Sunday set aside to honor Mothers

Sunday marks a special day for an estimated 82.5 million women in the U.S. – Mother's Day. The recognition of mothers in this country dates back to 1870 when Julia Ward Howe, who wrote the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," urged an international day to honor peace and mothers. However, it was not until May 10, 1908, that the first official Mother's Day celebration took place at Andrew's Methodist Church in Grafton, W. Va. Each mother in the congregation was given two carnations, which are used today as a special Mother's Day flower. In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed the second Sunday in May to be celebrated nationwide as Mother's Day.

Spring 2009 dry compared to 2008

Through the first three days of May, 2009 was a bit warmer and dryer as compared to last year, according to local weather watcher Benda Underdown. In fact, this spring has been significantly dryer thus far than at this point in 2008.

Underdown reports almost six inches less of rain in March, April and the first three days of May 2009 when compared to the same period last year, when 18.1 inches had fallen. This year, only 12.5 inches fell in those 64 days.

Other weather data reported from March 1 through May 3 by Underdown includes the coldest and warmest days of each month (day of month in bold followed by temperature), as well as the rainfall in inches:

	COLDEST	WARMEST	RAIN
March '088, 21°2, 74°11.2
March '093, 11°23, 76°4.7
April '0815, 29°25, 85°4.4
April '098, 30°27, 85°6.0

Insurance tax falling short of expectations

STAFF REPORT

Last winter and early spring, many in the community were up in arms about the idea of paying a two-percent insurance premium tax.

Now, county officials are wondering if the strife it caused was worth the reward.

Crittenden County Judge-Executive Fred Brown says the insurance tax is generating far less revenue than anticipated. In fact, it's about half of what was expected.

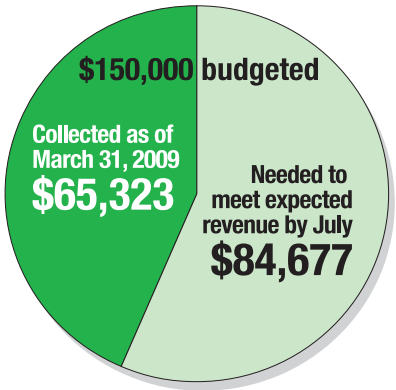

Through its first three quarters, the tax on all lines of insurance – except for health, life and crop insurance – has raised $65,322.58. The county had budgeted for $150,000 in new revenue from the tax.

"It's not been anywhere close to as much as we thought it would be," said Magistrate Percy Cook.

Members of Crittenden Fiscal Court

County Insurance Tax

Through three quarters of Fiscal Year 2009, Crittenden Fiscal Court had collected $65,323 in taxes off insurance premiums, less than half of what had been budgeted for the 12-month cycle.

were almost split on imposing the tax last year, voting 4-2 in favor of the measure.

Judge Brown said the data used to estimate the amount of revenue that would be generated were taken from the Kentucky Department of Insurance. He said the county was very conservative in its figuring, too.

"We actually backed off a little from what the Department of Insurance gave us," Brown said, pointing out that there was some indication that the tax would generate around $175,000.

So far, 81 different insurance companies have paid the tax, which is due quarterly based on premiums paid in that three-month period. Companies have until the end of the month following each quarter to pay what they owe. However, Brown said some payments come in after the deadline. He said some payments have even gone to the wrong place.

"We've had at least two payments that we know of go to the City of Crittenden," Brown said. Of course, Crittenden is in Grant County.

The county had originally talked about a four-percent insurance tax, equal to what the City of Marion collects. Yet, after a great deal of debate, magistrates settled on the two-percent levy.

County officials had hoped the tax would be a stop-gap for a budget that's losing revenue from state-funded sources and increased expenses, especially from issues related to last winter's ice storm.

Could the tax rate go up since revenue is less than anticipated?

Cook said no. "I wouldn't even consider asking for it," Brown added.

Hart of a 'Cat

Marion man named UK scholar-athlete of year

STAFF REPORT

Brad Hart closed out his undergraduate career at the University of Kentucky with perhaps his greatest honor last week, earning a CATSPY Award as UK's Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

The University of Kentucky Athletics Association presented 27 honors at the seventh annual CATSPY Awards held last Wednesday at Memorial Coliseum to recognize athletic and academic performance during the 2008-09 year. With co-winners in some categories, a total of five teams and television and film, respectively, the CATSPYs are presented during a formal affair with entertainment and a great deal of media attention.

"I knew I was nominated, but I didn't think I would win. It was totally a surprise," Hart said. "I almost didn't go to the event because I had a paper I needed to stay home and write."

Hart finished his undergraduate studies in finance and political science this week. He has been accepted to the University of Kentucky Law School and will begin classes this fall. Hart will graduate summa cum laude Saturday. Going into his final semester, the senior had a 3.83 grade-point average.

A longsnapper for the Wildcats' football team, Hart was a two-year starter and played in Kentucky's last two bowl game victories.

While contributing to the football program, Hart was often singled out for his scholarly accomplishments. Recently, he was awarded the Hart will return to Marion this summer where he will work as an assistant at Stout Law Office.

Relay goal set at only $24,000

STAFF REPORT

When all is said and done, all that matters is that money was once again raised to help battle cancer.

That's Frank Blackburn's take on this year's Crittenden County Relay for Life, fraught with roadblocks for reaching a humble goal of $24,000 after two disappointing years. Within a community still reeling from January's massive ice storm and plagued by double-digit unemployment amid a national recession, even the weather seems to be plotting against a successful year.

"We felt like we had to go on," said Blackburn, co-chair of the event now in its 13th year in Crittenden County. "Cancer's not taking a year off."

Indeed, The American Cancer Society, the sponsoring organization of Relay events across the nation, predicts that more than a half-million Americans will die from cancer this year. And nearly 1.5 million new cases of the disease will be diagnosed.

So far, five of the seven teams formed for the 2009 Relay for Life set for Friday at Marion-Crittenden County Park have turned in $13,000 toward this year's goal. At press time, the contributions raised by the other two teams were not available.

"I'm pleased with what we have so far," said Sue Padget, who is splitting the chairman duties with Blackburn for a second year.

After coming up $12,434 short of the $35,000 goal for the 2007 event, last year's Relay in Crittenden County again fell on hard times, failing to reach even half of the initial 2008 goal of $40,000. Factors of the slumping economy and a rainout of the June event at the park sent donations tumbling to $18,191 after the rescheduled, scaled-

Powwow hosts blend of native culture, wares

STAFF REPORT

Rain or shine, Native Americans from around the region will gather in Marion this weekend for an intertribal powwow, sharing a unique culture and showcasing age-old ceremonies and traditions.

"It's sort of like a Native American rendezvous," said Jerry DeOre, one of the local organizers, describing what has become an annual event in the county.

In some American Indian cultures, the powwow was a time of celebration, with feasting, dancing and singing centered around huge gatherings of tribes. In contemporary America, powwows feature much of the same, but have transformed into events where both Native American and

Mothers: The world’s makers or breakers

Fathers are not left out when you talk about mothers because every one has a mother. Thank God for the day America has set aside to honor mothers.

The first commandment God gave in which He included a promise is: "Honor your father and your mother that your life might be long upon the earth."

A mother, be she good, evil, indifferent, negligent, Christian or sinner has the most influence on her children's lives than any other source.

If only every mother would understand that, she would maybe be more interested in doing a better job and feel rewarded and blessed in ways no other human being can feel.

It has been said that mothers rock the cradles that rule the world. How very true. Somehow, Hitler's mother failed miserably and his rule ruined the lives of millions. The mother of John and Charles Wesley had 19 children, taught all of them their first eight years of schooling, including Latin and Hebrew without any help.

John Wesley started the Methodist movement. All the other children grew in stature as Christians. What a blessing that mother has been to all the world.

Fathers are mimicked and honored much, and they, too, are products of their mothers, but mothers carve a special place in their children's lives and her image is mirrored more and more as they age, be it good or bad.

This is so understanding, as the child was conceived in the mother, tied to her very existence, fed by her blood stream and we are now learning also influenced by her mental attitude while developing those nine months.

Children see our actions in all of life and what we do is written indelibly upon their minds far more than what we say. Words will be forgotten but actions will live on in minds and hearts.

Thank God for all good mothers and fathers. Those roles in life are the most important and of eternal endurance far more than any and all other roles those two people will ever play.

God says in His Word: "All souls are mine, as the soul of the father so is the soul of the son." and "Children are an heritage of the Lord."

So mothers and fathers, remember, you are raising God's children and you will be held accountable when you come face to face with Him on what kind of job you did. Did you raise His children to love Him with all their heart, soul, mind and strength and their neighbor as themselves, or did you raise them to suit your self? God knows, and if their lives are full of God and happiness that will tell the story even before you face Him at the end.

Thank God for my precious mother Mrs. Minnie (Underdown) Easley (1888-1979), who gave birth to 13 children, lost two while very young, raised those 11 and the four by dad's previous wife, Lucy Woody, who passed away while the children were very young. When she lost dad we 11 were still at home ages from 2-19, eight of us under 11.

Mama taught us by precept and example, to keep our word, work hard and always do it the very best we could, and if it weren't good, then do it over.

She exemplified endurance and 'stickum' power would get you to where you wanted to go; you would feel good about yourself if you learned to do everything that was put before you; do it well and always finish it; and that you can do anything you want to do if you want it badly enough; make our own way and not depend upon someone else to do it for us.

She always taught us that virtue in young ladies was what a good man would value above all else. She let us read our dad's love letters to her before they were married that mirrored that truth, and their love lasted beyond the grave.

My ode to her is her loyalty to him and to his children. What the world needs is a mother like mine. She gave her love, her life, her time. She never said: "I'm through, I'm walking out on you." What the world needs is a mother like mine.

A blessed and happy Mother's Day to all mothers out there. You are loved, needed and so very valuable and important. All you children out there tell yours so. What I'd give if I could tell mine one more time.

Shelter pets need med clearance

To the editor:

I recently adopted a dog from (Crittenden Animal) Shelter. Her name is now Cookie. She is a gray and white Shih Tzu-mix. Very quiet and timid acting.

I made her appointment to be spade and dropped her off on Monday night. The vet called me the following morning with a list of things that were wrong with the dog.

I assumed she had just had a litter of pups, but no, she was indeed very pregnant. So that cost more than the voucher would allow.

I had also asked Dr. Davis to check if she had a kidney infection because she was squatting a long time with not a lot of results. She did have a urinary tract infection, for which I bought the prescription to clear that up. The next bit of information was very shocking. She tested with a hot positive for heartworms.

As I understand this can mean she's had them for a long while or she has a lot of them. The treatment for this would cost over $300 with no guarantee of her survival. I do not have the money available for such treatment, regardless. I have already spent close to $275 on her including adoption fee, vet bill and grooming.

The money is an issue, of course, but my biggest concern is that I was not made aware of any of this prior to adoption. I have considered bringing her back to the shelter, but was informed that now that she is diagnosed, she will not be eligible for adoption and would be put down.

I never expected to take home a sick dog. My intentions were to rescue an animal and give it a good home; not to become attached and love her only to watch her die. My kids have already taken to her as well.

I was impressed the days we were there of how clean the shelter was, but I am so disappointed that major health problems are not made known to potential adoptors. I have decided to keep Cookie and do the best by her that I can, but this should not happen to another family.

CCES assistant principal selected

A new assistant principal to replace a retiring Sylvia Thurman at Crittenden County Elementary School has been chosen.

Rhonda Callaway of Sturgis will take over duties from Thurman on July 1. Callaway has spent the last 10 years in the Union County school district, splitting four years as principal at both the alternative and middle schools. Prior to Union County, she worked five years in the Daviess County school system.

Though her entire career has been in secondary education, she is looking forward to a new challenge with children in fifth grade and under.

"It will be a welcome change," she said. "I'm excited."

She holds master's degrees in administration and secondary education from Murray State University, as well as a bachelor of science in secondary education from Indiana University.

Callaway is eager to get started in her new position under Principal Melissa Tabor.

"The community seems so supportive of this school system," she said.

Callaway and her husband Mark have three children – ages 16 to 24 – and have lived the last 13 years in Union County. Her husband's uncle was the late Jack Voss, who operated a farm implement dealership in Marion for many years.

Post office issues loose-dog notice

If problem dogs persist for city mail carriers, owners could be forced to make alternate arrangements to receive their mail, warns Marion Postmaster Barry Chandler.

Last year, 3,184 letter carriers across the nation were bitten by dogs. Already this year, one city carrier has been bitten by a dog in Marion.

"If there is a dog out, you will not receive mail delivery that day," Chandler said. "And if this is something that keeps happening, that mail delivery will stop and you will be required to either rent a P.O. box or have mail transferred to a different address."

Animals inside the city of Marion should be restrained at all times, and owners anywhere Crittenden County should purchase a dog license from the county's animal shelter on U.S. 60 East of Marion.

Fredonia man hurt in debris removal

A contract debris removal worker was injured in Caldwell County Thursday morning when he was hit by a falling tree.

Don Russell of Fredonia was cutting a tree near the intersection of Frog Lane and Pleasant Hill Road in the Farmersville area of Caldwell County when the tree kicked out and hit him.

Russell was transported to the Regional Medial Center in Madisonville where he was believed to have a broken or dislocated hip. He was expected to undergo surgery sometime last week.

Food drive aiming for 5,300 meals

Fifth Third Bank on Friday kicked off its community food drive named "5,300 meals: The Ultimate Deposit." The drive is part of the bank's annual employee and customer celebration of "Fifth Third Day," which is every May 3. The goal of the drive is to provide at least 5,300 meals to the hungry of the tri-state area, which includes western Kentucky.

Area residents are invited to participate in the food drive by delivering non-perishable food items to any area Fifth Third Bank branch, including Marion's North Main Street office. All collected food will be donated to the Tri-State Food Bank and will be disbursed to food pantries around the tri-state.

Salem Day reset for 2nd attempt

Last weekend's Salem Day was rained out, but organizers will give it another try on Saturday.

Plans for the event remain the same, with the festivities kicking off at 10 a.m., with a car show and a variety of vendors. Visitors are asked to bring a lawn chair and relax for a day of fun, entertainment and prizes.

This weekend's event should be spared. Saturday's forecast is calling for highs in the mid-70s and partly cloudy skies.

Salem Day is sponsored by the Salem Garden Club, which will have a plant sale including water plants, bird-feeders and garden art. There will be a kids zone with games and live entertainment until 6 p.m.

Emily Shelby is hoping to sell almost a half-ton of onions to support medical treatment for crippled children. On Monday, 900 pounds of sweet vidalia onions were delivered to Fashion Beauty Salon on East Carlisle Street in Marion to sell in conjunction with the Shriners annual sale. For the past five years, Shelby, pictured above with the onions, and her beauty salon have been the top sellers out of the Princeton Shrine Club, where her late husband Evan was a member. Last year, she sold 700 pounds, with proceeds going to help Shriners Hospital for Children in Lexington. "I know many people from Crittenden County who have gone there," Shelby said. Even though her husband, a Shriner for more than a half-century, passed away last year, Shelby said she wants to continue the tradition in order to help children in need. The onions sell for $10 for a 10-pound sack.

non-Native American people meet to socialize and honor native culture.

DeOre said that is exactly the focus of the weekend's affair at Marion-Crittenden County Park. The intertribal affair, hosted by Frankie "Kamama" Sutton, along with her husband Charley and numerous volunteers, will mix Cherokee, Choctaw, Chickasaw, Lakota, Pawnee and other bloodlines in the performances of native song and dance, as well as in the foods and crafts for sale.

"Natives will never be in danger of losing their heritage or culture, because there are people in this world that really do care about the plight of the Native Americans," said Ellis Rouse, vice president and powwow chairman of the Trail of Tears Commission in Hopkinsville.

DeOre, who claims Cherokee blood, said 14 vendors had signed on as of press time Wednesday, and the masters of ceremonies and top performers in the region have been signed on for the three-day affair beginning Friday. While many may not fully understand the traditions, DeOre said more are coming to respect them.

"If nothing else, a lot of people like to come out and see the regalia," he said.

The powwow begins Friday, but DeOre said that day is set aside for elementary school children who will be making a field trip to the event.

"We just have fun with the kids," he said.

Saturday, the powwow opens to the public at the soccer fields at Marion-Crittenden County Park. Gates open at 10 a.m., with performers

Museum exhibit explores culture of Native Americans

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Historical Museum will be celebrating Native American history and culture this month in conjunction with this weekend's intertribal powwow in Marion.

A second installment of the Kentucky Historical Society's Museums To Go Exhibit will be on display at the local museum during the month of May. The exhibit, expected later this week, is "Of Father Sky and Mother Earth: Early Southeastern Indian Art and Culture." It features nine panels detailing the cultures first encountered by Europeans when they arrived in the New World.

The museum is located at 124 E. Beillville St., and is open from 10 a.m., to 3 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday thorough the month of October. Admission is free.

Barry "Red Bird" Brown of Sturgis is the head veteran, who acts as a master of ceremonies for the event. The head female dancer is Debbie "Wind Dancer" McDarrest, with Brown's son, Navin, as head male dancer. Mother Earth Beat, who DeOre calls the No. 1 drum in the South, will serve as host drum for the local powwow, alongside Black Eagle Spirit of Rockport, Ind., as invited drum.

DeOre said a second Grand Entry will be performed at 6 p.m., Saturday, giving those who missed the noon performance a second chance before the powwow shuts down around dusk.

Sunday's schedule begins with Grand Entry at 1 p.m., giving churchgoers time to arrive. Since it is Mother's Day, all moms in attendance will receive a special gift. Sunday's activities will close around 5 p.m.

Rouse, of Yankton Sioux descent, said he plans to attend this weekend's powwow to lend support to those eager to spread the truth about Nano outs, the visitors cashed in on those scoring chances.

An RBI-double from Dylan Clark plated courtesy runners Tanner Nix and Dylan Thornton to give the upset-minded Rockets a 2-0 lead. One batter later, cleanup hitter Cody McDonald smashed an RBI-single to score Gray and give his team a 3-0 advantage.

With starting hurler Howton not getting enough defensive help behind him, the Colonels got on the board in the bottom of the third, scoring an unearned run on a pair of errors.

With two outs in the fourth, another costly Crittenden miscue allowed another Colonel run to score and trim the deficit to 3-2.

Fortunately, Howton pitched a solid ballgame, only surrendering two hits after the first inning and stranding seven baserunners through six innings.

Still leading 3-2 heading into the bottom of the seventh, Howton walked the leadoff hitter and Rocket skipper Denis Hodge elected to lift him for Alex Wood.

Wood made his first appearance of the spring on the mound after breaking a bone in his hand during pre-season.

After the first batter he faced laid down a bunt that Wood was unable to field, the big righthander turned up the heat. With the potential tying and winning runs on base, Wood retired the next two batters to put the visitors back in good shape to record an upset.

After the next Colonel hitter reached via a hit batsman, Wood recorded the save, getting the following batter on a ground ball to third and stranding the bases loaded.

Along with pitching two perfect games in his high school career, winning a Fifth District Championship and winning a game in the Second Region Tourney, Wood rates the win over Christian as another huge moment in his baseball memory book.

"It means a whole lot. It is a pretty good accomplishment," Wood said.

Hodge said the regular season win Saturday was the biggest of his 14-year tenure and is proud of his team for closing the deal.

"There is no comparison. I am very happy with our kids," said the coach.

While disappointed that his team committed four errors in the game, he was pleased with some of the key plays made at pivotal times.

Rocket junior center fielder Alex Porter recorded six putouts while Gray made some great throwing plays from his shortstop position.

"We made some great plays to win the game," said Hodge.

Poor defense vs. Maroons

Shoddy defense cost the Rockets last Thursday as visiting Madisonville exploited some of those five errors to record a 6-0 shutout in a game called after five innings due to heavy rain.

A hit, walk and a Rocket error in the top of the first provided the Maroons with the only run they would need as they took an early 1-0 lead right out of the chute.

Madisonville starting hurler Michael Rainwater retired 11 straight Rocket batters at one juncture, tossing a two-hit shutout in the rain-shortened game.

Rockets Alex Porter and Joey Pluskota produced the only hits for their team in the setback.

With one out in the Maroon fourth inning, the game was halted about 35 minutes as lightning struck nearby.

After the game resumed, the bottom of the fifth was played in a heavy downpour as the Rockets suffered their first shutout of the spring.

"We didn't take care of things defensively and they kicked our tails," coach Hodge said.

Backwards to Freedom Church events, news

Another one of our small communities located just west of Marion on Ky. 91 North was the community of Freedom.

I've not been able to find a great deal of history on this area, but through some of the community items found in the archives of The Crittenden Press, we can go back in time and see what was happening, according to the village correspondent to the newspaper.

It's interesting to learn about other things in our past, like some of our old roads that are no longer there. It seems the Freedom Church Road, that today isn't very long, in earlier times was used to weave its way through the countryside and come out near the old Crittenden Springs Hotel.

From the archives of The Crittenden Press, July 7, 1888 here are some Freedom Community Items:

The recent cool weather has not been remarkably conducive to the rapid growth of the young corn.

Rev. Mr. Paris, I believe, preached at Freedom on Sunday last to rather a small congregation.

I am told the attendance at our school election last Saturday was very slim, which should not have been the case, as these elections are of the most direct importance of any held in the state, and should call forth more interest than any other.

Three new directors were elected in our district, as Jess Hughes and Bob Fritts resigned and Uncle Jimmie Brown's time expired. John Grissom, Press Fritts and John Canada were elected as the new trustees.

If there should be any extra levy made this year for wood, etc., like there was last, the trustees should see that every patron bears his share of the expense. Last year, some half a dozen or so of us, paid for the wood and for all the school furniture; and I, for one, propose to keep my money until I see the others pony up the cash.

On Sunday last, I spent the day with my esteemed old friend Ira Hughes and his good wife, and it is needless to say I had an enjoyable visit with this kind-hearted couple. Mr.

Hughes showed me over his farm, and among other things, he has some 15 or 20 acres of the finest growing wheat I have seen this year. From one of his fields were plainly seen the blue outline of the Illinois bluffs, 15 miles away, while to the west, a mile distant, the lofty hills and deep valleys surrounding Crittenden Springs loomed before us as grand and majestic as at creation's dawn.

I find a good deal of dissatisfaction expressed among those living along the line of road leading by Freedom Church to Crittenden Springs, and known as the Old Springs Road. It seems that the Crittenden Springs Company has fenced in this road near its property and hence the kicking.

Mr. Ira Hughes informs me that he secured the order of court himself many years ago making this a county road from the Crittenden Springs to its intersection with the Salem and Ford's Ferry road near Marion. This being the case, who gave the Crittenden Springs Company authority to fence up a county road; or if the road has been vacated as a public highway, who assumed the right to do so without the consent of a majority of those living along the line of road, of whom I am one. We that live along the road intend to fight to get the road opened up again.

In the May 20, 1921 edition of The Press, another interesting and informative article was written about this area.

Last Sunday was a big day for Freedom church and for those who were fortunate enough to be present on that occasion. It was a big day in many respects, big from the fact that one of the largest and most wide awake country Sunday schools of the county meets there every Sunday, and last Sunday the school out-did itself in point of attendance and interest. It was a big day from the standpoint of attendance

•Mary Travis was pictured on the front page of The Press sifting through the wreckage of what used to be an above-ground swimming pool at her home on the Tolu-Sheridan road. High winds ripped the pool, which was full of water at the time, and scattered debris around.

News from 1959:

•A Girl Scout awards banquet was held at Marion Methodist Church. Scouts present and receiving awards were: Dianne Abbott, Emily Allen, Marilyn Belt, Marlene Belt, Brenda Eskew, Darlene Fryar, Pamela Gilland, Patsy Hamilton, Carol Hill, Phyllis Hopkins, Nancy James, Candy Johnson, Janice Keeling, Micaela Knight, Branda Moore, Julie Runyan, Barbara Stalton, Susan Stalton, Susan Sullenger and Sally Taylor. Brownies who became Scouts were Susan Babb, Jane Browning, Karen Gass, Carol Hearne, Judith Lois, Linda Rogers, Elizabeth Rohrer, Patty Roe Runyan, Diane Tinsley and Dianne Watson.

•Mexico News - Mrs. Joe Tabor and son left this week to spend a few days with her grandmother in Sparta, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Woody Bruce were weekend visitors of Mrs. Laura Kirkwood. Mrs. Lemma York and Carolyn DeBoe spent Monday with Mrs. Ruth Rorer. Ola Rhea Gilland, Linnea Ottoson and Linda Linzy took part in the Derby Day Parade in Louisville Thursday and Friday.

This is a picture of the Freedom Church congregation made in 1924. It was probably taken at one of the church Sunday afternoon services. This photograph was shared by Ruth Eveyln McEuen Robertson. as one of the largest crowds ever assembled at that well known meeting place was present to enjoy the day. It was a big day from the standpoint of hospitality and never were there more gracious hosts at a day of the kind that were the good people of Freedom that day.

The morning was given to the Sunday school and regular preaching service and then at noon a banquet was spread in the form of a good old-fashioned basket dinner. It was not a "pickle and sandwich" affair but a real basket dinner with the finest meats and countless numbers of good cakes and pies.

Shortly after the noon hour, the Rev. G.P. Dillon, who by the way was present at dinner and who has a record as one who "shines" at basket dinners, talked for a short time and then the quartet consisting of Rev. and Mrs. W.B. Yates, Mrs. G.P. Dillon and George Yates sang several numbers.

At two o'clock, the Woodmen of the World had their usual decoration day serve at the Freedom cemetery and decorated the grave of their deceased sovereign Bud Wing.

At the decoration service a short program was given by the pupils of the Freedom Sunday school.

Several from Marion attended the services and all of them are loud in their praises of the hospitality of the Freedom neighborhood.

Here is more information about the Freedom General Baptist Church:

Freedom General Baptist was organized June 21, 1853. Land for the church building was deeded to the trustees, A.H. Belt, William Jopland and Thomas Riley, by Alfred Moore. The first church was a log building with only one window to the side. The next was a frame building. The third building was destroyed by a tornado May 17, 1946, and was replaced in 1949.

In 1972 the present building was enlarged by adding a new wing on each side.

Freedom Church as it looks today just northwest of Marion off Ky. 91 North.

One of the early pastors of the church, Rev. Charles Ramsey, died June 8, 1912, his wife, Mary Lillard Ramsey, died Aug. 8, 1923, two daughters, Mary Lucinda and Bertha, and a son Charles Ramsey, all are buried in the Freedom cemetery with unmarked graves.

Here is some Freedom School History, by Edna Fritts Easley, told in 1987:

The old Freedom School was a log structure. It was located on the old Cave In Rock Road. Marion Smart was the last teacher who taught in the old school building.

The land for the new one-room school was obtained in 1917. It was a large modern building for those days. It had a large coat room and also an eating area.

When state highway Ky. 91 was built, it split the school grounds and left the schoolhouse within 15 feet of the highway. The nearness of the highway was always a disadvantage to the school.

In the late 1940s the school became a target for vandalism. It appeared to be a nightly sport for groups of youngsters from the surrounding areas to gather and cause damage to the building and the grounds. During this time the school building became a total wreck.

In August of 1951, Mrs. Easley accepted the challenge of being teacher at the Freedom School, which consisted of one room and 50 pupils. During this time a partition was built in the school, and another teacher, Mrs. Mary Todd was hired. By doing this one teacher had the upper grades and the other teacher the lower grades.

In 1958 the school was consolidated with Marion. The old school building was sold and was used for a fish market and grocery store. After that, the Crittenden County Gun Club purchased the building, along with 15 acres. The building was then demolished, thus the happenings of Freedom School passed into history.

Jesus: Don't worry, be happy

Don't you worry? Someone said, "Worry is like a good rocking chair, it gives you something to do, but it won't get you anywhere." And "Today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday."

Jesus in His Sermon on the Mount addressed these concerns. He asked that "We consider the lilies."

So, what lessons can we learn from the lilies? They receive God's providential care. He has built into His creation everything they need to grow and radiate their beauty for all the world to see. Just like things in nature, God has promised to take care of His children. He has provided salvation for us through His Son, Jesus Christ. He protects us, provides our needs and comforts in times of sorrow. We are promised strength for each day and the assurance of answered prayers, and He gives us sufficient grace.

Lilies grow where they are planted. We, too, are to serve the Lord even if we are out of our comfort zone.

Lilies bud and bloom. Some Christians never bloom. They profess faith in Christ but neglect to study God's word and prayer, thus remain babes in Christ.

Lilies produce pure white blooms. In the summer my neighbor's pond is covered with green slime, but in the center is a pure white lily. Christians are to be in the world but not of the world.

Jesus said, "Ye are the salt of the earth and the light of the world."

Lilies eventually die, but when spring comes, they come alive again. If Jesus tarries, we, too, will die.

Jesus said, "I am the resurrection and the life, and because I live ye shall live also."

When I turn on my computer, racing across the screen is a greeting which says, "Hi Grandma. Don't worry. Be Happy. Kara and Jamie." This is Jesus' message for each of us today.

"So, my counsel is, Don't worry about things - food, drink and clothes. Look at the birds. Consider the lilies.

Methodist court affirms ban on clergy presiding at same-sex marriage, unions

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

United Methodist clergy cannot perform same-sex marriages or gay civil unions, even if their regional church district supports the idea, the denomination's high court ruled.

The Judicial Council that governs the two United Methodist churches in Crittenden County - Marion and Rosebud - said a church district, or annual conference, cannot "negate, ignore or violate" churchwide discipline, even if they disagree with the policy.

Last year, the top church legislative body, or General Conference, voted to retain its ban on same-sex marriages and bar clergy from performing the ceremonies or consecrating same-gender unions in the church. Pastors who violate the discipline risk losing their clergy credentials.

The council decision, released April 27 after a court meeting in Denver, came in the case of two regional Methodist groups that had issued resolutions supporting clergy who perform same-gender marriages.

The California-Nevada Annual Conference had backed retired pastors who perform the ceremonies. The California-Pacific Conference had recognized "the pastoral need and prophetic authority of our clergy and congregations to offer the ministry of marriage ceremonies for same-gender couples."

The state Supreme Court in California approved gay marriage last year, but voters reinstated a ban on same-gender marriage last November through the Proposition 8 ballot measure.

Only three states - Massachusetts, Connecticut and Iowa - allow same-sex marriages, with Vermont to legalize the unions in September. Four more states - Maine, California, Washington and Oregon - recognize same-sex unions.

Writing workshop to focus on ‘Wow’ factor in projects

What makes fiction and non-fiction books page-turners that you can't put down? And how do authors successfully market their work? These will be the featured subjects of the Crittenden County Writers Workshop Series on Thursday, May 14. The free workshop, presented by local author Bob Yehling, will take place from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the Crittenden County Public Library.

With the summer reading season coming up, writers will explore specific techniques to create the "wow" factor in their work.

"The best topical non-fiction books, memoir and novels share two common points: Their narratives are so realistic and riveting that it's hard to put them down," Yehling said. "The lives and situations they portray (real or imagined) seem to be central to our lives."

During the other half of the evening, Yehling will present simple promotional and marketing strategies for writers. Everything from writing press releases to posting blogs and joining social networking groups on the Internet will be discussed.

Attendees are also invited to join the Crittenden Writers Group, which will announce its schedule of events and programs in the near future.

For more information, call the Crittenden County Public Library at 965-3354.

February 17, 1929 - May 5, 2006

We little knew that day, God was going to call your name.
In life we loved you dearly, In death we do the same.

It broke our hearts to lose you, you did not go alone;
For part of us went with you, the day God called you home.

You left us beautiful memories, your love is still our guide.
And though we cannot see you, you are always at our side.

Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same.
But as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again.

Grief group

Sessions meet monthly at CHS

Grieving is a natural yet difficult process that follows the loss of a loved one. But help is being provided locally to help people work through their emotions and share their feelings with others in a similar situation.

Leah Fondaw, licensed clinical social worker specialized in grief, leads a support group in Crittenden County the second Wednesday of each month.

The group meets in the education building directly behind the Crittenden Hospital. The location should not be confused with the annex or the building where visiting doctors see patients.

Fondaw, the bereavement coordinator for Lourdes Hospital, leads the grief support group during a working lunch hour at 11:30 a.m. She said participants either bring a sack lunch or fast food, as many attend the session during their lunch hour.

“The intention is to provide education on grief and a connection for people with others who are grieving, and to answer questions,” Fondaw said. “It is so nice to talk to someone else who understands what you're saying.”

Fondaw provides some information to start the sessions but otherwise allows participants to set the tone and topic of discussion.

The group is for people in all stage of the grieving process, from those who just lost a loved one to those who lost loved ones months ago.

“Sometimes those in later stages give a lot of input to newer members,” Fondaw said.

A new Livingston County grief support group will begin in July. It will meet at 2 p.m., the second Wednesday of each month at Salem Springlake Care Center.

The bride wore the traditional white wedding gown which was adorned with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The chapel length train was carried by Ian Aldridge, nephew of the bride. The bride followed tradition of something old, her grandmother Virginia Peek's wedding ring; something new, a diamond and pearl necklace and earrings which were a gift from the groom; something borrowed, a comb from her friend Wanda Kinnis; and something blue, the traditional blue garter.

Her flowers were blue, yellow and white roses accented with baby's breath, seed pearls and ribbon. The flowers were designed and created by her mother, Sue Bailey. The matron of honor was adorned in blue and carried a small version of the bride's bouquet.

Rukavina talks weather at Woman's Club

Jennifer Rukavina, chief meteorologist at WPSD-TV in Paducah, was the guest speaker for the Mid-Winter Membership Brunch hosted by the Woman's Club of Marion this spring.

Rukavina was excited about talking to an adult audience as she usually speaks to school children.

She admits she is still scared of thunderstorms at night, but it heightened her interest in weather.

The meteorologist grew up in Canton, Ohio and earned a master of science degree in geosciences and broadcast meteorology from Mississippi State University at Starkville, Miss.

Although the weather is hard to predict in this region of the country, Rukavina likes this area because of its weather variance.

She spoke of January's history-making ice storm and living at the TV station for a week with her husband, Brian, while caring for their two-year-old son. She has signed another four-year contract with WPSD.

She and Brian, who teaches at Murray State University, like storm spotting, chasing storms and taking weather photos. She likes to read, get e-mails and watch one favorite soap opera.

Fiddler reunion

Residents and staff of Crittenden County Health and Rehab were recently entertained by the music of Little Jack Little (right) and Jackson Junction. Little, who played on the Porter Wagoner Show, with many famous country musicians, is a resident of Crittenden Health and Rehab, and played with Jackson Junction before retiring. Jack played his fiddle in the presence of many famous people over the years. Their gathering in the cafeteria of Crittenden Health and Rehab was the first time that Little and Jackson Junction had played together in many years.

Marion man in MSU theater performance

Matthew Collins of Marion played an author suffering from alcoholism and bipolar disorder in the last theater production of the year at Murray State University.

The Edge Festival, held last weekend, consisted of six shows, including The Dada Experiment, in which Collins was cast.

The theater major said he enjoyed the Edge Festival, which occurs in a smaller space, and creates a more intimate location for performances..

"With larger shows I often feel disconnected from the audience to make sure I maintain the world on the stage," Collins said. "This is a new experience for me. This is the first time I've performed in this space."

The Dada Experiment features a style of art which "basically makes fun of theater and makes fun of art,"

Cara McHugh, senior from Memphis, Tenn., said.

"Usually art stands for a message, Dadaism is anti-message," McHugh said. "Art has aesthetics, Dadaism is anti-aesthetics. Art has history, Dadaism is anti-history. Art is about future implications, Dadaism has none."

Cara McHugh said Dadism began as an anti-art movement and a rebellion during World War I. The style features either no costumes or costumes made from trash.

Rockets split DH at Union, beat Christian

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER
The Rockets had a busy night at Union County Monday, splitting a doubleheader against two different teams.
In the opening game, the Rockets made up a Fifth District contest from last Friday against Lyon County. The game was played at Union County due to both fields at Crittenden and Lyon being too wet to play on.
Rocket left fielder Alex Wood went 3-for-4 with three RBIs against the Lyons as his team won 15-5 in six innings. One of those hits included a two-run homer in the sixth inning which allowed his team to end the game on the 10-run rule.
"It was good to see Alex start hitting the ball again," Rocket coach Denis Hodge said.
Starting pitcher Joey Pluskota also turned in a superb performance, tossing a complete game three-hitter and working around three Rocket errors.
The Rockets finish 3-2 in league play and the two teams will square off again in the opening round of the Fifth District Tournament in Cadiz later this month.
A second contest this year with Trigg County, which was rained out last week, will not be made up since it would not change the seeding for the postseason tournament. The Wildcats have already clinched the top seed.

Bitter nightcap
The Rockets were not as fortunate in the nightcap as two errors, two walks and a pair of Union County hits allowed the Braves to explode for a six-run first inning. That was more than enough as the Braves won 6-0, avenging an earlier season defeat against Crittenden.
While the Braves only managed five hits in the contest, they received plenty of help from the Rockets as four errors and three walks allowed them to cruise to victory.
Dylan Clark, who started on the mound in the nightcap, collected two of his squad's four hits, going 2-for-3 and reaching base via an error.
"We kicked the ball around too much. You can't commit errors and expect to beat teams," Hodge said after the game.
Rockets beat Christian
For possibly the first time in school history, the Rockets beat Christian County 3-2 Saturday at Hopkinsville to record a triumph over one of the biggest schools in the Second Region.
In a scoreless deadlock heading into the third inning, Ronnie Howton and Anthony Aguilar both reached base via singles to give the Rockets a golden opportunity to dent the scoreboard. After J.D. Gray walked to load the bases with

District pretuner proves indecisive

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER
In a preview of a matchup that will take place in the Fifth District Tournament, the Lady Rockets split with Lyon County over the past week. With the split, Crittenden and Lyon both finish league play 3-3 and will meet again in the opening round of postseason play. The Fifth District Tournament will be played at Trigg County.
The Lady Lyons used three hits in the first inning at Eddyville Monday to take a 2-0 lead and managed to hold off the visiting Lady Rockets 3-2.
Crittenden loaded the bases in the fourth with no outs before Jenna Odom and Sammie Jo Quisenberry came around to score, narrowing the deficit to 3-2.
But after center fielder Kelly Williams drew a walk, the Lady Rockets could not push any more runs across in the fourth, dropping the one-run affair.
With the score knotted at 2-all heading into the bottom of the seventh, the Lady Lyons scored the winning run on a bases-loaded walk to avenge last week's setback.
"We hit the ball hard all night. Unfortunately, it did not always find the holes," Crittenden coach Michael Gibson said.
Quisenberry went 2-for-3 with an RBI in the loss.
In a game that was also played in Eddyville due to the Lady Rockets' wet field last Thursday, the visitors pounded out 17 hits en route to an easy 12-0 shutout of Lyon County.
Lady Rocket catcher Shannah Williams continues to swing a hot bat going 3-for-3 with two runs scored in the win. Jenna Odom also had a productive outing going 2-for-3 while reaching on an error.
Seven Lady Rocket batters recorded at least one hit as they were never headed in the Fifth District encounter.
Lady Rocket hurler Sammie Jo Quisenberry tossed a four-hitter as her squad recorded its second shutout of the spring.
Lady Rockets beat Madisonville
Quisenberry struck out seven batters Tuesday at Madisonville to help her team win 8-3.
The visitors jumped on Madisonville early loading the bases in the first on three straight singles by Shannah Williams, Jenna Odom and Quisenberry. Torey Baker and Kelly Williams followed them reaching base on back-to-back walks and putting Crittenden (6-12) ahead 2-0.
Williams continues to be a spark plug from her leadoff position going 3-for-4, reaching on a fielder's choice and scoring two runs.
The Lady Rockets have won three out of their last four games, outscoring their opponents 30-9.

Track double

Boys, girls win four-team meets at Caldwell Co.

The Crittenden County High School girls' track and field team joined the boys in the winner's circle last Tuesday, squeaking past Lyon County 64-63 to win a four-way meet at Caldwell County.
The Rocket boys handily defeated Caldwell County 87-69.
Despite suiting up just 10 athletes, the Lady Rockets pulled points from nearly every contested event to earn the win over Lyon, Caldwell County and Dawson Springs. Three of the four Rockets relay teams won, led by the 800-meter relay team that went to the KHSAA Track & Field Championships in 2008. The anchor of that team, senior Anna Jimenez, also captured the 100-meter (13.59) and 200-meter (28.64) dashes.
Other top performances came from seventh-grader Anna Schnittker, who finished second in the 1,600-meter run with a lifetime best 6:40; sophomore Katelyn Newcom, who set a lifetime best in the shot put (24-0) and finished second in the shot and third in discus; and sophomore Lauren Hunt, who placed second in the 400-meter dash in a season-best 1:09.40.
The boys' team received double victories from hurdler Dusty McConnell and distance ace Chris Sitar. McConnell won the 100-meter hurdles in 18.19 and 300-meter hurdles in 45.46, while Sitar posted victories in the 1,600-meter run (5:24.49) and 3,200-meter run (12:31.65).
Other big individual performances came from junior J.R. Adams, who won the 800-meter run; senior Cody Holzer, second in the 100- and 200-meter dashes; sophomore Andrew Freeman, who was second in the shot put and third in discus; and junior Allen Kirk, who was second in both the 800-meter run and 1,600-meter run.
The highlight of the day came in the 400-meter relay, where the Rockets upset Caldwell County with a season-best time of 48.43. It was part of a CCHS sweep in the relays that included another season-best in the 1,600-meter relay (3:58.84).
The CCHS track team will compete in the Caldwell Invitational Friday.

new state laws for dead farm animals

Rule changes

in effect now

A new U.S. Food and Drug Administration rule could impact the disposal of dead farm animals. The rule – which went into effect in April – prohibits the use of brains and spinal cords of older cattle for animal food. The new rule covers all cows 30 months and older and is aimed at preventing the spread of bovine spongiform encephalopathy, commonly known as mad cow disease.

Many Kentucky farmers and counties depend on professional hauling companies to remove carcasses and deliver them to rendering facilities. Some of these companies may choose to discontinue their enterprise due to this new restriction.

With the decision by at least one hauler to suspend services, at least temporarily, the University of Kentucky Livestock Disease Diagnostic Center has been receiving calls regarding disposal. But that is not a part of the center's mission.

"LDDC is primarily a diagnostic laboratory, not a statewide carcass disposal facility," said Craig Carter, director. "Our mission is disease surveillance and diagnosis."

Kentucky has nearly three million cattle, swine and sheep, and death losses are an unfortunate but real part of animal agriculture. Their proper disposal is critical to safeguarding water supplies and reducing the spread of disease. Robert C. Stout, state veterinarian, said his office gets more complaints about animal carcasses than on any other subject.

"The enhanced feed ban rule will have a tremendous impact, not only on animal agriculture but also on public health and the environment," Stout said. "Farmers must have a means of disposing of dead animals that is readily accessible and affordable."

While this new rule could make disposal more challenging and costly, farmers should not forget there are laws in place establishing proper disposal practices.

State law requires farmers to dispose of dead animals through an approved method within 48 hours of death. These methods include incineration, boiling or steaming, burying, removal by a licensed rendering establishment, disposition in a contained landfill or composting. These methods are outlined in the Kentucky Agriculture Water Quality Act under Livestock Best Management Practice No. 15.

Improper dumping of an animal carcass in a stream, sinkhole or field is unlawful, said Amanda Gumbert, UK extension water quality liaison.

UK College of Agriculture environmental specialists and engineers can assist farmers with information on developing and implementing agricultural water quality plans, on-farm composting facilities and other aspects of complying with dead animal disposal laws. UK publication, ID-67, On-farm Disposal of Animal Mortalities, is available through the local office of the UK Cooperative Extension Service. This publication is a good starting point for farmers in learning the rules.

Farmers should also contact their local county government or conservation district for more information on available sources of proper carcass disposal in their area or contact the state veterinarian's office at 502-564-3956 for more information on proper disposal practices.

Rain continues to slow corn planting progress

According to the Kentucky Weekly Crop & Weather Report, corn planting progress was once again inhibited by the wet weather. As of Sunday, reported progress was 35 percent of intended acreage planted, down 16 percent from last year and down 36 percent from the five-year average. Corn emergence was reported at 12 percent, four percent below the previous year and 29 percent below the five-year average. Emerged corn condition was rated five percent poor, 28 percent fair, 59 percent good and eight percent excellent. Soybean planting progress was reported at one percent, four percent below last year, and six percent below the five-year average. For the week of May 3, hay crop condition was rated as one percent very poor, six percent poor, 36 percent fair, 44 percent good, and 13 percent excellent. There was 99 percent of the normal nitrogen fertilizer supply available to farmers. Pasture condition was rated as one percent very poor, seven percent poor, 31 percent fair, 49 percent good, and 12 percent excellent.

Deadline is May 18 to buy-in for disaster aid

Producers who did not obtain crop insurance or Non-insured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) coverage for 2008 have until May 18 to pay a buy-in fee to become eligible for 2008 disaster assistance programs authorized by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008. Producers are required to complete the following steps:

- Pay a $100 buy-in fee per crop. The maximum fee is $300 per county, per producer, not to exceed $900 for multi-county producers.
- In the case of each insurable crop, excluding grazing land, agree to obtain a policy or plan of insurance for the next insurance year for which crop insurance is available; coverage level should equal 70 percent or more of the yield at 100 percent of the price.
- In the case of each noninsurable crop, agree to file the required paperwork and pay the applicable administrative NAP coverage fee by the applicable state application closing date for the next available year.

Producers who meet the definition of "Socially Disadvantaged, Limited Resource," or "Beginning Farmer or Rancher," are not required to pay the buy-in fee. The "buy-in" does not provide crop insurance or NAP coverage, but it does provide supplemental disaster assistance eligibility for 2008. Eligibility can be gained by paying the administrative fee which would have been applicable if the CAT or NAP programs had been applied for in a timely manner. The buy-in waiver does not apply to the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP). Contact your local FSA Service Center for additional information on the buy-in waiver.

State helps analyze Breathitt Center's future

The Kentucky Agricultural Development Board, at their April meeting, approved Murray State University for a $300,000 grant in state Agricultural Development Funds to analyze the effects of replacing or renovating the Breathitt Veterinary Center in Hopkinsville. The mission of the Breathitt Veterinary Center is to provide rapid, accurate diagnostic data that enables veterinarians to make appropriate treatment decisions. The funds awarded will support a feasibility study to consider the construction of a new facility versus renovation of the existing facility to allow the Center to meet its mission in a safe, secure environment. For more information about the Murray State University Breathitt Veterinary Center, contact Dr. Randy J. Dunn at (270) 809-3763 or visit www.breathitt.murraystate.edu.

Bureau says watch out for swine flu scams

The Better Business Bureau is warning citizens to be on the lookout for fraudulent emails and Web sites trying to take advantage of the current swine flu outbreak. The Better Business Bureau suggests you avoid opening email from an unknown source and do not click on any links in the body of the email or open any attachments as they may include a virus that could infect your computer.

State providing low-cost forage testing

Agriculture Commissioner Richie Farmer advises forage and livestock producers to test their forages. The Kentucky Department of Agriculture provides a forage testing service for a small fee. "Testing provides livestock producers with valuable nutritional information," Commissioner Farmer said. "By knowing the nutritional value of their forages, producers can minimize the cost of their feed while maximizing the production of their livestock." The Department tests samples for $10 per lot (same field, same cutting). Producers receive a laboratory analysis of their forage's nutritional value and an "Interpreting Forage Quality Report" from the KDA. The analysis helps forage producers determine a fair market value for their product and helps livestock producers formulate the most nutritious and economical feed ration for their animals.

MCC, KCTCS graduations arrive for students

STAFF REPORT
When Madisonville Community College honors its graduates Friday night, Donna Starrick of Marion will be among 9,500 spring degree and certificate recipients across the state from the Kentucky Community and Technical College System.
At 45, Starrick is not your typical graduate from the state's community college system. She and her husband Danny both decided to go back to school after their two daughters completed their post-secondary education. While Danny, who serves as pastor at Second Baptist Church in Marion, continues to work on his master's degree in pastoral counseling, Donna will receive her associate's degree in business administration Friday from MCC.

Donna decided to return to college after her previous job was outsourced to a foreign country.
There will be two commencement ceremonies at MCC at the Glema Mahr Center for the Arts. At 5:30 p.m., students receiving an associate of arts, associate of science, or nursing credential will graduate. At 7:30 p.m., Starrick and associate of applied science and diploma graduates in other disciplines will be honored.

Dr. Belle S. Wheelan, president of the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, will serve as graduation speaker at MCC. Wheelan is the first African American and the first woman to serve as president of the Commission on Colleges.
In addition to the spring graduates, many KCTCS college commencement exercises also will recognize students who have graduated since the May 2008 commencement. These students total 2,862 in summer 2008, and 3,849 in fall 2008 ceremonies.

Fort Knox band plays at Fohs

Fohs Hall Community Arts Foundation is sponsoring a free brass quintet concert from the Fort Knox military band at 7 p.m., Saturday at Fohs Hall. It has been several years since a military band performed at Fohs Hall, but this Mother's Day weekend special is sure to be a delight.
The brass quintet is comprised of two trumpets, a French horn, a trombone and a tuba. The group has a repertoire to include performances about 45 minutes in length and emphasizing a variety of music. The audience will enjoy America's favorite patriotic songs, military marches and a musical salute to veterans.

The quintet's most recent engagements included a four-day tour of schools in Canton, Ohio, several commencement ceremonies for area colleges and high schools, troop arrival and departure ceremonies, and a featured spot in the 113th Army Band's Summer Concert Series.
Fort Knox is the home of the U.S. Army Armor Center, 16th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Armor Training Brigade and the U.S. Army Recruiting Command. The band supports these units, other garrison units, and performs in the surrounding communities to further the Army's mission. Established in 1840, the 113th Army Band, known as the "Dragoons," is the second oldest U.S. Army Band in the nation's history.

The concert is open to the public with free admission. For more information, contact Susan Alexander at 965-5983.
Other upcoming events at Fohs Hall include:
■ Crittenden County High and Middle School choral concert, 7 p.m., today (Thursday). Admission is free.
■ Crittenden County High and Middle School band concert and art show, 7 p.m., Tuesday. Admission is free.
■ Crittenden County High School Panorama comedy and talent show, 6 p.m., May 22. Admission is $3.

RELAY

Blackburn said.
Blackburn and Padget learned a lesson or two from sharing duties during last year's rainout. So this year they have a back-up plan that will prevent a postponement like last year – moving the Relay indoors.
“We just didn't have enough time to schedule another place,” Padget said of securing an alternate location in 2008.
Though no decision on moving Friday's Relay indoors from the track at the park had been made at press time Wednesday, Padget said she expected the committee to reach a verdict by Wednesday evening, or today (Thursday) at the latest.
“We'll be keeping an eye on the forecast,” Padget said.
If the event is moved under roof, it will take place at the Carson G. Davidson National Guard Armory on Rochester Avenue. Opening ceremonies would still begin at 6 p.m.
“Everything would pretty much be the same,” Blackburn said.
Padget said the most significant Relay alteration if moved indoors would be lighting of the luminarias. Relay participants would not be able to light the candles in the decorative sacks designed as tributes to cancer survivors and those whose lives the disease has claimed.
“We didn't get to light them last year,” Padget said, “but we still had the ceremony.”
Another change made since last year is the earlier date for the Relay. Blackburn said conflicts with summer vacations as well as potentially hot weather in June prompted the committee to move the event up to May.
While Padget is pleased with the overall local contributions thus far, one reliable money-maker for ACS research is struggling.
Padget said luminaria sales are down for the 2009 Relay after ACS doubled the cost from $5 to $10. She said more than 200 were purchased last year, and sales were so far off that coming into the final weeks before the Relay that the price was reduced. In fact,

Special anniversary
This year marks a special anniversary for Relay for Life.
In 2009, Relay for Life commemorates its 25th year since Dr. Gordy Klatt's 83-mile journey around a Tacoma, Wash., athletic track, where in walking, running and raising $27,000 for the American Cancer Society, the colorectal surgeon established an event that has made a difference in the lives of countless people he has never met. Twenty five years later, Relay is celebrated in 5,000 communities.

Jennifer Nesbitt (with microphone) offers a look of disgust as Rachel Cook (far right) flashes her astonishment at their principal, Todd Merrick, eating a worm Friday at a Crittenden County High School assembly. Despite the offer of condiments and side items, Merrick downed the worm with little more than a swig of water to honor a March of Dimes fund-raising challenge issued by CCHS Future Business Leaders of America club and advisor Amy Hardin. The worm-eating and other dares undertaken by high school staff culminated a week of events that raised $1,030. Hardin lost a baby to premature birth in 2007 before a successful birth more recently, so the students rased the money in honor of all the babies that have survived because of the March of Dimes. FBLA students will be joining Hardin and her family at the March of Dimes walk in Madisonville May 16 where the funds will be donated in honor of Hardin's late child.

Join your community in the fight against cancer! The American Cancer Society Relay For Life will be held May 8, from 5 p.m. to 5 a.m. at Marion-Crittenden County Park. Relay teams will take turns walking, running or strolling around the track. Teams consist of individuals representing corporations, churches, clubs, organizations and families. During Relay For Life, team members enjoy games, food, music and camaraderie while camping out on the surrounding grounds.

At 9 p.m. all participants will share in a special luminaria ceremony to remember those individuals who have been affected by cancer. Candles will be lit in honor or memory of cancer patients and placed around the perimeter of the track. You are invited to support this effort by purchasing a luminaria in honor of a loved one who has been touched by cancer. Simply fill out this form and mail your order to the address listed.

Thank you for your support. For more information, call Kathy Thompson at 965-4365.
