Christian youth camps starting

Forty-six years after its humble beginnings, Western Kentucky Youth Camp is still going strong as a summer-time, Christian-oriented outing for youth from several states. The first of seven camps starts Saturday at the campgrounds in northern Crittenden County. Although the site suffered extensive damage from January's ice storm and hurricane-force winds on Feb. 11, camp facilities should be ready when youth ages 8-18 begin unpacking Saturday.

Youth of all ages still have time to register for the faith-based camp with a swimming pool, basketball courts, tennis courts and 130 acres of grounds. More information on the non-denominational camp are available at www.wkyc.org.

HogRock cycle rally starts today

The annual HogRock River Rally starts today (Thursday) in Cave in Rock, Ill., with gates opening at 8 a.m., for visitors to the four-day gathering of motorcycle enthusiasts. More motorcycles than usual should be expected to be heard rumbling through the county en route to and from the Ohio River ferry.

HogRock is located on a 115-acre farm on the Ohio River in Hardin County. It was started in 1997 and has grown to host thousands of motorcyclists and other rally-goers each year. Because of its adult theme, visitors to the rally — even the Web site at www.hogrock.com — must be 18 to enter.

This year's entry fee is $40 for the entire weekend. An array of bands and other events are slated for the rally, which ends Sunday.

This year's Little Sturgis Rally, the predecessor to such similar events in the area, will be July 16-19 at the Union County Fairgrounds in Sturgis.

Cancer screens offered Tuesday

A breast and cervical cancer screening will be held from 8:30 a.m., to 2 p.m., Tuesday at the Crittenden County Health Department. Transportation will be provided by PACS. If you need a ride, call Mona Manley at 965-5229. For more information, call the Crittenden County Health Department at 965-5215.

Online survey

The most recent Crittenden Press Online survey asked visitors: "What do you think land is worth in Crittenden County?" Eight-four percent of voters believe land is worth less today than it was believed to be worth just one year ago by prospectors.

The results of the survey:
Under $1,000 an acre.....42%
Between $1,000 - $1,500 ...42%
Between $1,500 - $2,000 ...10%
Over $2,000 an acre.....3%

Prisoner captured after leaving work detail

STAFF REPORT

An inmate who walked away from his work detail on Crayne Cemetery Road Tuesday morning was captured without incident less than an hour after he escaped.

Ryan Knight, 20, of Princeton was on work release from the Crittenden County Detention Center about 8:30 a.m., when he slipped away from his supervisor and work crew and got into a vehicle waiting for him at Crayne Cemetery, said Jailer Rick Riley. Knight was located in a Ford Explorer which was parked in a cornfield at the intersection of Crayne Cemetery Road and Ky. 902 north of Fredonia. The vehicle was spotted by Lt. Kevin Rogers, a Kentucky Vehicle Enforcement officer, who had responded to the area to help search for the escapee.

Knight and a female accomplice, identified by Kentucky State Police as 18-year-old Sarah C. Sorrells of Ed-dyville, were inside the Explorer, which was parked less than four miles from where he escaped from the work detail. Authorities were not sure why the vehicle was backed into the cornfield. A chain saw, which Knight had been using to trim ice storm debris and hanging limbs from the right-of-way of the county road, was found in the back of the SUV.

The county jailer said Knight and three other inmates were working with county road department employee Mike Weldon when the escape took place. County road department employees who supervise work releases program are not armed nor trained to confront escapees, said Crittenden County Judge-Executive Fred Brown.

Brown commended jail personnel and law enforcement agencies for responding and apprehending the escapee in a matter of minutes.

Knight was cutting limbs and trees with the chain saw and the rest of the crew was following behind him with a chipping machine pulled behind a county work truck.

"They were in those sharp curves near the cemetery and (Knight) got out of their sight," Riley said.

The jailer explained that Weldon went to look for Knight when he no longer heard the chain saw running. When he realized the inmate was gone, he immediately called for help.

Riley said standard procedures kicked into gear and the inmate was located in about 45 minutes with help from area law enforcement agencies.

"We did everything right and were able to get him quickly," Riley added.

Knight is serving a five-year sentence on a Crittenden County burglary conviction. He is also facing a charge of first-degree criminal mischief in Cald-

One man's trash...

J.A. "James" Dempsey — or simply Mr. Dempsey to just about everyone who knows him — spends five, sometimes six days a week hauling trash from 70 or so businesses and individuals from one end of Crittenden County to another. Most of those days he's up and going by 7 a.m., in his pickup modified with sideboards to accommodate a mound of smelly bags and worthless items. After hauling trash for 27 years, at the age of 89, he still prefers to be remembered for his time working on the railroad. On his Monday route, below, Dempsey makes change for longtime customer Una Mott.

...is 'Mr. Dempsey's' treasure

Garbage route a way of life for 89-year-old

By DARYL K. TABOR

MANAGING EDITOR

While most people were still snoozing or up getting ready for a day of barbecuing and recreation, J.A. "James" Dempsey was tramping through weeds along a fencerow behind his home looking for just the right board.

That's how Dempsey began his Memorial Day before heading out on his trash run to collect from as many as a dozen locations that day.

"I get behind when I take the day off," he said.

So, it was business as usual on the holiday as he climbed into his pickup, already chock full of smelly garbage sacks stacked against the custom-made sideboards jutting high over the top of the cab. Dusting off the pillbugs on a damp area of the board he settled on, he positioned it just so between the bed of the truck and the black and white sacks of trash.

"That'll help keep it from flying out," Dempsey said, showing how the board would later be used against the tailgate so he can fit in more bags. Since the county's convenience center charges a flat rate on each pickup load, the more trash he can fit into the back of his truck, the better the profit margin from the nominal fee he charges his clients.

"What tears me up most is that $50 a load," he said, explaining the economics of hauling trash. "You see why I mash 'er down?"

Despite his wife Gertie's urgings to take the day off — the convenience center was closed so he

City's loan fund helps Riley grow

STAFF REPORT

When Todd Riley wanted to grow his business, he couldn't think of a better lender to finance the expansion than the very city his business has called home since its doors opened in 2001.

"I don't know of any banks right now that are doing four or five percent commercial loans," the owner of Riley Tool and Machine said last Friday, lauding the City of Marion's economic development financing arm that has allowed him to expand his machine shop to an international business.

It's not that Riley, 39, is knocking the banking industry, but in business, money saved is money earned. In this case, he earned several thousand dollars in savings.

By using the City of Marion Revolving Loan Fund, an economic development tool that allows the city to finance business growth at low interest rates, Riley saved $7,500 or more interest over the five-year term of the loan. A conventional bank loan would have charged a much higher interest rate.

When Riley was approved for the city-financing, his business was fledgling, only three years old.

After working for years as a tool and dye maker, he wanted to establish himself in Marion by opening his own business and growing it into a secure future for himself and his family. So, in 2004 he approached the city about backing his plans to purchase new equipment and reach new customers. Since being granted $60,000 from the city's revolving loan fund in 2005, his business

Grand jury issues indictments against 13

STAFF REPORT

The Crittenden County Grand Jury returned indictments against 13 individuals during its bi-monthly meeting June 2 at the courthouse in Marion. Those indicted were:

■ Shawn C. Belt, 38, of Maxwell Street in Marion on one count of second-degree forgery by complicity and second-degree persistent felony offender. The felony charges stem from an incident on March 13 when Belt allegedly assisted another woman in buying a handgun for a convicted felon.
■ Tina L. Belt, also known as Tina L.

Harris, 25, of Maxwell Street in Marion was indicted on a charge of possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia, second offense. The charges stem from a March 13 encounter with local police who say they found pot and rolling papers in her possession.
■ Eladio Castaneda, 28, of 907 W. Main St., in Princeton was indicted on one count of first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance, second offense. The charge is firearm enhanced because the suspect allegedly had a loaded handgun in his vehicle at the time of the arrest. According to court records, Castaneda sold four grams of methamphetamine for $600 to a witness cooperating with police. Records say that the witness and Castaneda organized the deal then met at a parking lot in Marion where the transaction allegedly occurred on May 7.

■ Neal H. Hall, 49, of U.S. 60 East in Marion was indicted for theft by unlawful taking (over $300) and for being a first-degree persistent felony offender. The charges stem from a June 23, 2008 incident in which two vehicles and steel wheels were stolen from Jerry Stone's auto shop in Marion.

■ Joanna L. Heady, 44, of Creekside Circle in Marion was indicted for failure to report a change in order to receive benefits. The charges were brought originally by the Office of the Inspector General regarding Heady's alleged collection of Kinship Care Benefits.
■ William H. Hopkins, 38, of Apricot Street in Calvert City was indicted on a charge of flagrant non-support for being behind by $14,713 on child support.
■ Garrett E. Hunter Jr., 43, of Ky.

America not what many have fought, died for

The America we are getting is not the America our young men and women have sacrificed and many died for.

The following was penned by the late great patriot Dr. Adrian Rogers: "You cannot legislate the poor into freedom by legislating the wealthy out of freedom. What one person receives without working for, another person must work for without receiving. The government cannot give to anybody anything that the government does not first take from somebody else. When half of the people get the idea that they do not have to work because the other half is going to take care of them, and when the other half gets the idea that it does no good to work because somebody else is going to get what they work for, that my dear friend, is about the end of any nation. You cannot multiply wealth by dividing it."

Russia and Germany found out too late and England waited too long, and all of Asia, Europe, Africa and we paid a horrible price for the people caring more about money than morals, listening to the pipe-pipers, and not following God's words and listening to those who stuck their necks out to warn them.

Does anyone ever ask why the 'dumbing down' of our citizenry, beginning in the government schools, has been going on for years?

Does anyone ever ask why our present government is bankrupting this nation to the tune of trillions of dollars we will never pay back even the millions we owe to China, a godless nation that hates us but loves our trade policy, and will pull the plug on us one day?

Does anyone ever ask why the present leaders are saying open our borders and let all in that want to come and continue to bankrupt us by supporting them with our tax dollars?

Dumbing us down then bankrupting us drags us down to the third world level. Then, we, along with them, can be easily controlled by the powers that be. When we become as weak as the third world countries, we will be blackmailed and coerced into being taken over by the atheistic, communists of the world that too many in our present government are working for.

Taking from the haves and giving to the have-nots makes more voters who want a free ride, and they will vote for the person who gives them the most.

The following is part of the plan written years ago in "Communist Rules for Revolution."

"Corrupt the young; get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial; destroy their ruggedness."

"Get control of all means of publicity, thereby: (This is now in play on TV and striving to make it so in talk radio.)

1. Divide the people into hostile or class groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance. (Constantly making an ever enlarging imaginary victims group).

2. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and disgrace. (Hasn't this been the call of the day for the past eight years?)

3. Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and ruthlessly as possible. (Can anyone deny this is not taking place right before our eyes?)

4. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent. (Haven't we arrived?)

5. Incite unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders, and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government. (Aren't the big unions the present governments big supporters and their concern of greater interest than the auto industry's?)

6. By specious argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues such as honesty, sobriety, self-restraint, faith in the pledged word and ruggedness.

7. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless. (You don't see all of this? Then your sight is very limited because of misinformation, no information or refusing to listen to any one with different views.)

The Crittenden Press Letters to the Editor

Tedrick reminds of TV evangelists

To the editor:

My husband and I have been living in Marion for nine months now. We have returned to his hometown after 40-plus years and enjoy reading The Crittenden Press. We are always appalled by the hatefulness and narrow-mindedness of Lucy Tedrick.

Lucy Tedrick has stated that she has spent a lifetime studying communism. I suggest her time would have been better spent studying American history. Her belief that our country was founded on Christian principles is simply wrong. The USA was founded on the principle of religious freedom for everyone.

Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, John Quincy Adams and Thomas Paine were deists. They believed in a higher power but did not believe that Jesus is son of God. This fact is clearly stated in many of the hundreds of letters written by Jefferson and Adams.

Lucy Tedrick should study the writings of these and other founding fathers. She should also study about the religious persecution that occurred throughout history – worldwide – often perpetrated in the name of Christianity by someone under the illusion that they were the ultimate authority on Christian beliefs. Lucy Tedrick also apparantly believes that she alone can define what it means to the Christian and how Christians should dress, think, behave and vote.

Thank heavens she is not in any position of real importance or influence. She would probably have all of us who disagree with her rantings burned at the stake.

Lucy Tedrick, I am a Christian. I am also open-minded and, as I believe Jesus was compassionate. You, Lucy Tedrick, remind me of a small-time version of a television evangelist who uses fear, bigotry and ignorance to control and manipulate his or her flock. Thank God most people we've talked to here in our new town think you are a joke. If you were taken seriously here, we would have to consider moving again.

Community gave support, comfort

To the editor:

Our family wants to express to our community our appreciation for all the food, thoughts, prayers and search help during our tragedy.

The loss of a loved one is very hard, especially in a situation like this one, but with all your help and strength from God, we managed. We want to say a special thank you to David Koon with the Livingston County Search and Rescue; Rev. Phillip Sanders, chaplain of Livingston County; Greg Rushing, Billy Arflack, Donnie Arflack and Rick Mills with the Crittenden County Rescue Squad; Bill Snow with the Fish and Wildlife Department; the team from Missouri who brought the cadaver dogs in to search; all the friends and family; Eddie at the Salem Food Market; Gee Jays Food Mart; Livingston County hospital and others for the food brought to the search site. All of these people worked non-stop to search for our loved one, and with success, we were able to put our loved one away properly. We can not say thank you enough.

We need the Livingston County community to know it wasn't your county judge or your EMS director, it was these individuals who worked so hard to help our family. May God bless all of you and your families.

Columnist's view mostly political

To the editor:

The article by Lucy Tedrick in your May 14 edition is certainly bothersome. While listed under the heading "religious views," the article is more closely a "political view" by a very misinformed writer.

The writer writes that we (the United States) were once a "great nation, a good nation, a Christian nation, a charitable nation, a safe nation, a rich nation." She then writes that we are turning into a poor nation, in debt to the tune of millions of dollars to a communist China whose leader hates us.

Is the writer really qualified to make such an assessment concerning the United States or any citizen of the United States? Isn't it truer there are some officials in China that don't agree with us, rather than write they "hate us."

"We are fast becoming a communist nation," she writes. Where is the support for such a radical statement? If the community in which she lives was a part of a communist nation, would she be able to write such radical articles under the guise that she is writing a religious column? Has she ever visited a communist nation or lived in a communist nation?

How can she in any good conscience write that we are fast becoming a communist

The Press Letters Policy

The Crittenden Press accepts and encourages letters to the editor on a variety of subjects. Letters should be submitted by 5 p.m., Friday the week before publication.

Submissions must include only the author's name (no multiple names or groups), address, phone number and signature. Phone numbers will not be published. They are for our records only in order to authenticate a letter's author.

Letters should be written in good taste and in most cases should not exceed 300 words. Letters will be edited for spelling and grammar and The Crittenden Press reserves the right to reject or edit letters for clarity, brevity and otherwise at our discretion. Writers should limit their letters to no more than one per month. Original copies of submitted letters will be retained in our files.

Letters may be brought into our office, sent to P.O. Box 191, Marion, Ky., 42064 or pressnews@the-press.com.

Friends, family offered aid, hope

To the editor:

I would like to say thank you to people who helped me when my home was destroyed during the ice storm.

First, to my sister and brother-in-law – Bill and Gwen Wilson – for standing by me, and they are still close by; to Linda Tabor and Helen Hunt for help; to Bob Cook for cutting the limbs off of my porch and Blazer; to my good neighbor, Shelby Belt, for leveling the front yard and moving many trees in the back yard with his dozer; to handyman Johnny Gilbert for doing much work and helped in many ways. Thanks to several others for caring.

May you be blessed for helping me at this trying time in my life. Your kindness and concern was appreciated and will always be remembered.

To the editor:

I am disappointed at the turn-out at my daughter's book signing last week at the library. Besides family and library staff, there were only four visitors last Tuesday.

LOAN

has flourished.

He now machines and welds for businesses across the nation and into Canada.

"The city took that risk, that is what I am so grateful for," Riley said Friday, as he showed City Administrator Mark Bryant around his plant off Moore Street.

The revolving loan fund was established in 1988 from a $500,000 grant from Kentucky's Department of Local Government. The fund has grown to about $750,000. The fund can be used only as an economic development tool. It is a self-replenishing pool of money, utilizing interest and principal payments on old loans to issue new ones.

Riley's bread and butter has become the tire industry, or rather the shredding of tires for recycling purposes. Riley and his 11 employees toil with welders, grinders and machining equipment to produce razor-sharp industrial blades for tire shredding. His proprietary process for sharpening those blades makes it possible for waste tires to see another life as rubber mulch and fuel for power-generating plants.

At one time, Riley was running multiple shifts and employing as many as 23 workers. But the extra shifts and management of those hours were not the most efficient way to carry on his business, so he streamlined to his current operations.

His business has become so successful that Riley acquired a second loan from the city through the same fund to physically expand his plant. With the money, he added self-designed welding, grinding and machining booths that make the job easier and reduce health hazards for his employees.

As Bryant toured the facility Friday with workers scurrying about in the midst of the busiest season for the company, he complimented Riley on his business-sense, even offering more loans the entrepreneur may need to sustain or grow the pace.

"Like I said, don't hesitate to approach us again," Bryant told Riley with a handshake.

Currently, the city has a half-dozen outstanding loans to local businesses through the revolving fund, but more capital is available to help others. Riley said the initial application process was a bit more complicated than what financial institutions may require, but his second loan was much easier to land.

"It was a little bit more work the first time," Riley said. "The second time it was like gravy."

Bryant said the city must be protective of the self-sustaining fund and requires a pretty careful vetting process for granting loans. The loans, he said, must be used to stabilize or increase the workforce at the applicant business.

The city's revolving loan fund was also used in 2001 to help D&D Automation establish its operation from the ashes of Tyco. D&D initially employed about a dozen workers and later was absorbed by Safetran Systems. Safetran has now grown to employ nearly 100, with the addition of 150 permanent jobs announced last month.

Pepstat 380® Stops Heartburn Forever

WASHINGTON - Gastrointestinal (GI) problems like acid reflux, heartburn and ulcers may be eliminated with a new type of chewable tablet. Scientists say that GI problems are not the result of excess acid, but the body's inability to deal with it. The tablet called Pepstat 380® is a patent-pending formula that contains an extract known as DGL that strengthens the body's natural defenses against stomach acid.

Pepstat goes to work immediately on acid while addressing the cause of GI problems. Scientists say that the DGL in Pepstat improves the body's protective substances, increases the lifespan of digestive tract cells, and improves blood supply to the area. Articles have appeared in publications like the British medical journal The Lancet showing DGL to be as effective as Zantac® or Tagamet®. Pepstat also works faster than Prilosec®. Pepstat may make these drugs obsolete because DGL has no side effects.

The problem with acid blockers is that they can interrupt the body's normal digestive process. Pepstat 380® is a natural alternative and is available without a prescription or call 1-800-339-3301.

ATV rider tries to flee state police

A Marion man was arrested by Kentucky State Police last weekend after attempting to flee authorities on an ATV.

Charles N. Winters, 56, was taken into custody Saturday after officers responded to a complaint around 8:45 p.m., of an intoxicated subject wielding a handgun in a rural area of Crittenden County. When officers arrived at the scene on Sulphur Springs Cemetery Road, Winters was observed operating an ATV. According to a state police report, Winters fled into a field when authorities tried to confront him.

The man was apprehended a short time later without incident and charged with fleeing police and operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol.

Trooper Matt Foster was assisted on the scene by Trooper Darron Holliman and Crittenden County Sheriff's Department.

Squabble leads to husband's injury

A squabble between a Smithland couple at Land Between the Lakes ended with the man being flown to a hospital after being run over with a vehicle and possible charges awaiting his wife.

Bryan N. Cowen, 27, was seriously injured Saturday when a car driven by his wife, Marita, 26, ran over his torso after an argument at the Pisgah Bay campground area of LBL in Lyon County. According to a Kentucky State Police report, after a verbal disagreement, Cowan attempted to hold on to the driver's side of the couple's vehicle as his wife tried to speed away.

"As the vehicle started moving, Mr. Cowen lost his balance and fell to the ground," the report stated.

The tires of the 1997 Chevy sedan rolled over the man's leg and chest, in the apparent accident. The couple were en route to a hospital when Trooper Daniel Jones stopped the car for speeding. Upon discovering Cowan's injuries, the trooper called emergency medical services, who called for the man to be airlifted to Deaconess Hospital in Evansville due to the severity of his injuries.

Trooper Jones is continuing the investigation and possible charges are pending.

Native American healing offered

Mantle Rock Native Education and Cultural Center in Marion is hosting a weekend program on the Medicine Wheel and 12-Step Program June 19-21. The program will be presented by the facilitator from the Rainbow Spiritual Education Center (RSEC) in Louisville.

The program for families and friends of alcoholics has been a signature program of RSEC for eight years. There is no cost for the program; however, a commitment to be present for the full weekend is necessary.

The purpose of providing the program is so that people from the Marion area can benefit from working this program together over the next several months.

The Medicine Wheel and 12 Steps is a spiritual program based on cultural principles that appeal to Native American and non-Native people. The program teaches participants how to change

T-storm blamed for fire, damages

A severe thunderstorm is being blamed for widespread damage in southern Crittenden County and around Fredonia last Wednesday afternoon. Lightning is suspected in starting a fire that destroyed the Robert Atchley home on Amos Road in rural Crittenden County.

Fire departments from Fredonia, Caldwell Springs and Salem were dispatched to the blaze, but the home was fully engulfed before firemen arrived with tanker trucks.

Other wind damage to property was reported in Fredonia and the surrounding area.

Whitfield intends to re-seek seat

Congressman Ed Whitfield, a Republican from Hopkinsville, has announced that he will seek re-election to the U.S. House of Representatives in 2010. Reports last week had suggested that the First District Congressman might seek the governorship or run for the U.S. Senate.

In a statement issued last Thursday, Whitfield said, "With our economy still reeling and controversial energy legislation being pushed forward that will have an enormous impact on Kentuckians, a strong voice to represent the First District in Washington is more important than ever. That is why I intend to run for re-election to the House of Representatives in 2010."

Whitfield has represented the First District since 1995.

Free, reduced-rate criteria changed

The Kentucky Department of Education last week released 2009-10 income and household size criteria for school meals program eligibility. The new schedule replaces the 2008-09 criteria.

Each year, the federal government revises guidelines for school districts to follow when implementing free and reduced-price meal programs. Children from households whose income is at or below specific levels are eligible for free or reduced-price meals. (See chart at top of page for specifics criteria.) All school districts offer free and reduced-price meals to students from eligible families.

Studies show that children who eat breakfast and lunch have better attendance rates, longer attention spans and improved academic performance. School districts participating in the National School Lunch or School Breakfast program will send application forms to students' homes for parents or guardians to fill out and return. District officials review applications and determine eligibility. Parents may call the superintendent's office in their districts for more information and application forms.

To be considered the application must include:

- Child's name;
- Food stamp or Kentucky Transitional Assistance Program (K-TAP) case number;
- Amount of family income and number of members of household if not receiving food stamps or K-TAP; and
- Signature of an adult household member verifying information.

Jobless rate up in all state counties

Unemployment rates rose in all 120 Kentucky counties between April 2008 and April 2009, according to the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training.

In Crittenden County over that period, unemployment went from 5.9 to 10.2 percent, and from 5.4 to 9.9 percent in Livingston County. However, since March, the percentage of out of work laborers fell in Crittenden County from 10.9 percent and remained steady in Livingston County. And the recent announcement of as many as 150 new jobs at Safetran Systems Corp., in Marion comes as additional good news to April's 421 unemployed in Crittenden County.

The statewide unemployment rate in April was 9.7 percent and 10.5 percent in the nine-county Pennyrite Area Development District. Other neighboring counties' jobless rates include: Caldwell, 9.3 percent; Lyon, 11.1 percent; Union, 11.8 percent; and Webster, 9.5 percent.

Governor calls for special session

Different Kentucky lawmakers have tried and failed over the years to maneuver legislation legalizing additional gambling – either on slots at race tracks or full blown casinos – through the General Assembly.

Gov. Steve Beshear, who based his campaign for governor on the issue, already stumbled once on expanded gambling during his first session as governor. Now, Beshear's going to use a special session later this month to try again.

Beshear has summoned the legislature into a special session Monday to deal with legislation aimed at resolving a $1 billion-dollar budget shortfall, tax incentives for new and existing businesses, and the creation of an authority to oversee construction of major bridges between Kentucky and Indiana. Also on the agenda is video gambling at Kentucky's horse racing tracks.

An "up or down" vote, he says, is what Kentucky needs to resolve the issue and possibly help the state's horse industry, which he says brings $4 billion worth of business to Kentucky each year and provides 100,000 jobs.

Time will tell.

"It's time to bring it to a head. It's time to take a vote," Beshear said last week. "If it can be supported, fine. And if not, you know, other ideas may be out there that we can grapple with."

297 in Marion was indicted on a variety of charges stemming from an incident on April 21 in which Trooper Darron Holliman was called to the above address regarding a domestic dispute. According to court records, Holliman found Hunter "passed out" behind the wheel of his vehicle. A woman at the address told police that Hunter had been driving the car and that he had attacked her. Hunter was indicted on charges of fourth-offense DUI, possession of an open alcoholic beverage in a motor vehicle, fourth-degree assault, operating on a suspended or revoked license and for being a first-degree persistent felony offender.

■ Larry Michael Lynch Jr., 38, of West Bellville Street in Marion was indicted for his alleged role in the burglary of a home at 116 Lewis Street on Feb. 1. Lynch is charged with theft (over $300), second-degree burglary and for being a persistent felony offender. Items taken from the home included a television, DVR, computer and a Play Station.

■ Kenneth W. Nesbitt, 37, of Rochester Street in Marion was indicted on two counts first-degree possession of a controlled substance. Police say they were acting on a complaint at Nesbitt's address when they found drugs or traces of drugs, namely methamphetamine and cocaine, digital scales and "tooters" on March 20. Nesbitt was also indicted on possession of drug paraphernalia.

■ William E. Riley 46, of Walnut Street in Dycusburg was indicted on possession of drug paraphernalia, second offense; first-degree possession of a

TipLine is not soliciting funds

Crittenden County TipLine is not soliciting funds or donations from the public, according to organizers Allen Lynn and Randall Chandler.

The two say that in recent weeks, someone has been calling local residents posing as a legitimate fundraising arm of the TipLine.

"We are not taking up funds to pay rewards," Chandler said.

TipLine is a local program funded by government contributions and court-ordered fines. The number is 965-3000. Callers can report crime, remain anonymous and often times earn cash rewards.

controlled substance, second offense; and for being a persistent felony offender. Court records say that state police were with Cabinet for Human Resources officials on a home visit Sept. 4, 2008 when they discovered morphine and paraphernalia, including a metal spoon and "tooter."

■ Michelle M. Smith, 33, of Rochester Avenue in Marion was indicted on one count of possession of drug paraphernalia, second offense.

■ James Smurawa, 29, of Ky. 273 in Eddyville was indicted on a charge of flagrant non-support for allegedly being behind in child support payments in the amount of $9,214.23.

■ Donald W. Woodall, 46, of Arlene Street in Marion was indicted for failure to comply with the sex offender registration law. Police records said that Woodall had lived at 208 Watson Street in Marion and moved without notifying state officials.

State funding county bridge replacement

STAFF REPORT

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet last week that Crittenden Fiscal Court will receive $30,000 from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet's county road aid emergency fund to replace a timber bridge across Piney Creek Branch on Allen Crider Road.

According to Crittenden County Judge-Executive Fred Brown, Allen Crider Road provides an important link to several farms along the Crittenden-Caldwell line near the Piney Fork community.

"This site currently has a timber bridge that was damaged by the ice storm in January, and several heavy rains that followed," Brown said. "We plan to tear out the old timber bridge and replace it with a large culvert. A culvert will improve reliability and require less maintenance effort by our road department."

well County for which he has not been tried.

Riley characterized Knight as a "very good worker" who was assigned to the Level 1 Work Release Program, which means that neither a deputy jailer nor guard is required for him to be working outside the jail. Only a job supervisor is necessary for Level 1 work release inmates, Riley explained.

Knight has been incarcerated at the jail since April 7 and has given no indication that he was a flight risk or security problem, the jailer said.

Knight is the first Crittenden County Detention Center inmate to walk away from a work release program since the jail opened in January 2008.

Riley said that Knight, who has family living near Fredonia, was very familiar with the area where he was working on the road crew. The jailer said Knight had apparently pre-arranged for the female accomplice to meet him at the cemetery.

"From what we've found out, he was planning to go to Baltimore," Riley said.

Knight is charged with second-degree escape and theft for taking the chain saw belonging to the county road department. Sorrells is charged with second-degree complicity to escape. Both were lodged in the Crittenden County Detention Center.

4 seniors earn KFB scholarships

Janson James, David Drennan and Mary Hollamon, all of Crittenden County High School, are each recipients of a $1,000 Crittenden County Farm Bureau Scholarship. Kayla Buntin, also of CCHS, is the recipient of a $1,000 Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation Scholarship.

These grants are four of 66 college scholarships worth $99,300 that are being awarded this year by the Kentucky Farm Bureau Education Foundation to deserving students from across the Commonwealth.

Since its inception in 1953, the Farm Bureau Foundation has distributed more than $1.6 million dollars to high school students within Kentucky Farm Bureau member families. Recipients were judged on a variety of issues such as academic excellence, extra curricular activities, leadership abilities and financial need.

James plans to attend Murray State University to major in accounting. He is the son of Tony and Janet James of Marion.

Drennan plans to attend Madisonville Community College to major in elementary education. He is the son of Roger and Donna Drennan of Marion.

Doom warden of highly-rated jail

Two of Kentucky's correctional facilities of interest to Crittenden County received perfect or near perfect scores in a recent audit.

Western Kentucky Correctional Complex became the first medium-security institution in Kentucky to receive a 100 percent on its re-accreditation audit in 2006 and now has set another record by becoming the first medium-security prison to achieve a perfect score on consecutive audits. Each prison is audited by the American Correctional Association (ACA) every three years and has an inter-departmental audit every year.

Green River Correctional Complex, whose warden is Nancy Doom of Crittenden County, received a score of 99.3 percent on its recent re-accreditation audit. The audit chairperson said the medium-security prison was exceptionally clean and well run and the entire audit team noted staff interaction with inmates was excellent.

"I am very proud of both these institutions," said Corrections Commissioner LaDonna Thompson. "This is an outstanding accomplishment and I want to commend the staff for the hard work they do every day. These scores are especially noteworthy considering how hard both these institutions were hit by the ice storm."

ACA consists of over 500 national standards that cover security, operational and programming aspects of a prison and require constant monitoring and quality control checks.

Meth lab busts back up in state

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Law enforcement officials say meth lab seizures in Kentucky have increased by more than a third last year. Police say meth producers are finding ways around efforts to limit production of the addictive drug.

A 2005 change in state law to restrict access to a key ingredient needed to produce meth initially drove down the number of makeshift labs police found.

The Lexington Herald-Leader reports that the number of lab busts across the state fell from 604 in 2004 to 302 in 2007. That number rose to 405 in 2008, an increase of 34 percent.

The state has set limits on the sales of pseudoephedrine, a key ingredient in meth. But makers are getting around the restrictions by enlisting multiple buyers.

Crittenden County Detention Center

Crittenden County Detention Center Jailer Rick Riley provides The Crittenden Press with a weekly report of the jail's inmate count and work release program. Inmates are supervised and carry out a variety of labor regularly undertaken by local municipal departments.

Work-release for the week of June 1-7:

1. Eight males at 40 hours each to county road department.
2. One male at 40 hours to Crittenden County Animal Shelter.
3. Four males at 48 hours each to county convenience center.
4. One female at 40 hours to senior citizens center.
5. Two females at 44 hours each to courthouse.
6. Ten males at 56 hours each as inside-jail trustees (janitorial, kitchen duties).
7. One male at 40 hours to the National Guard armory.
8. Three males at 40 hours on trash crew cleaning up county roads.
9. Five males at 40 hours on mowing crew No. 1.
10. Three males at 40 hours on mowing crew No. 2.

Note: This week's savings to the county was $11,266, based on minimum wage of $6.55 per hour – Lt. Shea Holliman, Class D Coordinator

Inmate count as of June 7 (female count):

Total: 102 (13)	Federal: 0 (0)	Crittenden County: 17 (6)
	State: 85 (7)	Other counties: 0 (0)

Clockwise from far left, J.A. “James” Dempsey has always made house calls on his trash route, but he will often go to the door to pick up sacks of garbage or to visit with his customers like Ruby Barfield, 94. He’ll always take time to have a conversation, even if it throws off his scheduled rounds. “He’s a gentleman for sure,” said Kim Asbridge, who works at Crayne Post Office, one of Dempsey’s weekly pick-ups. In one of his favorite photos, Dempsey is shown between two co-workers with Illinois Central Gulf Railroad, where he worked more than 30 years before retirement. Admittedly not as nimble as he once was, Dempsey still climbs atop the mound of trash in the bed of his truck to rearrange bags so they not fly out or take up unnecessary room. While not his customers, some of Dempsey’s favorite visits are with the pets of his customers. At Barfield’s house, he stoops to give his favorite cat , Mr. Gray, a rub on the head. “He’s worth $5,000 to me,” Dempsey said of the gray stray who showed up at Barfield’s house during the ice storm. At his first stop on Memorial Day rounds, Dempsey fed a biscuit he saved from breakfast to an aged dog. “They always like to see me coming.”

WORK

wouldn’t be able to offload and one of Gertie’s nephews had just died, with funeral visitation scheduled for later that day – Dempsey made out just before 7:30 a.m., to do his job.

It was just another working day for a man who has known little but that in his life. As a child, he worked with a cross-cut saw and on the family farm in Dekoven. As a young man, he was able to avoid the draft that fueled the nation’s Woldr War II efforts. So, he helped build Camp Breckenridge in his native Union County and contribute to construction of the airport in Sturgis. In 1951, two years after marrying Gertie, Dempsey sought work with the railroad.

“Just give me a job, and I’ll show you,” he told his eventual supervisor at the railroad.

They did. And he did. With a secure job, Dempsey and his wife were ready to start a family, so in 1952, Gertie gave birth to James. Dempsey fed his family with the job at Illinois Central Railroad for 30 years before retiring.

“There was a lot going on over those couple of years,” he said as he hastily recapped his life while making his way from his Crayne home to the first stop, the last house in Crittenden County before crossing over into Fredonia along U.S. 641.

After adding a couple of bags to his load and a quick conversation with his first customer of the day, he pulled from his pocket a biscuit he had swiped from the fare Gertie provided for breakfast that morning. The biscuit is for a haggard old dog making his way through another day. Like his feeder, the mutt doesn’t complain about the aches and pains of the day, and soaks up the attention... and biscuit.

“They like to see me coming,” he said of the furry friends he’s made at his stops.

They seem to treat him better than the mailman, too. He’s never been bitten nor attacked.

Planning ahead for the day, Dempsey leaves the initial stop and heads into Fredonia for gas. He grumbles a bit about the $20 bill he pulls from his pocket not getting his vehicle nearly as far as it used to. But, he won’t complain much, not even about the atrocious smells and nasty spills that soil his work uniform, a pair of blue coveralls.

“You get used to it,” he said pleasantly.

As he crosses off the stops on his route, he loves to tell stories he’s accumulated over the years. He clearly enjoys sharing a ride in his truck, a rare treat. He’s had it before, but that was training a partner years ago that didn’t work out.

This time is different. He takes pride in showing off his routine, even making a list of stops and a cordial note scribbled by the shaky hand of a man just a few months shy of 90. He has even cleaned out the passenger side of the bench seat where he normally keeps a few trinkets and tools of the trade. Apologizing for any mess, he explains one of the tricks of the job he learned years ago.

“I keep this bottle of water in case I get choked up on a hot day,” he said.

That’s it. A bottle of water and a rag to wipe his face. No snacks. No radio. No cell phone.

Just a man and his job.

Dempsey’s Memorial Day route left a lot of people surprised to see the 89-year-old working on a holiday. Some had hardly made it out of bed before Dempsey was headed to their trash cans, some with the money for his weekly pickup taped under the lid.

He’s not very formal about his job that way. There’s a mutual trust between him and his clients. He knows where the trash is, and they know where to leave the money. One client on his Monday route has even given him the code to the garage door keypad so that he can grab the sacks from bins inside.

Dempsey handles the bags, some almost too heavy for a young man to lift, and hurls them atop the heap in the bed of his truck. With a grunt or two, he manages. Before the bags spill over the sides or begin to roll back down the hill of refuse, he makes his way atop the mound, using the sideboards and a metal support to steady himself. He won’t work his way down until the trash is just so, tightly packed so that it won’t fly out as he heads down the highway.

There’ have been more occasions than he cares to remember where he had to retrace his steps, stopping along the roadside to pick up an errant bag or two that tumbled out of the truck. He’s had vehicle breakdowns, most always with a load of trash aboard. It’s happened to all makes and models, so he has no brand loyalty.

However, he’s kind of partial to his current rig, a 1984 red Chevy with a suped-up 454 under the hood. He likes to tell of stories where drivers trailing him pull out to pass in the most dangerous of areas – curves and hills.

“I hardly ever run over 50 mph, but I’ll hit that gas and, ‘Vroom!’,” he exclaims. “Boy, they don’t think this old truck has it in it.”

Over the years, Dempsey has been more reliable than his trucks. He hasn’t missed a day on his trash route – or so he can remember – soldiering on through the bad days. On Memorial Day, in fact, he was nursing an entire body left sore from a spill he took two weeks earlier.

“I fell flat on my front,” he said, patting his coveralls on the chest and legs to show where he hit.

His hands are dirty and show the wounds of almost eight decades of hard work – some old, some fresh from the day’s work. But those hands are still strong, whether clinching to carry an oversized trash bag weighted with cat litter or clasp- ing around the steering wheel of his old red truck.

Those hands have never failed him, and he doesn’t plan for them to anytime soon. He’s not looking for a career change, sobaticals or help. He just makes it through each day with all he’s ever known. Work.

“They won’t let me quit,” he said of his family. “They say I’ll wither up and die if do.”

But at the end of his Memorial Day route, he had made it through another shift, home in time to attend the funeral service of a relative many years his junior.

The next day, though, he was right back at it.

“I won’t even consider quitting,” he said. “I guess I’ll do it ‘til I die.”

Group is seeking names of fallen Kentucky guardsmen

A group is seeking the names of Kentucky National Guard soldiers who have died in the line of duty.

The Kentucky National Guard Memorial Fund is raising money to construct a memorial at the entrance to Boone National Guard Center in Frankfort. The memorial will pay tribute to soldiers who died and will also honor and recognize all those who have served.

The memorial will focus on the time period from March 19, 1912, when the Kentucky State Guard officially became the Kentucky National Guard.

Memorial Fund Chairman John Trowbridge says the guardsmen "deserve to be remembered for their dedication and sacrifice."

The group already has a list of soldiers, which can be viewed at www.kyngmemorial.com, but is trying to determine whether there are others who should be added.

Ohio River Sweep is set for June 20

Volunteers are being sought for a multistate cleanup of the Ohio River shoreline.

The 20th annual Ohio River Sweep is set for June 20 along more than 3,000 miles of shoreline.

The cleanup is organized by the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission, which met Tuesday in Wheeling.

Jeanne Ison with the commission says the Ohio River is an important natural resource.

According to the commission's Web site, more than 20,000 tons of trash and other debris are collected each year during the sweep by volunteers in Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

New Union General Baptist (Ditney) Church will be having their ANNUAL HOMECOMING Sunday, June 14th

There will be a special love offering collected for the cemetery. Anyone who has family members or loved ones buried here are welcome to attend. If you are unable to attend you may send all donations to the cemetery in c/o David Harris, 709 Harris Rd., Salem, KY 42078

Please make all checks to New Union General Baptist Cemetery

Thank You for Prayers

Crittenden County, we thank you for being our prayer warriors in our time of need. Little 6-month-old Xavion Beckett Hall's brain tumor has shrunk considerably and we believe it is the result of prayer. He is in round three of chemo now. Please keep on praying, as God is in control. We all thank you.

God saw she was getting tired and a cure was not to be. So He put His arms around you and whispered, "Come with Me."
With tear-filled eyes we watched as you suffered and faded away. Although we loved you deeply, we could not will you to stay.
A golden heart stopped beating, hard-working hands put to rest. God broke our hearts to prove to us, He only takes the best.

We love you,

Fletcher-LaRue

Kent Fletcher of Princeton and Theresa Fletcher of Marion announce the upcoming marriage of their daughter, Jennifer Fletcher, to Jared LaRue, son of Darren and Sharon LaRue of Marion.

Fletcher graduated in 2004 from Crittenden County High School and is employed by the Front Porch and The Coffee Shop in Marion.

LaRue is a 2007 Crittenden County graduate and is employed by CC

Metals and Alloys in Calvert City.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Martha Fletcher of Marion and the late Odel Fletcher and Bill Coleman of Marion and the late Valaree Coleman.

LaRue is the grandson of Randy and Lois Rushing of Dycusburg and Rosalee Wallace of Crayne.

Vows will be exchanged at the couple's residence in Crayne at 11 a.m., June 20. All friends and family are invited.

Baseball tribute

Bats, balls and Crittenden County memorabilia are displayed in the window at Louise's Flowers this week as a way to remember Jake Hodge and promote a benefit rummage sale scheduled for Saturday at Crittenden County Middle School. Hodge died one year ago this month from an undetermined cause. A community rummage sale – including new items, yard sale items and a silent auction – will help raise money for the Jake Hodge Memorial Scholarship Fund. Each year, students from Crittenden, Livingston and Caldwell counties will receive a scholarship in Hodge's memory. Teena York, (left) arranges items donated by the Hodge family for use in the window. Donations to the scholarship may be made at Louise's Flowers.

Despite summer, learning encouraged

Even though school is out for most of Kentucky's young people, learning thrives through play during the summer. You can do many educational and fun activities with your children to keep their minds working and imaginations flowing during the summer.

An easy way to keep your child's mind sharp is to encourage play. Studies show playtime has an important role in child development. Independent play can help children learn critical thinking and life skills as well as develop creativity.

Play is not only for your children. Carole Gnatuk, University of Kentucky child development specialist said studies show that parents who participate in unscheduled playtime with their children are seen as more supportive, nurturing and productive.

Play includes many different facets, and not every one will fit all children. Children of various ages and genders enjoy different things. Older children may enjoy playing board games or cards. Younger children may like playing with dolls or cars and trucks. Some children may want to participate in organized activities like camps or sports teams while others are more interested in free play activities, such as hopscotch, running through a sprinkler or creating sidewalk art. Many children enjoy quiet activities like writing, reading, drawing and construction toys, and yet others like more physical activities like tag and hide-and-go seek.

Embark on family projects together. The projects not only are educational for your child, but you may learn something new in the process. Some examples of projects include growing a garden, reading a book, teaching outdoor skills or preparing a meal. Children can learn responsibility, time management, mathematics, science and improve reading skills through these projects.

Get outside of the house and enjoy the environment around you. Take your child on a nature walk and identify the insects, trees and plants you see. Talk about the role of each in the ecosystem. In addition to being educational, this type of activity will help your child develop an appreciation for the natural environment. Also, it's a great chance for physical activity. Teenagers may be interested in exploring various volunteer opportunities in your community. They can develop responsibility and leadership skills while bettering their community.

Children also need social interaction with their peers. In fact, a great deal of learning occurs when children play together. You can provide your child with an opportunity for social interaction by letting them attend camps that may explore some of their interests or hobbies. 4-H offers several projects and clubs throughout the year that young people can participate in at the county and state levels.

While it's good to involve your child in activities, you should understand that too many events can overwhelm some children. Every child is different. Some may thrive with hectic schedules, but many become anxious or stressed out and prefer quiet, less-structured activities. It's important to find the balance in scheduling activities for your child. Children learn best when they are allowed to freely choose play activities that engage their imaginations.

Give your children the gifts of free play time and your attention to their interests. By doing so, you are nurturing your relationship with them and their summer learning at the same

25th annual Crayne Day celebrates community

The U.S. Postal Service has been a great asset for the community of Crayne. The Crayne post office plays an important part in the life of each resident of the small southern Crittenden County community and those of neighbors in the surrounding area.

In the late 1800s and early 1900s, Crayne was a busy little community with general stores, a hotel and a blacksmith shop. The salary for the postmaster at the time was small, and most of the post offices were located within one of the general stores. At that time postmasters were selected by political leaders. The postmaster position was usually given to a member of the political party of the leader in office at the time. Postmasters are now selected on postal experience and qualifications, and they now receive compensation in compliance with today's economics.

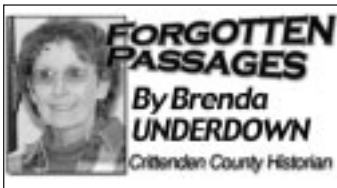

Today, the U.S. Post Office is the only public building and business located in Crayne, since the Crayne Store has recently closed its doors. The former Ferguson's Grocery Store has been remodeled and is home to the Crayne post office.

In 1886, James Lee Cruce became the first postmaster of Crayne. The post office was located at his farm about one half a mile south of Crayne. In 1890, Richard Dorroh was named postmaster, followed by Hugh Glenn in 1900-02, James F. Canada in 1904 and Newton Bishop in 1907. James Franklin Dorroh, William Robert Dorroh and Eugene Dorroh each served as postmasters of Crayne.

At the time the Dorrohs served as postmasters, the office was located in the Hugh Glenn Store. This store later became the Dorroh General Store and the post office remained in this building until 1953. (This store building was located where the block building is located today.)

In 1953, Seth Ferguson became postmaster. Mr. Ferguson moved the post office to his general store. He retired as postmaster of Crayne in 1982. His wife, Mrs. Velma Ferguson, and Mrs. Jackie Dorroh served as assistant postmasters during this time.

In 1982, George Tucker of Mayfield became postmaster in charge until his retirement. In February 1983, Rose Ann Bebout was appointed postmaster and remains the Crayne postmaster today. Wanda Mott and Jackie Dorroh both served as postmaster relief and Linda Padgett served as relief in 1987 and filled this position for several years. Mrs. Kim Asbridge is the current postmaster relief serving under Mrs. Bebout.

The community of Crayne is thankful today to have the post office, which is still very much a part of the small community. It had grown in the past 15 years and in 1995 became a full-time office, being open for eight hours per day. Until that time, it was only open for six hours per day.

In 1992 the post office was remodeled and a 24-hour-a-day lobby with post office boxes for rent became available to customers. The original post office window and box service area is now a lobby display for everyone to remember where we came from. The display will remain a part of the Crayne post office history.

In 1997, the postmaster received national honors by being named The Benjamin Franklin recipient. This award is given by the United States Postal Service Corporate Relations each year to 52 postal employees who demonstrate outstanding results in community outreach activities, postmaster Rose Ann Bebout gave the credit to the Crayne community for this award.

With the support of the community and surrounding neighbors, the Crayne Post Office has continued to grow. It offers the same service any other office offers and is very appreciative of each business transaction that helps to keep the doors of the office open.

Hopefully, the Crayne post office will remain a vital part of the daily life of its community for many years to come. The residents of Crayne are all very proud of their community and the post office that represents the community of Crayne. (Post office history was researched and shared by James Robert Dorroh.)

The post office lobby sometimes serves as a community meeting place, as former Crayne Day meetings were held here, and Mrs. Bebout hosts special occasions in the lobby, such as appreciation days and birthday parties for some of the local residents. For many years, the post office location was the center of activity for the Crayne Day events.

The first Crayne Day meeting was held in the lobby of the post office. This was in 1984. The idea being thought of by Postmaster Bebout.

She thought it would be a good way for neighbors to get together and have fun and visit. When she mentioned the idea to her friend and neighbor, the late Peggy Malcom, it was a hit and they started to work on their plan.

It wasn't long until Crayne Day had become a huge hit and was a much looked forward to yearly event. It was always the first Saturday in June.

Old time residents of the Crayne community would plan their vacation at this time so they could be here on this day. The area from the top of Crayne hill to where you exit the community on the far southern end was filled with yard sales, vendors, food sales and people would be lined on both sides of the highway. A favorite item everyone wanted was one of Ruby Frantz's homemade fried apple pies. Ruby sold them for $1 each, and they sure didn't last long. People still talk about them and wish for one.

Time and events have a way of changing things, and such it is with Crayne Day. Most all the former residents that helped and enjoyed those first days have passed away, their houses now are homes to different families and only a few of the original family members are around to keep up the history of Crayne Day.

James Robert Dorroh is one of these people and with his interest and determination there was another Crayne Day this year, making it the 25th anniversary of that first Crayne Day in June of 1984.

Although it included only a smattering of people, and only a few yard sales, it was an enjoyable morning for those of us who attended.

Under the shade tree on Roger and Pam Tinsley's lawn, we had some wonderful pickin' and grinning music provided by the Possum Wranglers, consisting of Larry Starr on banjo, Thom Hawthorne Jr., and Steve Crider on guitars. Mighty enjoyable music.

Ralph Paris showed up with his friend, Finis, and they entertained the small crowd with Ralph singing some folk songs and Finis, his wooden friend, dancing to the rhythm of the tunes on a wooden paddle. There was some fine dancing to see.

Emily Tinsley, daughter of Roger and Pam, had refreshments for sale, including lemonade and snacks and her younger sister, Samatha, ran the fishpond for prizes.

Although it was not a large crowd, the history continued on for another year, and was enjoyed very much by those who were in attendance.

Emily Tinsley sold lemonade at Craye Day. With her proceeds she will help pay for a trip to Chicago this summer.

The Possum Wrangler Band, made up of local musicians, provided entertainment for this year's Crayne Day festival. Pictured are Larry Starr, Thom Hawthorne and Steve Crider.

Buntin receives Governor's Scholar assistance for career in agriculture

Kayla Buntin has also received a $1,500 scholarship from the Kentucky Governor's Scholar program jointly with the Kentucky Department of Agriculture. Competition for the scholarship was intense as all Governor's Scholar Program alumni pursuing an agriculture or agribusiness career were eligible to receive the grant.

Boxes hanging in county are aimed at catching borer

Pest damaging to ash trees

STAFF REPORT

Many Crittenden Countians may be curious as to why odd looking blue boxes are hanging in trees along roadways.

The simple answer is that those boxes are bug catchers and the United States Department of Agriculture, Kentucky Division of Forestry and Kentucky Extension Service are very interested in what types of creatures show up in them. "These are sticky traps for the Emerald Ash Borer," said Douglas W. Johnson, Extensive Entomologist for the University of Kentucky. Johnson says the EAB, as they are called, are very destructive pests for all ash tree species. The bugs, which look a great deal like other small, green beetles, have just been verified in Shelby and Jessamine counties, which has prompted the University of Kentucky in cooperation with the USDA and forestry officials to go hunting for them elsewhere across the commonwealth.

Corey Payne, Crittenden County Extension Agent for Agriculture, said there are dozens of the sticky traps placed at strategic locations around Crittenden and other counties. He urges citizens to avoid disturbing the boxes, which will provide valuable information for entomologists studying the scope and range of the insect in Kentucky.

Discoveries of the invasive pests resulted from Kentucky Division of Forestry and University of Kentucky officials investigating reports of dying ash trees in a private woodlot in Shelby County and a residential landscape in Jessamine County.

The adult stage of the EAB is a half-inch elongate, metallic-green beetle. They are smaller than the more common green June beetle or caterpillar hunter beetle.

The Emerald Ash Borer may be seen resting on ash leaves or chewing small feeding notches in the edges of ash leaves. The larval stage, a flat, white segmented worm, chews long winding tunnels beneath the bark of trees. Extensive tunneling reduces water and food transport in the tree, resulting in the death of the tree.

The insect only attacks ash trees, the UK Extensive Service said.

State officials urge Kentuckians to take several steps to help keep EAB from spreading. Among their suggestions are to avoid transporting firewood, even within Kentucky. Don't bring firewood along on a camping trip. Buy the wood you need locally. Don't bring extra wood home with you.

Also, officials say you should not buy or move firewood from outside Kentucky. If someone comes to your door selling firewood, ask them about the source of the wood. If it came from outside Kentucky, don't buy it.

Kentuckians are urged to identify ash trees on their property and to examine them for signs of EAB activity. Symptoms of infestation include dieback of the upper tree canopy, sprouts growing from roots and trunk, loose bark, signs of woodpecker activity and D-shaped exit holes in the trunk.

If you suspect that your trees may be infested, contact the Emerald Ash Borer Hotline (866) 322-4512 or the state entomologist at (859) 257-5838. More information is available online.

The bug-catching boxes have been deployed at various locations around the county. The aim is to determine whether the Emerald Ash Borer has infiltrated the area.

FSA taking county committee nominations

Agriculture Commissioner Richie Farmer has announced that farmers may nominate candidates for Farm Service Agency County Committees beginning June 15. Nominations will be accepted through Aug. 3. A producer is eligible to be a county FSA committee member if the producer resides in the local administrative area in which he or she is a candidate, participates or co-operates in a program administered by FSA, and is of legal voting age. A producer who is not of legal voting age but supervises and conducts the farming operations of an entire farm also may vote. Producers may nominate themselves or others, and organizations representing minorities and women may nominate candidates. FSA county committee members make decisions on such issues as commodity price support loan programs, disaster and conservation programs, emergency programs and other agricultural issues. Committees consist of three to 11 members, and members serve three-year terms. Nomination forms must be postmarked or received in a local USDA Service Center by Aug. 3. Ballots will be mailed to eligible voters beginning Nov. 6. Voted ballots must be submitted to the county office by mail or in person by Dec. 7. Elected committee members and alternates will take office Jan. 1. Nomination forms and other information are available at county FSA offices or on the FSA Web site at www.fsa.usda.gov/elections.

Deadline is Friday for NRCS EQIP registration

Deadline is Friday for the Natural Resources Conservation Service EQIP sign-up to assist growers who are currently certified organic operations or growers transitioning to organic production systems. Interested person should contact the NRCS office in Crittenden County at 118 East Bellville Street by calling 965-3921, ext. 3 or in Livingston County at 360 West Main Street in Salem. The phone number in Livingston County is 988-2180, ext. 3.

Farmers in Crittenden, 61 counties get help

Farmers in Crittenden and 61 other counties are eligible for Federal disaster assistance, including low interest emergency (EM) loans from USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) provided eligibility requirements are met. On May 29, President Obama declared a disaster declaration M1841 for 22 Kentucky Counties as disaster areas due to damages and losses caused by severe storms, tornadoes, flooding, and mudslides that occurred from May 3, 2009, through May 20, 2009. Area counties included in the declaration are Ballard, Carlisle, Crittenden, Marshall and Trigg. As a result of the declaration, 40 counties in Kentucky were named as contiguous counties where eligible family farmers may qualify for FSA EM loan assistance pursuant to Section 321(a) of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act. Those area counties are Caldwell, Calloway, Carter, Christian, Graves, Livingston, Lyon, McCracken, Ohio, Union and Webster. EM loan applications for physical and production losses will be received through January 29, 2010, and applications pending on that date may be processed and completed. Farmers interested in applying for assistance should contact their local FSA county office.

Monday at Sikeston, 7:05 p.m.
Tuesday vs. Sikeston, 7:05 p.m.
Bobcats fall to 2-7
Third baseman Andy Harris is now 2-for-2 in opportunities to push the winning run across in Marion's last at-bat. On Saturday, it was a walk-off single in the bottom of the ninth that scored the winning run for the Bobcats for their first home win of the season. A week earlier, it was a three-run triple in the 10th to beat Tradewater in the season opener.

Unfortunately for Bobcat manager Steve Fowler, Harris' two game-winners account for all of the team's wins two weeks into the season. On Monday, Marion fell to 2-7 after a two-game series sweep at Guess Field by the Fulton Railroaders.
General Manager Gordon Guess said the players pressing early on both at the plate and in the field. With the bats, he said, they are still adjusting to wood from the aluminum they have used since pee wee league. In the field, where 23 errors in nine games have been committed going into Wednesday's game with league-leading Tradewater, players are trying too hard to not make a mistake.
"They'll relax and learn to have fun with it," he said.
Fowler intends to set his regular line-up and pitching rotation after 10 games, which came Wednesday against Tradewater. Results of that game were not available at press time.
Released in the last week were outfielder Kirk Waligora and first baseman Brett Cleveringa. Visit MarionBobcats.com for daily updates and news.

CCHS puts 8 on All-Area Team

Eight Crittenden County High School athletes were named to the Kentucky Track and Cross Country Coaches Association All-Area 1 Team.
Senior Anna Jimenez was named to the All-Area Second Team in four categories. She was picked as an individual in the 100 and 200 meters and was also named to the All-Area Team for her contribution to the 4x200 and 4x100 Crittenden County girls' relay squads.
The rest of the relay team, which included Lauren Hunt, Laken Tabor and Kaitlyn Moss, were also named to the All-Area Second Team. Those three are all underclassmen and will return to the Lady Rocket track and field team next season.
On the boys' side, senior Dusty McConnell earned All-Area Second Team honors in the 300 hurdles. McConnell joined three teammates on the All-Area Team for the 4x400 boys' relay. Alongside him were seniors Cody Holzer and Cody Dunham and junior J.R. Adams.
The All-Area Teams are chosen by the track and field coaches from across the region.
Each of the athletes chosen for the All-Area Team honors were also state meet qualifiers this season.
CCHS track and field coach Angela Starnes said it was a tremendous honor for the school to have so many named to the All-Area Team.

Crittenden hosts bowl, more

Crittenden County's first bowl game of the modern era will include a visit by the "Patriot Chopper," a motorcycle built by Orange County Choppers for the National Guard.
The National Guard Warrior Bowl will include four high school football teams playing two games on two nights in August plus all sorts of other activities surrounding the football games.
In partnership with the Kentucky National Guard, Rocket football will host an academic bowl, 5K run, flag football tournament, corn hole toss tournament, an All Pro Dad's Breakfast and a punt, pass and kick competition. All of the events will be held Aug. 28-29 at the high school and Rocket Stadium.
Glasgow will play Herrin, Ill., in the first game at 7 p.m., on Friday night. There will be a corn hole toss competition prior to the game and specially designed boards for the tournament will be auctioned off after the event. Each pair of boards will feature logos and colors of each football team participating in the Warrior Bowl.
Crittenden County will play Massac County, Ill., at 7 p.m. on Saturday night. There will be a variety of events beginning early Saturday morning. The National Guard will have many of its popular attractions available such as inflatables and the rock wall. The Guard will also bring in Humvees and a Black Hawk helicopter.
The Patriot Chopper will be on display throughout the day Saturday. Motorcycle fans can have their picture made with the bike and learn more about how it was made by the motorcycle shop featured on cable television.

Local runners invited to cross country camp in Union

Runners ages 8-up are invited to the fourth annual Union County Cross-Country Camp, which takes place June 17-19 at Union County Middle School. The camp runs from 8 a.m., to noon each day. Lunches will be served to participants. The camp features numerous activities that surround cross-country, distance running, fitness, nutrition and conditioning. Activities include daily distance and speed workouts, videotaped critiques of runners' form, yoga, pilates training, relay races, discussions on injury prevention and health issues, and the newest game this year – a scavenger hunt.
Coaches for the camp are Scott Buser, cross-country coach at Union County High, and Bob Yehling, the assistant track coach at Crittenden County High.
Registration has been discounted for Crittenden County residents to $30. To register or for more information, contact Jim Peak at 270-389-0061 or email cruz256@roadrunner.com.

Swimmers ready for '09 season

About 45 kids have turned out for the Marion Swim Team this year. Many are first-time team members, and more than half the team consists of youth ages 10-under.
The team missed two days of practice last week because of unseasonably cool temperatures, but swimmers were back in the water this week, making great progress.
"It takes a few days to get conditioned to swimming, even if you're active during the winter," said assistant Allison Evans. "And a lot of our kids are young and are new to some of the strokes, but we're very proud of the progress they're making in just over a week in the water."
The team's head coach is Sherry Frazer, a veteran instructor, and she is assisted by Ann Greenwell, who specializes in the youngest members on the team, and Evans.
The team's first meet is just under a week away, June 16 at Princeton. The first home meet is not until July 2.
A new addition to the Stingrays this year is a blog, where parents can keep abreast of swimming news, especially cancellations of practice or changes in meet schedules. Directions to away meets will also be posted on the blog as well as a full roster in coming days. It is accessible at www.marionswimteam.blogspot.com.
Anyone who wishes to join the team may still do so. Swim fees are $25 for one swimmer and $20 for the second or third family member.

Frances Presbyterian Church celebrates 100th anniversary

On a normal Sunday, a couple of dozen faithfuls are scattered among the pews at Frances Presbyterian Church. But last Sunday was no ordinary sabbath. In fact, it was a celebration of a century of worship at one of the smallest congregations in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) denomination.

Nearly 100 people attended the 100th anniversary celebration at the rural southern Crittenden County church, with many of those stopping by for a day of fellowship with the host parishoners after services at their own houses of worship. The church grounds, home to 28 members and an average congregation of 25, hosted an array of activities to mark the centennial festivities, including burial of a time capsule by pastors Butch Gray (above left) and A.C. Hodge to mark the occassion. A granite marker donated by Henry and Henry Monuments in Marion will forever denote the location of the underground museum.

"It was really a good day," said longtime member Angel McDonald.

The church's origins date back to the 1800s at Piney Fork Presbyterian Church before members of that church broke away to form a sister congregation in Crayne. In December 1908, Revs. James F. Price and A.J. Thompson held a revival of sorts at the Oliver School near Frances under the auspices of the Crayne church. Interest stirred from the message and gave birth to a desire from the community to form its own church, and on Feb. 25, 1909, the denomination's presbytery awarded Frances its own congregation.

On Sunday, the longest membership at the Frances church was honored in the person of D.E. Owen, who has been on the rolls for 75 years. The congregation's oldest member, however, is Elsie Stone, who is 87.

Relay reaches '09 goal

The American Cancer Society Relay for Life of Crittenden County reached its 2009 goal by raising more than $24,000, with 11 weeks left before the cut-off for this year's total. Last year, Relay raised just more than $18,000.

Sue Padget, event co-chair, said that money raised in the 2009 Relay for Life will be used to speed up the search for new weapons to fight cancer.

"Cancer will soon become the number one killer in America as baby boomers grow older," Padget said. "In order to expand our patient services in Marion and research new ways to treat patients, we've got to channel more public attention and money into this problem."

Donations through Aug. 31 will continue to go toward the 2009 Relay effort locally.

More than 200 people, divided into eight teams, participated in this year's Relay at the Carson G. Davidson National Guard Armory. The teams represented area businesses, clubs and organizations.

Planning for the 2010 Relay for Life of Crittenden County is already in full swing. If you would like to join the planning committee or form a team, contact Padget at 704-1558 or Frank Blackburn at 704-1419.

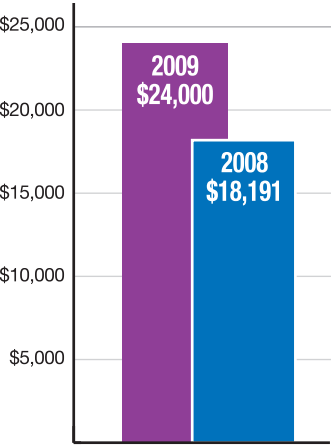

Next year's Relay for Life will be on May. 14

Relay reaches goal

The 2009 Relay for Life in Crittenden County has not only surpassed last year's total, but also its goal for this year, $24,000. There are still almost three months left for contributions to go toward the 2009 tally.

PEOPLE ASK ME: "WHY FORD? WHY NOW?"

So I tell them. Today, Ford Motor Company has separated itself from other automakers. We did not accept bailout money and did not file for Chapter 11. Instead, Ford remains independent and is in a position to succeed. CEO Alan Mulally assured me when he said, "The real difference is in our plan, the strength of our great new products, and our quality, fuel efficiency, safety and value."

As far as I'm concerned, it's not bragging if you back it up. Now, here's every reason you'll ever need to buy a new Ford.

Today, not even Honda or Toyota can beat Ford quality.<sup>1</sup> Plus, Ford makes 15 vehicles that earned the Top Safety Pick from the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety — that's almost double what Toyota earned. And Ford has more five-star safety ratings than any other automaker.<sup>2</sup> Now that's the American way.

The new Ford Fusion is the most fuel-efficient midsize sedan in America. The Fusion Hybrid gets 41 mpg city<sup>3</sup> — that's 8 mpg better than Toyota Camry Hybrid! Plus, the gas-powered Fusion beats the gas-powered Camry, Accord and Altima.

Ford Escape Hybrid is the most fuel-efficient SUV on the planet with 34 mpg in the city.<sup>4</sup> And the Ford F-150 was named the 2009 Motor Trend Truck of the Year,<sup>5</sup> and F-Series remains the best-selling line of trucks in America for 32 years running. Oh, and by the way, the voice-activated SYNC® system<sup>6</sup> in Ford vehicles isn't available on Honda, Toyota or any other manufacturer. They missed the boat on that one.

Recently, speaking of Ford and the economy, CEO Alan Mulally said, "As we come through this, we're going to be a turbo machine on the other side."

He wasn't joking. This summer, Ford will introduce the new 2010 Ford Taurus with the available EcoBoost™ V6 engine.<sup>8</sup> Designed with direct injection and twin turbochargers, EcoBoost will create V8 power with V6 efficiency. How's that for American ingenuity? Shortly, the same twin-turbo technology will be applied to 90% of our engines. Then, in 2010, Ford will start rolling out electric vehicles. I'm sure they'll be even more fantastic.

So there are plenty of reasons to buy a new Ford — and not simply because we're American. We have great products for you right now and even more on the way. Please come in today and drive one.

Sincerely,

Mike Creasey, C&C Ford/Mercury
