

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO BE CONSIDERED WEALTHY...

According to a study released last week, most Americans say that to be considered "wealthy" in this country, you need to have a net worth of $1.9 million. That is a bit less than the same Americans said last year, perhaps because of the detrimental affect the pandemic had on the economy and personal income. A year ago, according to a Schwab's Modern Wealth Survey, most Americans said it took $2.6 million to be on the wealthy list. Wealth expectations vary by generation. For millennials (ages 24 to 39) you need $1.4 million to be rich, for Gen X (ages 44 to 55) that figure is $1.9 million and for baby boomers (ages 56 to 74) it's a bit higher at $2.5 million. Schwab said that most respondents to the survey found that the pandemic had impacted them financially. A drop in income can affect net worth, which can be figured by adding up the value of a person's assets, including cash in checking and savings accounts, financial investments and the value of any real estate or vehicles owned, then substracting debt, including credit card balances, student loans and mortgages. The average U.S. household has assets totaling $96,679. The richest 1 percent holds about 40 percent of the nation's wealth, according to Money magazine.

Beef on the Hoof Local farmer carries on generational legacy of raising food for the skillet

BY KAYLA MAXFIELD THE CRITTENDEN PRESS

In Kentucky, the month of May shines a spotlight on beef production. Pinned as the largest cattle state east of the Mississippi, Kentucky beef production contributes greatly to the economy, and it all begins with the hard work of cattle farmers like Kyle Myatt of Crittenden County. Myatt, who raises cattle in the Mattoon area, knows what it takes to keep a herd healthy and happy. Carrying on a legacy passed down from many generations before him, Myatt, 25, says with a chuckle that he's worked calves since he was old enough to be what his family deemed "responsible."

"I've been working on the farm with my grandfather and dad since I was big enough to push the clutch on a tractor and truck," Myatt said. "I started riding horses before I could walk and I bought my first set of cows when I was 17. I've been full steam since then." It's calving season in late winter and early spring that the young farmer enjoys the most. "There's nothing like seeing new life hit the ground, continuing to grow the herd. To see the mama cow know exactly what to do with her God-given instincts is just amazing," he said. "Rain or shine, she cares for her baby."

Myatt and his girlfriend Danielle Byarley have hearts in agriculture. rooted Byarley grew up in the industry and is proud of her hard-working boyfriend "I know he puts his heart in everything he does. Some days, I can't put it into words," she said. "He works so hard. I know I'm partial, but he is so talented with a cow, or a horse. I couldn't think of a better partner." Byarley is okay with the fact that date nights and vacations take a back seat, escow pecially when а manages to escape just when they do get ready to

GOP holding voter edge here as rolls purged

The disparity between the electorate of the two major political parties continues to grow in Crittenden County. Meantime, the total number of registered voters has fallen since the last presidential election as the county's voter rolls are cleaned up.

April statistics show a difference of 1,324 voters be-Republicans and tween Democrats, with the GOP majority continuing to grow since October 2014, when Democrats became the minority party in the county for the first time in four decades.

The county's 3,722 Republicans account for 56 percent of the 6,701 voters in the county, outpacing Democrats (2,748 voters, or 36 percent) and all other registrants (548 voters, or 8 percent) combined.

"The local shift began after the 2008 presidential election when John McCain lost to Barack Obama," said Crittenden County Clerk Daryl Tabor. "But regardless of their party, Crittenden Countians have tended to vote conservatively in federal elections over the last few decades. The last time county voters favored a Democrat in a federal race was when they selected Bill Clinton for President over incumbent George H.W. Bush in 1992.

At the time of the 2018 election for countywide offices, the Republican majority in Crittenden County was only 623 voters - 3,371-2,478.

Next year offers partisan races for countywide offices. Currently, only three Democrats hold major seats in county government, including only one magistrate on the six-member fiscal court.

As the state and counties clean up voting rolls - removing deceased voters and those who have moved out of the jurisdiction - the current number of voters in Crittenden County has dropped by 59 from 6,760. Statewide, 5,250 voters have been removed from the rolls over the same period.

in an unforeseen crater. It felt like an eight-inch deep pothole that blew out a sidewall in my six-monthold-Goodyear tire.

Though the route traveled had started to become bad in months past, this particular night I was driving along, seeing no traffic cones or warnings of rough patches ahead. The idea that the city street could've potentially gotten worse rather than fixed was far from my mind.

So, at 9:30 p.m., on a Thursday, I was slowly rolling into my friend's driveway with a flat, praying to God her parents were on day shift and were home to help me change it since this life experience would be a first for me.

Dad always stressed the importance of knowing our surroundings while teaching us kids how to drive. Sadly enough during those lessons in the Marion city limits, he also had to urge the importance of watching out for potholes and destroyed blacktop that could prompt mechanical issues, even while driving the speed limit.

Thankfully, Dad's advice and driving tips during early days checked out and it may indeed have prevented this blowout from becoming a wreck.

Perhaps this experience has driven the long way around toward explaining how a questioning mind began wondering whether this little effort to save money on a dress was worth all the trouble to begin with.

Marion home destroyed by Saturday fire

STAFF REPORT

No one was at the Nathan and Stefanie Graham home on Chadd Street in Marion Saturday afternoon but a neighbor reacted quickly when she saw fire and called 911.

Rita Watson, who lives nearby, summoned help at 3 p.m., and quickly City of Marion firemen and Crittenden County volunteer firemen were on the scene.

"Our firefighters are so wonderful. We are so fortunate to have such brave frontline men and women. I just cried," Watson said.

Between consequences of the fire, smoke and water, much of the couple's belongings were destroyed or damaged. The house is also likely a total loss.

"There was one end of the house where a bedroom is that didn't sustain too much damage so they might get some stuff out of there," said Marion Fire Chief Red Howton. "We were able to get some of their stuff out while we were there."

A pet dog was also saved.

"That sweet dog came out and I hit my knees," Watson said.

The fire chief said a cause had not been determined.

Firemen were on the scene for about three hours, putting out hot spots.

Nathan Graham posted on social media that he and his wife appreciate the outpouring of prayers and offers for assistance.

Marion fireman Brian Kirby goes through charred remains inside the Graham's home.

Four indicted, others sentenced in circuit court

STAFF REPORT

The Crittenden County Grand Jury indicted four men last week during its regular monthly session.

A grand jury does not determine guilt or innocence. It merely decides whether enough evidence exists to continue prosecution of a case, sending it to circuit court.

Indicted last Thursday were:

•Jerald W. Swetland Jr., 27, of Princeton was indicted on a felony charge of first-degree possession of a controlled substance (methamphetamine) and misdemeanor charges of possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. Court and police records indicate that Swetland was at a home on North College Street on April 27 where police were visiting as part of an unrelated matter when they found the alleged drugs.

•Timmy Phillips, 41, of Marion was indicted on a felony charge of first-degree wanton endangerment, misdemeanor charges of third-degree terroristic threatening and second-degree disorderly conduct and violations of reckless driving, public intoxication and improper start from a parked position. The charges stem from an incident in Tolu on Jan. 28 during an altercation with neighbors.

•Robert Neil Sherer, 39, of Marion was indicted in two cases that were filed separately nine days apart. In the first case, Sherer was indicted on two felony charges of first-degree possession of a controlled substance, believed to be methamphetamine and hyand drocodone, а misdemeanor charge of possession of drug paraphernalia. Sherer was arrested on April 14 at a home on Creekside Drive in Marion when police went to the residence during a probation and parole investigation.

In the second case, filed on April 23, Sherer is indicted on a felony charge of first-degree possession of a controlled substance (methamphetamine) and possession of drug paraphernalia. Trooper Darron Holliman lodged the charges after answering a alongside complaint sheriff's deputies on Water Street in Tolu. The citation says that officers were responding to a call of the defendant arguing with a family member and possession of a firearm. No gun was found when police arrived, but a pipe and alleged meth was discovered.

•William D. Sherer, 48, of Marion was indicted on a felony charge of first-degree possession of a controlled substance (methamphetamine) and misdemeanor charges of second-degree possession of a controlled substance (suboxone). Sherer was arrested on April 14 at a home on Creekside Drive in Marion when police went to the residence during a probation and parole investigation.

PLEADINGS REVOCATIONS

Circuit Judge Rene Williams heard pleadings, conducted hearings and disposed of a number of cases during last week's regular, monthly session of Crittenden Circuit Court.

Here are the cases that were heard before the judge:

Andrew •Marcus Menser, 27, of Marion pleaded guilty to two Class D felony drug trafficking charges of less than 2 grams of methamphetamine. A more serious drug trafficking charge of selling more than 2 grams of meth was dismissed in a plea agreement. Menser also pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia, both misdemeanors.

Commonwealth Attorney Zac Greenwell is recommending five years on each of the felony charges and 45 days and 12 month on the misdemeanors, respectively. Menser will be formally sentenced at a later date.

•Marc Duane Whitaker, 35, of Marion had his probation revoked for leaving a court-ordered treatment facility. It was the second time, according to court records, that Whitaker had failed to complete a court-ordered treatment program. Judge Williams, citing Whitaker's lengthy criminal history and his absconding from the treatment program, revoked his probation and ordered him to complete his original three-year sentence for possession of methamphetamine.

•James Hutchinson, 52, of Marion had his probation revoked in two felony cases because he was charged April 1 in Bowling Green with felony possession of methamphetamine and another misdemeanor. Hutchison was on probation on two prior convic-Crittenden tions in County for possession of meth in 2019 and assault in 2017.

•Jonathan Chase York, 36, of Marion pleaded guilty to a Class B felony charge of first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance (methamphetamine), over two grams, second offense, and a Class C felony charge of first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance (opiates), second or subsequent offense.

Judge Williams will formally sentence York in August. The commonwealth is recommending a 20-year sentence on the Class B felony and five years on the Class C offense. The time would run concurrently. The state prosecutor has indicated that the commonwealth will not oppose shock probation after the standard period of incarceration time.

York is alleged to have sold methamphetamine and hydrocodone tablets to a cooperating witness on Jan. 8, 2020 in a transaction arranged by the Pennyrile Area Narcotics Task Force.

"All too often, we forget about the patient's emotional fight while they're physically fighting their diagnosis. But cancer is a disease of the body, mind and soul," said Chris Prestano, a thyroid cancer survivor.

WHEAT CROP BETTER

Kentucky farmers expect to harvest 27.4 million bushels of winter wheat during 2021 according to the Kentucky Field Office of USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service. The expected crop for 2021 would be up 28 percent from the previous year. Farmers seeded 530,000 acres last fall with 365.000 acres to be harvested for grain. Based on crop conditions as of May 1 and assuming a normal growing season, farmers expect a yield of 75.0 bushel per acre, up 12.0 bushels from 2020. Acres for other uses totaled 165,000 acres and will be used as cover crop for tobacco or cut as silage or hay.

As of May 9, winter wheat was rated 2% poor, 13% fair, 61% good and 24% excellent. At this same date, crop progress was at 68% headed compared to 82% last year and 76% for the five-year average.

Crittenden County during the year 1977

Here is some great information taken from a wonderful and colorful large brochure that was created by the Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce in 1977. What a wonderful way to share and preserve the history of our county and town. It's a shame one of these couldn't have been printed every year, or at least every five years. I hope you enjoy recalling some of the information I have abstracted from the brochure.

The County

Kentucky's 91st coun-Crittenden, was formed from Livingston County in 1842.

Located in the Pennyrile Region of western Kentucky, Crittenden County is named in honor of John J. Crittenden, a former Kentucky governor, U. S. senator, and U. S. attorney general.

The county covers a land area of 365 square miles has and а population of approximately 9,000. The Tradewater River flows along the northeastern border, while the northwestern boundary is formed by the Ohio River.

Forgotten

Passages

Crittenden County's transportation link across the Ohio River is completed by a ferry which connects Kentucky 91 and Illinois Route 1 at Cave In Rock, Ill., a historical town which once harbored outlaws and river pirates. The cave hideout now is marked by a state park.

The 24-hour, yearround ferry across the Ohio is operated by the tugs Candy H and Becky D, both out of the Port of Louisville. The 3,000foot trip across the Ohio takes seven minutes to complete.

Ohio River traffic is served by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers' Dam 50 operation, which is located 12 miles from Marion, the county seat. Opened in 1927, the one-lock dam handles 18 to 20 tows daily. Three to four million tons of cargo pass through the lock each month. In addition to the lock, the dam complex includes seven houses, a powerhouse, water system and a park area with picnic tables. Dam 50 will be closed in 1980 with the completion of a two-lock operation downstream at Smithland. Under a present proposal, the Dam 50 complex will be transferred to Crittenden County for development as a recreational facility.

The Marion Depot and train operation through Marion and Crittenden County was another part of Crittenden County history that would be lost several years after the 1977 article was written.

operations within the county include South Central Bell Telephone, the U.S. Postal Service, the weekly Crittenden Press and WMJL-AM.

The Marion Airport board is in the process developing of 2,800-foot а turf runway on a site located 1.12 miles west of Marion with city, county and state funds. Future plans call for the construction of a 5,000foot paved runway.

Lodging facilities for travelers to the county include: the Tudor Inn of Marion, the Gilmore Inn and Motel in downtown Marion and the Tourtotel Motel, U. S. 60 Marion. In addition, Maple Sink, a small fishing resort within the county, has sites available for camping.

within Restaurants Marion are the Marion Cafe, the Coffee Shop, the Ranch House, the Marion Country Club, the 88 Dip, Damrons Pit Barbecue, Marion Pit Barbecue and Cruce's Coachman.

Points of Interest include: Crittenden County Museum, opened in 1967 by the Historical Society, James Terry's cut glass shop, featuring a beautiful cut glass collection in his shop on the court square, Wheeler's Antiques, Ben E. Clement's Fluorspar collection located in his home just outside of Marion, and τne Crittenden County Public Library.

The Dam 50 Lock House was a favorite and familiar sight to Crittenden County people. It would be gone soon after 1980 when the Dam was blown up and operations moved to the new dam at Smithland.

Two of the elementary schools are located within Marion; Fohs Hall for grades one through three and Marion Elementary School for grades four through six. The other three schools in the county for grades one through six are Tolu, Frances and Mattoon.

Construction of the new Crittenden County High School in Marion was completed in 1975. The old high school was converted to the middle school for grades seven and eight.

Industry

Eleven manufacturing firms operate plants within Marion and Crittenden County. The companies and their products are:

■ Circle-O Farm Center, liquid fertilizer;

■ Conyer Hardwood Lumber Company, lumber;

Crittenden Press, newspaper, letterpress and offset printing;

Frontier Spar, a subsidiary of Marathon Oil, miner and miller of fluorspar:

Kentucky Stone Company, agricultural Marion Machine Works, machine shop; ploys approximately 250 and produces specialized business forms.

Ohio River Concrete Corporation, ready-mixconcrete;

 Potter and Brumfield, a division of American Machine Foundries of White Plains, NY, this major county firm employs approximately 600 workers and produces electromagnetic relays;

■ Turner and Conyer Lumber Company, Inc., lumber, clay pipe spacers, pallets and boxes:

 Kentucky Stump Company, home furniture made from tree trunks.

Rail shipping service to Marion is offered by Illinois Central Gulf Railroad, headquartered in Chicago.

A northbound and a southbound train passes through the county each day. The railroad maintains switching facilities, team track for eight cars and siding space for 15 cars.

Agricultural production plays an important role in the economy of Crittenden County. The major crops of the county are corn, soybeans 1 wheat, Livestock in-ple's Bank and the Hopkins County First Federal Savings and Loan Association, all in Mari-

Business and civic organizations within the county include the Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, and the Lions Club. Additional organizations include: Masonic Lodge, American Legion, Woodmen of the World, Oddfellows, Eagles, Federation of Women's Club, Eastern Star, American Legion Auxiliary, Boy Scouts, Girls Scouts, Little League baseball, Peewee League, Pony League, Little League football, Town and Country Riding Club, Gun Club and the Crittenden County Historical Society.

Recreation

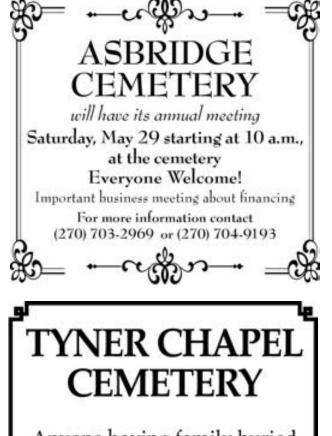

Recreational facilities within Marion include two parks, two playgrounds, two tennis courts, two baseball diamonds, two football fields and a horse riding ring.

Facilities of the Marion Country Club are a ninehole golf course, swimming pool and a clubhouse with dining room. The country club, which opened in 1961, is located on approximately 80 acres of land.

Present plans call for the development of 100 acres of land at the Ohio River Dam 50 site with the opening of a new dam downstream at Smithland in 1980.

This is an informative overview of our life in the county in 1977. So many changes, not all good, have taken place in the past 44 years. A lot of our past history gone and faded with time.

She was 19 years old and felt horrible, her night had not ended the way she had hoped. There she was after her shift as a waitress, sifting through the night's garbage with her equally upset (not mad, just upset) fiancé. She was helping to clean up and at some point, her new ever-so-slightly-too-large engagement ring had slipped from her finger. It was gone!

Distraught, she called her future husband and there they were in the middle of the night siftthrough ing the garbage. After about an hour and half they found it! There was rejoicing and relief. There was no blame, no asking why it was lost in the fist place. They knew – it was lost because she was working, doing what she needed to do to build a life with the one she loved. Sometimes we just lose things because we are living life and they just slip away without us noticing. Finding them is worth the effort.

It had turned bitter cold that day and a blizzard was blowing in to add to the snow that had already fallen. He had counted three times and was certain that one of his milk cows was missing. He had been up since 3:30 a.m. and it was now after 9:30 at night. He was cold and tired and now he had to saddle his horse and go look for his stray. He looked for about an hour and noticed that some careless and unethical snowmobilers hours, without worrying about one of his animals. Sometimes we lose things because of the damage others do without thinking or caring. Finding them is worth the effort. Finding them before dealing with the damage is imperative otherwise it may be too late. Staying focused on what we are looking for matters more than punishing the ones that have caused the problem.

She loved him mightily, but he could not shake his need for the white powder. She had not noticed when they fell in love at a Christian college. It was not until after they were married that his past trauma caused him to turn to artificial means of dulling the guilt and pain. For years she endured. Now he was in jail and facing potential prison time. She could help manage attorneys and the household, but she was powerless to influence the outcome very much. It would have to be him to make his case. It would have to be him to finally decide to love her and their children more than the drugs.

He chose. He convinced the system to allow him parole rather than jail time. He convinced her that he was ready to change. He did. They had over 20 beautiful years together. He still died earlier than anyone expected, but they were happy - again - together. She was faithful when he had failed. She never gave up on him and stood ready to welcome him back. She loved him and by her example the children forgave him as well.

Sometimes people let us down. Sometimes they wander off and there is nothing we can do to stop them. All we can do is stay faithful and willing and ready to welcome them home when they return. There are clearly times when the best thing we can do for all concerned is to cut ties and move on with life. However, especially in the case of children, stay faithful to what is important. Keep praying. Keep living life and doing good. Never give up hope for change and a return.

When we have lost things or people we care about and have the opportunity at restoration, there is rejoicing all around. No doubt, there may be a mess to clean up, or a fence to mend. or a relationship to work on for the rest of our lives – but first, rejoice.

I think of the family whose son left and did not return for over a decade. I think of a father and son who were estranged for 40 years who finally came to understand each other better. Neither hated the other, they just drifted apart

Question: With 24 hour news and endless Facebook postings, I am bombarded with bad news. I have become increasingly negative in my thinking. Is there a better environment for forming my daily focus?

Answer: Social media, TV and other modern distractions can consume our attention if we're not careful.

ally and mentally better for us than drawing close to God through reading and meditation on His Word. the Bible. The psalmist declared, "Though rulers sit together and slander me, your servant will meditate on your decrees. Your statutes are my delight; they are my counselors" (Ps. 119:23, 24). When we meditate on God's Word, it becomes our daily delight and our constant counselor.

Also, praying will help us overcome negativity. Replace at least 10 minutes of social media time (or TV watching) each day with additional time talking to God. We shouldn't allow our prayer time to just become a session of asking for what He can do for us, but we should make it conversation with Him. Daily time with God will give us a positive and confident perspective each day. Send your questions to: bob@bobhardison.com

Matthew Valentine was among local teens who received the first shot of Pfizer vaccine last week during a FEMA-sponsored clinic in front of Marion City Hall. The clinic will be back on June 4.

Mobile clinic will be back June 4

STAFF REPORT

Carie Valentine read an article at The Press Online about the opportunity to get the last two members of her family vaccinated, so they were among the first in line Friday at Marion Commons.

A free vaccine clinic sponsored by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) was provided for more than six hours in front of city hall.

"I am so glad this was here," Valentine said. "I think all kids should be vaccinated and I knew this was the best way to do it because they wouldn't have to be out of school too long."

Valentine is a school bus monitor and has already been vaccinated, as have her husband and 18-year-old son.

She brought her other 16- and 14-year-old boys to last week's clinic. They will have to go back on June 4 to the same place to get their second round of the Pfizer vaccine.

There was very little fornotice about the clinic being here last week. The Press received information about it on Wednesday after the newspaper had already been published, so information was posted online. City officials found out about it less than 24 hours before the staff of three from Wild Health showed up to begin administering shots.

When the clinic returns early next month, individuals can get free firstdose shots, or their second dose. If they get the first dose, it will be their responsibility to arrange for the final dose at least two weeks later at another clinic or facility, such as a health department.

Masks will no longer be required as of June 11 in many KY places

On June 11, Kentuckians – whether vaccinated or not - can shed the masks indoors and out, but there are several exceptions to the governor's latest announcement about face coverings.

Because the CDC has begun relaxing its guidelines for mask wearing, Gov. Andy Beshear is following the lead and opening up more of the commonwealth to mask-free gatherings.

There are several exceptions; however, including crowded indoor settings like buses, planes, nursing homes, hospitals and prisons, even if fully vaccinated.

Last week, the governor said vaccinated people can go without masks right now, but that does not include students in K-12, faculty, staff and visitors at schools. They will all need to continue wearing masks, including on school buses.

A handful of retail stores across the state have initially said they will continue to require masks in their buildings.

On Monday, Gov. Beshear announced 1.9 million Kentuckians have received at least their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine – 54 percent of all Kentucky adults and 80 percent of Kentuckians 65 and older now have at least their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine. Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine has been approved for youngsters age 12 to 15. Local public health officials say that rural health departments are not equipped at this time to store that particular vaccine, but strategies are being explored to facilitate its storage and availability here and in nearby counties.

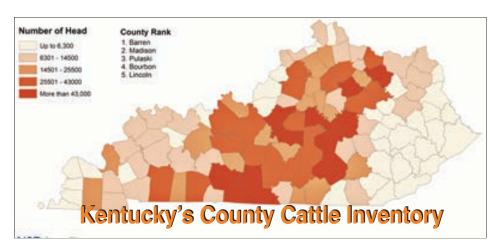

Currently, Baptist Health in Madisonville, Walgreens in Morganfield or Madisonville and CVS in Paducah are the nearest locations to get the vaccine approved for this age group.

All indoor and outdoor events of any size and businesses of any size can increase to 75 percent capacity as of next Friday, just ahead of the Memorial Day weekend. Two weeks later, the state will lift all capacity restrictions related to COVID-19.

Also, Kentucky courts are lifting mask mandates for vaccinated individuals and going back to in-person hearings and other proceedings.

Gov. Beshear also said early this week that he does not think there will be a mask mandate for schools in the fall.

In Crittenden County, new cases of the virus continue to be reported at modest levels. There were three cases reported during the seven-day period from May 11-17.

Myatt's biggest concern about the local cattle industry is the declining number of young farmers. Stastics show that midsized farms are declining in Kentucky. Those in the 50- to 500-acre range are going down, but larger farms and smaller ones are holding their own, even increasing in some areas. In Kentucky, 93percent of farms are family owned. Agriculture is a $5.7 billion industry in Kentucky, up from $5.1 billion five years earlier. Forty years ago, the average age of a Kentucky farmer was 50. Currently, it's closer to 60. The latest data indicate that there are about 13,000 head of cattle in Each day is completely unpredictable, Myatt explains. "If you ate today, thank a farmer."

According to Kentucky Food and Farm, the commonwealth has more than 1 million beef cows. Add the state's calves, bulls and dairy cows and there are about 2 million bers that have remained fairly steady over the past decade.

Mott signs to play basketball at Centre

Rocket basketball coach Denis Hodge describes Gabe Mott's legacy at Crittenden County High School as one with a deep and lasting impression.

While the numbers may last longer than anything else, Hodge says Mott's character and gutsiness will no doubt long be remembered among the most storied careers in the high school's history.

"It's an exciting time for all of us," coach Hodge said. "Gabe has just been an absolute blessing to our basketball program.'

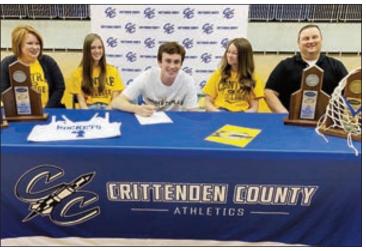

Mott scored 1,545 points during his basketball season. That makes him No. 3 on the boys' all-time scoring list. He also helped Crittenden win in 2018 one of its only two district championships over the past 60 years.

Last week, Mott officially signed a letter of intent to play basketball at Centre College in Danville. Surrounded by family, friends, coaches and teammates, Mott spoke about his favorite memories as a Rocket basketball player and the challenges ahead of him in college. He pointed to the team's district title in 2018 as his most memorable moment in high school sports.

Mott was also a member of the Rocket baseball team throughout his high school career. He played shortstop and was a key offensive player for the Rockets. Mott also pitched periodically and nearly threw a perfect game his senior season against Webster County. One bloop hit by the Trojans spoiled the opportunity and Mott settled for a one-hit shutout.

In his younger days, Mott was a standout football player, but opted out of that sport after breaking his collarbone in middle school. His father was a collegiate football player at Murray State and Mott admits that the decision to concentrate on basketball and baseball alone was a difficult one, but he made a decision early on in high school to pursue a path that included just two sports.

Mott said coaches Hodge, Ethan Hill and Landon Young played key roles in his development as a player. Mott spent many hours in the gym with coaches before and after school that most folks know nothing about, he said, which was key to his consistent improvement on the court.

"I can't say enough about all my coaches," he said. "I re-ally appreciate them."

Although he's undecided on a college major, Mott said he is leaning toward a degree in mechanical engineering or perhaps wildlife biology.

BASEBALL Rockets beat UHA by 1

University Heights put its ace on the mound, but Rocket junior hurler Logan Bailey won the pitching duel at Hopkinsville Monday.

Luke Welch went the distance for UHA, yielding seven Rocket hits and striking out nine. Bailey threw six innings, struck out four and allowed just three hits as the Rockets won 4-3.

UHA rallied against Rocket relief pitcher Ben Evans in the last inning to pull within one, but freshman Jeremiah Foster came on to get two strikeouts to end the game with a save.

infielder Trace Senior Adams led the offense with three hits and three RBI. Bailey had two hits and junior Maddox Carlson had a double and drove in one run.

The Rockets improved to 16-6 on the season.

Belt debuts with 1-hitter

Eighth-grader Brady Belt got his first taste of varsity pitching Friday, and turned it into a stellar 1-hit performance to beat Hopkins Central 15-0 at Morton's Gap. The Rockets scored 15 runs in the first three innings, ending the game early by virtue of the mercy rule. CCHS punched in eight runs in the third inning alone. Logan Bailev, Maddox Carlson, Ben Evans, Gabe Mott and Caden McCalister all had RBIs during the inning. Carlson and Bailey each had multiple hits on the day and the Rocket defense played error-free. Belt struck out four in his debut outing, walking none. The Storm's only hit came on the first pitch of the game. Belt retired every batter he faced from that point on.

Crittenden County senior Kalli Champion comes up with a diving grab and shows the ball to the umpires to record an out at Paducah Tilghman late last week.

couple of hits for CCHS.

Moss went the distance in the circle, giving up no earned runs, striking out five and walking one.

The win gives CCHS the No. 2 seed for the post-season Fifth District Tournament.

Girls beat top 20 team

The Lady Rockets beat a top 20 team last Thursday at Christian County. The Lady Colonels were ranked No. 1 in the Second Region and as high as 13th in statewide polls before Crittenden beat them 5-3 to spoil the Christian girls' senior night festivities.

Crittenden got things going right off the bat when Chandler Moss singled to drive in a run. The Lady Rockets scored three runs in the fifth as Chandler Moss, Jada Hayes and Jessie Potter each drove in runs. The Lady Rockets racked up 10 hits. Ashlyn Hicks and Moss each collected multiple hits. Hicks went 4-for-4. Moss got the win in the circle. She went four and twothirds innings, allowing two runs on eight hits and striking out one. Seventh-grader Anna Boone threw two innings in relief.

ARCHERY Local archers score

Inside-Out Archery of Marion had several shooters score big at the regional competition on Saturday at Owensboro. Pictured above are Max Clements, Miley Hayes, Emory Orr, Maddie Ziegler, Tucker Boudro, Logan McDowell, Lucas McDowell and Colt Hayes. Miley and Colt Hayes, Orr, Ziegler and Boudro all won first place. Clements took second. The group will travel to London, Ky., for the state competition on June 3.

FOOTBALL Local players are stars

Two young football players from Crittenden County have been selected to participate in the Kentucky Future Stars game this summer. Sixth graders Isaac James and Avery Thompson were among dozens of elite players who tried out at various locations across the state, hoping to earn roster spots on the team.

The Kentucky stars will play against Tennessee's team on June 19 in Nashville. They will work out with the squad at Morehead three days prior to the game.

Since January, the boys have been working with a personal trainer and on their own to improve speed, strength agility and other skills. They're both excited about the opportunity to play for the Kentucky Future Stars.

Rockets beat Tigers

The bats started a bit slowly last Thursday at Caldwell County, and the game was tied at three when Hunter Smith singled in the fourth, scoring one to start a sevenrun inning that put the game away. Maddox Carlson, Trace Adams, Ben Evans and Braxton Winders all had RBIs in that frame. The Rockets won 16-4.

The Rockets totaled 14 hits as Carlson, Boone, Adams and Mott each had multiple hits. Carlson went 3-for-5 to lead the way.

Senior Tyler Boone was the winning pitcher for the Rockets. He surrendered four runs on five hits over five and a third innings, striking out five. Logan Bailey threw twothirds innings in relief.

SOFTBALL 8-run 7th beats LCHS

Crittenden County broke open a tight game with an eight-run seventh inning to beat Livingston Central 10-2 Tuesday at Smithand.

Ashlyn Hicks was 4-for-4 with two RBIs and Chandler Moss drove in four on two hits. Jessie Potter also had a offense going early when Ashlyn Hicks hit a solo homer in the first inning en route to a 6-1 win at Paducah Tilghman on Friday.

CCHS scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed in the game.

Hicks and Matthia Long also doubled in the contest as Crittenden racked up 10 hits. Hicks, Kalli Champion, Long and Moss had two hits apiece.

Moss went the distance on the rubber, fanning six and walking none.

CCHS loss to Mustangs

McCracken County, ranked No. 8 in Kentucky, displayed its full force on Monday at Marion, beating the Lady Rockets 13-1.

CCHS tried three pitchers -Chandler Moss, Elliot Evans and Riley Smith - but none could stop the Lady Mustangs, who posted 15 hits. Each team made just one error.

Crittenden got four hits from senior Kalli Champion and one apiece from Jada hayes, Jessie Potter, Moss and Evans.

The game was fairly close through four innings as CCHS trailed 3-1 until Mc-Cracken scored 10 in the last three frames.

Marion's first bow-fishing tounament draws over 100 grounds.

Results from the tournament are as follows:

Six states were represented in Marion last weekend during a Marion Tourism-sponsored bowfishing tournament.

Titled "Taking out the Trash," the tournament targeted Asian carp, an overpopulated species found in Kentucky and Barkley lakes and other area rivers.

Tournament director and Fredonia native Will Miller was pleased with the turnout of 27 teams. With nearly five years experience organizing fishing tournaments. Miller said each year Marion's event will continue to get bigger and better.

Tanner Tabor, president of the Marion Tourism, Recreation and Convention Bureau, said plans are to indeed have future events based out of Marion, which is perfectly situated between various bodies of water suitable for bowfishing.

"I think the most successful teams were fishing the Ohio River," Tabor said.

Tabor said the tournament drew well over 100 people to the community and some of the fishermen indicated they had been here multiple times in the days leading up to the tournament to scout and pre-fish area waters.

Miller's tournament series is called Carp Mayand hem. more information about the other tournaments he holds can be found online.

Tourism Director Michele Edwards was extremely pleased with the inaugural tournament's success

The local tourism department contributed $2,000 for a hefty firstplace payout and sweetened the pot for local shoppers. Participants who turned in receipts from local businesses they visited while in Marion were eligible for $250 in prize money at the conclusion of the tournament.

Edwards counted about $1,700 of revenue from receipts submitted, but believes there was close to $500 more not accounted for.

A four-person team from Benton named Descalin won the tournament, earning $4,293 in prize money for their 15-fish limit weighing 421.8 pounds. They also snagged a 55.7-pound bighead carp that scored them a big fish payment of $650. The secondplace team won $655 and third place earned $328.

Tabor said weather and water levels on local lakes may have hindered bowfishermen just a bit, but otherwise it was a great first-time event for Marion. Registration and weigh in was held at the Crittenden County Fair-

UK signee Washington can do it all

TyTy Washington is a natural scorer but the 6-4 point guard who signed with Kentucky last week can do a little bit of everything.

"He can truly play both guard spots. His DNA is to score the ball and he does that in a variety of ways. Behind the arc, he is confident and balances that with a pull up game and floaters and lay-up at the rim. He navigates well in ball screens because he can read his man, the coverage and the help-side and make the right play," ESPN national scouting director Paul Biancardi said.

"His decision making is strong as is his leadership ability. He is not afraid to hold others accountable nor does he mind being held accountable by others."

That's the kind of point guard presence UK lacked last season when it went 9-16 and now hopefully has for next season with Washington, a player who made a dramatic rise in the recruiting rankings his senior season at Arizona Compass Prep.

"I like that he can do a number of things. In the GEICO Nationals he had the ball in his hands a lot because he had to carry the team offensively. At the Iverson Classic he got the ball out of his hands quickly and threw ahead. The ball didn't stick in his hands," Rivals.com recruiting writer David Sisk said. "He is a prolific outside shooter with a beautiful and natural stroke. He also sees the floor well and appears to be an excellent passer. In a nutshell it looks like he does a lot of things well."

national championship he had assists off the dribble. At the Iverson Classic, he had several assists off quick passes in the open court.

"He looks to me like a point guard who is an excellent outs i d e shooter as well as a g o o d Larry passer," Sisk said. UK Sp orts Columnist "I think he Vaught's would be Views fine in (John) Calipari's system because he is an obvious upgrade over what they had at the point last year. I definitely think he is one of the top three guards in 2021, which means he's talented.

"It still remains to be seen how effective he would be in a late shotclock situation with the pending high ball screen. But if he were to be on floor with the CJ Fredrick, Dontaie Allen, Kellan Grady, and even perhaps Davion Mintz, then you all of a sudden have a cast of very good shooters on the floor.

phis," Coleman said.

"He may not even remember this, but I came up to Memphis and I studied Coach Cal for a week. Coach (Orlando) Antigua remembered that. I was there for a week just studying the dribble-drive offense at the time. That's what I do: I'm a forever student of the game. I study like crazy.'

Coleman said he visited every coach/college he could trying to learn something from everyone.

"If I can take a page out of this book, his book, that book, put it with my pages, now I've got a really, really, really good read. I've got a great book. I did that as a high school coach, and that was kind of like my first introduction to Coach

Cal and it was from an admiration standpoint in what he was doing in the offense and obviously the success," Coleman said. "I want to be around that. I want to be a part of success and winning.' Coleman obviously followed Calipari's career success and when Coleman started his college coaching career he sometimes would find himself in the same gyms in Chicago and other places as Calipari.

"We've known of each other for a while, but I never, ever, ever dreamt or thought that I would have the opportunity to work for him, and that's why when that opportunity came, it was like a sweet deal, man," Coleman said.

Washington can run the point and/or score. Sisk said in the GEICO

John Calipari was not a stranger to Ronald "Chin" Coleman before Coleman left Illinois to join the Kentucky coaching staff recently. Or at least Coleman knew about Calipari even if Calipari might not have remembered their first meeting when Coleman was head coach at Whitney Young High School in Chicago.

"We were a top-10 program in the country. I'm sure you have heard of Whitney Young and all the great players that have played there, and I coached there. When I was a high school coach, Coach Cal was at Mem-
