2nd KSP trooper assigned to county

A second trooper has been assigned to Crittenden County by the Kentucky State Police. Trooper Brian Graves, 23, of Iron Mountain, Mich., will join Trooper 1st Class Daron Holliman as the state police presence in the county. Holliman has been the sole trooper specifically assigned to Crittenden County for several years.

Graves was one of 45 new troopers who graduated Friday from the Kentucky State Police Academy in Frankfort and one of two assigned to Post 2 in Madisonville. The additions to the force bring the agency's strength to a total of 880 troopers serving the citizens of the Commonwealth.

The new trooper will undergo an extensive field-training period with an experienced trooper for approximately nine weeks. After the field-training period, they will begin their respective assignments.

County seeking 5 board volunteers

Crittenden Fiscal Court is looking for members of the community interested in volunteering their time and expertise to serve on various boards and committees.

The county is currently looking for five individuals to fill two seats on the Crittenden County Coalition for a Drug-Free Community and one each on Marion-Crittenden County Park Board, Penroyal Mental Health Board and West Kentucky Workforce Development Board.

"Volunteerism is a great way to give back to our community," said Judge-Executive Perry Newcom.

Those interested in serving should contact Newcom at (270) 965-5251. All appointments must be approved by the fiscal court.

Meetings

- Livingston County Board of Education will meet at 7 p.m. Monday at the board office in Smithland.

- Crittenden Fiscal Court will meet at 8:30 a.m. Nov. 17 at the courthouse instead of on the usual third Thursday of the month.

Color Runs help school district encourage fitness

Over the past week, hundreds of Crittenden County students have participated in Color Runs at Marion-Crittenden County Park and on their campuses. The events are designed to encourage children to be active and to promote healthy lifestyles.

A Color Run is simply a gimmick, aimed at getting regular runners or joggers and novices to enjoy an untimed distance event together, usually 5 kilometers

(3.1 miles). For younger students, the distance was abbreviated.

Color Runs have been going on in American for about five years. They were originally inspired by an ancient Hindu festival, spreading across the globe as socialized sporting events.

Superintendent Vince Clark was among those participating in Tuesday's high school run. He said CCHS Principal Curtis Brown developed the idea of the Color Runs last year during Health Awareness Week. Brown is an avid runner, triathlete and an ambassador of active living.

"We have a high level of participation in this," the superintendent said. "Only a handful of students chose not to do it. It's something where they can dress up silly, have fun with friends and at the same time promote healthy lifestyle."

Clark said weather postponed the event twice last week. On those days, attendance was higher than nor-

Burglars hit local tobacco business

STAFF REPORT

Police are seeking the public's help in solving a burglary at Marion Discount Tobacco on Sturgis Road.

At 3:14 a.m. Sunday morning, a security company notified Marion Police Department of a burglary in progress at the tobacco store. An officer was dispatched to the scene, but the intruder had already gotten away with some cash.

Police think a lone male was responsible for the burglary. They said a lock was cut on the exterior back door which is made of steel

Eclipse event planners seek community participation

STAFF REPORT

It's literally a once-in-a-lifetime event, and organizers of a local 2017 solar eclipse bash are hoping that will help generate some enthusiasm in the community for the rare astronomical occurrence.

Last wooden bridge in county to soon become piece of history

STAFF REPORT

A tiny touch of history will soon be removed from Crittenden County, but there will be few tears shed over the replacement of the last wooden bridge.

Over the years, Crittenden County's government has removed many wooden structures that span countless creeks and streams, returning concrete and steel structures in their place.

In about a month, the narrow, wooden-decked bridge on White Road will be removed. It is the last of that type of overpass existing in Crittenden County, said Judge-Executive Perry Newcom.

This particular one has a three-ton limit. Many large SUVs weigh that much or more.

The bridge on White Road spans a small tributary of Caney Fork Creek. Caney Fork merges with Pigeonroost Creek not too far from the bridge and together they flow into the Tradewater River. White Road was probably an old farming path that eventually found its way onto the county road system. The bridge abutment is built of limestone and sandstone steadied at places by cross ties. The piers are pop-riveted, steel, I-beams and the substructure of the deck is heavy wooden beams sturdy with steel.

Short, wooden side railings probably have less effect for safety than they do for centering the aiming point of drivers toward the middle of the bridge.

Danny Fowler, magistrates for the district, says several motorists use the two-mile, chip-and-seal road as a shortcut between Nunn Switch Road and Fish Trap Road - two rural thoroughfares with themselves very unique stories and histories. Fowler said it's sort of a shame to have to destroy a piece of nostalgia like this bridge with unique craftsmanship, but times does move on.

Wooden bridges have reliably moved people across streams for thousands of years. Some of the first

Remembering our veterans with thanks the least we can do

By the time you read this, election day will be past and Veterans Day upon us. I always look forward to it. Being a veteran myself, I never miss an opportunity to thank a veteran for their service as well as ask them about the nature of their military service.

My four-year hitch, as they say, began after high school graduation in the hot July sun of Parris Island, S.C. My initial reaction was one common to every Marine recruit: "What have I done?"

It turned out to be one of the best things ever in my life – one that I would never regret, for on Oct. 2, 1974, on a sunny Friday morning, I marched across that 1st Battalion parade deck on Parris Island with Platoon 160 and became a United States Marine, a title I would proudly bear the rest of my life. "Earned never given," as they say.

What motivates a person to serve in the military? God? Country? Family? Adventure? Being part of something special, honorable or bigger than one's self? How about all the above?

There are even practical considerations like a place to grow up and earn benefits such as for education. But the bottom line is to serve and be a part of something great that began so long ago.

Think of the words in our Pledge of Allegiance: "I pledge allegiance, to the flag, of the United States of America, and to the republic, for which it stands, one nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." Think about what those words represent.

It is, I believe, the principles embodied in this pledge that motivate most young men and women to serve in the military. These motivating principles I felt many times throughout my life. The earliest I remember was when I first began to study

American history in the 4th grade with noble men of the American Revolution such as Washington, Lafayette, Paul Revere, Nathan Hale and many others. It was men much like these, too, that drew me to the U.S. Marine Corps with its proud history and warrior culture. Marine boot camp not only trains recruits, but instill in them core values – a culture of honor, courage and commitment.

I was privileged to experience in a special way what Veterans Day represents on Veterans Day 2006 in Washington D.C. I visited the war memorials of World War II, Korea and Vietnam (the Wall) as well as Arlington National Cemetery and the Iwo Jima Memorial. The previous day, I had the privilege to attend the dedication of the National Museum of the Marine Corps in Quantico, Va., on the 231st birthday of the Marine Corps. It was my privilege to speak to Marine veterans of World War II, Korea, Vietnam and beyond, to hear their stories, be inspired, and be thankful. It brings tears of pride and joy to my eyes just to think about it.

How about you? Do you value this nation's military veterans? Do you realize the dedicated service and the sacrifice they've given for your freedom? As the saying goes, "All gave some, some gave all." When's the last time you went up to a veteran and said thanks and asked about their story? Paul Harvey said, us with the conscience of reasonable men preserve and protect and defend this last great green and precious place on Earth against all its enemies....foreign and domestic, so help us God... if only because so many people you never knew have broken their hearts to get it...and to keep it for you." Remember those men and women who have sacrificed to give us this free nation and to help keep it. Thank them. Talk to them. Honor them. They deserve it. And you, too, may experience those tears of pride and joy.

Kentucky election favors GOP, makes history

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

Republicans carried Crittenden County at the ballot box in Tuesday's six contests for statewide office and almost ran the table in Kentucky. The GOP also made a little history.

It was a rough night for Democrats. Republicans earned victory in four of the six races, including Matt Bevin's improbable gubernatorial win and snatching away an office held by a Democratic incumbent. Meantime, Bevin's running mate, Lieutenant Governor-elect Jenean Hampton, becomes the first African-American ever elected to a statewide office in the Bluegrass State.

Bevin, 48, was successfully able to tie his opponent, two-term Attorney General Jack Conway, to his party's standard-bearer, President Barack Obama, whose approval rating in Kentucky is abysmal. The Obama effect may have also helped the party in the five downticket races, flipping the executive power in Frankfort to the right. The GOP will move from currently holding only one statewide office – Commissioner of Agriculture – to five of the seven.

A Louisville businessman and Tea Party favorite who bested establishment conservative James Comer by only 83 votes in the May primary, Bevin never led Conway in the polls. Coincidentally, both men had failed candidacies for the U.S. Senate in Kentucky on their resume.

Bevin's win made him only the second Republican to win the governor's mansion in the last half century and only the eighth since the party was founded in 1854.

He is expected to seek sweeping changes in Frankfort when he takes office in December after eight years of leadership under a Democratic Gov. Steve Beshear. From policy to appointments, he will attempt to move forward a conservative agenda that should have strong support from the commanding GOP majority in the Senate. However, just as likely is stiff opposition from Democrats who have long-held the House of Representatives.

Neither Bevin nor Hampton, a Tea Party activist, are Kentucky natives, but the team carried 106 of the state's 120 counties en route to a nearly 9-point victory over Conway and Independent Drew Curtis, who finished a distant third with only 3.7 percent of the 974,344 votes cast. Bevin is a native of New Hampshire, while Hampton was born in Detroit.

Of his 14 county victories, Conway carried the state's two largest – Fayette and Jefferson, where he makes his home – and claimed victory in only Union and Henderson counties in western Kentucky. Conway's father, incidently, was born in Union County.

Bevin nearly doubled up Conway at the polls in Crittenden County with a 1,450-750 margin. He defeated the Democrat in all 12 precincts and in absentee ballots.

Secretary of state

In fact, the county voted red nearly across the board. Of the five other races, Democrats bested Republicans in only one race at a single precinct. In the Fords Ferry precinct, incumbent Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes earned 38 votes to Stephen Knipper's 34 on her way to re-election by a surprisingly narrow 51-49 statewide margin of victory.

Grimes, an attorney, successfully campaigned on her tenure – including leading a $10 million project to make it easier for businesses to register in the state and taking several steps to facilitate voting. For her next term, she has vowed to continue improvements, such as increasing online voter registration and weeding out ineligible voters still on the rolls.

She, too, has a failed bid for U.S. Senate in her past.

Attorney general

Democrats were also able to achieve a precinct-level tie twice in the county, both times involving Democrat Andy Beshear and Republican Whitney Westerfield in the Attorney General's race. Those deadlocks were registered at the Fords Ferry and Shady Grove precincts.

Local political pundit Gordon Guess, one of only two individuals to visit the courthouse in order to keep tabs on Tuesday's vote totals as they came in, said Fords Ferry's relatively strong Democratic showing was not surprising in a county that historically votes Republican.

"It's pretty typical," he said. "That's always been a Democratic precinct.

Thirty-seven-year-old Beshear, the son of Kentucky's lame duck governor, eked out a victory by less than a quarter of a point over Westerfield, a Hopkinsville attorney and state representative. Of the 957,658 votes cast, only 2,190 separated the two. It was the closest race in the election, sending the only candidate from western Kentucky of the 15 on the ballot to defeat in his first campaign for statewide office.

Beshear came to the race with several advantages over Westerfield. He learned politics as a youth while his father served as Kentucky's attorney general and lieutenant governor and ran unsuccessfully for the U.S. Senate. When he decided to run for attorney general himself, Beshear tapped into his father's mighty fundraising network.

By mid-October, he reported raising nearly $2.7 million — a jaw-dropping sum for a down-ballot race and more than Bevin achieved. Westerfield raised only $151,032.

During his campaign for the state's top law enforcement job, Beshear proposed addressing the state's heroin problem by funding more treatment beds and encouraging the legislature to toughen penalties for drug dealers. He also said he would focus on protecting Kentucky's children and the elderly from abuse and scams.

Auditor

The most shocking outcome of the night was incumbent Auditor Adam Edelen's 48-52 loss to Republican state Rep. Mike Harmon. Edelen has been rumored as a possible 2016 Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate seat currently held by Republican Rand Paul, who is simultaneously seeking re-election to the seat and carrying out a bid for the White House.

Harmon pulled off the victory despite Edelen's massive fundraising edge. As of mid-October, Edelen reported contributions totaling more than $800,000, allowing him to advertise on television while Harmon couldn't. An insurance agent who has been in the state House since 2003, Harmon reported total contributions of less than $37,000 for the election.

Agriculture Commissioner

Crittenden County's top

vote-getter, Republican Ryan Quarles, cruised to victory across the state in the race for Commissioner of Agriculture. He swept opponent Jean-Marie Lawson Spann in all but eight counties.

The race was confrontational, with Quarles accusing Spann of campaign finance violations in using her farm radio show to promote her campaign. Spann, in turn, said that Quarles thought a woman couldn't do the job of agriculture commissioner.

A rising star in the GOP, Quarles, of Georgetown, just turned 32 and has been in the state House since 2011. A farmer and attorney, he holds both bachelor's and master's degrees in ag economics from the University of Kentucky as well as a law degree. He also boasts a masters in higher education from Harvard.

Kentucky's agriculture commissioner is responsible for expanding agricultural markets, rural economic development and promoting the Kentucky Proud program. The office's overall budget in 2014 was about $35 million.

Treasurer

Allison Ball, the Republican candidate for treasurer, ran to victory over Rick Nelson with the most votes of any candidate – 572,296 – and the widest margin of victory – 21 points. Born in 1981, she is another young GOP star.

Ball's margin was much larger than recent polling had indicated. In a late October Bluegrass Poll, Ball had 37 percent of the vote with Nelson at 35 percent. In that poll, 25 percent of voters were undecided — showing that many had not yet paid attention to the race.

Ball plans to be an advocate for taxpayers and said the office should be a "check and balance on spending in order to protect the state's financial stability." As state treasurer, Ball will sit on the board of the Kentucky Teachers Retirement System and the Kentucky Lottery Board.

For Republicans, perhaps one downside to the party's move on Frankfort is the pending elections to replace Quarles and Harmon in the House of Representatives, where Democrats already hold a 54-46 majority. Since both take office in December, special elections will be called in order to fill the seats in the 2016 General Assembly.

Gov. Beshear touts more than $10 million to county

STAFF REPORT

On Tuesday, Kentuckians elected a new governor. But when Democratic Gov. Steve Beshear leaves office in December, he will have left his mark on Crittenden County during his eight years in office.

Throughout his administration, the governor has worked with local communities to increase job creation, raise education standards and support healthy, vibrant families to strengthen the quality of life across the Commonwealth.

In Crittenden County, Beshear has made investments that will benefit generations to come, including nearly $9.3 million in transportation projects and $1.8 million in community development, according to a news release from his office.

"When I took office as governor in 2007, Kentuckians had lost faith in their government and a global recession was taking away jobs, homes and health care," Beshear said in an Oct. 23 release. "Today, thanks to our partnership with a lot of people, including the citizens and officials of Crittenden County, Kentucky's economy is setting records, and our families are again getting high return on the money and trust they invest in their leaders."

Kentucky's unemployment rate was at 5 percent in September, down from nearly 11 percent during the depths of the recession. Kentucky's jobless rate has not been this low in more than 14 years. In Crittenden County, the unemployment rate for the month was at 4.4 percent.

"Through our ongoing partnership with local officials in Crittenden County, we have been able to make numerous critical investments to improve the quality of life in this community," Beshear said.

The governor's investments in Crittenden County, according to the governor's office, include:

Transportation

Beshear has partnered with the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet to authorize nearly $9.3 million since Dec. 10, 2007, for activities in Crittenden County, including road construction, highway safety initiatives, resurfacing and other transportation projects. Major projects include:

- Pavement repairs to the Cave In Rock Ferry landing completed in 2011: $82,000.
- High friction surface applications on U.S. 60 near Rosebud Hill and other locations; completed in 2014 and 2015: $207,000.
- Construction of an access road, dubbed Pippi Hardin Boulevard, in Industrial Park North: $862,000.

Safety

Through the Kentucky Office of Homeland Security, Beshear has helped strengthen public safety in Crittenden County. The county has received more than $58,000 in funding through the State Homeland Security Grant Program (SHGP) and/or the Law Enforcement Protection Program (LEPP). The SHGP funds a variety of devices including communication, first responder, physical and cyber security equipment. LEPP funds body armor, Tasers and duty weapons.

Community development

Gov. Beshear has partnered with the Department for Local Government to authorize $1.8 million in state and federal investments since January 2008 for activities in Crittenden County.

Economic development

Crittenden County has played a role in growing Kentucky's economy. Since January 2008, the county has announced eight new and expansion projects, which are projected to create 254 jobs and more than $8.8 million in new investment.

Health care coverage

By implementing Kentucky's own Health Benefit Exchange, kynect, Beshear is providing access to comprehensive, quality, affordable health care coverage to more Kentuckians, including Crittenden County residents.

Prior to Medicaid expansion, the uninsured rate in the county was 18.7 percent; now it's 5.7 percent. Besides consumers, Kentucky's medical providers, such as hospitals, pharmacies and primary care physicians have had the most noticeable positive impact from expansion through the influx of new dollars.

Since 2014, new Medicaid expansion payments to Crittenden County providers totaled more than $2.1 million. Since 2014, total payments to Crittenden Health Systems, excluding Disproportionate Share Hospital payments, totaled more than $897,000.

Agricultural development

The Kentucky Agricultural Development Board has invested $45,915 in Crittenden County over the last eight years in an array of projects and on-farm improvement programs focused on creating markets for agricultural products and helping increase net farm income.

Education

In order to ensure Kentucky's children get a strong start in school and in life, Gov. Beshear - in partnership with the Governor's Office of Early Childhood - has awarded this county's Community Early Childhood Council $26,163 to promote school readiness.

Tourism

The economic impact from tourism in Kentucky has increased by more than $2.2 billion and 13,000 jobs statewide over the last five years. Crittenden County's 2014 tourism economic impact was $5.7 million, a 0.1 percent increase from the previous year. The county's 2014 tourism employment was the equivalent of 58 jobs.

Beshear carried Crittenden County in the 2007 general election over incumbent Ernie Fletcher, but voters favored Republican David Williams by 78 votes in 2011.

ECLIPSE

been 99 years since the last total solar eclipse was viewable in this part of the country.

"Marion is a high-target for the eclipse event," said Agent. "We are at one of the best points of the eclipse."

Though partial solar eclipses have been viewable from Crittenden County since 1918, the total blackout two years from now will be centered in Hopkinsville, which will have the longest viewing time in the world at 160 seconds. Marion will be only 8 seconds off the mark.

The world over, total eclipses draw thousands of astronomers and curiosity-seekers to prime viewing areas. In fact, Hopkinsville is planning for as many as 50,000 visitors. Agent said overflow of as many as 7,500 people could converge on Crittenden County.

"I feel like there's going to be a lot of people come in for this event," she said.

Solar eclipses are surrounded with superstition and myth, with many cultures considering them harbingers of cataclysm and chaos.

"If you do a worldwide survey of eclipse lore, the theme that constantly appears, with few exceptions, is it's always a disruption of the established order," E.C. Krupp, director of the Griffith Observatory in Los Angeles said in a Nov. 2, 2013, National Geographic article. "People depend on the sun's movement. (It's) regular, dependable, you can't tamper with it. And then, all of a sudden, Shakespearean tragedy arrives and time is out of joint. The sun and moon do something that they shouldn't be doing."

And while science discredits most of the myths, the sky will indeed go dark around 1:30 p.m. on that Monday in late August 2017, and the behavior of animals will be strange, with them reacting to the eclipse as if night were beginning to fall. Confused, crickets have been witnessed to chirp as if cloaked by night. Frogs will be in full throat and birds will begin to roost for the night. And as quickly as it is over, they will all begin their morning routine.

The phenomenon is still 654 days away, but now is the time to start planning in earnest, Agent explains.

"You can't wait until just a year out," she said. "We started this in August, and it's already November. We still don't have anything done."

A few weeks ago, representatives of local organizations and agencies first got together to begin discussing how the community might cash in on the influx of visitors to the area. Subsequent meetings have been held, but Agent said there still lacks a firm commitment from volunteers to pull off organizing any events tied to the eclipse.

"We're still looking for more organizations and individuals as far as volunteers," Agent said. "We need feedback from community as well."

Agent said organizers are not asking for any commitment of money at this point, just one of time. The next local planning meeting is set for 10 a.m. Nov. 18 at The Peoples Bank. She encourages anyone interested in making the eclipse a local tourist draw to attend. It could mean thousands of dollars for local businesses and organizations, she added.

"We just need to make sure the commitment is there at this point," she said.

So far, there has been consideration of a weekend festival leading up to the Monday eclipse, perhaps held at Marion-Crittenden County Park. Ronnie Hedy, president of Crittenden County Lions Club, has also been asked to consider rescheduling the 2017 county fair to coincide with the eclipse event. The fair usually concludes the first Saturday in August.

Marion Tourism Commission and the chamber of commerce have also been in on the planning meetings thus far. Michele Edwards, Marion Tourism Director, said the effort has the backing of the commission at this point.

"We're here as support as much as we can help," she said, adding that it was too early to commit any money.

Holly White, community educator with Crittenden County School District, said the school system is on board. Though classes will not be dismissed on the day of the eclipse, she has indicated that educating the students prior to the event and offering supervised viewing are on the agenda.

Outside groups, including one from Evansville, Ind., have expressed an interest in partnering with Marion for eclipse. Edwards sees an opportunity with areas like Evansville, which lie outside of the viewing area of the total eclipse.

Murray, Louisville and Lexington, each home to a major Kentucky University, also lie outside the area of totality, which could perhaps offer some sort of educational partnership with Marion.

"If you have group that would like to participate, show up to the (Nov. 18) meeting," Edward said.

bars like a jail cell. Then, a rear glass window was broken out, allowing entrance to the building.

Marion Police Chief Ray O'Neal said the tobacco shop had a security system which notified authorities right away that something was afoot. He said an officer was on the scene about four minutes after the break-in, however, there was no one there when Patrolman Robert Harris arrived.

About $100 was taken from the store's cash drawer. No other merchandise or valuables appeared to be missing, police said.

O'Neal said investigators were able to collect some evidence at the store, but are asking for the public's help in solving the crime.

If anyone saw anything suspicious on Sturigs Road in the early-morning hours of Sunday, they are asked to call the police department at (270) 965-3500.

Old jail making history at museum

STAFF REPORT

While Crittenden County Historical Museum is now closed for the season, volunteers are working on an outdoor display that can be enjoyed year-round. Crittenden County Historical Society Chair Brenda Underdown and board member Brennan Cruce have been working recently on an exhibit outside the museum on East Bellville Street that will feature a piece of the county's fourth jail. The more than 100-year-old iron door to the lockup has been painted and erected on a wooden platform next to the museum along North College Street. Once completed, it will be visible to passersby and a plaque will identify its significance in local history. According to Underdown's blog, Our Forgotten Passages, the county's first jail was built in 1844 just two years after Crittenden County was formed. Since previous jails were made of logs and the only heating was wood fires, they were prone to being destroyed by fires. "This fourth jail was built in 1901 from bricks from the Herrod Travis kiln here in Marion," Underdown's blog reads. "This old jail was used until 1973, when the county court decided that the repairs for it were going to be too costly, so they set forth with plans for a new, more modern building."

Underdown explains that some local people interested in preserving the old building tried to save it, but no funds were available. The jail was torn down in 1975, but the door was saved for posterity. The lot where it sat was made available for the current Crittenden County Public Library and the new jail was built in the adjoining lot. It was replaced in 2008 with the current detention center.

Wildlife poster, essay contests under way

STAFF REPORT

When we look around us, we see houses, cars, stores and people. But if we look a little while longer, and a little harder, we may notice the squirrel running up the tree, the deer peeking from inside the bush or the hawk soaring above us. Wildlife is all around and shares the planet with us. Wildlife is the theme for the 2015 Conservation Writing and Jim Claypool Art Contests, sponsored by the Kentucky Farm Bureau and the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts. These are a writing contest and an art poster contest with the top county prize of $25 and the top state prize of $250 and a personalized certificate.

Students are encouraged to explore the what, where, how and why of "The Wild Side of Kentucky." Young students through fifth grade will participate in the poster contest. Older students in grades 6-12 will prepare an essay. Crittenden County Conservation District will accept entries until 4 p.m. Dec. 1. Complete rules and resource information are found on Conservation.Ky.gov under "Art and Writing Contest Program" or from the Crittenden County Conservation District office at 118 E. Bellville St. in Marion. The office is open Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. You may also call (270) 965-3921, extension 3.

BRIDGE

wooden bridges were designed by the Roman Empire. The estimated lifespan of most wooden bridges is 80 years. Crittenden County Road Supervisor Audi Maraman said it's unclear the age of the bridge on White Road, but it is similar to one replaced on Bells Mines Road not long ago. That bridge had a WPA (Works Progress Administration) emblem etched into its super structure, dating it somewhere around 1940. Fowler said bridges that qualify can be replaced with help from state funding. This one fit the bill and Kentucky is paying 80 percent of the cost with the county taking care of the balance. The new bridge will have a concrete superstructure and metal, mesh decking. It will be built at an approximate cost of $103,000.

DALE FAUGHN OF FREDONIA WILL CELEBRATE HIS 90TH BIRTHDAY ON NOVEMBER 8, 2015.

Dale is the son of the late Arthur Wayne and Nancy Dora Hall Faughn. He is a World War II veteran of Iwo Jima and the occupation of Japan. He received his B.S. degree from Murray State University in 1949 and later his Master's degree and Rank I credentials. Dale retired in 2011 after teaching 61 years in the Caldwell County School System. Dale was inducted into the National Teacher's Hall of Fame in 1998 and the Kentucky Teacher Hall of Fame in 2009. He is also in the Baxter Blood Donor Hall of Fame and the Fenwal Blood Donor Hall of Fame. He is a 1986 Kentucky Poet Laureate. Dale attends Unity Baptist Church in Fredonia.

Dale and the former Virginia Chandler were married at the First Baptist Church of Murray, Kentucky on October 9, 1949. Dale and Virginia are the parents of seven children: Phillip Faughn, Timothy Faughn (deceased), Stephen Faughn, Nathan Faughn, Mark Faughn, Ruth McClure, and Paul Faughn. They have many grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Faughn's children will honor him with a reception on Sunday, November 8th, 2015, from 2:00-4:00 p.m. at the Fredonia Lions Club Building in Fredonia.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend. No gifts please!

★★★ VETERANS DAY 2015 ★★★

Korean War vets remembered through reports

We owe an eternal debt of gratitude to our veterans for how our country exists today – free, proud and unafraid. It is all because of their sacrifices in time of national peril. They went to war to fight for our freedom and the right to live as we do today.

This article, appearing less than a week from Veterans Day, focuses on a few of the Korean War veterans from our county.

The Korean War began on June 25, 1950. By July, American troops had entered the war on South Korea's behalf. As far as American officials were concerned, it was a war against the forces of international communism itself.

The Korean War was relatively short. An armistice was signed on July 27, 1953, but it was an exceptionally bloody conflict that has never technically ended. Almost 40,000 Americans died in action in Korea, and more than 100,000 were wounded. The Korean War did not get much media attention in the United States.

Thanks to our local paper, The Crittenden Press, family and friends here in the community were able to get some news and information about some of our local young men who were far away fighting in this war. Following are some of those items:

Sept. 8, 1950
Junior Raymond McDowell

Sgt. McDowell, Jr., son of Lou Vena McDowell, has been reported missing in action in Korea since July 25. The telegram reads as follows: "Mrs. Lou Verna McDowell: The Secretary of the Army has asked me to express his deep regret that your son, Sgt. McDowell, Jr., has been missing in action in Korea since July 25, 1950. Upon receipt of further information in this office, you will be advised immediately. Edward F. Witsell, Major General, USA. The Adjutant General."

Dec. 9, 1955.
The body of Sgt. 1st Class Junior Raymond McDowell, RA-35815976, who died in Korea Nov. 6, 1950, will arrive at the Hunt Funeral Home in Marion Saturday morning Dec. 10. Funeral services will be conducted at Sugar Grove Church Sunday, Dec. 11 at 2 p.m., with the Rev. A.R. Poole officiating. Full military rites will be conducted at graveside with burial in the Sugar Grove Cemetery. Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Lou Vena McDowell, Marion; two sisters, Mrs. Geneva James, Marion, and Mrs. Ruth Rogalski, Detroit; one brother, James McDowell, Dalton, Ky.; two half brothers, Herbert McDowell and Dalton Hobart McDowell, Princeton.

Dec. 15, 1950
George J. Driver

Pfc. George J. Driver, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Driver, Route 2, Marion, was recently awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge "for his performance of duty in ground combat against the enemy in Korea." Driver and his unit, D Co., 32nd Infantry Regiment, 7th Infantry Division, after two successful amphibious invasions and a leading role in the battle for Seoul, crossed the Ungi River in the northeast sector of Korea. They moved through snow-capped mountains to the Manchurian border and the icy banks of the Yalu River. Pfc. Driver, protected from the cold by parka and shoebags, is with the northern most United States unit in Korea.

(Driver passed away in 1988 and is buried in Love Cemetery.)

May 14, 1951
Perry L. Conger

With the 1st Cavalry Division, U.S. Army in Korea, Master Sgt. Perry L. Conger of Marion led his squad of demolition technicians to the rescue of a whole company of American troops trapped in a minefield in Korea.

The 26-year-old sergeant is the husband of Mrs. Nancy Conger of Marion and a member of the Pioneer and Ammunitions Platoon of the 8th Cavalry Regiment's 3rd Battalion.

The rescue mission became necessary when a company of the 8th Cavalry Regiment moved off a road into a field for a brief rest. The frontlines were several thousand yards away and members of the unit dropped their equipment to sprawl on the ground for a smoke. One man idly scooped up a handful of earth and suddenly froze in terror.

His digging hand had uncovered one of the deadliest of all military weapons, a dread anti-personnel mine buried a few inches below the surface of the ground. Knowing the slightest jar would detonate the mine and certainly kill him, he shouted to the commanding officer for instructions.

Realizing that where there is one mine there are always others, the officer gingerly picked his way across the field to a walkie-talkie phone and called his battalion headquarters for help.

It was then that the Marion sergeant was dispatched with a squad of men to find the mines and deactivate them. Meanwhile, the trapped infantrymen were instructed not to move.

Sgt. Conger and his men first cleared a path to the company and brought them out safely. In doing this, they found seven anti-personnel mines laid in a pattern designed to make it almost impossible to cross the field without exploding one of them.

Miraculously, the weary infantrymen had missed them when leaving the road for their break. After the company had been cleared from the area, Sgt. Conger and his squad probed and searched for hours with mine detectors and bayonets to locate the remaining mines.

They found an additional 21 mines in the small plot of ground over which they were working.

(Conger came home from the Korea War. He died Sept. 11, 1981, and is buried in Pleasant Hill Cemetery.)

The battleship USS Iowa took part in several amphibious attacks on the East coast of North Korea. Her primary mission was to aid ground troops by bombarding enemy targets. Above, "The Grey Ghost," as she was called during the Korean War, batters enemy installations during the war with her massive 16-inch guns.

W. Hunt, Route 1, Marion, son of Herman and Nona Hunt, was recently promoted to sergeant while serving with the 25th Infantry Division on the fighting front in Korea. The division, a veteran unit of the war in Korea, has been in action since July 1950.

Hunt, a squad leader, has been in Korea five months. He wears the Combat Infantryman Badge.

May 16, 1952
Phillip Conger Jr.

With the X Corps in Korea, Cpl. Philip Conger Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel P. Conger, has received orders to return to the U.S. from Korea, where he has been serving with a unit of the X Corps.

The X Corps, fighting in mountainous terrain, controls in combat a number of units of division strength or less which are assigned to it. It has its own command post troops, who augment the fighting forces. Cpl. Conger, who served as an air compressor operator in Co. C of the 116th Engineer Combat Battalion, left the U.S. in April 1951 and has won the Koran Service Ribbon with one campaign star.

(Conger passed away Nov. 28, 2013, and is buried in Fredonia Cemetery.)

June 13, 1952
Charles H. Fritts

With the 40th Infantry Division in Korea, Cpl. Charles H. Fritts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Fritts, Route 6, Marion, recently was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received May 8 in action fighting with the 40th Infantry Division in Korea. Fritts has since recovered and returned to duty as an automatic rifleman with Co. B of the division's 224th Regiment.

He entered the Army in September 1950, took basic training with the 40th at Camp Cooke, Calif, and accompanied the division to the Far East in April 1951. After nine months of training and security duty in Japan, his unit was sent to Korea last January.

(Fritts survived the war and returned to Marion. He passed away June 4, 1974, and is buried in Crooked Creek Cemetery.)

Nov. 14, 1952
William G. Elder

"Operation Point" off Kojo on the east coast of North Korea was the name given to the mock invasion on Oct. 15. Rear Admiral Francis X. McNerney, commander of the amphibious phase of the maneuver, said the operation was highly successful.

Planes reported the pattern of napalm and bomb hits over the objective area wiped out radar posts, ammunition dumps and big shore guns. The big 16-inch rifles of the battleship Iowa and supporting cruiser and destroyer fire leveled troop and vehicle centers. Rocket-launching ships accounted for much of the destruction along the beaches.

A Marion boy, Pvt. William G. Elder, was among the amphibious group taking part in this invasion. Pvt. Elder has been taking, for the past three months, intensive training with the 8th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division on the northern island of Hokkaido, Japan, and is now with the 8th Army Reserves at Taegu, Korea.

Dec. 12, 1952
William G. Elder

Pvt. William G. Elder, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Elder, Route 2, Marion, is serving with the 7th Infantry Division in Korea. Since making the amphibious landing at Inchon in the fall of 1950, the 7th Division has fought in every sector of the Korean peninsula. Pvt. Elder entered the Army last February.

(Elder passed away Oct. 22, 1977, and is buried in Union Cemetery.)

Veterans Day meaning

Veterans Day is a celebration to honor America's veterans for their patriotism, love of country and willingness to serve and sacrifice for the common good.

Fredonia Heritage Society hosts Thanksgiving dinner, meeting

STAFF REPORT

Fredonia Valley Heritage Society will meet at 6 p.m. today (Thursday) at the Fredonia Lions Club building for its annual Thanksgiving Potluck Meal. Following the meal and business meeting, Roy Gene Rogers will talk about his new book, "Western Kentucky Folklore." The book also includes "A Walk through Fredonia's Past," which features stories of ghosts at the Fredonia Cemetery by Pamela Faughn, president of the heritage society.

Fredonia Valley Heritage Society is for anyone interested in learning more about the heritage and history of the Fredonia Valley and for those who want to see the history of our community preserved for future generations. Anyone is welcome to attend tonight's meeting.

Meantime, the society continues its new book project. This book will contain the stories of veterans from the Fredonia Valley.

"If you or a member of your family served in any branch of the military in war time or in times of peace at any time in history, and is connected to the Fredonia Valley now or in the past, we want to include them in our book," Faughn said. "To be included, all you have to do is to provide a picture, if you have one, and a biography of the veteran."

Because of increased interest in the book over the past few weeks, the heritage society is extending its deadline until the end of November. Photographs and biographies may be emailed to Pam-Faughn@att.net.

For more information, contact For any member of the book committee: Nancy Paris, Marsha Green, Maggie Gammon, Linda Ward or Richard PPool.

Revelation falsely used to explain Satan

In Revelation 12:7-11, we find a woman clothed with the sun, standing on the moon with a crown of 12 stars on her head and a great red dragon with seven heads, 10 horns, seven crowns upon his heads and a tail that pulls down a third of the stars of heaven and cast them to the earth. The scene is said to be taking place in heaven!

First, that same book tells us there will be no sun or moon in heaven, that the glory of God and the Lamb will be the light thereof. Secondly, that same book says there shall in no way enter into heaven anything that defileth, neither whatsoever works abomination, or makes a lie; but they which are written in the Lamb's book of life. Revelation also says, "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed a way."

It is impossible that this vision is literal. A woman who could stand on the moon and support a crown of 12 stars and the dragon with seven heads and 10 horns does not exist and never has. Imagine how long such a creature's tail would have to be to pull down one third of the stars and cast them to the Earth and how big the woman's head would have to be to hold 12 stars, as most stars are larger than our planet Earth.

This was all prophesied in symbolic words and metaphors to hide the truth from the pagan minds and for the spiritual-minded to understand as the symbols were taken from scripture.

The woman (the church) is in the process of giving birth. A picture of the true church is a woman giving birth. Isaiah 66:7 says, "Before she travailed, she brought forth; before her pain came, she was delivered of a man-child."

The dragon symbolized pagan Rome. John said the dragon had seven crowned heads. Later, he explained that five of the heads were already passed, one existed at the time of his vision, and one was yet to come.

Historically, Rome was at the time of John's writing, under the sixth form of government, the emperors. In all, Rome had seven different forms of government. The 10 horns represent the 10 kingdoms that Rome would later be divided into.

Pagan Rome was waiting to devour the newborn babes in Christ as soon as they were born into the kingdom of God. John's prophecy was a prophecy of great persecution directed toward the church by the pagan Roman Empire who killed 20 million Christians in the height of its glory, the first 300 years after Christ.

Verse 7 says there was a war in heaven. Again, do we really believe there could have been a war in the heaven, where God Almighty sits on His throne?

In Verse 9, the dragon – that old serpent "called" the devil and Satan – was "overcome by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their loves unto the death."

If this casting out referred to the devil being cast out of heaven, the scene would have to have been before the world was created, before the "beginning," as Jesus said in John 8:44 that Satan was a murderer from the beginning. But the weapon used to cast out the dragon was the blood of the Lamb, so this casting out happened after Calvary.

In Revelation 20:1-9, we see this same dragon – the atheistic, paganism of Rome – was cast into a bottomless pit for 1,000 years, which was in the 4th century. Those same powers came back to finish the world off in the 14 century in the beginning of the great freedom of thinking called the Renaissance, which bred the disbelief in God and touted paganism.

These two deceptive evils have continued to eat the heart out of the human race and have completely covered the globe with their hate for Christians. They have hooked up with the third evil poised over the entire earth to kill all who do not bow to their brand of religion, making the trinity of evil Chapter 20 speaks of, which is to bring this world to an end with fire coming down from God out of heaven to devour them. Now, as to where Satan truly came from. God Himself tells us in Isaiah 45:6-7, "I am the Lord, and there is none else. I form the light and create darkness; I make peace and create evil; I, the Lord, do all these things." Since there can't be anything in the world that God did not create, He would have to have created Satan, as He was to give man a choice as to obey and love Him or disobey Him. We see that in the Garden of Eden when He gave Adam and Eve a choice.

God wanted us to choose to love Him, so we had to have a choice to love and obey Him or Satan. Satan's cunning ways are so deceptive on one hand and very roaring and demanding on the other. That is why Jesus told us over and over to "be not deceived."

The most important thing to know about the devil is not where he came from but that he is like a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour. He was a murderer from the beginning and Jesus said in John 10:10, "He comes to kill, steal and destroy."

Jesus said believers shall not hunger

By JOEY DURHAM
GUEST COLUMNIST

Today, my devotional thought is "Shall Never Hunger," and my text is found in John 6:35, where we read, "And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst."

This society makes great efforts to satisfy the truly needy with food, and there is nothing wrong with that. A person, especially a child, must eat to survive physically.

Here in John 6, the Lord Jesus points out to those who followed Him because they expected Him to supply them with bread, that they had a need infinitely greater than the body's need for food. Their spiritual need was most important to the Lord Jesus Christ. There are ministries today stepping up to the plate big-time in supplying hot, nutritious meals to the destitute in their communities, but when it comes to meeting the need for those destitute in their soul for the eternal life that only Jesus Christ can give, these same ministries "strike out."

What labor was required to obtain this "Bread from Heaven?" They had only to believe on Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior, receiving Him by grace through faith. Jesus Christ alone is the Bread that gives eternal, everlasting life. He is the true Bread that this starving, destitute world needs.

We as Christians must not lose sight of this paramount and primary need and the believer's obligation to give this Bread to those who are dying without it. The primary mission of the church is not to entertain, to appease this world or even meet man's physical needs of food, clothing and shelter. The objective of the church is to glorify the Jesus Christ of the true Word of God and faithfully proclaim that true Christ as the only Savior to this lost and dying world.

Are you hungry for what Jesus Christ alone can satisfy your soul with? Who is Jesus Christ to you? Is He only the "chef" that fills your belly, or is He the Savior that satisfies your soul?

(Editor's note: Joey Durham, pastor of Sturgis Baptist Church, shares his views periodically in this newspaper. His opinions are his own and are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

Chamber moves Christmas parade to night

Nominations sought for grand marshal

STAFF REPORT

Santa's slow-moving trip through downtown Marion will be under the cover of darkness this holiday season. The annual Christmas Parade will be held starting at 5 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 5, making it only the second nighttime Christmas parade in memory.

It was more than 10 years ago, the last time the Chamber of Commerce held its annual event after dark that snow fell as if on cue just as entries started their ride from one of end of Main Street to the other.

Partners Insurance of Marion is sponsoring this year's parade. The theme will be "A Picture Perfect Christmas."

Shelly Davidson of Partners Insurance said she recalls the last time the parade was held in the evening hours. Lighted floats and people drinking warm cider on the sidewalks simply fulfills the spirit of the season, she said.

Davidson, and her partner Denise Byarley, have experience organizing the parade. They were very involved in the past when Terry and Ramona Ford, the previous owners of the insurance company, sponsored the parade.

Organizers will be making a special effort to prevent on-street parking during the parade. They hope to have some empty lots set aside for handicapped parking areas and for people who enjoy watching the parade from the comfort of their own vehicle.

Chamber President Robin Curnel said there are numerous safety concerns when vehicles are allowed to parallel park along Main Street during a parade.

Organizers will likely be placing cones along curbs to prevent on-street parking in the hour leading up to the parade. Because it will be early in the evening, the prohibition of on-street parking should have much less impact on merchants. Most have closed by that time. Chamber members hope the restaurants who would be affected will see the inconvenience offset by increased traffic in their businesses.

The Chamber is accepting nominations for parade grand marshal until Nov. 23.

New Chamber Directors
Marilyn Belt and Angel Henry on Tuesday were formally installed as new directors for the Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce. Belt represents Glenn's Apothecary and Henry represents Conrad's Food Store and Auto Art.

This can be an individual or group who has consistently made a difference in the community but has not received public recognition for their contributions. Nominations can be made to Chamber of Commerce, PO Box 164, Marion, KY or emailed to Executive Director Susan Alexander at susan@crittendenchamber.org. Parade entries should be submitted by Nov. 23 to Partners Insurance, 221 E. Bellville St., Marion, KY or emailed to info@partnersinsurancemarion.com.

Thank You

The Asbridge family would like to thank family and friends for their kindness during the loss of our loved one, Mildred Asbridge.

Thank you for the food and flowers and special thanks to the staff of Crittenden Health and Rehab and Dr. Jonathan Maddux for their care and kindness. We would also like to say thank you to the staff of Gilbert Funeral Home for their services.

The Asbridge Family

Thank You

Words cannot begin to express our gratitude for the outpouring of prayers, love and words you have given to our family. Your presence, encouragement and friendship will never be forgotten. The flowers, memorial gifts, food, Gideon Bibles and gifts are all special tokens of your love.

Thank you to the staff of Gilbert Funeral Home for being so professional and caring. Each detail was complete and done with great concern from you.

Thank you to Rev. David Combs and Rev. Don Nation for their reflections and comforting words.

Thank you to Janet Hodge for the beautiful hymn, "Shall We Gather at the River."

Thank you to the florists for the floral arrangements and gifts that you delivered. Each one was special.

Thanks also to the pallbearers for the friendship you gave to Virgil and his family.

Special thanks to the employees of Crittenden County Health and Rehab, employees of Crittenden Health Systems, nurses, CNAs, med techs, physicians assistants and doctors. Thank you for your care, love and friendship. You were so special to Virgil and assisted him in so many ways. We will always think of you as we count our blessings.

FUN RUN

mal because students had anticipated it happening. "Things like this help build a positive climate," the superintendent added.

The original Color Run in the United States was in Phoenix in 2011, and it became widely known as the "Happiest 5K on the Planet." Since then, thousands have sprung up as running enthusiasts try to attack others into their fold.

Running has become quite popular around these parts. Marion hosts several distance events every spring and fall, including the very popular Glow Run, which was held last month at the park. Organizations have found fundraising ability in hosting 5K races and fun runs.

As a general rule, running is not something folks covet. A buddy of mine once told me that if you see him running, call for help because something is chasing him. Truth is, running is not for everyone. But, being active should be.

Dick Van Dyke, an aging entertainer, has written a book called "Keep Moving: And Other Tips and Truths About Aging." In it, he talks about the value of thinking young and staying busy. Van Dyke will be 90 in a few weeks, but he confesses to going to the gym just about every day. Once there, he admits to doing very little. It's getting up and going that makes the difference, he said.

Whether you run or walk, the park's 1.25-mile track is a great place to exercise mind, body and spirit. Lifestyle is so important to our general health and well-being. Staying active - to any degree - is critical to a positive mental outlook whether you're 8, 18 or 88.

Thanksgiving tradition continues

STAFF REPORT

After 57 years, American Legion Post 217 Auxiliary of Burna still looks to its annual Thanksgiving dinner to support local veterans programs and community service.

This year's dinner will be from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 15 at the Legion post on U.S. 60 West beside Livingston County Middle School. The cost of the meal will be $8 for adults and $5 for children.

This traditional Thanksgiving dinner began in 1958 and remains the Post and Auxiliary's primary fundraiser of the year. These funds are used in support of local veterans, current military members and the community.

"Without the support of our community, many of these projects we use to support others would be impossible," said Faye Gibson of the auxiliary. "We are a small post in a small community, but together we accomplish more than many of the larger communities."

Specifically, much of the money raised goes to support the Wounded Warrior program, the local food bank, the veterans home in Hanson and active military and veteran needs.

The Thanksgiving meal will consist of turkey, dressing, potatoes and gravy, green beans, cranberry sauce, cole slaw, rolls and a variety of desserts. Drink choices are available also.

"Please visit with our veterans and bring a guest with you," Gibson said. "Your attendance and support will be greatly appreciated by all those who help in making this a community event in which to look forward to each year."

Gibson added that many churches make this a time for fellowship with members of their church and a means of fellowship with other churches.

Author teaches of World War II era

STAFF REPORT

Author Michael Freeland will be at the Princeton Art Guild on Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon for a "Celebration of Family, America and Veterans." Freeland, of Hopkinsville, has been featured at multiple public events in Marion over the last couple of years.

The author teaches and lectures on the World War II era from his perspective as a combat medic on the front lines with the 82nd Airborne Division. After treating the wounded of D-Day, he became part of the forces that liberated Berlin and the German death camps, ending his military career. A return trip to the European battlefields in 2005 inspired him to write "Blood River to Berlin."

Freeland will have several of his books for sale.

Students learn fire safety from local volunteers

Crittenden County Elementary School preschool students had two special visitors last week. Barrett Belt (above) and Chris Cooksey, volunteers with Marion Fire Department, visited each classroom and talked about important topics related to fire safety. The shiny red fire truck was a big hit with the 3- and 4-year-old students, said teacher Angel McDonald.

Woman's Club welcomes guests to Marion

The 102nd Fall Conference of the General Federation of Women's Clubs Kentucky 1st District was held Oct. 27 at the Heritage Restaurant at Marion Country Club. The theme for the meeting was "Opening Doors, Creating Opportunities."

Nancy Hunt, 1st District governor, presided over the conference, which included members from seven clubs in western Kentucky. Rebecca Zahrtre, Woman's Club of Marion president, welcomed the group to Marion.

Representing GFWC Kentucky was Suzette Redwine, president-elect, and Pat Harrington, first vice president. Redwine informed the group there are 2,200 members in Kentucky and 72 clubs. Ten of the clubs are located in the 1st District.

Harrington, a member of the Woman's Club of Murray, installed the new district officers – Paula Robinson, governor, and Gale Vinson, vice governor. They will officially take office after the May 19-21, 2016, annual meeting in Lexington.

Robinson, a member of the Benton's Woman's Club, announced the results from the arts and crafts contest, which had 158 entries. Marion club member Judith Ann Manley won first place in basketry and is now eligible to compete in the state contest.

Local members attending the conference in addition to Hunt and Zahrtre included Kathy Bechler, Sandra Belt, Judy Winn and Donna Girten.

OV League expands
The Marion Bobcats will be playing on the diamond in Greenville next summer ... sort of. The Ohio Valley League (OVL) team won’t be called the Marion Bobcats, of course, but will operate in Muhlenberg County as the Stallions under an agreement with the City of Marion, which owns the baseball franchise, according to Bobcats founder Gordon Guess. Guess said the new team’s general manager and coach will be Steve Fowler, who led the Bobcats on the field its first few seasons. In 2008, Marion City Council agreed to pay a $10,000 franchise fee to join the then-KIT League, a summer collegiate baseball league. The new Muhlenberg team owners will be paying $500 to lease the franchise for 2016. The money will be split between the City of Marion and Fowler. Late last year, the council agreed to pay Fowler half of its earnings from leasing or selling the franchise if he would shop it around for new ownership. If Stallions ownership decides to purchase the franchise from Marion, it would cost $7,600. The franchise value was designed to drop $1,200 for each year the team lay dormant. The Bobcats last had a team in 2013. Also last week, it was announced the Paducah Chiefs would be joining the OVL. With the addition of the Greenville team, the wooden bat league will field seven teams this summer.

Rocket freshman Gavin Dickerson lays out for a TD after catching a pass in the second period to tie the game at 14-14.

Playoffs start Friday
Rockets misfire after 2nd-period lead

STAFF REPORT
After taking a 21-14 lead in the second period Friday at Ballard Memorial, Crittenden County started shooting itself in the foot – in rapid-fire succession.
When the smoke had cleared, Ballard had scored six unanswered touchdowns and pummeled the Rockets 55-21 in a non-district matchup.
“We were very disappointed after Friday night,” Rocket coach Al Starnes said on his weekly Podcast produced by The Crittenden Press and posted online.
“I feel like we’re taking steps backwards instead of forward like you should be at the end of the season and heading into the playoffs,” Starnes added.
Crittenden’s woes started when it failed to convert three Ballard turnovers into anything that would stick to the scoreboard. Also, the Rockets came up empty three times in the red zone, turning the ball over on downs and throwing two interceptions. Its punts were short and the offense failed to move the chains when it counted. The Rockets were 2-for-11 on third-down conversions.
“We had our chances to put them down in the first half and didn’t take advantage of them,” the coach explained. “Instead, we let them back in the game and they got some confidence back at halftime.”
For Ballard, it was the school’s fourth straight winning season. That had never been done before. The Bombers finished 5-4.

Ballard created a good bit of its fortune. The Bombers took a fumbled kickoff return in for a touchdown then blocked a punt and got six points on a scoop and score. It was the second straight week Crittenden had allowed two TDs on special teams.
The Rockets end their regular season 6-4 overall, its first winning season in five years.
Crittenden will host Caverna (2-8) in next week’s Class A playoffs.

Jr. Pro Rockets win three; open playoffs Saturday

STAFF REPORT
Crittenden County’s Junior Pro football teams wrapped up their regular seasons Saturday at Webster County with a three-game sweep.
The Rockets little leaguers will play in the post-season jamboree, which starts Saturday at Sturgis. The Rockets are seeded fourth in their respective brackets. Both squads finished 3-3 on the season.
Preston Morgeson rushed for 135 yards and scored twice as the fifth- and sixth-grade Rockets shutout Webster County 15-0.
Crittenden’s defense was the storyline in this game, holding Webster without a point and scoring a safety on Maddox Carlson’s fumble recovery in the end zone during the first half.
Seth Blackburn also rushed for a conversion.
Defensively, Crittenden forced Webster into four fumbles, three caused by defensive end Ben Evans and another by end Maddox Carlson, who recovered two.
Crittenden beat Webster 26-6 in the third- and fourth-grade game. Travis Champion scored two touchdowns and Micah Newcom and Peyton Williams also scored. Newcom rushed for 61 yards, Champion 39 and Levi Piper 34. Champion also caught two passes for 19 yards and Piper had two for 28. Williams’ seven-yard reception from QB Newcom went for a touchdown. Leading tacklers were Bennett McDaniel with three, Mason Crider three and Rowan Maddox Carlson (4) and Ben Evans (72) give chase against Webster County’s quarterback in fifth- and sixth-grade action Saturday.

The Rockets’ fifth- and sixth-grade defense was superb, shutting out Webster Saturday at Dixon. Here the blue pursuit is led by Preston Sisco (26), Tucker Sharp, Dylan Yates and Coleman Stone (14).

GAME TIME

FRIDAY NIGHT
7pm Kickoff at Marion

CLASS A PLAYOFFS
Crittenden Co. (6-4)
Caverna (2-7)

THE SERIES: Crittenden County leads the series 5-0. The teams first met in 1985 in the state quarterfinals when Crittenden won 28-0 en route to a Class A state championship. They played again from 2003 through 2006 seasons as league opponents in the Class A First Region Second District. Crittenden won each of those four meetings and only one game was close. That was in 2004 when the Rockets rallied from behind to win 21-19 at Cave City. Crittenden trailed 13-0 in that game.
COLONEL COLLECTION: The Colonels have a collection of athletes and some massive men up front. Their top offensive threats are #22 Anthony Eakles, #2 Devon Paul and #4 Devon Perry. Caverna runs a pro set and a variation of the Wing-T.
INJURY REPORT: The Rockets’ linebacker and running back, senior Dylan Hollis, will be back in action this week, but perhaps in a limited role. He missed the Ballard game last week while recovering from a shoulder separation. Running back and linebacker Maeson Myers turned his ankle last week and is doubtful for Friday’s game. If those two players are unable to go offensively, fans could see more of young running backs Gavin Dickerson, Devon Nesbitt or Charlie Johnson.

monthly activity

The following is a monthly activity report for Kentucky State Police Post 2 in Madisonville, reflecting information from October 2015. The data is provided by Capt. Brent White, post commander. Post 2 serves Crittenden, Caldwell, Webster, Christian, Todd, Muhlenberg and Hopkins counties.

ACTIVITY	TOTAL
DUI arrests .....	27
Citations issued.....	1,189
Speeding .....	476
Seatbelt .....	71
Child restraint .....	8
Courtesy notices .....	534
Crashes investigated.....	83
Motorist assists .....	169
Calls for service.....	706
Criminal cases opened.....	55
Criminal arrests.....	181

Highway fatalities

There were five fatalities in the district, including a single fatality in Webster County. All five victims were wearing their seatbelts. Through the end of October, there had been 29 fatal crashes resulting in the loss of 34 lives, five more than through the same period last year. Fifteen of the victims this year were not wearing a seatbelt or helmet. Alcohol was a suspected factor in five crashes.

Jail vehicles bought without tax dollars

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Detention Center recently purchased two new vehicles with money generated from the inmate commissary.

The vehicles – a 2016 Dodge Charger and 2016 Dodge pickup – will be used for a variety of daily duties, including inmate transports, state highway work release crews and other routine operations.

Purchased on state contract, the vehicles together cost $50,600, well below normal retail value, Jailer Robbie Kirk said.

“There were no tax dollars used to buy these vehicles,” Kirk said. “The jail was able to purchase both vehicles using profits from its commissary account. This is monies from the inmates who purchase items from the commissary. State law allows jailers to purchase vehicles for use in work details in which community custody inmates work.”

Kirk said the detention center puts about 8,000 miles a month on its fleet of one dozen vehicles. Many of the jail’s vehicles are old and in poor condition. Kirk said adding the new vehicles will lower maintenance costs, reduce fuel costs and provide safer travel.

“The detention center is charged with the responsibility of taking inmates to federal court, doctors’ appointments, community work assignments, to other facilities for the Department of Corrections as well as the transporting of inmates to and from the facility in order to keep the center full,” Kirk said.

Having dependable vehicles is a must, and getting them at no cost to local taxpayers is a major benefit, the jailer said.

Kirk said the new vehicles will replace a 13-year-old Chevrolet Blazer and 22-year-old pickup.

VETERANS DAY 2015

Burna Legion post dedicating new memorial to vets

STAFF REPORT

Five years ago, the idea for a new way to honor Livingston County veterans on Veterans Day and Memorial Day was born. Next week, that veterans memorial will be formally dedicated.

American Legion Post 217 in Burna will host a dedication service for the new memorial on Veterans Day, which is next Wednesday. The event begins at 11 a.m. and will be followed by a meal.

The new memorial, completed this summer, features a black granite slab towering above the site which includes the names of all veterans connected with Livingston County who were killed in action since World War I. That is flanked by eight large gray granite walls radiating in a circle from the centerpiece. They contain the names of all late veterans connected with the county, whether they were killed as members of the military or died later as civilians.

“The new monument stands as a permanent tribute to Livingston County’s deceased veterans,” said Faye Gibson, a member of the post auxiliary.

The new memorial was erected adjacent to an existing monument that has stood as tribute to all veterans, living or deceased. Lying just off U.S. 60 next to the middle school west of Burna, the monuments are accompanied by two gazebos, benches and Old Glory and the POW/MIA and American Legion flags flying high above the site.

“It is a place designated to remember, honor and memorialize our fallen heroes who served our country in war time and in times of peace,” Gibson said. “It is a place to pay respects and to remind us to remember those who served, in whatever place, in whatever capacity, the men and women of Livingston County serving in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard.”

In the past, Post veterans and auxiliary members displayed hundreds of crosses with flags on their grounds in memory of each deceased veteran in Livingston County. The memorials would be painstakingly put up by volunteers and displayed for a few days around the last Monday in May and Nov. 11. That will no longer be necessary.

“We won’t be putting those 2,000 cross out anymore,” said Post Commander Bob Mitchell, a member of the U.S. Air Force from 1955 to 1962.

One of the reasons for the memorial, he explained, was that the number of volunteers who placed the crosses has dwindled down to about a dozen and those individuals have been slowed by age.

“It stands as a permanent tribute to Livingston County deceased veterans,” Gibson added.

Annually, the names of veterans who died throughout the year will be added to the monuments.

A permanent memorial had been discussed and worked toward for many years, said Gibson. Mitchell said plans were to build the monument piece-meal as money became available, but due to the generosity of a local veteran, the dream quickly became a reality.

The post commander said local Vietnam veteran Clifton Arflack donated a sizeable portion of money to build the monument in the name of him and his late wife, Thelma Joe Arflack. With the contribution, the post about two and half years ago was able to move ahead with plans and have construction done all at one time. The memorial was built using only private donations.

“Thank you to all of those who have worked so hard on this memorial from its very beginning,” Gibson said. “It’s something we as citizens and Livingston County can all be proud of.”

Mitchell said organizers had hoped to have the tribute completed by Memorial Day, but construction timing didn’t allow. So Veterans Day was chosen for the dedication.

The dedication begins at 11 a.m., and everyone is invited to attend. It will include short speeches by several speakers, including two retired military veterans and one active duty member. They represent the Navy, Air Force and Army. Recording artist Eric Horner will also perform.

The meal, provided for free courtesy of the Grand (Masonic) Lodge of Kentucky, will include barbecue, potato salad, baked beans and drinks.

“Committee representative of the Grand Lodge, Ronny Walker, said they are very active in serving those in the military and all veterans,” Gibson said. “Their contribution to this dedication service is greatly appreciated.”

Events set for Veterans Day in Marion

STAFF REPORT

Two Veterans Day services are planned for next Wednesday in Crittenden County.

At Rocket Arena from 9 to 10:30 a.m., Crittenden County Middle School will host a service for students and the community. The public is invited and veterans are encouraged to attend. Teresa Marshall, CCMS principal, said the ceremony will feature the Missing Man Table, colors presented by the Boy Scouts, recognition of veterans, music by the high school band and a visual and oral presentation on America’s military history by Denis Hodge’s high school military history class that will feature period costumes. “It will appeal to everyone from kindergarten through 70 years old,” Hodge said. Judge-Executive Perry Newcom will emcee.

The event will end in time for people to attend the traditional American Legion Post 111 ceremony at the war memorial in Mapleview Cemetery. The brief service at the cemetery begins at 11 a.m. There will be no speaker, said Post Commander Jim Estes. He explained that it is getting more difficult to secure someone to address the crowd for Memorial Day and Veterans Day ceremonies.

It will move to Fohs Hall in the event of inclement weather.

Vets getting discounts on pet adoptions

STAFF REPORT

To celebrate Veterans Day, an area humane society and the Crittenden County Animal Shelter are teaming up to give military veterans a taste of love.

Through Nov. 13, any veteran who adopts a dog or cat will get $25 off of the processing fee. The normal cost is $60.

PAWS of Lyon County, a group that helps support the shelter in Marion, is sponsoring this program.

Brent Witherspoon, a decorated Vietnam veteran, was the first person to adopt a dog as part of this special offering. His 17-year-old Chihuahua-terrier recently died and Witherspoon found a new friend in a terrier-beagle mix, which he named Buddy.

Buddy is just five months old and was an owner-surrender dog at the county-operated shelter.

Anyone interested in the program can learn more by contacting the shelter at (270) 969-1054 or visiting the shelter on Facebook by searching for “Crittenden County Animal Shelter” or at Crittenden Shelter.blogspot.com.

NEWS BRIEFS

Offices to close for Veterans Day

City, county, state and federal offices will be closed next Wednesday in observance of Veterans Day. Local closings include Marion City Hall, all courthouse offices, the library, the senior citizens and post offices. District court is also cancelled for next week.

Crittenden County Extension Service, however, will remain open. The Crittenden Press will also be open on Veterans Day, and the newspaper will be available as usual on Wednesday. Subscribers might see their paper a day late due to the postal holiday.

VFW post selling chicken dinners

VFW Post 12022 in Marion is selling chicken dinners as a fundraiser associated with Veterans Day.

The post is now taking orders for barbecue dinners to be offered next Wednesday. Whole chickens will be $8 or you can get a half-chicken with baked beans, potato salad and drink for the same price.

The chickens and dinners can be picked up at the post beginning mid-day next Wednesday, or the meal can be eaten at the post headquarters located at 412 N. College St. Organizers plan to have the building open until around 4 p.m. that day to accommodate those who made purchases.

Meals will also be delivered.

There are a limited number of chickens available, so the post is asking that orders be placed ahead of time. You can place an order by calling (270) 965-4100. If no one answers, simply leave a message and someone will contact you.
