City thinks slow economy could help replace lines

STAFF REPORT

Replacing the nearly 90-year-old water main in downtown Marion has been a priority project for many years, but money has always been a stumbling block.

Based on previous estimates, the City of Marion figures replacing the aged line will cost about $2.1 million. Or maybe not.

"Right now (based on the economy) there are projects all over the state that are coming in lower than expected," said City Administrator Mark Bryant. "There are some really good bid prices available right now."

Because of that, Marion City Council has approved a plan to pursue replacing the trunk line on Main Street from the Front Porch restaurant to what's commonly called Curve-In, where Fords Ferry Road juts off Main Street.

The plan calls for bidding the project and paying for it with a low-interest municipal loan, cash reserves and about $700,000 in grants that have already been earmarked for the work.

"We are also pursuing a CDBG (Community Development Block Grant)," Bryant added, "but grant money is about all dried up right now."

Crittenden Press celebrates 50 years of family ownership

STAFF REPORT

Color inks with an abundance of type styles and layout options have modernized The Crittenden Press over the past 50 years. Cosmetically, the newspaper has changed; however, its commitment to the community has been unwavering.

This month, The Crittenden Press is celebrating its 50th anniversary of family ownership. The newspaper was founded in 1879 by R.C. Walker. It changed hands five times from then until Evers Mick purchased the newspaper in 1960. Since that time, his descendants have owned and operated The Crittenden Press.

"It's been an honor and a privilege to serve the community," said Allison Mick-Evans, the current advertising manager and as-

Her paternal grandfather, Evers Mick, a Marion native, had been working in Madisonville in the printing and radio industries before he bought the newspaper from Charles Pepper 50 years ago this month. Mick owned Modern Printers, a commercial letterpress and offset printing shop in Madisonville and was a popular radio personality known as the Old Man on the Hill.

Evers Mick graduated from Marion High School in 1932 and worked on aeronautical electronics equipment for the U.S. Government during World War II. He returned to western Kentucky in 1947 where he served as chief engineer for radio station WFMW in Madisonville and was, for a short time, a co-owner of WTTL, also in Madisonville.

Mick and his wife Lucille – along with sons, Charles and Paul – returned in 1960 to Marion where he had grown up while his father, W.E. Mick was active in the

How does God's kingdom reach people?

To follow up last week's scriptures of the Kingdom of God living in His Spirit filled children on earth, let's really listen to the prayer Jesus told His disciples to pray:

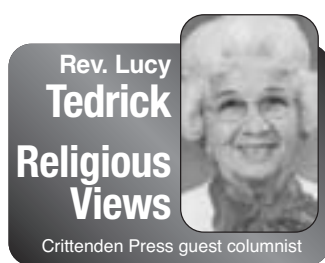

"Our Father, which art in Heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread and forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory forever. Amen." Matt. 6: 8-13.

Here He was telling them to pray for God's kingdom to come so His followers could do God's will on earth as it is done in Heaven.

He was teaching them to ask for forgiveness and to forgive others which is a precursor to being born again.

Then, He was telling them to ask God to lead them away from temptation and deliver them from evil as David said God would do in the 23rd Psalm: "He leads me in the paths of righteousness for His name sake."

When we are truly forgiven for our sins through confession, by naming them, to God and asking for and believing for His forgiveness, and obeying Him in picking up our cross, denying self, and following Him (Matt. 16:24), we then are to do as Paul directs us in Ro.12:1,2 when he says, "I beseech you therefore brethren, by the mercies of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be you transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

Rev. Lucy Tedrick
Religious Views
Crittenden Press guest columnist

As we follow this path and seek God for His Spirit infilling, He does as Jesus promised in John 14:16,17: "And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that He may abide with you forever, even the Spirit of truth whom the world cannot receive, because it sees Him not, neither knows Him; but you know Him, for He dwells with you and shall be in you."

Jesus told them in verse 23 that He and the Father would come unto them and make their abode with them. This is the fulfilling of the words of Paul in Col. 1:26,27 speaking of the mystery which had been hidden for ages and from generations, but now is made known to His saints, which is "Christ in you, the hope of glory."

Some want to tell you that you get it all when you confess your sins, but the 120 waiting followers of Jesus in the upper room did not, but received the Holy Spirit after they had tarried and waited as Jesus had told them to.

This second work of God's grace is also called sanctification which is filled and set apart for God's service.

Also in Acts 19:1-8 Paul went to Ephesus and finding certain disciples, "He said unto them, Have you received the Holy Ghost since you believed: And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." After he instructed them and baptized them, and laying hands on them they received the Holy Spirit.

One of the strongest early churches was established at Ephesus.

It is sad to see so many people struggling to be a Christian and never meet God's easy plan so His Spirit can live in them to make them victors over temptation, discouragement, doubts, persecution and destructive sins.

Then there are those who think they can make it on their own, living on the edge or fringe, and do "pretty well" and make it to Heaven.

Not so! Paul tells us in Romans 8:9, "Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His." What is this saying? We just can't live a righteous life without God's righteousness living in us, as we have none of our own.

We cannot be a servant of God and for people, trying to live a Christian life on our own terms without God's Spirit living in us that gives us righteousness, peace and joy and power to keep on keeping on when people are against us, when trials, disappointments and doubts hit you like Niagara Falls.

How I praise God He ever called after me until I fell at His feet in conviction and godly sorrow and He forgave me, sanctified and set me apart for His service instead of a wasted life of serving myself. To God be the glory.

Pizza, free air, growing old & liking it among Marion's wonders

Don't you just love Marion where air is free?

Get out on the road and you will find that nothing is cost-free anymore. Found recently that in most towns you can't air up a car or bicycle tire without sticking four quarters in a vending machine.

At least in Marion there are still several places where the air is free and people are courteous.

Had one of the first pizzas out of the new ovens at Pizzan Cafe this week. Thom Hawthorne has some new affiliates with the restaurant who are baking up a storm.

George and Joan Manganaro are new cooks and managers at the restaurant. They had a small pizzeria in Pigeon Forge, Tenn., before moving here to quench George's thirst for hunting and the outdoors.

Visited with Joan for a time Tuesday at the restaurant and she tells me there will be southern style cooking in the older kitchen and Italian cuisine coming from the new kitchen, which is visible from East Bellville Streets. It's in the former medical office.

George grew up with his family operating Italian and Greek restaurants in Florida. At first, he avoided the cooking business, but after 33 years as a hairdresser he opened the pizza joint in Pigeon Forge.

Keep an eye on The Press for more about the new restaurant in days to come.

The world's population continues to grow, but according to a recent Marion visitor it's not because birth rates are soaring. To the contrary, some countries such as China and India are legislating low birth rates while the world's numbers keep increasing - largely because of longevity.

Ron Crouch, director of the Kentucky Data Center for 21 years, was the guest speaker at the Crittenden County Economic Development Corporation's annual meeting a few weeks ago. He provided some enlightening trivia and data. Among the tidbits was that the world's population growth is 90 percent due to people living longer and 10 percent due to fertility.

I'll buy that, largely because I think we Methodists have a franchise on living longer.

When Stanley Lucas of Cornwall died at the age of 110 in June, he was thought to be the oldest male member of the British Methodist Church and one of the oldest men in the world, thus according to a recent Methodist newsletter article.

As it turns out, this sort of longevity is indeed characteristic of Methodists.

An analysis conducted by British Religion in Numbers of family announcements printed in the Methodist Recorder showed that in 1973 the mean age of death for Methodist laity was 77.9 years for men and 83 for women. By 2008, the figures had risen to 83.9 and 91.1 respectively. That is well above the life expectancy of 77 for men and 82 for women for the United Kingdom population as a whole, the article said.

Richard Vautre, vice president of the British Methodist Conference, put it this way, "I'm sure there are many different factors at work for Methodists to attain these numbers, but I would guess that our emphasis on caring for our spiritual as well as physical health, avoiding excess, engaging with people in our communities and being good neighbors all help."

Armed with this, I did a small study of the local Methodist membership. Seems that the trends found in Britain are true in Marion as well. Among the congregation at Marion United Methodist there are almost a dozen men and women around 90 or better.

Margaret Omer is 95, Wallace Arflack, Helen Springs, Ethel Tucker and Katherine Wardlaw are 92 and Tink Hicklin will be 92 in August. Helen Moore will, too. Then there is Jesse Hughes who is 90 and Ed Davidson and Ruth Hill at 89.

The only negative I've always attached to living to a ripe old age was the potential for outliving all your friends. That isn't happening among the Methodists. They're just ripening together.

Evans is the publisher and editor of The Crittenden Press. He is also author of the book, "South of the Mouth of Sandy," which is available from online bookstores. His column appears periodically.

Letters to the Editor

City leader has questions about Census accuracy

To the Editor:

As city administrator I felt it my civic, if not moral, duty to get the word out about the 2010 U.S. Census, specifically the importance of filling out your census forms and being counted. Official Census numbers, after all, determine the number of representatives we have in congress and to some extent, the amount of funding we receive from the federal government. I did a spot on the radio, served on the Complete Count Committee, hung posters and fliers at City Hall, etc., all in an effort to ensure Crittenden County residents responded in full force.

I'm pretty sure this was a complete waste of my time.

I firmly believe the U.S. Bureau of the Census is totally inept and entirely incapable of carrying out the decennial Census. At first I thought it was comical that I never received a form in the mail after months of my preaching to others to fill out and return those forms. Then I discovered that several other employees at city hall never received a form and that their family members in Crittenden County had not received them. Still undaunted, I simply obtained a Census form from the library, filled it out and sent it in and encouraged everyone else to do the same. I felt pretty good that I was going to be counted as a Crittenden County resident in spite of not receiving a form in the mail.

Then one evening a few weeks ago, a Census worker appeared at my door. Apparently, I had popped up on a list of people not turning in a form. I explained that I indeed had, but the nice young lady insisted on taking down my answers to the Census questions herself. I thought, "Well, no big deal I guess."

Then a week later, another nice young lady from the Census came knocking. Yet again, we filled out a form on me. A few days after that, I received the first of two phone calls from Census workers asking me to take a few minutes to answer the 10 question Census form, which I did once more. A few nights ago I arrived to the house only to find a piece of paper wedged in my door, informing me that a Census worker had paid me a visit while I was not at home. Included was the name and phone number of the worker with a message to please call so I wouldn't miss being counted in the 2010 Census!

I've filled out five Census forms - have I been counted five times? If the Census Bureau keeps calling, does that mean none of these forms have actually been turned in by the Census workers? Have I been counted at all?

In a county this small we need to feel good that our population numbers are accurately tabulated. I feel confident the Census Bureau is not going to make this happen.

Reauthorization of NASPER funds important to fight

To the Editor:

The statistics are startling. With more than six million Americans misusing prescription medication on a regular basis, the abuse of prescription drugs is the fastest growing drug problem in the United States. More than 52 million Americans have reported abusing prescription drugs at some point in their lives. That's 20.8 percent of the population aged 12 or older. And tens of thousands of lives are claimed every year as a result of this epidemic.

Nowhere in the nation is the battle against prescription drug abuse more important than Kentucky, which has the unfortunate distinction of leading the nation in prescription drug use for non-medical purposes. While Kentucky has in place an electronic monitoring system which tracks prescriptions dispensed within the commonwealth, there are still several states which do not. In these states individuals could visit several different doctors and receive multiple prescriptions for medication, a practice known as "doctor shopping." As a result, many Kentuckians looking to obtain prescription drugs for illegal sale and distribution have been traveling across state lines and bringing these medications back into the Commonwealth.

Four years ago, I authored the National All Schedules Prescription Electronic Drug Reporting Act (NASPER). NASPER establishes a federal grant program to assist states in the creation, improvement or expansion of Prescription Drug Monitoring Programs (PMDP's) and to foster the sharing of prescription data electronically among states. NASPER will help states establish a uniform electronic format for the reporting and sharing of prescription data as well as uniform criteria for access to the data by healthcare professionals and law enforcement officials.

This legislation was signed into law in August of 2005 and since then has received $4 million in funding to begin implementation. The first grants were awarded through NASPER beginning in 2009 and currently over 40 states are operating PDMPs or have enacted legislation to establish them.

While each state's program is unique, in general they require that pharmacies, physicians or both submit information to a central office within the state on prescriptions dispensed for certain controlled substances. By creating these systems, states can ensure that health care providers, law enforcement officials and other regulatory bodies have access to accurate, timely prescription history information across the nation.

Recently, I was proud to join forces with senators Dick Durbin, Jeff Sessions, Chris Dodd and Sherrod Brown along with representatives Frank Pallone, Bart Stupak and John Shimkus to introduce legislation in our respective chambers to reauthorize NASPER. The legislation would extend NASPER for five years, make improvements to the program and provide $15 million in funding for 2011 and $10 million each year after that through 2015.

With prescription drug abuse on the rise, it is more important than ever that we reauthorize this important weapon in the fight against prescription drug abuse. NASPER is essential to identifying patients at risk for addiction, preventing patients from "doctor shopping," particularly across state lines and assisting with investigations of drug diversion and errant prescribing practices by pharmacists or medical providers. During the weeks and months to follow, I will continue working with colleagues in the House and the Senate to ensure NASPER receives funding to thwart drug abuse and stop the flow of prescription drugs across the country.

- Although anyone at any time can suffer from heat-related illness, some people are at greater risk than others.

Check regularly on:

- Infants and young children
- People aged 65 or older
- People who have a mental illness
- Those who are physically ill, especially with heart disease or high blood pressure

- Visit adults at risk at least twice a day and closely watch them for signs of heat exhaustion or heat stroke. Infants and young children, of course, need much more frequent watching.

Stone, Guess earn spots on Dean's List

Two local students have been recognized for making the Dean's List at the University of Kentucky for the spring semester.

The Marion students are Tyler David Guess, a fourth year pharmacy student in the College of Pharmacy, and Kirk Daniel Stone, a senior studying nutrition and food science - hospitality management and tourism in the College of Agriculture.

To make a Dean's List in one of the UK colleges, a student must earn a grade point average of 3.6 or higher and must have earned 12 credits or more in that semester, excluding credits earned in pass-fail classes. Some UK colleges require a 3.5 GPA to make the Dean's List. A total of 4,240 students achieved Dean's List recognition.

Blackburn, Padgett attend ACS event

Two local people were among more than 40 volunteers and staff of the American Cancer Society from across Kentucky who learned about advances in cancer research and met several American Cancer Society-funded researchers at the University of Louisville last month.

A group from the Paducah area included volunteers Frank Blackburn and Sue Padgett of Crittenden County, who took part in the American Cancer Society's Research Day. The event included presentations on research efforts funded through the American Cancer Society, as well as information on specific cancer research underway in Kentucky. Research Day guests also toured the University of Louisville Clinical and Translational Research facility and spoke with American Cancer Society grantees about their research work.

"It was extremely interesting to learn about the work researchers here in Kentucky are doing to help save lives and create a world with more birthdays by finding cures for cancer," said Blackburn. "Learning about their work and seeing what they do to better understand, prevent, find and treat cancer show the impact the American Cancer Society is having in the fight against this dreaded disease."

The American Cancer Society is the nation's leading private funder of cancer research and awards more than $110 million in research grants annually to help find cures for cancer. As of July 1, 2010, the American Cancer Society is funding 12 grants in Kentucky, totalling $3.39 million, toward research at the University of Louisville, University of Kentucky and Hospice of the Bluegrass.

Since it began funding research in 1946, the American Cancer Society has devoted nearly $3.5 billion to research and has played a role in many major cancer breakthroughs, including chemotherapy, Pap tests, and mammography.

Child Find for Children with Disabilities in Need of Special Education or 504 Services

Child Find

The Crittenden County School District keeps educational records in a secure location in each school and Board office.

The Crittenden County School District obtains written consent from a parent or eligible student (age 18 or who is attending a postsecondary institution), before disclosing personally identifiable information to an entity or individual not authorized to receive it under FERPA.

For students who have been determined eligible for Special Education, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parents when they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. The Crittenden County School District may destroy the educational records of a child without parent request 5 years after they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may later be needed for Social Security benefits or other purposes. The Crittenden County School District may retain, for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student's name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance records, classes attended, grade level completed, and year completed.

Children eligible for Special Education include those children with disabilities who have autism, deaf-blindness, developmental delay, emotional-behavior disability, hearing impairment, mental disability, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, other health impairment, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, or visual impairment and who because of such an impairment need Special Education services.

Children eligible for 504 services include those children who have a current physical or mental impairment that currently substantially limits some major life activity which causes the student's ability to access the school environment or school activities to be substantially limited.

The Crittenden County School District has an ongoing "Child Find" system, which is designed to locate, identify and evaluate any child residing in a home, facility, or residence within its geographical boundaries, age three (3) to twenty-one (21) years, who may have a disability and be in need of Special Education or 504 services. This includes children who are not in school; those who are in public, private, or home school; those who are highly mobile such as children who are migrant or homeless; and those who are advancing from grade to grade, who may need but are not receiving Special Education or 504 services.

The district's "Child Find" system includes children with disabilities attending private or home schools within the school district boundaries who may need special education services.

The Crittenden County School District will make sure any child enrolled in its district who qualifies for Special Education or 504 services, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided appropriate Special Education or 504 services at no cost to the parents of the child.

Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Crittenden County School District find any child who may have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. The District needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child; the name, address, and phone number(s) of the parents or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if Special Education or 504 services are needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways the Crittenden County School District collects the information needed. The information the school District collects will be used to contact the parents of the child and find out if the child needs to be evaluated or referred for Special Education or 504 services.

If you know of a child who lives within the boundaries of the Crittenden County School District, who may have a disability, and may need but is not receiving Special Education or 504 services, please call 965-3525 or send the information to:

Karen Nasser, Director of Special Education and Section 504 Coordinator

Any information the District collects through "Child Find" is maintained confidentially.

Back 2 School

From the superintendent...

We have certainly been anxiously awaiting the arrival of the 2010/11 school year. The school year starts for students on Thursday, Aug. 12 with a full day of engaging instructional activities prepared right out of the gate. We believe that all of our efforts in the school district center around building a culture where each and every student has the opportunity to develop his or her talents to the fullest extent possible. I hope at the end of the 2010/11 school year, whether you are board member, parent, student, staff member, community leader or administrator, you will be able to say....Wow, what an amazing year of focused preparation and performance on behalf of students!

SPECIAL GUEST: OPENING DAY
For the first time in the history of the Crittenden County Schools, the Kentucky Commissioner of Education, Dr. Terry Holliday, will be the featured speaker for our opening day events. We are certainly hon-

Dr. Rachel Yarbrough
Superintendent of schools
rachel.yarbrough@crittenden.kyschools.us ored that he accepted our request to attend Crittenden County's back to school festivities. It will be a wonderful opportunity for Dr. Holliday to experience firsthand the quality of people working each and every day on behalf of the students in this county. We are proud to showcase the great student achievement initiatives, excellent staff members, our commitment to improvement, and the Crittenden County School District's "2020 Vision for Student Learning." He will certainly know what "Rocket Pride" is all about after spending time with us!

STRATEGIC PLANNING
Our summer leadership retreat (board members, supervisors, school/district administrators) provided the first of a series of conversations designed to get input from all stakeholders on a Crittenden County School District Strategic Plan. This plan will focus on where we want to be three years from now and "next steps" that will mark the path in key areas of our school district (instruction, assessment, community relations, food service, transportation, technology, early childhood, leadership, and maintenance/custodial). You will hear more about this as the school year progresses.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT
Continuous learning is a pattern of behavior for all of the instructional staff in the Crittenden County Schools. I heard a great quote once that said, "The more you know....The more you know you don't know." In this ever changing global/information culture, teachers and school leaders must continue to learn, grow and develop to meet the needs of our learners of today. For our certified staff, we have been involved in some fantastic professional development activities which will enhance the learning experience for students:

MATH IN FOCUS
K-5 teachers have been trained in a new math instructional program known as "Math In Focus." This textbook and instructional approach will provide our students with outstanding math instruction that is rigorous and matches the newly adopted college/readiness Kentucky core standards in math. Look for more information about this from the teachers.

MATH TEXTBOOK ADOPTION:
Middle/High School
Our incoming students in middle and high school will encounter new math textbooks and technology opportunities for the upcoming school year. We certainly needed to update this area in the district and have efficiently planned for this to occur.

PD INSTITUTE
The certified staff in our schools will participate in an annual two-day professional development instructional strategies institute on our campus on Friday, Aug. 6 and Monday, Aug. 9. The focus for these two days will be on implementing the new math and language arts Kentucky Core Academic Standards, assessment for learning strategies, understanding digital teaching and learning, utilization of technology as a tool to enhance learning, legal issues updates and curriculum team meetings. These two days certainly prove invaluable to getting all of our instructional leaders on the "same page" with a focus and purpose for instruction.

KENTUCKY CORE ACADEMIC NETWORKS
Just this past week, several of our Crittenden County teachers in math and language arts participated in the state's regional training on the new content standards "roll out." We also have school/district level administrators who will be participating in regional trainings this school year to learn more about the revised core standards of learning that have been adopted in math and language arts. I will keep the community updated on these revisions.

NEW FACES/NEW PLACES
Let me also let you know how excited I am about the new staff members who have been added to the Crittenden County Rocket Team. You will see some familiar faces in different places as well as some new faces who have been added. Please take time to get to know the new employees and we will provide you with some of the program changes/enhancements in the upcoming editions of "Super News" in The Crittenden Press.
As you can see, we have truly been anxiously awaiting the 2010/11 school year. On behalf of our students, staff, administrators, and board of education, let's collectively make Crittenden County Schools a premiere district for focused student learning. What an awesome time to be associated with the Crittenden County Schools.

CCES gets new roof and new offices

While the students are enjoying what little summer they have left before returning to school, the Crittenden County Elementary School is undergoing a few repairs and some remodeling, trying to get it all done before the first bell of the year. After receiving enough state facility dollars to replace their old roof, the new one that is being pitched is expected to last 30 years, according to maintenance supervisor, Greg Binkley. Other remodeling taking place are within the school's offices. With the moving of the teachers' workroom, Melissa Tabor's office has been extended, while LaVanda Holloman has moved to where the workroom once was. Pictured to the left is David Perryman as he works on the ceiling tile in Mrs. Tabor's new office and below is a picture of the new roof in progress.

CCES General Information

From the principal...

Greetings Crittenden County Elementary School Families:
It is with great pleasure that I write to welcome you and your children to the 2010-2011 school year.
I hope your summer has been filled with fun family activities. How quickly summer concludes and our thoughts turn to preparing for another school year! The beginning of a new school year is a time of excitement and activity for all, and this year is no exception.
We are happy to have our returning students and staff, and we want to take this opportunity to give a special welcome to new faces. New staff members include Mrs. Daphne James, first grade teacher; Mrs. Cassie Green, first grade teacher; and Ms. C. D. McCord, SDI teacher.
We are excited to have these new educators on our team, and look forward to working with them for the benefit of children.
Our first event of the new school year will be "Sneak-A-Peek" night on Tuesday, Aug. 10 from 6-8 p.m. The intent of this night is to allow your children, accompanied by you, to locate their classroom, meet their teacher(s), and drop off their classroom supplies. We hope that this short visit will help children feel more comfortable beginning the first day of school. You will also have the opportunity to fill out paperwork at this time. After visiting the classroom, you may take your child to the multi-purpose room to obtain information regarding food services, bus transportation, Family Resource Center, sports, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, PTO, health services, and much more. We hope everyone will be able

Melissa Tabor
CCES Principal
melissa.tabor@crittenden.kyschools.us to attend this event.

As we begin this year, please remember that this is your school and we welcome your involvement. We welcome you to be an active participant in our school and encourage you to participate in SBDM and PTO meetings. Please check our website and school sign for dates and times. Our PTO is an outstanding volunteer organization that would appreciate your help and involvement.
To increase communication between home and school and help teach students responsibility, we are asking students in 1st-5th grades to purchase an agenda book. The cost of the book is $5 and can be purchased in the library on "Sneak-A-Peek" night or from homeroom teachers on the first day of school.
We encourage you to write notes to the teacher about any questions or concerns you may have. The agenda book is only effective if both teacher and parent check it daily. The student handbook is also printed in the front of the agenda book. This is a great resource that includes important dates, a list of faculty and staff, attendance procedure, and much more.
Due to a change in the district calendar, our instructional day has been extended by five minutes. Therefore, classroom instruction will begin at 7:50 a.m., and end at 3 p.m. Students may arrive at 7:20 a.m., and report to their homeroom to begin preparing for the school day. Breakfast will be served between 7:20-7:45 a.m.

We will continue this year with the same drop-off and pick-up procedures as last year:
• Morning Drop-off begins at 7:20 a.m., around the circle in the front of the building. Children should circle to the front of the vehicle and onto the sidewalk. Children must report directly to their homeroom before going to any other part of the building.
• Afternoon Pick-up begins at 3:05 p.m., and takes place around the circle in the front of the building also. If you pick your child up from school, you should not arrive early and park in the parking lot. Instead please arrive behind the last round of buses. Please remain in your cars as children will be watching for you to pull up.
• For the safety of everyone, please stay in single file and do not pass to the right of the vehicles.
I am eager to open our doors and have students and teachers back in the building so we can continue striving toward our goal of providing students with the finest elementary school education possible. Everyone at CCES is looking forward to an outstanding school year. Please know that my door is always open to you, and I hope that you will feel free to call or come by if you have questions, concerns, or ideas to share.
In closing, please know that our staff is fully dedicated to making Crittenden County Elementary School a place where students feel safe and are able to learn and achieve at high levels. I am very proud of our students and staff and look forward to a great year. Working together, our students will soar!

CCMS General Information

From the principal...

On behalf of the staff at Crittenden County Middle School, I would like to extend a warm welcome and invitation to you. I am so excited to be your principal and look forward to meeting and working with each of you as the year progresses. Please know that you are always a welcome guest in our school. Please feel free to call or stop by in the upcoming weeks before school starts if you have any questions or concerns.

At CCMS, developing strong parent-school relationships is one of our top priorities and is vital to our school. It's going to be a great year, and I look forward to sharing it with you.

Tips for packing healthy school lunches for your child

(StatePoint) Getting kids to eat healthy can be tricky, especially when you're not with them during school lunchtime.

A little creative planning and the right food choices can make healthy eating fun, giving kids the nutrition, energy and stamina they need to do well in school.

Get Kids Involved

Take children shopping for healthy foods they like. Let them choose favorite sandwich stuffers, vegetables, fruits and juice. Only buy healthy items, so kids can't be tempted by junk foods.

Each evening pack the next day's lunch together, letting kids choose their main dish, snacks and beverage.

Have Fun

Have kids help create fun sandwiches or silly sides, such as "ants on a log" (raisins atop peanut butter on celery). Share foods and stories from your childhood. This year is particularly nostalgic for parents who were kids in the '80s, as it's the 30th birthday of the juice box, a staple of many childhood lunches.

For even more fun, get creative with your kids and make your own music video as part of a contest honoring the juice box birthday. Visit www.juice-boxbirthday.com to hear a new tune from The Juice Box Heroes and submit your family's original take on the song's music video. Prizes include $2,500, a year's supply of juice boxes and more. The contest runs from August 3 to October 31.

"With a little ingenuity you can help kids form good eating habits while having fun," says Candace Cameron Bure, mother of three and star of "Full House" and the current hit show, "Make it Or Break It," who is currently celebrating the juice box birthday with her family. "The juice box was a part of my childhood and with my family's busy lifestyle, I love giving my kids convenient and healthy treats I know and trust."

HAVE A SAFE SCHOOL YEAR

The safety of our community is very important to us, which is why we support Senate Bill 23, the new law prohibiting texting while driving.

Highlights of Senate Bill 23 Include:

- Regardless of age, drivers will not write, send or receive text messages while operating a motor vehicle, including a motorcycle or moped, on the traveled portion of the roadway.
- If under 18, no cell phone use is permitted except to summon medical help or law enforcement.

Avoid distracted driving and keep your eyes on the road!

CCHS General Information

From the principal...

To the Crittenden County community, I am excited to write to you as the principal of Crittenden County High School. I feel both honored and humbled by this new role and the opportunity to serve your children and grandchildren alongside the highly professional faculty and staff of CCHS. I am extending an open invitation to you to come visit our school and, most importantly, become involved in our school on a regular basis.

I encourage you and your student to attend our Back to School Bash on July 29, from 5-7 p.m. in the multipurpose room. There will be community vendors, free food, and free school supplies. Also, please take advantage of this time to pay textbook fees, buy parking permits, bank funds in a cafeteria account, and pick up your student's class schedule. We would love to see you there!

My vision for CCHS is to prepare all of our students for success every day. Every student is different; therefore every road to success may differ. We are going to provide rigorous and relevant activities in all our classes to help students develop the skills they need to function successfully and productively as citizens, employees/employers, entrepreneurs and life-long learners. The 21st Century is calling for skills that were not as urgent when we graduated from high school. We are in fact preparing students for jobs that have not yet been created; which is a difficult thing to wrap our minds around. To learn more about Crittenden County's "2020 Vision," please view the fall edition of our e-zine, The Connection, at HYPERLINK "http://www.crittenden.kyschools.us/" <http://www.crittenden.kyschools.us/>.

Throughout the school year, your student's teachers and I will be making a concerted effort to keep you abreast of your student's academic progress. In addition to our school website, newsletters, Twitter tweets, Facebook posts, telephone, e-mail, and face-to-face communications, I also encourage you to contact our central office so that you may gain free, online access to the Infinite Campus Parent Portal, 965-3525. From the portal you will be able to see, in real-time, current assignments and grades that your student has in each class, as well as links to contact each teacher.

We value your input. Please don't hesitate to contact your student's teachers and administrators whenever you have a question or concern. You may contact us at 965-2248 or via e-mail addresses available from our school website, HYPERLINK "http://www.crittenden.kyschools.us/cchs" www.crittenden.kyschools.us/cchs.

I look forward to working with community members and parents and, over time, earning your trust and realization that all the decisions that are made at CCHS are driven by what's best for Crittenden County's kids!

Physical education in first person with Angela Starnes

In physical education, every child should feel like a winner. As the physical educator at Crittenden Elementary, I try to expose the children to a variety of activities such as golf, basketball, volleyball, gymnastics, racquet sports, dance, roller-skating, games, fitness events, kite flying and even fishing.

My goal is to help the children achieve their maximum fitness level while acquiring knowledge of different healthy life skills. Through this exposure, every child will be able to excel, have positive self-esteem and have the knowledge and skills to lead a healthy and happy life.

August news

To ensure the safety of the children, they will need to wear tennis shoes and comfortable clothes to physical education. Your child will attend physical education twice a week. If you informed me in the past of a child's physical limitations, I will need an updated report.

Help kids get organized for school

(StatePoint) Keeping track of schoolwork and extra-curricular activities can be tough on kids and parents alike. While most kids will happily coordinate school outfits, few will be as conscientious in organizing homework and supplies.

Whether keeping track of class assignments or compiling resources for extracurricular activities, students have dozens of documents to organize, along with their own ways of doing it.

Here are some tips to help:

- Consider the order of classes and encourage your child to use supplies accordingly. Instead of lugging around three notebooks each morning, consider consolidating to one product that has three different sections. Be sure to find products with pockets or other methods of storing loose papers and handouts.
- Ask children to gather insights from older friends who may have taken the same courses. Does a math class involve lots of hand-in assignments? Then a binder may be better than a folder for collating materials.

- Think beyond the classroom. If your child will be completing homework en route to practices or games, or while waiting on a sibling, it’s important to have easily transportable school supplies.
- A student planner and dry-erase board are good ideas for coordinating school and extra curricular activities, but if your whole family is wired, consider an Internet or smartphone application with a shared family calendar.
- Don't overlook non-traditional supplies that help students succeed. If your child dreads research papers, consider software to help, such as Builder Research Paper Edition from Mead (www.meadbuilder.com). It helps to plan, organize and write better research papers using a step-by-step guide.

Good organization can reduce student anxiety and parental nagging — something sure to promote family peace.

Crittenden Countians head to Washington

How would it feel to leave your home and farm, friends and neighbors, sell everything but what you could carry on a train and head for a new state all the way across the nation? This is what many Crittenden County families did in the years 1904-1905.

They were mostly from the Lone Star and Piney Creek neighborhoods and they were headed for the State of Washington. They were promised profitable cropland, good schools and churches, thunderstorms were rare and cyclones unknown. The mild climate was extremely beneficial to raising crops and fruit, and also good for one's health.

In April 1904, a big crowd of friends and neighbors gathered at Crayneville to see a crowd off for Washington State. In March of 1905, another passenger car of 70 local people headed west by rail. Included in this group were Monroe Andrews, wife and children; W.J. Riley; Harve Vinson, wife and child; J.M. McDowell; Laura Cole; Sam Stovall, wife and child; John Hill, wife and children; J.H. Shinall, wife and children; Ed Hill, wife and children; J.W. Maxwell; James Johnson; Ned Cruce and wife; Press Cruce; Ben Belt, wife and son; Jim McCaslin, wife and children; R.F. Scott and children; John Alexander, wife and children; Prince Pickens, colored, wife and daughters; W.S. Hamby and two sons; Sam Turley and son; Mrs. Emma C. Crayne; R.P. McCaslin; and Bulger Hill. This made the car load for which Bulger Hill was mostly responsible. Here is the history behind this migration to Washington.

From Crittenden Press, Oct. 9, 1969 - Crittenden County Natives in Washington. This article also appeared in the Bathell, Washington News.

A Toppenish doctor was once heard to say, "How come so many people around here are Baptists from Crittenden County, Ky.?"

A bit of Valley history reveals the answer for the doctor and for a younger generation beginning to ask the same question about the Crittenden County folk and their descendants.

If your name is or was Woodall, Hill, Jacobs, Crayne, Donelson, McAllister, Rushing, Cruce, Stovall, Farmer or McCaslin - to name a few - you could be one of these people.

How come so many people came from Crittenden County, Ky., not all Baptist, and how did they get here?

It began with Hasdon Hill (also called Bulger), whose Grand Army of the Republic grave, for Union soldiers, is in the Zillah Cemetery with numerous others of Crittenden County origin.

He arrived at Old Town, now called Union Gap in 1888, landing first at Tacoma with a sister and husband named Sam Farmer and a family named McAllister. Hill had six sons and a mind-ailing wife, resulting from childbirth, who died in 1897.

The railroad came and with it the means of recruiting new and needed settlers. These Kentucky people were descendants of pioneer Kentuckians who had followed Daniel Boone down into the wilderness after the Revolutionary War to establish roots.

When the Civil War came, it brought economic disaster to these growers of tobacco and livestock. Recovery had not come at the turn of the century.

A peculiar kind of agony was produced when opinion was so divided over the war that Kentucky was declared neutral for a time.

A succession of three migrations brought them about 1904, all from near Marion, the county seat of Crittenden. They sold their farms, some to pay the fare, loaded their possessions, often only clothes, feather beds and homemade quilts, on the cars. A letter from Mrs. Ida Carpenter, when she was Miss McCallister, records their departure thus: "I shall never forget our last night in Kentucky. A lot of people gathered at Aunt Bell's home. We sang, Blest Be The Tie That Binds, God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again and Abide With Me.

The next day we boarded the train at Crayne, our nearest railway station. Just everybody around was there and we felt sad as our train pulled out.

When the train got to Marion, it pulled in slowly and the band was playing My Old Kentucky Home and Home Sweet Home. We think Washington is a wonderful state now, but at that moment we were not very confident.

A relative met the train at Toppenish, Miss McCallister relates, and told them he had ridden his Cayuse all the way on the run and met their query of "what ever is a Cayuse?" with a teasing answer in which he gave a description of a weird animal. Continuing to jest with them, he said the hay dericks, which stood like sentinels everywhere, were western milking machines. The same cousin wasn't kidding when he told the girls that they were to treat strangers as strangers and not greet everyone as a friend as was their custom back home.

Memories of hickory forests, land measured by "Pole" - from such and such a clump or stump, sorghum molasses, coon hunts, hounds, and brush arbor camp meetings held by traveling revivalists, were replaced by long hours in hop yards. Sage and sand called for a whole new concept of living and broke their longstanding clannish ways.

Piney Creek and Lone Star schools were forgotten as Satus, Alfalfa, Toppenish, and Old Town developed and replaced them.

The grandparents of immigrants to the Valley freed their slaves; the sons joined units fighting for the Union, but as a state they were not loved by either side and suffered horrors from radicals on both sides.

Hasdon Hill, known to his clannish Dutch, Irish, English kin as "Uncle Bulger" returned to Kentucky and was paid by the railroad to persuade settlers to come to the Yakima Valley. He was feted with glad hands and big Sunday dinners to extol the virtues of this "land of plenty."

Three of his sons, Will, Howe and Frank Hill had established homes near Zillah, which still stand today. New farms of hops, fruit and potatoes were in need of agricultural workers, so these folks, as do migrants today, began as farm laborers.

They debarked at Toppenish from the immigrant cars, provided by the railroad to hold the people and their possessions. The long train ride was a big adventure for them. Many had never been more than a few miles from home.

Today these people have been absorbed into the economy of the valley, state and nation. Political leaders, writers and artists were produced from their ranks. One was Sunnyside Chief of Police for many years, O.E. Hill; one descendant is now a state senator, Perry B. Woodall; and even a National College Queen, Judy Hill, evolved from this migration from Kentucky.

Although these Crittenden

Hasdon "Uncle Bulger" Hill

County families moved far away and made new homes and lives for themselves, they never forgot their home state and community. Letters appeared in The Press for many years later, writing the editor and wanting to tell everyone about their lives in Washington and to keep in touch with their friends and neighbors they left behind.

There were so many Crittenden County people who lived in Yakima Valley and Toppenish, Wash., that for many, many years, every summer there was an event called the Kentucky Reunion. People from that area and many people from this area would travel to Yakima and attend this annual event. I do not know if they still have this every year, but I know they did as late as in the 1990s.

Several miles from Crayne, located off of the Lone Star Road on the Taft Rushing farm, lies the little family cemetery known as the Hill Cemetery. In this cemetery are buried Hill and Woodall ancestors of many families that made the journey from Crayneville to Yakima and Zillah in the early 1900s.

Back to school shopping on a budget

It is officially back-to-school season. Many retailers have started running back to school shopping ads and with less than 30 days before the first day of school in many school districts, it is time to start planning for your back to school needs. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, $7.2 billion was spent at family clothing stores in August 2009, second only to the holiday shopping months of November and December.

If you have children in school, you know to plan for back to school expenses; however, these may not be part of your regular budget, since it is not a reoccurring monthly expense. Similar to holiday shopping, you can reduce your back to school stress and expenses by developing a budget prior to heading out to your local retailer. Planning in advance gives you time to shop for the specific items that you need at the right price.

Nancy Hunt Home Notes

UK Cooperative Extension Agent

Start with the class supply list. Inventory any items that you may already have at home or remaining from last school year, such as backpacks, folders, paper, and so forth. Identify the items on the list that you will need to purchase, look for retailer sale ads in the newspaper or on the internet. Many retailers will have large discounts on class supplies to entice you to visit the store, take your class supply list with you and only purchase those items on the list. If there is a summer reading list, talk with students who recently completed the grade you child will be entering, they may be willing to let you borrow or purchase their books at a reduced rate.

Back to school is also a good time to inventory your clothes closets. Identify clothes which have been out grown or your children will no longer wear. Consider taking clothes which are in good condition and still in style to a children's consignment shop or have a yard sale.

Check with your child's school to determine if the school has a dress code, then make an inventory of the items that your child will need to start the school year. Identify if certain items can wait until later in the school year, for example, you probably do not need to purchase a winter coat in August. By dividing your school clothes shopping over several months, you are spreading out the expenses.

Prioritize your school shopping list in order of importance, while talking to your children about the difference between needs versus wants. Develop a budget based on your needs; if you still have additional funds available then you can allocate some money to wants. While you are doing your back to school shopping you are less likely to overspend if you pay with cash, as opposed to using your credit card. Shopping with a credit card is very convenient, but since there are no immediate consequences for using your credit card, you are more likely to overspend. If you are using cash, once all of your cash is gone, you are finished with your back to school shopping. Spending cash makes you much less likely to overspend if you cannot afford it.

For more information contact Nancy Hunt at the Crittenden County Extension Office by calling 965-5236 or come by the office at 1534 U.S. Highway 60 East in Marion, Kentucky.

Hollamon retires after 27 years

Staff report

After 27 years of teaching family and consumer science, Dawn Hollamon has decided to retire and pursue other ventures.

The decision to retire came for Hollamon after reaching her 27th year of teaching, the minimum requirement for retirement.

"I just have so many other things that I want to do," Hollamon said. "I want to spend more time with my family, do more scrapbooking and become more involved with my church."

During her 27 years at Crittenden County High School, she has taught family and consumer science, previously known as home economics, and has been thoroughly involved with Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA), where she was graciously given the nickname, Momma Holla.

While Hollamon looks forward to having more free time, there's still going to be a part of her that will miss teaching.

"I'm happy about my decision but I'm also kind of emotional," Hollamon said. "I'm really going to miss the students and my colleagues. I've been blessed to have had really good friendships while working at the school."

With the free time, however, Hollamon will be able to visit her older daughter, Mary, more often at Freed-Hardeman University in Tennessee and support her son, Micah, as he plays in the band. As for her husband, Greg, Hollamon says that he's also happy with her decision.

"It will be a lot less stressful now with just one of us working," she said.

A reception will be held from 2-4 p.m., for Hollamon Saturday, at the Woman's Club next to the Marion Post Office. Her first official day of retirement will be on Aug. 1.

Stephen, Stacey, Lauren & Cole McKinney, along with Tony, Heather, Taylor and Brady Belt took The Press with them when they visited Shell Island while vacationing in Panama City Beach.

Donna, Vivian and Barry Workman took The Press on a sight-seeing vacation to Destin, Fla. in July.

Emily and Samantha Tinsley took The Press with them on a western states road trip that included a trip to South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Utah and Idaho. While in South Dakota, they stopped at Mt. Rushmore.

Promoting summer safety

Crittenden Health Systems held its annual health fair two weeks ago and according to Donnetta Travis, Director of Marketing, it was one of their best turnouts by far with over 100 participants. Geared towards promoting healthier lifestyles, the health fair also allows for certain services to be available to those who may not have health insurance or can't afford a trip to the doctor. This year's theme was summer safety, focusing on staying safe in the summer heat, pool safety and dehydration. To the left, Elizabeth Floyd buys refreshments from Travis during the event.

Assistance available for ice storm damaged trees

Forest landowners who suffered extensive damage from the 2009 ice storm may still be wondering what to do to restore damaged forests. Assistance is available from the Kentucky Division of Forestry (KDF) – through a federal grant from the U.S. Forest Service – and the Kentucky Division of Conservation and local conservation districts. The partnership has enabled conservation districts to hire contractors to supplement assistance available from the Division of Forestry. These contractors are available to help private forest landowners throughout central and western Kentucky. They work closely with division foresters and, like division foresters, are available to provide assistance to forest landowners at no cost. Private forest landowners seeking advice on managing their woodlands are asked to contact the Division of Forestry office that serves their area. Either the division or the contractors will come out, develop management plans, and work with landowners to help them achieve their objectives. If cost-share money is available, they can help landowners understand the requirements and completion of the practice after the landowner receives approval. For more information or to request forestry assistance, please contact your local KDF office or visit www.forestry.ky.gov.

New or renewal CRP registration opens Aug. 2

There will be a general sign-up for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) Aug. 2 through Aug. 27. During the registration period, farmers and ranchers may offer eligible land for CRP's competitive general sign-up at their county Farm Service Agency (FSA) office. The 2008 Farm Bill authorized USDA to maintain CRP enrollment up to 32 million acres. CRP is a voluntary program that assists farmers, ranchers and other agricultural producers to use their environmentally sensitive land for conservation benefits. Producers enrolling in CRP plant long-term, resource-conserving covers in exchange for rental payments, cost-share and technical assistance. CRP protects millions of acres of America's topsoil from erosion and is designed to improve the nation's natural resources base. Participants voluntarily remove environmentally sensitive land from agricultural production by entering into long-term contracts for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, participants receive annual rental payments and a payment of up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing conservation practices. Land currently not enrolled in CRP may be offered in this sign-up provided all eligibility requirements are met. Additionally, current CRP participants with contracts expiring this fall covering about 4.5 million acres may make new contract offers. Contact your county FSA office at 988-2180 for more information.

Deadline is Saturday for LBL quota deer hunts

Saturday is the deadline for Land Between the Lakes applications for 2010 quota deer hunts. To submit a hunt application, go online to www.lbl.org and apply before the end of the month. You can revisit the LBL website in late August and use your login information and password to see if you were drawn and print your permit and maps. If you are not drawn, your updated preference point information will be displayed. Deer harvested on LBL are bonus deer and do not count toward statewide bag limits. All quota hunt permits will be either-sex permits. Also, there is an LBL-wide one antlered buck limit.

Continued from page 1 and push mower drags are for the common man. Anyone can bring their lawn tractor to the fair and compete in the barrel races, even the zero-turn mowers. Blades must be removed and riders must wear helmets.

"Barrel racing is a cool deal. It's a lot of fun," said Wallace, whose company produces several events at county fairs each year and even includes a point system for regular participants.

"Junior Hardesty from Marion is one of our regular drivers," Wallace said. "I think he's run every derby we've put on this year."

Drivers should be at the fairgrounds with their rigs by 5:30. Barrel racing is for drivers 10-up and cost is $5 per entry.

There were a number of top-notch entries in Saturday night's mud bog to open the Crittenden County Lions Club Fair. Pictured at top is part of the lineup of vehicles that participated. Directly above is one of the rigs pushing through the pit.

Dry weather boosts sales at water plant

Dry weather in June and July is creating a spike in water usage throughout Crittenden and Livingston counties.

Crittenden-Livingston Water District, which is headquartered in Salem and has a water plant on the Cumberland River at Pinckneyville, has been selling near record amounts of water.

"The plant is producing about 1.2 million gallons per day," said Ronnie Slayden, district superintendent.

Crittenden County got 2.43 inches of rain in June and less than two inches so far in July, according to the Kentucky Mesonet weather station at Mattoon.

Slayden said the water district sold $188,000 in water to residential and wholesale customers during June, and July figures are trending near the same. That June figure is the second highest sales number in the district's history. The only month it sold more water was in August 2007 during a severe drought.

Slayden said watering flow-ers, gardens and lawns drive up the demand during periods of low precipitation.

The district had been struggling to meet its budgetary needs until the last couple of months, Slayden said. The operation's annual spending is about $2 million. It needs to average around $168,000 in monthly sales to meet its budget. From January through May, its sales were less than that, about $160,000. In May, the district had receipts of only $146,000.

June's near record sales amounted to 31 million gallons of water. Residential users used 13 million. In addition to residential customers, the district sells wholesale water to Salem, Ledbetter, Smithland, Grand Rivers and Lyon County water districts.

More plead guilty to writing bad checks

A half dozen more suspects appeared in Crittenden District Court last week to answer charges of writing cold checks. Most of the cases involved one or only a few checks; however, one case involved 38 checks, resulting in fines, fees and restitution of more than $7,000 for the defendant.

District Judge Stephen Hayden sentenced Steven Smith, 22, of Marion to 365 days in jail with the entire sentence probated for two years under the condition that the defendant pay restitution to the merchants who accepted the cold checks and that he pay fines and fees to the court.

Fines equal the amount of the bad check, and defendants are generally given 10 days in jail for each check.

Smith was ordered to pay $200 a month until the restitution, fines and fees are paid. That will take almost three years. If Smith fails to make a payment, he will have to serve one year in jail.

Smith was charged with 38 counts of theft by deception for the cold checks he wrote to local businesses. The amount of the checks equaled just under $1,900.

Last week, five others were sentenced to fines, fees and restitution in cold check cases. County Attorney Rebecca Johnson said there have been an extraordinary number of bad check cases this year.

Marion man sentenced to jail for DUI, drugs

A Crittenden County man was sentenced last week to 365 days in jail on a variety of drug charges.

Gary Owen Boyd Jr., 41, of Marion was originally charged with first-degree possession of a controlled substance, first offense; third-degree possession of a controlled substance, first offense; illegal possession of a legend drug, controlled substance not in its original container, DUI and careless driving after being stopped by Marion Policeman Bobby West on Feb. 14.

Boyd pleaded guilty after some of the charges were merged and others reduced. District Judge Steven Hayden sentenced Boyd to a year in jail with 10 days to serve and the balance probated for two years on the drug charges.

Adult Ed Center moves from school to Bellville

Crittenden County Adult Education Center has moved to 118 East Bellville Street.

The program had operated for the last nine years out of a trailer in front of Crittenden

County Elementary School.

Susan Jackson, director of the adult education program, said the local school district had allowed it to use part of its facilities until a few weeks ago. The school system needed the space, so the adult education center had to move.

City and county governments pitched in to help the center pay its rent for one year at the new location, in the former USDA FSA offices, which are now owned by the Crittenden County Conservation District.

The adult education center will be able to submit rental payments as part of its federal budget next year, but the move came just after the budgetary cycle this year.

"We have nowhere to go," Jackson told the fiscal court and city council last week when she appeared at their meetings lobbying for immediate assistance. Both agreed to help, splitting $8,400 in rental fees for the first year at the new location.

"We're normally known as the GED folks, but we do a lot more for the community," Jackson said.

The center has a staff of three instructors. It has 14 computer work stations, conducts training and GED tests.

County takes no action on CCEDC request for additional funding

Crittenden County Economic Development Corporation has asked the Crittenden County Fiscal Court to increase its funding this year.

Magistrates discussed the request at their meeting last week. The CCEDC, which receives funding from public and private sources, generally receives $10,000 annually from the county. It wants another $5,000 this year, and perhaps subsequent years.

CCEDC Director Dr. Stan Hoover told magistrates last week that computer and Internet service at the Marion Ed-Tech Center need to be upgraded.

"We are looking at doing away with our wireless (Internet Service Provider) and getting fiber optics," Hoover told the court.

Hoover said the number of investors in the CCEDC is dwindling and some have cut back on their investment dollars. Crittenden Health Systems recently cut its funding from $12,500 to $5,000 for the organization.

Cindy Davidson and Ralph Hendrix, instructors, help move the adult education program into a new location on East Bellville Street in the former USDA offices. The Crittenden County Adult Education Center is perhaps best known as the GED training center.

The court took no action on the request, but suggested the matter be revisited again later in the fiscal year.

Magistrates request help from coal funds to pay debt on county jail

Crittenden County magistrates last week approved a resolution seeking coal severance funds from the State of Kentucky in the amount of $270,820 over the next two years.

If approved, the money will be used for debt reduction on the bonds sold to build the Crittenden County Detention Center.

PAPER

fluorspar mining industry in Crittenden County.

Evers Mick died suddenly on Christmas Eve in 1969, leaving his wife, Lucille, and son, Paul, to carry on the family business. Paul was still in college at Murray State at the time of his father's death. He was studying journalism, so his involvement in the family newspaper was natural.

For a time, Paul Mick traveled back and forth from Murray to Marion while he completed his degree. Eventually, he took on the role of editor and publisher through the 1970s and 1980s. During the early 1980s, Mick grew the company by starting a new total-market-coverage publication - The Early Bird. His vision of a free product containing local and regional advertisements continues today, and reaches up to 11,300 homes weekly.

Lucille Mick passed away in 1989, heiring the newspaper to her two sons.

After Paul Mick was tragically murdered in his home in February 1990, his widow, the former Nancy Lucas, originally of Tolu, became the primary owner of the newspaper. Long-time employee John Lucas served as editor.

In 1993, a former Press sports writer, Chris Evans, was hired to oversee management of the newspaper. He continues in that capacity today as editor and publisher, and is married to the former Allison Mick, the third generation to be involved in the family business.

The Crittenden Press has been located at its current location at 125 E. Bellville St., in Marion since 1956. The newspaper carried a Friday dateline until 1957 when it changed to a Thursday publication as it is today (although it is available on newsstands on Wednesday afternoon).

From the 1970s until October 2008, the newspaper and Early Bird were printed on-site at the newspaper plant in Marion on a Goss Community Press. Almost two years ago, the company began outsourcing its printing to Quality Web of Elkton, Ky. Until that time, The Crittenden Press was one of a very few Kentucky weeklies still printing its own newspaper.

To mark its 50th year of family ownership, the newspaper has been offering special subscription rates throughout the month.

Long changes focus to football

Rocket Football
Senior wins annual Ironman competition

Jacob Long says he's dedicated himself to becoming a better football player in 2010, his senior season.

The linebacker/running back has certainly caught the attention of his coaches. Last week, Long won the annual preseason Ironman competition, the skills test that gauges a player's strength, agility and speed.

"Jacob has decided that he's going to play up to his potential this year," said coach Al Starnes. "When he first came to us, he was an animal the first couple of weeks, then we didn't hear much out of him. This year, his work ethic has changed."

Long, who went to school in Marion until sixth grade, spent four years in Grayson County before coming back to Crittenden County High School as a sophomore.

"I was just making stupid choices," Long said about his first couple of years with the team.

Starnes said he's always known Long had the skills necessary to be a top-notch player, but until this year he hasn't seen the dedication necessary to be something special.

"This year, I wanted (the Ironman title)," Long said. "I thought that winning it might motivate me more for the season."

Starnes says Long (5-foot-11, 200 pounds) will be a key factor in the offense and defense when the Rockets open Aug. 20 at Hopkins Central.

Long was the strongest Rocket by 40 pounds overall in the bench (255 pounds), clean (235) and squat (350). He also finished sixth in the 40-yard dash at 4.85 seconds.

The team hosts a scrimmage game on Friday, Aug. 13 against Muhlenberg County.

Bobcats prepare for KIT playoffs

The Bobcats had their first postseason game postponed a day when a one-game playoff between Fulton and Tradewater was needed Tuesday to determine a regular season KIT League champion.

Marion, who ended the season with a six-game losing streak, was to host the first game of a best-of-three first round postseason series on Tuesday, but because the Fulton-Tradewater game became necessary to crown a regular season champion, the opening round of the postseason was postponed until Wednesday, moving the entire postseason schedule back a day.

The game at Guess Field was scheduled for 7:05 p.m., Wednesday. Marion, the No. 4 seed with a 16-24 record in league play, will face the winner of Tuesday's Fulton-Tradewater game, which was not final at press time.

If results from previous meetings mean anything, Bobcat fans would prefer to meet the Pirates. The Bobcats had losing records against both Tradewater (4-6) and Fulton (2-8), but had a winning 3-2 record at home against the Pirates and managed one win on the road at Riverside Park. Against Fulton, however, Marion was winless on the road and went only 2-4 at the friendly confines of Guess Field.

Marion will play Game 2 and Game 3, if necessary, of the opening round postseason series on the road. Should the Bobcats advance, they will host the first game of the championship series on Saturday beginning at 7:05 p.m.

Postseason schedule

First round
Wednesday: Tradewater-Fulton winner at Marion, 7:05 p.m.
Wednesday: Tradewater-Fulton loser seed at Owensboro, 7 p.m.
Thursday: Marion at Tradewater-Fulton winner, 7 p.m.
Thursday: Owensboro at Tradewater-Fulton loser, 7 p.m.
Friday, if necessary: Marion at Tradewater-Fulton winner, 7 p.m.
Friday, if necessary: Owensboro at Tradewater-Fulton loser, 7 p.m.
Championship
Saturday: Higher seed at lower seed, 7 p.m.
Sunday: Lower seed at higher seed, 7 p.m.
Monday, if necessary: Lower seed at higher seed, 7 p.m.
Jankowski leaving to play for Cape Cod League
Travis Jankowski, who finished the KIT League season batting .485 to lead the league by more than 100 points, was invited Monday to join the Cape Cod League, the premiere amateur baseball league in the nation since 1885. The Lancaster, Pa. native will be playing for the Bourne Braves, replacing an outfielder who broke a wrist.

"I'm thrilled for the kid," Bobcats General Manager Gordon Guess said Monday evening. "It takes something to be invited up there."

That something was like nothing other seen in the KIT League this year. Besides getting a hit in nearly one of every two at-bats, Jankowski had an on-base percentage of .607. No other player in the league with more than 10 at-bats even reached .500 in that category. Additionally, in 40 games played, he reached on 62 hits and 35 walk, each more than anyone in the league, and was hit by eight pitches.

The only player to get on base more than 100 times, Jankowski made the most of his time on the bases, stealing a league-high 45 bags and scoring 42 runs, just four off the pace in that category. He added 28 RBI with 2 home runs and 14 doubles, while striking out only 10 times in 175 trips to the plate.

Guess said Jankowski, who approaches the game as a bit of a throwback with a quiet, business-like manner, was initially intent on finishing out the postseason with the Bobcats. After consulting with his father and baseball coaches from his high school playing days to now, though, the lanky left-handed hitter chose to head north for the rest of the summer.

Jankowski will leave for Monument Beach, Mass., home of the Braves, Wednesday, just hours before Marion's first postseason game at Guess Field. Because a Fulton-Tradewater playoff on Tuesday became necessary to determine the regular season champion, Bobcat fans were robbed of seeing their most thrilling player one last time when the postseason schedule was moved back one day.

Guess said Jankowski's absence in the No. 3 hole and center field will certainly change the line-up for Marion in the postseason, but he's ecstatic about one of his players getting noticed by such a prestigious league.

"That's what we're here for," Guess said. "To get these guys noticed, and now he's moving on to bigger and better things. I hope he does well."

Jankowski, in fact, will be Marion's second player on the 2010 roster to appear in the league. Gabe Shaw, a University of Louisville pitcher who won in his only appearance for the Bobcats, has a 4.50 earned run average and one save in three games for the Yarmouth-Dennis Red Sox. Shaw is a Paducah, Ky. native.

A bustling summertime retreat for the rich and famous, Cape Cod also draws lots of attention for aspiring baseball players. Scouts, media and as many as 2,000 fans at a game can feel like big-time baseball to most college players. The adjustment can be daunting for a KIT League player used to performing in front of only a few dozen fans, but the added exposure is what every player dreams of, Guess said.

Jankowski will have only six games with the Braves to showcase his baseball skills. However, he may get to extend the show, as the Braves are currently in second place in the Cape Cod League's western division, poised for the playoffs.

Leaving the still, sweltering humidity of a western Kentucky summer for an Atlantic Coast breeze may be a welcome change for Jankowski, who will be based with his new team only 270 miles from his college home of Stony Brook University in New York.

Prime seating

Jim and Merle Myers were recognized last week during a Marion Bobcats' game for their contributions and support for the local semi-pro baseball team. General Manager Gordon Guess said the couple are the most loyal fans, attending virtually every home game and sitting in the same spot. They have also contributed to the team, even donating transportation equipment for the club to take to away games. The Bobcats recognized the Myerses by dedicating their seats before Friday's game.

Men sentenced to federal prison

For roles in pot-growing conspiracy

STAFF REPORT

Three Marion men charged in U.S. District Court with conspiracy to grow marijuana have pleaded guilty and been sentenced.

Marion businessman and former pastor Nicky Davis, 57; Bobby Blackburn, 67; and Carl “CJ” Belt Jr., 37; were each sentenced recently in federal court in Paducah. They were individually charged last November with conspiracy to manufacture marijuana, over 100 plants.

Davis was sentenced on July 14 to serve 24 months in federal prison with three years of post-release supervision. Blackburn and Belt were sentenced in June. Belt was sentenced to 27 months with three years of post-release supervision and Blackburn was sentenced to 21 months with four years of post-release supervision. There is no parole in the federal court system.

Some court records have now been released and investigators are revealing more details about the pot-growing scheme that included three counties. The case was handled in federal court because of the scope of the conspiracy and the number of plants involved, according to Kentucky State Police Lt. Brent White.

Court records indicate that the three entered guilty pleas in March to growing a few hundred plants of marijuana in a broad conspiracy that was investigated for nine months starting in June of last year by Kentucky State Police, Crittenden County Sheriff's Department and Marion Police Department.

According to Davis' plea agreement, he entered into a plan with Belt and Blackburn to grow almost 400 marijuana plants. The plea agreement says Davis admitted that he gave Blackburn money to purchase the starter plants in April and May of 2009. Davis picked some of the marijuana growing locations, one of which was a farm in Salem belonging to an elderly woman for whom Davis purportedly had power of attorney. The plan was that after the marijuana was harvested by Belt, Davis would be the one to "get rid of it," according to court documents and police who monitored conversations between the three suspects.

In July 2009, unbeknownst to the group, one of the marijuana patches was located by law enforcement during a state police helicopter fly over of the county. Kentucky State Police detectives began conducting an electronic surveillance of the site and eventually identified other sites and began watching them, too.

In September of last year, police say Davis instructed Belt and Blackburn to go tend to the pot patch at the Salem farm after he picked up the elderly woman for her dialysis at an area medical office. Police say Davis left with the woman and minutes later, the other two suspects arrived and went to the growing site.

Davis' plea agreement also says that Belt and Blackburn went to the Salem marijuana patch and harvested the plants on Sept. 7, 2009 as police monitored their actions.

According to police, Davis was the one who orchestrated the operation. They say he told Belt and Blackburn to take the harvested pot to a building he owned on Adams Street in Marion. They did and law enforcement officials obtained a search warrant for the building and seized the harvested marijuana the following day. The investigation continued and eventually Kentucky State Police seized 397 pot plants grown over the course of the conspiracy.

The building on Adams Street was also seized and sold at public auction.

Lt. White said investigators believe that the marijuana was destined for two locations, one inside the county and another out of the area.

397 plants - 15 plots
Value over $750,000

Authorities say the three men convicted of conspiring to grow marijuana had planted several plots in the region. They were at the following locations:

- 3 plots at former spar mine off Ky. 70 at Frances.
- 1 plot behind Bells Mines Cemetery.
- 1 plot off Mexico Road near intersection of Marion Road.
- 4 plots off Claylick Creek Road.
- 3 plots on an elderly woman's farm near Salem.
- 3 plots off Poole Mill Road near Webster-Henderson County line on land owned by a retired circuit judge and near a church pastored by Davis.

City Utilities Director Brian Thomas holds in his hand three of the more than 80-year-old bolts from Marion's water main. Much of the line and its fittings have deteriorated or rusted away. Threads on the bolts are half gone. In some cases, Thomas said maintenance crews find only the square heads of bolts and nothing else.

Final escapee caught in Manchester

Authorities in Clay County, Ky., have captured escapee Alonzo Jackson, who walked away from a Crittenden County Detention Center work detail on June 30.

Jackson, 44, and Chase Bingham, 19, had both escaped by allegedly stealing a state highway department worker's private vehicle at the maintenance garage on Old Morganfield Road. An extensive search by local authorities shortly after the escape turned up nothing although the two were seen driving on Sisco Chapel Road and one of their jail-issued shirts was found in the roadway. The truck they allegedly took has still not been found.

Bingham was caught by state police in Clinton County, Ky., on July 4.

Jackson

Police in Manchester, Jackson's home town, had been on the lookout for him since the escape. They located his whereabouts over the weekend and tried to make an arrest, but Jackson got away. A few hours later, he turned himself in to Clay County authorities, said Crittenden Detention Center's Chief Deputy Tammy Robertson.

Arrangements are being made to have Jackson brought back to Crittenden County where he will face escape and theft charges. Jackson was serving time in the Crittenden jail for convictions in Clay and Laurel counties for possession of methamphetamine precursors and theft by unlawful taking. He was serving an eight-year sentence with two years to serve when he escaped. He had been at the Crittenden lockup for only about a month when he and Bingham walked away from their work release jobs with the state highway department.

stantly digging up and repairing the line, leaving Main Street looking like an asphalt mine field.

Utilities Director Brian Thomas says the water line along Main Street is made of six-foot sections which spring leaks often. The sections are fitted together and held by just two bolts at each junction. Many of the bolts have deteriorated and maintenance crews have to sleeve leaking joints with bell clamps that cost between $1,500 and $2,000 each, depending on size. The main line varies from four, six and eight inches in diameter. Plans call for replacing it with a 12-inch line.

"To put it bluntly, the water line is outdated, has outlived its useful life and is undersized," Thomas said.

The city's underground water system was started by the Kiwanis Club in or before 1923, according to local historian Brenda Underdown. Older citizens have often told the story that Julius Fohs agreed to donate Fohs Hall to the community if the city would complete its municipal water project.

The city has issued two boil water advisories in the past month because of water line breaks. Thomas also says the aged water main has very few valves and most of them don't work, which makes isolating trouble spots difficult. Now, when a major repair is necessary, the entire city loses water service. A new line, with new valves would prevent that, he said.
