Post time is 5:24 p.m. Saturday for the 139th Kentucky Derby, the longest continuous running sporting event in the United States. Known as "the greatest two minutes in sports," the Run for the Roses will be the 11th of 13 races at Churchill Downs in Louisville Saturday. Coverage begins at 3 p.m. on NBC stations.

One storyline will see University of Louisville basketball coach Rick Pitino try for the third leg of a 2013 hat trick—induction into the Basketball Hall of Fame and a national championship are already completed. Pitino owns 5 percent of Derby contender Goldencents.

Busy week lies ahead at schools

It's a busy week ahead for students at Crittenden County schools. On Monday, it's eighth-grade graduation for 105 middle schoolers. The following day, Tuesday, those graduates will visit the high school for Transition Day. The orientation introduces pupils to the school building and alerts them to procedures and protocols.

The same day, elementary school students will have their own Transition Day, spending time in assigned classrooms for the next school year. If your child does not currently attend pre-school or daycare but will be entering kindergarten in August, school officials encourage them to be brought to this event. Children need to arrive in the lobby at 8:15 a.m. and be picked up at 10:30 a.m.

Next Wednesday, baccalaureate services will begin at 6 p.m. for the Class of 2013. Class night follows next Thursday at the same time. Finally, May 10 is last day of school for all county students and commencement for seniors.

Public meetings

■ The City of Marion will conduct a public hearing on the proposed use of LGEA and Municipal Aid funds in Fiscal Year 2013-14 at 9 a.m. Friday in the council chambers at city hall.

Old jail razed, city hall next on list

The former Crittenden County Jail situated next to Crittenden County Public Library and the current Crittenden County Detention Center was taken down Monday morning. The building belonged to the library after a land swap years ago with Crittenden Fiscal Court. Pictured surveying Monday's destruction are (from left) library board secretary Dulcie Hardin, Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives construction consultant Chris Bischoff, Crittenden County Judge-Executive Perry Newcom, library board president Brandi Rogers, KDLA consultant Katherine Adelberg and local library director Regina Merrick.

One down, one to go.

Two former municipal hives of activity outlived their days of service long ago, but won't be sticking around as a reminder of those days. On Monday, the old Crittenden County Jail off Court Street was razed by a backhoe. Next on the list is old Marion City Hall and the former fire station adjoining the center of city government for three-quarters of a century.

While the old jail is gone, Marion City Administrator Mark Bryant is seeking suggestions on what to do with the property on East Bellville Street when old city hall is demolished. Last week, Bryant polled the public on the topic on social media—Facebook and Twitter.

Bryant said one of the suggestions posted was leaving intact the building and the giant, 100-foot bicentennial flag painted on the east wall. Other ideas included a farmers' market, a park or simply "green" space.

"I imagine the Council just envisioned it as a parking lot with landscaping," Bryant speculated Monday as equipment and crews continued tearing away at the former county jail across the street from his office.

While Bryant would enjoy seeing some type of public attraction for the area—whether it be a fountain, benches and greenery—a paved or concrete parking lot will most likely be incorporated in some manner. "There's no question we need the parking," he said, but added that "it's going to have to look nice. I would love to see some type of water feature."

No date is set for destruction of the joint city hall-fire station, and certainly no plans for the future use of the land are set in stone. Marion City Council next meets in regular session on May 21

Replacement of icon deserves rumination

Good things cannot last forever. If they did, we would all grow to no longer appreciate them.

Save a miracle, another beloved icon of Marion will soon disappear, remaining only as a footnote to history. This footnote, though, is large in size and scope.

The American flag painted on the side of Marion's old fire station and city hall is starting to show her age. But she heralds a great time during our nation's history—our bicentennial. The larger-than-life image was first approved to be painted on the wall by Marion City Council in 1975, the year before we turned 200 as a nation.

A Murray State artist, Mike Brum, pitched the current 100-foot design as one of three to be used. Rumor has it, it was part of a venture to douse each Kentucky county by 1976 with a large image of Old Glory to stand as the ultimate testament to two centuries of democracy and liberty. Since the initial strokes were made, the design has weathered many great and several terrible events in the history of Marion. She has been retouched once—maybe more—and has begun to again look worn.

Before the end of the year, she will have likely said good-bye after almost 40 years. No, it's not the result of a complaint or unpatriotic gesture, but one of progress. Since city hall and the fire station have relocated to modern digs, the building adorned in the Stars and Bars has laid dormant and largely empty for years. The structure will soon be razed, bringing the flag down along with it. There is simply no viable, safe way to support the tower of blocks without the building whose eastern side it walls.

The decoration's disappearance will be a sad day. The many workers who have passed through the doors of this newspaper's office have gazed upon the red, white and blue each time they enter or leave the building. Our loyal readers, too, see the image of national pride each Wednesday as they line East Bellville Street for their weekly news.

Too few icons exist to mark Marion's past, save ones like the aging, but still magnificent Fohs Hall.

But out with the old, in comes new. The City of Marion, in tearing down the old city hall and fire station, want to create another visual and practical experience for all—visitors and residents alike. City Administrator Mark Bryant has solicited ideas for what to do with the property through social media, something not even dreamed of when the first red stripe was sent waiving down the soon-to-be-gone brick wall.

Ideas out there are varied. But the ultimate decision will most likely incorporate some form of parking. Bryant envisions a surfaced lot with greenery. A water feature, such as a fountain, and benches for resting in a downtown, make-shift park have also been brainstormed. Much remains to be decided.

We encourage residents to weigh in and the city council to carefully consider the options. The move is necessary. We do not argue that point, but an open mind and attention to more than the bottom line need to be levied in order to find a worthy replacement of a beloved icon.

TipLine put to use for burglary leads Crittenden County Sheriff Wayne Agent and the Crittenden County TipLine seek information regarding a March 16 burglary on Chapel Hill Road.

Someone broke into a home and garage, taking about $8,000 worth of power and hand tools and other items belonging to Kenton Drury. Most of the items were found about a week later, but some are still missing. The items found had been lightly concealed in weeds off Nipper Road, about two miles from the alleged crime scene.

Investigators want to know who took the items and are seeking leads from the public.

TipLine is offering a $500 reward for information leading to an arrest in the case. Call 965-3000, and you may remain anonymous.

April 2013 cooler, wetter than 2012

The month of April, not surprisingly, was the warmest of the year thus far, according to records from the Kentucky Mesonet weather and climate data monitoring station in Crittenden County. April 2013 was also slightly cooler, though, and much wetter than the previous April.

The average daily temperature last month was 55.7 degrees, with a high of 83.9 degrees on April 17. Last year, the median daily reading was just under 60 degrees—59.7 degrees. Meantime, the lowest temperature recorded last month was 31.4 degrees on April 2, one of only three days

Relay venues shift for two counties

The venues for the annual Relays for Life in both Livingston and Crittenden counties have been altered—the former thanks to a cool and rainy weather forecast and the latter due to concerns over damages to the usual site for the overnight cancer fundraising event.

Livingston County will be moving Friday's Relay event indoors to Potter's House Baptist Worship Center in Smithland. Like usual Relay events, it starts at 6 p.m. and runs until 6 a.m. Saturday.

Meantime, the oval competition track at Marion-Crittenden County Park will not host the May 31 Relay here regardless of weather. Concerns over damages to the newly paved asphalt track and infield grass from vehicles and heavy activity prompted the move.

Stephanie Elder with the Paducah office of the American Cancer Society confirmed the venue change. Natalie Parish, chairman of Crittenden County Relay for Life, said the event will be held on the courthouse square this year.

"I think it will be a positive impact on Relay by having it downtown," Parish said.

Cancer survivors are encouraged to call her at 871-1383 to sign up for the event.

McConnell unveils pro-coal measure

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell of Kentucky has unveiled a bill aimed at forcing the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to expedite the process for coal companies seeking permits to open new mines.

McConnell told about 100 people gathered inside a mining equipment sales shop in Pikeville that he intends to file the legislation next week in response to thousands of jobs that have been lost in the Kentucky coalfields.

Some 4,000 coal miners have been idled over the past year, largely the result of market factors. But McConnell accused the EPA of worsening the situation by stonewalling the permitting process, essentially turning it into "a backdoor means to shut down coal mines permanently."

Deal won't mean lower power bills

THE HENDERSON GLEANER

Deals to allow western Kentucky aluminum smelters to buy electricity on the open market will leave customers of Henderson-based Kenergy Corp. facing possible electric rate increases of 30 to 40 percent, Big Rivers President and CEO Mark Bailey cautioned Monday.

The two smelters—Century Aluminum at Hawesville and Rio Tinto Alcan at Sebree—use two-thirds of the power generated by Big Rivers, which also provides power to customers of the rural electric co-ops of Kenergy in Crittenden County and Jackson Purchase in Livingston County.

Kentucky Utilities Co. customers will be unaffected.

On Monday, Big Rivers, Kenergy and Century announced a tentative agreement on a framework for allowing Century to acquire electricity on the open market. The deal, which is yet finalized, ensures other customers won't have to bear any additional costs associated with importing that power. Some similar arrangement is expected to be pursued to keep the Sebree smelter in business.

Bailey warned customers will still have to bear higher rates to make up for the departures of Century and Alcan. "I think there is a public perception, which is incorrect, that if we reach an agreement with Century, it negates the need for rate increases," he said.

Harris-Crowell returns to Salem for Derby Day

If you were born into the Harris family then you have music in your blood. That is true for Kara Harris-Crowell. Her father, the late Jack Harris, started his daughter at the age of 4 singing at area churches. He had pastored area churches such as Maranatha Baptist in the Cedar Grove area and Lola Baptist Church.

Jack Harris was known to area folks as "Junebug." Most Harris men had nicknames such as her uncle Carroll Wayne "Chubby" and Elmer "Toby" Harris. Harris-

Crowell's aunt, Margaret Smith from Diamond, also sang gospel music all her life. Naturally, her niece was always going to gigs with her dad in Paducah and the Lakes area. Together they wrote their own music and she has recorded her own CD.

Harris-Crowell is a 1989 graduate of Livingston Central High School and spent eight years in Nashville singing with various bands.

Many people in Crittenden County may remember her as an insurance agent. She was also married to the late Bobby Don Crowell, who was a magistrate on Crittenden Fiscal Court.

Today she works for a software company and travels abroad. While still maintaining a home on the Crittenden-Webster County line, she enjoys reconnecting with band members from the tri-state area and performing when she can.

Salem Derby Day on Saturday will be her next stop. She is looking forward to returning to her hometown of Salem. Together, her band members have a combined 60 years of music experience. They are coming from Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky to help her celebrate her homecoming.

She will perform for three hours starting at noon on Main Street. In case of rain, the event will be moved to Salem Christian Life Center.

The 100-foot American flag painted on the side of the old Marion fire station and city hall off East Bellville Street was commissioned in 1975 as a celebration of the nation's bicentennial the following year. The City of Marion plans to raze the structures in the coming months.

and will likely take up the issue for discussion.

One concern is sure to be finding a way to obscure the view of a dull business alley with a web of electrical wires overhead and the unpolished backs of buildings lining the block. Bryant said fast-growing shrubbery or trees could help do the trick.

When the buildings are razed, a fence is expected to be erected to separate the city's land and alleyway from adjacent private property owned by the Wheeler family.

As a decision on what to do with the city-owned property is considered, the owners of the land housing the former county jail have a similar direction in mind—parking.

"Right now, the plan is to get it down," Crittenden County Library Director Regina Merrick said Monday of the old lock-up, "then we'll start thinking about how best to use the space. Hopefully, better parking for the library will be part of the future plan."

In a land swap made years ago as Crittenden Fiscal Court cleared the way to erect a new 133-bed jail, the library took ownership of the property housing the defunct 20-bed facility. The jail lot was in exchange for a parcel behind the library needed for the footprint of the current detention center.

As part of the initial deal between the county and library board of directors, the fiscal court agreed to bear the cost of razing the old jail.

Since the facility closed in favor of the current state-of-the-art detention center, the old jail has served as storage for both the library and county. But, leaks and mold took a toll on many of the items stored within.

Crittenden County Judge-Executive Perry Newcom said the jail was of little value as a structure or for its salvage value. The bricks, he said, were of relatively poor quality and will be used mostly as fill material where needed.

Wiring and a few other materials were of some value for their recyclable potential. Two local law enforcement officials also purchased metal-barred cell doors as momentos, Newcom said. They paid scrap metal prices, he added.

The plain, red brick building opened as a jail in 1975, according to county historian Brenda Underdown, to replace the 1903 lock-up that stood where the library is today. Utilized as a holding facility for more than 30 years, the jail had earned somewhat of a nefarious reputation for its almost $300,000 annual cost to operate and some highly-publicized unlawful incidents in its later stages as a county jail.

It even earned a top 10 spot in Playboy magazine's "best" jails, as rated by former inmates.

Family history plays a big role in quilt shows

Spring showers certainly didn't keep out-of-town visitors from around the world from attending the annual Backroads Festival events held last week in conjunction with American Quilter's Society Week in Paducah. The Woman's Club Quilt Show drew 54 visitors from 14 states, plus the countries of New Zealand and Denmark. Crittenden County resident Judith Ann Manley was voted the People's Choice winner for the quilt she received from her grandmother. Dorothy Hughes was named the People's Choice winner at the heavily-attended Backroads Quilt Show for the quilt she received from her grandparents. "This was something I hadn't expected at all," Hughes said. "This is my first time to enter a quilt at a show." The event was coordinated by the Crittenden County Extension Homemakers Association and had 95 registered visitors from nine states. The Backroads Quilt Show also displayed quilts by renowned quilter JoAnne Winn of Crittenden County. Meantime, Crittenden County Historical Museum drew 12 of its 13 visitors during the Backroads Festival from out of town. The family of the late Jeanne Hodge presented her book, “The Secret of Doe Run,” at the April 25 board meeting of the Crittenden County Public Library. The book was published after Hodge’s passing in 2011.

Hodge

Hodge, an avid reader, in recent years served as executive secretary to the Crittenden County Education and Technology Center, Crittenden County Economic Development Corp. and Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce.
“The Secret of Doe Run” is a fictional story set in Appalachia and focuses on the character of Dr. Taylor Warren and the quest to learn the truth about his ancestry. Local traditions and customs are incorporated into the storyline.

Hodge’s family members said they wanted to donate a copy to the library in her memory because of her love of reading.
“Jeanne always liked the library. She loved to read and always liked to write,” said her widower, Reg Hodge.
Hodge’s book is available in both paperback and Kindle formats.

Happy Feet raises money and purchases new name brand shoes for Crittenden County students. The organization partners with Hodges Sports and Apparel in Marion to provide high quality shoes at a fraction of the cost, then Family Resource Youth Service Center (FRYSC) Director Holly White identifies student who can benefit from the program and has them fitted for new shoes. The new shoes cost approximately $34 per pair.
"Having a good pair of shoes to wear is such a simple idea, we take it for granted. Yet it is so important to a child's self-esteem. It is amazing to think a pair of shoes can stop a child from being made fun of or being bullied. Why wouldn't we want to give that to our kids?" Woodall said.
Crittenden is not the only county to benefit from the organization. It has spread throughout western Kentucky to Webster, Union, Caldwell, Livingston, Hopkins, Henderson, Daviess, Muhlenberg, Ohio and Logan counties as well. In 2012, new shoes were provided to 2,500 students in eight counties through the program. In 2013, Happy Feet is projected to put shoes on the feet of 6,000 students in 11 counties. According to White, the program has operated in Crittenden County since 2010 and has provided over 200 students with new shoes before the beginning of the school year.

"I am planning to go to the schools to measure the kids this week. Students will get to choose which style of shoe they want from a selection provided by Hodges. Then, shoes will be given to students at the back to school event in July," said White.
Questions or donations to Crittenden County's Happy Feet efforts may be directed to: Karen Woodall, Attorney at Law, P.O. Box 436, 328 N. Main St., Marion, KY 42064.

Speech team presented trophy

Crittenden County Middle School Speech Team received a trophy last Thursday from the Kentucky High School Speech League. William Cooper, Executive Director of KHSSL (center), delivered the trophy to Marion and presented it to Jessi Brewer (left) and Katie Wheeler, co-captains of this year’s team. “This Award of Excellence is presented for team efficiency and to recognize schools with smaller but excellent squads competing at the state tournament,” Cooper said. Supporting Brewer and Wheeler at the KHSSL middle school state tournament held in March were the following CCMS students: Darren Paris, Brennan Jones, Baylee Priest, Nate Haire and Ashley Wheeler.

DCP, ACRE haste makes waste

For those of you who have Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts, we want to remind you that the primary nesting season is not too far away. Nesting season is from May 15 until Aug. 1. During this time of year, you are not supposed to conduct any management or maintenance activities for your contract.

This includes—but is not limited to—mowing, strip disking, chemical application, etc. The only exception to this is if the contract is in the establishment phase. Most contracts are established by the third year.

If you have any questions at all about CRP and your requirements please feel free to call the office at any time.

Along the lines of CRP, many producers have been busy working on their mid-contract management (MCM). Please remember, once you have completed your MCM to supply the office with your bills so we can provide you with the necessary paperwork to pay your cost share.

Laura Kessler
Executive Director
Salem USDA FSA

Around the Farm

Again, please remember, no MCM activities can be conducted during nesting season. If you have a MCM due this year and you do not get it completed before May 15, you have Aug. 1– Sept. 30 to get it completed.

Time to sign up for DCP
Many producers have not signed up yet, and we are on the downhill for sign-up. If you wish to enroll in Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE), you only have until June 3, which is only a month away. Regular Direct and Counter-Cyclical Program (DCP) contracts can be taken until Aug. 2, but that will be here before you know it.

I know everyone is busy, but we do not want anyone to miss signing up. Please keep in mind that we will be having a CRP sign-up in May, so this will limit the available staff for helping with DCP sign-up. So, please, do not procrastinate. Please call and schedule an appointment, or we would be happy to send the contracts to you if needed.

CRP sign up almost here
CRP general sign-up will be conducted from May 20 to June 14. This sign-up will allow anyone who has an expiring general CRP contract an option to offer the contract back in as well as anyone interested in offering new ground.
We do have an appointment calendar already started for this time frame. If you are interested in scheduling an appointment, please call or e-mail the office, and we will set one up for you.
There are several fact sheets available on the new sign-up located at <http://tinyurl.com/2q9ech>. If you are interested in offering your ground, we would recommend you check out these fact sheets. If you do not have Internet access, these fact sheets are also available in the office.

Acresage reports
We are currently taking acresage reports for any crops that have been planted as well as all grass farms and CRP. As soon as you are finished planting your spring crops, please contact our office and we will get your acresage report taken.

Days to remember
■ Through June 3: ACRE sign-up.
■ Through Aug. 2: DCP sign-up.
■ May 20 to June 14: General CRP sign-up.
(Laura Kessler is the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farm Service Agency county executive director at the Salem service center, which serves both Crittenden and Livingston counties.)

Stuffed for success

Todd Lucas, a Crittenden County taxidermist, and his 13-year-old son, Aaron, recently won several awards at the Grand National Turkey and Whitetail Deer Taxidermy Competition at the Opryland Hotel in Nashville. The elder Lucas, whose studio is located in Mattoon, won Best of Category in the professional division with a bearded hen entry. He also won first place in the commercial division with a full-velvet mounted whitetail buck. His son captured second place in the youth division with a whitetail deer mount.

State law could aid area food charities

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS
Gov. Steve Beshear signed a bill last week to provide an incentive for farmers to donate to food banks, which could further benefit local charities, particularly the food program through Life in Christ Church. The church's massive food bank has already partnered with more than four dozen farmers in Crittenden, Livingston and Union counties to accept culled livestock to be ground into fresh hamburger meat.
Crittenden County Food Bank could benefit from the new law as well.

Also, the farming community—and those whom food banks support—could benefit from the donation of locally-grown food products, especially produce which is a healthier feature for food banks, the governor said.

Beginning in 2014, Kentucky farmers who donate edible agriculture products to a food bank will be eligible to receive a credit against their state tax liability equal to 10 percent of the value of the donated item, according to a news release from the Kentucky Association of Food Banks.

Initial legislation was sponsored by state Rep. Tom McKee (D-Cynthiana), but was rolled over into Senate Bill 1, the overseas voting act, which passed unanimously in the House of Representatives before passing the Senate 38-0 during the final minutes of the 2013 legislative session.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, nearly one in six Crittenden Countians lives in poverty. Combined, Life in Christ Church and Crittenden County Food Bank feed as many as 500 families each month through their charities.

ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS IMAGE

Corps begins access restrictions to Cumberland dams, including Barkley

STAFF REPORT
The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Nashville District is beginning this week to implement permanent full-time waterborne restrictions around the 10 dams on the Cumberland River—including Barkley Dam—and its tributaries. Enforcement of these restrictions will be effective when the placement of buoys and sufficient signs is completed.

Not everyone is happy about the decision.

"I remain opposed to this proposal because the Corps still plans to restrict access to the tailwaters of these dams 24 hours per day, seven days per week rather than focusing efforts on when the dam gates are open and spilling, apparently the only time the waters themselves present an active danger," U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell of Kentucky said Tuesday, responding to the Corps' decision announced earlier in the day. "This plan demonstrates a complete disregard for the people affected most directly by the policy."

Restricted area boundary lengths around Barkley Dam will be 400 feet upstream from the dam and 700 feet below. All forms of waterborne access within the restricted areas is prohibited, including boating, swimming and wading. Bank fishing, however, is still permitted and encouraged in designated areas.

Installation of buoys and signs will continue through the spring and summer of 2013. The district will not be installing physical barriers at this time. Buoys and signs will mark restricted areas.

"I will continue to fight with my colleagues to get our legislation passed and put an end to this unreasonable restriction," U.S. Sen. Rand Paul of Kentucky said Tuesday, referring to the Freedom to Fish Act already filed in Congress.

The Corps says it is acting in the best interest of the public. "The Corps continues to be committed to providing the public with safe and healthy recreational opportunities throughout the Cumberland River Basin," the agency said in a Tuesday news release.

Maps of the restricted areas and information are located at <http://tinyurl.com/covtwp6>.

Sad facts that are worth remembering

Liberals, leftists, home-grown communists, the ACLU, atheist billionaire George Soros and other loud-mouth politicians are up in arms over the Islamic murderers at Gitmo getting scared by water boarding, deprived of sleep and forced to hear loud music for hours.

Know, however, that murderers at Gitmo have blown up, beaten, burned, stabbed, beheaded, hung, starved, hacked to death or shot our soldiers. These liberals and leftists want the Americans punished for all the comparatively mild treatment that gleaned information from these thugs, much of which has prevented many attacks on American soil.

These same liberals have the audacity to overlook and even support the ungodly killing of our next generation in brutal methods to the tune of over 56 million.

My question is, what influence was used in getting the evil judge to drop three of the seven murder charges of the Dr. Kermit Gosnell, who killed seven babies on the table after they survived the monstrosity of abortion?

There was a host of witnesses who testified of the other three who saw all seven killed on the table plus many more and a woman murdered by this monster.

What has happened to the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave?

Our founding documents say all men have the rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The only people who have exceeded our 56 million killed innocents is Mao of China with his 77 million, and Stalin with his 62 million murderers. We have even exceeded Hitler with his 20 million.

Do we still believe God is going to continue to bless this once In God We Trust nation?

What also boggles the mind is the concrete knowledge that every socialist, communist country yet has their brutal history recorded of deliberately killing 148 million people to satisfy their blood-thirsty power driven demands in the 20th century. I think our government is running pell-mell into dragging this nation into socialism which always leads to cruel communism. How can we continue to vote for this?

When the American haters have helped the communists to ruin us, we will be sitting ducks for the Muslims to take over.

We need to be getting honest and realize how, why and by whom all of this is being done.

"When the righteous are in authority the people rejoice, but when the wicked bear rule the people mourn." Prov. 29:2

America is in mourning. People losing their life savings, jobs and homes. CEOs are killing themselves, husbands are killing their wives and children and then themselves. Lascivious people are running roughshod over all who oppose them, and those who do oppose them and those who hate abortion are called terrorists. Police are warned to watch them.

This is exactly how Stalin and Hitler got their power, by putting fear in the populace and causing neighbors and family members to spy on all who disagreed with them.

For years God has not given us what we deserved, but blessed, blessed and blessed us. Now warnings by His judgment are seen everywhere in this nation. Forest fires, floods, storms, too much rain, then droughts--is it not obvious? We see brutal drug cartels, terrorists circling the nation, AIDS, the economy is crashing worldwide and there's more. Just look at the new threat of the deadly bird flu out of China, terrorists blowing up innocent people in Boston and planning for more.

Here we are, poor ole blind, greedy people trudging on with business as usual, deaf to His loving warnings.

Jesus said: "But as the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be." Mat. 24:36-39.

It will be over before we know it has happened and Hell yawning before millions with Heaven viewed by the righteous.

Fredonia Heritage club meets tonight

Cemetery walk to be rescheduled in near future after storms cancel weekend event

STAFF REPORT

Fredonia Valley Heritage Society will meet at 7 p.m. today (Thursday) at the cafeteria of First Baptist Church Family Life Center on Cassidy Avenue in Fredonia.

Following the business meeting, the program for the evening will be a preview of "A Walk Through Fredonia's Past," where visitors will meet a variety of real life characters from Fredonia's past. This is a "sneak peek" into the cemetery walk which was scheduled for last Saturday, postponed due to rain out. Refreshments will be served.

The cemetery walk will be rescheduled in the near future. Watch the newspaper for further details.

Fredonia Valley Heritage Society is for anyone interested in learning more about the heritage and history of the Fredonia Valley and for those who want to see the history of our community preserved for future generations.

The society's newest publication of the art of John F. Rice is nearing completion and is expected to be ready for delivery in the fall. This will be a unique hardback full of wonderful pieces of art in full color with historical descriptions.

Rice was born in the Fredonia Valley in 1882 and lived there until his death in 1960. As a young man, he served as a correspondent for The Chicago Tribune in France prior to World War I. His family owned Rice Brothers Tobacco Factory, which was burned by the Night Riders in 1906. Rice also served as president of the Fredonia Valley Bank from 1928 to 1937.

His artwork reflects his love for the Fredonia Valley and its people and includes art from his time in France and other locations. His son, Dick Rice, has given the society permission to use his father's art. Anyone interested in purchasing a copy of this book may reserve a copy by sending their name, address, phone number and $40 to: Fredonia Valley Heritage Society, P.O. Box 256, Fredonia, KY 42411.

If you have questions, you may contact FVHS President, Pam Faughn at 545-3215 or by e-mail at pamfaughn@att.net. You may also contact any other member of the Rice Book Committee—William R. Paris, Rita Oldham, Cherri Cunningham, Dean Akridge or Maggie Gammon.

In Loving Memory of

Roger Franklin Boone

— January 9, 1950 - April 29, 1995 —

Although 18 years have passed, you remain in our hearts and our memory as strong as ever. Maybe more so because of events that happen in our lives. We're going to have a grandson in July. You'll be a grandfather, although he never had a chance to know you. But we'll tell him how great a man and person you were. Jared wanted him to have your initials, and he will be RFB, Rex Franklin Boone, a tribute to your memory. You were the best, a wonderful husband, a great and loving father and a kind and caring man. We were fortunate to have had you in our lives. Our lives were changed for the better for having you be part of us and forever scarred for losing you. You will forever live in our hearts and memories all the days of our lives.

*All our love forever,
Your loving Wife and Sons
Linda, Alan, Lee & Jared*

Make charitable giving for victims count

The recent terrorist bombings at the Boston Marathon have not only shaken Boston and the nation, but have also strengthened our resolve to stand up in the face of terror. Many are asking about charities for Boston terror victims, a sign of Americans' constant generosity toward those in need. Before giving, however, it is best to make sure your charitable giving counts, according to Robert H. Flashman, Extension Specialist for Family Resource Management for the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

According to Insurance Journal, there may already be fraud in connection with

Nancy Hunt
UK Extension
Family & Consumer
Sciences Agent

related charities. "Massachusetts Attorney General Martha Coakley warned ... that within four hours of the bombing, more than 125 websites had been registered purportedly to collect money for victims." Considering the haste to set up the sites, it seems unlikely that many of them are legitimate.

Last week, however, state and city officials in Massachusetts "said they had established One fund Boston, designed as a central source of compensation for victims." Boston-based insurance company John Hancock contributed $1 million toward the fund, and Boston law firm Goodwin Procter will be in charge of it. Details about the fund are not yet clear and may not be available to the public for several weeks. It takes some time to put legitimate charities in place, so it will probably be best for us all to wait and give to the official fund.

The attack in Boston killed three and wounded more than 170. Since then, an MIT police officer was shot dead by one of the terrorists in a separate incident. Many of the survivors suffered serious injuries, some involving amputations, and charitable giving will clearly help, as long as it goes to those who need it most.

Many legal charities spend more on fundraising and administrative costs than on helping people or providing services. Many charities spend as much as 75 percent or more of donated funds on administrative expenses and on raising more money. Some spend as little as 2 to 3 percent on their stated mission.

To get an idea of the difference between a top-rated charity and one that is not so good, go to www.charitynavigator.org and look at the ratings for Hope for the Warriors® (*) and Wounded Warrior Project (). Hope for the Warriors got a high rating across the board, while the Wounded Warrior Project got only  for financials. But the contrast is starkest in the comments by clients, donors and volunteers. The Wounded Warrior Project received very low ratings by those who dealt with them, including mentions of unusually high executive salaries and low percentage of donations going toward helping people, as well as mention of overly aggressive and costly efforts to get donors to give again. Hope for the Warriors, however, received extremely high ratings from veterans, volunteers and donors.

Whatever your cause, Charity Navigator is an excellent source of unbiased information and ratings to help you select worthwhile charities to give to. And, for more information on charities, contact the Crittenden County Extension Office and ask for the Extension publication, "Times Are Tough, So Make Your Charitable Giving Count!"

Community of Crayne is rich in local history

Have you ever driven through the little community of Crayne and wondered how it got its name and how it used to be many years ago? Was it always just a small spot on the highway where the speed limit is supposed to be 45 mph, or was it once a bigger place? All that is left of the original, once-busy and family-filled community is the local post office.

In October of 1907, The Crittenden Record Press tells us that the name of the thriving little town of Crayneville, Ky., has been changed to Crayne. The similarity of Caneville Ky. and Crayneville, Ky., both being located on the Illinois Central Railroad, caused mail and freight to go to one or the other by error. Crayne, as it is now called, is a prosperous little town on the I.C.R.R. located four miles South of Marion. Here is some interesting early history of the community taken from notes written by James Robert Dorroh.

In the year 1887 the Ohio Valley Railroad Company was making plans and buying land to build a new railroad through the heart of Crittenden County. Five miles south of Marion, the county seat of Crittenden County was a small community with several families living there. Land through the heart of the small town was needed for the laying of the railroad tracks.

Mrs. Emma Crayne was one of the residents and also a landowner of the town. The path for the new railroad tracks needed to be placed on a large section of her family's land. Mrs. Crayne, wanting to help with the progress the new railroad would surely bring to the area, agreed to give the right of way for this railroad to come through her family's land.

The community would now need a name. For with the new railway and hopes of growing into a larger town, the residents of the community decided to name the town Crayneville, in honor of the Crayne family's generous gesture.

When the railroad was finished, it opened up a new way to travel and move products. Located on the east side of the railroad was a large lot known as the freight yard. A tobacco factory was located there for easy access for the farmers to bring their crops to be shipped. Large piles of flourspar from the local mines and stacks of large logs from the nearby forests were placed there and kept until they were ready to be loaded and hauled to other towns and cities.

The train ran north to south from Evansville to Princeton. There were three passenger trains running north and three trains south a day, each stopping at Crayneville, plus the freight train schedule. There was a nice depot built where many agents worked through the years.

New businesses began to spring up near the depot. A drug store and hotel building and a large general store were near the freight yard lot. This beautiful two-story building was owned and operated by Mr. Forest Pogue.

The first floor was the drug store, with the second story being the hotel.

Other general merchandise storeowners included Mr. P.H. Woods, Mr. R.B. Dorr and Mr. Hugh Glenn. In the early 1900s, Mr. Wyatt Brookshire, Mr. Weldon and Mr. J.C. Carlton owned stores. The Crayneville Post Office was located in the store of Mr. Hugh Glenn.

In the early 1900s, there were also two blacksmith shops and a gristmill owned by Mr. Dobbs and Mr. W.B. Binkley. Mr. Binkley and his family came to Crayneville from View, Ky., in 1906. He labored hard daily at the forge and with a hammer making iron parts to repair machinery, wagons an horse shoeing. He also had a gristmill located near the blacksmith shop.

In the 1890s, Mr. James Franklin Dorroh came to Crayneville and was hired by Mr. Hugh Glenn as a clerk in his store. Being employed, he found lodging at the home of Mr. Benjamin Crayne. Here he met Mary Malinda "Linnie" Crayne, fell in love and married. In later years he bought the inventory of the Glenn store and the business became known as Dorroh Brothers Store. It was a large wood building with a coal stove near the back, a checker-board and a wooden bench for people to rest on and visit. In the front of the store was the post office and close by was a big showcase full of candy. In the back of the store was a barbershop operated by Mr. Dorroh's sons, William and Eugene. William did the shaving and Eugene, an excellent barber, did the hair-cutting. When James F. Dorroh retired, his three children, William, Eugene and Mary Emma continued the business for an overall time-span of about 60 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown bought the inventory of the Dorroh Brothers Store and operated this business until it was destroyed by fire in 1959.

Mr. Seth Ferguson came to Crayne in 1944 as a clerk in the Dorroh Brothers store. Later he purchased the Long's store inventory and operated this business for a while. Mr. Ferguson then built a new store building across the road and moved to the new location. In the 1950s, he became postmaster and the post office was moved into this building. The Post Office is still located at this building today.

The first school was built sometime in the late 1800s, and it was located on Jesse McCaslin's land across the road from the Crayne Community Church on Crayne Cemetery Road, the former home of the Seth Ferguson family.

About 1923 a new school building was built on Ky. 91 South. This building contained two large rooms, a coat room on each side, two large stoves and a petition that could be raised for special occasions. In 1952 a new, smaller concrete block building was constructed on the property to house the first through third grades. These schools were closed in 1961 with the consolidation of many of the smaller county schools. (Both of these buildings are gone due to the tornado damage in January 2000. Crayne never was able to fully recover from this terrible day and the damage and toll it took on some residents.)

The first church was organized in the community in 1892 as a Cumberland Presbyterian branching off from the congregation of the Piney Fork church. On April 6, 1893 the church held its ceremonies to mark the beginning of this new church at Crayneville. The Crittenden Press recorded this event. In 1907, this church became a United Presbyterian Church U.S.A. This church is the one that was damaged in the 2000 tornado and had to be replaced. In 2012 the church changed its name and now is the Crayne Community Church.

In 1911, a group of people organized and built a new building on Ky. 91 South called the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. In July of 1913, the congregation had its dedication services for this new church. On July 26, 1943, this church was destroyed by fire after being struck by a lightning bolt during a late afternoon storm. The bolt struck directly into the bell tower and the blaze burst forth immediately. All contents of the building were saved including the piano and pews but the structure was a total loss.

The church was rebuilt of concrete block construction, and on Feb. 27, 1949, Rev. Eugene Lindsey was the pastor in charge of the dedication service for the new church building. This church closed in 1975. In 1979, a congregation known as the Unity Baptist Church organized and purchased this Cumberland Presbyterian Church building. Today the once white block church has grown into a much larger building and has recently been recovered with a brick exterior.

Not much of this once busy, family filled community is left today. Most all the old family members have passed away and many of the old familiar houses are gone or their appearances changed and people with unfamiliar names live there. But there is a sign by the highway in the middle of what used to be downtown Crayne, that tells the world that Crayne is still an important place to us that were born and raised and grew up there—it says "Crayne, Ky., Home is Where The Heart Is."

The "Welcome to Crayne" sign has been gone for several months. It had gotten in bad condition over the years and needed some repair. A new one has recently been reset in its original place to once again identify our little town and let passersby know we still love our town. It is appropriately located across the highway from the last original business building in Crayne, the post office.

Bebout triples in win over Trigg

Crittenden 6, Trigg 5

Eli Bebout helped make sure the Rockets remained unbeaten in Fifth District play Monday. The senior right fielder ripped a walk-off RBI triple to score Zack Knight and pinch runner Colby Watson, beating Trigg County 6-5 in the bottom of the seventh inning at Marion-Crittenden County Park.

A three-run, third-inning homer by Trigg senior Trace Kuberski had given the Wildcats the lead most of the game.

However, the Rockets closed the gap to 5-4 when Taylor Champion walked and scored on a fielder's choice to start the final frame. Bebout finished off the Wildcats, cracking the first pitch he saw off Trigg hurler David Wease to deep center.

CCHS junior Aaron Owen was 3-for-4 at the plate, including a last-inning double. Devin Belt, now 2-3, pitched the entire game, striking out three and walking one for the win.

Crittenden (8-12) is now 4-0 in district action with two games left against Lyon and Livingston. The Rockets play at Livingston Thursday and May 13 at Lyon County. Crittenden has won the district championship four out of the last five seasons.

Trigg (17-9) is 4-2 in the district. Its only losses were to Crittenden.

The CCHS boys played at Hopkinsville Tuesday night. Results were unavailable at press time.

Crittenden County scored five runs in the fifth to make sure it won a third Fifth District game this season. The Rockets haven't lost in league play with wins over Trigg, Livingston and Lyon.

Crittenden's pivotal fifth inning started when Zack Knight reached on a dropped third strike with his team leading 6-3. He later scored on a fielder's choice. Then, Dylan Hollis, Travis Gilbert and Brenden Phillips each singled and Devin Belt hit a double. Before the inning was over, Crittenden was ahead 11-3 and Lyon was never able to recover.

Gilbert pitched into the seventh inning and got the victory. Taylor Champion got the game's last out in relief. Gilbert struck out seven, walked five and gave up eight hits and four earned runs.

Champion was 3-for-4 for the Rockets and knocked in a run. Phillips and Belt had two hits each.

Crittenden County led 11-10 going into the bottom of the last inning, but a walk-off grand slam home run gave Madisonville the win.

The Maroons' Caleb Crabtree hit a 3-0 pitch from Rocket reliever Adam Driver over the center field fence to break a tie game.

Travis Gilbert was 3-for-4 and scored four runs for the Rockets. Brenden Phillips, Taylor Champion and Devin Belt had two hits apiece. Belt drove in three runs. He was the starting pitcher and went four innings. Colby Watson worked the fifth and sixth before Driver was brought in for the final stanza.

Lady Rockets get district victory

Lady Rocket hurler Cassidy Moss got the final out on a strikeout with the tying and winning runs on base Monday as Crittenden beat Lyon County 3-2 in girls' high school softball action at Marion-Crittenden County Park.

Lyon got a runner aboard with no outs in the final inning, but catcher Jesse Brewer threw out the would-be base stealer as shortstop Stacie Hearrell made a great catch and block at second to make the putout. Lyon then got two more aboard after the second out of the inning.

Moss, who went the distance, walked the next to last batter, but gave her club a chance to celebrate the season's first district win with the final strikeout.

The Lady Rockets (4-11) had won their last two games heading into Tuesday's game at Union County. Results from that contest were not available at press time.

Lady Rockets nip Caldwell

A bases-loaded walk gave Crittenden County a 4-3 victory over Caldwell County at Marion Friday.

Cassidy Moss pitched the entire game, allowing just three hits. She also had a single and a double. Moss walked and scored in the first and her double started the pivotal final inning, when she also scored the tying run.

Kayla Davis was 2-for-3 for the Lady Rockets. Danielle Byarley, Stacie Hearrell, Kali Travis, Khyla Moss and Whitney Williams each singled for Crittenden.

Livingston 10-runs Lady Rockets

Livingston Central beat Crittenden 12-0 last Thursday at Marion.

Khyla Moss doubled in the second, and Crittenden scattered singles from Williams and Davis, but could score nothing.

Livingston pitchers Caitlin Merritt and Emily Jenkins combined to allow just three hits. Courtney Walker, Hailee Lampley, Ashley Wright, Jennifer Head and Katelynn Brown each had two hits for the Lady Cardinals.

For students who want to know more about this program, contact the school guidance counselor or the Crittenden County Economic Development Corporation.
