Seniors to build trail, pavilion

Project will help center meet federal exercise mandate

STAFF REPORT
Mona Manley says she's always wanted a barbecue pit, pavilion and walking trail at the Crittenden County Senior Citizens Center.

With some help from the center's new chairman, Ron Padgett, her dream is off toward reality. Now, all she needs is money.

Padgett has developed a plan to build a 40x100-foot screened pavilion complete

This evening is the first fish fry fundraising event to help pay for the new development at the senior center. Dinner is $5, which includes all of the trimmings.

with barbecue pit, fans, lights, electric receptacles, picnic tables, bandstand and shuffle board on the concrete floor. The structure is designed to go on the currently empty, 2,400-square-foot lot directly behind the senior center. Plans are to build a paved walking trail around it, which will be partly shaded much of the day. The track will be just over one-tenth of a mile

Rescue personnel from Crittenden and Livingston counties drag the Cumberland River near Dycusburg last week for the body of 19-year-old Travis Conditt, who drowned there while swimming with a friend.

Drowning is grim reminder of river's unforgiving current

STAFF REPORT
Recovery of the body of 19-year-old Travis Conditt from the Cumberland River last week was a grim reminder of the dangers of swimming in area reservoirs.

There are no marked swimming areas on the Ohio, Cumberland or Tradewater rivers, which outline the county's boundaries. Swimming on any of the rivers is dangerous, said Donnie Arflack, chief of the Crittenden County Rescue Squad.

"The current on the Cumberland River can change dramatically when they open the gates at Barkley Dam," Arflack said. "We recommend that no one swim in the rivers, but if you do, always wear a life jacket."

Conditt and 19-year-old Jordan Wadsworth of Marion were swimming in the river about 3 p.m., last Wednesday, June 23. They had gone into the water near the Dycusburg boat ramp while two friends, Jacob Pitman of Possum Trot and Stormy DePriest of Benton were sitting on rip rap on the riverbank.

The boys had been swimming in the area for about 30 minutes when they tried to swim to a green buoy marking the river channel, about 100 feet from shore. Conditt was the first to reach the buoy, and as the two turned to swim back, he began to cramp. His companion tried coaxing him onto his back into a floating position, but Conditt went under. Pitman went into the river, but the victim was already under water.

Wadsworth got out of the water and called 911 then tried to crank a small boat parked nearby but could not get it running.

The boys had been swimming in that part of the river before, just three days earlier.

The recovery effort included the Crittenden County Rescue Squad and local chapter of the American Red Cross. Other agencies from Livingston and Marshall counties, the Area 2 Dive Team and Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources were also involved in the search, which lasted almost two days.

Conditt's family and many friends stood vigil from the riverbank for more than 40 hours while recovery boats used manual and electronic equipment to search the river bottom. His body resurfaced at about 11 a.m., Friday only feet from where witnesses told author-

Suspect caught in local creek

STAFF REPORT
After more than a weeklong manhunt, state and local authorities have arrested a Crittenden County man wanted on a variety of charges, including a bench warrant for missing a trial date last week in Crittenden District Court.

Beard

Barry K. Beard, 39, of Sheridan was arrested at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday after eight lawmen and a police helicopter surrounded him while the suspect was swimming in a creek with a female companion off Irma-White Road in rural Crittenden County. The woman's young daughter was also with them.

Beard was wanted on a variety of charges and for not appearing in Crittenden District Court last week for a trial to answer charges of second-degree fleeing and evading police and resisting arrest. He also faces three counts of terroristic threatening and harassing communications in unrelated cases in Crittenden District Court.

Beard had eluded police Saturday morning after a short chase. He had been seen bare foot on the Cave In Rock Ferry earlier that day.

State Trooper Darron Holliman was dispatched to the area Saturday and eventually found Beard about 9 a.m., walking along Crittenden Springs Road near Glendale Church Road. Beard ran when he saw the trooper. Holliman stopped his cruiser and gave chase for a brief period, but Beard escaped into a heavily wooded area.

A tip led authorities to the Irma-White area Tuesday. Several police vehicles and a police chopper converged on Beard, who ran when he realized they were closing in. Trooper Holliman chased him down on foot after about 100 yards and used a Taser gun to subdue Fifteen-year-old Tyler Robertson was diagnosed with a brain tumor in April and had surgery in May. He continues to recover at home in Marion.

Family fights brain tumor

BY CHRIS EVANS
PRESS EDITOR
Since April 25, Tyler Robertson and his family have traveled many miles emotionally and physically to fight a brain tumor that affects only 15 people in the United States.

Robertson, a 15-year-old freshman at Crittenden County High School, had never been seriously ill, had no chronic health issues and had only spent one night in the hospital during his entire life and that was for dehydration while fighting a severe cold. On a warm Monday morning in April, everything changed.

The youngest of two sons of Ricky and Teresa Robertson, Tyler had been working hard for several months to get ready to play high school football. Running and weightlifting were part of his weekly regimen. He hadn't played organized ball in several years, but a growth spurt had encouraged him to get back involved. After all, his older brother Rodney was a record-holder at CCHS and he loved the sport. Tyler had worked the sidelines helping with various duties before his older sibling had graduated a year earlier. Now it was his turn to wear the blue and white uniform.

A severe headache during the night seemed harmless. His mother encouraged him to take another pain reliever and try to get some sleep. The next morning, however, the trained nurse knew her son was having serious pain in the back of his head, not a normal place for a headache.

Mom and son went to Family Practice

Clinic in Marion to see Nurse Practitioner Alicia Clark. She too was concerned because Tyler was very sensitive to a beam of light shined in his eyes. Clark ordered a CT scan and found something unusual so she ordered a followup MRI.

When doctors reviewed test results, the news was grim. Tyler was gravely ill, suffering from what was first believed to be a very deadly brainstem glioma. He'd need immediate care from a specialist. After consulting with Clark and local physician Dr. Greg Maddux, the family made an appointment at St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital in Memphis. The care and consultation received was nothing short of perfect, according to

Less government is the answer to recovery

A trip down a hard-learned Wisdom Lane for many years teaches us to never place a blanket indictment on any part of the world or any gathering of people unless you truly know the heart and mind of everyone there. Only God truly knows the hearts of all people.

The enemy of our souls is always busy trying to make all good look bad and all bad look good. Jesus tells us you shall know a tree by the fruit it bears. So that is how we learn what people truly are as we watch their lives and the results of their lives.

The far left – which is trying to turn America into a nation where every move of its citizenry is controlled by the government – has put out pleas for its followers to invade the Tea Party Movement, which stands for limited government, etc. They want these infiltrators to put up repulsive signs and say and do things that will turn people against the movement.

I'm in total agreement with the basic concepts of the Tea Party Movement, and when the ice storm hit Crittenden County, our place was hit hard. People had to walk part of the way to get to our home, but they were invited to stay here instead of the shelter. We cooked food and people walked here to get it to help feed others who did not have a way to cook. We tried to look ahead for such events when we built our home.

True Christians everywhere will always do for their fellow man even under trying circumstances, as they did in Germany during World War II. Some put their lives in jeopardy to hide Jews in their homes to keep them out of Hitler's death ovens. Read "The Hiding Place" and other true stories of the horrors.

Hate of any kind does not belong in a republic and will destroy its foundation.

One thing the Bible teaches is – and our government and too many people don't want us to be aware of it – is this, "...if any would not work, neither should he eat." 2nd Th. 3:10.

Christians are commanded to help those who cannot help themselves, but those who won't work, we are forbidden to help so they will get hungry enough they will go to work and hopefully do as St. Paul instructed, "...we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they work and eat their own bread." Verse 12.

Big government gets too big by encouraging handouts so more will become beholden to the elected ones who provide the handouts and keep them in their jobs. This is the reason for the plan to give amnesty to over 12 million illegals, who are here disobeying our laws. Then, when they start voting they will keep the ones in power who legalized them instead of their coming here legally like everyone else has had to do these 400-plus years obeying our laws.

These are the same leaders who are trying to push through the Totalization Agreement with Mexico that has been proposed and give illegal aliens our Social Security money.

Some people do not want insurance. Some would not get an education so they could get a better job, or would not work so they could buy insurance. Some lived in the fast lane and ruined their lives and health, and now want other hard-working people to take care of them. Many of us have worked hard, pulled ourselves up by the boot straps and planned ahead, as all 15 of mom and dad's children did. And, yes, that was during the Depression, as much of America did the same.

Besides, the government already pays for the health care of those who cannot afford insurance.

While listening to talk radio not long ago, a college student was asked about his opinion of the government taking care of everyone. He said he did not believe anyone should have to work hard and struggle to get ahead, that the government should pay for insurance, college and housing, and make life easier for everyone. The person was asked where the government got its money to do all of this and he said from the rich people.

He was reminded that only a very small percent are rich people, that the government gets most of its money from the hard-working Americans whose parents taught them to work, make their own living, and be beholden to no one but God. Needless to say, the coddled young man was put to silence.

A lady was on one of the shows that told the host she was on welfare and deserved it. He asked her who paid that welfare check and she said the president. The host then asked her where the president got his money and she said, "I don't know how he gets his money." She also was shocked that it came from all us taxpayers.

Remember, these people vote.

Fasting planned to save youth

To the Editor:

Are you tired of feeling empty? Are you tired of being depressed? Are you tired of multiple relationships that always end with you being heart-broken? What happens when the alcohol, the drugs, the sexual relations no longer satisfy you? When being popular, when wearing the latest styles, when owning the latest phone or driving the newest car still leaves you wanting more? I am sorry but you will never be satisfied with the things of this world!

Look at the top Hollywood stars, sports heroes, music stars and you will not find one of them who is truly happy. Having millions of dollars, mansions, exotic cars, multiple sexual partners, fame and prestige has still left them unfulfilled.

So what is the answer? It is not found in church or religion. It is not having your name on a church roll, or being a member of a youth group. It takes a real personal relationship with Jesus!

It's not just saying a salvation prayer but living a passionate life following Jesus. It's loving the Savior with all your heart, soul, mind and strength.

So why am I saying all this? Because we are failing as God's people! The youth of this area are hurting! Many are dying in sin and spending an eternity in hell. I want a Joshua generation to bring true revival to Crittenden County. I want to see real change!

Will you join me in praying and fasting for 40 days for this generation?

Starting July 3 and ending Aug. 12, we will fast. As young people, we will seek God to change us and this community! Ignited will host a youth meeting on Saturday, Aug. 14 at Fohs Hall. We ask all teens to come and seek Him!

Red Cross work is difficult when there is loss of life

To the Editor:

The Lakeland Chapter of the American Red Cross continues to grieve with the Conditt family following the drowning of their son Travis last week in the Cumberland River at Dycusburg.

Responding to scenes of tragedy is our job, but it is a difficult one when there is loss of life. The Red Cross relies on donations of supplies, monetary donations and manpower when we are dispatched to assist families or communities in times of crisis.

The Dycusburg community and surrounding areas came together last week at a very difficult time, and we appreciate the support we received. Words can't express my heartfelt appreciation and gratitude for all the individuals, churches and businesses who donated and volunteered their time, money and supplies. Supplies came from Caldwell, Crittenden, Livingston and Lyon counties. Our thoughts will continue to be with the Conditt family.

Columnist does not understand TEA Party's aim

To the Editor:

Unlike your columnist Tyler Collins, I would not presume to speak for Crittenden County residents and he most assuredly does not speak for me or understand my values. As for me, I support the Taxed Enough Already (TEA) Party which is not anti-government. It is, however, anti-bad-government. It supports the U.S. Constitution (novel concept for some I know), individual liberties, limited government, economic freedom, a balanced budget, fundamental tax reform, ending out of control government spending and encouraging energy independence. Which of these values do you not share?

I doubt Mr. Collins has attended many TEA Party rallies but, I have and I did not encounter one angry person or insurance sign. Not one arrest or act of destruction has been made at any TEA Party rally; can he make the same claim for the rallies of the real angry people (think G8/20 summits)?

Mr. Collins says a pure free market was a leading cause of the Great Depression and that monopolies almost ruined our country. Just so we are clear on that point, it was Franklin Delano Roosevelt who signed the National Industrial Recovery Act in 1933, authorizing the president to regulate industry and permit monopolies in order to stimulate economic recovery, and establish a national public works program. The NIRA was ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Rather than follow the FDR model for recovery from a depression why not look to President Harding's actions while dealing with the 1920-21 depression where unemployment was 12 percent and the GDP fell 17 percent. President Harding cut taxes on all income groups, cut the budget nearly in half between 1920 and 1922 and cut the national debt by one-third. Our nation recovered quickly and by 1923 the unemployment rate was 2.4 percent.

FDR took the opposite approach when confronted by the Great Depression with massive government intervention which caused more than 15 years of economic stagnation, any of this sounding familiar? A true read of history should lead one to think that unleashing the free market, cutting taxes, reducing the size of government and the national debt would be a sound plan to follow.

Apparently without any knowledge of what the TEA Party stands for, Mr. Collins insults all who support it with his declaration that we would sit in our generator-heated homes while our neighbors freeze and starve to death. How dare he make such an outrageous statement about me? I live in the county and after the ice storm my wife and I cleared the county road along our property before the county came through, as did my neighbors. We also checked on our neighbors often to ensure they were not in need.

Finally, I will define a small fraction for Mr. Collins as 43 percent. That is the percentage TEA Party supported-Dr. Rand Paul received in Crittenden County in the latest Republican primary. Dr. Paul pulled in 59 percent of the statewide vote in that same election, making him the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate from Kentucky.

Leadership is on the blink in our United States

To the Editor:

I am writing you as a very concerned citizen with how this nation is being operated. President Obama has done a very poor job as president of the United States. Yes, I voted for President Obama, as did a lot of people, in hope that he could truly change the nation we live in. But the fact is that he has let the people of this nation down. He appears to be more interested in having fundraisers, playing golf and other activities as opposed to running this country for which he was hired. There are too many issues to go unnoticed, but instead of trying to fix the problems, he wants to file lawsuits and try to please people that have nothing to do with this nation.

First of all, I would like to talk about the economy and what he has done about it. He tried a stimulus package, which I can understand to a point, but to truly get the economy back on track, permanent jobs are needed and that is one thing that has not been done this whole time. All that has been happening in this country when it comes to our government is mismanagement in every form. Our government has allowed company after company to ship jobs overseas or across the boarders for cheap labor. The down side is there is less money circulating in the United States due to companies not investing in their employees, so it causes them to lose even more money. When a company invests in itself via employees, company expansion, etc., it will benefit everyone. Small fixes, such as the stimulus packages, are just Band-aids placed on a trauma wound, which makes no sense at all if people would just think about it.

The economy didn't get this way overnight. It happened decades ago. Companies took advantage of Ronald Reagan's trickle down economics plan. The government needs to place tariffs on the products coming into this nation or not allow the products into the nation at all. Companies could be taxed the amount of the income lost by each employee that was released by the company due to transferring jobs to other countries. It's not right for companies to provide jobs for foreigners and then expect people in America to buy their products when they don't respect them enough to hire them and keep them employed. I know that companies have to survive, and I believe in unionization to a point especially in the mining industry, but I feel that unions need to do their job and not try to bankrupt a company either. The sole purpose of unions is to provide fair wages and safe working conditions, to protect workers from the greed of a few individuals.

On to the Gulf oil spill, President Obama has acted very poorly – from the response to not exploring every avenue presented. The so-called experts have not solved the problem. If these individuals were so smart then why isn't the oil spill contained? Several people, including myself, have several solutions to help with the spill, but no one wants to hear those ideas. In my opinion, they are too afraid that an ordinary citizen is going to show them up in their area of expertise. Another issue is why are these rig inspectors not being severely punished instead of just giving a resignation? I also thought no tax dollars were to be used in this clean-up process. Who is paying for the U.S. Coast Guard? Oh, wait a minute, that's us, the taxpayers.

President Obama is more concerned with filing lawsuits and criticizing Arizona's immigration bill than attending to the problem that has been ignored for so long. Illegal immigrants don't need to be collecting benefits of this nation because they are not a part of this nation. When immigrants were coming to this land through Ellis Island, they had to meet certain criteria before they were allowed citizenship. Now they don't have to learn English or recite the Pledge of Allegiance. These are the very foundations of this nation and immigrants are supposed to change to our ways. Instead, this nation is changing to suit them. I guess that is another way of trampling on our rights, which the government has gotten very accustomed to over the years.

Until the citizens of this nation band together and show the government that we will no longer stand for this, nothing will ever change. All politicians can do is lie and tell more lies to cover those first lies. Democrats, Republicans and even Independents are all alike, doing nothing and collecting as much money as they can while they are in office.

When the government was first formed, there were no Democrats, Republicans or Independents. There were just everyday citizens working together for the good of this great nation. People's greed and thirst for power has overtaken the truest principles on which this nation was formed. One of the principles overtaken was religious freedom, and it was proven by the Supreme Court which removed the Ten Commandments from the schools and other areas. In some form or another, the Ten Commandments represent a law of this land. Whether it be lying to officials, disrespecting authority, killing or adultery, these are not bad things to teach our children. In fact, they are very good morals to live by. As for the Pledge of Allegiance, if children and their parents don't respect their nation enough to swear allegiance to it, then why are they here basking in the freedoms they possess? So many things need to change, and the first is the leadership of this nation.

Stephanie Hunt Mundy, Theresa Matthews and Lee Ann Grainger Keller have earned master's degrees in nursing.

Three are taking steps toward becoming nurse practitioners

Two Crittenden County women and a Livingston County resident have earned their master of science degrees in nursing from the University of Southern Indiana. Stephanie Hunt Mundy, Lee Ann Grainger Keller and Theresa Matthews are completing clinical hours at area hospitals to finish requirements for the nurse practitioner program. All received their bachelor of science in nursing from Murray State University.

Mundy and Matthews are Crittenden County natives. Mundy is employed by Tri-Rivers LLC in Salem, which also operates the Marion Physicians Clinic. She is also a technician at Better Image, a laser hair removal and skin treatment center inside the Salem Clinic.

While finishing clinical hours, Keller is optimistic about one day practicing in the area.

Matthews is pursuing opportunities in the Henderson area.

Since 2004, the number of nurse practitioners in the United States has increased by nearly 40 percent, to 125,000, according to estimates by the American Academy of Nurse Practitioners. The trend is being driven in large part by a shortage of primary-care doctors or general-practice physicians, medical experts say.

Stone-Lang hears call from patients, puts location here

Hearing tests and hearing devices are now available in Marion at Stone-Lang Company's new, fourth location in western Kentucky. Located inside Health Quest Wellness Center on South Main Street, Stone-Lang Hearing Rehabilitation will see patients in Marion each Wednesday.

The company was founded in 1876 by brothers Robert and Jim Lang as a pharmacy. Current owner Mike Stone followed in his father's and great-uncle's footsteps and continues to run the company, which includes full-time offices in Paducah and Murray and satellite offices in Fulton and now Marion.

Stone and employee Elizabeth Vickery, a Marion native and Murray State University graduate, are board certified hearing instrument specialists.

"We had many patients from Marion traveling to Paducah, and this was on the fringe of our service area so we took the opportunity to expand our practice to service the people in this area," Stone said.

Stone-Lang provides hearing tests and fits patients of all ages for hearing devices. Tests take 20-30 minutes, followed by a consultation period. All hearing devices come with a 30-day trial period. Call 1-800-949-5728 to schedule an appointment.

Lynn working with St. Louis slugger's family foundation

STAFF REPORT

Every summer, Morgan Lynn of Marion comes up with a new challenge and its almost always involves world travel.

This year, she's working for St. Louis Cardinals slugger Albert Pujols' Family Foundation and the non-profit group Nest in the Dominican Republic.

Pujols and his wife Deidre launched the Pujols Family Foundation in 2005 to help the poor in his native country. Nest is a program that helps developing countries pull out of poverty by creating markets for skilled artisans to sell their wares.

Lynn, 21, is a senior at Centre College who worked last summer for Nest in Washington, D.C. There, she helped administrate programs like the one she will start from the ground up in the Dominican Republic over six weeks this summer, starting July 9.

She and another Centre student will work with residents of the Dominican where unemployment is almost 100 percent. The sugar cane industry was strong there up until a few years ago. When it left, so did all of the jobs.

Nest and the Pujols Foundation have teamed up for a project that will teach indigenous people in the poorest part of the Dominican to make tote bags. The program includes no-interest loans to buy manual sewing machines (there is no electricity there) and fabric. Lynn and her contemporary will teach the residents how to sew, make the bags and how to apply for a loan to start their own business.

Once they begin making bags, their products are sold to the foundation and in local markets. The foundation accepts only merchandise as repayment for the loan. The merchandise is then marketed in America with the proceeds going back into the foundation to fund other similar projects.

Lynn has spent a great deal of time traveling the globe. She's been to almost every European country, Mexico and Africa. Through all her experiences, she has found that helping developing nations grow economically is the most rewarding.

"This is what I want to do as a career," she said. "Microfinancing is becoming a big thing worldwide."

Although she hasn't met the star professional baseball player for whom she'll be working this summer, she does figure on working with Pujols' wife Deidre, who will be in the Dominican Republic overseeing the project.

She earns college credit for the fellowship program this summer, but there is no pay. It's volunteer work. Compassion International, a faith-based organization, provides a support network while she's in the Dominican Republic and her travel, lodging and meals are paid.

Robertson's parents. The first conclusion by doctors left little room for hope, but the family held steadfast to their faith and focused on the positives, said Ricky Robertson. However, Tyler was devastated, mostly because doctors said he'd never be able to play football.

"I think I was in a daze, trying to be strong and keep the faith," said his mother. "Tyler had worked so hard since Christmas, weightlifting to play football. I told Tyler that his hard work was not wasted that it had made him stronger and he will get through this."

After more diagnostics, review and collaboration between specialists, the doctors determined that perhaps Tyler's tumor was something more treatable than first believed. It was benign and may have been with him since birth. It appeared to be a slow-growing mass known as a rosette-forming glioneuronal tumor of the fourth ventricle.

On May 14, Robertson underwent surgery at Le Bonheur Children's Hospital in Memphis. Doctors were able to remove 90 percent of the tumor without damaging nearby brain tissue. The growth was in the area that controls vision and balance.

It has now been just over six weeks since his surgery. Tyler is growing stronger by the day and the wound from his surgery has healed. Still, he suffers from double vision and the emotional stress that comes with a life-altering illness.

"The growth isn't going away. It will be there from now on unless there is a miracle from God," said his father.

Hope is that the mass is slow-growing and will require nothing more than monitoring for years to come.

"We've tried to focus on the positives, that 90 percent was eliminated, not the 10 percent that's left," Ricky Robertson said.

Tyler has been slow to get back into his social circles. He's gone to church and attends physical therapy at Health Quest Wellness Center, but beyond that, he doesn't get out too much. His parents push him to be more active in the things he used to enjoy and they're all looking forward to the day he gets back onto the football field.

"Tyler wants to play again and he said if he can't be ready this fall, he will be ready next year," his mother explained.

Despite missing more than a month of school at the end of the academic year, Tyler had completed enough credits to advance and will be a sophomore next year.

After 27 years of marriage, the couple say that dealing with Tyler's illness has been an awakening. They want their story to help others.

"Listen to your body and watch for tell-tale signs," said Teresa.

Although Tyler showed no symptoms until that night in April, the quick reaction of his family and local health-care professionals made all the difference.

The community support has been great, the Robertsons said. The Crittenden County Quarterback Club, an organization Ricky led while his oldest son was in high school, established a fund at Farmers Bank to help them offset expenses while battling their son's illness.

"You don't know what that has meant to us," said Ricky.

"We want to thank everyone, family, friends, churches and any individuals for the cards, money, food, snacks, phone calls, text messages and especially the prayers," Teresa said. "So many prayers have been answered."

The family also expressed its gratitude toward Clark, Dr. Maddux, Family Practice Clinic where Teresa works, Harris Gas where Ricky works, football coach Al Starnes and everyone else who has helped and comforted them during this experience.

"We are so thankful for our small-town community," Teresa said.

Waste plan needs more review

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Fiscal Court met in special session Tuesday morning and closed out its books on fiscal year 2009-10.

Magistrates also decided to continue reviewing a proposed new solid waste ordinance for the county. Magistrate Dan Wood suggested that the county's Solid Waste Committee review the same proposal and make recommendations to the fiscal court before the next meeting in July.

The court accepted a bid of $3,500 for a Case 5120 cab tractor with a front-end loader. The bid from Charles "Bubby" Duvall was the highest of three sealed bids. It had been declared surplus property by the county.

The county will be buying two dump trucks in the coming days. They will be previously owned rigs. A program that the county had used in recent years to buy new trucks then resell them after a year or two had not been as attractive lately, according to Judge-Executive Fred Brown.

Assistance from agencies from other counties was requested because of the more sophisticated electronic equipment they have on their search boats.

Arlfack said side scan sonar and Towfish sonar units can speed recovery in drowning situations. He said Crittenden County's rescue boats do not have that type equipment, but the squad is trying to get a grant and/or donations to help defray costs for such units.

Conditt had grown up in Marion and has a large family living here. The family has established a memorial fund at Farmers Bank (see obituary page 4).

Outdoors News & Notes

Crop filing deadline is just around the corner

Kentucky Farm Service Agency is reminding producers to submit their annual acreage report to their local FSA county office by July 15 to meet FSA program eligibility requirements. State FSA Director John McCauley says farmers must file their reports accurately and timely for all crops and land uses, including prevented and failed acreage, to ensure they receive the maximum FSA program benefits possible. Accurate acreage reports are necessary to determine and maintain eligibility for various programs, such as the Direct and Counter-cyclical Program and newer programs authorized in the 2008 Farm Bill. Programs include the Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payments Program, Average Crop Revenue Election Program, Livestock Forage Disaster Program, Tree Assistance Program and Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honeybees, and Farm Raised Fish Program. Acreage reports are considered timely filed when completed by the applicable final crop reporting deadline of July 15. Prevented acreage must be reported within 15 calendar days after the final planting date. Failed acreage must be reported before the disposition of the crop. NAP crops that are harvested prior to July 15 must report by the earlier of July 15, 2010, or 15 calendar days before the onset of harvest or grazing. Producers should contact their county FSA office if they are uncertain about reporting deadlines. Late-filed provisions may be available to producers who are unable to meet the reporting deadline as required. For more information, call the local FSA center in Salem at 988-2180.

Go green and save green this summer

Time to fire up the grill! This summer go green and save green by following a few simple tips at your next outdoor gathering:

- Invitations are costly for your pocket book and the environment. Instead of sending printed invitations, e-mail or call family and friends with details about the event.
- Encourage family and friends to walk, bicycle or carpool to the party to save gas and reduce vehicle emissions.
- Serve fresh seasonal fruits and vegetables from your garden. If you don't have a garden, buy from a local producer or a farmers' market. Buying locally grown foods in season reduces fumes emitted and energy consumed during transportation of the produce.

- Use reusable plates, cups and utensils. Paper and plastic party supplies can be expensive and increase the amount of waste in our landfills.

- During cleanup, reuse and recycle items. Save empty whipped cream containers, pickle jars and other containers to store items such as pens, pencils, crayons and buttons. If applicable, recycle paper, plastic and glass containers. To learn about recycling options and programs in Crittenden county contact the County Judge Executive's Office. Compost vegetable and fruit waste.
- Save leftover ice and ice water. Allow to reach room temperature and use it to water house plants and garden areas.

Challengers Homemaker Club

Submitted by Sarah Ford

Members of the Challengers Homemakers Club met June 9 at the Church of Christ Fellowship Hall for their last regular meeting before summer break. Members have been busy the past three months with extensive activities and community service projects.

We were very pleased to welcome five new members to the club this year – Debbie Hendrix, Emily Hendrix, Sarah Ann Mast, Betty Little and Joanne Winn.

Decorations, balloons, delicious refreshments and a birthday cake greeted the members and guest at the April 12 meeting. Micki Crider and Francis Turley were the hosts.

They held the meeting at the Marion United Methodist Church basement and the theme was a birthday party, where gifts were exchanged.

In the April business meeting, a report was given on the chair back covers for a kindergarten class at Crittenden County Elementary School.

This is the third classroom that the Challengers have helped make the covers to be used by students to hold books and school supplies. The club also donated a book to each student.

For the May 12 meeting, members met at the Church of Christ Fellowship Hall and made fabric book and glasses holders for hospital and nursing home patients for our community service project.

Our June project, spearheaded by Donna Bryer, was colorful red, white and blue tray favors to be used for patient trays at the hospital on July 4.

Club members voted to make contributions to Project Graduation and 4-H camp scholarships.

Our lessons cover a variety of subjects and are interesting and informative. In April, lesson leaders Melissa Tabor and Micki Crider shared information about the many Kentucky State Parks and shared recipes from the different parks.

In May, leader Michele Fowler taught the lesson on kitchen spices. Members were able to taste and smell the many spices she displayed and learn how to use them. At our June meeting, club members learned how and why we have UK Extension Homemakers clubs.

The first Kentucky Extension homemakers clubs were called home demonstration clubs and were organized in 1924. In 1974, the name was changed to Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association, Inc. Crittenden County Homemakers have been very fortunate to have our present agent, Nancy Hunt, since 1984.

Club officers for 2010-11 were installed at the June meeting by County President Micki Crider, who was assisted by Brandi Potter, the incoming county president for 201-11. The officers are Barbara Vaughn, president; Melissa Tabor, vice president; Joanne Winn, secretary; and Sarah Ford, treasurer.

Members of the Challengers will travel to Cadiz on Aug. 23 for their summer outing. The county annual meeting will be at 3:30 p.m., Aug. 26.

The couple will be married at 4 p.m., July 10 at Heartland Worship Center in Paducah. Reception is by invitation only.

Hamby is the daughter of Laverne Hackney of Marion and the late Robert Hackney.

She has a daughter and son-in-law, Miranda and Bradley Kimberlin, of Smithland.

Abell is the son of Benny and Martha Dalrymple of Morganfield and the late Henry Abell. He has two daughters, Kaycee Powell of Illinois and Tammy Bond of Paducah and the late Patty Farmer of Paducah.

The couple honeymooned in Pigeon Forge, Tenn. They reside in Marion.

There are not enough words to express our heartfelt gratitude for the outpouring of love and support during the illness and passing of my mom and our "Graney," Margaret Ray. It has been a difficult year, but you have made it more bearable.

To each and every one of you who sent a card or food, flowers or prayers, made phone calls, visited, sent a Facebook message or kept my kids, please know that it was and is appreciated. It blessed Mom's heart and mine, to know that you were thinking of us. You all have made a difference and I pray you will be blessed for it.

Much love,
Beverly, Ryan & Peyton Guess

Heat hinders Salem Garden Tour

Submitted By Janet Hughes
It's time to have some fun. That's how the Salem Garden Club feels. After months of working on Salem's Bicentennial Celebration, we are ready for a good time.
Fun started with our June meeting. Our special guest was Jim Mullen, vice president of the Garden Club of Kentucky.
He presented the club with a bluebird house and encouraged us to start a bluebird trail and register it as part of the "Trans-Kentucky Bluebird Trail (TKBT)" project.

He praised all the club's activities and was amazed at its accomplishments since starting in September 2007.
After the meeting, Mullen and others went to Shannon Riley's house to view her garden.
Mullen and Riley are friends from the master gardeners in Paducah, and he raved at the beautiful landscape.
Members were excited to hear the memory bricks would be installed at the courtyard in July. After that, the final details of the pavilion will be completed and the goal is to have plantings installed in the lower garden area in September.

"The June garden tour was hot, hot, hot, which hindered many from attending, but it was stated to be the best tour ever. Thanks to all the homeowners who worked so hard," said Janet Hughes, club member.
The club will not have its regular scheduled meeting in July due to a planned visit to Adsmore in Princeton on July 24.

Mayor Gayle Cherry, who is a club supporter, has invited us to visit Princeton.
Our Aug. 9 meeting will be held in the Slocum area near Lola. The club is going to see the Defew's wildflowers. The carpool will leave at 5:45 p.m., from Salem Baptist Church.
Plans are underway for the 3rd Annual Fall Jamboree scheduled for Sept. 18. If you are interested in being a vendor, contact Janet Hughes at janet.hughes@mchsi.com or call 988-3835.

Many county post offices came and went in 19th Century

The history of our post offices continues this week with the beginning of the early post offices that were established in the time before Crittenden became a county.

Several of the post offices were listed under different names at different periods. Sometimes a site was changed because of road change or to a new store, or moved to a growing settlement located nearby. Several existed for only a few years and were discontinued.

Post offices were established in what was then Livingston County as early as 1830. The following list is from the Post Office Department in Washington, D.C.

The earliest recorded post office is Camp Creek, which was established on Jan. 13, 1830, with Joab Truitt as postmaster. Other postmasters were Otho Nunn, Daniel A. Flannary, Robert L. Moore. Camp Creek was discontinued in July 1862.

Other early post offices include name, date established and date discontinued, if known, were:

Lamb's 1833, name later changed to Willow Grove, was discontinued 1850; Cross Keys 1836-1843; Walker's 1838-1859; Oxford 1843, named changed to Marion 1846, still in use; Bell's Mines 1843-1872; White Sulphur Springs 1848, name changed to Columbian Mines, changed again in 1852 to Crittenden Springs, discontinued 1892; Dycusburgh 1848, name changed to Dycusburg in 1894, still in use; Cookseyville 1849-1851; Ford's Ferry 1852, discontinued May 31, 1947, mail sent to Marion; Shady Grove 1852-discontinued date unknown; Westonsburg 1859, named changed to Weston in 1877, discontinued 1916; Hurricane 1857, name changed to Tolu 1890, still in use; Piney Fork 1867-1869; Iron Hill 1873, named changed to Deanwood in 1914, discontinued 1917; Crowell 1880-1886; Pony 1880-1883; Levias 1881-1908; Lamb 1882, named changed to Stone 1886, discontinued 1889; Tradewater 1886-1911; Frances, 1886-1908; View 1886-1908; Piney 1886-1918; Repton 1887-discontinued date unknown; Harold 1887-1895, mail sent to Kelsey; Crayneville 1888, name changed to Crayne 1907, still in use; Sheridan 1888-discontinued in April 1906, but re-established again in June 1906 – discontinued date unknown; Irma 1890-1913; Mattoon 1891-1908; Nunn, 1891-1896; Mounds 1895-1898; Skeltonville 1893-1894; Tribune 1895-discontinued date unknown; Mexico, 1896-discontinued date unknown; Gladstone 1897-1918; Ersas 3/1898-7/1898; Phillips 1898-1900; Rodney 1899-1907; Starr 1900-1906; Hardesty 1900-1913; Casad 1915-1931.

Through the years, interesting facts about the early post offices have been published. I find these interesting and informative to read. Here are some of these interesting tidbits.

Lambs, Lambsville or Willow Grove was a small pioneer town located on Flynn's Ferry Road in the 1830s, and was started by Joel Lamb, who first built a blacksmith shop and a tanyard. It was located near Fishtrap Road and Wilson Farm Road.

Jan. 17, 1895 – A new post office will shortly be established at J.H. Robinson's on the Marion and Fords Ferry route. The name of the office is Mounds, and J.H. Robinson will be the official to stand upon it.

Jan. 17, 1895 - Mounds Post Office was housed in a country store building. The store was the property of Mr. Harloe Robinson. Both the store and the office were operated by Mr. Robinson.

Aug. 17, 1899 – A new post office has been established in Rodney. It is at James Hickland's and Mr. Hickland is the postmaster. The office is supplied Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays from Weston.

March 29, 1900 – Starr is a new post office, situated at Piney Campgrounds, near Stonewall. There are two mails a week, Tuesday and Friday. Carl T. Boucher is the postmaster and is ready to hand out your mail or sell you goods.

The Pony Post Office was established July 19, 1880, by Richard Vanhook, who remained postmaster until John T. Cochran took over Jan. 12, 1881. Pony was discontinued Dec. 14, 1884. Its mail service was assumed by Levias. Going by the usual procedure of post offices in the county, the post office was conducted in a corner of Richard Vanhook's general store somewhere near Midway.

Kirksville-Hurricane-Tolu – The post office department reveals that the post office in Tolu was first established as Hurricane Aug. 23, 1857. It was changed to Tolu Feb. 3, 1890. The post office of Hurricane was in a boat at the river, when the town was named Tolu the office was moved from the river to town.

The Weston Post Office was originally established as Westonsburg on Feb. 22, 1859. The post office name was changed to Weston on Oct. 24, 1877.

Rose E. Sturgeon was appointed as the last postmaster on Feb. 11, 1916 and served until the post office was discontinued on July 31, 1916.

In the early period of post offices before the mail was delivered by a carrier, the mail had to be picked up at the designated post office location. In The Press, at the first of each month, an ad would be placed, most usually titled "Letter List," which would read: The following is a list of letters remaining in the post office at Marion, if not taken out in 30 days they will be sent to the dead letter office. A list of names printed for the Marion post office for July 7, 1880 include: Mrs. E.C. Clemens, Sarah Elizabeth Carpenter, Granville Crow, G.W. Eaton, James Ford, Mrs. M.V. Hickson, Robt. Phillips, Miss Annie Patrick, James D. Tetherington, M.L. Thurman Miss Eliza Wallace.

All of the rural post offices, except three, have long since been discontinued with the extension of a thorough system of rural routes, but the territory in which they were located still go by the old names.

The three rural post offices that are still able to serve their communities are Crayne, Dycusburg and Tolu. Although quite different from the post offices of long ago, which had a small corner of a local grocery store and consisted of the wooden fronts with glass windows and the postmaster who had to hand you your mail. Today these post offices have their own building and gone are the wooden boxes, which were replaced with metal boxes, which the owner has a key to open.

These post offices are a welcome addition to the small communities, and besides being convenient for the local residents to use, it's nice to have some of your local history left in your community. The Crayne Post Office is very fortunate to still have its original wooden post office boxes on display in their lobby.

The Crayne and Dycusburg post offices have eight-hour days with a 24-hour lobby, the Tolu post office is open 10 a.m.-2:30 p.m., Monday through Friday and 10 a.m.-noon on Saturdays. Postmaster at Crayne is Rose Ann Bebout, appointed Feb. 5, 1983, Dycusburg's is Gail Bannister, appointed Aug. 4, 1984 and Tolu's officer-in-charge is Melinda McKinney, appointed April 30, 2008.

In last week's article I accidentally left out the Marion postmaster, who is Barry Chandler and he was appointed July 19, 2008.

This Week in History has moved to page 8 for this issue of The Press.

Two women charged with burglary at rural Crittenden County home

Two women were arraigned in Crittenden District Court last week for allegedly burglarizing a home on Ky. 120 on Monday, June 14.

According to court records, Cheryl A. White, 44, of Morganfield and Dorothy A. Powell, 52, of Marion unlawfully entered a home at 3762 Ky. 120 and stole numerous items inside.

Both women were scheduled for a preliminary hearing Wednesday.

The police report says that the homeowner's boyfriend came up while a red 1994 GMC pickup was in the driveway. According to court records, the boyfriend, Brian Bederske, told Kentucky State Trooper Matt Foster that he saw one of the women on the front porch of the home in the Tribune community with items allegedly taken from inside the house and another standing beside the red pickup.

One of the women asked if the home was for sale or rent and he told them no. They both got into the pickup and left and Bederske wrote down

A farm tractor belonging to Herman McMain slipped off the edge of a pond levee while he was bush hogging Monday afternoon about 5 p.m., at a farm off Bridwell Loop. Tabor's Towing and Repair was called to pull the tractor from the edge of the pond. No one was injured.

Meth case sent to August grand jury

A Crittenden County man's case was bound over to the August session of the grand jury following a preliminary hearing last week in Crittenden District Court.

Judge Kenton Watson found probable cause existed to send the complaint against Jason F. Rushing to a higher court. Rushing is charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, first offense; and first-degree possession of a controlled substance (methamphetamine), first offense.

According to testimony by Trooper Chris King, he was summoned last month to a residence on Axle Creek Road near Frances in regard to domestic dispute. Once there, he found Rushing in the driveway and his wife on the porch. According to the trooper's sworn statement, Rushing told him that he and his wife had smoked meth from a pipe hours earlier. He told the officer that the pipe was in the house and where it could be found. King found it in a clothes hamper in the bathroom.

A motion to reduce Rushing's $5,000 cash bond was denied by the judge.

City releases activity log for Month of May

The City of Marion released its activities log for May during the recent council meeting.

The log includes emergency dispatches made during the month. In May, Crittenden County Fire and Rescue was called out on three emergencies, Caldwell Springs Fire Department was summoned twice, Mattoon Fire Department once, Marion Fire Department three times and First Responders twice. There were 91 E-911 calls, and EMS was dispatched 63 times. There were four burglaries, nine thefts and 10 reports of domestic violence. Four people were charged with DUI.

The city reported its fuel usage as follows: administrator $299.75, police $886.07, street department $561, water plant $382.62, maintenance $716.78, sewer plant $68.00, sewer maintenance $405.27 and maintenance director $584.29.

Marion Main Street has new exercise scavenger hunt plan

Marion Main Street is kicking off a new program through Kentucky Heritage Council that will encourage sight-seeing for the health of it.

The idea is based around a sight-seeing scavenger hunt, said Marion Main Street Director Susan Alexander. It will involve photographs of buildings or attractions, a Google map and clues where to find the particular spot.

The key is that tourists or townspeople are encouraged to get out and walk around downtown to find these scavenger hunt locations, Alexander said. It will promote good health and the town.

All Main Street organizations in the state are encouraged to participate in the program. Anyone interested can find the clues and photos of the places they will be searching for online at the Kentucky Heritage Council Web site.

Beacons at 60 in Union

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has activated dual advance warning beacons for eastbound traffic on the U.S. 60 Morganfield Bypass in Union County. The beacons are designed to alert motorists that they are approaching the east end of the bypass where it meets U.S. 60 at a T intersection.

According to KYTC Highway Engineers, there have been a number of crashes at the intersection caused by eastbound vehicles on the U.S. 60 Bypass failing to stop before entering the main line of the highway.

There was already a flashing beacon at the intersection, along with a stop bar facing oncoming eastbound traffic on the Morganfield bypass.

CDC survey finds that 1 in 5 students use script drugs

STAFF REPORT

One in five high school students say they have taken a prescription drug without a doctor's prescription, according to the 2009 National Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS) released last month by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. This is the first year the survey assessed prescription drug abuse among high school students.

The YRBS has been conducted every other year since 1991. Brandi Rogers, co-chairperson of the Crittenden County Coalition for a Drug-Free Community, said the statistics are alarming.

She said it proves the worthiness of a local drug program aimed at ridding medicine cabinets of outdated or unwanted prescription drugs.

The coalition is sponsoring the collection, along with local law enforcement agencies. Pills can be dropped off at the Crittenden County Sheriff's Department during normal business hours Monday through Friday or at the Marion Police Department weekdays between the hours of 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The teen survey asked if they'd ever taken a prescription drug such as OxyContin, Percocet, Vicodin, Adderall, Ritalin or Xanax, without a doctor's prescription. Prescription drug abuse was most common among white students (23 percent), followed by Hispanic students (17 percent) and then black students (12 percent). Prescription drug abuse was most common among 12th grade students (26 percent) and lowest among ninth grade students (15 percent). There was no difference in prescription drug abuse by gender (20 percent for both male and female students).

"We are concerned to learn that so many high school students are taking prescription drugs that were not prescribed to them," said Rogers said. "Some people may falsely believe that prescription drugs are safer than illegal drugs, yet their misuse can cause serious adverse health effects, including addiction and death."

The survey found that about 72 percent of high school students have used alcohol, about 37 percent have used marijuana, 6.7 percent have used ecstasy 6.4 percent have used cocaine and 4.1 percent have used methamphetamine.

Further analysis of National YRBS data showed

A program to eliminate the county of outdated or unwanted prescription drugs continues. The Crittenden County Coalition for a Drug-Free Community is sponsoring the collection, along with local law enforcement agencies. Pills can be dropped off at the Crittenden County Sheriff's Department during normal business hours Monday through Friday or at the Marion Police Department weekdays between the hours of 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

encouraging trends in nutrition-related behaviors in recent years:

- A decrease in the percentage of students who drank soda at least once per day (34 percent in 2007; 29 percent in 2009).

- An increase in the percentage of students who ate fruit or drank 100 percent fruit juice two or more times per day (30 percent in 2005; 34 percent in 2009).

- Decreases in the percentages of students who engaged in the following unhealthy behaviors to lose or keep from gaining weight: not eating for 24 or more hours (13 percent in 2001; 11 percent in 2009); taking diet pills, powders, or liquids (9 percent in 2001; 5 percent in 2009); and vomiting or taking laxatives (6 percent in 2003; 4 percent in 2009).

The 2009 National YRBS results also show that many high school students engage in other risky behaviors, which are harmful to their overall health and increase their risk of disease and injury. For example, during the seven days before the survey, 78 percent of high school students had not eaten fruits and vegetables five or more times per day, and 82 percent were not physically active for at least 60 minutes daily. Also, during the 30 days before the survey, 19 percent of high school students smoked cigarettes, 28 percent rode in a car or other vehicle driven by someone who had been drinking alcohol, and 39 percent of currently sexually active students reported that they did not use a condom the last time they had sexual intercourse. This information is similar to the 2007 YRBS findings.

More than 16,000 U.S. high school students participated in the 2009 National YRBS.

The senior center is funded partially through the Pennyrile Allied Community Services. Beginning this month, there is a federal mandate that all program beneficiaries be involved in regular exercise.

"I'm excited. I have had this thought for a long time, but didn't figure it would ever go anywhere," said Manley about plans to build a huge pavilion on the back lawn. "I said something to Ron and he ran with the idea. It's going to be more than I ever imagined."

Raising money to pay for the proposed pavilion and walking trail is the first step, Padgett said. He was at the Marion City Council meeting last week asking for the senior center's normal $1,200 contribution from the city. With that money, hopefully a state grant and cash the seniors will raise through fish fries and barbecues, Padgett figures on doing work as the money is raised.

"We'll pour the concrete first when we have enough money."

Fundraising events will be held monthly starting today (Thursday). There will be a fish fry each first Monday of the month through the end of summer. After that, Padgett figures barbecue might be sold to continue the fundraising efforts.

"The project will cost $15,000 to $20,000," Padgett said. "We will also be accepting donations."

Monthly fundraising dinners will include fish, baked beans, white beans, slaw, dessert, drinks and live music. Cost is just $5 which is an inexpensive meal, and the project will keep the profits.

"The property wasn't being used for anything else," Padgett said. "We figure that we can rent the pavilion to other groups in the community, too."

The walking trail will be cut around the perimeter of the property. It will be gravel first with plans to pave it when funds are available.

The senior center expanded almost three years ago, adding a recreational room which has been very popular, especially the two pool tables, Manley said.

The center serves noon meals which attract anywhere from 25 to 40 seniors and the Meals on Wheels program delivers to about 60 seniors. Manley hopes the pavilion and walking trail will increase participation in senior center activities.

Fredonia heritage group has guest speakers

The Fredonia Valley Heritage Society will meet at 7 p.m., Thursday (tonight) at the Wilson-Blair One Room School on Grove Street in Fredonia. Following the business meeting, Linda Ward and Jane VanHooser from the Glenn Martin Genealogy Center of the George Coon Library will present a program about the Genealogy Center and what can be found there and how it can be used in your search for historical information of all types, including family history.

The organization is in the final stages of putting together information to publish a book about the history of the Fredonia Valley. It is anticipated that the book will go to the publisher soon and be ready for delivery late this summer. The Fredonia Valley includes parts of Caldwell, Crittenden and Lyon counties. Books are being pre-sold. Call 545-3215 to place an order.

The Fredonia Valley Heritage Society is for anyone interested in learning more about the heritage and history of the Fredonia Valley and for those who want to see the history of the community preserved for future generations. First modern bear attack recorded in eastern KY

ASSOCIATED PRESS

A hiker who was attacked by a black bear in eastern Kentucky said he was about to stab the animal in the eye with his pocket knife when another hiker threw a day pack at the bear and distracted it.

"The bear had a really good chunk of my leg in his mouth and was shaking me," Tim Scott told The Associated Press on Monday, after receiving 50-60 stitches and being released from a hospital.

"He was trying to subdue me, and he was focused on nothing but doing that."

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources says the incident Sunday was the first modern recorded bear attack on a person in the state.

Wildlife Division Director Karen Waldrop said the agency's policy is to kill any bear that behaves aggressively toward humans, and officials have closed the popular scenic area inside the Daniel Boone National Forest and set traps to try to capture the animal.

Scott, 56, of Springfield, was hiking in the Red River Gorge Geological Area ahead of his wife and son on Sunday when he spotted the bear about 25 feet away. He said it appeared to be about 150 pounds and he took a few photos with his cell phone until the bear disappeared under a ledge. Scott said he was about to call his wife to tell her to take another trail when the bear reappeared.

Scott said he yelled and dropped his belt bag hoping to distract the animal. But the bear sniffed it and continued approaching Scott, who grabbed a rotted branch.

Alone, Scott hit the bear with the flimsy branch, but the animal kept coming.

Eventually, the bear "lunged forward and grabbed me a bit but let go."

Scott tried to move behind a tree for protection a couple of times, but he said the bear grabbed him by the leg and threw him into the woods. Then, it sank its teeth into his thigh and shook him.

Scott said he tried to think of ways to fight the bear off, reaching into his pocket and finding his 3-inch pocket knife.

He was preparing to stab the bear in the eye, not sure what the animal's reaction might be, when a group of hikers who heard the commotion arrived.

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

The water supply for The City of Marion's water system comes from two sources, Marion City Lake and Lake George. Both of these sources are surface water sources. A source water assessment plan has been developed for our water system by the Pennyriple Area Development District. An analysis of the overall susceptibility to contamination of Marion's water supply indicates that potential impacts range from low to high. Sources of high to medium potential impact include bridges and culverts within the critical zone, because of the potential for a chemical spill in the case of an accident. Sources of low to medium potential impact include the potential for runoff contamination due to the use of pesticides and herbicides for agricultural activity within the watershed. This is a basic summary of the susceptibility analysis. The complete report is available at the Pennyriple Area Development District office in Hopkinsville Kentucky.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.

Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/l). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.

Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Spanish (Español) Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre la calidad de su agua beber. Tradúzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

Remember safety first this weekend

Independence Day, or the Fourth of July, is the day we Americans celebrate the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, which on July 4, 1776 declared our country's independence from Great Britain.

For most of us, the federal holiday would not be complete without a parade, picnics, cook-outs, concerts, baseball games or some other public or private activities celebrating the history, government and traditions of this country, along with, of course, firework displays. Many also travel during the holiday.

At home or on the road, the Fourth of July can be a lot of fun packed with some great memories. Do not forget that as your family and friends celebrate, it is always wise to practice fireworks safety.

When handled improperly, fireworks can be responsible for burn and eye injuries. Sadly, in 2006, 11 people died and an estimated 9,200 were treated in emergency rooms for fireworks-related injuries in the United States, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC). The CDC also reports that an estimated 5 percent of fireworks-related injuries treated in emergency rooms required hospitalization. The best way to protect your family – and to not become a statistic – is not to use fireworks at home, opting instead to attend public firework displays operated by professionals.

If you still plan to use fireworks at home, use some caution and common sense, along with following a few safety tips recommended by such organizations as the National Council on Firework Safety to make the celebration safer for everyone:

Never allow children to play with fireworks. Firecrackers, bottle rockets and sparklers are just plain dangerous. If children use sparklers, keep them outside and watch that they keep the sparklers away from their face, clothing and hair. Sparklers can reach 1,800° Fahrenheit. Imagine the harm that much heat could cause to a child.

Buy only legal fireworks, which are labeled with the manufacturer's name and directions. Illegal fireworks are unlabeled and have names such as M-80, M-100, blockbuster, or quarter pounder. These illegal fireworks have been banned since 1966, but, unfortunately, they still account for many fireworks injuries.

Never try to make your own fireworks. Always use fireworks outside and have a bucket of water and a hose nearby in case of accidents.

Be aware that fireworks can backfire or shoot off in the wrong direction. Never throw or point fireworks at another person or an animal.

Do not hold fireworks in your hand or have any part of your body over them while lighting. Wear some sort of eye protection, and avoid carrying fireworks in your pocket – the friction could set them off.

Point fireworks away from homes, and keep them away from brush and leaves and flammable substances. The National Fire Protection Association estimates that local fire departments respond to more 50,000 fires caused by fireworks each year.

Dawson Springs: After the Marion Bobcats/Tradewater Pirates baseball game, fireworks show will take place around 9:30 p.m., July 2 at Riverside Park in Dawson Springs. The cost is $5 per car load. No extra charge for those attending the ball game.

Marion: Deer Creek Baptist Church is having a fireworks display at 9 p.m., Sunday at the church located on Hwy. 297.

Light one firework at a time (not in glass or metal containers).

Never attempt to relight a dud.

Do not allow children to pick up pieces of fireworks after an event. There is the danger that some may still be ignited and may explode at any time.

Soak fireworks in a bucket of water before throwing them in the trash can.

Animals have sensitive ears and can be extremely frightened or stressed on the Fourth of July. Keep pets indoors to reduce the risk that they will run loose or get injured.

If a child is injured by fireworks, you should take him or her to the doctor or hospital immediately. If an eye injury occurs, do not allow your child to touch or rub it, as this may cause even more damage. Also, do not flush the eye out with water or attempt to put any ointment on it. Instead, cut out the bottom of a paper cup, place it around the eye, and immediately seek medical attention – your child's eyesight may depend on it. In the event of a burn, remove clothing from the burned area and run cool – not cold – water over the burn (do not use ice). Call your doctor immediately.

Fireworks are meant to be enjoyed, but you will take much more pleasure in them by knowing your family and friends are safe. Take extra precautions this Fourth of July and your holiday will be a blast!

Hope you and your family have a safe and happy Fourth of July.

Pathway Academy sees 4 more students graduate

STAFF REPORT

Four more students have graduated from Pathway Academy.

Shelby Gernigin, Tracy Holeman, Kendra Jones and Jacob Ramage have joined the diploma holders of Crittenden County.

In front of family and other supporters, the graduates listened as Chris Cook, Crittenden County School board chairman; Vince Clark, supervisor of instruction; and Tammy Duvall, Pathway Academy teacher, delivered remarks of inspiration and sentiments of proudness in the students' accomplishments before they received their diplomas from Superintendent Dr. Rachel Yarbrough.

Superintendent Dr. Rachel Yarbrough and Pathway Academy teacher Tammy Duvall stand with three of the four summer 2010 Pathway Academy graduates, Shelby Gernigin, Kendra Jones and Tracy Holeman. Not pictured was Jacob Wayne Ramage. This is the fourth graduating class of Pathway Academy, which is a program set up for high school dropouts to get their diplomas, rather than GEDs.

This quartet marks the fourth group of graduates to complete the requirements of Pathway Academy.

KSP targeting inattentive and reckless driving

Kentucky State Police are currently in the midst of a concentrated enforcement effort which targets inattentive and reckless driving on Kentucky Highways. This concerted effort is known as Operation KSP (Kentucky Summer Prevention plan).

From now through Sept. 6, Troopers all across the Commonwealth have been directed to be highly vigilant in detecting driving habits which have shown a history of causing serious injury and deadly collisions. This enforcement effort began on June 1.

Last year, a total of 226 lives were lost on Kentucky roadways during the period of June 1 – Sept. 6. This number is even more staggering when discovered that the majority of the deaths could have been prevented by practicing safer driving habits.

Simple practices such as having plenty of rest prior to traveling can result in a safer trip for motorists. Also, limiting driving distractions like cell phone use can greatly reduce the possibility of a collision for the traveling public.

In an effort to reduce injury and fatal collisions this summer, Troopers all over Kentucky will conduct over 1,000 safety checkpoints. These traffic safety checkpoints will assist Troopers in detecting unsafe driving habits as well as impaired drivers. All vehicle occupants traveling on Kentucky Highways are reminded that Kentucky has a primary seatbelt law which requires everyone in a vehicle to be restrained by a seatbelt, child safety restraint or child booster seat.

Troopers will also conduct saturated patrols in high crash areas observing for speeding violators.

Inattentive and careless driving is the number one cause of vehicle crashes in Kentucky. The responsibility lies with all licensed drivers to see that they practice safe driving habits which in turn make Kentucky highways a safe place to travel.
