Locals among deploying 149th

Several local men, under the command of a Crittenden County native, are among the 1,300 soldiers deploying to Iraq this week as part of Kentucky Army National Guard's 149th Maneuver Enhancement Brigade. It will be the largest single deployment of Kentucky guardsmen since World War II.

Col. Scott Campbell and the soldiers of the 149th have spent the summer training at Camp Atterbury, Ind., but left for Iraq earlier this week. They will be part of the historic Operation New Dawn, in charge of security and decommissioning bases as the war winds down.

The 149th is comprised of units based in 10 communities across the commonwealth. Read more on the deployment in next week's Press.

U.S. 60 closed in city Tuesday

Tuesday will see the closing of West Gum Street (U.S. 60 West) between Blackburn and Yandell streets in Marion beginning at 6 a.m. The closure will be preceded by prep work on Friday and Monday along the same stretch and will require lane restrictions.

This planned closure, just east of Crittenden County High School and Crittenden Hospital, is to allow a cross drain replacement and improvements to the Yandell Street intersection with Gum Street. The work is expected to be completed by 3 p.m., Tuesday.

During prep work and construction, motorists may take a self-detour via Ky. 91 to Ky. 981 (Old Salem Road).

Soldier's 1986 death recalled

Twenty-five years ago Friday, Spec. 4 Donnie Paul McKinney, 20, was laid to rest in Marion after being killed by a freak lightning strike while training at Fort Campbell, Ky., as a member of Marion's National Guard armory. Ten other men with the unit, including three from Fredonia and four from Crittenden County, were also injured in the accident as the soldiers awaited their evening meal under a tree when a thunderstorm suddenly approached.

Stout selected for federal bench

STAFF REPORT

Marion attorney Alan Stout has been selected as a U.S. Bankruptcy judge for the Western District of Kentucky to fill a vacancy being created by the retirement of Judge David Stosberg.

A former five-term Crittenden County Attorney, Stout has been in private practice in Marion since 1981. He also has a legacy of civic and community involvement.

Over the next three months, Stout will phase out his private practice in Marion. Over that time he will wrap up obligations to clients and pending legal matters. Stout said some of his practice will be absorbed by the firm of Stout, Farmer and King, which is located in Paducah; however, he will no longer be affiliated with the firm.

Once sworn to the federal judgeship – sometime before the end of the year – his term on the bench will be for 14 years.

Stout says he will maintain a residence in Marion and Louisville while on the bench. The Western District is headquartered in Louisville and Stout anticipates overseeing dockets in Owensboro and Louisville. There are other satellite courts in Bowling Green and Paducah.

There were 17 applicants for the Freshmen greeted by Transition

By JENNA HAUGEN

PRESS REPORTER

As last year's eighth graders walk through the doors of Crittenden County High School they will be greeted by a new Freshman Transition Program.

"There has been so much research which shows that high performing high schools have strong transition programs," Principal Rhonda Callaway said.

One of the most daunting challenges facing educators today is to prepare students for success beyond the classroom. Of grave concern at CCHS is a steadily growing dropout rate.

"We have seen increased tardiness and absenteeism in the incoming freshmen classes. We have implemented a new program so that we can hold students more accountable for their attendance," Callaway said.

According to a report by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, students fail ninth grade more than any other grade level. However, the same research indicates students who participate in transition programs that actively involve students, parents, and staff members are less likely to drop out of high school.

The biggest change to accommodate the program is to start every freshman's day in the high school's annex where a core group of teachers will monitor student success.

"We want to avoid some of the pitfalls that freshmen often experience when they enter high school. There is the social aspect where students sometimes take advantage of the freedom that they have been given," said Callaway of students' transition from middle to high school.

Six high school teachers—Denis Hodge, Shannon Hodge, Ken Gary, Jody Porter, Nathan McDowell and Rob Towery—will have a common planning period so they can discuss any concerns they have about students' progress and brainstorm ideas for improvement.

Common planning will also allow teachers to have more open lines of communication with parents. "We want to get parents involved right off the bat in their child's education," Callaway said.

"This is a really great group of natural men-

Family Practice adds 2nd Maddux to medical staff

BY JERRIT HOVEY-BROWN

PRESS REPORTER

For as long as he can remember, Jonathan Maddux has wanted to be a doctor.

Now, after 11 years of school and residencies, his dream has been fulfilled. Dr. Maddux joined the staff at the Family Practice Clinic on Tuesday as a family practitioner alongside his uncle, Dr. Greg Maddux.

"It's nerve-racking but exciting," Maddux said. "I'm excited to finally put to use everything I've learned during medical school and finally do what I've always wanted to do."

Maddux says that his interest in the medical field was sparked after visiting his uncle at the clinic when he was a young boy.

"I remember going to the clinic and getting to see how things were done," Maddux said. "It was exciting and I knew that this was something I wanted to do. My father has always told people that even at five years old, I knew I wanted to be a doctor."

A Salem native, Maddux attended Murray State University after graduating from Livingston Central High School. After earning a bachelor's degree in biology, he attended medical school at the University of Louisville for four years, followed by a three-year residency at the University of Alabama.

Maddux

"It takes 11 years from the time you graduate high school to finish your residency to become a doctor," Maddux said. "It takes a lot of dedication and hard work to really stick with it and it can be overwhelming at times."

Even with Maddux's dream of becoming a doctor within sight during the first semester of medical school, it didn't prevent him from having a momentary fleeting thought amid a rigorous week of testing.

"I remember seeing fountains outside and thinking to myself, I could do that. I could install fountains for a living," Maddux joked. "Of course that thought only lasted a minute, but it did cross my mind. I think that with all the hard work that is involved, as well as studying for a week straight, can really test a person's determination."

Despite that moment of doubt, Maddux went on to win a pediatrics award his last year of residency and was named one of three chief residents. Maddux now looks forward to working alongside his uncle as well as Dr. Gary James and others at the local clinic.

"It's a blessing to have progressed with my dream," Maddux said. "It's something that I've always wanted to do and now I can. I'm blessed to be working with experienced practitioners, and I know that if I ever need help, they're the ones I can turn to."

Residing in Crittenden County with his wife, Crista, Maddux is now accepting patients at the Family Practice Clinic.

Have you ever wondered how people who are against Christianity, the free enterprise system and the capitalist form of government are called "The Left" and those who are for Christianity, against atheism, communism and forced taking from one to give to another are called "The Right?"

Let me give you the origin of these titles. Ecclesiastes 10:2 in the Old Testament says, "A wise man's heart is at his right hand; but a fool's heart at his left."

In the New Testament when Jesus was talking about the final Judgment of God on all mankind, He stated in Matthew 25:31-46, "When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory; And before him shall be gathered all nations; and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divides his sheep from the goats. And he shall set the sheep on his right hand and the goats on the left. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, you blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for me from the foundation of the world... Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, you cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels."

So when I'm accused of being one of "The Right" or "Far Right," I say thank you for confirming it.

If a person wants to be informed on what is happening in our beloved country and who the instigators are, they need to read The Humanist Manifesto 2. This is the religion taught in our government schools, subliminally or consciously, and supported by our last several years' and present national government. The following are their 17 points of light abbreviated for space consideration. It was signed by 261 proud atheists who have never amounted to anything bigger than their no-God religion, in contrast to the 270 proud Christian founders who wrote the four famous documents establishing this great nation to become the envy of the world.

Here is the list:

1. Reject traditional religious beliefs in God.

2. Reject illusory and harmful promises of salvation or fear of eternal damnation.

3. Individuals are to determine what is right and wrong.

4. Reason and intelligence will guide man to a better world.

5. Individual freedom without moral restraints.

6. Recognize the right to birth control, abortion and divorce and varieties of sexual exploration should not in themselves be considered evil.

7. Support die-with-dignity euthanasia and the right to suicide.

8. Advocate government control instead of republican form of government.

9. Separation of church and state. (This was designed to stop prayer in schools.)

10. Promote socialism.

11. Eliminate discrimination based on race, religion, sex, age or national origin and the right of universal education. Oppose any distinction between male and female in society.

12. Support the ending of national sovereignty and advocate a world community.

13. A world government which includes an international court.

14. Population control.

15. Propose foreign aid and birth control for developing nations.

16. Oppose any moves to censor basic scientific research on moral, political or social grounds. (Support embryonic cell research: Start a baby then kill it for science).

17. Call for international cooperation in culture, science, the arts and technology across ideological borders.

Most of the concepts that are advocated in Humanist Manifestos 1 and 2 are for one-world government, communism, the loss of freedoms we've known for decades and deviant lifestyles. Their plan to implement socialism, create a world government and undermine the Judeo-Christian beliefs of our nation are well on their way to completion. No wonder President Obama made the statement, "I am a citizen of the World Community," in a speech in Berlin in 2008.

Do we pray for a national Christian revival, repentance and the true Gospel preached and followed? We should do that instead of believing the feel-good, watered-down cheap-grace, all-about-God-loving-us-and-therefore-permissive-toward-our-sins talk. What about loving God with all our heart, soul, mind and strength and our neighbor as our self? Do we rush on pell-mell into the wrath of God even before the judgment?

If America isn't turned around soon from this deceptive destroy America plan by Satan and his many cohorts in the high echelons of our government, we will know a lot of hell on earth before the pits are reached.

How horrible that atheists are calling the shots in America, a country founded by Christian men who put their lives, honors and wealth on the line. Thousands are still doing it in hellish, hot parts of the world where people are taught to kill a Jew or Christian, and he who does will be on the front rows of Heaven with 72 virgins at their sexually-crazed, warped and brain-washed minds.

We know that not only did love prompt God to tell us to pray also for our enemies, but like every other law, He laid down for us, it was also for our own survival.

Rev. Tedrick is a Marion minister. She shares her views weekly in this newspaper. Her opinions are her own, and are not necessarily those of the newspaper.

Mowing has roots deep in American culture

Did you know that mowing your yard is a fairly new concept? If you are 50 or older, like me, chances are your grandparents' yard was a dirt area trampled down by children at play while your great-grandparents depended on the goats, sheep and chickens to mow their grass.

Recently, the topic of finding a way around mowing was discussed among our friends.

"When I was a kid, we played marbles on the ground and built tracks in the dirt to run our cars on," my husband said. "Grass wasn't a problem back then."

"We never even thought of mowing our grass," another man said. "With us kids and the chickens and goats, the grass never had a chance to grow."

Since my hip surgery, mowing was out for me, so the job I always enjoyed became one my husband didn't. Of all the chores around our farm, he dreaded mowing the most.

"What bugs me about it so much is that there's no end to it. Just as soon as you finish, it's growing back again," he said.

"But, I like to mow," I added. They looked at me like I was crazy.

Even though we had planted large wildflower plots in our front yard, my husband continued to look for additional ways to eliminate mowing. Whenever he bought Round-Up at the farm store, I got nervous. Surely there was a way to mow less without turning our yard into a desert.

The general consensus of the conversation was that with the invention of television and air-conditioning, children weren't outdoors nearly as much as in previous generations and most animals were now fenced in. Curious, I turned to my computer to look at the issue from all sides. Why and when did we start mowing?

As far back as the Roman Empire, farmers relied on a tool called the long-bladed scythe for mowing hay, cutting weeds, harvesting small grains, and, yes - maintaining lawns. The scythe replaced the sickle, allowing the user to stand rather than stoop. By the 13th century, the tool had made its way across Europe.

Centuries later, vacationers from the United States were smitten by the beautiful short, cultivated grass the Europeans called lawns. However, mowing with a scythe was a time-consuming, difficult job, preformed mainly by hired grounds keepers. Americans began to look for an easier and more affordable way for the average man to maintain his yard.

A practical approach found its way to the White House during President Woodrow Wilson's administration. We can only imagine the shock when he announced that he would graze sheep on the White House lawn. It saved the government thousands of dollars and when the sheep were sheared, the proceeds went to help the war effort. But, then as now, not everybody welcomed the idea of livestock outside their front door.

Englishman engineer Edwin Beard Budding patented the first known reel mower design in 1830. His patent stated that the "country gentlemen may find in using my machine themselves an amusing, useful and healthy exercise." The European idea caught on in America and suburban homeowners began mowing their lawns with the new push mower. It provided an excellent physical workout as well as an elevated social status.

Over the next 20 years, the invention evolved from a cast-iron reel mower to a gas-powered model. It took the same amount of effort to push, but it cut grass evenly and allowed for mowing taller grasses.

Still, many rural Americans scoffed at the idea of mowing their grass. For much of our history, country people had remained preoccupied with more devastating problems like avoiding starvation and disease. Keeping the grass mowed was the least of their worries.

Today, most Americans, rural or urban, use riding lawnmowers to cut large areas of grass. They love their yards and keep them mowed throughout the growing season. In the United States alone, a total of 25 million acres of land is kept mowed. Now, instead of being viewed as a place where the rich live, they are seen as a place where owners take pride in their property.

In spite of the newest innovations in lawn mowers, reel mowers are coming back, especially for small yards. With more emphasis on a cleaner environment, plus rising gas prices, a manual mower offers several advantages. They cost less than gas mowers, are less dangerous than rotary mowers, require little maintenance and are environmentally friendly.

However you choose to mow your yard, it does far more than just look good. Healthy grass helps prevent erosion and nutrient runoff while also filtering the air and producing oxygen. Regular mowings help stave off infectious parasites such as ticks and chiggers, as well as bring in birds and butterflies.

So, as my husband finishes up another installment of mowing and parks his John Deere, I watch him smile at a job well done. Even though we've done everything we can to reduce the amount of time and effort it takes to mow and trim our yard, a sense of pride can't be denied. Whether you love it or hate it, mowing is here to stay.

Dog days are difficult to give up

There is a reason Lassie was not cast as a cat.

No, this isn't another case of cat-bashing or suggesting my pet is better than yours. Consider it more an ode to man's best friend.

As I've watched a couple of old "friends" age and a new one grow into his own personality, dogs have been on my mind a lot lately. It's a bittersweet feeling really, watching a friend you love fade away while another is there to fill the void age has created. The power a dog can have on man is inexplicable.

It took Dean Koontz, writer of suspense thrillers, 271 pages to ponder that power in "A Big Little Life: A Memoir of a Joyful Dog," a book that is a tribute to a golden retriever who changed his life. And that's what dogs do, change our lives, not just pass through them. No other pet possesses this power. And that's why Lassie was a dog, not a cat, not a parrot, not a fish.

Dogs have been a constant in my life since I was old enough to overcome my fear of them, a fear likely passed on genetically from my maternal grandmother. Dogs were not to be trusted, let alone made members of the family as she saw it. Maybe a dog had bitten her as a child or perhaps they were just too much of a threat to the chickens that passed for pets until their turn at the dinner table.

Nevertheless, the first time I laid eyes on a tiny litter of puppies under a neighbor's porch, I was hooked. They whined, stumbled around and generally smelled funny, like any newborn is prone to. Yet their helplessness and affection were as fascinating to a seven-year-old boy as a discarded appliance box used as a backyard box.

Oh, how I still recall the thrill I felt each day in eagerly rushing over to visit my new friends. That contact seemed more important than air itself. And one of those puppies soon became my first pet. Boomer, as he was dubbed, would be followed by many others - some who, like him, tragically met their ends on a busy highway, others who just disappeared.

None was ever just an animal to me. They were friends, as good as any you could find. They were never too tired to play and never too impatient to listen. They'd follow me to the ends of the earth, make me feel like I always belonged and never, not once, did they ever hurt my feelings.

That's why it hurts, today, to helplessly watch time tick away off the clocks of two aging friends, particularly when the youth and vibrance of another reminds me that a dog's life is not a circle, it's a line with an eventual dead end.

The blistering summer has been hard on Aggie, a leisurely old mutt who's watched over the hillside out here for so many years that she knows just when and where to head as the storm clouds gather. She's been free to roam, romp and laze just as her ancestors would have millions of years ago, yet she sticks close to home and would probably give her waning life to defend it. Her end is not yet here, but time will soon catch her. She's never been one to kick up much of a fuss, so when her time comes, she'll probably just wander off to die in peace.

And Buddy. The summers aren't his favorite time of year either, but it's the winter chill he once reveled in with his thick coat of fur that now saps his vitality. His eyebrows have grayed, his teeth worn and yellowed and his once agile legs grown weak and painful with arthritis, of particular angst on the cold, damp winter days.

It was 12 years ago he joined the family as a young adult, a stray rescued from outside this very office with a leg wound so severe he was forced to hobble around on his three others - and quite well, I might add - his first summer. He's never stayed with me, as I've been a bit of a vagabond over those years, but he's never been missed on a visit home. He once had acres to explore and children's toys to sneak home after a visit around the neighborhood.

He lives in town now, where he doesn't enjoy the vast expanses he once had.

But his age and distrust for just about anyone not feeding him are well suited for the confines and restrictions of his new city life. He has been moody, devilish and downright stubborn at times, but when I look into his eyes, I see only the warmth and comfort he has given for nearly a third of my existence.

There will soon come a day when the toughest decision anyone should ever have to make will come. I only hope that when we look into one another's eyes for the final time Buddy will understand all that he gave and be comforted by knowing his simple life made life better in such a complex world.

Although I know he, too, will one day slow and reach his end, Jax - still with the energy of a puppy - will continue to keep things right in the world. And what more could a person ask than for the unfaltering loyalty of a friend who has the power to change a life.

Museum to feature life along the Ohio

As so many were reminded by last spring's epic flooding, the story of the Ohio River is one of give and take. People have lived, died, labored and played on the river's banks since man first came to Kentucky.

For the next few weeks,

Crittenden County Historical Museum will feature "Life Along the River: An Ohio River Portrait." On loan from the Kentucky Historical Society, the exhibit of nine panels chronicling life on the Ohio shares the history and folklife Kentuckians have preserved for more than two centuries.

The exhibit is free, and the museum is open 10 a.m., to 3 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday at 124 E. Bellville St., Marion.

Five graduate nonsmoking class

The Pennyriple District Health Department sponsored The Cooper/Clayton Method to Stop Smoking class recently. Kelly Dawes, Health Educator with the Pennyriple District Health Department facilitated the program. The class met from 12-1 p.m., weekly at Miss Scarlett's Family Restaurant in Grand Rivers March 8-May 31. The five participants made an important step toward becoming a nonsmoker by attending the classes. They all agreed they were committed to being a nonsmoker when they registered for the class. During the 13 weeks of classes, the Pennyriple District Health Department provided a free lunch and the first six weeks of the nicotine replacement patches for each participant. Five participants completed the program and graduated on May 31 and are now nonsmokers. The Pennyriple District Health Department endorses The Cooper/Clayton Method to Stop Smoking, a program that is not about quitting smoking, but about becoming a nonsmoker. The program is a comprehensive behavioral smoking cessation program that utilizes nicotine reduction and replacement products such as: nicotine gum, nicotine lozenges, or nicotine patches. The goal of the Cooper/Clayton Method is for you to become a successful nonsmoker, permanently. For more information on Cooper/Clayton Method to Stop Smoking classes, contact any of the following health departments: Caldwell County Health Department at 365-6571; Crittenden County Health Department at 965-5215; Livingston County Health Department at 928-2193; Lyon County Health Department at 388-9763 and Trigg County Health Department at 522-8121 ext. 212.

Utley named as new postmaster

Troy Utley received a hectic welcome to the Marion Post Office as he took on the role of postmaster. With one carrier out from the heat, he stepped up and delivered mail around Marion.

Utley

Utley started as a mail carrier in Hickman County 18 years ago. He has worked all over the western part of the state including stints in Tiline, Fulton, Murray, Smithland and Benton being both a mail carrier and clerk. Utley replaces Barry Chandler who was needed at the Morganfield Post Office. Utley is unsure how long he will be the postmaster in Marion but is looking forward to working with the employees here. "They are really good people to work with," he said. Utley likes the small town atmosphere of Marion. "It is always great to meet new people and see new faces. I like the smaller communities because they are more personable. People around here seem a lot nicer," Utley said.

FRYSC celebrates 20 years of service

STAFF REPORT
Crittenden County Family Resource director and Community Educator Holly White traveled to Murray State University on July 12 to help celebrate the Family Resource Youth Services Centers' (FRYSC) 20 years of service. Local school superintendents, legislators and the director of the division of FRYSC were invited to the program. Funded through the Cabinet for Health and Family Services, FRYSC works to remove or assist with non-academic barriers that students and their families face while attending school each year. Barriers can be as simple as helping a child get eyeglasses, school clothing or sponsoring an academic-based summer camp. Barriers can also be as heart-wrenching as assisting a family in a homeless situation, making a referral to a helping agency or even providing mental health counseling after the death of a family member. There are 79 centers that serve 22 schools districts in western Kentucky. In honor of the centers' years in service, Gov. Steve Beshear proclaimed July 18-22 as Family Resource and Youth Services Week in the commonwealth.

Child Find for Children with Disabilities in Need of Special Education or 504 Services

Child Find
The Crittenden County School District keeps educational records in a secure location in each school and Board office.

The Crittenden County School District obtains written consent from a parent or eligible student (age 18 or who is attending a postsecondary institution), before disclosing personally identifiable information to an entity or individual not authorized to receive it under FERPA.

For students who have been determined eligible for Special Education, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parents when they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. The Crittenden County School District may destroy the educational records of a child without parent request five years after they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may later be needed for Social Security benefits or other purposes. The Crittenden County School District may retain, for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student's name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance records, classes attended, grade level completed, and year completed.

Children eligible for Special Education include those children with disabilities who have autism, deaf-blindness, developmental delay, emotional-behavior disability, hearing impairment, mental disability, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, other health impairment, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, or visual impairment and who because of such an impairment need Special Education services.

Children eligible for 504 services include those children in a public elementary and secondary education program who have a current physical or mental impairment that currently substantially limits some major life activity which causes the student's ability to access the school environment or school activities to be substantially limited.

Children eligible for the State-Funded Preschool program include three- and four-year-old children identified with disabilities and four-year-old children who are at-risk, as defined by federal poverty levels up to 150%. Preschool children eligible for special education must have an Individual Education Plan (IEP) instead of a 504 plan to receive State-Funded Preschool program services.

The Crittenden County School District has an ongoing "Child Find" system, which is designed to locate, identify and evaluate any child residing in a home, facility, or residence within its geographical boundaries, age three (3) to twenty-one (21) years, who may have a disability and be in need of Special Education or 504 services. This includes children who are not in school; those who are in public, private, or home school; those who are highly mobile such as children who are migrant or homeless; and those who are advancing from grade to grade, who may need but are not receiving Special Education or 504 services.

The district's "Child Find" system includes children with disabilities attending private or home schools within the school district boundaries who may need special education services.

The Crittenden County School District will make sure any child enrolled in its district who qualifies for Special Education or 504 services, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided appropriate Special Education or 504 services at no cost to the parents of the child.

Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Crittenden School District find any child who may have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. The District needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child; the name, address, and phone number(s) of the parents or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if Special Education or 504 services are needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways the Crittenden County School District collects the information needed. The information the school District collects will be used to contact the parents of the child and find out if the child needs to be evaluated or referred for Special Education or 504 services.

If you know of a child who attends a public, private or home school within the boundaries of the Crittenden County School District, who may have a disability, and may need but is not receiving Special Education services, please call 270-965-3525 or send the information to:

Karen Nasser, Director of Special Education
Section 504 Coordinator
Crittenden County Schools
601 West Elm Street
Marion, KY 42064

"Child Find" activities will continue throughout the school year. As part of these efforts the Crittenden County School District will use screening information, student records, and basic assessment information it collects on all children in the District to help locate those children who have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. Any information the District collects through "Child Find" is maintained confidentially.

Written Policies and Procedures have been developed which describe the District's requirements regarding the confidentiality of personally identifiable information and "Child Find" activities. There are copies in the Principal's office of each school, and in the Board of Education office.

The District office is open Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4p.m.

The Crittenden School District provides a public notice in the native language or other mode of communication of the various populations in the geographical boundaries of the District to the extent feasible. If you know of someone who may need this notice translated to another language, given orally, or delivered in some other manner or mode of communication, please contact the Director of Pupil Personnel, the Director of Special Education or the Section 504 Coordinator at the address or phone number listed above for the Crittenden County Schools.

Allison played at the University of Kentucky from 1998-2000.

Stone pursues biking passion

BY JENNA HAUGEN
PRESS REPORTER

It is not every day that a cyclist gets to ride with the likes of Lance Armstrong and team RadioShack. However, Marion native Jake Stone did just that at the Harpeth River Ride held in early June in Franklin, Tenn. Stone developed a love for mountain biking in 2001 after spending a day trying to conquer the 11-mile Canal Loop at Land Between the Lakes. The challenge just increased his desire to become a cyclist. Within a month, he upgraded his bike, had several more Canal Loops under his belt and entered his first mountain bike race. Stone's love for biking inspired him to create a cycling team at Murray State University. He worked alongside Daniel Methany to petition the University to sponsor a team. While at MSU, Stone took on the role as captain of the team and developed relationships with area state parks to gain access to and build additional biking trails in western Kentucky. He spent four years in the collegiate ranks racing for MSU's cycling team from 2002-2006. He qualified for the Collegiate Cycling Nationals three times in a row. The 2005 MSU cycling team placed third in the nation under Stone's leadership. For Stone, cycling is all about the connections. "Cycling has given me lifelong friendships and bonds all over the country," he said. After college, Stone gained expert and then semi-pro status for consistently placing in cycling events. For several years he ranked in the top 20 in the nation with the USA Cycling organization. Stone has continued to compete both locally and regionally; although, not as competitively as his days at MSU because of starting a family and a career. His treks are often 30 miles or longer through rough terrain. "It's all about a healthy lifestyle. Cycling is a hobby that gives me competition in life. It's also something I can pass on to family and friends," Stone said. He currently rides with Harpeth Bicycles racing team based in Franklin, Tenn. Stone has maintained his passion for the sport working with area officials to initiate bicycle trail-building in Middle Tennessee. "Cycling is all about self-discipline. You have to have determination to reach a high level and a mindset to accomplish what you want. While it is an individual skill, it takes camaraderie and team involvement to succeed." Stone's ultimate dream is to go to France and compete against Armstrong in the Tour de France. However, he is equally excited to share cycling with his soon-to-arrive son. "I very much look forward to cycling with him and kicking his butt as long as I can. I also know the day will come when he will be able to beat me and I look forward to that," Stone said.

Marion native Jake Stone has made a career out of competitive trail riding.

Bobcats end season in third place

STAFF REPORT

The Ohio Valley League's first regular season ended Monday with an ironic twist – Steve Fowler and his club capturing the league crown at Guess Field. Fowler, manager of the Bobcats for the team's first three years, was in the visitor's dugout wearing his familiar No. 8 Owensboro Oilers uniform. The Bobcats' old skipper earned the league title with an 8-6 win over his former squad in 13 innings. The game, which lasted about a half-hour less than the time it took the Oilers to get to Marion, was the resumption of a game earlier suspended as a 6-6 tie in the middle of the 11th. Owensboro finished the season in first place, a full game ahead of Fulton, whom the Bobcats drew in the playoffs. Monday's loss for Marion (19-22, 20-22 overall) was the team's 10th in its last 14 games. It was also the fourth consecutive defeat to end the season, coming near the end of a blistering July when the Bobcats fell cold. The team was only 8-16 in July after a 12-6 June kept them in first place for most of the season. Home was not kind to the Bobcats either, providing a 7-12 record as opposed to a winning 12-10 tally on the road. Despite the cold ending to a hot month, it was a turnaround season for the Bobcats. Manager Kyle Medley gave fans in 2011 the best season the Bobcats have had in the team's four-year history. Closer Matt Vollenweider ran away with the league's saves title, earning 11 and adding another in inter-league action to best his manager's former record of eight. And, the Bobcats' drew an opponent in the first round of the playoffs they bested 8-6 in the regular season. In fact, Fulton traveled to Marion for Game 1 of the best-of-three series before returning home to host the Bobcats on Wednesday. At press time, neither outcome had been decided. If a Game 3 is necessary, it, too, will

Where does milk come from?

Commentary

BY JENNA HAUGEN
PRESS REPORTER

When asked where milk comes from, my five-year old niece cunningly replied, "McDonalds!"

While the response was cute from a five-year old, the lack of knowledge about where our food comes from is less endearing on someone even slightly older. Sadly, we are facing a crisis where many people don't understand or even worse, don't care, where the food on their tables or the clothes on their backs originate.

I'm not asking you to share my passion for agriculture. Admittedly, I'm an agricultural junkie, spending my four years in high school learning from Mr. Larry Duvall the ins and outs of animal science, crop science, landscaping and wood work. I also spend my days at the University of Kansas researching the communication between agricultural extension agents and farmers regarding issues of sustainability. What I am requesting is that you take a moment to consider the future of agriculture and your role in that process.

Each day some of the most innovative agricultural research is conducted in our neighboring county by some of the foremost experts in their fields. In an effort to advocate for agriculture, the University of Kentucky's Research and Education Center in Princeton hosted its bi-annual Field Day last Thursday, inviting farmers, educators and agriculture enthusiasts to share in the research being conducted on the farm.

Along with 1,000 members of surrounding communities, I attended the field day to learn more about the current state of research.

Right off the bat, a young researcher, Josh Jackson from Mercer County, shared with us his ideas on converting biomass into useable energy in the form of pellets. These pellets can be used to heat your house or can be infused with coal to make the energy source more productive. Biomass can be used in two fundamental ways: directly for things such as heating and indirectly by conversion into a liquid fuel such as ethanol from sugar crops, biodiesel from vegetable oils or biogas from landfills and animal waste. It is researchers like Jackson who give us alternative options to fossil fuels.

Many of the stops along the Pest Management in Grain Crops tour advocated the use of pesticides and herbicides. However, one researcher's discussion in particular caught my intention. Dr. Doug Johnson, Extension Professor of Entomology, told those of us on the hay-lined trailer that planting corn resistant to rootworms in Kentucky is not only a waste of money but also harmful to the ecological process. Simple rotation of corn and soybeans on cropland controls rootworm infestation and thus eliminates the need for resistant seeds. In fact, if those resistant varieties are planted, the pest will build up a tolerance to the pesticide and will not be phased if the rootworms become a problem in Kentucky.

Johnson also warned of a new pest moving into our area called a Brown Marmorated Stink Bug. This pest typically feeds on tree fruits, ornamental plants, weeds, soybeans and beans for human consumption, leaving pock marks on the fruits and vegetables. Little is known about this stink bug's impact on our region. Johnson asks that any specimen you collect be given to your local Extension agent so it can be further researched.

An overview tour of the facility featured the beef cattle herd that is studied on the farm. Several grazing fields were dedicated to the study of an endophyte fungus that is present in fescue. The fungus makes the grass heartier but disrupts the digestive system of cattle. Researchers are currently looking at variations of the endophyte to retain the hardiness but make it more toothsome to cattle. The researchers are trying to find a suitable solution to meet both the demands of the landscape industry and cattle industry.

The field day boasted activities for all ages from the nine specialty tours to the Youth Row activities provided for youngsters. In order to host the field day, Extension agents across the state volunteered their time to lead tours. Crittenden Countians Bonnie Baker, who assisted with youth activities; Corey Payne, who led beef cattle tours; and Sue Parrent, who did food demonstrations, were among the many volunteers needed to help the day run smoothly.

Additionally, the 50 faculty and staff members housed at the West Kentucky headquarters took the day to share their research.

Along with the research mentioned, a vast variety of other studies are being conducted on the 1,300-acre farm from research on vegetable crops, herbicides, weed controls, tobacco, soybeans, cool season grasses, ornamental crops and many more. Research projects not only seek an increase in yield but also look at ways to reduce production costs, according to Dr. Andy Bailey, who served this year as chairman of the field day.

Not only is research conducted on the farm in Princeton, test plots are often planted on cooperating farms in the area. While there are no current projects going on in this county, Crittenden was recognized for a vegetable production demonstration plot in the Amish community, Payne said. In the past, research has been conducted on corn and soybean production as well as best management practices of grazing beef cattle.

I strongly encourage you to take a day when you are complaining "there is nothing to do around here" and take a field trip to the research center. You may even discover that milk comes from cows, or goats, or sheep and that there are 892 dairy farms in the state of Kentucky. And remember, without the American farmer, you would end up naked and hungry.

Author Jenna Haugen is a Crittenden County native interning at The Press this summer. She has a bachelor's degree from Western Kentucky University and is working on her Ph.D. at the University of Kansas.

Flag retirement ceremony

Boy Scout Troop 30 and Cub Scout Pack 30 held a flag retirement ceremony at the Farmers Bank and Trust branch in Salem on July 22. Flags are retired or replaced when torn or well worn. Traditionally, flags were made of cotton or canvas and were burned in a specific manner. Stripes were cut apart and stars were cut out of the blue field. Today, most flags are made of nylon which holds up to everyday elements and are no longer burned. Groups such as the Boy Scouts, American Legion, VFW posts and some military bases can dispose of the flags properly. Pictured are (from left) Jimmy Crider, Jordan Urbanowski, Matthew Dunham, Ryan Dunham and Jake Urbanowski.

Back to school on a budget

It is officially back-to-school season. Many retailers have started running back to school shopping ads and with less than 30 days before the first day of school, it is time to start planning for back to school needs.

If you have children in school, you know to plan for back to school expenses; however, these may not be part of your regular budget, since it is not a reoccurring monthly expense. Similar to holiday shopping, you can reduce your back to school stress and expenses by developing a budget prior to heading out to your local retailer. Planning in advance gives you time to shop for the specific items that you need at the right price.

Start with the class supply list. Inventory any items that you may already have at home or remaining from last school year, such as backpacks, folders, paper, and so forth. Identify the items on the list that you will need to purchase, look for retail sale ads in the local newspaper or on the internet. Many retailers will have large discounts on class supplies to entice you to visit the store.

Take your class supply list with you and only purchase those items on the list. If there is a summer reading list, talk with students who recently completed the grade your child will be entering, they may be willing to let you borrow or purchase their books at a reduced rate.

Back to school is also a good time to inventory clothes closets. Identify clothes which have been outgrown or your children no longer wear. Consider taking clothes which are in good condition and still in style to a children's consignment shop. Selling clothes at a consignment store may earn you a few extra dollars and many consignment retailers offer buying discounts to sellers. Make an inventory of the items that your child will need to start the school year. Identify if certain items can wait until later in the school year. For example, you probably do not need to purchase a winter coat in August. By dividing your school clothes shopping over several months, you are spreading out the expenses.

Prioritize your school shopping list in order of importance, while talking to your children about the difference between needs vs. wants. Develop a budget based on your needs; if you still have additional funds available then you can allocate some money to wants.

While you are doing your back to school shopping you are less likely to overspend if you pay with cash, as opposed to using your credit card. Shopping with a credit card is very convenient, but since there are no immediate consequences for using your credit card, you are more likely to overspend.

If you are using cash, once all of your cash is gone, you are finished with your back to school shopping. Spending cash makes you much less likely to overspend if you cannot afford it.

If you are looking for additional money tips, educational materials may be found on the University of Kentucky MONEYWISE website at www.ca.uky.edu/moneywise.

Tea time

June was the perfect time for a Little Princess Tea Party given by the Woman's Club of Marion. Girls ages five-11 were pampered by club members as they served sandwiches, vegetables and cookies. Each table was decorated with pastel topiaries, mirrors and cookies in the shape of hats. Guests listened to a short talk by Ethel Tucker on tea etiquette and Rebecca Johnson Crider presented the history of tea. They enjoyed a "Kiss the Frog" game and door prizes were given.

What does God think of all of this?

Front page news today is rife with concerns: Workers, both employed and unemployed, are dipping into their retirement funds; animal lovers are searching for a synthetic meat that will make the slaughter of animals unnecessary; the National Football League has signed contracts settling their differences; monarch butterflies are disappearing; and Congress can't agree on a plan for America to pay its debts.

Do you ever wonder what God thinks about such matters? With regard to raiding one's retirement funds, Jesus once said, "Take no thought of tomorrow, what you shall eat or wear; but trust the Father who beautifully clothes even the lilies of the field." Those words are 2,000 years old, but they must apply somehow.

Dr. H. Wade Paris

Shepherd Calls

Guest columnist

Concerning manufacturing synthetic meat to protect the animals, I confess to having thought of that myself. I have some sympathy here (but little hope). Still, if mankind is able to accomplish this, it could mean the "cattle on a thousand hills" would disappear. Without a market, who would raise them? Someday cows and pigs could be endangered species. This is a tough one. God put mankind in charge of the lower animals, and apparently, there is a food chain. Maybe we should just be compassionate and responsible.

Now about the National Football League, I doubt God is "into" football. However, I am sure He is concerned about the many people affected by it. I'm never comfortable praying that my team will win. I do give thanks for those who are blessed by this entertaining enterprise.

Of all the front page news, my greatest compassion is for the butterflies. God not only clothed the lilies, He apparently clothed the butterflies as well. To imagine our world without them makes me sad. I thank God that someone is trying to warn us of their plight.

I suspect God is paying attention to America's financial crises. However, He did make us free; and if we complain to Him, He likely would remind us that freedom does not come easily. Right now, we best pray for those we elected to represent us. Perhaps we should write our prayers and send them to our leaders. I'm sure that is still legal. At this late date, an e-mail would be best. Maybe such a response would fulfill Jesus' instructions to "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's . . ."

From the superintendent...

Crittenden County Students, Guardians/Parents, Staff, and Community:

Once again the anticipation of another successful school year is underway! It never ceases to amaze me how much planning and organizing is required to be ready for that first school day with students...which, by the way, is set for Thursday, Aug. 11. We are thrilled to welcome all students, faculty, staff, and administrators back to school!! Our Board of Education and school/district leadership is committed to continuing a focus on high quality student learning in the Crittenden County School District.

Dr. Rachel Yarbrough
Superintendent of schools

Big Six Goals

Each summer, the school and district level administrators along with our board of education review our goals for the upcoming school year.

These goals serve as a roadmap to guide our decision-making and progress monitoring. Let me acquaint our community with the revised "Big Six" Goals for 2011/2012:

- Cultivate College & Career Readiness
- Improve Attendance
- Increase Student Achievement
- Maximize Resource Effectiveness
- Enhance Internal & External Connectivity
- Boost a Rockin' Culture & Climate

"You can teach a student a lesson for a day; but if you can teach him to learn by creating curiosity, he will continue the learning process as long as he lives."
-Clay P. Bedford

High Quality Teaching/Learning

As you all know, the Commonwealth of Kentucky has adopted a new set of Common Core Standards based on College Readiness Standards for English/language arts and mathematics. Our students will be exposed to the revised standards in these content areas for the 2011/12 school year. All students will be connected to opportunities that will help expand college and career readiness skills. We are creating a "College Going" culture in Crittenden County. The state's revised curriculum updates fit perfectly into our "2020 Vision for Student Learning." Crittenden County students will be as prepared for the world of work in a digital age as any other student who graduates from any other school district in the state. We will be creating learning experiences where students are engaged in rigorous and relevant activities with adults who have cultivated a positive relationship for success.

"Tell me and I'll forget; show me and I may remember; involve me and I'll understand."
-Chinese proverb

We are excited about the first day of school and anticipate that the 2011-2012 school year will hold success and academic progress for each and every child each and every day. Thanks for the community's support of the Crittenden County School District.

Adult Learning Center reaches GED milestone

BY JENNA HAUGEN
PRESS REPORTER

Jimmy Newland hasn't been in a classroom since 1993 when he quit high school just shy of graduation. However, as part of Drug Court, he was required to earn his GED. What started out as a requirement has turned into inspiration to continue his education.

"I have two children and I want them to be proud of me. I want them to know the importance of getting an education," Newland said.

With the help of the Crittenden County Adult Education Center, Newland earned his GED and is currently working with the instructors to prepare for employment testing. Newland is one of a milestone 50 Crittenden County graduates from the program.

The vision of the Adult Education Center, which is part of the West Kentucky Educational Cooperative, is to inspire educational success within a positive learning environment. The center provides basic courses in language skills, math and English, as well as GED preparation and registration, pre-employment assessment, corrections education and assists with post-secondary transitions. The staff also provides vocational counseling for graduates to help them consider a path following graduation.

According to the 2010 census, a staggering 33 percent of the adult population in Crittenden County does not have a high school diploma or a GED. According to instructor Ralph Hendrix, the Adult Education program "makes participants more marketable. We produce students that are better prepared to fill roles in the community."

Hendrix said the Adult Education Center has open enrollment, so those wishing to earn a GED can start the day they walk in the door. It is mandatory that a student be enrolled in at least 12 hours a week before taking the GED. Depending on the student, they can be finished in as little as one to two months. Students also have access to computers, books, workbooks and assistance when they need it.

All that the center has to offer is free of charge to the students. The program is funded by the state with some help from county and city governments.

"We have a 100 percent success rate on earning a GED if people stick with it. I would say between 80 and 90 percent of the students starting our program earn their GED and we have several that get jobs when they are finished," Hendrix said.

In addition to classes offered at the Adult Education Center, the program has also partnered with the Crittenden County Detention Center to offer classes to the inmates. Twenty-six inmates have graduated thus far.

"Rick Riley and his staff have been great. They have been supportive in offering Crittenden County Adult Education students participated in graduation ceremonies at the Butler Building in Caldwell County. Mercedes Rushing was the valedictorian of the graduating class which consisted of students from Crittenden, Caldwell, Livingston and Trigg counties. these classes to inmates so they are better prepared to reenter society. Some have even enrolled in college courses," said Hendrix, who teaches at the jail.

Director Missy Myers wants to see every individual succeed. "They just have a place in my heart. A lot of times others have given up on our students, but I know they can be successful," Myers said.

In the upcoming year, the staff would like to add 29 students to the list of graduates in Crittenden County. "We have far exceeded our expectations and would like to continue our success," said

Myers of upcoming goals.

Newland appreciates all that the staff has done for him. "They are great here. They gave me their full attention and helped me all along the way. It is nice to be appreciated in that way."

He plans to attend Mid Continent University this fall to study psychology and counseling. Newland said, "I have framed my transcripts and my diploma. I look forward to continuing along the path I started and graduate from college. It is important for my kids to see that no matter the hardships, everyone can succeed."

From the principal...

Dear CCES Families,
Welcome back to an exciting new school year. I hope you are having a wonderful summer break filled with opportunities to learn, grow, and have fun. As always, we have so much news to share.

We are fortunate to have our returning students and staff and we are happy to have many wonderful new additions and changes to the CCES faculty for 2011-2012:

- Megan Radivonyk – third grade teacher
- Sara Collins – fifth grade teacher
- Dwayne Bruce – SDI teacher
- Joni Stuessel – kindergarten teacher

We also look forward to meeting the nearly 120 kindergarten students that will be joining Crittenden County Elementary. We are proud to start each and every student on their six-year learning journey at CCES. It gives us great pride to

Melissa Tabor
CCES Principal
melissa.tabor@crittenden.kyschools.us

watch these young children grow and develop.

Our first event of the new school year will be Sneak-A-Peek on Aug. 9. In an effort to accommodate everyone and ensure all questions are answered, we are changing our procedure. Students whose last name begins with A-K will visit between 6-7 p.m., and students with last names beginning with L-Z will visit between 7-8 p.m. The purpose of this night is to allow students and parents to find their classroom, briefly meet the teacher, drop off school supplies, pay for meals and meet with transportation personnel if needed.

As we begin this year, please remember that this is your school and we welcome your involvement. We hope you will visit us often and be actively involved in your child's education through volunteering, attending SBDM Council meetings and becoming an active member of our outstanding PTO. We sincerely hope to get to know each of you this year. All teachers can be reached by utilizing the school web site, www.crittenden.kyschools.us; through e-mail at firstname.lastname@crittenden.kyschools.us or by calling the school office at 965-2243.

To help increase communication between home and school, we will again be utilizing student assignment books. The school will be providing the books to students this year free of charge; however, if the book is lost, additional books can be purchased for $6.

Please do not hesitate to call if you have questions. We look forward to an exciting 2011-2012 school year.

Simple tips improve children’s reading

StatePoint
Reading is the most important skill that children need to master to be successful in school and life. However, kids increasingly are struggling with this most basic of academic abilities. The United States currently has one of the lowest literacy rates in the developed world. According to the National Report Card, the country is experiencing a literacy crisis, with 68 percent of fourth graders and 69 percent of eighth graders testing below grade level in reading.

When children have difficulty reading, they quickly can fall behind their peers. Luckily, there are ways to improve almost any child's reading proficiency.

There are many things parents can do to help:
•Explain writing is code. Many students guess wildly while reading because they have never realized words are made of individual sounds blended together. Show them how letters and groups of letters represent sounds. Then practice blending the sounds to form words.

•Teach all the sounds. Many letters say more than one sound. For example, the letter “S” sounds different in the word “sad” than the word “is.” Many students misread simple words, because they don’t know all the sounds.

•Make it fun. Learning the basics doesn’t need to be boring. Engage young children through play.

•Teach all nine ‘Silent E’ rules. Many students know only one reason for a silent final “E” – the vowel says its name because of the “E.” This explains words like “game” and “ripe,” but leaves many kids struggling to read “have” and “give.”

•Find answers. Too often we answer questions about reading with “that is an exception.” This frustrates many bright students and discourages them from reading. Rather than dismissing words as exceptions, look for answers and explanations.

Answers to questions about English, reading and spelling can be found in “Uncovering the Logic of English” and by visiting www.logicofenglish.com.

From the principal...

Dear Students and Parents,
It's that time of year again! We hope you have had a wonderful summer and are eager to get back into the school routine. Preparations have been made at CCMS to ensure that you and your child have a wonderful year. We encourage you to become involved at CCMS by volunteering in the classroom, participating in school events or serving on various committees. We would love to have your help, and you are always welcome in our school.

To ensure students are well supervised in the morning, the school building will not be opened until 7:30 a.m., at which time teachers begin their duty. For safety purposes, please do not drop your child off before this time.

Once again, it is a pleasure to have you and your child as members of our school community. We are excited about the great experiences your child will have this year at CCMS. If we can be of assistance to you or your child, please feel free to contact us at 965-5221.

CCHS General Information

From the principal...

Greetings from Crittenden County High School! I am very excited to again be part of CCHS for the upcoming school year. The staff and I look forward to Aug. 11 when the students return because they are what it's all about. Our Back to School Bash will be very beneficial to students and parents so please from 5- 8 p.m., Aug. 1. At this time students will get their schedule, parking tags will be issued and parents will be able to complete paperwork.

I would like to share some new initiatives for next year that will be turning points for our school.

Research shows that high performing high schools have strong freshmen transition programs. There will be a core group of teachers to work with our freshmen on common expectations, mentoring and academics to ensure they are all successful from the beginning. Part of this program will include the students having strong mentors from our junior and senior class. Parent communication will be our top priority to help you stay abreast of their progress.

We now have the Crosswalk Learning Center that we acquired through a 21st Century Learning Grant. This program will provide unlimited opportunities for our students. Cheryl Burks, coordinator for the center, will be at the Back to School Bash to provide information on activities and academic opportunities.

Kentucky's accountability testing system is aggressively changing and specifically affects the high school with End of Course Assessments in algebra II, English II, U.S. history and biology. These exams will count 10 percent of the students' course grade for the 2011-12 school year. With the new, rigorous national math and English standards, we have also implemented math lab courses that will service our students.

Lastly, I want to introduce you to the new staff at Crittenden County High School:

- Diana Lusby, Assistant Principal
- Juan Gonzalez, Spanish
- John Nash, band director
- Keisha Simmons, family consumer science
- Chris Williamson, math
- Ken Geary, math

I truly hope our students have had a wonderful summer and again, I look forward to Aug. 11 as we start the 2011-12 school year.

Financial Aid tip

The interest rate on private loans will largely depend on the borrower's credit rating, so students and parents may have to pay higher interest rates than they would on federal student loans. In addition, many lenders require students to have a cosigner, and some require the college to certify that the student needs the loan. Students and parents are encouraged to do research before committing to any loan. They should compare the loans offered by various lenders to find the best possible deal. It’s time for back-to-school eye exams

StatePoint

Did you know that 80 percent of what we learn is acquired visually? From reading to visual mnemonics (think stop signs and multiplication tables), vision plays a critical role in your child’s academic success.

Since vision problems often manifest as behavioral problems or poor academic achievement, they’re often misdiagnosed. For example, a child who fidgets in his seat and does poor work because he can’t read the board work may be diagnosed with attention deficit disorder. While a good doctor would rule out vision problems before making a diagnosis, the child may not say anything because he is unaware there is a problem.

Children’s eyes also change from year to year, as they grow.

Children should have their first eye assessment at 6 months of age, a comprehensive eye exam starting at age 3 before entering school and then an annual exam throughout their lives.

See your eye doctor if your child:

- Loses his or her place while reading
- Avoids close work
- Tends to rub his or her eyes
- Has headaches
- Turns or tilts his or her head
- Squints while reading or watching television
- Has behavioral problems
- Holds reading material

closer than normal

Regular eye care is essential to classroom success. To locate a VSP provider in your area, visit www.vsp.com.

By correcting any vision problems now, you can make the classroom a positive and productive experience for your child.

Court rules in drug, theft cases

Crittenden District Judge Daniel Heady sent a Marion woman to jail last week for contempt of court after she failed to report to drug and alcohol rehabilitation classes.

The court had ordered Pauline Marie Wright, 38, to have a drug and alcohol abuse assessment done and to begin classes after a DUI conviction.

It wasn't the first time Wright had allegedly failed to obey the court's order. Prosecutor Rebecca Johnson, the Crittenden County Attorney, said Wright had failed to complete court-ordered rehabilitation after a previous drug conviction. That time, she ended up in jail, too.

Judge Heady had told Wright a week earlier that she had seven days to enroll in the classes, which are offered at Marion United Methodist Church. When she appeared last Wednesday in District Court without proof that she'd done so, he ordered Wright immediately to jail for 30 days.

In other District Court action last week:

- Judge Heady found probable cause after a preliminary hearing to send a theft case against Ronnie Phillips to the August term of the Crittenden County Grand Jury. Phillips is accused of taking a welder, battery charger and other tools and equipment from a home on Ky. 365 and selling some of them to a Henderson pawn shop. The theft was reported on May 28 to the Crittenden County Sheriff's Department. Items allegedly taken were valued at more than $500, making it a felony charge.

- Cassandra N. Attwell, 20, of Marion was sentenced to 45 days in jail after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana and careless driving. She was ordered to serve 15 days with the balance probated for two years.

- Jackie L. Jones, 48, was sentenced to 365 days in jail for a charge of fourth-degree assault, domestic violence. He was already on probation for another conviction and his parole was revoked following the assault charge.

Judge Heady ordered Jones to serve 90 days of the sentence with the balance probated for two years. The sentence will run concurrent with the time Jones is serving on the previous conviction for which probation was revoked.

Suit: Board of Ed's ruling too harsh

STAFF REPORT

The mother of a Crittenden County High School senior has filed a lawsuit seeking to reverse a Board of Education disciplinary action.

Plaintiff Sandy Urbanowski is also seeking an immediate court injunction that would allow her son to be reinstated to mainstream classes when school starts back Aug. 11.

The lawsuit filed in Crittenden Circuit Court on May 13 also seeks to enjoin the school system from keeping her son, Jake Urbanowski, from participating in extracurricular activities which is part of his punishment. The suit says he was to be the marching band's drum major during the coming school year.

Urbanowski was disciplined for allegedly violating school policy by consuming alcohol on a school-sponsored spring break trip to Greece earlier this year. The alleged drink was Ouzo, an alcoholic drink commonly served with meals in Greek culture. The board of education, in court documents, also alleges that the student admitted to buying vodka as well.

The lawsuit says his punishment included three days suspension and alternative school until the end of the 2011 Fall term, which the plaintiff claims is "arbitrary, capricious and unfair." It claims that because of the punishment, the high school senior will not be able to take classes that he desires and will prevent him from going to college.

At issue in the case is a signed agreement by the student which reads in part that "consumption of hard liquor is for-bidden... (and that there is to be no) excessive drinking of wine or beer." The agreement states that violation would result in dismissal from the spring break tour.

In its response filed in June, the school board's attorney, Brandi Rogers, said the signed agreement does not supersede standard school policy which prohibits the consumption of alcohol at any school-related function.

The case was scheduled to be heard in Crittenden Circuit Court on July 14; however, it has been moved to McCracken Circuit Court where Special Judge Jeff Hines will have a hearing on Friday, Aug. 5. Crittenden Circuit Judge Rene Williams asked to be recused from the case. Her legal assistant is the daughter of a school board member.

FEMA sending $2 million to Crittenden, Livingston

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden and Livingston County residents have received more than $2 million in federal assistance for the spring flooding and storms.

The two were among 22 counties designated for Individual Assistance on May 20 by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

FEMA has approved almost $10 million in Individual Assistance as part of the ongoing recovery efforts for residents affected by storms and flooding. The money can be used to repair their damaged homes, replace uninsured personal property and pay temporary housing.

Twenty-one Crittenden County families were approved for individual household assistance totaling $290,479.27. Twenty were approved for housing assistance, totaling $251,995.34. Crittenden Countians received other assistance amounting to $38,483.93. Overall FEMA provided $580,958.54 to Crittenden County residents affected by storms and flooding.

In Livingston County, the numbers were higher. Eighty-one families qualified for individual household assistance, totaling 756,706.48. Seventy-nine qualified for housing assistance, totaling $666,560.50, and 26 received other assistance, totaling $90,145.99. Livingston Countians received a grand total of $1.5 million.

Union Countians received $722,000 in federal and state assistance.

Individual assistance was available in the following counties: Ballard, Boyd, Carlisle, Carroll, Crittenden, Daviess, Floyd, Fulton, Graves, Hardin, Henderson, Hickman, Jefferson, Johnson, Lawrence, Livingston, Marshall, McCracken, McLean, Pike, Union and Webster.

NEW BRIEFS

Events set tone for 2011 school year

Two events early next month geared for Crittenden County students and parents will allow them to meet staff, tour the schools and learn about what the community has to offer.

On Aug. 1, a Back to School Bash will be held for middle and high school students and families. It will be held from 5-8 p.m., at the multi-purpose room.

On Aug. 9, Sneak-a-Peek for elementary schoolers and parents will be from 6-8 p.m., at the school, with students whose last name starts A-K the first hour and all other the second hour.

The following day is opening day for staff of the district. Kentucky's Commissioner of Education will be the opening speaker for the school year's kick-off event. The community is invited to attend a luncheon that follows in order to exchange information about your business or organization with staff.

Lyon man hurt in Dycusburg crash

A Kuttawa man was seriously injured in a single-vehicle accident early Sunday morning near Dycusburg.

State Police say Michael Taylor, 20, was driving a Ford Explorer eastbound on Ky. 70 two miles east of Dycusburg just after 3 a.m., when he lost control if his SUV and ran off the highway, struck a concrete culvert and a utility pole then overturned.

Taylor was not wearing a seatbelt. He was extricated from the vehicle by the Crittenden County Rescue Squad. Taylor was transported by PHI Air Medical to Deaconess Hospital in Evansville.

Sheen, bad boys to host Gathering

Keep an eye out for "The Winner" next month. Actor Charlie Sheen and other celebrities have been booked to host the Juggalos in Cave-in-Rock, Ill., Aug. 11-14. Sheen has been booked for the Insane Clown Posse's 12th annual Gathering of the Juggalos, a four-day festival held on a private farm just across the river.

Joining Sheen will be fellow bad boys Dustin Diamond who played Screech on the Saturday morning classic "Saved by the Bell," and Pub-

Police now have five vehicles in their fleet. The two 2008 model Fords have 60,000 and 14,000 miles on them; the 2006 model has 58,000 miles and the 2003 model has 120,000 miles.

Ledbetter bridge restricted to 1 lane

U.S. 60 traffic over the Tennessee River Bridge at Ledbetter will be restricted to one lane starting Monday. The restriction during daylight hours is to allow for a detailed inspection of the bridge structure.

Passage over the span will be restricted with alternating flow controlled by flaggers between 8 a.m., and 3 p.m., each weekday. Travel delays should be minimal, generally less than four minutes.

All Kentucky bridges get a detailed inspection every two years with long-span bridges subject to additional walk-through inspections from

Farmers’ Market week promotes local produce

By JENNA HAUGEN
PRESS REPORTER

This week farmers' market vendors take a well-deserved bow as Kentucky celebrates Farmers' Market Week. While our local farmers' market hasn't seen as much participation as in past years, the notion of buying fresh produce locally is supported in this community.

Susan Alexander, Marion Main Street Manager, said the loss of a regular vendor at the market has led to the decline in activity.

"When Mr. Station was participating, we could guarantee visitors that someone would be set up at the Farmers' Market. Now the vendors have been more sporadic. We would love to have a steady vendor," Alexander said.

This season, 17 vendors have participated.

"They do a really good job of knowing what we like and providing that produce in season," Alexander said.

She has looked at ways to improve the participation at the market.

"Paducah has categories that you can preorder. So, if your family likes just corn and tomatoes, you can pay in advance for that and the vendors will have it ready for you when you come to pick it up. That has seemed to work," said Alexander.

Tobie Mast, who grows produce on his farm, believes few people shop at the farmers' market because they are accustomed to getting the produce where it is grown, on the many Amish farms that dot the countryside of Crittenden County.

Mast participates in a Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) program located in Paducah. Each week, he and his family hitch a ride to Paducah to deliver half-bushels of fresh vegetables to patrons of the CSA. Shares are sold at the beginning of the season for $380 and then local producers provide a variety of whatever is in season for 22 weeks.

"I would love to get something going here in Crittenden County," Mast said. "People enjoy the CSAs for the fellowship. They get the opportunity to meet with each other and know where their vegetables come from."

While the produce Mast grows on his farm is not certified organic, he does not use any chemicals during production. Weekly letters written by his wife, Miriam, included in each patron's box also share recipes for using the produce.

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner Richie Farmer shares Mast's sentiments.

"Farmers' markets offer something you can't get anywhere else—the chance to meet the people who produced the food you're buying. You can serve food from the farmers' market to your family with the confidence that you're giving them the freshest food possible from your friends and neighbors from just down the road," he said in Kentucky Ag News.

Farmers' market sales total about $8 million a year in Kentucky, money that producers use to pay the bills, put their children through school and apply toward other household and business expenses.

Marion's farmers' market is housed on a lot next to McDonald's. Produce sold at the market is provided by Kentucky growers and the canopy on site was funded by a Kentucky Proud grant, according to Alexander.

Alexander said that anyone is welcome to use the lot including school groups or civic organizations wishing to do fundraisers. Vendors can use the farmers' market for $5 a day if they wish to use the canopy or $4 a day if the canopy is not used. To use the facilities contact Alexander at 965-5015.

A directory of registered Kentucky farmers' markets is available on the Kentucky Department of Agriculture's website, www.kyagr.com.

As the 2011 season winds down, Marion Main Street will continue to look for ways to improve the market.

"I would love to see a coop established with the vendors in the area," Alexander said.

Kentucky’s jobless rate best since January ‘09

STAFF REPORT

Kentucky's unemployment rate continued to fall last month, going from 9.8 percent in May 2011 to 9.6 percent, according to the Office of Employment and Training, an agency of the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet.

The preliminary June 2011 jobless rate dropped .7 percentage point below the 10.3 percent rate recorded in June 2010 for the state. The state's June 2011 rate is the lowest since the January 2009 rate of 9.2 percent.

The U.S. jobless rate increased from 9.1 percent in May 2011 to 9.2 percent in June 2011, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

tors. They have been predominantly working with freshmen and they are all on board to make the program a success. They each have a relationship with the students beyond the classroom, whether it be through sports or church, and they are eager to assist the students," Callaway said of the teachers.

Incoming freshman Lauren Beavers stated that relationship building is something she thinks great teachers possess.

"The best teachers relate to students and understand us. They interact with us more," she said.

While she is looking forward to the interaction and the increased freedom that high school will afford, she along with others shared skepticism of the program.

"I guess they are doing this to protect us from the upper classmen but I am surprised they would separate us from the rest of the students," Beavers said.

Kayla Davis shares her concerns. Davis understands that the freshman year often determines whether or not a student will graduate, but she thinks the separation will just make her sophomore year more difficult.

"I think it is a good idea in a way, but I was really looking forward to being in high school and having more freedom to choose my classes and the people I am in classes with. I think the new program will just put that off another year," she said.

While Davis has often heard that her classmates are a "problem group," she would like for educators to let her know that they can still succeed.

"I think our teachers need to engage in more hands-on learning. My favorite teacher, Mrs. Blazina, did activities that allowed everybody to learn in their own way," Davis said of the middle school instructor.

Callaway hopes that the negativity about the program that has spread through the community can be combated.

"Some people have said that we are trying to hold the freshmen hostage, but that is the furthest from the truth. We are working hard on this program to ensure that no student falls through the cracks," she said.

In addition to the concentrated area of freshmen classes, the program will also utilize upper classmen as mentors. Two leadership classes have been added to the master schedule where students will assist the freshmen in transitioning to high school.

Callaway

The inspiration for the courses came from a former student, Casey Hamby, who gathered a group of seniors to talk to the incoming freshmen about high school life and tips to succeed at last spring's transition day.

"As they are coming in, we are going out, and we know a lot of valuable information that should be shared with freshmen. We talked about things such as diploma types and what classes they should take. We know the ins and outs of high school and we can give them a better understanding," Hamby said.

When Hamby was a freshman, he said he didn't consider the importance of grade point average.

"I didn't really focus on my grades and now it has come back to haunt me. Your GPA is cumulative and colleges consider that when handing out money," Hamby said.

While he is a bit leery of the new program because he fears it may shelter the incoming freshmen, he does hope the mentoring program will inspire students to work harder in school.

Callaway hopes that students and parents alike will understand the Freshmen Transition Program is "more about the kids than the content."

judgeship and Stout was selected among four finalists this spring. He received word late last week of his selection, following an extensive interview process.

Stout's extensive knowledge of bankruptcy law was a main reason for his selection. His private practice has placed an emphasis on bankruptcy and business law, and related insurance litigation. Stout has also been a bankruptcy trustee since 1987 and served two years as president of the National Association of Bankruptcy Trustees.

Stout will be at least the third federal bankruptcy judge with ties to Marion. The late Wendell Roberts presided over federal bankruptcy court from 1987 to 2001 and Jerry Brown currently sits as a bankruptcy judge in New Orleans.
