season earned him $500 per month – quite a cry from today's salaries.

The 1924 season would be his last in the big leagues, but not before earning three wins with a respectable 3.91 ERA in 29 appearances.

Wheeler continued playing baseball with several teams in the minor leagues after 1924 before settling down with his family in Marion. Wheeler kept his hand in baseball by playing in local leagues in Fredonia and Princeton where he faced his son, Rip Jr., who played in the league.

"He would correct me on the things I was doing," said Rip Jr.

Rip Wheeler Jr. will be accepting his father's induction into the Crittenden County Athletics Hall of Fame. His father passed away at the age of 70 on Sept. 18, 1968.

"It's a great honor for him to be inducted into the Hall of Fame," Rip Jr., said. "He was a great athlete for all sports, basketball, track and baseball."

Woman's Club ends year, begins new one

The Woman's Club of Marion ended year 2010 with the Annual Holiday Dinner in December. After enjoying a bountiful table of holiday dishes, guests were treated with an entertaining talk by Constance Alexander. Alexander, who resides in Murray, moved to the area in 1988 from New Jersey. The publisher of The Murray Ledger and Times asked her to write a column and so she began writing tales of growing up in the 1950s and 1960s in her column, Main Street. These soon became the readers' favorite stories which led to her memoir, Who Needs June Cleaver?, a collection of commentaries. Alexander has worked with teachers from the Crittenden County school district and is employed by Murray State University where she works with W. A. Franklin. The year 2010 was full of informational and fun programs from photography to preserving flowers, from a tea party to a murder mystery. Speakers ranged from the Mayor of Princeton to the President of Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs. For 2011 there will be a children's tea party, spring gala and the Annual Election Day Lunch. There will be speakers on education, women's health, organ donation and car care for women. Pictured are Nancy Hunt (left) and Alexander.

When the time comes, what do you do with old people?

The front page of today's Kansas City Star pictures five old dogs. When pets grow old, folk tend to disregard them and maybe even discard them. All five of the old dogs pictured were rescued from some status of neglect. When a pet grows old and needs more care especially expensive care, many owners simply abandon them. Abandonment is appalling; but it happens, and the consequence for pets is often tragic.

Such treatment of pets is horrendous, of course; but it introduces us to a much more serious issue – what do you do with old people? Fifty years ago when Christine was naughty, her mother held her between her knees and asked, “Oh, Christine, what am I going to do with you?” Today, Christine’s mother lies in bed no longer able to care for herself. Christine is a single mother with two children living in a small apartment. Now Christine asks, “Oh, Mom, what am I going to do with you?” Well?

Let me tell you about a friend of mine. She can’t walk. She can’t do many things you and I take for granted. She can’t talk. She can’t control her body functions. She has no teeth. She drools a lot. Her hair is quite thin and flat on her head. When I look into her eyes, they are deep and searching.

Oh, did I tell you she is only six months old?

Did you notice how your attitude changed when I explained my friend is just a baby? We are happy to accommodate the shortcomings of the young. But what do you do when people grow old? When your car grows old, you fix it or get rid of it. When people grow old and can no longer be “fixed,” what do you do? What do you do with old people?

One day, perhaps more quickly than I want, my family may be asking that question about me. Anticipating this possibility, I have told them, “When that day comes, place me in a loving, caring home for seniors. Furthermore, remember I told you now because when that day arrives I likely will not want to go.” I have even suggested a place, though I have left the final decision up to them.

Deciding what to do with old people is problematic. Old age is not for wimps. Two words must guide the family through these heart-breaking days—love and care. Remember, once this loved one loved and cared for you.

“For every-one born of God overcomes the world. This is the victory that has overcome the world, even our faith.

-1 John 5:4 NIV

CAN YOU HEAR BUT DON'T UNDERSTAND WORDS?

A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone who sends for this free model now.

Send for this model now. It will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost and certainly no obligation. All hearing problems are not alike and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid, but many can. So, send for your free model now. Thousands have already been delivered, so be sure to write to Beltone, 918 Broadway, P.O. Box 2426, Paducah, KY 42001.

Local man passionate about vintage ‘34 Ford Coupe

Reading about the history of the early automobiles and how they changed the way of living for people in our town is interesting. The cars sure made a difference to the county when they became more numerous. Reckless driving was 30 mph, but if the driver wasn't able to control his vehicle, it would be dangerous. Here is an article from the archives of The Crittenden Press concerning our old automobile history. We follow it with a present-day story, about one of the old cars that has survived for 76 years, and the man responsible for it.

July 14, 1921 Gist of Some Laws Governing Motor Vehicles

It is a great wonder to us when we think of how few accidents to individuals have occurred in this county and especially in the town of Marion since the automobiles have come into use. Our county court shows very few damage suits while the police courts show not a great many prosecutions for cut-outs, tail lights, speeding, etc.

Since this record is commendable and speaks well as to the law abiding spirit and general good fellowship that the citizens of Crittenden County bear toward each other, and to the rest of the world. Yet, there are some who will grow careless of the other fellow's welfare and drive recklessly around a short turn in the road, and dash without warning upon a team of horses and buggy or a horseback rider and frighten said horse or team beyond control of its rider or driver.

If it does not end in accident or injury, it leaves a "bad taste" in the mouth of the rider or driver and maybe a bad feeling that he cannot overcome for an hour or two.

Now, the laws governing the operation of automobiles and other motor vehicles are many and varied, far too much so for this article, but I want to give the gist of the most common passages.

Thou shalt not run with the cut-out open. Thou shalt not run without a tail light and two head lights. On coming up behind a pedestrian, horseback rider or occupant of a slower vehicle, thou shalt sound the horn or other warning device. Thou shalt not drive rapidly around the corners of these Crittenden County crooked roads without sounding your horn, and staying close to the right hand side of the road. Thou shalt always keep thy brake in good repair.

To The Drivers Of Buggies, Wagons, Etc.

When a faster driven vehicle overtakes you and gives a signal to be allowed to pass, thou shalt pull to the right side of the road immediately and permit it to pass. Don't stay in the middle of the road too long.

Treat your neighbor as you would have him treat you and we will all love one another better. There have been complaints recently of the automobile drivers having not given fair warning on short turns in the roads or driving up behind a buggy and attempting to pass without giving a warning and being too careless and reckless in passing skittish horses. The foregoing hints are based on real laws, the violation of which may be punished by a fine not exceeding $100.

Remember to reduce your speed. By request of a number of the citizens of the county, I kindly call attention of those who may thoughtlessly or carelessly drive an automobile at a greater speed than is reasonable and proper on the highways in the county.

No passenger automobile while operating on a highway outside of a city or town, should travel thereon at a rate of speed exceeding 30 miles an hour, if so it shall be prime evidence of unreasonable and improper driving.

Paul Malcom and his 1934 Ford 3-window Coupe – 50 years and counting

It's amazing to think that some of these old automobiles are still around today, cruising along the highways and byways and bringing looks of admiration from us folks who appreciate the hard work, time and expense that goes into having one of these vintage trophies.

It takes a lot of love, dedication and workmanship to restore one of the old automobiles to a thing of precision and beauty. One of these talented people who enjoys doing this, is Paul Malcom. Paul lives in the community of Crayne, on the corner of U.S. 641 and Crayne Cemetery Road. Sometimes during the summer months you can see his blue beauty sitting in the shade in his front yard, and also other old cars that he had been working on. Paul's a talented and patient person and works until his cars are in a-1 shape. A perfectionist in his work, you might say.

Paul's story starts when he was a young boy having always loved cars, new and old. The Hot Rod magazines and cars books were always a favorite for him and he read them whenever he had the time.

In 1960, at the age of 20, he got the chance to buy a vintage car. It was a 1934 Ford three-window coupe. He purchased it for $250 from Joe Tabor. Tabor had bought it from Grayson Har-

Clockwise from left, Paul Malcom in 1960, when he had finished with the frame of his car; Paul during the three-year effort to restore his vehicle; Paul's '34 Ford Coupe after he first had it painted Regal Burgandy, in 1960; Paul and Peggy in 2003, as they were getting ready to leave for a drive in their vintage car.

ralson of Princeton, and its original owner was said to be from Calvert City.

Paul recalls that the car wasn't in too bad of shape, but in 1961, he felt the need to do some extra work on the car. He began by taking the entire body off the frame, this way he was able to get to all the framework easier. He then cleaned and painted the frame. After this was done he put the body back on the frame. This first labor of love was just the beginning of the restoration of his 1934 Ford Coupe. The old flat-head engine that was in it smoked pretty bad and would fill the cab with smoke when he drove it. To take care of this Paul had Al Waylon, who worked at the Ford garage in Marion, put a rebuilt 1957, 312 cubic-inch Ford engine in it. This engine fixed the problem of the smoking motor.

Paul next decided the car needed a new professional paint job. Asbridge Body Shop in Frances did the honors, and the car was painted a 1954 Dodge color of regal poly-ethylene burgundy. By this time Paul had married Peggy Crider and they were anxious to start driving the newly painted car. Paul and Peggy lived at Frances during this time. Later they moved to Louisville for eight years, but the car went with them and during this time Paul continued the work and even painted it again.

After Paul and Peggy moved back to Crittenden County, in the early 1980s, Paul and his son Kayle, put a 289 Ford engine and a C-4 automatic transmission in the car and he drove it like this until 1990.

In 1990 Paul felt the need for a final ultimate stage in the restoration of the car. This time he tore the car completely down by taking the cab off the frame, so he did a complete check and repair of all the frame work and the cab also got primed, sanded and ready for a new paint job. It took Paul three years of working on it, every free minute he could find, to complete this final work and get it put back together. Also munity projects. The Magicians were recognized as the best in the field of entertainment on the basketball court.

NEWS FROM 1986

•Airman Leona D. Newton, stationed at Peterson Air Force Base, Colo., received high praise by her superiors for her work as an aircraft dispatcher in connection with a visit to the area by Britian's Royal Air Force. Newton is the daughter of Wanda Guess of Marion.

•A reunion for the Hazzard family was held at the Senior Citizens Center in Marion. Attending were Verble Woodside, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hazzard, Pearl Teitloff, Mr. and Mrs. L.C. Hazzard, and Franklin Hazzard, all of Marion.

during this time he installed heat and air conditioning for a more comfortable ride. For the finishing touches of the restoration, Paul had Allen Huffman's Body Shop in Morganfield, repaint the car to its Twilight Blue Ford color that it is today, and then Kentucky Kustoms also at Morganfield, installed all new upholstery.

Talk about knowing a car from the inside out, this truthfully could be said when the car was put back together and ready for the road. Paul and Peggy enjoyed taking pleasure drives in their vintage 1934 Ford Coupe. They also attended and participated in many car shows, a few parades and cruised around the countryside with other friends who owned vintage restored cars. The Malcoms also enjoyed taking vacations in their classic, the longest being to Charlotte, N.C. Other places they drove it to was Knoxville and Pigeon Forge, Tenn., Atlanta, Ga., and Branson, Mo., just to name a few.

Paul is now 70 years-plus and still driving his '34 Ford Coupe. He lost his wife, Peggy, in 2007 from multiple sclerosis, but they enjoyed many good times and happy trips in their beloved car from yesteryear.

Fredonia Valley Society to meet

The Fredonia Valley Heritage Society will meet tonight, (Thursday) at 7 p.m., in the Fredonia American Legion Building at the Buddy Rogers Park on Dorroh Street in Fredonia.

Following the business meeting, the program will be a discussion of everyone's favorite stories and/or photos in the new publication, "The History of the Fredonia Valley." Members should be prepared to share their favorites and bring their books with them in case they want to get autographs of authors and/or committee members.

"The History of the Fredonia Valley" has been a best-seller, and has sold out of its 750 printed copies. The group is considering a reprint if enough interest is received. The cost will depend on the quantity ordered, but is not expected to exceed $50. If you would like to be placed on the list for reprints, please email Pam Faughn at pamfaughn@att.net, or call her at 545-3215.

You can also contact any of the other book committee members: Linda Bennett, Nicky Baker, Angela Blair, Martha Bynum, Ann Kimmel, Denny Brasher or Don Boone.

Lady Rockets remain undefeated in fifth district

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER

The Lady Rockets used a 51-26 rebounding advantage to stay unbeaten in Fifth District play Tuesday night, easily defeating visiting Trigg County 60-31.

After leading 14-7 after one quarter of action, Crittenden continued to dominate the contest, expanding its lead the rest of the way.

Despite shooting just 24-of-63 from the field, the domination of the backboards helped lead CCHS to 18 second-chance points compared to only two for the Lady Wildcats.

But while the Lady Rockets were struggling shooting the ball, their stingy man-to-man defensive effort limited Trigg to a 13-of-45 showing from the field.

Although going 2-of-7 from the floor, Lady Rocket center Summer Courtney failed to let it affect the other areas of her game. She grabbed five rebounds, had five steals and blocked a shot.

Her backup, junior Mary Mattingly, also got in on the fun with eight points, 10 rebounds and a blocked shot.

Senior point guard Jessi Hodge had her usual steady performance, scoring 20 points, dishing out four assists, recording a pair of steals and a blocked shot. Five different Crittenden players amassed at least one block with senior forward Laken Tabor leading the way with four.

The hosts outscored Trigg 13-2 over a five-minute span in the third quarter and stayed sharp the remainder of the contest.

Along with staying unblemished in league play, the win also kept some other things intact as well. The Lady Rockets are 7-0 in Second Region play and undefeated at home with a 4-0 mark.

"Those are big things," Crittenden coach Shannon Hodge said after the win.

Thinking rebounding would be a huge strength coming into the season, Hodge continues to be happy with the way her team is attacking the glass.

"We're doing that for the most part this year," she said.

As they began to take control of the game in the second quarter, the Lady Rocket skipper was glad that her team continued to have a killer instinct and failed to let Trigg back in contention.

With a win over Fifth District archrival Livingston Central Friday night in Marion, the Lady Rockets can wrap up the top seed for the post-season tournament.

"I'm sure they will come in here with a score to settle," Hodge said, referring to her squad's 67-42 win last month in Smithland.

Lady Bombers claim win in tournament

Giving up too many offensive rebounds and committing 15 turnovers hindered the Lady Rockets' chances on Dec. 22 against host school Ballard Memorial in the final game of the Ballard Christmas Tournament as they dropped a 63-48 decision.

The Lady Bombers employed a full-court press which bothered Crittenden at times in the first half.

However, they managed to stay right in contention trailing only 36-30 at halftime.

But the hosts outscored them 27-18 during second half action to win going away.

Jessi Hodge poured in 23 points while classmate Laken Tabor added 13.

The Lady Bomber trio of Abby Shelley, Brandy Jones and Amy Burgess combined for 47 points nearly outscoring the entire Lady Rocket squad in the triumph.

Lady Rockets fall by 1

Despite a valiant effort, the Lady Rockets fell short of upsetting First Region powerhouse Marshall County Dec. 22 at the Ballard County Christmas Tournament as they fell 58-57.

There were six ties and numerous lead changes throughout the contest that featured Lady Rocket forward Laken Tabor playing against her former school.

Sophomore guard Kaitlin Binkley makes a run to the basket during Tuesday night's game against Trigg County.

In fact, Tabor, who finished with 15 points, nailed a trey right before the halftime buzzer to give her team a 34-32 lead heading into the dressing room.

While the Marshals missed too many layups, they also made too many for the Lady Rockets' liking, burning them in the low post much of the game.

Both teams were hot from behind the arc as the Lady Rockets finished 5-for-9 from long range. Although the Marshals didn't attempt many, they finished 3-for-4.

But the charity stripe was not nearly as kind to Crittenden shooting a poor 8-of-14 which could have spelled the difference.

Lady Rockets defeat team from Chicago

All 10 Lady Rockets players who saw action scored in their first game in the Ballard tournament as they had no trouble dispatching Chicago St. Mel 63-20.

Hodge, who had 35 points in the two contests, scored 13 of them in the convincing win.

While the game had the tendency to look ugly due to being such a lopsided affair, Crittenden coach Shannon Hodge was pleased with the effort her team displayed in the triumph.

"It's our turn to get a break or two in things," she said.

Sickness, injuries hinder Rockets against Trigg

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER

Having two players sidelined due to sickness and shooting an icy 17-of-60 from the floor were too much for the Rockets to overcome Tuesday as visiting Trigg County avenged an earlier loss last month 64-50.

Not being a deep team to begin with, having Thomas Scott and Jesse Highfil out with illnesses made the task of sweeping the Wildcats an even tougher chore.

Trigg jumped out to an 8-3 lead and never trailed in the contest, placing three players in double figures.

After getting out to a 24-10 lead less than three minutes into the second quarter, the Wildcats' edge seldom dipped below 10 points the remainder of the game. A box-and-one defense employed by the Rockets during the contest failed to get the results they wanted.

While scoring 13 in the first meeting, Wildcat forward Eric Mount had 20 in the rematch while teammate Chris McKenzie also increased his scoring. While having eight in the meeting at Cadiz last month, he had 11 Tuesday.

Entering the fourth quarter trailing by 14, Crittenden never mounted a serious threat as the Wildcats finally got a win in league play.

"We were a little bit short-handed tonight," Rocket coach Brad Fraser said after the setback, alluding to not having the availability of Highfil and Scott

He also knows his team let an opportunity slip by to take a two-game lead over Trigg in the district race, dropping their second league game at home.

With teams continually keying their defenses to limit Oliver, the Rockets need to have more offensive production from other players, coaches say.

The Rockets also struggled in the area of transition defense, but it was their offensive struggles which Fraser lamented most.

"Anytime you shoot 17-of-60, you are going to have a hard time winning," he said.

Rockets slip in last four minutes for a loss

After leading for most of the game last week against First Region foe Murray in the finale of the Reidland Christmas Tournament, the Rockets let it slip away in the end, losing 58-49.

"We controlled the game for 28 minutes then fell apart the last four," Fraser said, describing the loss.

Rockets end losing streak

The Rockets ended a six-game losing streak in convincing fashion last week at the Reidland Christmas Tournament, outmanning Christian Fellowship 77-16.

Crittenden jumped out to a 27-2 advantage as the Eagles did not tally their first field goal until the 4:52 mark of the second quarter.

Rocket senior forward Casey Oliver led the way with 17 points, freshman point guard Aaron Owen had 11 and Travis Gilbert scored his first varsity points, pouring in 13.

Nine different Rocket players scored on the way to the easy victory.

Fulton takes easy lead during tournament

Missing easy shots and committing 19 turnovers were too much to overcome as the Rockets dropped their opening game of the tournament last week to Fulton County 64-44.

The Pilots jumped out to a 10-0 lead in the opening minutes thanks in part to a full-court press that the Rockets at times failed to solve.

The description provided herein was provided by the parties and is contained in the Judgment and Order of Sale.

1. The Master Commissioner will sell same at public auction to the highest and best bidder at the Courthouse door for cash or a deposit of 10% of the purchase price with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days.

The successful bidder shall be required to give a bond with good surety for the unpaid purchase price with said bond bearing interest at 12 % per annum from the date of the sale.

In the event Plaintiff is the successful purchaser, Plaintiff shall be entitled to a credit of its judgment against the purchase price and shall only be obliged to pay the Court costs, fees and costs of the Master Commissioner and any delinquent real estate taxes payable pursuant to the Order of Sale.

2. The Purchaser shall be required to assume and pay any ad valorem taxes and all taxes assessed against said property by any City, State, County or any school district taxes assessed against said property by any City, State, County or any school district which are due and payable at any time during the year 2011 or thereafter. Said sale shall be made subject to: all easements, covenants and restrictions of record; assessments for public improvements; and any facts which an inspection and accurate survey may disclose. Said property shall be sold with the improvements thereon "as is".

3. The purpose of this sale is the satisfaction of a Judgment entered on November 17, 2010, on behalf of the Plaintiff against the Defendant, Barry A. Brantley, a/k/a, Barry Adam Brantley and Krystal Brantley, a/k/a Krystal LaDawn Brantley, for the sum of $55,842.67 plus interest at the rate of 5.75 % per annum as of March 1, 2010 until paid, and $2,244.38 plus interest at the rate of 6.00% per annum from April 1, 2010 until paid, and for Plaintiff's costs expended herein.

Teen’s tractor wish comes true

BY DEREK McCREE
STAFF REPORTER

Christmas was bright red for Tyler Robertson, a local teen battling a brain tumor.

Family and community members teamed with the Make-A-Wish Foundation to give Robertson a season to remember. Three days before Christmas, Robertson was surprised to receive a 1978 model 1486 International tractor.

A large gathering of friends and family were on hand to witness the joy that came over Robertson when he arrived at Henry and Henry Monuments parking lot where the tractor was sitting, waiting for its new home.

“Seeing the smile on his face, everything he’s been through, the challenges for him and family, it’s just a joyful blessing,” said Tyler’s mother, Teresa Robertson.

This was the first time that a request was made for a tractor, explained Darla Chezem, the senior wish program manager for the tri-state area.

“His wish was for a tractor that is no longer made,” Chezem said.

However, that complication did not stop all of those involved from making Robertson’s wish come true. Bonita Travis, the teenager’s aunt, searched out farmers looking for the rare farm vehicle. Travis then contacted Philip Parrish, who owns several tractors. It just so happened that Parrish himself had the golden prize that Robertson had coveted.

The 1486 International Harvester was aging and the local farmers were not using it very often.

“I made a few calls, but couldn’t find another 1486 model,” Parrish said. “I had one, and my heart was touched to give it to him.”

Parish’s father, Larry, is fighting brain cancer himself.

Shaun Wesmoland and H&R Agropower helped Parrish with the details involved in getting the tractor ready for Robertson.

“This was absolutely a wish come true with the help of the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Philip Parrish and everyone else all delivered,” said Ricky Robertson, Tyler’s father.

Robertson spent several minutes examining his new tractor, sitting in the cab and looking at all the functions and levers. His mother said he had not been feeling well that morning, but it all changed in the afternoon when his wish came true.

“I can’t really explain how much it means to me,” the teen said with a sheepish grin on his face. “It’s the best Christmas present ever and a big thanks to everyone who put this together. I’ll use it for anything that I can.”

Thank You

A big THANK YOU to all those who supported and helped me during my tenure as Crittenden County Judge-Executive.

The successes that our county experienced would not have been possible without that help and support local, state and federal. Our community is truly blessed with all the services offered and all our volunteers who do what government cannot. I truly enjoyed working with and for you, and I encourage you to give that same help and support to the new fiscal court.
