DIVERSION ROAD FOR U.S. 641 WORK READY

After the rupture of both Atmos Energy natural gas and Crittenden-Livingston Water District lines at the tie-in site of the northern end of the new U.S. 641, work appears to be getting close to resuming.

According to Keith Todd, a spokesman for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, engineering plans for the site have been adjusted to prevent further issues with utilities as a bypass of the current U.S. 641 is built to allow tie-in construction to begin.

"Our design staff has tweaked plans for the temporary diversion to avoid a water line,"

Todd told The Crittenden Press in an email. "Our design staff has also tweaked the design of the permanent roadway to allow work to move ahead."

Todd said the contractor has now been supplied with the new information, and resumption will largely depend on Mother Nature.

"It likely it will take a few days of dry weather before the contractor can resume work on the temporary diversion," he said Monday.

According to the National Weather Service, no rain is forecast until Saturday, when there is a chance of thunderstorms.

It has been 2,302 days since a Feb. 17, 2012, groundbreaking ceremony for the relocated U.S. 641.

CRITTENDEN DRIVER TESTING OUT FRIDAY

According to Crittenden County Circuit Clerk Melissa Guill, due to a shortage of licensed testing agents, there will be no written or road driver's license testing at Crittenden County Courthouse Friday.

PUBLIC MEETINGS

- Crittenden Fiscal Court will convene at 8:30 a.m. today (Thursday) for a special meeting at the courthouse to approve a loan for Sheridan Volunteer Fire Department's purchase of a used fire truck. Also on the agenda will be the appointment of a member to the tax appeal board.

- Crittenden County Board of Education will convene at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at Rocket Arena for its regular monthly meeting.

Early summer: 2018 hottest May on record in Ky.

FROM STAFF ADN WIRE REPORTS

If May felt hotter than normal, you're absolutely right. In fact, it was the warmest May on record at every official National Weather Service (NWS) reporting station in Kentucky, based on the average daily temperature. A Kentucky Mesonet climate monitoring station in Crittenden County would put the local heat near the hottest in the state.

The ranking of average temperatures in May at the nine NWS locations statewide includes Louisville in the top spot at 75.9 degrees, followed by Paducah and Bowling Green at 75.4 and 74.6 degrees, respectively. Using the Kentucky Mesonet average daily temperature at the station in the Repton community, Crittenden County registered 73.3 degrees. That's a half-degree warmer than the NWS station in Lexington.

Paducah is the nearest NWS station, and seven of the nine date back to the 1800s.

The record warmth in May follows an April that at some of the same NWS locations was among the coldest on record.

The average daily temperature in Crittenden County during the fourth month of the year was only 50.9 degrees.

Locally, last month was the hottest May recorded by the Kentucky Mesonet station, which dates back to June 2009. The only other May to eclipse 70 degrees for the average daily temperature was in 2012, when the reading was 70.6 degrees.

May 2018 in Crittenden County saw the daily high in the 80s for 25 of the 31 days. There were only 15 in May 2017.

The humidity made matters worse, with 23 days of 95 percent humidity or greater, including 16 with 100 percent humidity recorded. Coupled with the hottest day of 88.6 degrees on May 27, the air felt like 124.3 degrees to the human body, according to the NWS heat index.

"You could say that we had about one week of spring separating our late winter from our early summer," said forecaster Joe Sullivan with the NWS in Louisville

Soaring Eagle

Dayton Simpkins, a recent graduate of Crittenden County High School, has become the fourth person to earn the rank of Eagle Scout from local Boy Scout Troop 3030 since 2016.

Scouting gives Simpkins direction after losing father to rare disease

By CHRIS EVANS

For Dayton Simpkins, the Boy Scouts of America has been more than a motto, a sash dotted by merit badges or a weekly meeting with other young men dressed similarly in brown uniforms taut with the organization's signature neckerchief.

For this just-graduated, college-bound 18-year-old, Scouting has whisked his spirit and saved his soul. Over the past six years, it has provided him with an emotional lift, life skills and challenges that escorted him from adolescence toward adulthood.

This weekend, Crittenden County Scout Troop 3030 will christen its newest Eagle Scout. For many, Scouting's pinnacle achievement is a place of destiny. But for Simpkins, it's only a beginning.

"I plan to stay involved," he said. "Scouting has given me so much; I definitely want to give back."

The troop will host a Court of Honor at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Marion United Methodist Church. A reception will follow.

Simpkins joined Scouting at a time when he was yearning for guidance. His father, Paul, died of a rare disease in 2007, and Simpkins found himself searching for personal identity and direction.

City sewer fee bump starts with July billing

By DARYL K. TABOR
PRESS EDITOR

Marion sewer utility customers will feel the latest impact from a state-mandated upgrade to the municipal wastewater treatment system on their July water/sewer bills.

Starting with next month's billing, a 70 percent increase on an environmental assessment fee will be added. For most customers, that will be an overall monthly increase of $5.60 or $8.40, based on metered water usage. The change was approved unanimously Monday at a special city council meeting.

The bump in the fee paid by sewer customers since the summer of 2016 is necessary to close a $270,000 gap in revenue required by the Kentucky Infrastructure Authority in order to offer a low-interest loan to the City of Marion for construction of a $10 million sewer treatment plant. In fact, the initial ordinance that im-

Local copperhead strike typical of species

STAFF REPORT

When Judy Belt bent over to pick up an odd looking stick on her lawn in the Piney community last week, she knew right away it wasn't an ordinary stick.

This was a copperhead snake. She had been walking around the yard last Thursday morning about 9 a.m., picking up debris that had been cleaned from her gutters. While doing so, she decided to pick up sticks laying around, too.

Recent cataract surgery had left her vision a bit fuzzy but she recognized an odd color to the stick she was about to take hold of.

"I don't think I ever touched it before it bit me," she said.

"It felt like two little pins, but I knew what had happened."

The snake was quickly disposed of and dispatched along with Belt to Crittenden Health Systems where she received treatment.

Doctors gave Belt a regimen of antibiotics and steroids to treat the bite and she is recovering well enough that she went to the ball park Saturday to watch her grandson play baseball.

According to the Center for Disease Control and Prevention, about 7,000-8,000 people per year receive venomous snake bites in the United States, and about five of those people die. Most of the fatal bites are from snakes other than copperheads. Copperheads account for more cases of venomous snake bites than any other North American species, according to the CDC. However, their venom is the least toxic, so their bite is seldom fatal.

Dr. Gary James, who is treating Belt's bite, said snake bites, as far as he knows, are rare in Crittenden County.

"That's the first one I have seen in a long time," he said.

Marion’s first butcher shop in decades open six days

By ALEXA BLACK
STAFF WRITER

Marion has its first butcher shop in decades, one whose products are said to be “A Cut Above,” as the new store’s name would suggest.

Tony and Sharon McDonald of Marion opened their new meat market on South Main Street over Memorial Day weekend up. The couple are also owners of McDonald’s Midstream, a company that services towboats and supplies them with provisions.

He was captain at Ingram Barge Co. for 28 years, and she is a registered nurse. The couple started the business from the ground up in 2014, providing for 40 boats monthly just starting out. Demands of their services have since doubled, now serving up to 80 towboats monthly.

Last year, due to their business’ increase in demands, the couple decided they needed to be able to supply their own meat. They also needed more storage and lacked room for the growing requests.

As a result, the McDonalds started up a meat market, not only for their own benefit but for the community as well. Having worked at Richard’s Meat Market in Smithland in his early 20s, Tony learned the ropes of the trade at a young age. Though he committed himself to another occupation in the years following, the butcher knowledge never left him and it is something he will put to use now.

ALEXA BLACK/THE PRESS

Sharon and Tony McDonald stand at the counter inside A Cut Above meat market that is soon to be opening on South Main Street in Marion.

Sharon believes A Cut Above can be set apart from other businesses, as there are aspects that make it unique. It is one of the first butcher shops in the city in decades and also offers a selection of frozen seafood.

Tim Sherrell of Marion is the butcher. The McDonalds said he received praise from the community and has experience with other businesses, so they felt he was the perfect butcher for the job.

“At A Cut Above, locals can come in and place specific orders with little limitations,” Sharon said. “For example, if you just want two pork chops, you can come and order exactly two. You don’t have to take a bundle of five or go by any other specifications.”

The butcher shop will offer “choice” USDA inspected meats, a grade higher than “select” meats more commonly found at markets.

“I think with the volume and demand we will have, and considering our other business, we will be able to keep our meat fresh and prices very affordable for people coming in,” Tony said.

A Cut Above is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

Economic development group hires 1st director

STAFF REPORT

An executive director has been hired to lead a three-county economic development organization that includes Crittenden County.

Lake Barkley Partnership for Economic Development last week announced the hiring of Amanda Davenport of Texas as its first executive director. The partnership serves Crittenden, Caldwell and Lyon counties in an effort to recruit development and jobs to the area. As a full-time employee, Davenport will lead, manage, direct and coordinate economic development in the three counties.

“Amanda is full of energy and is passionate about her work with rural communities,” said Par 4 Plastics President Tim Capps, who serves as chairman of the tri-county venture. “We are very excited to have her as our executive director.”

The partnership will represent 29,825 residents within its three counties with a projected annual budget of $140,000.

Davenport was born and raised in Denton, Texas, but has ties to western Kentucky. In 2011, she earned a bachelor of arts in liberal arts at Murray State University. Her focus was American literature and history. She was very active at the university and rode on the equestrian team for four years and one year as an alumnus.

After graduation, she and her husband moved back to Texas in 2012, and she attended Texas Woman’s University, where she graduated in 2014 with a master’s in business administration.

While studying for her master’s degree, she also began her career in local government and economic development. Davenport has served as the director of Pilot Point, Texas, Economic Development Corp. since 2014.

According to a Lake Barkley Partnership news release, Davenport’s proudest accomplishments in Pilot Point have been working with state leaders as an advocate for rural communities, creating a grant program for local businesses, establishing a local business council, developing a business retention program and developing a website and marketing strategy to promote the community.

Crittenden County’s inclusion in the Partnership comes by way of Crittenden County Economic Development Corp.’s contribution to the organization. Last year, CCEDC approved joining Caldwell and Lyon counties, but continues to operate as its own entity, serving the specific interests of Crittenden County.

Representing Crittenden County on the Lake Barkley Partnership for Economic Development board are Capps; board secretary D’Anna Sallin, an elected member of Marion City Council and employee at Siemens Rail Automation Corp. in Marion; Judge-Executive Perry Newcom; Marion City Administrator Adam Ledford and Farmers Bank & Trust Co. Executive Vice President Chris Cook.

Park vandals charged

STAFF REPORT
Marion Police Department has solved a couple of vandalism cases, one that left the park restrooms damaged. They are currently working a couple of other burglary cases.
A juvenile has been charged with the incident at Marion-Crittenden County Park, which occurred one evening last week. The suspect allegedly busted out two skylights inside the men's restroom, valued at almost $400.
Police have not charged anyone, but they know who caused some light damage at SLC Structures on Main Street last week. One of the three juveniles believed involved in this matter was also present when damage was done in the park case, but he was not charged.
Kentucky law holds parents accountable for damages done by their minor children.
Marion Police Chief Ray O'Neal said investigators are looking to burglaries at the construction site of First United Bank on Main Street and at nearby Henry & Henry Monuments on Sturgis Road. Taken from the bank construction site were several power and hand tools. From Henry & Henry, someone stole a weed trimmer and gasoline cans.
Anyone with information in these cases can call the police department at (270) 965-3500. In some cases, a reward might be available.

New box accepts retired flags

The courthouse is being offered up as a new location to drop off American flags that should be retired. A box has been set up inside the front door to collect worn, tattered and faded flags. The U.S. Flag Code calls for such banners to be burned, a task undertaken locally by local Boy Scout Troop 3030. Crittenden County Judge-Executive Perry Newcom said the collection box is courtesy of the National Association of Counties for all Kentucky counties. Pictured above are (from left) Sandy Urbanowski, representing the Boy Scouts, magistrates Zach Bloodworth, Danny Fowler, Donnetta Travis and Dan Wood, Newcom, Magistrate Curt Buntin and County Attorney Rebecca Johnson.

Mott City antique shop under new ownership

STAFF REPORT
Crittenden County residents Gayle Davenport and William Tate are the new owners of The Windmill Antiques in Mott City. Located on U.S. 641 between Crayne and Fredonia, the antique store is reaching capacity after the two bought the antique store from Marty Kaiser, who operated Our Picket Fence in the same location.
Davenport is a native of Crittenden County and Tate is originally from Union County.
Davenport was a vendor at Our Picket Fence briefly before it closed. A good portion of the contents of The Windmill Antiques is from Davenport's personal collection. Ten vendors also maintain booths there.

The Windmill Antiques, located in the former Cole Lumber Co. building, is described as having quality merchandise moderately priced, with everything from primitives to rare collectibles. A new addition to the store is a booth of new Americana items including American flags in traditional and vintage colors.

Road work may disrupt traffic flow

STAFF REPORT
Two current road construction projects in the county will see a disruption of traffic flow in the northeast portion of the county.
A contractor has begun digging to extend three or four culverts along U.S. 60 East in the Rosebud Hill area between the Ky. 654 intersection and the Union County line. The work is part of a 7-mile Highway Safety Improvement Project.
Kentucky Transportation Cabinet spokesman Keith Todd said the contractor may be able to conduct much of the work without lane restrictions, but he advises motorists to be on the lookout for flaggers in the event restrictions become necessary.
The work is a likely indicator that crews will be laboring in earnest from this point forward until the overall project is completed. It also will include the addition of a gravel shoulder, high-traction coating, pavement wedging adjustments and slope improvements. Tree trimming has already taken place.

Fishtrap Road
Meantime, Fishtrap Road in northern Crittenden County will be closed to through traffic the rest of this week while the Crittenden County Road Department makes repairs.

Road Supervisor Audi Maraman said crews will be doing a major base repair on a section of the road near White Road. Traffic will need to self detour around the work area.

Relay wrapup

Crittenden County held its Relay for Life Ceremony on Friday and was what many in attendance called a successful night, despite the rain. The American Cancer Society organization raised $29,000, and is still aiming to reach its goal of $35,000. Donations will continue to be accepted until the end of the year. "I truly thank the committee and team captains that I have had the opportunity to work with as event chair for the last six years," said Natalie Parish. "We thank all of our sponsors who always step up and help us make the event happen. Last but not least, I want to thank the team members, survivors and community for their constant support of relay." Deer Creek Baptist Church singers Chad and Kenny Bell, Wade Buntin and Matt Papineau won the lip sync battle. Above, scores of luminaries are lit in remembrance of a life touched by cancer. Top right, cancer survivor Valerie Gilbert and her daughter Paige during survivor lap. Bottom right, the Legacy Oxygen team poses for the camera. Summers latest Governor's Scholar

By ALEXA BLACK
STAFF WRITER

Crittenden County High School incoming-senior Shelby Summers has recently been accepted into Kentucky's Governor's Scholars Program. The residential program for outstanding high school teens who will be seniors has a mission to enhance the state's next generation of economic and civic leadership, and has grown to more than 1,000 students on three campuses.

Summers, who is active in sports, on the student council, in FFA, FBIA and deeply involved in her education overall, is looking forward to her summer. "I heard about the program from my friend Mauri Collins, who is a senior," Summers said last month, prior to Collins' graduation from CCHS. "She participated in it, and after looking into it, I decided it sounded great and was something I wanted to pursue as well. She really made sure to help me out with the application process, which was the hardest part."

Selection for the program is highly competitive, and the application process is similar to that of universities. Academic profiles include difficulty of course load, GPA, at least one standardized test score and an outline of all extracurricular activities. Later this month, Summers will be sent to either Northern Kentucky University, Morehead State University or Murray State University to begin the five-week program.

Summers chose forensic science, business accounting and psychology as her focus areas, and one of them will be selected for intensive study.

The courses allow a student to pursue a topic in depth and helps with the development of ideas in the chosen course. There are also general classes emphasizing community leadership, service learning and resolution development, among other programs.

After graduation next May from CCHS, Summers plans to enter a pre-veterinary program at Murray State University, and then transfer to graduate school at Auburn University in Alabama.

The ambitious teen attributes her success to staying dedicated and on task, and also gives credit to help and encouragement she received from her family.

"My family is hard-working, so a lot of that work ethic rubbed off on me," Summers said. "My mom is a single mom and has always worked hard to give me what I want, and taught me to do the same for myself. I'm nervous,

Summers

Hurricane Camp’s tradition dates back to 1888

Hurricane Camp will be celebrating its 130th year of historic meetings June 11-17. Although years ago the famous meetings were held in August, they are now held in June. Mark your calendars for this one of-a-kind spiritual gathering.

Hurricane Camp Grounds was one of the most historic and famous spots in the entire state during the early half of the 20th century.

The camp meeting was founded in 1888/1889 by Samuel F. Crider, James F. Terry, John B. Perry, Robert S. Clark, N. Franks, John W. Guess and Samuel K. Breeding. The majority of the founders resided in and near the town of Tolu, which was located about five miles away.

The first tabernacle was made by the people of the community of logs cut from the nearby woods and hauled to the sawmill where they were prepared for building the first tabernacle. The tabernacle was 60'x100' with a sawdust floor and seats made of clapboard.

Crittenden Record-Press, Sept. 12, 1907
Eighteenth Anniversary Of The Hurricane Camp Meeting Celebrated At Hurricane Church August 30, 1907.

At the hour of 10 o'clock Friday morning, Aug. 30, 1907, the magnificent, spacious tabernacle at Hurricane campground was almost filled to overflowing with men, women and children who had gathered there in the name of God for the purpose of celebrating the 18th anniversary of Hurricane camp meeting.

Services began by the singing of God's praises in which it seemed that the sweet voiced angels of God were participants, thereby causing the veil that obstructs our view of God and the glories of heaven to be removed. It was then that the sunlight of God seemed to bust forth from the portals of heaven and wonderfully filled the hearts of all present with the electric, preserving grace of God.

After an invocation of God's blessings by Rev. Robert Johnson, any and all present were then given an opportunity to tell of the benefits, if any, they had derived by reason of the inauguration of Hurricane camp meeting.

At this point it seemed to me that the progress of this service was crowded with a smile of approval from the sweet face of Jesus, as his spirit came flashing down the beautiful pathway from Paradise, and set the voices of more than 135 glad, happy men and women to enumerating the many, many blessings which had been bestowed upon them because of their being in existence a Hurricane camp meeting.

A vote was then taken for the purpose of determining whether or not it would be advisable to continue the camp meeting longer than this year; not a dissenting voice, it was unanimously declared that the Hurricane camp meeting would be carried on year after year while the ceaseless ages roll.

The devil now being entirely driven from our ranks, it seemed that God's electric wires of love had found direct connection with each and every heart in the tabernacle.

The time had now come when a sermon was in order, so prompted and being directed by the Holy Ghost, which so wonderfully predominated his heart, Rev. Robert Johnson graced the pulpit and took for his text, Daniel 15:10, reading "Many shall be purified and made white and tried, but the wicked shall do wickedly and none of the wicked shall understand, but the wise shall understand."

As the speaker stood before his congregation, the impersonation of a true, loyal, faithful Christian soldier, all seemed magnetized with his eloquence, and with words of kindness, encouragement, help and gratitude to God and benediction for man he led his congregation up to the great gushing fountain of God, and all seemed to drink freely of the purifying waters which cleaneth from all impurities, thus making us white and tried and thoroughly prepared to enter into the land of everlasting Felicity.

Hundreds have gone up from old Hurricane campground to join the innumerable host to forever shout God's praises throughout a never-ending eternity.

There are many religions, but thank God this morning we feel burning in our souls a wonderful and glorious religion which came direct from the great loving heart of God our Father in heaven.

The inspired speaker continued at length to feed his congregation upon manna which fell direct from the hollow of the creative hand of God, then brought his sermon to a close with a beautiful description of heaven where today are gathered a host of our dear loved ones who were prepared to share the full blessings and joys of heaven through the influence of Hurricane camp meeting. The following I submit as bits of history of the camp meeting:

Hurricane camp meeting was established in the year 1890, and at that time was in what was known as the Marion Circuit, which embraced Marion, Hills Chapel, Siloam and Hurricane.

The sermons preached during this camp meeting are in number about 800.

The souls converted and sanctified I feel safe to estimate the number to exceed 2,000.

The following I am glad to give you as a list of those who have been called to the ministry of God through the influence of Hurricane camp meeting, L. J. Millikan, who today in crowned with the honors of Presiding Elder, E. S. Moore, Hodge Murphy, Ben Yates, W. T. Nation, Will Humphrey, Elisha Thomas, Uriah Terry, Joseph Stone, Lemon Threlkeld, John Love, E. J. Martin, John Haynes and Miss Alice Griffith to foreign missions.

The following I am now glad to submit as a noted army of men who have been licensed to exhort and sing, R. M. Franks, J. A. Wheeler, W. B. Yates, R. H. Yates, T. S. Threlkeld, Robert Lear, Ulie Threlkeld, Charles Lear, George Yates, and William Brazell.

During the period of time since the organization of this camp meeting, we are glad to note that three tracts of land have been bought, paid for and deeded to the Methodist Church South. And quite a lot of repair work has been done on Hurricane Church in the way of roofing and painting.

I am glad to say that the Hurricane camp meeting is being recognized by not only those who are professed followers of Christ, but also by many who are not professors of religion as the fountain-head of many blessings to our town and country.

Therefore, let us ever be ready and willing to lend a helping hand to this excellent work which is instrumental in lifting fallen humanity from the dark paths of sin and placing their feet upon the high plains of Christian civilization and there behold the sunlit countenance of Christ Jesus, the Savior of mankind.

Let us all who profess to be followers of Christ ever be found at our post of duty battling down all satanic influences that are in the least inclined to be a hindrance to the promotion of this grand and noble work of God, human improvement. Written by: Learner E. Guess

Crittenden Record Press, August 1905

There were five gasoline boats at our land Sunday and the steamer Royal, all bound for the camp meeting.

The best camp meeting ever held at Hurricane closed last Sunday. The best of order prevailed throughout the meeting. A very large crowd was present Sunday, something like 4,000 people from Golconda to Caseyville and Marion to DeKoven. The camp meeting will continue as of old.

Hurricane Tabernacle Destroyed By Fire
Saturday morning the tabernacle at Hurricane, also the church building at that place, were completely destroyed by fire. How the fire originated is unknown, but it is thought by many to have been the work of an incendiary.

The blaze first broke out in the upper, or south side of the tabernacle, at about nine o'clock. So far as is known, the fire was first seen by Miss Kirk, teacher of the Barnett School, and another lady teacher, who had come early to attend a school fair advertised to be held on that day.

These young ladies, who were seated in a buggy down by the gate some distance from the tabernacle, on discovering the fire ran to the church and rang the bell. As they ran toward the building, it is reported the young ladies saw a man unknown to them going up from the south side of the tabernacle and disappear behind the row of camps which surround the building. The tabernacle was soon a mass of flames and a strong south wind carried the fire to the church and that building was also burned to the ground.

Next week's article will continue with more history of the church and grounds. (Brenda Underdown is chair of Crittenden County Historical Society and a member of Crittenden County Genealogical Society. Much more local history can be found at OurForgottenPassages.blogspot.com.)

CRITTENDEN COUNTY HEALTH AND REHAB CENTER, TO HOST A FREE SEMINAR TO HELP ALL WAR-TIME VETERANS AND THEIR WIDOWS RECEIVE PENSION BENEFITS TO PAY FOR ELDER CARE SERVICES

On Tuesday, June 19, 2018, at 6:30 p.m., a free seminar will be held by Crittenden County Health & Rehab Center at 201 Watson Street, Marion, Kentucky, to help veterans obtain pension benefits to pay for the costs of elder care. The guest speaker for the seminar will be Darron L. Brawner, an accredited attorney with the Department of Veterans Affairs. Mr. Brawner is the founder of Western Kentucky Elder Law, PLC located in Owensboro, Kentucky. He has over 15 years of experience working with Elder Law.

Approximately 33% of all seniors in this country are eligible to receive a special pension from the Department of Veterans Affairs. This little-known special pension provides up to $2,170.00 per month for Veterans, and their surviving spouses, to pay for the cost of elder care services. To be eligible, the Veteran must have at least 90 days of active duty service with at least 1 day beginning or ending during a period of War. Additionally, the Veteran, or their surviving spouse, must require the assistance from another person in performing the activities of daily living such as eating, bathing, dressing, undressing or taking care of the needs of nature.

The special pension can be used to pay for home care services that assist the Veteran, or their surviving spouse, with the activities of daily living, and can also be used to pay for the costs of an Assisted Living Community or Nursing Home Facility. There is no place like home, and with this special pension, Veterans, and their surviving spouses, can stay at home or move to an assisted living community and receive the care they need. The VA typically does not tell eligible Veterans about this special pension. In fact, the VA does little to help Veterans obtain this special pension. If you believe that you may be eligible for this special pension, you need to attend this seminar. Space is limited, so please RSVP by calling Western Kentucky Elder Law, PLC at (270) 684-4811.

School shootings may be rooted in spiritual void

Our nation is a nation that currently seems to be plagued by so many social problems. Among them are racial strife, an opioid crisis and a multitude of school shootings. A news program I was recently watching stated that there had already been 20 school shootings around the country since the beginning of this year. People are wanting to know why.

Young people from Parkland, Fla., one of the sites of a recent school shooting, are blaming guns and the National Rifle Association. They are calling for more gun control laws as a solution to this crisis, but how many laws are enough? This solution is driven by emotion rather than logic and common sense.

First of all, students, or others who commit criminal acts of violence, have no regard for laws and are determined to get hold of guns by any means – beg, borrow or steal. No gun law will prevent that.

Mark GIRTEN
Guest columnist

Secondly, if the NRA is to blame for school shootings – and it has existed since 1871 – why are school shootings a more recent phenomenon, over just the last few decades? Perhaps there's an answer that makes more sense.

Many people in Santa Fe, Texas, site of one of the most recent school shootings, are saying that the problem lies within the human heart. I totally agree with that idea. The Bible warns us all in Proverbs 4:23 to, “Keep your heart with all diligence, for out of it springs the issues of life.”

I believe the American family changed. Divorce skyrocketed, and our children – several generations of them – have paid a terrible price. Parents with drug and alcohol problems are not caring for their children. These parents are neglectful and/or abusive. Many grandparents and others are having to stand in the gap.

We also have an enormous amount of ungodly, harmful, toxic material coming from television, especially in prime time and from movies, internet and video games. An enormous amount of it is violent and de-values human life. Add this to the broken American family, and is it any wonder that our children, or others, want to commit suicide and/or murder others?

Then some very foolishly want to blame an inanimate object – a gun, or the NRA, for school shootings. How preposterous! Is a fork to blame for someone's obesity? Yet some would have us believe that a gun is the problem.

Ours is a spiritual problem. Billy Graham has written that, “No matter how advanced its progress, any generation that neglects its spiritual and moral life is going to disintegrate. This is the story of man, and this is our modern problem.”

Our spiritual problem is also an authority problem. Our authority in living life will either be God or ourselves. Too many people have chosen self. As Randy Stonehill has so aptly written in a song, “We are all like foolish puppets who desiring to be kings, now lie pitifully crippled after cutting our own strings.”

God has shown us the way, yet we choose to contemptuously ignore that. Our world view has become humanistic. We see ourselves and governments as the answer, but the more we try that solution, the more it fails. We need to get back to a God-honoring biblical world-view.

Young people are killing themselves and each other because they've lost hope and have been taught by certain elements of our society, whether by television, movies, government, internet or their own family members, that human life has no meaning or value.

Billy Graham once said, “Young people seek adventure and excitement; but youth wants more – it wants something to believe in; it wants a cause to give itself to and a flag to follow. The only cause that is big enough is the cause of Jesus Christ; and its flag is the blood-stained body that was lifted on the cross of Calvary for the redemption of the world.”

Our nation, including its families and young people, need to follow in the ways and wisdom and love of Jesus Christ. We need to take self and government off the throne and acknowledge God's proper place back on the throne.

Trying to stop school shootings by passing more gun laws is like pouring water into a broken cistern – it's a solution that doesn't hold water. On the other hand, praying and acting to bring healing to hearts and families makes a lot of sense.

Be a part of the solution. Consider volunteering in the schools or some pro-family organization. Our young people need to know somebody cares. It just might mean the difference between tragedy and triumph, and the salvation of our nation.

Surviving are her daughter, Leslie Pace; son-in-law, Tom Pace; granddaughters, Emily and Abby Pace; sisters, Greta Guggenheim and Eva Guggenheim; and nephews Sam, Robert and John.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Anita and Sam Guggenheim; and her grandparents, Theta and Jess Durrett.

Services were Monday, June 4 at Church of the Servant in Oklahoma City.

Memorials may be made to the Oklahoma Humane Society.

THE PRESS

Homeless help

Fourth- and fifth graders at Marion United Methodist Church coordinated a care package collection drive for homeless adults this spring as part of a Sunday school missions project. The class taught by Millie Jorgensen collected personal hygiene items, New Testaments, small blankets, travel size pillows and other necessities through a church-wide effort. Twelve backpacks filled with the items were donated to Crittenden County Jailer Robbie Kirk last Thursday and will be distributed to inmates who oftentimes have nothing more than the clothes on their back upon their release from jail. Pictured from left are Elliot Evans, Ethan Thomas, Hattie Hatfield, Carly Porter, Kirk and Brady Belt.

Summer program activities later this month

Several activities will be held later this month as part of Crittenden County School System’s Crosswalk Learning Center Summer Fun Program.

On June 18, the focus of the program will be skill building with a Culinary Challenge/Cupcake Wars, Container Gardening and Small Engine Repair.

Classes will take place consecutively and students will rotate between 10 a.m.-2:15 p.m.

June 19-20, the program offers Freshmen First Look/Parent Skills.

Parent Involvement and Skill Building will take place at the same time, with parents participating in programming and spending time with Adult Education representatives who will provide information on the GED and other work skill programs. Representatives will be on hand to discuss job openings and other local opportunities. The program begins at 10 a.m. and includes a question and answer session followed by a student-led panel and team building activities after lunch.

On June 21, Skill Building will focus on the arts with a music program at 10 a.m., followed by lunch and an art project in the afternoon.

Auxiliary, chaplains honored at Crittenden Hospital

The volunteer auxiliary and chaplains serving Crittenden Health Systems were recently recognized by hospital administration.

Claudina Travis is the longest serving member, joining the auxiliary in 1985. Virgie Collins is also a longtime member, serving since 1997.

“We commend the dedication of these ladies and to all the volunteers and thank them for their commitment to the hospital and willingness to serve their community and our patients,” said Donnetta Travis, materials and environmental services director.

Travis said the auxiliary is vital to hospital operations, including answering phones, filing, assisting patients and directing visitors.

Minnie Lou Brown serves as chairperson of the auxiliary and holds bi-monthly meetings to keep everyone abreast of changes at the hospital, safety issues and setting goals.

The hospital gift shop is operated by the auxiliary and is managed by Martha Stone. The gift shop offers gifts, home decor, jewelry, household items, small prints and clothing accessories along with balloons, snacks and candy. Proceeds from the gift shop help purchase small equipment and educational materials for the hospital with the end goal being to better serve patients, Travis said.

Anyone interested in being a part of our volunteer team should contact Gaye Porter at (270) 965-1014.

Travis said the chaplains’ service to hospital patients, families and staff in time of need is an integral part of the healing process.

For more information about serving as a chaplain, contact Reese Baker at (270) 965-1019.

Local Game

Warden says,

Leave animals alone

Wild animals should be left alone, says Crittenden County Conservation Officer Randy Conway.

The game warden says fawn births are in full swing in the deer community. He admonishes folks to avoid contact with baby deer because it will very likely put the fawn in jeopardy of survival.

“Don’t touch them,” Conway said. This could cause the mother to reject it.

Fawns are born mostly in May and June. Mothers often leave their young alone for hours at a time, but will return. If humans or pets come into contact with a fawn, it may take 24 hours for a mother deer to feel safe enough to return to her baby.

Farmers cutting hay this time of year should also be extra cautious if they want to avoid harming fawns which are reluctant to move even when a large tractor approaches. Their natural instincts, at least for the first few days of life, is to freeze when danger is nearby.

Conway reminds residents that possession of wildlife, including a baby deer, is prohibited in Kentucky.

Hunter Ed Course

There will be a KDFWR Hunter Education Course from 8:30 a.m., until 4:30 p.m., on Saturday, June 30 at the Crittenden County Gun Club on Ky. 91 North. Those who complete this course will receive a Kentucky “Orange” Card, which is required of all hunters born after Jan. 1, 1975. This is a free class and will be taught by local instructor John Robertson.

STAFF REPORT

Pride and persistence will keep the Lady Rocket softball team on point in the coming years vows second-year skipper Stephen Smith.

The Lady Rockets – just one win shy of playing in the regional championship last week – see nothing on the horizon that would indicate anything less than something better than the achievements of the past two seasons. And that’s a tall order considering Crittenden’s fast-pitch softball success hadn’t been much to write about prior to last spring when the team won a record 27 games. This year’s mark of 22-8 was the second best in the region and the girls won their first ever game in the Second Region Tournament, shutting out Hopkinsville in the opener a week ago Monday.

Rain postponed the tournament for most of last week, but on Friday Crittenden got back on the diamond against Caldwell County and took an early 2-0 lead. However, the Lady Tigers – 18-12 and the Second Region All A champions – reeled off seven answered runs to win the semifinal round game 7-2.

Freshman Jada Hayes had two hits and an RBI in the contest. She is certain that her team can acheive more as it matures – only one senior will graduate.

“We have a lot of potential,” she said. “We want to win the Class A, the district tournament and be in the regional championship next year,” she said.

Third baseman and pitcher Kaitlyn Hicks is the only player graduating. She also projects greatness for this young group of girls.

“I think they can go even farther. I really believe they can play in the state championship (tournament),” she said.

Caldwell pitcher Katie Franklin was just too crafty for the Lady Rocket batters, who managed single-run frames in the first and second, but couldn’t get anything going beyond that.

Ellie Smith drove in the team’s only other run. Crittenden managed just three hits against Caldwell’s ace Katie Franklin, whose fastball is not overpowering, but she paints the corners and has a wipeout rising pitch.

“I am proud of these kids. When you consider we start five freshmen and two sophomores, you just can’t say enough about them,” the coach said. “We’ve changed the culture the last two years and they’re starting to realize that they belong here. The future looks bright.”

NFL likes Conrad, too

He had just 16 catches for 286 yards and four scores in 2017 before missing the final three games with a foot injury. Yet not only is tight end C.J. Conrad being counted on as a pivotal player in the Kentucky offense, he's already projected to be one of the first tight ends picked in the 2019 NFL draft.

Larry Vaughnt
UK Sports Columnist
Vaught's Views

In his career, he has 50 receptions for 697 yards – 14 yards per catch – and nine touchdowns. But as much as some Kentucky fans have wanted to see the ball go his way more, Conrad has filled his role as a dominating blocker the last two years for Benny Snell and others.

ESPN has Conrad projected as the first tight end in the 2019 draft ahead of Tyler Pette (USC), Tommy Sweeney (Boston College), Foster Moreau (LSU) and Matt Sokol (Michigan State). Other projections have him as the second or third tight end picked anywhere from round two to round four. But a tight end has been taken in the first round three times in the last five NFL drafts.

The 6-5, 245-pound Conrad could become the first UK tight end drafted since Jacob Tamme in 2008. Like Tamme, he has soft hands and deceptive speed (4.7 seconds in the 40-yard dash).

Conrad was limited to non-contact drills in spring practice to make sure he's fully ready to go when the 2018 season opens. While many players would have been happy to leave spring practices early, Conrad was not. He missed the contact and work.

"That kid is a competitor. He will be back 110 percent in June. We just couldn't take any chances with him," UK tight ends coach Vince Marrow said.

Marrow is not surprised that Conrad has already been named to several preseason all-SEC teams as well as listed high in mock drafts.

"He is one of the top five tight ends in the country and the NFL thinks the same thing just off the way they are ranking him right now. He could catch 40 or 50 balls. He's catching 20 balls but what people are missing is how good he can block," Marrow said.

‘Guy at the park’ spends mail delivery layovers in Marion

Meet Michael Wurth – the “guy at the park.”

For the last half dozen years, folks have commonly referred to Wurth as “that guy at the park.” Only a handful really know his story, but it didn’t take too long for folks to find out that he’s a mail carrier with a half-day layover in Marion.

The police even checked in when he first started biding time at the park.

Rain, sleet, cold or bitter hot, Wurth hangs out mostly near the skate park from about 7 a.m., until about 12:30 p.m. He sleeps in the cab of his truck for a few hours each morning, catching a nap because it’s tough getting up at 3:30 a.m., six days a week to deliver the mail. His route begins at Paducah before dawn after he loads a box truck at the U.S. Post Office on Third Street. From there, he drops mail at post offices in Smithland, Salem and Marion.

“Laying over here saves me about 100 miles of driving a day,” said Wurth, a Paducah native who went to school at St. Mary High School.

He spent 25 years in the horse racing industry as an assistant trainer. Although he was never a jockey, Wurth mounted race horses for their exercise workouts. He met a number of famous horse racing people but never spent any time in the thoroughbred community.

“I worked with quarter horses and Arabians,” he said, training horses and working at tracks from California to Florida and Vermont.

At 56, Wurth uses the park’s trail and facilities to stay healthy. He spends a half day there Monday through Saturday and gets a workout in almost every day, running the track or doing other exercises. Then he sits in the shade for lunch, which he brings with him.

“By the time I sleep a couple of hours, read a little and do my workouts, it’s about time to go,” he said.

“I see a lot of things out here. Sometimes people are doing things they don’t need to be doing,” he added. “It’s a nice place for me. I don’t bother anybody and people leave me alone.”

On the weekends, Wurth catches a ballgame at the park if one is going on before his route returns to Paducah. In the evenings, he has an extra stop heading back to McCracken County. After stopping at Salem and Smithland, he detours over to Calvert City for the mail.

Wurth is employed by an independent contractor who happens to be one of his relatives. It’s a pretty good gig, he said, and he gets to spend a lot of time at the park.

plemented the graduated fee levied two years ago in order to qualify for the loan was supposed to include an increase, according to project engineer Alan Robinson, but was overlooked at the time.

The amendment to the original ordinance to ensure financial solvency for the overall $12 million project was approved only after an amendment of its own was OK’d.

At the May 21 regular meeting of the council, the fee for the handful of sewer-only customers outside the incorporated city limits was introduced at $65 upon recommendation by Councilman Darrin Tabor. That was a 325 percent increase in the $20 environmental fee assessed since it was first implemented. As first introduced to the council last month, the new fee for those customers was the same 70 percent more as other categories of usage.

But with several Airport Road customers at Monday’s meeting, Tabor backed off the larger increase approved by the entire council on May 21. His amendment to drop the fee back down to the originally-proposed $34 was accepted unanimously.

The minimum city water/sewer bill for customers beginning in July will be $47.62.

Fredonia Valley Cemetery in Fredonia was the beneficiary of Dayton Simpkins’ Eagle Scout project, as shown above in this December 2017 photo. He spent countless hours restoring markers and grounds at the public cemetery off Ky. 91.

have taught me,” he said. “It taught me how to act right, how to think right and to keep God first in my life.”

Simpkins earned 48 Merit Badges en route to his Eagle. That’s almost twice the number required. One of the most prized patches is a silver knot on purple background sewn onto the left pocket of his uniform shirt. It signifies his completion of a religious award through Scouting. While earning it, learning about Christianity, Simpkins gave his life to Christ.

“Tom Easley worked with me earning the religious knot, and I got saved during the process,” the teen said of the father of fellow 2018 graduate and Eagle Scout Carsen Easley. “All of the leaders are like father figures to me.”

Simpkins graduated with honors from Crittenden County High School last month. His cumulative GPA was 4.0 and his academic achievements have helped earn some nice scholarships he will use to pay for a degree in engineering, physics and math at Murray State University. Simpkins describes himself a true academic, and he hopes to someday work for a research university.

The time spent in Scouting broadened his knowledge and heightened his awareness on a variety of fronts. Merit Badges in nuclear science and chemistry challenged his mind, and Simpkins’ Eagle restoration project at Fredonia Valley Cemetery was especially rewarding. His mom even got in on the work. They used muriatic acid to clear up aged headstones dating back to the 1800s and re-built a top for a stone sarcophagus where a young boy was entombed more than a century ago.

“I don’t like school per se, but I enjoy learning, and I love challenges. Scouting taught me to enjoy a good challenge,” Simpkins said.

It also taught him values and morals that will last a lifetime, and almost assuredly will become beneficial to others as he promises to pay it forward as a Scoutmaster of the future.
