The 36th annual Marion High School All-Class Reunion will be Saturday, July 2. It will be held in the dining room of the Heritage at Marion Country Club, with social hour beginning at 3 p.m. The dinner will begin at 5 p.m.

Anyone who attended MHS is encouraged to attend the reunion, traditionally held on Independence Day weekend.

In the spring of 1957, Marion High graduated its final class of seniors. That fall, the city school consolidated with Crittenden County High School. The decision was not without controversy. CCHS kept its Rocket mascot, but as a compromise replaced its green and white colors with the blue and white long associated with Blue Terrors athletics at MHS.

The Marion High School Memory Room is now located at Crittenden County Historical Museum. The museum at 124 E. Bellville St. is open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday.

County woman injured in wreck

A Crittenden County woman was seriously injured in a single-vehicle accident either late Sunday night or early Monday morning on Ky. 70 between Frances and Dycusburg.

Danielle Davis, 26, was flown by Air Evac Lifeteam from a landing area near the scene of the crash to St. Mary's Hospital in Evansville, Ind.

According to the accident report, Davis was traveling alone when she ran off the left shoulder of the road, went through a ditch and hit two driveways. Her 1995 Oldsmobile then went airborne and struck a tree. She was ejected through the front windshield, according to the report.

Investigators are not sure what time the accident happened. A passersby called it in at 1:11 a.m. Monday, but when authorities arrived on the scene, the vehicle's engine was already cold. Traffic on that stretch of highway 13.4 miles from Marion is scarce at that time of night.

Crittenden County Deputy Don Perry investigated the crash.

Closure

The offices of Crittenden County Circuit Clerk and Sheriff's Department will be closed Saturday, June 18. The courthouse will also be closed Saturday, July 16 for the barbecue festival that will be taking place around the courthouse.

Meetings

Crittenden Fiscal Court will convene for its regular monthly meeting at 8:30 a.m. next Thursday in the fiscal court room of the courthouse. On the agenda is adoption of the county's $8.6 million budget for Fiscal Year 2017.

Vets invited to appreciation luncheon

By DARYL K. TABOR
PRESS EDITOR

One of the community's strongest supporters of veterans and her church congregation want to say thanks to local veterans with a luncheon later this month.

Eleven years ago, Rev. Lucy Tedrick organized an appreciation banquet that drew more than 300 Crittenden County veterans and their spouses to the high school multi-purpose room. But with a dwindling veteran population in the county, she's not expecting as many at the luncheon planned for Saturday, June 25.

"What we are trying to do is just show the veterans how much we appreciate them," said Tedrick, pastor of Marion Church of God. "We want to show them how much we love them before it's too late."

The free noon meal will take place at the church's family center, which seats about 100. Anyone who has worn – or is wearing – the uniform is invited to attend along with their spouses. The center is located on Fords Ferry Road.

In 2005, there were about a thousand veterans living in Crittenden County, scores were from the World War II era. With the Greatest Generation fading, the U.S. Department for Veterans Affairs estimates that total number has fallen to 685, with only two dozen or so World War II veterans remaining. Today, Vietnam and peacetime veterans make up the majority of that shrinking population.

Rains dampen farmers' schedule

STAFF REPORT

Farmers don't like to complain too much about the weather, because it can always get worse.

Rainfall is a major ingredient in growing crops, but too much too early can be a big problem, according to local farmers and agriculture professionals. A little more sunshine would be nice, they say, and so far, this week's weather has been a blessing.

"We're always concerned because one extreme seems to follow another," said Philip Parish of P&H Farms, the area's largest row-cropping

Moist Mays

May is typically one of the wettest months in western Kentucky, as seen from data from the the Kentucky Mesonet weather and climate monitoring station in Crittenden County. Though last month may have seemed terribly soggy, more rain has fallen in May in three of the previous six years.

Get set...Read!

Summer Reading got off to a quick start Tuesday at Crittenden County Public Library. Above, sisters Karlee and Emily Hardin get down to business with some coloring during the opening ceremonies of an Olympics-themed summer of sharpening young reading skills while paying homage to the Rio Games in August. "On Your Mark, Get Set...Read!" offers a wide variety of fun literacy lessons under the direction of Youth Services Librarian Kathleen Guess. Summer Reading, which meets on Tuesdays, is for children in pre-school through fifth grade. Seventy-six youth are enrolled this year. Registration ended Monday.

Hurricane camp, revival blow in next week

STAFF REPORT

In many ways, Hurricane Camp Meeting can be boiled down to a numbers game.

There's a head count for campers. This year, almost 70 young folks – the most ever – will ascend upon the grounds, bringing their laughter, pillows, tooth brushes and excitement to the forested hillsides that are tranquil and tame for the other 51 weeks out of the year.

Camp Meeting has been going on for 128 years at Hurricane. For the novice, that's Hur-a-can Camp Meeting. There's no long "a" sound in the local enunciation.

Actually, there are two events rolled into one. Hurricane Youth Camp is for children who have completed second grade up through

Hurricane Camp rich in history

Hurricane Camp Meeting is still going strong after 128 years, but perhaps its peak was 100 years ago, when revival-goers used the river and horse-drawn buggies to get to worship service. County historian Brenda Underdown chronicles the history of Hurricane this week on Page 5, and dug up the following excerpt from The Crittenden Press 111 years ago:

The Crittenden Press, Sept. 1, 1905

There were five gasoline boats at Tolu landing Sunday and the steamer Royal brought a load of people, which all were bound for the camp meeting. From Sunday morning until late at night, the road from Hurricane to Marion was almost a straight line of buggies and the air a perfect cloud of dust.

middle school. That's half of the attraction. Then there's Camp Meeting, which is an old-fashioned outdoor revival. For the second straight year, Chris Brantley will be the evangelist.

Brantley is a hometown boy who grew up on the opposite side of the county from Tolu where Hurricane Camp is located. Now, he's a minister in Arkansas.

Camp meeting is held in the evenings, starting at 7 p.m. each night beginning Monday and running through June 19. The youth camp also starts Monday, but wraps us a day earlier, and it's mostly a daytime event. Some of the campers stay overnight in cabins, but others join the faith-based program during the day and go home for slumber.

There are a number of volunteers, practically everyone who has anything to do with the event to be exact. The numbers are small, but their hearts are huge.

Roy Belt, who is president of the camp's board of directors, and a handful of other gentlemen, and a few ladies, have been working almost daily since early April to get the grounds spruced up and ready for another weeklong gathering. It's a tremendous amount time and energy spent for such a short rendezvous. But Belt and the others say it's a labor of love and the mission is to find and save lost souls.

The men who have been mowing, cleaning, renovating and repairing the cabins and kitchen are getting up in age. Belt rattles off their respective numbers, 67, 67, 64, 80 and Tommy Edwards is the babe at 60, Belt says.

Wayne Crider, the eldest of the crew, has been a campground fixit man for years.

"I put the roof on this cabin 10 years ago," he said about one of the small dorms that was being prepared for

Flag Day reminder to stand for heritage

Since first observed in 1895, Flag Day comes every June 14 to commemorate the adoption of the American flag by Congress in 1777, the flag we know as the Stars and Stripes or Old Glory. Although not a legal holiday, it still holds great meaning for Americans.

Why is that? What is it about a piece of cloth on a pole that can bring forth such heart-felt emotion? Ask the men and women who recently participated in Memorial Day services. That piece of cloth represents the principles of this nation that many have laid down their lives for – principles such as life, liberty, home, family, and God who gives those gifts. We dare not take them for granted. You might sum them up in the word heritage, defined as “things of historic or cultural value that are worthy of being preserved.”

Heritage is very important. It represents who we are as a people. Karl Marx

Mark GIRTEN
Guest columnist

knew that. He wrote, “destroy a peoples' heritage and they are more easily persuaded.” That is why whenever Communism takes over a country the first thing they do is set about to wipe out that country's heritage and history. There are those today here in America who are attempting to destroy our great heritage as they attempt to rewrite American history. In the name of “not being offended,” political correctness adherents are demanding the removal of certain objects from our landscape and heritage. The Confederate monument in Louisville is a prime example. We're told that the Confederacy, and anything associated with it, represents racism, hatred and evil. Anyone who would say such a thing shows their ignorance of American history, and in some cases, the hate in their own heart. What did the Confederate soldier fight for? It wasn't slavery. Seventy-five percent of Confederate soldiers did not own slaves. They fought for their constitutional rights as espoused by the Founding Fathers and for their homeland which was invaded by the North. Thus, we have the more accurate names for that war of “The War of Northern Aggression” and “The War for Southern independence.” To call it a Civil War, although a common practice, is incorrect. By definition, a Civil war is a struggle between two factions for control of a nation. The South was not struggling for control of America; it was simply withdrawing from a national government that had failed to form a new government that was in keeping with the Founding Fathers' original vision. Thus, the term “War for Southern independence.” What the South did was no different than what the colonists did when they declared their independence from Great Britain. Just as Britain called the colonists “Rebels,” so did the North call the South “Rebels.” This name spoke of treason, although the South was not guilty of treason; it simply exercised its constitutional right to secede from the Union. Cadets at West Point Military Academy, many of whom wound up on opposite sides in the War Between the States, were taught in a class on the U.S. Constitution, the right of a state to secede. Why do I bring these things up about an article on Flag Day? It's simple. Heritage and history, accurately and truthfully understood, matters! It's represented by the flag. It's hugely important. It's worth fighting for! Again, ask any veteran if you don't believe that. The Confederacy, with all its symbols and the noble things it stood for is part of our American history and heritage. That includes the Confederate Battle Flag. Don Hinkle writes, “If anything the battle flag was a multicultural banner. It has been estimated that 10,000 Orientals, 40-60,000 Hispanics, and 50-70,000 American Indians, joined blacks in defense of the Confederacy. The South had the only American Indian general, Stand Watie, and its secretary of war, Juda P. Benjamin, was a Jew (he also served as secretary of state and attorney general). About 20 Confederate staff officers were Jews and the first Confederate States marshal, bodyguard to Jefferson Davis, was black.” Guess they never got the memo that they were fighting for slavery because they weren't. Just because certain hate groups like the KKK and white supremacists have hijacked the Confederate Battle Flag, that does not change its true meaning. Such groups, including the KKK, have marched with the “Stars and Stripes” U.S. Flag. Should we get rid of it too? Of course not! The Confederate Battle Flag is colored red, white, and blue, just as is the U.S. Flag. It has the cross of St. Andrew on it – a symbol of Christianity and good faith (As an X was commonly used in that time to sign documents) It also has 13 stars, just as there were 13 colonies once. 11 stars represent the Confederate states and two stars represent the exiled Confederate governments of Missouri and Kentucky. You see, the Confederate Battle Flag represents part of our Kentucky heritage as well as the original principles of the founding of this nation. History declares it. Those who made it and fought under it declare it. Hate groups have no right to change that or take that away. If they're offended out of ignorance, that's their problem. When they try to steal my heritage and rewrite my history, I am offended! How is it that this country has lost all sense and backbone so that a few hate-spewing extremists are being given their way at the expense of so many Americans? It's time we all stood up to the politically correct Marxist bullies. As Merle Haggard sang, when they start trying to take my heritage away, “they're walking on the fightin' side of me.” Hope you can say the same on this Flag Day. Because the tyranny will not stop here. The time is now to stand up before our U.S. Flag ends up in the crosshairs just as the Confederate Battle Flag is today. Collins records TV spot

Crittenden County 4-H'er Mauri Collins had the opportunity to prepare her Ham and Eggs in Puff Pastry recipe for a Bowling Green television station on May 17. Recognized as the National 4-H Egg Preparation Demonstration Champion last Fall, Collins was contacted by a representative from the Kentucky Poultry Federation to record a Farm and Home segment that airs Monday through Friday mornings on WBKO. Hosted by Warren County Family and Consumer Sciences Agent Brittany Young, this five minute recording promoted May as National Egg Month in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The spot aired throughout the month.

ing appreciation to those who have served in the armed forces. “I want to get this done before the Lord calls me home,” she said. Veterans have held a special place in Tedrick's heart since she was a teenager. She was only 12 when World War II broke out for the United States, but she recalls vividly how it affected her. “I remember standing in the yard crying because our men were dying,” she said. “It's always touched my heart. It's always been a heartache.” After traveling the world as an adult, she saw some of the places where Americans died in battle during the war which affected her life so deeply. She felt many of those places were not worth the toll of war. “That's why I try to help the veterans,” she said. She wants to be clear that her church family is as much to thank for the appreciation dinner. “I couldn't do any of this if it weren't for the people at the church helping,” she explained. Reservations are required by next Thursday to attend the June 25 luncheon in order to give organizers an idea of how much food to prepare. If the number of veterans in the county and their spouses planning to attend exceeds the capacity of the church's family center, Tedrick said a second round of meals could be served an hour or so later. Conrad's Food Store will be catering the luncheon, with desserts and drinks offered by members of the church congregation. To reserve a spot, those planning to attend should call Tedrick at (270) 965-3269 or Bill and Marlene James at (270) 965-2931.

Culvert on Hurricane road to be replaced after camp meeting

STAFF REPORT

The county is waiting until after next week's Hurricane Camp Meeting to replace a culvert that will see Hurricane Church Road closed for several days.

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet is providing $35,000 in Emergency Road Aid Funds to Crittenden County Court to assist with replacement of the damaged culvert. The channel carries an unnamed tributary of Caney Fork Creek under Hurricane Church Road about 0.4 miles south of Ky. 135 near the Hurricane Church Campground.

Crittenden County Judge-Executive Perry Newcom says the emergency assistance will help soften what would have been a major blow to the county road fund. "If we had to cover the entire expense of this culvert replacement, the county road budget would be taking a major hit," said Newcom. "We would be very limited in our ability to provide ongoing maintenance of roadways throughout the county. We very much appreciate this emergency assistance from the Transportation Cabinet." The ailing culvert has caused a drop in the driving surface of Hurricane Church Road at the site. The county has delayed the start of repairs until after the annual Hurricane Camp Meeting ends, which attracts hundreds of visitors to the 128 year old week-long church event. The event concludes June 19.

"The culvert replacement will require equipment larger than our county road crew has available," Newcom said. "We plan to discuss the repair work at our June 16 fiscal court meeting, and hopefully, put it out to area contractors for bid."

The bottom has rusted out of the existing corrugated metal culvert. Newcom says from conversations with local residents, he's confident the existing culvert has been in service for 50 years or more. The judge-executive is optimistic that the county could have a contractor ready to start work in late-June or sometime in July. Hurricane Church Road will likely have to be closed for several days during the installation process. The start date will be announced once the work is scheduled.

Tommy Edwards and Butch Fletcher work on the walls of this cabin last week at Hurricane Youth Camp in Tolu. The youth camp and revival begin Monday and run all next week. This is the 128th year for the event. A meal is offered in the camp's dining hall each evening before worship services in the outdoor tabernacle.

Hurricane Camp Meeting schedule

Hurricane Camp Meeting begins Monday and runs all of next week. It is the 128th year for the old-fashioned outdoor revival. Each evening beginning at 5:30 p.m. a meal will be served in the dining hall. The cost of the meal is $8.50 and includes salad, vegetables, drink and dessert as well as the entrees below. There will also be special music each evening, with performers listed below. Evening worship begins at 7 p.m.

guests. "It takes a lot of doing to keep these old buildings up."

"We need some youngness to get involved," adds Belt. "There is a lot of lifting we can't do any more."

Edwards is a school teacher in New Mexico. His mother had a place just down the road from Hurricane and he returns here each summer to help get the campground ready. His first experience at Camp Meeting was as a 15-year-old.

Keith Barnes and Butch Fletcher were painting Friday. They were getting covered with white ceiling paint as they rolled on a new coat. It all revolves around volunteers and donations they say.

The ministry accepts cash or help of any kind such as memorial contributions or giving to honor someone.

For more than 20 years, Sue Mills has been the camp cook. She will be feeding campers and crew again. The dining hall is open to the public nightly, starting at 5:30. The menu includes country-style vegetables, salads, desserts, barbecue, roast beef, meatloaf, country ham, pork tenderloin and the Friday night favorite which is fried fish.

Special music and singing opens the nightly non-denominational service. This year, choirs from Life in Christ, Marion Baptist, Mexico Baptist, Tolu Methodist and Hurricane churches will be along as the entertainers. They will be singing numbers from old hymn books and other songs that get the youth on their feet and in the spirit of the event. It's a ministry made up of many, including some who've shared experiences at the tabernacle for generations.

Home-school club plants garden

Crittenden County 4-H Homeschool Club last week installed raised garden beds at Crittenden County Health & Rehabilitation. Leslea Barnes, University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Agent for 4-H and Youth Development in Crittenden County, said two farmers donated used, rusted water troughs that the 4-H Pinterest Club painted before the Homeschool Club filled them with dirt and planted tomatoes and bell peppers. Marion True Value donated the paint and another farmer donated the dirt. Homeschoolers started the plants from garden seeds at a previous meeting. Pictured are club members (front, from left) Caleb Combs, Travis Bull and Tessa Potter, (back) Barnes, and club members Paul Combs, Reed Summers, Lydia Burdon and Riley Summers and 4-H volunteer Becky Combs.

Senior center gets special delivery

Last Thursday, Crittenden Fiscal Court handed over the keys to a 2008 Ford Explorer to Crittenden County Senior Citizens Center. The SUV has been rotated out of use by the county detention center and given to the Pennyrile Allied Community Services-operated senior center for use in its home-delivered meals program. Because of transportation regulations, the center is now unable to use vehicles purchased with federal funds for a number of its programs, including the meals. Some of the center's employees have been using their own cars to deliver meals to seniors. Jenny Sosh, director of the local senior center, said about three dozen seniors receive the meals each weekday. Pictured outside the center with the vehicle are PACS Aging Director Rachel Cook, Sosh, Crittenden County Judge-Executive Perry Newcom and PACS Executive Director Harold Monroe.

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Matthew G. Bevin, Governor
William M. Landrum III, Secretary
Finance and Administration Cabinet
Honorable Perry Newcom, Crittenden County Judge/Executive
Honorable Wayne Agent, Crittenden County Sheriff
Members of the Crittenden County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

Report on the Financial Statement
We have audited the Crittenden County Sheriff's Settlement - 2014 Taxes for the period April 17, 2014 through April 15, 2015 - Regulatory Basis, and the related notes to the financial statement.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statement
Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in accordance with accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting as described in Note 1. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of a financial statement that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility
Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statement based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for Sheriff's Tax Settlements issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free from material misstatement. An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statement, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statement. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles
As described in Note 1 of the financial statement, the financial statement is prepared by the County Sheriff on the basis of the accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The effects on the financial statement of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles
In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles paragraph, the financial statement referred to above does not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the County Sheriff, as of April 15, 2015, or changes in financial position or cash flows thereof for the year then ended.

Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting
In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the taxes charged, credited, and paid for the period April 17, 2014 through April 15, 2015 of the Crittenden County Sheriff, in accordance with the basis of accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the Commonwealth of Kentucky as described in Note 1.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards
In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated March 31, 2016 on our consideration of the Crittenden County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the Crittenden County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards (Continued)
Based on the results of our audit, we have presented the accompanying comments and recommendations, included herein, which discusses the following report comments:
2014-001 The Sheriff's Office Lacks Adequate Segregation Of Duties
2014-002 The Sheriff Did Not Distribute Taxes By The 10th Of Each Month

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Matthew G. Bevin, Governor

Hurricane Camp offers 128 years of history

Next week is the 128th annual Hurricane Camp Meeting, and it brings thoughts and memories of this historic event from years past.

Crittenden County is full of so many beautiful scenic places, and Hurricane Church and Campground is definitely one of these areas. Lying peacefully on the knoll behind the church and campgrounds is the Hurricane Cemetery, with the land for the cemetery being donated June 9, 1875, by Robert H. Haynes.

The camp meetings were founded in 1888 by S.F. Crider, James F. Terry, John B. Perry, R.S. Clark, N. Franks, J.W. Guess and S.K. Breeding. The majority of the founders resided in and near the town of Tolu, which was located about 5 miles away.

The first tabernacle was erected and the first meeting held during the summer of the founding. The people of the community cut logs from the nearby woods, hauled them to the sawmill and prepared them for building this first tabernacle, which, was 60- by 100-foot with a sawdust floor. The seats were made of clapboard.

The Rev. J.J. Smith of Tennessee was the first pastor in charge of this historic meeting. The tabernacle, located within a short distance of the main structure, was used only during the summer meetings and was a bough-covered, open-sided building. Cabins were also built around the area, and when camp meeting was in progress, tents would also be set up and the area would resemble the camp of a small army. This first camp meeting shed and cabins burned in September 1920. Being all wooden construction it was very susceptible to fire.

The annual Hurricane Camp Meeting was a much anticipated to event, and each year The Crittenden Press reminded everyone of these meetings with an article or announcement in their paper.

Sept. 4, 1890

The Hurricane Camp meeting is about over now; a few notes in regard may be of interest. The meeting is held under a large shed, and it is said about 700 can be comfortably seated therein. Rev. J.J. Smith assisted by Revs. Breeding, Hunt and Remhardt are doing wonderful work.

Among those encamped on the grounds, we may mention J.W. Guess, R.G.

Aug. 26, 1897

The eighth annual camp meeting, which began Thursday is, in point of interest and the number of people in attendance, one of the greatest ever held.

From their beginning seven years ago, these meetings have been a success – more than 2,000 people, it is estimated, having been converted and added to the various churches of all denomination in the different parts of the county.

While it is peculiarly a Methodist camp meeting, all denominational lines are thrown down and all alike assist in the work of the Lord.

Five hundred or more campers are on the grounds, a number of tents have been pitched around on the hills and covered wagons and other like vehicles dot the grounds outside the enclosure.

Rev. J.J. Smith, the well-known evangelist, has charge of the meeting. Besides being an able preacher, he is a tireless worker and seems to have the confidence and love of all, saint and sinner alike.

He seems to possess a power of making transgressors to see the error of their way and of bringing them to the altar for repentance; uncommon among ministers of the gospel. It is estimated that 100 or more knelt at the altar for prayer at the evening service Sunday.

Rev. W.W. Hopper of Mississippi, a noted southern evangelist, is also here. He ranks among the ablest ministers connected with the holiness movement and is earnest and untiring in the advocacy of the doctrine of sanctification as a distant, subsequent and instantaneous work of grace.

Several other preachers are present, among them Rev. S.K. Breeding, formerly pastor of the church here and who is full of zeal and earnestness as ever.

Aside from a religious view, these meetings are a source of pleasure to a great many people. Many a hearty hand grasp is given by friends who have not met since the last camp meeting or for years before; old friendships are renewed and new acquaintances are formed.

Sept. 1, 1905

Hurricane camp meeting continues to grow in interest and attendance.

There were five gasoline boats at Tolu landing Sunday and the steamer Royal brought a load of people, which all were bound for the camp meeting.

From Sunday morning until late at night, the road from Hurricane to Marion was almost a straight line of buggies and the air a perfect cloud of dust.

The best camp meeting ever held at Hurricane was on Sunday. The best of order prevailed throughout the meeting. A very large crowd was present, something like 4,000 people from Golconda to Caseyville and Marion to DeKoven.

Aug. 12, 1915

The annual Hurricane camp meeting will commence Aug. 19 and close the 30th. The preacher in charge is W.J. Harney Wilmore.

There will be a charge of 25 cents each to all persons attending these meetings over 12 years of age. The charge does not apply to families in camps. Each family in camp will be required to pay $1, regardless of whether two or more families occupy one camp. The funds so raised by these charges will be applied toward defraying the expenses of the meetings.

Our motto is "Holiness unto the Lord." The object of the meeting is the glory of God, the up building of His Kingdom, the conversion of sinners, the sanctification of believers.

There will be a hotel run for the accommodation of all, at reasonable prices. A restaurant will be open all day for the benefit of all: Anyone can get a lunch at all hours, from 10 cents up according to what is ordered.

As a large number of people are expected to be present, everyone will be expected to be as thoughtful and considerate of his neighbor as possible. There is plenty of time to pray, preach, sing and shout, yet after the closing hour at night everyone without exception will be expected to be quiet, so all may rest.

Come praying and let us have a great and good meeting is the request of your committee.

Signed, J T. Terry, secretary.

Oct. 1, 1920

The tabernacle was destroyed by fire in late September 1920. This information appeared in The Crittenden Press.

Saturday morning, the tabernacle at Hurricane, also the church building at that place, was completely destroyed by fire. How the fire originated is unknown, but it is thought by many to have been the work of an incendiary.

The blaze first broke out in the upper or south side of the tabernacle at about 9 o'clock. So far as is known, the fire was first seen by Miss Kirk, teacher of the Barnett school, and another lady teacher, who had come early to attend a school fair advertised to be held on that day.

These young ladies, who were seated in a buggy down by the gate some distance from the tabernacle, on discovering the fire ran to the church and rang the bell. As they ran toward the building, it is reported the young ladies saw a man unknown to them going up from the south side of the tabernacle and disappearing behind the row of camps which surround the building. The tabernacle was soon a mass of flames and a strong south wind carried the fire to the church and that building was also burned to the ground.

The church building that burned was about 37 years old, the pastor being Rev. R.Y. Thomas. The tabernacle was erected a few years later.

Oct. 15, 1920

An all-day meeting with dinner on the grounds was held at Hurricane Campground Saturday, its object being to arrange plans for the erection of a new church building and also a new tabernacle to take the place of those recently burned.

A good size crowd was present and a number of addresses were made. It was decided that a new and handsome church should be erected on the site of the old building as soon as possible, and a building committee was chosen to raise funds and look after the other matters pertaining thereto. The good and enterprising people of the Tolu circuit, irrespective of church affiliations, will come to the aid of this committee.

It was agreed at this meeting that later on a new tabernacle should be built so that the annual camp meetings may continue.

And continue they have, now going on 128 years. For a wonderful spiritual experience, think about attending one of the services in the old wooden tabernacle built so many years ago, enjoy a meal in the cafeteria and visit with old and new friends.

Face the flag; it's a symbol of our heart, soul, freedom

I went around the world and saw how much of the rest of the earth lives. I wish every American who wants to destroy our nation would be forced at gunpoint to travel all of the Middle East, North Korea and all of the third-world nations to see if they still want to destroy us. Do they want

Lift up God's snipping dogs

The dogs and evil workers can be found in the church of God. They are the ones that bark and growl at the outward things. They may be good brothers in the church who perform an excellent ministry, but in spite of the good exhortations, one can often times hear the dog ministry. One can soon easily hurt or damage upright souls, while at the same time neglect to denounce the weightier things that should definitely be excluded. From out of the heart come evil thoughts, adul-

The true shepherd knows he must minister the bread of life to the heart of man. The heart that is bound to sin must be set free by the word of God. When the heart is gripped by a love of purity and godliness, the outward things are sure to come into order shortly, according to the word of God. "For though ye have ten thousand instructions in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers." (1 Cor. 4:15). The world is full of instructions, yet there are not many that have the mind of a father. The mind of the shepherd cares for everybody and understands the situations they are in.

world, ad death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned.” (KJV) We don’t hear the word imputation used much, but it is an important word which applies to every human being. Imputation signifies, “to put something to the account of another” and is seen in two ways in the Word of God. In the first sense, as our text declares, imputation speaks of putting the consequences of Adam’s

But, God has remedied this hopeless situation in the second sense of the word “imputation.” Jesus Christ did for all mankind what we could never do for ourselves. In Isaiah 53:6, we see “All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all.” (KJV) And in Ephesians 2:8, we see “For by grace are ye saved through faith: and that not of

State idles bass plan for summer

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife's Trophy Bass Propagation Program will not be accepting fish until October. Summer's higher water temperatures place additional stress on bass, decreasing their chances of survival while being held and then transported to a hatchery.

"Waiting until the water cools will ensure that the fish have the best possible chance of making it to the hatchery in good health," said Jeff Ross, assistant director of fisheries for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The program started in the spring and seeks trophy-sized largemouth bass from anglers to use as broodfish. Anglers receive a replica mount of their fish in return.

To qualify for the program, male bass must weigh at least 6 pounds.

Chamber discussing idea of farm-to-fork dinner featuring nothing but local tablefare

Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce is planning a dinner for later this summer that will help get local farmers and producers involved in a local marketing event.

During its regular monthly meeting last week, the Chamber's board discussed having a Farm to Table Dinner in August. The idea is to host an outdoors picnic-style dinner that will be open to the public and will showcase food grown or produced solely in Crittenden County.

The Chamber hopes the event will help farmers and producers create awareness for what they are growing or making. From Amish-grown vegetables, to fruit from the Victory Gardens and honey from area beekeepers, there are plenty of delicious, home-grown options, said Chamber President Randa Poindexter.

While details have yet to be finalized, Chamber members are asking for local producers to begin making contact with the organization in order to create a catalog of available items. The phone number to the Chamber of Commerce office is (270) 965-5015.

In addition to the farm-to-fork-style dinner, Chamber directors are already beginning to piece together plans for this fall's Pumpkin Festival. The event is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 1.

The Chamber meets monthly on the first Thursday of each month at 8 a.m., at the Chamber headquarters inside Marion City Hall's Tourism Center.

A Livingston County man has been arrested for a May 29 robbery in Salem.

side, Moore allegedly took a gold necklace and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Livingston County Sheriff's Department made the arrest and Detective Devin Brewer says the investigation is ongoing. He wouldn't rule out other arrests in the case.

Moore was lodged in the McCracken County Jail.

Dual credit offered at no cost to students

Starting next school year, the Kentucky Dual Credit Scholarship Program will provide funds for dual credit scholarships for all 173 school districts in the commonwealth at no cost to the student for the 2017 and 2018 school years in approved courses.

"This program is a key step in transforming our approach to true workforce development," said Gov. Matt Bevin in announcing the program last Wednesday. "In Kentucky, we intend to have the most well prepared, well educated and workforce ready young adults anywhere in America."

Dual credit allows high school students to receive both high school and postsecondary credit at the same time for a course that is approved. The course may be delivered at the high school or postsecondary school.

"Studies show that high school students who take dual-credit courses are more likely to enroll in postsecondary institutions and complete postsecondary degrees and credentials," said Education and Workforce Development Secretary Hal Heiner.

Local school districts will apply for the scholarships for each eligible senior and course. An amount has been reserved for each high school for dual credit scholarships based on each school's proportion of high school seniors. Eligible dual credit courses include both general education and career and technical education courses in state-approved career pathways that lead to an industry-recognized credential.

Woman's Club earns 7 state awards

STAFF REPORT

Susan Alexander's time as president of the GFWC Kentucky will long be remembered by the association which has more than 2,800 members in 87 clubs in Kentucky. This diverse organization unites women of all ages and backgrounds to build better neighborhoods and improve their communities and themselves through various service programs such as arts, home life, public issues, international issues, conservation and education.

Under Alexander's leadership, the new state headquarters were relocated to Frankfort from its longtime presence in Louisville. A new logo was adopted for the state association to go with the name change.

When many organizations are seeing a decline in membership, GFWC Kentucky reported a gain of 352 new members and a loss of 102 during Alexander's term. She served as hostess to both the International President and Treasurer when they attended state conferences.

Alexander, who is the Marion Main Street director and executive erector of Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce, was thinking about her own neighborhood and others across the state when she chose "Applause on Main Street" as her special project during her term as president. She encouraged clubs to reach out to others in their community to improve the areas visitors see when they travel through their towns.

Forty-eight clubs reported on efforts they made for the "Applause on Main Street." Projects included members portraying characters in Dickens Christmas events to restoring historical buildings.

Woman's Club of Marion focused its efforts on obtaining a large flag for the new farmers market which will open in the coming weeks. The flag will be placed so individuals passing by will know the market is open.

At the recent conference she presented Kentucky's 1st Lady Glenna Bevin with the 1st Lady Miniature which was dressed in the same gown Bevin wore to the inaugural ball. The miniature will be placed in the 1st Lady display of the Capitol in Frankfort along with all the other 1st Lady Miniatures since the first governor was elected.

Alexander will continue to serve on the state board for two more years but her responsibilities will decrease.

Alexander was certainly proud of her home club, which earned several awards during the state conference. At the Friday evening banquet Nancy Hunt, club president, accepted the 110 Percent scorecard award for Marion.

Susan Alexander (right), GFWC Kentucky President and member of the Woman's Club of Marion, presented seven awards to her local club represented by club President Nancy Hunt (left) at the state conference held May 19-22 at the Lexington Griffin Gate Marriott. The local club achieved the highest rating on their scorecard report of activities for 2015.

Clubs in the state who have completed the scorecard are recognized for 100 percent, 105 percent or 110 percent. This is only the second time the local club has received the highest level since 100-plus percentages were added to the competition.

"This achievement and the other awards won were due to the leadership of Becky Zahrt, who was club president in 2015 which was the year for the scorecard and other contests," Hunt said. "Becky's enthusiasm for Woman's Club makes us all want to be better members."

Marion won first place on the club newsletter. The newsletter and a Facebook page are the two main communication sources for members. Also, a first place was received on Endorsed Fundraising, which supported efforts endorsed by Federation.

First place was received on the International Outreach Project Operation Smile. Locally, members made smile bags for the children who were having surgery. For general fundraising Marion placed third.

The Pressbook categories are based on the size of the town in which clubs are located and the number of articles on the club in the local newspaper or their online news. Marion placed third.

Local club member Judith Ann Manley received a first-place ribbon on her basket in the arts and crafts categories.

A memorial service was held at the conference to recognize members who had died last year. Ruth Davis, former 1st District Governor, was recognized as a past member of Woman's Club of Marion.

In the pinning ceremony, Alexander presented the president's pin to the new GFWC Kentucky President Susette Redwine of Morehead. Hunt passed on her 1st District Governor's pin to Paula Robertson of Benton.

Schools close successful year, look ahead

By VINCE CLARK
SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

The ROCKET Way begins with building Relationships and ends with Teamwork. We are building a learning community in Crittenden County, and things are looking good as we strive to “Empower and Engage. Every Student, Every Day” in our Proficient school district.

It’s an exciting time, and I’m proud of our progress. We thank our outstanding students, staff and leadership teams, including our board of education.

Our Crittenden County

BOE is a dedicated group who cares deeply about the opportunities for all our students. Board members’ efforts and vision have secured school nurses and Mountain Comp Care, a group of mental health counselors, on each campus inside the school. They also have led the development of our first-ever District Strategic Plan that is based on four components:

- Student success.
- Highly qualified staff.
- Safe/secure schools.
- Resource efficiency and effectiveness.

We will be joining 43 other Kentucky school districts next year with our Rocket Way Snow Day plan, which will allow students to learn from home on designated snow days. Students can complete electronic lessons or paper packets on those days to keep learning “fresh.”

Our district Energy Leadership Team, which includes students and teachers from all three schools, has helped us earn $15,000 in matching grants that will be used to upgrade our lighting projects by using more efficient LED lights. These lights have a payback value in less than four years.

I have engaged my Superintendent Student and Parent Advisory groups to gather input on our district initiatives, and our District Teacher Leadership Team provides valuable feedback on instruction and safety.

I’m especially thankful for those who coach and sponsor extra- and co-curricular programs for our district because so many life lessons are learned by participating on a team. Our staff goes above and beyond to ensure our young people have opportunities to participate and compete.

A special thank you goes to the Crittenden County Booster Organization which manages fundraisers for our teams and organizations in our district. These folks, under the leadership of Nathan Boone and Andy Hunt, have ensured our students have the resources needed to compete and represent our school and community.

In closing, I want to recognize our Community Partner of the year, Par 4 Plastics, for providing human and financial resources to our students and schools. Their support, along with the support of all our community partners, is critical to ensuring the needs of all students are met. It takes our whole community to get our students college and career-ready.

(Editor’s Note: Vince Clark is superintendent of Crittenden County School District. A 25-year veteran of the district, Clark was hired to head the school system in the spring of 2014.)

By TERESA MARSHALL
CCMS PRINCIPAL

As we close out another school year, the staff of Crittenden County Middle School and I want to say thank you to each student, parent and community member who made this school year great. It is bittersweet to watch the middle school years end for one group, but also exciting knowing in August we will celebrate a new beginning for another. We send our congratulations to our eighth grades as they move on to CCHS, and we extend a welcome to our incoming sixth-graders.

During my seven-year term as principal of CCMS, I've had the privilege of working with some of the finest young men and women in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. I've watched them grow into the future citizens of our great nation, and I'm proud of each and every one of them. Their dedication to learning is amazing.

I want to express my thanks to every student that has walked the halls of CCMS during my time as principal. The bright smiles, kind words of encouragement and hugs made my day great. To the staff of CCMS and the community, I want to also say thank you for giving me the opportunity to be a part of something great. I have been fortunate to work with some of the greatest educators in Kentucky. I will forever consider myself blessed to have served with the staff and students of Crittenden County.

(Editor’s Note: Teresa Marshall served as Crittenden County Middle School principal from 2009 through the just-completed school year. A new principal is expected to be named this month.)

operation. "You're just afraid that it will turn extremely dry once it starts to slack off."

As of Monday, according to the USDA's National Agriculture Statistics Service (NASS), 25 percent of Kentucky's topsoil had a surplus of moisture. Planting of crops across the commonwealth is behind normal.

Weather patterns have improved greatly this week, but farmers are far behind because of more than 5 inches of rain during May. According to Kentucky Mesonet, which has a weather station near Mattoon, Crittenden County received 5.4 inches of precipitation during May, the second highest in the past five years. In May of 2014, Crittenden got 5.56 inches. That's still less than the back-to-back months of May during 2010 and 2011 when the county got about 7 inches each year.

Parish, who started farming together with Chris Hooks and his late father, Larry Parish, in 1996, says this has been the toughest spring since their first year together. They're replanting corn in some of the low-lying areas that stayed too wet too long. Even some of the corn on higher ground has suffered from too much moisture in the ground, Parish said.

"It's uneven and yellow. I think it will grow out of it, but it's not the kind of start you want for a high yield," said Parish, whose enterprise has grown over the past 20 years from about 4,000 acres to around 17,000.

While news in our neck of the woods could be better, across the state, it's not all bad. Primary activities last week for farmers included harvesting hay and planting corn and soybeans when conditions allowed, according the NASS Kentucky field office.

Overall, corn and soybean crops appear to be in good shape.

The average height of emerged corn was 16 inches as of Monday, according to NASS, compared to 14 inches last year. Across the Bluegrass State, 92 percent of spring corn crop had been planted and 84 percent had emerged. Sixty-nine percent of the state's crop was rated as good to excellent.

For soybeans, 43 percent of the crop had been planted, reports NASS. Twenty-eight percent had emerged and 73 percent of acreage rated as good or excellent.

Deanna Brasher, Crittenden County Extension Agent for Agriculture and Natural Resources, said the biggest peril farmers have faced has been in the river bottoms where flooded crops or extended wet conditions have wiped out earlier plantings. She said soil compaction due to the weather and equipment traffic is also a concern.

"Farmers stay ready and run when they can," Brasher said, and they are running hard and fast this week. "It's been a difficult year, but it's still too early to tell. Crops are doing okay."

In addition to creating problems for corn and soybean farmers, hay cutters are well behind schedule, too. Until this week, there hadn't been much hay cut in Crittenden County. Also, farmers are hoping the weather stays dry long enough to get their wheat crop harvested. "Weather conditions have not been favorable for harvesting hay in many areas as quality continues to be a concern for some producers," the weekly NASS report read.

Parish said the local wheat took a little too much rainfall to be a bumper crop, but it's still in pretty good shape. Statewide, NASS reports, 73 percent of wheat was in good to excellent shape, but only 13 percent had matured as of Monday.

Crittenden Relay nears 2016 goal

STAFF REPORT

When the skies cleared, Crittenden County Relay for Life was less than $1,500 from its annual goal with almost three more months of collecting remaining.

Friday's rain didn't dampen the spirits of cancer survivors and local fundraisers participating in the 2016 Relay event at Marion-Crittenden County Park. The entire evening was carried out in the rain or under threatening skies, but at the end of the night, $43,619.82 had been raised by 22 teams toward the $45,000 goal to help battle cancer.

"Overall, despite the rain, we had a great night," said Natalie Parish, chairperson of the annual American Cancer Society event. "Our teams stayed strong throughout the rain, and we carried on the Relay. I know many survivors were unable to get out due to the rains, and for that, I am deeply sorry."

Because of heavy rains, luminaries were not able to be set up. However, all the names were read and, according to Parish, 2016 luminaries will be set up along the oval competition track next spring at the park alongside new 2017 Relay luminaries.

Aside from luminaries, a good portion of the money raised Friday came from the sale of goods and services contributed by local individuals and businesses.

"We had a very successful live auction during the rain

Kim Orr and her 92-year-old grandfather Charlie Orr fight off the rain Friday evening during the Survivor's Lap at the 2016 Crittenden County Relay for Life. This year's event was held at Marion-Crittenden County Park, which is key to the success of Relay, said Natalie Parish, chair of the annual American Cancer Society fundraiser.

that brought some great fundraising," said Parish.

Though Relay is still shy of its goal, the local effort has until Aug. 31 to reach that mark for the 2016 season.

"We will work hard through the summer to meet our goal," said Parish.

ACS Relay donations may be given to Parish or Vonda Todd at Farmers Bank & Trust Co. in Salem.

Parish said key to Relay's success this year was its location. The oval track has been home to most Relays over the years, but other locations used for various reasons have not been as successful for battling cancer.

"We are very appreciative to be at the city-county park and be able to use the track," she said. "It is a wonderful setup for an event like this."

Audit of sheriff takes issue with practices

By DARYL K. TABOR
PRESS EDITOR

An audit of Crittenden County Sheriff Wayne Agent's tax settlement for 2014 highlighted four areas where the agency should improve in its collection and distribution of property taxes.

State Auditor Mike Harmon last week released the 2014 audit. Kentucky law requires the auditor to annually monitor accounts of county sheriffs. The auditor issues two sheriff's reports each year: one reporting on the audit of the sheriff's tax account and another reporting on the audit of the fee account used to operate the office.

The audit was for the period April 17, 2014, through April 15, 2015. It suggested no malfeasance or criminal activity, but did indicate duties that were not carried out as prescribed by state law. Agent said all four areas can largely be attributed to having a small staff. He has only one office deputy who serves as a bookkeeper and receptionist, and has myriad other duties.

The sheriff said he welcomes audits as a way to ensure better accounting and office practices. In fact, all three areas of audit citing specific failures have now been addressed and corrected. The other – inadequate segregation of duties – is a perpetual problem from which many public offices in small counties suffer. Agent said that can only be avoided by adding additional staff which his budget cannot afford.

"A lot of people don't like audits," said Agent. I don't particularly like them, but I'm glad we have one."

Among the problems found by Harmon's office, the sheriff did not ensure that tax collections were disbursed by 10th of each month. Law requires sheriffs to provide monthly reports to the heads of the county, departments and district for which the office collects taxes. Upon making the report, a sheriff is required to distribute those funds to their respective entities.

"The sheriff collected $5,434 in January 2015 and $492 in April 2015 for franchises that have yet to be distributed. Additionally, the sheriff collected $25,185 in franchise taxes for May 2015 that were not distributed until July 2015," a summary of the report reads. "Since the taxing districts rely on these tax collections to provide public services, those services could suffer as a result of not receiving the proper amount of tax collections."

Agent said his office has instituted new procedures to ensure the problem does not recur.

The audit report also claims Agent's office did not distribute interest earned on the 2014 tax collections to his own fee account or to the school system.

"During the 2014 tax year, the sheriff's office earned $554 in interest. The sheriff did not pay the interest owed to the school of $291 nor did the sheriff pay the $263 interest owed to the sheriff's fee account," read the report.

The sheriff said his office is now in compliance. He also said tax collections for the 2012 and 2013 tax years have now been settled, another issue Harmon's office found. The tax collections for those two years had not yet been settled with their respective owners according to the determination of fund balances for those years.

"Amounts due to/from taxing districts were not collected or paid," the report continues. "The taxing districts rely on these tax collections to provide services, and these services could suffer as a result of not receiving the correct tax collections."

Lastly, Harmon said the sheriff's office lacks adequate segregation of duties, which allows one person to have a significant role in processing and recording receipts, disbursements and cash which includes reconciling bank accounts. That could lead to "misappropriation or inaccurate financial reporting," the audit summary states.

"The sheriff's bookkeeper collected payments from customers, recorded transactions in the ledgers, prepared deposits and reconciled the bank account," the report reads. "Due to the lack of adequate segregation of duties or compensating controls, misappropriation of assets, errors and inaccurate financial reporting to external agencies could occur and not be detected."

Agent said state auditors have listed that same problem each year dating back to before he first took office in 1999.
