‘Sin tax’ on cigs, booze up April 1

It won't be an April Fool's trick next week when the clerk tells you the price of cigarettes just got a little higher. The same holds true at the liquor store register.

Kentucky's so-called sin taxes on tobacco and packaged alcohol products will go up April 1, generating additional revenue for the commonwealth's coffers in the midst of a nearly half-billion dollar revenue shortfall. The doubling of taxes on all tobacco products, including a 30-cent increase on every pack of cigarettes, and elimination of the sales tax exemption on package beer, wine and liquor sales is expected to bring in an additional $150 million for Frankfort.

The tax increase was approved earlier this year in the current 30-day session of the Kentucky General Assembly, which ends Friday.

Online survey

The most recent Crittenden Press Online survey asked visitors: "Do you think high school seniors should be allowed to decorate their graduation caps, known as a mortarboard. The school has prohibited the de facto tradition starting this year."

More than half of those responding believe seniors should be able to decorate their mortarboards, while only a third think it should be prohibited.

One in 10 out of work in county

One in 10 workers in Crittenden County was without a job in January, according to the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training. Crittenden County's unemployment rate for January 2009 was 9.8 percent, the highest January rate since 2001, when Tyco layoffs began sending up the jobless rate to more than 15 percent.

Only Martin County was spared the increase in unemployment that hit the state's 119 other counties between January 2008 and January 2009. Fayette County (Lexington) recorded the lowest unemployment in the state in January 2009 at 6.3 percent. Menifee County registered the highest at 17.7 percent.

In January 2008, unemployment in Crittenden County was 6.7 percent. In December 2008, the month before the latest reporting period, the jobless rate was 8.1 percent.

Neighboring unemployment in January 2008 was also high:
Livingston County9.2%
Caldwell County9.1%
Lyon County11.3%
Webster County9.3%

Jury convicts Livingston man on drug charges

STAFF REPORT

A Crittenden County Circuit Court jury convicted a Livingston County man Monday of drug trafficking and recommended a 15-year sentence.

Marty Harris, 46, of 113 Lion Drive in Salem will be formally sentenced April 9 by Circuit Judge René Williams following his conviction on two counts of trafficking in marijuana and one count of trafficking in a controlled substance. He was also convicted of being a persistent felony offender, which enhances the court's penalty options.

A 10-man, four-woman jury heard evidence in the case which included testimony from a confidential informant. Det. Robbie Kirk of the Penyrile Area Narcotics Task Force also testified and presented tape recordings of two drug deals. The deals were made on March 21 and June 19 last year while the informant was wearing a concealed recording device.

According to the state's case presented by Commonwealth Attorney Zac Greenwell, Harris twice sold marijuana to the informant and on one occasion he sold 13 Lortabs to the cooperating witness, whose name is not being published at the request of authorities in order to mitigate any danger he might face as a result of his testimony.

Public defender Paul Sysol called two witnesses as he tried to prove that Harris was not at the scene of the drug deals. Sarah Belt told the jury that Harris was with her in Smithland when one of the drug buys went down. She said she remembered the date because she had written it on her calendar.

The prosecutor asked her why she wrote the date on her calendar and she explained that it was because she and the defendant had an intimate encounter.

Randy Travis of Marion was also called to the stand. His testimony was aimed at discrediting the informant, whom he said drank alcohol every day.

The jury deliberated for just over an hour before returning its guilty verdict. During the penalty phase, Harris and his mother each testified.

"I ain't guilty of these charges," Harris said on the stand.

He admitted having a drinking problem in years past, but claimed that he'd been doing much better lately, since being released from prison on another conviction.

"I don't mess with no drugs," he said. "That ain't me on those tapes."

Harris' mother asked the jury to have mercy on her son.

Good-bye to winter

Spring breaks out fishermen

Eight-year-old Jenny Thompson works the reel as her great-grandfather Perry Brookshire of Marion wrangles one of a half-dozen or so catfish caught from Lake George after about three hours of fishing last Wednesday afternoon.

Amid clear blue skies and temperatures in the mid-70s, Brookshire and Thompson headed to the City of Marion's reservoir around noon for some family bonding at the end of a long winter. On spring break from her school in Mississippi, Thompson enjoys her visits to her great-grandparents' home, where she likes to fish and ride horses on the farm.

On Wednesday, Brookshire said his farm ponds off Coleman Road were still murky from recent rains and didn't present much prospect for a fun afternoon of catch-and-release, so he and his great-granddaughter headed to Lake George. Brookshire, who had been joined by a handful of other sportsmen fishing for bass from near the lake's spillway, said it had been two or three years since he fished the lake and was about ready to leave when the pair found a spot just offshore where the cats were biting.

Not afraid of the worms used for bait, Thompson filtered through the bait tub for the next fat, juicy earthworm for her "Pa Perry" to bait the hook. She would reel in the catches, but preferred to let her great-grandpa remove the hook from the squirming fish's mouth. While the catfish were fiddler-size – big enough to eat, according to Brookshire – he and Thompson slid the fish into a tub to take back to the farm pond for the next fishing trip.

Lake George is the most popular fishing hole inside of Marion and remains free for such recreation. While boating is permitted, only trolling motors can be used, as the lake is Marion's primary source of drinking water.

Spring officially started Friday.

McKenney pens account of sniper in Civil War

By DARYL K. TABOR
MANAGING EDITOR

It was a roadside historical marker that sent Tom McKenney on a more than 40-year journey to write his first secular book, an historical account of Civil War pacifist-turned-Confederate sniper when his two sons were murdered and mutilated by federal troops.

"Jack Hinson's One-Man War – A Civil War Sniper," is now in publication by Pelican Publishing Co., and is the culmination of four decades of thought and 15 years of research and writing by McKenney, a Marion resident. It's not his first published work – he has a number of faith-based books in print – but this one has been especially rewarding for the 75-year-old.

"It was unbelievably difficult," he said from inside his office at Words for Living Ministries in Marion, the non-denominational ministry operated by him and his wife Marty. "Writing history is tough."

In 1993, after suffering a light stroke, the retired Marine began working on his effort to tell the story of Jack Hinson, a little known Civil War figure who turned the western front on its ear when the father of the two slain sons became hell-bent on vengeance. McKenney, who experienced the rigors of war himself in Vietnam, said the story ate at him for 40 years since a the historical marker at Golden Pond in Land Between the Lakes piqued his interest.

"It was a story that needed to be told," he

Road to recovery brings 74-year-old home

17 months after serious wreck, LaBuda returns to her house, loved ones

By ALLISON EVANS
ASSISTANT EDITOR

The road to recovery has been long but paved with love for 74-year-old Audrey LaBuda.

Sixteen months and 20 days after LaBuda was severely injured in a car accident on U.S. 641, she walked into to her Marion home Friday. She kept track of her time away, though she doesn't remember the first few weeks of her recovery at Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville.

Wiping tears from her eyes, LaBuda speaks emotionally about the home she returned to – marveling at the new carpet, paint, furniture and repairs made by her church family at Mexico Baptist.

Sadly, many church members watched in horror as LaBuda was airlifted from the scene of the car accident that left her seriously injured Oct. 28, 2007 after LaBuda's vehicle pulled into the path of a passing car as she pulled onto U.S. 641 from Ky. 70, about a mile from the church. LaBuda had just left the Sunday morning service and was returning to Marion. Several nurses, rescue squad members and EMTs who were behind LaBuda rushed to the scene to administer immediate care before she was airlifted to Vanderbilt from the scene of the accident.

Two months later, she left Vanderbilt, still recovering from internal injuries and broken bones in her arms and legs.

In the year that followed, she was in and out of the local hospital three times and went back to Vanderbilt once for treatment of a severe intestinal illness.

Surrounded by members of her church family Friday, LaBuda was welcomed home to a potluck meal in her freshly refurbished mobile home in Marion.

"I've never had a place so good in all my life, even when I lived in Chicago, never, never never," she said, blotting tears from her eyes. "These are tears of joy."

LaBuda moved to Marion in 1979, where she got a job at the newly-established Family Practice Clinic. In fact, her employment preceded Dr. Gary James and Dr. Greg Maddux, Labuda says, noting that she worked

Counties paying for 10 Commandments

Prudence, as we know from reading the wisely constructed text of Proverbs from King Solomon in the Holy Bible, is the clay from which a man should mold his life.

Those who make decisions based upon emotion, with their minds divorced of sound logic and reason, always pay a handsome price for their misguided judgement.

This is no more clearly illustrated than in south-central and eastern Kentucky where two counties posted copies of the 10 Commandments in their courthouses and have now been ordered to pay a federal judgement of more than $400,000 to the ACLU and citizens who successfully challenged the displays.

U.S. District Judge Jennifer B. Coffman has ordered Pulaski and McCreary counties to pay $393,798 in attorneys' fees and $8,133 in expenses to the American Civil Liberties Union of Kentucky and citizens after a nearly 10-year legal battle that ended at the U.S. Supreme Court.

Don't misunderstand. I, like many of you, have complete reverence for Mosaic law, especially those cardinal commandments scripted by the finger of God.

Lo, I try to heed them, too. Despite my faith and trust in the Almighty, I live under a set of rules and regulations established and interpreted by men. I firmly avow that we live in a country where separation of church and state means I may practice religion free of intervention and protected from state-sponsored persecution; and where freedom of religion does not necessarily mean freedom from its omnipresence in our culture.

However, we must understand that our American society – fallible as it is – currently prohibits "in-your-face" religion. During certain eras, this being one, those who interpret the law tend to err on the side of a more liberal interpretation of Thomas Jefferson's doctrine of separation of church and state. Because of that, we cannot, in most circumstances, symbolically or physically scrawl our religious dogma on the walls of public buildings. Nor may anyone or any religion or sect erect symbols or idols to their gods on the courthouse lawn.

A Christian heart praises the Kentucky counties and their leaders for an affirmative stand for morality based upon the 10 Commandments. Yet King Solomon himself would probably disagree with the way in which they went about it.

"Answer a fool according to his folly, lest he be wise in his own conceit," reads one verse in Proverbs.

In other words, don't try to reason with a fool.

When we who desire to propagate our beliefs attempt to fight a lion in a cage, we serve nothing except the lion's hunger.

A few years ago, many good-minded, God-fearing folks wanted to put a set of God's Commandments on the courthouse lawn in Marion. At first blush, our leaders were supportive of the idea. But after prudent, careful examination of the assets and liabilities of the matter, they chose to find a more suitable location. The 10 Commandments now preside peacefully near the corner of North College and Bellville streets.

Had our leaders chosen to face the lion no matter the consequences, we too would have been feeding the fool to further his folly.

Spring the right time to consider Mother Earth

If someone were to ask me if I had ever witnessed a miracle, I would have to say I witness one every Spring. To think that this wonder of rebirth we are allowed to observe is anything short of miraculous would be sacrilege. Seemingly lifeless trees and foliage blossom and sprout colors. Shades of brown and grey transform to greens and yellows and pinks and whites. Deliciously sweet smells linger on breezes. Frogs and crickets begin practicing for their summer orchestra.

Our senses are overwhelmed by sights and smells and sounds. It's hard to imagine a world where these splendors of the season are but a distant memory.

Many of us have sat back and enjoyed natures show in a landfill for the next 700 years. Changing all the light bulbs in my house to CFLs reduces the amount of energy I use and saves me money. Even using the junk mail as a quick place to jot down my grocery list instead of using a fresh sheet of note paper is a positive change. Let the season inspire you and make some green changes yourself.

One of the greatest pleasures of this time of year is the frequent comfortable temperature. Take full advantage and open the windows. This last stretch of warm temps brought up every window in my house. Not only does this let you give your inside heating and cooling a break, as well as your pocketbook, but it's beneficial to your health.

Toxins and chemicals are consistently released in our purple coneflowers, and black-eyed Susan.

Woodier plants are on many of our minds after the damage caused by the ice storm. Some of those natives to Kentucky are dogwood, rhododendron, maples and oak.

Now that the silence of cold dreary days is beginning to fill with sounds of children playing, birds singing, and insects buzzing, plan on getting outside and working on a green project. Last year I was able to add two raised garden beds to my backyard in a day. These were to allow me to grow some vegetables in a backyard full of mature trees and their massive roots. This year I have a couple of rain-barrels on my to-do list, to allow me to use the rainwater that runs off my roof and down my gutter for watering those raised beds. Pick a project and make it a family affair. Build a compost bin or reuse old bricks and stones to make a new walkway or edging.

All around us there are opportunities to make a positive impact on our environment. Spring is the ambassador of our planet. It's a reminder to take care of it and protect it for other generations to marvel at. Start looking around and asking yourself if a small change is too much to ask to preserve the miracle around you. I think you'll probably come up with the right answer.

(Editor's note: Autry is a guest columnist who lives in Marion. Her column appears periodically in The Crittenden Press.)

False prophet's prophecy fulfilled

Jesus warned us over and over to beware of false prophets among us. Paul echoed His warning in no uncertain terms.

God's true ministers will also send out the warnings as Satan is always busy trying to deceive and destroy all of us.

You can easily recognize many false prophets as they are the ones to yell foul and condemn the ministers when their deccits are exposed.

As one elderly gentleman in our community, whom I respect very much, said to me one day when he saw me in a store, "When you throw a rock among a bunch of dogs the one that yells is the one that got hit. The man then went right on about his business. I went on about mine chuckling, remembering I had just been roasted publicly.

The particular false prophesy I'm referring to at this time is the lie that God is such a loving God that He would never send any kind of punishment for sin as a disaster in nature. Like God doesn't control nature! And like God will not love us enough to warn us with all the many things He has at His disposal.

These false prophets are those who do not know the Bible, God nor history. They are the kind Paul spoke of who know but go about as "But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived." 2 Tim. 3:13.

These are also among those false prophets who tell you they are Christian and are violating God's law. Saint John said: "He that says he knows God and keeps not His commandments is a liar and the truth is not in him." 1st John 2:4.

The sad thing about all of this is, if a person wants to live ungodly that is his privilege. However, he should not to try to convince others that he is Christian and try to lead others to hell. For their blood will be upon their head. Ez. 33:6.

They stay busy trying to discredit all who tell the Bible's truth; and they justify all the false preachers out there who discredit what the Bible truly says.

The Old and New Testament are very clear. "Be not deceived; neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, not homosexuals, not abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the

Outlying areas left out in cold, ice

To the editor:

I agree with Sandra Haifley (March 5 letter to the editor), before our county officials break their arms patting themselves on the back for the fine job they did during the ice storm, they should consider what they didn't do.

We live in the Shady Grove area and I am 78 years old. Not one official checked on us, only family and friends. I tried to call the judge-executive, sheriff and Kenergy to find out what was happening in Crittenden County and when we could get water and supplies, but no one answered. I called Channel 14 television for help, but they could not reach any official. I told them the only time that county officials know we exist is at tax time and election time!

I am sure the people around Marion were well taken care of, but how about the ones living in outlying areas?

At the time that I could not reach anyone, I was thinking "Freddie has gone south!"

WPSD: Coverage after storm good

To the editor:

Thank you for the opportunity to reply to (Don) Arflack's letter (in the March 5 edition of The Crittenden Press). He is incorrect when he says that WPSD Local 6 doesn't consider Crittenden County to be a part of our coverage area. Crittenden County is very important to us!

From the very beginning of the ice storm, WPSD Local 6 was immediately announcing all information we received from officials in Crittenden County and the Marion-Crittenden County EOC. Here are just some of the stories:

■ Jan. 27: Coverage of a family left homeless after a house fire.

■ Jan. 30: A complete update from the Marion-Crittenden County Emergency Operations Center including a boil-water advisory and emergency shelter location.

■ Jan. 31: Dashcam video from Crittenden County showing storm dam-

Fun run exceeded most expectations

To the editor:

I would like to thank everyone for participating in and supporting the Rocket Into Spring 5K and Fun Run. Our goal for the first year was to exceed 100 participants. We soared past that on race day; 138 runners from eight Kentucky counties participated in the two events.

Our participation was more than several long-running events in neighboring counties, a testament to the popularity of running in Crittenden County and the support the community is showing toward our purpose: to build a rubberized track in Crittenden County.

I know there are still people resisting the idea of building a rubberized track here. The cost is not cheap, and because of that, there is a misperception that only the high school track team uses the facility. I would like to address this by stating two facts:

■ The only time the CCHS kids use the track is from March through May; and

■ Out of 138 registered entrants last Saturday, eight were Crittenden County High School track team members. Another 12 athletes chose to course marshal, due to an upcoming meet. This ratio holds true for year-round usage of the track. Perhaps 5% of its use comes from high school athletes. The others who use the track daily range in age from 3 to 90+.

This track is for the entire community, and for visitors from neighboring counties (and states) who appreciate Crittenden County's growing commitment to fitness and running. It will truly become a prized possession for many thousands of annual users.

We will work tirelessly to make this rubberized track a reality. Of all the sports facilities in our county, the track is used more than any other except for the park trail and Rocket Arena.

Thank you again for your great community support of the Rocket Into Spring 5K. And to our champions and age-group medalists, a tip of the hat – you ran great on a chilly morning.

Natives provided relief during storm

To the editor:

AI would like to take this opportunity to recognize a couple with local roots, and their relief efforts during the winter ice storm.

I know many, many people helped during the widespread disaster, but I want to say that Richard and Louise Holloman of Russellville, Ky., were very instrumental in encouraging their church family to help those in need in Crittenden County.

They trucked in relief supplies, including kerosene, blankets and much more. Their assistance came at a time when no kerosene was available at businesses in Marion.

They are originally from Crittenden County and knew their family and friends were in need. They responded like so many others, and I only want to make mention of their efforts.

Their help was testimony to the kind, caring Christian devotion they have for this community.

2009-10 calendar, graduation OK'd

Graduation ceremonies and a calendar for the 2009-10 academic year were approved Tuesday by the Crittenden County Board of Education.

Graduation ceremonies for the Class of 2009 will be as follows: baccalaureate at 7 p.m., May 27; class night at 6 p.m., May 28; and commencement at 7 p.m., May 29.

Next year's academic calendar will begin on Aug. 11 for students. The last day of class will be May 21, 2010, with a full week for both fall and spring breaks, three days for Thanksgiving and two weeks for Christmas break.

Hunting outfitter fined in fed court

Game Trails Lodge, which operated a hunting guide service in Crittenden and Union counties, and its outfitting manager were fined last Thursday in U.S. District Court in Owensboro for misdemeanor violations of the Lacey Act.

The hunting outfitter pleaded guilty to taking female deer and shipping some of their parts out of state.

Game Trails was ordered to pay a $35,000 fine and manager Dirk McTavish Jr., was ordered to pay a $15,000 fine.

According to the Evansville Courier Newspaper, the charges arose out of Game Trails' practice of the killing of does over the limit at its leased property (formerly Kimball International) on Ky. 365, near Sturgis, between June 1, 2006, and Nov. 30, 2007. The defendants pleaded guilty to shipping parts of the wildlife to Atlanta.

The Evansville newspaper also reported that Game Trails and its agents used the Social Security numbers of hunters at the lodge without their permission to report the deer as having been legally taken to Kentucky Fish & Wildlife's telecheck program. McTavish was the Lodge Manager at Game Trails Lodge at the time, and was aware of and participated in the violations, according to court records.

The case was investigated by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service.

The land where the violations occurred was recently sold at public auction to a timber management company from North Carolina, and two other buyers. A large portion of the land is expected to become part of a Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife management area.

Memorial plans at Blackford near Brent Witherspoon has plans for another Memorial Day weekend ceremony honoring veterans at the Blackford Walking Trail nearly complete. Congressman Ed Whitfield has been invited as the keynote speaker, Witherspoon said last week.

Despite the remote area neighboring the Tradewater River having been hammered by the ice storm, cleanup has started and should be complete by the May 23 ceremony at the Walk of Honor at the trailhead.

"It is such a mess out there," Witherspoon said.

Trustees from Crittenden County Detention Center were scheduled to begin cleaning up debris this week at the area. Inmate labor has helped refurbish the Blackford Church of God as a trailhead facility and lay inscribed brick the Walk of Honor. In fact, work should begin soon on an addition to the Walk of Honor that will encircle the flag pole.

The bricks with the names of veterans, Witherspoon said, have nearly filled the first segment.

The May 23 service will begin at 2 p.m., and will feature a firing squad, "Taps" played by buglers and special guest speakers. The Memorial Day tradition at Blackford began a few years ago when Crittenden Fiscal Court dedicated money to create the park and utilize an old railroad bed as a walking trail.

MPD charges 1 in outage burglary

Marion Police Department has solved a burglary that occurred at a home on Lewis Street during a power outage that followed the late January ice storm.

A criminal summons has been issued for Larry Michael Lynch Jr., 28, of West Bellville Street, for his alleged involvement in a break-in on or about Feb. 1. Taken from the home of Wayne Caswell were a 32-inch television, computer and monitor, Play Station, digital video recorder and other items valued at $1,353.

Police Chief Ray O'Neal said Lynch is charged with second-degree burglary and theft by unlawful taking, over $300.

The police investigation alleges that Lynch kicked in the door of Caswell's mobile home at 116 Lewis St., while the owner was gone due to a power outage related to the major winter ice storm a few days earlier. Police say Lynch took several items from the home and put them into a vehicle.

Police were able to recover all of the items taken. O'Neal said the stolen goods had been taken to Union County, but have now been returned to their rightful owner.

Building near on county firehouse

Construction on a new Crittenden County Fire Department will begin sometime this summer, according to Judge-Executive Fred Brown.

The county has received a $150,000 federal grant to help build the station. It will be located in Industrial Park South next to Par 4 Plastics on the south side of Industrial Drive. Land for the fire station was donated by the Crittenden County Economic Development Corp., and Par 4 Plastics.

The eight-bay station will be built on 3.5 acres. It will be metal, about 20,000-square-foot, Brown said, although details on the building have not been finalized.

"We will be hiring an architect to design it," Brown said. "But it will have the bays, an office and sleeping quarters in the back."

The sleeping quarters are being incorporated largely due to experiences with ice storms the past two winters. Brown said the new station could be used to house public service workers in times of disaster.

"It will also be our secondary Emergency Operations Center," Brown explained. "We will have a generator there for backup power."

The Pennyrile Area Development District is assisting with administration of the grant and planning for the building.

This is not to be confused with a proposed city fire station on Main Street, which is now on hold.

Clarification

An article in The Crittenden Press last week indicated that high school seniors would be able to carry decorated graduation caps, known as mortarboards, into the Crittenden County High School Graduation ceremonies on May 29. That's not exactly right. They will have to put their decorated caps in their seats prior to the service. They will be allowed to only wear their more traditional, non-decorated caps into the service and through the commencement line to receive diplomas. After coronation of graduates, they will be able to wear their decorated mortarboards.

Barry “Redbird” Brown (left) performs the Native American ritual of “smudging” on a dancer before the opening ceremonies of a 2007 intertribal powwow at the Mantle Rock Native Education and Cultural Center in Marion. Brown will be the head dancer at another powwow this May in Marion.

Marion powwow slated for May 8-10

STAFF REPORT

The second weekend of May will find some of the region's top Native American performers gathered in Marion for a powwow.

Frankie "Kamama" Sutton, along with her husband Charley and numerous volunteers, will host what is being called the Crittenden County Powwow May 8-10 at Marion-Crittenden County Park. The ceremonial gathering, with displays of Native American crafts, culture and history, will be held in the upper portion of the park near the soccer fields.

The Marion Tourism Commission and park board have teamed with the Native American interests to offer the event, which brings together the area's best dancers and entertainers, including Barry "Red Bird" Brown from Sturgis, who has signed on as head dancer for the ceremonies. According to Jerry "Grey Fox" DeOre, a Marion resident of Cherokee descent, Brown received rave reviews as head dancer at last year's Trail of Tears Indian Powwow in Hopkinsville and has been repeatedly invited to the annual event.

"That is such a big deal in Hopkinsville," DeOre said.

Mother Earth Beat, who DeOre calls the No. 1 drum in the South, will serve as host drum for the LOCAL powwow, alongside Black Eagle Spirit of Rockport, Ind., as invited drum.

Brown, a veteran of the Vietnam War, will join other performers in honoring veterans of all wars with drum tributes and flag ceremonies, DeOre said.

The powwow will kick off May 8 with a day for the children.

Students will be treated to fun, games and the Native American culture through arts, crafts and teachings from exhibitors. Festivities on May 9 will go on all day, with grand entry slated for 1 p.m.

On the final day of the gathering, May 10, moms will BE paid a special tribute following grand entry, also at 1 p.m. In honor of Mothers Day, the first 100 mothers attending will be awarded a gift courtesy of Marion Physicians Clinic and Tri-Rivers Clinic in Salem.

DeOre said there will be about 20 vendors, many offer food with Native American flare.

"Don't miss this one," he said of the powwow. "It will be special."

Admission will be $3 for adults, $2 for seniors and only $1 for children under 18.

Book provides glimpse into Livingston past with photos

By CHRIS EVANS
PRESS EDITOR

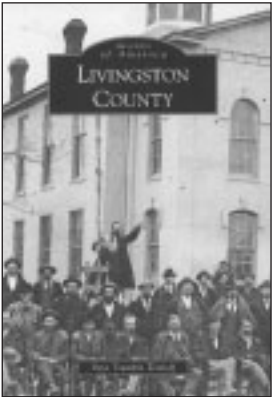

Bringing Livingston County's rich history to life was one of the primary objectives for Faye Tramble Teitloff when she started researching and gathering photographs about days gone by.

Her book, "Images of America: Livingston County," was recently published by Arcadia Publishing of Mount Pleasant, S.C. It is available online or at the county's historical headquarters and log cabin in Smithland.

The research she has done for her newspaper column helped, and some of it was written from personal knowledge.

Teitloff grew up behind where the Three Rivers Rock Quarry is today. She attended schools in Smithland, Hampton and Burna and worked in social services for 17 years.

Robertson said she was flattered when the book came out recently. "I have always had an affection for taking pictures," said Robertson, who lives on the same road where the Trail of Tears passed through Livingston County.

"I come by a love of history honestly," added Robertson. "My mother was always like that. I always enjoyed driving around and taking pictures of things of interest."

Her snapshots make up a majority of Teitloff's book, but there were other contributors, too.

In fact, Teitloff took special care of the photos she borrowed for inclusion in her book. Instead of entrusting them to the U.S. Mail or the publisher for any length of time, Teitloff carried them by hand to South Carolina and waited for the pictures to be digitally transferred into an electronic format.

"My son and husband drove me down there and I waited all day for the publisher to scan them," she said. "Then we drove home."

She selected the South Carolina publishing company because Supreme Court Justice Bill Cunningham's son, Luke, works there. Plus, her format fit the company's series, Images of America.

The book traces a great deal of Livingston County's past through a pictorial history representing everything from Smithland's strategic location on a busy steamboat route to Thomas Jefferson's nephews who settled near today's Birdsville and became part of a terrible murder and coverup.

Teitloff is staying busy with her pursuit of local history.

She is collaborating with the Livingston County Historical Society on a new family history book. A similar volume was published in the early 1990s. The second volume could be out next year, and Teitloff is also helping coordinate plans for a new cemeteries book.

And, if there's time, she may even put together another pictorial history.

"I might do another one if enough pictures turn up," she said.

Robertson, who loves history and has written for Kentucky Explorer, admits she has more photos that were stuck way back in drawers when Teitloff started her first project. Those would be available now, she said.

Crittenden County Detention Center

Crittenden County Detention Center Jailer Rick Riley provides The Crittenden Press with a weekly report of the jail's inmate count and work release program. Inmates are supervised and carry out a variety of labor regularly undertaken by local municipal departments.

Work-release for the week of March 16-22:

1. Eight men at 48 hours each cleaning up from the ice storm.
 2. Fourteen men at 48 hours each to county road department.
 3. One female at 40 hours to Crittenden County Animal Shelter.
 4. Four men at 44 hours to county convenience center.
 5. Two females at 40 hours to Senior Citizens Center
 6. Two females at 48 hours each to courthouse.
 7. Ten men at 56 hours as inside-jail trustees (janitorial and kitchen duties).
 8. One male at 40 hours each to the National Guard armory.
 9. One male at eight hours to Marion Police Department.
- Note: This week's saving to the county was $13,178.60, based on minimum wage of $6.55 per hour – Shea Holliman, Class D Coordinator

Court hears plans to refinance jail

STAFF REPORT

The Crittenden County Fiscal Court met in special session Tuesday morning to discuss the Crittenden County Detention Center's 2009-10 budget and to hear an update on storm debris removal.

Magistrates will meet again at 8 a.m., Monday morning to finalize and approve the jail budget, which includes a $1.9 million spending plan for the coming year, which starts July 1.

Jailer Rick Riley told magistrates about plans to refinance the jail at a lower interest rate. The jail cost more than $7 million to build. Saving even a percentage point on the bond interest rate could mean thousands of dollars over the term of the debt, he said.

Magistrates spoke highly of the job Riley has done as jailer and indicated that they plan to give his budget a stamp of approval next week.

Judge-Executive Fred Brown said more than 40 people are employed at the jail.

He said payroll and local purchases pump more than $1 million into the local economy each year.

"That's the largest economic development project we've had since I've been judge," said Brown.

In other business, the court learned that debris removal on county roads is about half done.

Brown said the road department has one crew working six days a week at removing and chipping debris from roadsides. He said a second crew was removed from the job because the chipper was costing $3,500 a month. Inmates are providing much of the labor, he said.

"We are moving pretty well on cleanup," Brown said. "It's going about as well as can be expected."

The judge said hanging limbs and leaning trees will also be identified and removed as part of the cleanup effort. A new tractor and boom mower are scheduled to arrive this week to help with that project.

ple," she said. She pointed that he wouldn't even hold his verdict against the jury.

"If he met you on the street, he'd shake your hand," she said.

Harris has a lengthy criminal history dating back to 1981 and includes arrests in Crittenden, Livingston and McCracken counties. He has had six previous felony convictions, at least two of which were qualifying circumstances for an enhanced penalty on the current conviction.

Harris was on parole from one of his previous convictions and will have to serve the remaining four years from that case, plus whatever Judge Williams imposes from Monday's conviction.

"Det. Kirk had a very good case and the facts supported a conviction. It was a very thorough investigation," Greenwell said.

The trial lasted about nine hours and Harris' bond was revoked at the end of the proceedings. He was taken directly to the Crittenden County Detention Center.

Harris' previous convictions included criminal mischief, DUI, wanton endangerment, third-degree assault, flagrant non-support, receiving stolen property, aggravated assault and operating on a suspended license. The persistent felony charge upped Monday's conviction from a Class D to a Class B felony on the trafficking in a controlled substance charge. The jury recommended two 12-month sentences on the misdemeanor trafficking in marijuana convictions. Those would run concurrent to the recommended 15 years on the felonies.

said. "There was scarcely more than a couple of paragraphs about this man in print."

The roadside marker along U.S. 68/Ky. 80 that spurred the book first caught McKenney's eye in the mid-1960s. He did not give much thought to publishing a book on the Tennessee farmer at the time. Yet over the years of coping with a wartime injury that left him disabled and examining the rewards of family and faith, the pause in his non-stop schedule of political and spiritual activism brought on the by the stroke awakened him to rediscover the story of Jack Hinson.

What followed was a decade-and-a-half journey across the country interviewing countless descendants and residents of the lower-LBL area in Tennessee, thousands of hours of research (hundreds alone at the National Archives in Washington, D.C.) and enough miles to circle the globe, all at a cost McKenney says will not likely be made up by the sales from his book.

The story of Jack Hinson

Tom McKenney holds the heavy, 50-caliber sniper rifle used by Jack Hinson to kill dozens of Union troops during the Civil War. Through research, McKenney was able to track down the owner of the gun, which belongs to a Tennessee judge.

and his custom-made, 50-caliber sniper rifle touched McKenney, which is what drove the effort to immortalize the man. Hinson, after his sons were killed and beheaded by Union soldiers deep in the Tennessee woods, turned to revenge. Throughout the course of the war that remained, Hinson turned his back on friendships forged with federal officers, including Ulysses S. Grant, and maintained guerrilla sniper tactics that accounted for dozens of federal casualties – all kept track of by the notches on the barrel of his four-foot long rifle.

What war can push men to do, said McKenney, who considers himself a Confederate sympathizer with forefathers who fought in the gray uniforms of the South, is remarkable, both in its glory and shame. That's a point he hopes to make with the 400-page volume.

In fact, the working title for the book was Reluctant Warrior, which almost describes McKenney's venture into writing the historical account.

"I'm glad I did it," he said. "Not sure I would do it again, but I'll tell you, I loved it!"

The book has been reviewed favorably by Leatherneck Magazine, The Washington Post and Civil War Illustrated.

McDonald's handing out ice cream, ID tags

STAFF REPORT

Little Caesar Rodney, the clown persona of David Drennan will be unleashed on the Great Ice Cream Give-away next week, handing out cold treats to visitors.

Drennan will be performing and giving away ice cream beginning at 3:45 p.m., April 1 at McDonald's in Marion. Children will receive an ice cream cone and learn how they can participate the following weekend in an identification program sponsored by McDonald's and the Marion Police Department.

On April 5, Grimace, the McDonald's character that has helped the fast food chain sell its food for decades, will be on hand at the restaurant to entertain children while they have identification badges made that can be used in the event of emergencies. The festivities begin at 2 p.m.

for Dr. Steve Burkhart when Drs. James and Maddux were hired at Family Practice Clinic.

While LaBuda was recovering, she received weekly visits from members of her church, but two in particular have cared for her like she was a biological relative – Nancy and Goble Joyce.

Friends say Goble Joyce encouraged LaBuda to continue physical therapy, giving her no option but to walk again.

Sandra Belt says several groups within the church refurbished LaBuda's home.

"Dave and Carol Belt have been involved since the beginning, the guys started first making repairs, and then one group would paint, one bought her a new recliner, one stocked the pantry and cleaned and hung pictures. One picture in particular caught her attention as she tried out her new recliner for the first time. Hanging next to her chair is the print that greeted her in her office at Family Practice Clinic, a job cut short by her car accident.

"I have a wonderful church family and I thank the Lord for sending Bro. Tim (Burdon)," she said.

Let’s visit with some of the county’s elderly

They were 80+ in the 1920s

This article is another one from the series in the 1928 Crittenden Presses that was honoring the county's citizens who were 80 years old or older. This is an interesting and informative feature about our past citizens, their lives and families. From the archives of The Crittenden Press, let's get to know them.

July 6, 1928
Mrs. Eliza A. Hughes, one of the oldest citizens of this county, has lived all of her nearly 90 years in the Fords Ferry community of Crittenden County. She was born Oct. 23, 1838, daughter of George and Eliza (Wallingford) Williams.

Before her marriage to Thomas L. Hughes she was Miss Eliza A. Williams, a sister of Mrs. Nancy E. Clement. These two sisters are the only living members of a large family of 12 children.

Mrs. Hughes never had any children of her own but reared her niece, Mrs. William Taylor Wynn, who was the youngest child of E.R. Hill. Mrs. Winn (Amanda Katherine Hill) was only four weeks old when she was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and lived 24 years of her single life with them.

She also partially reared another niece, now Mrs. T.L. Hughes, who lived with her aunt for about 10 years. Before her marriage this niece was Miss Emma Williams, a sister of W.R. Williams and Mrs. G.D. Hughes of Marion.

Mrs. Hughes' husband, James L. Hughes, enlisted in the Confederate Army during the Civil War.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes lived together at Weston for 56 years. Mr. Hughes died Dec. 29, 1920.

Mrs. Hughes now lives at Weston with Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Wynn. Although nearly 90 years old, she is still active and is in good health.

Mrs. Hughes lived until July 22, 1935. She was 97 years old. Mrs. Hughes had suffered a serious fall which caused her hip to be broken and she was forced to be confined to her bed since that time. She was buried in the Mt. Zion cemetery next to her husband James L. Hughes.

August 24, 1928
Hezekiah Hughes was born in Crittenden County May 29, 1848. His parents, Leonard and Lucy (Paris) Hughes, were natives of Tennessee.

Mr. Hughes lived on the same farm two miles south east of Marion all of his life with the exception of the past two years. He now lives in Marion.

In 1870, Mr. Hughes was married to Miss Lizzie Baker, a native of Tennessee. Mrs. Hughes died several years ago.

All of Mr. Hughes' seven children are living. They are Mrs. Lucy Minerva Paris of Oklahoma; Albert Newton Hughes of North Dakota; Alfred L. Hughes of Oregon; Mrs. Ida May Hill of Princeton; Clarence Edward Hughes of Detroit, John E. Hughes and Homer Y. Hughes of Marion.

Mr. Hughes died June 5, 1930 at the home of a son, John E. Hughes. Mr. Hughes died at the advanced age of 82. He joined the Baptist church at an early age and he lived the greater part of his life on his farm near Marion. His wife, Mary Elizabeth Baker Hughes, died Oct. 20, 1926. They are buried in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

November 30, 1928
Mrs. Sarah A. Enoch heads five generations. A member of five generations of the family of Mrs. Sarah A. Enoch all live within a short distance of each other in Marion. The five generations are Mrs. Enoch; Mrs. Enoch's daughter, Mrs. Fannie Sisco; Mrs. Sisco's son, Roy Sisco; Mr. Sisco's daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Swisher; and Mrs. Swisher's six-month-old son, Robert LeRoy Swisher.

Mrs. Enoch, 85 years old, was born in Smith County, Tenn., Aug. 26, 1843. In 1860 she was married to Benjamin A. Enoch, who served for three years in the Union Army during the Civil War. He was a private in Co. H, 5th Tenn., Calvary.

In 1872 with five of their children, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch came to Kentucky in a covered wagon, and settled on a large farm in the neighborhood of Sisco's Chapel. They were the parents of 12 children, 10 of whom are living. They are Mrs. L.N. Sisco of Marion; Mrs. Nannie Hodges of Colorado; W.B. Enoch of Kansas; Mrs. Betty Jones of Brownfield, Ill.; Mrs. John Walker of Sikeston, Mo.; Mrs. W.W. Rice of Marion; and T.A., J.W. and R.H. Enoch of Marion. Mr. Enoch died in June 26, 1911 and was buried in Sisco Chapel Cemetery.

Mrs. Enoch lived several more years and passed away Dec. 1, 1936 at the age of 93. Her obituary states that she had made her home on their farm for many years, only removing to the city within the last few years. She was always active in church and religious circles, a friend to the needy and deserving. At the time of her death she was survived by 150 direct descendants, 40 grandchildren and 79 great-grandchildren. She was laid to rest next to her husband in the Sisco Chapel Cemetery.

December 7, 1928
Although Mr. John M. Phillips, who lives in the Casad community, has been blind for 30 years, he had continued, during the greater part of his blindness, to direct the management of his farm.

Mr. Phillips, who only recently celebrated his 80th birthday, is a native of this county having been born on Nov. 20, 1848 near Nunn's Switch. His father was the late Daniel B. Phillips.

With the exception of W.E. Phillips who now lives in Arkansas, Mr. Phillips is the oldest Phillips of the original family of this county. His wife was formerly Miss Betty Johnson. Three of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips' four children are still living. They are Henry and Herbert Phillips and Mrs. Tom Bracey, all of this county.

Mr. Phillips died Sept. 4, 1930 and is buried in the Hurricane Cemetery.

Tweet tweet
No visible reward from Twittering

Like a beautiful bird minus its chirp, Twitter is silenced in my book – at least for now.

Twitter. It's a strange new word, a verb and a noun best I can figure, that has puzzled me for several weeks. I try it, and I don't like it. I go back, and I don't understand it.

Actually its premise is clear. Twitter is a fairly new means by which people can stay connected through cyber world. Using the Internet, folks get a user-name and log on and say what they're doing. It's a means of chatting that, best I can tell, is meant to be communicated through one-liners.

For instance, you might post that you're going to the grocery. As if anyone cares. Or you might post that you're reading a good book and list the title. That's a little more useful information. Or you may post that you are sick and in return you will receive well wishes.

You get the point (I guess I do).

But I'm not sure it's helpful. I can follow my sister, my friends and web sites which have quick tweets (technical jargon), which are technically little tidbits of information, that link you to more in-depth stories.

Instead of nit wits are we Net Tweets?

Anyway, I will continue to explore the world of Twitter. It's like anything else that's new. Sometimes it just takes some getting used to. But I have to say my first inclination is it's like a band that was a one-hit wonder. Here today, gone tomorrow.

FCCLA conducts peer Drive It Right program

The FCCLA National Program FACTS (Families acting for Community Traffic Safety) has been the focus of a peer led traffic safety program conducted by the Crittenden County FCCLA Chapter.

FCCLA members and peers are encouraged to think smart, buckle up, and arrive alive. "Drive It Right" was held during Academic Plus for the sophomore and junior students Jan. 19-Feb. 6.

Drive It Right coordinators Kara Berry, Janson

James and Cody McDonald set a goal to conduct this program because of the need for teens to make better choices while behind the wheel.

The classes included a pre-test to see what students already knew about being behind the wheel, a video created by Allstate Insurance, games and skits, a music video that taught students that an accident can affect more than just the people in the car, and a time to sign a Drive to Arrive Alive Pledge stating they will make smart choices when behind the wheel.

Through this program, FCCLA is reaching students in the school that are driving and others who will soon be getting their permits or license. All CCHS sophomores and juniors participated in the program. Through Drive It Right, the FCCLA hopes they encouraged students to make smart choices while behind the wheel.

HOMEMAKER CLUB NEWS

Evening Bells

Mold and mildew was the topic of a recent Homemakers meeting. Members learned that mold and mildew produce spores that become airborne, with some spores settling on other surfaces to create new mold colonies. These mold spores can be inhaled and cause allergic reactions or asthma episodes in certain people. The key to preventing mold growth is to find the source of excess moisture and control it. Helen Lewis presented the lesson March 12 at Marion Baptist Church with seven members present, and Myrle Myers hostess.

Members made plans to attend Ladies Night Out March 16 at the Crittenden Elementary School, The Extension Service, Homemakers and 4-H participated.

The Advisory Council will meet from 9:30 a.m. to noon March 25 at the Ed-Tech Center.

Future dates include Backroads Quilt Show April 25.

In May, come sew with us. Homemakers International Program and June 23 Taster's Luncheon will be at Marion Baptist Church Lifeline Center. More about this at a later meeting.

The club's next meeting will be at 11:30 a.m., April 9. Visitors are always welcome.

Baby goods

Crittenden County second graders recently conducted a community service project, collecting and donating baby items to the school system's Heart to Heart family resource center. Pictured are second grade representatives Sharon Collins, Dylan Peek, Madison Conger and Hunter Holeman.

Students of the month for January at Crittenden County High School are (front left) Angela O'Leary, Kara Berry, Kimberly Harris; (second row) Amanda Collins, Sarah Harvey, Tiera Taylor, Kaitlyn Maynard, Corey Berry; (third) Justin Smith, Alyssa Qualls, Emily Shewcraft, Amelia Gilley; and (back) Korey Mayes, James Artist, Dylan Clark. Heady

Paul and Frieda Heady will celebrate their 50th anniversary at 3 p.m., April 11 at the Sullivan Baptist Church Fellowship Hall. The reception was originally scheduled for Feb. 13 but was postponed due to the ice storm.

All friends and relatives are welcome. The couple requests no gifts, only your presence.

We extend our sincerest sympathies to the family of Luther Keith Shewcraft, 71, who died March 18. Keith was the elder son, and fifth child, of Luther Shewcraft and Oda Lee (Patton) Shewcraft. He was a loyal family man, a lover of music with a fine tenor voice, a great story teller and had a great fondness for his horses and trail rides. He will be missed by many.

We also send our sympathies to the family of Helen Baldwin, 103, who died March 16 at Hilltop Nursing Home in Kuttawa.

Chase Matthews and his wife, Jennifer, recently made a trip to the Boston area to meet with representatives from Homes for Our Troops. The group is a nationwide, non-profit, non-partisan organization founded in 2004 that builds or modifies specially adapted homes for the most severely wounded soldiers returning home from combat with life-altering disabilities, at no cost to the veteran. They assist severely injured servicemen and women and their immediate families by raising donations of money, building materials and professional labor and then coordinating the process of building a new home or adapting an existing home for handicapped accessibility. The finished home is then given to the veteran. Chase was designated the benefactor of their next project in our area, and the group is now taking donations. For more information, go online to www.homesforourtroops.org/matthews. (More information will also appear in a future article in this newspaper.)

Seven Springs had 74 in attendance for Sunday school, with several more arriving for worship services.

The Dycusburg Grocery had a standing room only crowd for music last weekend. If you get a chance, check out the little town's gathering place. You'd be pleasantly surprised with the musical talent.

COOPERATIVE EXTENSION SERVICE

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY
College of Agriculture

Crittenden County 2008 Report To The People

The Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service is a unique and informal education system that serves all Kentuckians. We offer programs in agriculture and natural resources, family and consumer sciences, 4-H/youth development and community and economic development. Workshops, demonstrations, publications and other methods are used to extend information from our land-grant universities to the public.

The Crittenden County Extension Office is now located at 112 W. Carlisle St., down from the Farmers Bank.
Business days are Monday - Friday, 8:00 A.M. - Noon and 1:00 P.M. - 4:30 P.M.

Family and Consumer Sciences

Nancy Hunt attended a Public Issues Leadership Development Conference in Washington, D. C. which included a visit with Congressman Ed Whitfield. Hunt served as president of the Kentucky Association of Family & Consumer Sciences Association in 2008. Pictured here with Hunt and the Congressman are Curt Judy, president of the Agriculture Agents Association and Chad Conway, president of the 4-H Agents Association.

Crittenden County Extension Homemakers

This informal educational organizational is affiliated with the University of Kentucky and is open to anyone. Topics studied are related to home, family, leadership and a community service. Micki Crider, County Homemaker President is shown here presiding at the annual officer training for members from the 5 local clubs. Recent lesson topics included improving your health & wealth, giving away personal possessions, salsa and safe salads. Mail membership is available for individuals who cannot attend club meetings.

Local extension staff provides basic information on food and nutrition. Taking part in community health fairs and school events are two ways information is distributed. Sue Parrent, (right) is the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program Assistant. Her program goal is to educate limited resource families with young children to plan nutritious meals on a limited budget, acquire safe food handling practices, improve food preparation skills and change behavior necessary to have a healthy lifestyle.

4-H Youth Development

Each year the Regional Recycling Corporation partners with the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service to host the Trash Sculpture contest which is open to all students grades K-12. The purpose of this event is to raise the awareness of the importance of recycling. This year 88 Crittenden County Students participated in the county event. The top three sculptures from each category (lower elementary, upper elementary, middle and high schools) then compete at the regional contest. This year three sculptures created by Crittenden County students won at the regional level.

The Crittenden County Cooperative Extension Service has partnered with the Ben Clement Mineral Museum through the 4-H "Geology Rocks!" program. By partnering with the mineral museum the members of the club have the opportunity to gain hands on learning about the geological make up of the surrounding area as well as working with each other to create their own mineral collections.

Community Development

Twenty Crittenden County High School juniors learned the inner workings of American business by participating in the American Private Enterprise System Program conducted by the U.K. Cooperative Extension Service, the Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce and the school system. Students studied the principles of various types of business organizations and the economy through presentations and discussions with local business leaders. Janson James and John Alvis were selected to attend the state and national level of the program.

Agriculture and Natural Resources

Annie's Project is a workshop that empowers farm women to be better business partners in the ever-changing, dynamic and complex world of Agriculture. 14 women participated in the 6 week workshop held collaboratively between Crittenden and Livingston Counties. Some of the topics participants learned about were goal setting/mission statements, how property is titled, retirement & estate planning, farm business plans, record keeping and commodity marketing.

15 people participated in a Basic Computer Class sponsored and hosted by Crittenden County Extension. This was a pilot program designed by Agriculture and Natural Resource agent Corey Payne along with UK College of Agriculture Ag Economics personnel. Participants learned about Internet, Email, and basic word processing over a 3 week period.

2009 Crittenden County Fair July 27 - August 1

The Crittenden County Extension Service coordinates the Crittenden County Lions Club Fair exhibits, livestock shows, pet show, bike rodeo and horse show. In 2008 there were over 900 entries in these events. Competition in the 4-H division selects exhibits for the Kentucky State Fair.

God does not need to be reminded of His promises

God does not need to be reminded of His promises. He made promises and bound Himself to us in a blood-sealed covenant so that we would know exactly what we could expect from Him. The purpose of His promises is to give us confidence and peace. Instead, sometimes we pray as if we are responsible for finding the scriptural promise that can be construed as guaranteeing the outcome we have prescribed, then taking that promise to God to hold Him to His Word.

This kind of pray-er treats God's Word as if it is a catalog. He decides what God should do, looks through the Bible to find a verse that will match his plan, and orders it. In doing so, as in catalog shopping, the pray-er skims over everything that holds no appeal. He picks and chooses.

Remember, Scripture is not God's words; it is God's Word. Scripture is a whole and cannot be cut apart and pasted together to match my agenda. His Word is not a catalog. It is His promise in writing.

When we approach prayer this way – as if God might try to get out of meeting our need, but since we have His promise, we can hold Him to it – once again, energy is spent in the wrong direction. What a burden it is for me to search the scripture and find exactly the right verse to bring to God's attention. Instead, as I turn my heart and my mind toward Him, He reminds me of His promises. He reminds me of what I can count on. The promises are not for me to use in getting my way with God, but they are for God to use to inspire faith and confidence within me.

I know there are sentences in Scripture which some have interpreted to mean that we are to remind God of His promises. For example, “Remember your word to your servant, for you have given me hope. My comfort in my suffering is this: Your promise preserves my life,” Psalms 119:49-50. This word translated “remember” means to put a mark on something so you can find it again. In our day, it would be like to highlight text on a page. Make it stand out. Emphasize it. Certainly, David was not fearful that God had forgotten His word.

Now let's look at an incident in which it appears that the petitioner was reminding God of His promises. Right now, read 2 Chronicles 20:1-29 and take note of Jehoshaphat's prayer. Notice that it sounds as if he is reminding God.

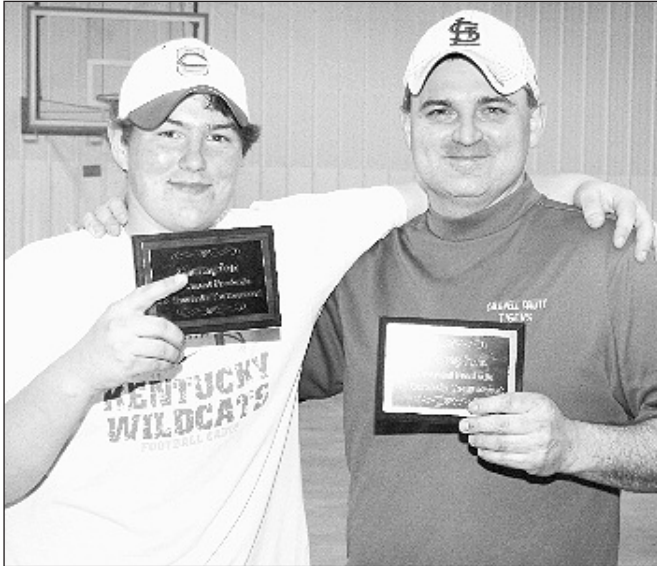

Let's dissect that some. Jehoshaphat came before the Lord to inquire of Him and to seek help from Him. The promises of God and the past faithfulness of the Lord began to fill Jehoshaphat's mind. What sounded like the petitioner reminding God, was really God reminding the petitioner. Notice who Jehoshaphat's faith and boldness grew with each declaration of God's promises. God was building a foothold for his faith.

God is watching over His word to see that it is carried out, according to Jeremiah 1:12. Every word He has spoken and every promise He has made live forever and are settled in the heavens. Rather than working to find a promise of which you can “remind” God, instead be still and let God remind you.

(Editor's note: This installment of Soul Desire is the final in a four-part series about misconceptions about prayer. The preceeding was adapted from "Live a Praying Life" by Dean.)

Cornhole champions

SUBMITTED PHOTO

The father-son duo of Mike and Cole Webster won the Fredonia Cumberland Presbyterian first-ever youth-sponsored Cornhole Tournament last weekend. More than 16 teams competed in the double-elimination tournament. The Websters beat Youth Director Reese Baker and Pastor Curtis Franklin in the championship game. “You can only imagine how much they loved that,” Baker joked.

Half of state's faithful claim evangelical

STAFF REPORT
Nearly half of Kentucky's religious faithful consider themselves evangelical protestants, belonging to any number of denominations in the fundamentalist traditions of God's inerrant word and salvation through Jesus. Of the 599 surveyed last year by the Pew Forum on Religion and Public Life, 49 percent profess to be evangelical protestant, with the Baptist faith, particularly Southern Baptists, claiming the largest portion of that figure.

Mainline Protestants, which include members of the United Methodist Church and Presbyterian Church USA, account for 17 percent of the faithful in Kentucky. Including Historically Black Churches, protestants account for 71 percent of believers in the Bluegrass State.

Catholics, however, make up the single largest denomination, with 14 percent of those surveyed claiming Catholicism. Mormon, Jehovah's Witness, Jewish, Muslim, Buddhist and Hindu faiths each account for less than a half percent of traditions.

Funeral services were held March 25 at Stout & Son Funeral Home Russiaville Chapel with Chris Tjapkes officiating. Military rites followed the service at the funeral home. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Marion Church of Christ and Hardin County (Ill.) Church of Christ high school youth joined for a third-place finish in their division of the West Kentucky Bible Bowl last weekend in Benton. The team included (from left) Carly Holbrook, Mary Hollamon, Ethan Hastie and Adam Lanham.

Marion Church of Christ's middle school team of (from left) Zac Collins, Micah Hollamon and Cole Foster placed first in its division of the West Kentucky Bible Bowl last weekend in Benton. Hollamon placed first in the seventh-grade and overall middle school divisions. Foster placed first in the sixth-grade division.

Strong on the Gospel of Luke

Youth from two area congregations competed in the West Kentucky Bible Bowl last weekend at the Benton Church of Christ. Fifteen congregations sent 340 individuals to the event.

Contestants were judged on knowledge of the Gospel of Luke.

Competing from the Marion Church of Christ were Mary Hollamon, Megan Collins, Zac Collins, Micah Hollamon and Cole Foster. Also at the contest were members from the Hardin County (Ill.) Church of Christ. Those members were Carly Holbrook, Ethan Hastie, Adam Lanham, Cameron Angleton, Wyatt Hall and Dylan Lanham.

The contest included individual multiple choice tests and quick-recall team competition. In quick recall Marion's middle school team of Zac Collins, Micah Hollamon and Foster won all four of their matches, placing first overall. Also, the Hardin County Middle School team of Angleton, Hall and Lanham placed third.

Individually, Micah Hollamon placed first in the seventh-grade division and first overall in the middle school division, while Foster placed first in the sixth-grade division.

Extended obituaries require a nominal fee. Ask your funeral director about fee-based obituaries.

Rockets ready; but Wood's out

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER

The expectations are once again high for the Rocket baseball team this spring.

The team returns to the diamond after last year's 15-19 season which featured a Fifth District title, Crittenden's first win in the regional tournament since 1977 and narrow loss at the hands of Henderson County in the Second Region Tournament semifinals.

With seven starters back from that team, Crittenden County should be the favorite to repeat as district champions and be a major contender in the region.

Another goal is to repeat as Class A Second Region champions after defeating Lyon County last year at Eddyville.

The program captured 35 wins over the last two seasons, and Rocket baseball skipper Denis Hodge is once again excited about his team's prospects this spring.

"You have to learn to win and I believe we have done that the last two years," he said.

After jumping out to a 6-1 lead after three innings against host Henderson County in the semifinal round of the regional tournament last year, it appeared that Crittenden was poised to pull an upset and advance to the championship game.

Unfortunately, a shaky bullpen could not finish the deal, and the Colonels came back to earn a 13-7 win over Crittenden. But it was still the deepest postseason run the Rockets have ever made in school history.

They will not have to wait long for a rematch as they host Henderson County in the season opener next Tuesday. They will also get an early opportunity to knock off last season's Second Region champion when Christian County comes to town next Thursday.

"If you want to be the best," Hodge said, referring to his team's tough opening week.

The Rockets will face the winner of the Livingston Central-Lyon County matchup in the Class A Second Region Tourney next month at Dawson Springs. If they are able to win that game, they will try and repeat as small-school regional champions the following night.

Lost to graduation were starting catcher and pitcher Jacob McMican, who has taken his talents to Three Rivers Junior College in Poplar Bluff, Mo., as well as utility players Zac Hewitt and Josh Tinsley.

Alex Wood, who has signed to play college baseball at Rend Lake Junior College, was one of the top starting hurlers in western Kentucky until he broke some bones in his hand recently during a fall at school. The big right-hander was the winning hurler last year in the team's opening round of the Second Region Tournament over Hopkinsville. Wood will be out about four weeks.

WOOD
Out with injury

Southpaw Ronnie Howton has possessed great off speed pitches during his high school career. The senior, who got the win in the Fifth District championship triumph over Lyon County last year, will also see time in the outfield.

"I think we have two of the best pitchers in western Kentucky," said the Rocket coach, commenting about the duo of Wood and Howton.

Senior Cody McDonald returns as the starting third baseman and can also pitch when needed. The veteran plays great defense and also comes through with the bat in clutch situations.

Senior transfer Anthony Aguilar, who moved here from Texas, has been competing for the vacant starting catcher's slot left by the graduation of McMican.

He has impressed the coaching staff with his arm and athletic ability and will be an added asset to the team's hopes this spring.

Junior J. D. Gray returns as the starting shortstop. Gray has good range and exhibits good speed. He leads the team in stolen bases the last two years.

Joey Pluskota will return as an outfielder and can also pitch, both as a spot starter and out of the bullpen. The junior has tremendous athletic ability and will be counted on heavily to play a key part this season.

Junior Alex Porter has developed into one of the best centerfielders to come through the program in recent years and will once again be counted on for his bat and stellar defense.

First baseman Dylan Clark returns as a two-year starter and has become very solid defensively, Hodge said. In addition, Clark also improved his hitting skills last year getting clutch RBIs at key moments.

Justin Lee, a junior infielder, possesses a steady glove at first base and is one of the quickest players on the team. The junior saw varsity playing time in a reserve role last year and will be a key component to the team this year.

Alec Pierce rounds out the deep junior class and has been working hard during preseason practice.

Casey Oliver returns as the starting second baseman and can also serve as a backup catcher. The sophomore brings an aggressive attitude to the diamond every day and gets the most out of his ability.

The quartet of Tanner Nix, Brian Berry, Colin Belt and Jesse Highfill round out the sophomore class and each should prove to be capable backups as the season continues.

Hodge lists sound pitching and solid defense against a rugged schedule as the keys for a successful campaign.

Hodge will once again be assisted by veteran coach Bryce Winders.

Saturday last day to register for youth baseball

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County youngsters wishing to sign up for summer baseball and softball will need to do so this weekend or miss the boat.

The Dugout Club is hosting its final player assessment workout and registration Saturday at the Crittenden County Middle School gym.

The price has been dropped considerably for players this season due to increased revenue taken in at the concession stand, said Dugout

Club Treasurer Todd Riley.

The club has also made a great number of improvements at the park, including adding clay to infields, purchasing new equipment and repairing lighting at fields.

Dugout Club officers are Reese Baker, president; Jered Myers, vice president; Jayme Young, secretary; and Riley, treasurer.

The skills assessment period this weekend is from 9 a.m., to noon Saturday. All new players in any league are required to attend the assessment.

There will be a $25 fee per child for baseball and softball and a $20 fee for T-ball and Co-Ed Rookie if received by Saturday.

Ages are as follows: T-Ball (ages 3-4, boys and girls) must turn 3 before May 1; Co-ed Rookie (ages 5-6, boys and girls) must turn 5 before May 1; Baseball Rookie (7-8), Minor (9-10), Major (11-12); Girls' Softball Minor (7-9), Major (10-12).

The Crittenden County girls' basketball team held its annual awards banquet last weekend. Among those honored were(front from left) Whitney Johnson, Challenge Award; Laken Tabor, Impact Player Award; Jessica Cozart, Rebounding, Foul Shooting and Field Goal Percentage Leader and Senior Award; Summer Courtney, Challenge Award; Hannah Brantley, Lady Rocket Pride Award; (back) Jenna Franklin, JV Leadership Award; Jessi Hodge, Points, Assists and Steals Leader and Most Valuable Player; Misty Wallace, Best Defense and 110 Percent Award; and Megan Roberts, JV Hustle Award.

Races draw 139; raise $2,400 for renovating park’s track

The inaugural Rocket Into Spring 5K Race and One-Mile Fun Run drew 139 participants Saturday at Marion-Crittenden County Park. The event raised $2,400 toward refurbishing the park’s track. Donations may be mailed to Full Body Fitness, 177 Nunn-Jent Rd, Marion, KY.

Five runners did both races, Angela Starnes, Mallory McDowell, Gavin Dickerson, Noah Dickerson and Chris Haire. The oldest participant in 5K was 83-year-old Dale Faughn. Youngest in 5K was eight-year-olds, Chris Haire and Gavin Dickerson.

Winners of fun run were middle school division and first overall were Noah Dickerson and Mallory McDowell; boys’ elementary division: Jesse Belt, 1st; Kyle Castiller, 2nd; and Cody Belt, 3rd; and girls’ elementary division: Faith Little, 1st; Francesca Pierce, 2nd; Destiny Nolan, 3rd.

Lady Rockets are off to great 3-0 softball start

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER

The Lady Rocket softball team is off to a hot 3-0 start with wins over Fulton County, Fort Campbell and Caldwell County to begin the spring.

After bombing Fort Campbell and Fulton County last Saturday in a tournament at Murray High by a combined 30-0 score, Crittenden turned back Caldwell County 4-2 on Monday for the best start in school history.

With eight returning starters from last year's 5-10 squad, the program's first ever Fifth District title is a primary goal this season.

Third-year coach Michael Gibson was pleased with his player's commitment during offseason workouts – evidenced by their unbeaten start.

"When our team works hard good things happen," he said.

After falling 1-0 and being no-hit in the opening round of the Fifth District Tournament at the hands of Livingston Central last spring, they will not have to wait very long to gain a measure of revenge. The Lady Rockets host the Lady Cardinals on April 9 and square off against them four days later in the Class A Second Region Tournament at Lyon County.

CCHS will also be busy participating in three regular season tournaments, traveling to Marshall County on April 10-11, to University Heights in early May at the Ballard Memorial Tournament to end the season.

"We have a chance to make some noise in several tournaments," said Gibson.

Despite not having any seniors on the roster, the Lady Rockets have several players which have gained a great deal of varsity playing time the last couple of years.

Sammie Jo Quisenberry returns as the starting hurler for the young, yet talented Lady Rocket squad.

Quisenberry had great off-season work ethic, playing on a summer team based out of Evansville, Ind.

Junior Torey Baker returns as the starting first baseman. She has a great glove and is a tremendous baserunner.

Junior Hannah Brantley exhibits a great work ethic at second base and is also a good clutch hitter.

Elizabeth Kirby and Talley Nix, return at shortstop and third base, respectively, providing the Lady Rockets with an all-junior infield.

Talaney Werne is one of the few Crittenden players who can play three positions. The junior gives her team another left fielder and can also play both third base and shortstop.

Newcomer Laiken Chambliss rounds out the sophomore class and will be an asset to the team as the season progresses.

Shannah Williams returns as the starting catcher and can play centerfield when given the opportunity.

Along with calling a good game behind the dish, she also has a steady bat, recording several clutch hits last spring.

Freshmen Emily Owen and Jenna Odom can each pitch and will give Quisenberry a break from time to time.

Outfielders Taylor Keister and Jessica Tinsley round out a talented freshman class and will be key cogs in the success of the team this year.

Turkey hunting is game of gadgets

As a guide I try to travel light but still keep a variety of calls and other gear to keep the clients chances as high as possible. Sometimes I still feel I have more than is really needed. But as many of you know as turkey hunters, some days it takes everything in your bag of tricks to make the hunt work. Let's start with calls.

The majority of my calling begins with friction calls. First thing in the morning when birds are still on the roost, I love the sound of the Tom Coffin push/pull by Knight & Hale.

To my ears it produces the sweetest tree yelps and soft clucks I've heard. I'll use it for other soft calling during the day but early morning is when I use it the most. The Ol' Yeller Sla-tek from the same company gets the nod on windy days and when I'm trying to locate birds on up into the day.

I also carry the Old Glory ceramic slate by Primos. It seems to produce higher-pitched yelps and clucks that pull gobblers from those stubborn longbeards. A box call by Cane Creek is another that I use on super windy days. The extremely high-pitched call really cuts the wind and reaches a long way to rouse far off gobblers. I also carry an array of diaphragms, mainly multiple-reeded calls, usually three- or four-reed models by Knight & Hale and Hunter's Specialties. I use mouth calls to locate birds and when it's time to pull the trigger.

As for locaters I carry the Shock Gobbler Owl and Magnum Crow by Knight & Hale. I haven't really experimented with other locaters.

These are the calls I use and the ones I prefer. Whatever brands or types you use will work great. The key is to keep a variety because you never know what that gobbler may want to hear from day to day.

I also carry a pair of Carry-Lite decoys – a jake and a hen. I really don't use them a whole lot, mainly in ground blind situations with bowhunters and when I have kids in the blind. I've had some really good luck with them but on the same token, I've had them bite me in the backside on occasion.

I try to keep it simple as far as other gear goes. Extra gloves and face masks for myself and my clients. Chalk and sand paper for maintaining my friction calls are important. Water and snacks are things to keep you going during an all-day outing. Tick and mosquito repellent are a must in the spring woods. especially if you hunt in bottomlands where standing water is common. I also carry a small folding saw. It's great for Turkey hunting has become a game of gadgets. If you find a combination of these items and tools that works well for you, stick with it.

SPORTS ROUNDUP ...

BASEBALL

Rockets strand too many runners

Stranding 11 baserunners ruined any hopes of the Rockets springing an upset over Second Region foe Henderson County at Marion in the season opener Tuesday. Crittenden lost 7-3. CCHS put the first two runners on base in three innings, but could not get timely hits at key moments. The game was called after six innings due to heavy rain. Catcher Casey Oliver went 2-for-3 with a walk and scored a run for Crittenden.

Pesticide applicators certification available

There will be a Private Pesticide Applicators Certification Monday at the Marion Ed-Tech Center located on Industrial Drive. Three sessions will be offered. Classes are at 9:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., and 6:30 p.m. Only one session is required for certification. This certification is for anyone who sprays pesticides on their own farm. The certification is required to purchase restricted use pesticides. If your certification card has expired, is about to expire or you are needing to be certified for the first time, you need to attend one of these classes. Call the Crittenden County Extension office at 965-5236 to register.

WHIP signups are due at NRCS by April 15

USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is accepting applications for the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP) signup. Landowners may apply for WHIP at any time however; applications received by April 15 will be evaluated and considered for the 2009 program year. Applications received after that date will be held until the next evaluation period. WHIP provides landusers an opportunity to improve wildlife habitat. The program provides financial incentives for installing eligible practices on land they own or control. The landuser must devote at least 10 acres to eligible wildlife practices.

In Kentucky, the primary focus of WHIP is to improve early successional and forestland habitats for declining species and other wildlife. Restoring remnant prairies, planting native grasses, shrubs, and trees, implementing wildlife beneficial forest stand improvements and creating shallow water areas are some of the eligible practices for the program. Excluding livestock from sensitive streams and woodlands is also important focus under Kentucky's 2009 WHIP. Since WHIP focuses on improvement to wildlife cover, food plots are not eligible under the program. WHIP applications are evaluated and ranked to determine which applications provide the most beneficial habitats. To apply for WHIP, contact your local NRCS office in Marion at 965-3921, ext 3, or in Salem at 988-2180, ext.3.

USDA accpeting EQUIP registration for FY 09

The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is accepting applications for Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) at your local USDA Service. Landusers may apply for EQIP at any time. Applications received by April 15 will be considered for this (federal fiscal year 2009) program year. Applications received after April 15 will be held until the next evaluation period. EQIP applications are evaluated and ranked using criteria set forth by local work groups to determine which applications provide the best environmental benefits and address the resource concerns of their local area. EQIP provides cost-share assistance to persons engaged in livestock or agricultural production on eligible land. Cost-share rates vary by practice. All conservation practices are subject to NRCS technical standards adapted for local conditions. For applications selected for funding, an EQIP plan of operations will be developed with the landuser to identify appropriate conservation practices. EQIP practices in Kentucky include, but are not limited to, pipeline and watering facility, grassed waterway, diversion, forest stand improvement and fencing. Contact your local NRCS office in Crittenden County at 118 East Bellville Street by calling 965-3921, ext. 3 or in Livingston County at 360 West Main Street in Salem, KY. The phone number in Livingston County is 988-2180, ext. 3.

Other programs, deadlines from FSA, NRCS

The FSA and NRCS offices in Crittenden and Livingston counties are offering the following programs their respective application deadlines:

•Low-interest emergency (EM) loans from USDA FSA. EM loan applications for physical and production losses will be received through Nov. 2

•NRCS is accepting applications for the Emergency Watershed Protection Program Floodplain Easements. Applications will be accepted through March 27. The purpose of this funding is to acquire floodplain easements on eligible lands and to restore their floodplain functions and values to natural conditions to the greatest extend practical. These lands will be acquired and restored in an accelerated manner in order to address critical resource concerns and to help stimulate the economy. You may call 965-3921, ext. 3, in Marion or 988-2180, ext. 3, in Salem.

Other programs, deadlines from FSA, NRCS

Signup for the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP) for ice storm damage is still underway at the Farm Service Agency. ECP is administered and funded by the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). ECP provides cost-share assistance when disaster damage is so severe that recovery without USDA funds is unlikely. The county committee is responsible for determining that damage will be so costly to rehabilitate that taxpayer assistance is justified to restore the land to productive agricultural use. Producers have until April 13, 2009 to make an application for cost-share assistance.

Livingston Justice Center dedicated Friday

STAFF REPORT

It will become official on Friday.

Livingston County's new justice center, located at 122 W. Adair St. in Smithland, will be dedicated in a public ceremony slated to begin at 11 a.m.

"Today marks a great day in the history of Livingston County's judicial system," Livingston County Judge-Executive Chris Lasher said. "The judicial system is the foundation of our democratic society and this building will continue to ensure democracy exists in our community for decades to come."

Livingston County Justice Center opened its doors for business last month, replacing the 164-year-old courthouse in the $6.8 million facility's shadow. The new two-story red brick building has limestone accents and is topped with a cupola, similar to that on the old courthouse. It gives the county approximately 28,950 square feet and includes space for Circuit Court, District Court, the Office of Circuit Court Clerk and ancillary services.

The new court facility increases efficiency of services and public flow. It is equipped with the latest computer, video and networking technology. The design also provides the highest level of Kentucky court security through a single-point entry with magnetometers and security personnel. In addition, prisoners will be segregated from the public by separate entrances and corridors.

The Livingston County Justice Center was designed to meet the standards required by the Administrative Office of the Courts. The project was completed by JRA architects of Louisville and B.H. Green & Son of Paducah. Hilliard Lyons was the financial agent. It took 21 months to construct. Weather delays pushed the project between three and four months behind schedule.

Delays notwithstanding, Lasher said the new building should last even longer than the one it is replacing.

Chief Justice of Kentucky John D. Minton Jr., and Judge-Executive Lasher will be among the speakers at the dedication ceremony. State legislators, circuit and district judges, county magistrates, AOC staff and local officials are also expected to attend.

For more information, contact Lasher at 928-2105.

Hillbilly hoedown

Sallie Mae Birchbuckle, played by Paula Miniard (left), consoles her gender-bending sibling Mary Lou Emma Jo Bobby Sue Birchbuckle, played by B.J. Tinsley (center), as the children's mother, Gardenia Birchbuckle, brought to life by Becky Tyner-Belt, tells the squalling daughter just how loved she really is. The Birchbuckles, of course, are fictitious, but will be on stage at Fohs Hall at 7 p.m., Saturday in "The Hilarious Hillbilly Massacre," a play by Peter DePietro that will serve as this year's annual murder mystery dinner theatre from the Fohs Hall Community Arts Foundation. The cast of more than a half-dozen will interact with diners and those in the gallery for a fun-loving production directed by Susan Alexander and Kathleen Guess. The show will include some off-key singing, colorful language and some racey humor. Tickets for the dinner are sold out, but gallery tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for children.

Yearbook recognized for quality

SUBMITTED ARTICLE

Crittenden County High School's yearbook staff has been recognized by Taylor Publishing with an Award of Excellence honoring its accomplishments in yearbook design and coverage. The Rockette, the high school's annual yearbook, is a theme featured in the 2009 Yearbook Yearbook. Judges selected this yearbook among the best of the best of 2008.

The yearbook adviser is Tammy Duvall.

"Having Crittenden County High School featured in Yearbook Yearbook is an award with rewards," education specialist Judi Coolidge said. "Your outstanding work offers inspiration to thousands of other students who aspire to your level of excellence."

Yearbooks published by Taylor for the 2008 school year were evaluated in one or more of the following areas: cover design, theme development, layout design, photo content and secondary pages. Taylor publishing names only the top five percent of yearbook staffs as the best of the best for their outstanding yearbook achievement.

Taylor Publishing, headquartered in Dallas, is a major publisher of yearbooks nationwide.

CAF hosting Fort Knox military band show May 9

STAFF REPORT

Fohs Hall Community Arts Foundation is hosting several upcoming productions at historic Fohs Hall in Marion. This weekend's local production of the stage comedy "The Hilarious Hillbilly Massacre" will kick off a list of spring and early-summer events that includes several musical performances.

"Massacre," a mystery dinner theater performance, opens at 7 p.m., Saturday for one show only. The next CAFsponsored event is Panorama, in which high school students will showcase their talents on April 17.

Musical performances will include the Crittenden County High and Middle School Chorus' spring show on May 7 and the Fort Knox Military Band concert ensemble two days later. Della Grigsby will perform a cello concert July 5.

The CAF annual meeting is June 13. Visit www.marionkentucky.us/CAF for more information.
