FAMILY PRACTICE CLINIC PROPERTY SET FOR SALE

Crittenden County Fiscal Court last week approved declaring as surplus property 2.13 acres next to Crittenden Community Hospital. The land is where Family Practice Clinic was developed in the early 1970s and has continued as a clinic owned and operated by Drs. Gary James and Greg Maddux. Maddux has retired and James has signaled his retirement next month. Rural Health Group, which owns the hospital, wants to purchase the clinic and put its own doctors in the facility. Terms of the proposed sale are unclear at this time.

SMALL BUSINESS TIME

Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce is moving ahead with its Small Business Saturday promotion. It's a popular event where a limited number of goodie bags and other materials are given away to encourage local shopping. There will be $100 in cash and a freezer given away by Johnson's Furniture and Appliance as part of the promotions. To participate, stop by Marion Commons at 10 a.m., on Saturday. In order to keep everyone safe, there will not be a standing line at Marion Commons this year. Instead, participants will stay in their cars and form a line at Farmers Bank's auxiliary parking lot behind city hall.

LEAF PICKUP HAS COVID

City officials say that leaf collection in Marion is being disrupted by COVID-19. Due to a more restrictive personnel situation prompted by a recent spike in the pandemic, City Administrator Adam Ledford says the previously published leaf collection schedule may not be accurate. He said city workers will be doing their best to collect leaves in the coming weeks.

County. Judge-Executive Perry Newcom said 1,500 boxes were distributed and plans are to have a delivery this coming Saturday.

Traditions Hold Holidays Together

BY KAYLA MAXFIELD THE CRITTENDEN PRESS

With the holiday season opening amid a surging pandemic, will Thanksgiving look differently around your dinner table?

Some in Crittenden County have taken this uncertain time to reflect on years past, while some are also looking forward to starting new traditions, "COVID style."

Some say their favorite part about Thanksgiving is spending time with families and good food, but most of all giving Thanksgiving to God for all of His blessings on their lives.

Born and raised in Marion, Sharon Martin recalls a simpler time when she and her family spent Thanksgiving at grandparent's home, kept warm by a wood stove that her grandmother had spent all day cooking over.

'We all drank out of the same dipper in the bucket of water that pappaw had drawn from the well. We weren't worried about germs or viruses," she explained.

Martin says her family would gather and give thanks for the meal and eat until they were full.

"We would listen to pappaw tell old stories that we had heard lots of times before, but we listened and laughed just like it was the first time we had heard it. I miss the simple life. My grandparents never had a lot of material things, but there was always love," she recalls.

Kim West also fondly reflects on holiday gatherings with family.

Growing up we spent the holiday with both parents' families on different days. Both families were big. I enjoyed the food, and playing with my cousins was the best," she

After both of her parents passed away, West said she was afraid the holiday season would never be the same, but has since found joy in new memories made with her own children.

"God blessed me with a big family of my own, and now we spend holidays at

Doctor who died last week left lasting legacy in Marion

From delivering two of her children to serving as a de facto medical mentor, Dr. Tom Rousseau had been a large part of Marcie Ellington's life for more than two decades. She was stunned and saddened last week when Dr. Rousseau, 75, passed away in a regional hospital.

"I really thought until the day he died that he would pull out of it, get better and go home," said Ellington, a nurse practitioner who worked side by side with the doctor for many years at Crittenden Community Hospital.

"I was not prepared for it," she continued. "It hits very close to home and makes us realize the seriousness and risks of this disease."

Rousseau spent more than 20 years as an obstetrician, gynecologist and emergency room physician at the hospital in Marion. He retired in the spring of 2019. Ellington described him as a robust man who'd retired just over two years ago.

"He loved his family, he was a vibrant, active husband, father and grandfa-ther," she said.

Dr. Rousseau was hospitalized on Oct. 25, a few days after being diagnosed with COVID-19 and pneumonia. He spent over three weeks in the ICU at a regional hospital, isolated from family. For loved

County moves forward on plan for 911 property tax

The reality of a local

Emergency 911 tax took a step forward last Thursday as the Crittenden County Fiscal Court approved a committee's recommendation to consider some type of local funding mechanism to support the central dispatching center at Marion City Hall. The center has been operating in the red for a few years and the city has been picking up the tab, largely based on an agreement between the city and county a few years ago. A few weeks ago, Marion issued an official notice that it will no longer be responsible for losses incurred by the 911 expenses for routine oper-

Center. A group of local leaders from various entities with a stake in the 911 dispatching have been meeting regularly, working on a longterm plan for the center. The committee has looked at possible collaborations with other nearby counties or outsourcing the 911 dispatching to Kentucky State Police Post 2 at Madisonville.

After nearly two years of wrangling with ideas and options, the committee has proposed that the county establish a tax or fee of some sort to pay the serv-It needs about $170,000 each year in additional funding to meet ations and future capital improvements. The cost to property owners is likely to be somewhere between $15 and $30 annually. Magistrates will now explore whether the 911 service will be paid for with a fee on vehicles, dwellings and buildings or land parcels.

The county receives funding from landline and cell phone taxes, but that source of income is not enough to meet budgetary demands. The landline revenue is decreasing regularly because most residents are doing away with those types of phones.

By raising additional revenue from local taxpayers, the service will remain at city hall and about four of five local jobs will be pre-

Early voting should be here to stay

It has been my great honor to serve as the chairman of the Kentucky State Board of Elections (SBE) over the past year. While it has been a trying year, fraught with difficult times and equally difficult decisions, it is also a year that has provided opportunities to show the benefits of modernizing the Commonwealth's election systems while temporarily changing the method of its elections to account for the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic. I write this letter to both recognize those responsible for its unqualified success and to discuss how we move forward in modernizing Kentucky's elections on a permanent basis. I would like to start by thanking Gov. Andy Beshear and Secretary Michael Adams for their leadership and statesmanship. In a time of increasing polarization and partisan acrimony, both the governor and secretary have shown the need for and success of bipartisan cooperation. Their willingness to work across party lines not only provided for a successful election, it also most certainly saved lives.

Voters across Kentucky owe a debt of gratitude to the commonwealth's 120 county clerks, their staff and the thousands of poll workers and volunteers who worked tirelessly every under the most difficult circumstances. Their faithful dedication to our elections kept us safe while administering free, fair and secure elections.

Despite dramatically changing the regulations and guidelines that govern our elections, Kentucky is not in the headlines as so many other states have been over the past few weeks. Unlike many other states who were forced to accommodate for elections under pandemic conditions, including changes in voter behavior, we were ready.

During the 2020 Kentucky presidential election a record number of voters exercised their right to vote. Some cast their ballot by mail, some voted early in person and many voted on Election Day. Because we were able to distribute access to the ballot across these three voting methods, county clerks and poll workers were not overwhelmed, and voters had choices for what suited their needs best. These changes coupled with new layers of security added to the elections system by the State Board of Elections ensured this election was one of the most successful and secure in the commonwealth's history.

For decades, Kentucky has lagged behind many of our peer states in modernizing our elections. While the need to change our elections this year was necessary to ensure safe and secure access during the pandemic, it has also highlighted the need to incorporate many of these changes permanently. The General Assembly should take into consideration these seven recommendations:

1. Expand access to early voting. While three weeks was needed for this election due to the pandemic, legislators should consider making at least 10 days, including two weekends, of early no-excuse in-person voting permanent.

2. Make permanent the ability to apply for an absentee ballot through the online portal cre-

Bottle tops lead to benches

Students and community members helped the Crittenden County 4-H turn plastic bottle tops into heavy duty benches for the playround at Crittenden Elementary. Last year's fifth grade class led the community effort to collect bottle caps – more than 400 pounds, in fact. The two six-foot benches that arrived last week in Marion were placed on the elementary school playground. Glenn's and KB pharmacies paid the $550 pricetag for the benches. From left are CCES students Cameron Nesbitt, Ashlyn Renner, Callie Rich, Aliza Maraman and Eli Lovell with 4-H agent Leslea Barnes.

FISCAL COURT PICKS 4 TO SERVE ON BOARDS

Crittenden County Fiscal Court last week approved the appointment of four local individuals to serve on three different community boards.

Named to the Crittenden County Public Library Board of Trustees was former elementary school principal Melissa Tabor. She will fill an unexpired term vacated by Wes Hunt.

Jason Martin and Denise Byarley were chosen to serve as directors on the Crittenden County Extension Board. Those are threeyear terms.

Darrell Simpson of the Shady Grove community was tapped to serve on the Crittenden-Livingston Water District Board of Directors. He will fill an unexpired term of Stephen Smith, who resigned recently after serving many years on the board.

LIVINGSTON VOTES GET RANDOM AUDIT

Livingston County is one of the randomly selected counties that will undergo an election audit, a customary procedure in Kentucky.

Attorney General Daniel Cameron has announced that the six selected Kentucky counties to undergo post-general election audits are also Fleming, Hickman, Lawrence, Anderson and Boone.

The Attorney General's Department of Criminal Investigations (DCI) will conduct inquiries to determine if any irregularities occurred during the 2020 general election.

Kentucky law requires the Office of the Attorney General to administer post-election audits in no fewer than five percent of Kentucky's counties and to select these counties randomly in a public forum within 20 days of each primary and general election. Because the law prohibits counties from being audited in two consecutive elections, Cumberland, Daviess, Floyd, Monroe, Logan, and Simpson counties could not be selected. Post-election audits performed in these counties following the 2020 primary election did not reveal abnormalities or criminal conduct.

PANDEMIC TAKES BITE OF RECYCLING

The pandemic is taking a bite out of Crittenden County's recycling effort.

Due to a COVID-related shutdown at the area recycling center at the Fredonia prison, Crittenden County will temporarily suspend its routine traveling collection trailer. The collection trailer is moved to various locations in communities throughout the county where residents drop off their recyclables. While the suspension is only temporary, it could last for an extended period of time. Meantime, the Crittenden County Convenience Center on U.S. 60 East next to the County Road Department will continue to accept recyclables until its stores are full, but that could be reached very soon. Plastic, mixed paper, and cardboard bins are almost full. The county will continue to accept scrap metals due to its partnership with Marion Recycling.

PLUMBING GROUP EXPANDS TO MARION

A new plumbing company is expanding to service Marion and the surrounding area. Medley Plumbing based in Franklin, Tenn., has a three generation, 35year history. Eugene Medley is a master plumber and owner of the company, which also includes Medley's son and daughters.

The company is taking calls now in the Marion area and soon will have a physical location at 6798 Ky. 70, about midway between Frances and Dycusburg. Tyler McKinney will be the journeyman plumber stationed in Marion.

"My grandfather started Medley Plumbing in Franklin in the 1960s, my dad is second generation master plumber and my brother Daniel Medley has his journeyman's license and is about to test for his Master's," said Niki Medley Caudill.

KU EARNS SECOND STRAIGHT HONOR

For the second year in a row, business customers of Kentucky Utilities Company have rated the utility first in electric business customer satisfaction among its peers in the Midwest mid-size segment. The honor was awarded by global leader in consumer insights, advisory services and data and analytics company J.D. Power following the company's recently released 2020 Electric Utility Business Customer Satisfaction Study.

Now in its 22nd year, the study measures business customer satisfaction with electric utility companies by examining six factors: power quality and reliability; price; billing and payment; corporate citizenship; communications; and customer contact. Satisfaction is calculated on a 1,000point scale. In the Midwest mid-size segment, KU scored highest in every factor in this year's study.

COTTON PATCH OPEN

A contractor for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has completed construction of the New Hughes Branch Bridge on Cotton Patch Road in northern Crittenden County.

A quardrail was installed last week on the bridge and it passed a final construction inspection. Cotton Patch Road, which had been closed near the intersection of Ky. 654 North since July 2019, is now reopen to traffic. The bridge had to be replaced because the old one had gotten into such poor repair that it was unsafe. Cambry Contracting, Inc, of Morgantown was the contractor on this $314,431 bridge replacement project.

CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS FIGHTING CLOSURE

Nine religious schools and more than 1,000 Kentucky parents have filed amicus briefs in support of Attorney General Daniel Cameron and Danville Christian Academy, Inc.'s lawsuit standing up for the First Amendment rights of religious schools.

On Friday, Attorney General Cameron filed a lawsuit in federal court against Gov. Beshear asking the court to issue a statewide temporary restraining order against the governor's latest unconstitutional order banning in-person instruction at religious schools. Last week, the governor issued an order stating that every elementary, middle or high school in the commonwealth must stop providing inperson instruction, regardless of whether the school is following social distancing protocols.

The attorney general argues that the governor's order violates the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution as well as Kentucky's equivalent constitutional guarantees and the commonwealth's Religious Freedom and Restoration Act (RFRA).

On Sunday night, nine religious schools filed an amicus brief in support of the attorney general's position. On Monday, less than 72 hours after the lawsuit was filed, more than 1,000 Kentucky parents filed a separate amicus brief in support of the lawsuit.

CHURCHES DEALING WITH COVID EDICT: AS ARE DINERS

Many local churches held services on Sunday despite the governor issuing a strong recommendation for religious bodies to forego in-person worship.

Some have indicated, however, that they plan to not hold worship services in their sanctuaries this coming weekend due because the holiday could increase the chances of spreading the virus.

At least a couple of local restaurants initially defied the governor's order to close indoor dining areas. Yet they recanted after warnings from the area health department.

LOCAL FOP CHAPTER ELECTS OFFICERS

The Kentucky Fraternal Order of Police Pennyrile Lodge 81 recently selected officers for the coming year.

Rick Mills was elected president; Krystal Brantley, vice president; Mandi Harrison, secretary; Jan Cox, treasurer; John Shofner, state trustee; and Kevin Maxfield, chaplain.

Beginning Monday, November 30, weather permitting, there will be bridge repair work on the US 60/62 Mississippi River Bridge between Illinois and Missouri. The work will require a bridge closure beginning at 7am. Work includes pier repairs and temporary shoring. Work is expected to be completed by Dec. 31.

The Union Services The annual Union Thanksgiving sermon was delivered at 10:30 Thursday morning at the Main Street Presbyterian church by Rev. A. R. Kasey, of Bowling Green, who has been conducting a revival meeting at the Methodist church.

Most of the Marion churches cooperated in the services in which several of the pastors assisted.

Among the ministers assisting were the Rev. F. L McDowell of the Cumberland Presbyterian, the Rev. B. M. Currie, of the Methodist church, and the Rev. furnished by musicians from the Marion churches.

Community service held at Southern Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. Thursday morning Rev. J. M. Dameron delivered the annual Community Thanksgiving sermon to a packed house at the Southern Presbyterian Church. Assisting pastors were Rev. Charles A. Humphrey, pastor of the Marion Methodist Church, and Rev. J. W. Flynn, of the Christian church.

At noon the Parent Teachers Association served a Thanksgiving dinner at the Woman's Club building and in the evening another dinner was served. At the evening meal members of the Marion and Princeton football teams were guests.

Practically every business house in Marion observed a holiday on thanksgiving.

In Nov. of 1993, Mrs. Geneva Dycus, still lived in her beautiful, old family home just outside of Dycusburg. She shared with The Press memories of her family's Thanksgivings when she was a child. Those memories of Thanksgivings of yesteryear were special indeed. Mrs. Dycus died in 2001.

It wasn't anything elaborate, recalls Geneva Dycus. We always had a big meal but rarely did we have turkey. We raised geese so we always had a roasted goose, and goose is some of the best meat there is. It's much more moist that turkey.

cious, I'll never forget the wonderful aromas coming from the kitchen, she had said. Now it wasn't anything elaborate, nevertheless, it wasn't every day we had pumpkin pie.

Not only did Dycus enjoy the food at Thanksgiving, the entertainment was also unforgettable.

After we ate, the kids would all get outside and play. There were rope swings tied to tree branches, and we had a see-saw. The word bored was unheard of. We were just busy, busy all the time. In those days, if kids weren't playing they had chores to

At that time there were three fireplaces in this house to keep burning and wood boxes to keep full. In spite of the fact that there were chores to do, we kids were happy-go-lucky.

Thanksgiving was definitely a holiday, even though there were times when it fell at a time when the men had to be harvesting crops, but even on those occasions they would come in for Thanksgiving dinner.

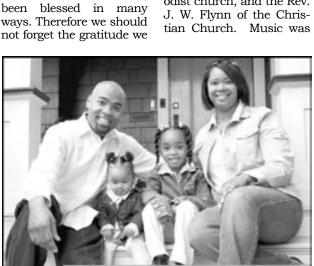

Dycus said her family always remembered the historical reasons for the celebration in their yearly observance. We were taught to observe Thanksgiving as a religious holiday, and a prayer of Thanksgiving was always part of our tradition.

It's nice to have those wonderful memories of family Thanksgivings of the past to recall today, as one gets older.

Find peace in giving thanks

time for us to celebrate Thanksgiving, this is it. There is, right now, much to rob us of our expectations for this time of year. It is a time to remember that thanksgiving is not something that happens to us dependent upon circumstance. It is an attitude. It is a part of the way we view life in every circumstance. It is a lens that alters everything we see. It is not a time for objectivity (which is an impossible lens to acquire), but rather for mature reflection.

Being thankful does not require joy or happiness although it will make those things more likely, even in unexpected situations. It is more closely related to peace and love in the middle of difficulty. The apostle Paul, writing to a church that was struggling with relationships drawn along ethnic, gender (in this case there were two - men and women), and social status, he tells them to sing with grateful hearts to God.

"Here there cannot be Greek and Jew, circumcised and uncircumcised, barbarian, slave, free Scyth'ian, man, but Christ is all, and in all. Put on then, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience, forbearing one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgiving each other; as the Lord has forgiven you, so you also must forgive. And above all these put on love, which binds everything together in perfect harmony. And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to which indeed you were called in the one body. And be thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you richdom, and sing psalms and hymns and spiritual songs with thankfulness in your hearts to God." (Colossians 3:12-16).

David Lipscomb (for whom Lipscomb University is named) savs in his commentary, "We are to sing in the sunshine of the favor of God, our song being prompted his great by goodness to us. The melody of the lips coming from and filling the heart...What is sung must be the outgrowth of the rich indwelling of the word of Christ in the heart. The purpose is to praise God and teach the word of Christ. The result of that singing was that they were teaching each other as they raised their voices together. A thankful heart sings."

A thankful heart also shares with others. I am thankful for all of those who make sharing so easy in our communities. I am speaking of those who manage our food banks, our feeding programs, our school resource centers I am thankful for all the churches and synagogues that are wonderful resources of spiritual and material assistance, here and abroad.

Pope Leo the Great (A.D 400-461) in one of his sermons encourages believers to help others so that they may give thanks, not to the one giving, but to the One who gives to all. "It is but godly and just that we too should help others with that which the Heavenly Father has mercifully bestowed on us. For there are full many, who have no fields, no vineyards, no olive-groves, whose wants we must provide out of the store which God has given, that they too with us may bless God for the richness of the earth and rejoice at its possessors having received things which they have shared also with the poor and the stranger."

Later in the same sermon he says that giving and fasting aid in our prayers. "When all the ingathering of the crops [is] complete, we might dedicate to God our reasonable service of abstinence, and each might remember so to use his abundance as to be more abstinent in himself and more open-handed towards the poor. Being thankful does not require naivety but it may look that way to some. It requires a sober, realistic view of life. A thankful life is seen in the fruit it produces. Thankfulness is not a passive quality. It compels us into action for others, even when there are many reasons to withdraw. This will be a challenging season of Thanksgiving for many of us. Guard your hearts against bitterness and the noise currently robbing many of peace. Keep sharing, keep praying, keep singing. Be thank-

Giving thanks always in season

Question: School has started and I am still not able to buy my children the shoes they need. Last week our washing machine played out. To top it all off, my work is reduced because of bad weather. What is there to be thankful this Thanksgiving?

Answer: I know it's hard not to be discouraged when your circumstances seem so dire. My heart goes out to you.

While it is difficult to see what you have to be thankful for, perhaps it would help you to change your perspective. if you and your wife were unable to have children? What if one of your children was born paralyzed and couldn't wear out shoes? What if you didn't have a job at all and could not find one? Thankfulness is not a question of whether or not we have a lot but whether we are thankful for what we

We are blessed to live in the greatest country on earth that affords us many opportunities and privileges. God is good and He blesses us abundantly. "Every good and perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of the heavenly lights, who does not change like shifting shadows" (James 1:17).

Giving thanks to God on Thanksgiving Day is important, but remember giving thanks is not a one-day matter. It should be an everyday affair. Giving thanks is always in season.

KU is also proposing changes to the rates for other customer classes. These customer classes and their associated annual revenue changes are listed in the tables shown below. KU is also proposing to change the text of some of its rate schedules and other tariff provisions and to add two optional rate schedules: General Time-of-Day Energy Service ("GTOD-Energy") and General Time-of-Day Demand Service ("GTOD-Demand"). KU's proposed rates reflect a proposed annual increase in electric revenues of approximately 10.4%.

The estimated amount of the annual change and the average monthly bill to which the proposed electric rates will apply for each electric customer class are as follows:

	Average	Annual	Annual	Monthly	Monthly
Electric	Usage	$	%	Bill $	Bill %
Rate Class	(kWh)	Increase	Increase	Increase	Increase
Residential	1,120	68,176,839	10.68	12.85	10.67

Outdoor Sports Lighting – Pilot Program	6,800	(4,762)	(4.97)	(99.21)	(4.97)

The monthly residential electric bill increase due to the proposed electric base rates will be 10.67 percent, or approximately $12.85, for a customer using 1,120 kWh of electricity (the average monthly consumption of a KU residential electric customer).

KU is also proposing an Economic Relief Surcredit Adjustment Clause, which will credit KU customers a total of $11.9 million over twelve months when new rates go into effect from this proceeding. For the first twelve months of new rates following this proceeding, a $0.00068 per kWh credit will be applied to all standard rate schedules.

KU is proposing to add an optional rider called Warranty Service for Customer-Owned Exterior Facilities. This rider permits firms that provide warranty service for the repair or replacement of customer-owned exterior electric facilities serving a KU customer's residence and connected to KU distribution facilities and that meet certain standards to use KU's billing services to obtain payment for subscribed warranty service.

KU is proposing a new net metering rate schedule, Rider NMS-2, and renaming its existing Rider NMS to be Rider NMS-1. Rider NMS-1 will serve eligible electric generating facilities as defined in KRS 278.465(2) for which customers have submitted an application for net metering service before the effective date of rates established in this proceeding. Rider NMS-2 will apply to all other net metering customers. KU is also proposing new terms and conditions for Net Metering Service Interconnection Guidelines.

KU is requesting a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity and other associated relief to exchange all existing non-communicating electric meters in its service area with Advanced Metering Infrastructure (AMI) meters.

KU proposes to eliminate certain Environmental Cost Recovery ("ECR") Projects from its ECR mechanism and monthly filings on a going-forward basis, which will result in rate base costs previously included for recovery in the ECR mechanism being recovered through base rates. The reduction in ECR mechanism revenues creates a corresponding increase in base rate revenues with no change in total revenues.

Rocket quest for state final begins

Players have been working toward this moment since fourth grade

STAFF REPORT

Manifest destiny.

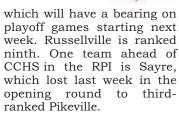

It's a phrase coined in the 1800s as the United States set out to conquer the western frontier. The same utterance could be the catch phrase for Crittenden County's quest to win its first football state championship since 1985 and just its second ever.

The fourth-ranked Rockets host Russellville on Friday night looking for a fourth straight First District championship and a berth in the state quarterfinals. Crittenden County beat the Panthers 47-6 in a regular-season meeting on Oct. 25 at Russellville. Crittenden County has not played since losing 10-9 at Henderson County on Oct. 30.

The long layoff has allowed a handful of mildly injured players to lick their wounds and fully recover. Receiver and defensive back Preston Morgeson's AC joint injured at Henderson County has healed while nose guard Lathen Easley and quarterback Luke Crider have seen some troublesome bruises disappear

The Rockets are sixth in the KHSAA's power rankings,

Friday's game will be broadcast on NFHS Network. A $10.99 subscriptions is required.

The way the postseason is shaping up, Crittenden County could earn a trip to Kentucky Country Day for the state quarterfinals if they get past Russellville this week. KCD is the team that knocked CCHS out of the playoffs a year ago, 36-22 at Louisville.

Senior Braxton Winders, a linebacker, punter and sometimes quarterback, says the dreams began to manifest early.

"When we were in fourth, fifth, maybe sixth grade, we knew we could do something," he said. "But then we went through a period when we lost 12 straight games at the end of junior pro and in middle school."

As high schoolers, Winders and several others are fouryear starters. The expectations have been high for this group, and he feels it.

"I don't think anyone expected us to beat Campbellsville (in the state quarterfinal) when we were freshmen," Winders said, "but since then we've been expected to win that (quarterfinal round) game. This is the last year we can do it, so we don't have a choice."

Crittenden has been eliminated from the playoffs the past three years in the Final 8. The last two have been by five and 14 points, respectively.

"This group of seniors is just tough, and they're all very dedicated. They've been working toward this moment since they've been able to play football," said junior center Ben Evans.

General admission tickets to Friday's night's Crittenden County football playoff game at Rocket Stadium will go on sale Wednesday at 3pm. There will be a very limited number of tickets available. All general admission tickets must be purchased online at TicketLeap, the official CCHS ticket vendor during the COVID crisis.

Crittenden County hosts Russellville in the First District championship game. The winner advances to the state quarterfinal, most likely the following week at Louisville.

Friday's game this week will be broadcast on the National Federal of High Schools sports network at NFHS Network and will require a subscription. Regular season games were broadcast at The Press' YouTube channel, but moving forward in the postseason all games will be on the NFHS network. A subscription to the NFHS network costs $10.99 for one month or $69.99 a year, which will include the CCHS basketball season.

Crowdus' development eclipses quantification

However, in 2020 there's really no way to judge just what this season has been like for Frederick Douglass receiver Dekel Crowdus, an early UK verbal commit.

"Obviously he doesn't have a lot of big stats but none of our guys do," said Frederick Douglass coach Nathan McPeek. "Against North Hardin we had six turnovers that took a lot offensive plays away from us. The Ballard game we got up four scores easily and the other games were blowouts in the first half. We've also not had a lot of games."

Frederick Douglas had not played since beating Montgomery County 29-0 on Oct. 23 when it beat Great Crossing 62-21 in the playoffs last week. The three games before Montgomery Cunty it won by a combined 153-27 margin after opening the season with a 19-17 loss to North Hardin. The Broncos had a 28-day break between games when they beat Great Crossing Friday in the Class 5A playoffs. They play Scott County this Crowdus spent his junior season at IMG Academy in Florida. Since returning to Frederick Douglass, McPeek has seen dramatic improvements in the way he practices daily.

"His approach to the game has been a lot better," McPeek said. "Overall his route running has gotten better. His communication level has improved. We are still working on his communication but he's a young senior and that's not easy for him yet.

"When he came back from IMG, he had learned some good stuff there. He's been working really hard on reading coverages and understanding leverage. He's always been very fast and athletic. We want him to have the ball in space and let him do his thing. He knows when he goes to college the talent level will be a lot better, especially in the SEC, and he will have to understand leverage, angles, coverages a lot better."

There has been some concern over whether Crowdus could change his mind about his commitment to UK considering Kentucky's lack of a consistent passing game this season. Crowdus has not indicated he's going to de-commit.

"He has not told me he is not still committed to Kentucky," McPeek said. "He has not come to me about anything like that."

Crowdus' teammate, offensive lineman Jäger Burton, is also verbally committed to UK. Burton is the top-rated recruit in Kentucky. McPeek says the two are "great friends" who made their own recruiting decisions.

McPeek thinks Crowdus, who had three catches for 56 yards and two scores last week, is going to be "fine" when he gets to college. He will not be an early enrollee in January.

"He has got to get his body to where he can compete in college. I think he can play some as a true freshman but he has to work at it," McPeek said. "Skill-wise and athletic-wise he is there. I think he's going to be fine. He's always been a great athlete. I don't think he's got any faster but he's got amazing speed (4.3 seconds in the 40-yard dash). He's got to get bigger but he knows that.

"I taught him in eighth grade at Bryan Station Middle School. I love him and believe in him. He's going to be a big contributor in our playoff run.

During his one season at Kentucky, winning mattered a lot more to Tyrese Maxey than what might happen with the NBA Draft.

"My thing at Kentucky was, you know, Coach Cal said he had a role for me to play there, and that's what I did. I wanted to win games, and I wanted to try to win a national title. That was the only thing that was on my mind at the University of Kentucky is trying to help your team win a national title, do whatever it takes, do whatever Coach Cal needs you to do, and try to get better and work on your game, your overall game," Maxey said after he was picked No. 21 in the NBA Draft by Philadelphia.

"No matter what you have to do at Kentucky, work on your overall game for the future. That's what I did. After the year was over, I sat down with him (Calipari) and he said he thought I was ready. And we made that step."

Some had projected Maxey as a lottery pick. Falling out of the lottery only motivates Maxey to do even more with the 76ers.

"I think I always play with a chip on my shoulder just because that's just how I am," Maxey said. "I'm extremely grateful for where I ended up. I feel like it's a great opportunity for me, and I'm very thankful for Philly for giving me this shot.

"I'm going to go out there and give it 110 percent and give it my all and make sure it's not a regret."

Kentucky freshman forward Isaiah Jackson grew up a Kentucky fan and even had UK gear in his bedroom. He said in a preseason interview it was a dream come true to now be at Kentucky.

Yet because of COVID-19, he had only a virtual Big Blue Madness experience and will not see anything close to a normal crowd in Rupp Arena this year.

"Yes it is different. My expectations are a little low but still high because the season has not started," Jackson said before UK opened the season. "Once the season gets rolling my expectations will pick back up.

"But it's different. We are restricted on going out, hanging out and just being around fans and things like that. It is weird. Limited number of fans at games, so I will not really be able to feel the actual feeling of playing in front of all those fans at Rupp. I do feel cheated but that's life and you have got to keep pushing."

Jackson did get a chance to show off his skills during UK's virtual Big Blue Madness last week. He won the dunk contest with a dazzling display that did not surprise teammates

"He's just an incredible athlete," freshman teammate Lance Ware said.

Kentucky never really had a chance at No. 1 Alabama Saturday when it was missing 10 players, including leading rusher Chris Rodriguez and leading tackler Jamin Davis, due to COVID-19 protocols.

However, it was no surprise that Kentucky coach Mark Stoops made no excuses before or after the 63-3 loss, the biggest loss in his time at UK. Maybe that's a characteristic Alabama coach Nick Saban liked years ago when he tried unsuccessfully to recruit Stoops.

"Cardinal Mooney High School in Youngstown was part of my recruiting area for a long, long time. All the Stoops brothers came through there," Saban said last week. "That's where they went to school. Their dad was the defensive coordinator there."

Braxton Winders harvested this whitetail 8-point buck on opening day of the rifle season.

Jordan James was hunting the family farm when he harvested this 10-point buck that grossed 144½ inches on Friday.

Jordyn Hodge, 10, bagged a 10point buck on her first deer hunt with help from her cousin, Tucker Sharp, as guide.

Cody Belt bagged this hefty 9-point buck on mid afternoon on the second Saturday of rifle season.

COVID issues creating higher failure rate in county schools

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Board of Education got a snapshot Nov. 17 of the success of its 1,368 students during the pan-

Presentation of data came on the heels of Gov. Andy Beshear's mandated closure of public and private schools in Kentucky, a decision that was not well received by community leaders.

Crittenden Elementary has had the highest enrollment of in-person students this year with 81 percent, followed by 76 percent in person at Crittenden County Middle and 56 percent at the high school. At the start of the school year, families chose whether their students would attend in person or virtually.

Beginning this week, all students are learning remotely based on the governor's order.

Principal CCHS Amanda Irvan said there is a higher failure rate than usual among high school students attending virtually. Sixty-six percent of virtual high school students have an F in at least one subject.

"We have a student support committee working with students, and we are doing home visits and continuing to work with parents to help us come up with solutions," Irvan said. There have been cases where school administrators have used the court system and the Department for Community Based Services to track down students who had not been submitting assignments or remaining in contact with teach-

CCES Principal Sarah Riley said as a whole, the failure rate is slightly elevated compared to when all students are attending in person.

Overall, she says, the success of students is due to diligence of virtual teachers. When they're unable to connect with students, Riley begins calling parents and is making home visits when necessary.

At the middle school, 50 percent of virtual students are failing at least one class.

'We just started tutoring for virtual students when we began remote learning," Principal Kara Turley said. "We contact parents and students multiple times a week to update them progress.

"Students are struggling with internet issues and staying on track when they are home while parents are working."

Superintendent Vince Clark said the online platform used by middle and high schoolers, Edgunity, is rigorous.

"We made it clear that there would be more accountability with this system than what we used in the spring," Clark said.

In reaction to the governor's mandate to close schools, local Board of Education Chairman Chris Cook expressed his dissatisfaction that all Kentucky schools are being treated equally, when local control would be more prudent during the pandemic.

"Our plan is, and was, working; we have not had substantial cases, and we know there have not been (COVID-19) cases originating from our schools," Cook said. "Unfortunately data is showa gap between in-person learning and virtual learning, and that is no fault of the staff, no fault of students or their families, it is simply a reality."

Cook believes that decisions should be made locally as to what is best for students.

"We have got to make our legislators hear from us. We need to limit the governor's emergency power and empower local decision making so we can do what is right for our kids."

The Kentucky Attorney General, several private schools and parents are suing the governor because of his order.

Schools revert to remote learning

Schools in Crittenden County and across the state, both public and private, were ordered closed last week by Gov. Andy Beshear in light a recent spike in COVID-19 cases.

Beshear said schools must stay closed to inperson classes for the balance of this semester, except for preschool and elementary schools. Preschool has not been affected by the governor's edict and elementary schools can reopen Dec. 7 under certain conditions, including that their county is not in the so-called Red Zone where cases are the highest.

Crittenden County Supt. Vince Clark said local elementary students will return as soon as conditions offer that opportunity and preschool is continuing here. Clark said the district will continue to provide a food services program for students who are remote learning from home. He also pointed out that there are a number of WiFi hotspots that have been established around the county, including those at fire departments, the school parking lot, public library, Kenergy office and more. Those are important for students who are continuing school until after Christmas on the remote learning plat-

About 75 percent of students here had been attending classes. Some had opted for remote learning since the semester began in August.

During the remote learning period, services will be available to children ages 1-18. From now through Friday, Dec. 4, the elementary school cafeteria will be preparing hot lunches and sack breakfasts which may be picked up behind the school from 12:30-1:30 p.m. Buses will also be delivering to nine routes throughout the county. A complete list of routes and delivery times is posted at The Press Online. For further information, contact your school.

Rousseau's family, this is often the most difficult challenge. Despite favorable outcomes early in his illness, Rousseau passed away in the early hours of Thursday, Nov. 19. Others in the local medical community continue to mourn his loss almost privately, pointing out that due to the pandemic a traditional funeral is impossible.

"He was a good friend, a good doctor and I am going to miss him," said longtime colleague Dr. Gary James.

Ricky Brown of Marion said he met Dr. Rousseau many years ago while working at the Trice Hughes automobile dealership in Princeton. The

When Ellington began studying to become a licensed nurse practitioner, Rousseau became

Homestead exemption gets bump next year for inflation

Kentucky's Homestead exemption is going up next year.

The state homestead exemption law applies to homeowners age 65 and older, or those who are fully disabled under social security or the military.

State law requires the homestead exemption to be updated every two years, adjusting for inflation.

The amount for 2021 and 2022 will be $40,500, meaning that if you meet the age requirement and owned your home on Jan. 1 of the tax period, you will not pay any state or local taxes on the first $40,500 your home is valued. The exemption for 2020 tax year is $39,300.

For example, if your home is valued at $50,000 and the homestead exemption applies during the current tax year, state and local tax rates only apply the value minus the exemptions, which would be $10,700.
