DUI manslaughter indictment unsealed

Driver accused in U.S. 641 wreck that killed local man awaits arrest

STAFF REPORT

A Georgia man has been indicted on charges of aggravated driving under the influence of alcohol, second-degree manslaughter and second-degree assault as a result of an investigation into a Nov. 28, 2012, head-on collision on U.S. 641 near the city limit on the south side of Marion.

Euell Kenneth Guess, 76, of Marion was killed in the two-vehicle wreck, and his wife Hazel Guess, 76, was severely injured.

Thomas Adam Sanders, 23, who was living in Marion at the time of the accident, was indicted in December of last year, but the case file was sealed by Circuit Judge René Williams until a warrant could be executed for Sanders' arrest. Although Sanders has still not been arrested, the judge released the records to the public last week. According to information from social media, Sanders was living with his parents in Clayton, Ga., a few weeks ago. It is believed that Georgia authorities know where Sanders is located, but injuries he sustained in the crash four months ago have complicated attempts to arrest him.

Commonwealth Attorney Zac Greenwell said his office is working on getting the warrant executed in Georgia, at which time extradition proceedings will start the process of bringing Sanders back to Marion to face the charges. He is facing a misdemeanor and two Class C felonies, punishable by up to 20 years in jail if he is convicted on all counts.

Sanders was initially taken by PHI Air Medical to an Evansville hospital following the wreck. He was there for several days before being released and returning to his family's Georgia home.

According to the accident report from Kentucky State Police, Sanders was northbound in a Chevrolet S-10 pickup at approximately 3 p.m., when he crossed the center line and hit head-on a southbound Buick LeSabre driven by Kenneth Guess.

Guess died at the scene and his wife was flown to Evansville where she was treated several days before being released.

The Guesses, longtime residents and farmers in the Caldwell Springs area of Crittenden County, were wearing seat belts. Sanders was not. The investigation was led by Trooper Darron Holliman.

The indictment, which was handed down Dec. 13, alleges that Sanders was "operating

George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln shared the spotlight last Thursday during a performance of the drama "The President's Day in Court" as Crittenden County Elementary School students celebrated the school's 17th annual Arts Extravaganza. The public enjoyed two performances of

UK squanders top NIT seed; UofL No. 1 in NCAA tourney

FROM STAFF, AP AND WIRE REPORTS

Kentucky basketball fans will be seeing red during this year's March Madness. For the first time since John Calipari took over the helm at the University of Kentucky to start the 2009 season, the Wildcats will be absent from the NCAA tournament.

As a consolation for Kentucky fans, the Wildcats (22-12) took the No. 1 seed in the 32-team NIT pairings. But an opening round 57-59 loss Tuesday to Robert Morris (24-10) ended a frustrating season for Big Blue backers.

The only two teams from the Bluegrass State still playing basketball will be wearing red in the NCAA tournament—overall No. 1 seed University of Louisville (29-5) and No. 16 seed Western Kentucky University (20-15). Perhaps adding insult to injury, former Kentucky coach Rick Pitino and his Cardinals will invade Rupp Arena in Lexington today (Thursday) to open the tournament just down the road from their Louisville campus.

As the NCAA championship game on April 8 nears, if your brackets haven't turned out like you had hoped, there is no need to feel alone. RJ Bell of Pregame.com said the odds of predicting a perfect bracket among the estimated 100 million people who will bet $12 billion on the tourney are 9.2 quintillion-to-1.

Or, put another way: "If all the people on Earth filled out one bracket per second, it would take over 43 years to fill out every possible bracket," Bell said.

And another: "If all possible brackets were stacked on top of each other (on standard paper), the pile would reach from the moon and back over 1.1 million times."

Of course, that's just for the 64-team bracket. "If expanded to consider 68 teams," Bell added, "multiply the figures by 4."

Sex offender back in jail after admitting to abuse

STAFF REPORT

A previously convicted sex offender pleaded guilty last week to fondling an 11-year-old Marion girl in February 2012 while he was on conditional release from prison.

Lawrence Davidson, 33, of Marion, will be formally sentenced on May 9 by Circuit Court Judge René Williams. Commonwealth Attorney Zac Greenwell has recommended a 20-year sentence.

Last Thursday, Davidson appeared before the judge in a prison jumpsuit when he pleaded guilty to first-degree sexual abuse and to an amended charge of being a second-degree persistent felony offender. Both charges are Class C felonies.

Davidson was free last winter when police say he locked an 11-year-old neighbor in a camper on North Weldon Street and fondled her.

New U.S. 60 Ledbetter bridge opening delayed

STAFF REPORT

Crossing the Tennessee River into Paducah will continue to cause headaches for people like Billy Fox a while longer than expected.

The contractor for the new U.S. 60 Tennessee River Bridge at Ledbetter had mixed news for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) this week. KYTC District 1 Chief Engineer Jim LeFevre says while the new bridge is still on track to open well ahead of the original schedule, it will not likely be ready for two-lane traffic in May or June.

"The more likely time frame for opening the bridge is midsummer," LeFevre said.

For Fox, owner of Henry and Henry Monuments in Marion, the 3-ton weight limit on the 82-year-old George Rogers Clark Memorial Bridge that currently carries traffic across the river at Ledbetter has eaten into his bottom line. Since the weight limit was put on the deteriorating span in January 2012, Fox has to use Interstate 24 to make deliveries or pick up supplies for the monument company from Paducah.

"Economically, it has really affected us because of having to run the extra miles," Fox said of the forced detour. "Especially with the price of fuel. Add 15-20 miles each way and it adds up."

The updated timetable for the new bridge came in the form of a regular progress report from the contractor. LeFevre said work is ahead of schedule on the approach spans, but progress on the main truss has been slowed by weather and delays in shipments of steel from mills and fabricators in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

In May 2012, transportation officials negotiated a $3.8 million incentive package with Kay & Kay/Haydon Brothers to get

Hemp, military voting measures bottled up

The final few days of the 2013 Regular Session of the Kentucky General Assembly wound down as a flurry of bills were passed back and forth between the House and Senate. Work remains though on other bills when we return next week for the final two days of the session.

The House began debate on Senate Bill 1, a bill to allow Kentucky's military men and women serving overseas an easier way to cast their ballots in future elections. The intent of the bill had broad bipartisan support in both the Senate and House, but there was one sticking point. The bone of contention was how the votes would be cast. The Senate voted 37-0 to have the ballots sent to the troops via e-mail and returned by regular mail while certain members of the House wanted to have the ballots

(R-Marion)
House District 4

House in Review

returned by e-mail and offered a substitute to the original bill with that change.

The reason for wanting the ballots returned by U.S. Postal Service was to assure the privacy of the votes. The Kentucky Circuit Clerk Association said that there was no way to assure that the returned e-mail ballots would not be seen and if they were seen, it would be in conflict with statute and the constitution and thus violate the principle of a secret ballot. There was also the very real possibility of cyber-terrorism and identity theft.

The difference of opinion came to a head when the Speaker Pro-Tem of the House gaveled Rep. David Floyd, a retired lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force, out of order for equating this substitute to other actions by the House majority that he felt violated the Constitution. Rep. Floyd is the most senior member of the military among the House ranks, and in my opinion, the Speaker Pro-Tem's action was an insult to both the military and the House of Representatives. Rep. Tim Moore, a current member of the Air Force Reserves also spoke in opposition to the House substitute but to no avail. The substitute was approved in the House mostly along party lines, but it is doubtful that the Senate will change its mind. I voted against the House substitute.

Industrial Hemp legislation remained stalled when House leadership would not allow the bill to be brought up for a vote. Unbelievably, minutes before the House adjourned for the "veto session," the Majority Floor Leader announced that he had filed an amendment to bill already approved by the full Senate and the House Agricultural and Small Business Committee. Under the new scheme, the licenses would be issued by the Kentucky State Police and oversight for the projects would be transferred to the University of Kentucky.

This new scheme will be addressed when the House reconvenes next week for a two-day session that was supposed to be for consideration of any gubernatorial veto. It was made clear after adjournment that the proposed changes had not been discussed with either the state Senator who sponsored the original bill or with Kentucky's Agriculture Commissioner who championed this legislation. This is radically different than what had previously been authorized, and I doubt it will be approved.

The Religious Freedom Act is still awaiting the governor's signature. It is my hope and prayer that he sees fit to sign this important piece of legislation.

The two-day veto session begins Monday and will be the final days of the 2013 Regular Session. As of now, neither pension reform nor tax reform legislation has been agreed to by both legislative chambers.

Important legislation passed last week; still time for more

With time running out in the 2013 Regular Session, we turned our attention last week to reaching agreements on some of the General Assembly's top priorities.

After years of work by untold lawmakers through many sessions, along with educators and other policymakers, a bipartisan compromise was achieved March 11 on a bill aimed at raising the high school dropout age in Kentucky from 16 to 18. Everyone in the Legislature is concerned about our students' education, but we also understand that simply increasing the minimum dropout age would not in itself increase the number of high school graduates in the Commonwealth.

Senate Bill (SB) 97 would allow local school districts across the state to increase the compulsory attendance age to 18 if they choose. Prior to raising the dropout age, it would require districts to have programs and resources in place for students at-risk of not completing their high school education.

Sen. Dorsey Ridley
(D-Henderson)
Senate District 4

Senate in Review

The compromise reached on the bill would mandate that all Kentucky high schools implement the increased dropout age within four years after 55 percent of the 174 individual school districts have adopted the change. This allows individual school districts to make decisions based on local needs and concerns, but also promotes uniformity in schools across the state when "critical mass" is achieved. It also helps ensure our most at-risk students are getting the attention and resources they both need and deserve.

House Bill (HB) 1 was sent to the governor's desk last week, as well. This bill brings transparency and accountability to the more than 1,200 special taxing districts across Kentucky. These public library boards, fire departments, water and sewer and other local taxing districts provide outstanding services to their communities, but sometimes leave taxpayers in the dark on how their money is being spent.

The bill would put education and ethics rules in place for these special-purpose entities and would create an online registry to publicly disclose their annual budgets and other pertinent information.

As agreed upon in a free conference committee made up of Senate and House members of both parties, the bill would also require all special taxing districts to submit a budget report to their local fiscal court. If a special district wanted to impose a new fee or increase the rate of an existing tax, it would be required to hold a public meeting prior to the change. This is an important step in keeping taxpayers informed and government entities accountable.

Many other bills received final passage last week.

Among them was an anti-human trafficking measure—HB 3. The legislation would increase penalties for those convicted of this crime while protecting victims from prosecution for crimes they were forced to commit, like prostitution. It would also create a victim assistance fund to provide specific treatment options to victims and would make training available for law enforcement in the identification and control of human trafficking. Some advocacy groups say it is one of the fastest growing criminal activities in the State. HB 3 sends a clear message: We will not allow Kentucky's children to be bought and sold.

Another measure related to crimes against children, HB 290, would create a 20-person review panel for cases of child abuse and neglect-related fatalities and near-fatalities. The panel would be given access to complete records of the Cabinet for Health and Family Services, as well as information from law enforcement and other agencies involved in the case. Studying these cases will help us prevent child abuse in the future and ensure we are providing the best services possible to our youngest, most vulnerable citizens.

The General Assembly is in the midst of a recess, a 10-day veto period. During that time, we will continue to discuss issues still unresolved. While consensus has not been reached on important bills like public pension reform (SB 2), military overseas absentee voting (SB 1) and industrial hemp cultivation (SB 50), we are still working hard—in informal discussion during recess—toward final agreement on these and many other measures. There is still time to reach a consensus on any or all.

We return to Frankfort on Monday to complete the final two working days of the legislative session. We will consider any vetoes the governor might enact on any of the various bills we have passed so far, as well as put a final stamp of approval on any last-minute bills still being considered.

In the meantime, you can review the work of the Kentucky General Assembly by visiting our website at www.lrc.ky.gov. To check the status of a bill, you may call the toll-free Bill Status Line at (866) 840-2835.

There is still time to weigh in on matters important to you. If you would like to share your thoughts on any legislation, you may leave a message for me, or any legislator, by calling the General Assembly's toll-free Message Line at (800) 372-7181. You can also e-mail me directly at dorsey.ridley@lrc.ky.gov.

Each year the Fohs Hall Inc. Scholarship Fund awards scholarships to students with a demonstrated history of community service. The scholarships require a good grade point average, but awards are not based primarily on academic performance.

Fohs Hall Inc. scholarships are available to anyone pursuing post-high school education or vocational training and are not limited by age of the applicant. Special consideration is given based on financial need.

Applicants may re-apply in subsequent years and, if selected, will be funded for additional years.

Since its formation in 1989, the Fohs Hall Inc. Scholarship Fund has awarded 58 scholarships totaling $55,150 to Crittenden County students.

Prospective students who would like more information or are interested in applying for a scholarship can obtain an application form by contacting the Crittenden County High School's guidance counselor or Linda Schumann, scholarship fund coordinator, at 965-3332.

Anyone interested in supporting young people and adults active and involved in a positive way in the community, may contribute to the scholarship fund at: Fohs Hall Scholarship Fund, P.O. Box 1, Marion, KY 42064.

"Your contribution is an excellent way to make a difference in the lives of deserving young people in Crittenden County," said Schumann.

Though now used as a community cultural center, Fohs Hall once served as a school. The 87-year-old building was donated to the community in 1926 by F. Julius Fohs, a renowned geologist and former resident of Marion.

Public defense has public value

By TINA MCFARLAND

KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ADVOCACY

This is a special time to honor the foundational right to counsel.

In a criminal case, counsel protects "the fundamental human rights of life and liberty." Our Sixth Amendment right to counsel "stands as a constant admonition that if the constitutional safeguards it provides be lost, justice will not 'still be done.'" Fifty years ago on March 18, 1963, the U.S. Supreme Court expressed this reasoning to unanimously rule in the landmark case of Gideon v. Wainwright that the state must provide an attorney to a person too poor to hire one in a felony case. In later cases the right to counsel was extended to any matter for which a poor person could lose his or her liberty.

In 1963 the Court was unequivocal in its finding that the help of a lawyer is an absolute necessity when liberty is at stake, "...reason and reflection require us to recognize that in our adversary system of criminal justice, any person hauled into court, who is too poor to hire a lawyer, cannot be assured a fair trial unless counsel is provided for him."

The Court termed the need for a lawyer as "an obvious truth," stating "Governments, both state and federal, quite properly spend vast sums of money to establish machinery to try defendants accused of crime. Lawyers to prosecute are everywhere deemed essential to protect the public's interest in an orderly society. Similarly, there are a few defendants charged with crime, few indeed, who fail to hire the best lawyers they can get to prepare and present their defenses."

In all of Kentucky's 120 counties, the Department of Public Advocacy's public defenders provide the constitutional representation that implements our devotion to protecting individual liberty against abuse.

In addition to protecting the freedoms of the accused, public defense is central to our public safety. The constitutional choice is clear. The state either must see that an indigent defendant is provided counsel or the state cannot proceed with a prosecution. Prosecution, public defense, courts and law enforcement all serve vital roles ensuring the justice system reliable, valid results.

Our adversary system does not produce fair results on its own. It takes professional judges and prosecutors and it takes properly-resourced public defenders and criminal defense lawyers. There is a real benefit to people from the representation by counsel. Each day in every county in our Commonwealth, public defenders help kids, the mentally ill and those unfairly charged. These are people who need help navigating a system foreign to them that seeks to take away their liberty.

There are substantial financial benefits to communities when public defense systems are properly funded. Public defenders who are competent, who have manageable workloads, and who have professional independence ensure that the rights guaranteed by our Constitution are protected and ensure that no one's liberty is taken unless proven guilty.

The value of public defenders is significant in other real ways. Public defenders lower costly incarceration rates for counties and states by timely advocating for pretrial release for those presumed innocent and alternate or reduced sentences for those convicted. When staffed adequately, public defenders increase the efficient operation of the criminal justice system and prevent overcharging and expensive wrongful convictions.

Atmos replacing gas lines in city

STAFF REPORT

Atmos Energy, the largest natural gas distributor in the United States, is in the midst of upgrading service lines to its 3 million customers, including about 130 customers within Marion.

Kay Coomes, public affairs manager for the utility's Kentucky/Mid-States Division, said Atmos began replacing its steel pipes inside the city with polyethylene pipe in January. Across town, portions of the bright yellow lines already in place can be seen jutting from the ground. Coomes said Monday about 1,200 more feet of the safer, more reliable delivery system remains to be installed.

"We're proud of these upgrades and improvements for our customers," Coomes said.

Atmos Energy services customers 12 states, including 172,000 in 38 Kentucky counties.

Coomes said the plastic lines will last for generations beyond the serviceable life of the deteriorating steel and iron pipes installed from the 1940s to the 1960s. The yellow pipes snaking above the ground around town are awaiting ties to homes and businesses.

Those smaller individual lines will also see the metal delivery system torn out and replaced with the more durable pipes.

Coomes was uncertain of completion date in Marion.

The overall project, which began in 2011, is the largest capital project in the Dallas-based company's history. It is part of a nationwide upgrade to the 2.5 million miles of aging fuel pipelines in the United States.

Financing of the line replacement in Kentucky is tied to a 2009 rate case brought before the state's Public Service Commission.

than passenger vehicles and unloaded standard pickup trucks. Eliminating truck traffic from the existing structure has created a hardship for area businesses and farmers.

Fox is certainly among those eager for the new span to open, which will save his company time an money.

Prior to the restrictions, Henry and Henry could deliver a monument to Smithland and easily travel along U.S. 60 into Paducah to pick up supplies on the same run. Even hauling materials for the business in a pickup forces Fox to use the interstate because the vehicle would be over the load limit in most cases.

get the new bridge opened at least to two-way traffic as much as 14 months ahead of schedule to alleviate traffic restrictions caused by the load limit on the existing bridge.

Starting May 1, the state will deduct $19,000 per day from the incentive fund until two-lane traffic is established. If traffic is not running on the new bridge by Sept. 1, the contractor will not receive incentive money.

LeFevre says the new bridge is still likely to be open to two-lane traffic almost a year ahead of the original schedule.

"We're still on track to get two-lane traffic moving over to the new bridge in mid-summer," LeFevre said. "That is our ultimate goal, to restore full connectivity for residents of McCracken County and Livingston County that has been disrupted by the 3-ton load limit on the existing bridge."

The original opening date was July 2014.

Advancing completion of the new bridge was considered the best option after the load limit on the existing bridge had to be reduced to 3 tons in January 2012. The load limit restricts the aging structure to vehicles no larger

Grand jury indicts 5 on various felony charges

STAFF REPORT

The Crittenden County Grand Jury handed down five felony indictments last week and remanded one case to district court.

■ James A. Baker, 44, of Marion, was indicted on three counts of burglary and one count of criminal mischief. The charges stem from a series of alleged break-ins in Marion between Jan. 15 and March 6, including one at Marion Church of God. Baker is facing a charge of first-degree burglary for allegedly burglarizing a home at 226 Rochester Ave., on Jan. 15. A firearm was reportedly among the items taken during that incident, which enhances the charge to first degree, a Class B felony punishable by 10-20 years in prison.

Additionally, Baker is charged with two counts of third-degree burglary for alleged crimes at the church on Fords Ferry Road on Feb. 19 and a building at 161 Rochester Ave., on March 6; and a single count of third-degree criminal mischief for doing what the police report said was $350 worth of damage to the building on Rochester. Court records indicate that police believe Baker took an amplifier and guitar from the church. An itemized list of other things believed stolen in the two other cases was not among the case file.

At his arraignment in Crittenden Circuit Court last Thursday, Baker asked for a bond reduction so he could get out of jail and go to work and earn money to pay restitution to the alleged victims. Commonwealth Attorney Zac Greenwell opposed lowering the bond because Baker is also on parole for a home invasion in Michigan and has multiple counts here. The judge denied Baker's request, and he remains jailed at Crittenden County Detention Center on a $10,000 cash bond.

■ Joseph S. Robinson, 38, of Hampton, was indicted on one count of theft by failure to make required disposition. The indictment says that on Oct. 12, 2012, Robinson concealed the location of a 16-foot enclosed trailer valued in excess of $500. The trailer belonged to Buntin Trailer Sales of Sheridan. Robinson reportedly rented the trailer from Buntin's and never returned it.

■ Timothy J. Earls Jr., 22, of Marion, was indicted on a single count of theft by unlawful taking (over $500) by complicity. The indictment says Earls on Nov. 17 acted either alone or in complicity with another to commit theft by removing from a residence at 235 Highland Circle a television, DVD player, jewelry and Wii game console.

■ The grand jury amended a charge of felony theft by complicity against Joshua P. Earls, who police said had driven the vehicle for his cousin in the theft case above. The charge was reduced to facilitation to theft, a misdemeanor, and sent back to the lower court.

■ Jason A. Smith, 29, of Ed-dyville, was indicted on a charge of second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance (Lortab). Court records and testimony indicate Smith is believed to have sold 10 Lortabs for $70 to a cooperating witness during a transaction that was video- and audio-taped on Oct. 1, 2012, at an intersection of two rural roads near Dycusburg.

■ Austin S. Russell, 18, of Marion, was indicted on two Class D felonies for custodial interference and auto theft. According to court records, Russell is believed to have stolen a Nissan Sentra from a relative's residence and then fled the state with his juvenile girlfriend, who did not have permission to leave with him. According to court records, Russell and the girl were in Illinois when the vehicle broke down. They later ended up in Paducah where Russell was arrested by McCracken County authorities for shoplifting. Police there learned the pair was on the run from Crittenden County for about eight days and contacted the Marion Police Department.

During his arraignment last week in Crittenden Circuit Court, Russell asked for his $5,000 bond to be reduced. However, Judge René Williams denied the request and he remains lodged at the Crittenden County Detention Center.

Authorities seek tips on weekend burglary

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Sheriff's Department and Crittenden County TipLine need the community's help in solving a burglary Friday night or Saturday morning at the home of Kenton and Christy Drury on Chapel Hill Road.

Sheriff Wayne Agent said someone broke into the couple's home and garage, taking about $8,000 worth of power and hand tools, as well as other items.

TipLine is offering a $500 reward for information leading to an arrest in the case.

Callers to TipLine, 965-3000, can remain anonymous.

The home, just south of the intersection of Chapel Hill and A.H. Clement roads, was unoccupied at the time of the burglary. Sheriff Agent said the Drurys were renovating the home and had left several tools there.

Also taken was a Cub Cadet RTZ lawn mower which was setting on a black, metal trailer. The sheriff said a large red Craftsman toolbox and other smaller tool boxes are missing, each of them full of hand tools.

Detention center prisoner census

The following is an inmate census of the 133-bed Crittenden County Detention Center as of Monday:

CLASSIFICATION	MALE	FEMALE
Federal	0	1
State	74	15
Crittenden	16	4
Other	1	0
Gender total	81	20
Total population:	101

Last week, 30 detention center work release inmates put in 1,392 hours of community service, saving taxpayers approximately $10,092. Trusties were used in the jail kitchen; at the courthouse, county convenience center, PACS office and state road department and on a mowing crew.

Court accepts defendants' guilty pleas in felony possession of firearm, methamphetamine cases

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Circuit Judge René Williams accepted guilty pleas from two individuals last week and prosecution was deferred in a drug case.

■ Richard E. Sutton, 54, of Marion pleaded guilty to an amended charge of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon. He was originally charged with being in possession of a handgun, which carries a stiffer penalty.

Sutton was stopped in Marion during an unrelated investigation on July 16 of last year. An empty manufacturer's gun box was found in the cab of his truck leading officers to check further for a pistol. A .45 caliber Hi-Point handgun was found in a cooler in the bed of the truck. Sutton had told officers where the gun could be found and advised them that he was indeed a convicted felon, according to police records.

Commonwealth Attorney Zac Greenwell has recommended a one-year sentence for Sutton, who is currently serving the remainder of a previous felony conviction because he violated terms of his probation by having the gun in his possession. The new sentence will run consecutive to the one he's currently serving. Judge Williams accepted the recommendation and sentenced Sutton to one year in prison.

■ Dorothy Powell, 55, of Dixon pleaded guilty to first-degree possession of a controlled substance (meth). According to court records, Powell was acting as a cooperating witness on Nov. 1 and made a drug buy for police, but kept an amount of the drug for herself. The state prosecutor has recommended a one-year prison sentence and he opposes probation. Powell will be formally sentenced on May 9.

■ Prosecution of a charge of possession of a controlled substance against Michael S. Doom, 42, of Marion was deferred. At the end of the deferral period, the charge will be dropped if Doom has completed all terms of the deferral agreement. Deferred prosecution is quite rare in felony cases.

Street, but that particular charge was dropped as part of a plea agreement. Davidson is currently serving another sentence at the Roederer Correctional Complex in LaGrange, Ky.

He has an extensive criminal record and is listed on the state's sex offender registry. Davidson was being supervised as part of a routine conditional discharge for sex offenders when he attacked the 11-year-old girl here last winter. He had been released from prison after serving 237 days of a one-year sentence for rape and sodomy.

Davidson's record includes at least 39 convictions dating back to 1995 for a variety of crimes ranging from multiple DUIs to trafficking in marijuana, theft, receiving stolen property, criminal trespassing, terroristic threatening and assault. Court documents show him being charged previously with at least 10 felonies prior to pleading guilty to sexually assaulting the girl on North Weldon Street.

When Davidson is formally sentenced in May, his prison time will run consecutive to time he is currently serving.

his vehicle under the influence of alcohol, impairing his driving ability" on Nov. 28, "aggravated by the fact that this action caused the death of Kenneth Guess and caused serious physical injury to Hazel Guess."

Sanders is alleged to have committed "second-degree manslaughter by wantonly causing the death of Euell Kenneth Guess by causing a head-on collision between the defendant's car and the car driven by Mr. Guess while his driving ability was impaired by the use of alcohol," according to the indictment. The assault charge is based on injuries sustained by Hazel Guess.

Sanders had worked as a farm and casual laborer in the county for about year prior to the wreck.

FSA computers may cause wait

There are lots of things going on at the Salem Farm Services Agency center these days. Ongoing sign-ups for 2013 Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment Program (DCP) and 2011 Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payments, or SURE program, are under way.

However, I just want to share with everyone that we are transitioning into a new computer system. Due to this transition, we are “locked out” of many of our applications.

We are still able to prepare contracts for our various sign-ups as long as no changes are needed. We just wanted you to be aware that we are conducting business as usual, except you may have a little wait if you had a change on your farm. It appears that it could possibly be mid-April before we have full functionality.

Those producers who have had no changes, please feel free to sign up at any time, and we encourage you to do so. If you have had changes, we can still prepare all of your other farms except the one with changes. By changes, we are referring to a change in operator, land ownership or mapping.

We are still able to do changes in shares on a DCP contract. We are just asking for you to bear with us during this time of transition.

Due to this factor, it is very helpful if you would call and schedule an appointment. We are down to only a little more than three months left for DCP sign-up, and we still have lots of producers who need to complete their contracts. Please contact the office as soon as possible so we can get your contracts processed.

CRP sign-ups

CRP general sign-up will be conducted from May 20 to June 14. This sign-up will allow anyone who has an expiring general CRP contract an option to offer the contract back in. It also allows for anyone interested in offering new ground.

The national office recently mailed out letters to all producers with contracts expiring Sept. 30, 2013. If you believe that your contract is expiring this year and you do not receive a letter, please call the office and we will verify for you when your contract does expire.

If you are intending on making an offer or re-offering current ground, please let us know so we can make sure that you get an offer submitted. We just don't want anyone to miss the sign-up period since the letters are being sent out almost two months in advance.

Please remember this process for general CRP contracts is a competitive process, so there are no guarantees that your contract will be accepted.

If you have new ground you are interested in putting into CRP, you can offer that as well. Once the sign-up period is over for the general CRP offers, they will be ranked nationwide and you will be notified if your offer was accepted.

There are several fact sheets available on the new sign up located at <http://tinyurl.com/2q9cch>. If you are interested in offering your ground, we would recommend you check out these fact sheets. If you do not have Internet access, these fact sheets are also available in the office.

County's labor force drops to lowest level in 27 months

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County's labor force in January had the fewest number employed since December 2010, according to data from the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training (OET). Only 3,790 residents were working in January 2013, just four months after that figure surpassed 4,000 for the first time since August 2003 when unemployment was 6.8 percent. January's jobless rate was 8.5 percent, the highest since February 2012 and up from 7 percent in December 2012.

There were 354 people from Crittenden County's labor force without a job in January 2013.

Crittenden County was one of only 33 Kentucky counties in which unemployment rose between January 2012 (8.3 percent) and January 2013. The jobless rate also rose in Livingston and Webster counties during that period. Eighty-three counties saw a drop in unemployment.

Woodford County recorded the lowest jobless rate in the Commonwealth at 5.9 percent. Union County reported the ninth lowest at 7.3 percent.

Magoffin County had the state's worst unemployment rate—18.8 percent.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working. Civilian labor force statistics include non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who are actively seeking work. They do not include unemployed Kentuckians who have not looked for employment within the past four weeks. The statistics provided by the OET are not seasonally adjusted to allow for comparisons between United States, state and county figures.

Listed below are the jobless rates for select counties listed from the state's lowest in January 2013 to the highest with area counties of interest listed between. Union County had the lowest January 2013 rate in far western Kentucky while Fulton County had the highest.

NEWS BRIEFS

Bluebird box apps taken until April 5

Crittenden County Conservation District will soon distribute approximately 50 bluebird boxes. The district provided materials and students in Tammy Duvall's woodworking class built the boxes.

Anyone interested in receiving a bird box should send a postcard with their name, address and phone number to: Crittenden County Conservation District, Attn: Bluebird box drawing, 118 E. Bellville St. in Marion. Limit one per household.

Names will be randomly drawn from among the postcards received by close of business April 5. Those selected will be notified by phone or mail.

Some public offices closed Good Friday

Most city, courthouse and state offices will be closing early or will be closed all day March 29 in observance of Good Friday. Offices typically open on Saturdays will also be closed March 30.

The Commonwealth of Kentucky observes Good Friday by giving its workers a half-day off. The U.S. government does not recognize Good Friday as a holiday, so the mail and all other federal offices will be unaffected.

Byford earns grant to preserve records

Crittenden County Clerk Carolyn Byford has received a grant totaling $18,624 from the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives (KDLA) to preserve and manage local government records. KDLA is an agency of the Education and Workforce Development Cabinet.

"I am excited to accept this grant on behalf of my county," said Byford. "Receiving this grant allows a much needed 'facelift' to the deed room in the county clerk's office and will add security to our records at no cost to our citizens."

Fifty-two grants have been awarded for a total of $935,341 from fiscal year 2013 Local Records Grant Program funds.

The grant funds will be used to transfer valuable permanent records to security microfilm, as well as to purchase roller shelving.

"With the issuance of these grant funds, local agencies will be able to fully utilize new digital technologies in providing in-agency access to the records," said Gov. Steve Beshear.

Fiscal court to meet April 4 for budget

Crittenden Fiscal Court will have a special meeting April 4 for a budget work session. The meeting begins at 8:30 a.m. in the judge-executive's courthouse office.

Rezoning request for plumbing office

Marion City Council gave first reading to an ordinance Monday that would rezone property at Kevil and East Depot streets from residential to light industrial.

City Administrator Mark Bryant said the request came from property owner Eddie Lee Belt. M&G Plumbing, owned by David Maddux and Tim Grau, reportedly has plans to build a supply shop and office for their business.

Eighth grade graduations were a special time

I wish more schools had shared their activities with The Press so that we could read about them today and remember those school days of a different time. A big event at the close of the school year was the eighth-grade graduation. There was a special program with a guest speaker, usually the superintendent and each graduate received a diploma. It was an important time in the lives of these young people and their families.

From the archives of The Crittenden Press here are some of those happy events.

Coileus named king of herd in Sludgefoot's absence

(Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of seven stories by Crittenden County native David Drennan about the tracking of a trophy deer in the northeast portion of the county dubbed "Sludgefoot." The semi-fictional series, "Sludgefoot: King of the White-tails," is his light-hearted account of the adventure with actual journal entries describing the scene.)

Aug. 12, 6 a.m.

"Saw two coyotes on the Davis place. Tried to photograph. May have been too far away. They were hunting mice in the hayfield."

With Sludgefoot gone, Coileus was set to become the next king of the white-tails, at least in his mind. The eight-point's plan of luring Spike to go the Forbidden Land and Sludgefoot to rescue him was working so well. Coileus wondered if this could get any easier. Surely, they would be killed either by the cars on the road or by the hunters with their feed plots. Then the herd would be his.

Coileus knew of the dangers of the Forbidden Land from talking to Odo, Sludgefoot's brother. Odo had described them to Coileus, and in doing so, had relayed valuable information to the formation of the eight-point's devious plan.

Still, the rival did not understand how it had been so easy to get Sludgefoot to leave the herd to go after Spike. Coileus was sure that the king would have never dared a rescue mission in a land so dangerous. And if Spike was dead, there was no heir to the throne. There would be no leader of the whitetails.

This would be devastating to the herd. The Council would be disbanded. The herd would scatter, eventually being hunted down, struck by cars or falling prey to predators.

Coileus vowed that he would not let the herd be lost. He would assume control, and the mysterious disappearance of the king and his son would be a mystery forever.

But there was one more member of the royal family...

"Saw one doe and two fawns in little bottoms between Piney and Sugar Creek. Saw two does and three fawns on Waide place. At 4:20 p.m., saw two older fawns right above Easter place. Got a couple of pictures that should be good. Went over to the pond and sat in my favorite tree."

The Council convened. The herd was growing in number and in concern over the disappearance of the heir and the king. Much of the herd gathered at this meeting to hear the news. Odo was called to speak before the Council on what he might know about Sludgefoot's whereabouts. Not even the King's brother knew where the King had gone. He dared not offer his suspicions.

Coileus did not have the same restraint. He speculated before the Council that the young and brash Spike had fled to the Forbidden Land to escape his father's rule. The Council listened on. Coileus continued by saying that he had spoken to Sludgefoot, who had urged him to watch over the herd until he got back.

The deer on the council stomped their hooves in disbelief. Sludgefoot had broken the law...His law? What could this mean?

Coileus was watching his plan unfold. He told the Council of the danger that lay in the Forbidden Land—the road, the hunters who killed in and out of season for the sport.

Both the king and his son were probably dead. If either returned, they put the entire herd at risk.

More stomping resulted as these things were considered...

"Saw two does in bean field, browsed toward pond then came back to clover field in front of house. Saw one doe come from road through corn. Must have gone up one side. Lost her."

The Council was losing control quickly. Coileus spoke of things that were of dire consequence. But how were his claims to be substantiated?

Coileus turned to Odo. Odo stomped his foot in anger. Speaking about the Forbidden Land was against the law of Sludgefoot. The Council, though, was listening, and Odo affirmed that the Forbidden Land was as dangerous as Coileus had described. He realized then that he had made a mistake in befriending the rival to the leadership of his brother. He did not know exactly how he had done it, but Odo knew this was all Coileus' doing.

Then the Council pronounced Odo as the new king, it being their belief that Sludgefoot would never return. They advised the herd be relocated in case he or Spike did return. For the safety of the herd, Odo agreed.

Don't let 'no-hell' teachings deceive you

Don't let "no-hell" teachings deceive you. If you do, you'll learn the truth too late.

Not only will the ones who believe it suffer, but so will all those who caused others to believe it. I don't want anyone to go to hell, so I continue to remind all who will listen to God's Word that He is the only authority on the subject.

This deceptive teaching began in 1830 by William Miller, but was fully developed in 1863 by Ellen G. White. This teaching was picked up by Charles Taze Russell in 1879.

Since then, this spiritual disease has spread around the world and influenced our nation in a horrible way.

This instruction is that only death is the eventual end of everyone who does not believe as these teachers do: that non-believers' punishment is simply being forever dead. Many good people and many professed Christians have fallen for this horrible deception.

Why is a once Christian nation—where most people believed there was a God and there was no constant evil, crime and deviate sexual exploitation and lifestyles accepted by 51 percent of the American people—now a moral waste land? Because of this no-hell and atheistic no-God teaching!

There is no fear of God because the sin in the hearts of the unregenerated, whom Satan controls, don't want to give up eating, drinking and being merry since this is all there is to life and there is no punishment after death.

Being a Christian, serving God, going to church and living a life void of that sin does not appeal to the sinful heart. So when those wicked hearts are convinced there is no hell, they aren't about to trade the sinful life the fallen nature of man craves for a life that looks boring and demanding to them.

Jesus warned more about hell than He ever taught about heaven. Why? He taught this truth because He loves all and wants no one to suffer in hell. He did not just want to warn and scare, so He made hell the centerpiece of His message.

Read the first book of the New Testament and then the last. You'll get the message.

If this no-hell doctrine were true, don't we think God would have seen to it that it would have been taught for the first 1863 years of Christian teaching?

This doctrine started in the Garden of Eden when Satan convinced a woman that disobeying God would not bring His punishment, which is akin to the atheists who say there is no God in the first place.

Many years ago atheism was almost unheard of. But the no-hell doctrine has now made it center stage in our public universities and schools.

If there is no hell, then there is no God and nothing to keep you from doing anything you want to. So the most basic of human nature is seen in unthinkable actions against another and in destroying little helpless human beings in the womb of their own mothers at their barbaric request.

This teaching of homosexuality, sex-changes, having the same washrooms for girls and boys, not listening to your parents and socialism and that there is no God and the Bible is a myth—all of which are taught in our public schools—comes right out of the pits of hell!

Where is the louder and louder call for pedophilia to be made legal coming from? It is coming from those whom Satan is living in and controlling, therefore doing his will.

All of this evil can be traced back to having no fear of God, something that Satan instills on his own. Why is there no fear of God? Because the Bible teaching of each man taking responsibility for his own actions is being discarded, overtaken with a belief there is no everlasting punishment.

In the Old Testament, the word hell was translated from the Hebrew word Sheol first mentioned in Deuteronomy 32:22.

The word hell in Jesus' discourse in Luke 16 was translated from the Greek word Hades, which is the place of departed spirits.

That biblical chapter stated the rich man was down in tormented flames while the beggar was up in Abraham's bosom before the judgment. Revelation 20:13-15 also tells us the dead are in that place awaiting judgment and that those found to be lost will be cast into a lake of fire.

Every time Jesus spoke of everlasting punishment for the unsaved after judgment, He used the word Gehenna, which was translated to hell in English. He always spoke of it as being "a fire, an everlasting fire, a hell-fire, the furnace of fire, the eternal fire, the lake of fire, a fire that shall never be quenched and where the worm dies not." These are found as many as 28 times from Matthew to Revelation.

"But the fearful and unbelieving and the abominable and murderers and whoremongers and sorcerers (fortune tellers) and idolaters (those who man instead of God) and all liars shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the second death," Revelation 21:8 tells us.

Look up the full meaning of the Old English word "burneth." It is a present-tense verb with a future, continuing and never-ending tense or action.

Nothing in this old, short life is worth going to hell over!

Reading early opens many doors to children

When parents help their children learn to read, they open the door to a very big, exciting world! When you read to your children, you help them develop a love of stories and poems, which motivates them to want to read on their own. When reading is fun and meaningful for children and the parents are involved, it can have a huge positive impact. Reading is at the heart of school success because every subject in school involves reading. How can you get started with raising a reader? Start at the beginning – Help your child understand how books work. Ask your child questions about the front and back of the book. Ask your child to point out the title and the spot where the story begins. Ask them to let you know when they want you to stop reading and take a break or talk about what you have read. As you read – Point to the words on the page. Move your finger from left to right to help your child keep up with the words as you read them. Talk to your children about the pictures. Let your child guess what words might be printed on the page based on the pictures they see. See if your child can locate any of the words they guessed. Make it fun – Really enjoy the time you are sharing with your child and the books you read! Use a puppet or props to keep your child engaged in reading time. Read books that appeal to your child's interests. Choose books that are age appropriate but that also have words a bit above your child's level to stretch vocabulary. Use lots different voices for different characters in the story.

Make reading material available – Have books, magazines and other reading materials out around the house. Lots of things in your house can become reading opportunities! Read out loud the back of a cereal box, a label on a can or directions on a recipe. Put paper and notepads out along with pencils and crayons. This will encourage writing, drawing and storytelling. Go to the library together – Make a visit to the library a reward for your child! Let your child check out books that are interesting. The library is a great place for your child to get to see people from all cultures, ages and genders reading and enjoying reading. Provide opportunities for your child to read – if you have a child that is already reading, ask them to read to a younger sibling or cousin. Ask them to read their homework or favorite books to you. Help your child write their own book or story. They can even draw their own pictures to add to it!

Tea time and politics

Kathy Bechler, wife of 4th District Rep. Lynn Bechler of Crittenden County, had a chance to thank some of her husband's campaign supporters and talk briefly about her role as the wife of the state representative during a luncheon Friday at the Tea Room on Main Street. Bechler, whose husband is the first Crittenden Countian to be elected to serve his district in Frankfort in 99 years, encourages women to stay involved in their community and politics, regardless of political affiliation. Being apart from her husband of 45 years while he is in Frankfort is not new to Bechler, who experienced time away from Lynn during his career at IBM. Before she became the wife of a state representative, Bechler supported the Back Pack Program through the Crittenden County Schools, which provides easy-to-prepare meals and snacks each Friday for children who need them. She continues to be a strong proponent of the program, and encourages local families to do the same. The luncheon was prepared by Sandra Hawthorne using recipes from Ethel Tucker's cookbook, "Tea Time of Life," with a lesson in tea etiquette from Ruth Wooten of Smithland.

So we are getting ready for that,” Nash said. “We’ll go to Bowling Green and play for a panel of judges and it will be scored like testing: distinguished, proficient. Last year, the group scored a proficient rating. So hopefully we can get it up to the distinguished rating this year. That is the goal.”

National Nutrition Month observed

Diabetes Support Group observed National Nutrition Month at their March 15 meeting at the Crittenden County Extension Office. Lori Jennings, executive sales professional for Sanofi Diabetes (right), provided the program on eating healthy, exercise and the latest technology in insulin pens. Attending were (standing, from left) Nancy Hunt, Frances Teer, Jennings, (seated) Micki Crider and Fay Carol Crider. The support group meets every third Friday of the month from 10-11 a.m., at the Extension office. Tuesday is American Diabetes Association Alert Day. It is a one-day “wake-up call” asking the American public to take the Diabetes Risk Test to find out if they are at risk for developing Type 2 diabetes. The test can be completed online or by stopping by the Extension office for assistance. Diabetes is a serious disease that strikes nearly 26 million children and adults in the United States, and nearly a quarter of them—7 million—do not even know they have it. An additional 79 million, or one in three American adults, have prediabetes, which puts them at high risk for developing Type 2 diabetes. The local support group is for anyone with Type 2 diabetes or who cares for someone who does.

Big season on tap

STAFF REPORT
The Rocket boys' track and field team will be led by a strong senior class, in- cluding sprinter and jumper Clint Asbridge. Alex Yates is another athlete that will do well in the jumps. He has made major improvements since last year.
Dustin Roberts and Zach Tinsley are strong sprinters that lead the team by ex- ample. Jacob Berry and Jacob Graham led the dis- tance runners last year and have improved.
"Josh Gaston and Daniel Wagoner will be strong hur- dlers for us again this year," coach Angela Starnes said.
"We have several new- comers who will add to the depth of our team and they have posted some very im- pressive times in preseas- on," the coach added.
Dakota Watson is an out- standing distance runner and Dylan Hicks has been hurdling well. Darren Paris is also much stronger in dis- tance races this season.
Noah Dickerson and Lane Wallace are doing well in the sprints. They will add to the depth of the sprinters.
Starnes is very excited that Margaret Sitar, the most valuable female par- ticipant from last year, is returning. Sitar has a great attitude and has her sights set on a state berth.
"Her times have improved each year. I know with hard work and her mental- ity that her goal is within reach," Starnes said.
Kaylee Gibson is perhaps the most versatile athlete on the team and a true leader. Anna Schnittker is a strong distance runner while Jessica McConnell, Maddye Mink and newcom- ers Alexis Tabor and Kaylee Graham will give the team depth in long races.
Taylor Johnson and Erin McDonald will be assets for the relay teams and new- comers Mallory McDowell has posted impressive times on the track and will be the anchor of the sprint relays and a good hurdler. Nadia Hutchings is a new- comer who will give the team depth in sprints and Nikki Shuecraft has made the switch from distance to sprints this year. She is a very versatile athlete that will be strong in the 400 meters.

core content in social studies.
The program opened with second-graders performing a patriotic ribbon dance set to Lee Greenwood's "God Bless the U.S.A."
The presidential drama followed and was performed by fifth-grade class members. The show allowed students to share their knowledge of American history with audience members as students in full costume portrayed the nation's most notable former presidents.
The sound of rainbow bells filled the auditorium as first-graders performed the patriotic anthem "America the Beautiful." Fourth-graders, meantime, performed "Peace Round" with recorders, drums and various instruments. "Larry the Lobster" made an appearance as the first-grade students added vocals and instrumentals to the drama. The program concluded with all first-, second-, fourth- and fifth-graders singing Beethoven's Symphony No. 6.
Traum worked with the dramatic presentation and play. Music instructor Lynette Miller worked with the music and orchestra.
Kindergarten and third-grade students performed at an event earlier in the school year. However, as part of the Arts Extravaganza, all students in the school had a piece of artwork displayed in the lobby.
