STAFF REPORT

Former Crittenden County school teacher Blair E. Winders, 37, has been indicted by a Special Crittenden County Grand Jury on 55 felony counts and one misdemeanor. The charges are based on allegations that he had sexual contact with a 16-year-old female student.

Winders was arrested at 2 p.m. last Thursday at his home and is being held at Crittenden County Detention Center on a $100,000 cash bond.

The special prosecutor assigned to the case asked for the high bond, telling the judge that he feared Winders might try to contact the victim or perhaps even flee with the victim if released from custody.

Winders is scheduled for arraignment in front of Circuit Judge Rene Williams next Thursday.

Grand juries do not determine guilt or innocence. They simply decide whether enough evidence exists to prosecute a case in circuit court as a felony or felonies. The Crittenden County Grand Jury meets regularly each month. On occasion, a special session of the grand jury is called to hear a case, which is what happened last week.

The grand jury was convened last Thursday morning at Crittenden County Courthouse for the sole purpose of hearing evidence in the Winders case, which has been under investigation by Kentucky State Police since early September.

Just before noon, the grand jury announced details of its 56-count indictment, which included the following:

- Fifty-one counts of possession of matter portraying a sexual performance by a minor, which are felonies. These are allegedly based on photographs or videos on a smartphone.

- One count of first-degree sexual abuse, which is the Kentucky law that went into effect in 2008 that includes a provision for teachers, coaches or any person of trust or authority who engages in sexual contact with a person under 18. It is a Class D felony.

- One count of use of a minor in a sexual performance, which is the law prohibiting the taking of photos or video of minors. It is a felony.

- One count of prohibited use of an electronic communication system to procure a minor regarding sexual activities, a felony. This is the law that prohibits the use of electronic equipment such as a smartphone to establish or further a potential sexual relationship with a minor.

- One count of distribution of obscene material to a minor, first offense, which is a misdemeanor. It is illegal for an adult to give any type of material that might be considered obscene to a person under 18.

- One count of tampering with physical evidence, a felony. This could be something such as trying to delete evidence from a smartphone.

Following an earlier investigation by the school system, Winders was suspended with pay on Sept. 12, pending a followup investigation by state police. The original 10-day suspension was extended on Sept. 26,

Training preps local law enforcement for mass shooting scenario

Crittenden County Jailer Phil Parker (left) and Crittenden County Sheriff's Deputy Greg Rushing (center) undergo active shooter training Sunday in the stairwell at Crittenden County High School under the direction of Rick Coyle, one of three trainers with Chicago Police Department SWAT team experience who last weekend worked to better prepare local law enforcement to address a scenario in which a gunman was to attack the school.

Exercises condition police to address active shooter situation

STAFF REPORT

Since the Heath High School shootings in December 1997 and the Columbine massacre that followed less than two years later, school systems and police across the country have been forced to face the threat of mass shootings at schools. In Crittenden County, the board of education and law enforcement have joined forces to better prepare for such a situation.

Last weekend, officers with Marion Police and Crittenden County Sheriff's departments underwent special training funded by Crittenden County Board of Education to prepare for the scenario of an active shooter inside one of the school system's facilities. Crittenden County Jailer Phil Parker and Constable Billy Arflack joined in on the three days of instruction from a trio of trainers with Chicago Police Department SWAT team experience.

"It was a confidence builder for me and my guys," said Marion Police Chief Ray O'Neal. "It was some of the best training I've ever had."

Sheriff Wayne Agent said the exercises with live fire and special tactics went beyond basic law enforcement training. He also said it was helpful in allowing local authorities to coordinate with one another in the event of a gunman waging an attack at one of the schools. As part of the overall effectiveness of the exercises, law enforcement across different agencies in the county were teamed together.

"It gets everyone on the same page," Agent said. O'Neal said that is important. "You know what to expect from

Family steeped in military tradition

Four generations of McDaniels serve in U.S. armed forces

By JASON TRAVIS
STAFF WRITER

It was 1945 when Carol McDaniel, only 16 at the time, wanted to join the Army to enter World War II. He'd already watched as his three brothers left to fight in the war. McDaniel's mother, however, had a different idea and wouldn't sign that he was old enough to join the military. It would take a few more years for him to begin his career in the armed forces.

"I did join the Army in 1947 and was assigned to the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea," McDaniel said. "While on the ship to Korea, my orders were changed to GHQ, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Japan."

McDaniel returned to the United States in 1949. In 1950, he joined the National Guard as a corporal. He retired from the reserves as a major in 1990.

McDaniel, a Marion resident, has had four generations of his family serve in the armed forces.

His father, Elmer Lee McDaniel, served in World War I. His two sons, Bill and David, took after their father and joined the National Guard. Bill's son, Cameron, who is currently a junior at Crittenden County High School, has also joined the National Guard.

Bill military career also began during his junior year of high school when he signed up for the Guard. He is now a lieutenant colonel and has been accepted to make full colonel sometime in the near future. He is operations officer with the 238th Regimental Training Institute in Greenville.

National Guard members stand ready to assist state and local agencies during disasters and emergencies. On the federal level, they are trained to deploy anywhere in the world.

Bill has been deployed to Iraq and Afghanistan and was in Iraq at the time of the troop surge in 2007. At the time, civil war was at its peak in the country, and officials were trying to stabilize the Campaign aims to keep spending local

There's no place like home. And there's no place like your hometown to do your Christmas shopping. That's the message The Crittenden Press is trying to send in the weeks leading up to this holiday season.

Shop Marion First. That's the name of the campaign to encourage local residents to consider Marion and Crittenden County first when it comes to stuffing stockings and fulfilling Christmas wish lists. While we understand that not all gifts under the tree this Christmas can be found within the boundaries of Crittenden County, we submit that there are any number of unique gift ideas close to home and local alternatives to taking your money out of town or shopping online.

Sadly, few voting in this week's poll at The Press Online plan to do their holiday shopping at home. Only 11 percent said they plan to do the bulk of their Christmas shopping locally, while 61 percent plan to take their money out of town and another 28 percent will use their charge cards online.

Those figures are shameful. So taking your money elsewhere is an approach we hope to get you to reconsider as the calendar counts down to Christmas. Not only is there a convenience in shopping at home—saving both time and money when travel is considered—but money spent locally stays within the community, helping it to flourish and grow stronger.

Every time you shop, you exercise a choice—a choice to support your neighbors or take vitality away from the very community in which you live.

It is your choice, but is it one you make without careful consideration?

Remember, money spent here means local jobs that feed local families. It means strengthening a tax base that allows for community improvements. And it means the doors stay open to local businesses that offer convenience year-round.

What will be your choice this holiday season? We hope more of us choose to shop Marion first.

Vietnam: Honoring its veterans

I'm proud to be a Vietnam veteran. But I was paid for every day I was there. I went where I was told to go; did what I was told to do. I came back safe and sound in body and mind. I am no hero.

The real heroes are the 58,267 men and women whose names are inscribed on that long black Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall in Washington, D.C. The real heroes are their families who made the ultimate sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

The real heroes are those who came back dismembered, mangled, crippled and blind. Those who even now waste away in Veterans hospitals and rest homes; those who were robbed of their youth and their futures; those who are haunted still by the mental and emotional demons which infester their days and nights. They are the real heroes—the ones we should honor this Veterans Day. Those who have no legs to march in the parades, no arms to raise the flags, no joy left in their souls.

The first known casualty in Vietnam was Richard B. Fitzgibbon of North Weymouth, Mass., way back in the very early going of 1956. His name is there on the Wall, along with the name of his son, Marine Corps Lance Cpl. Richard B. Fitzgibbon III, who died in Vietnam more than 9 years later on Sept. 7, 1965. There are three such sets of names of fathers and sons on the Wall.

Incredibly, to those of us who served, it's been 37 years since the last casualty in Vietnam. Equally astonishing is the fact that most of the surviving parents of those who died are now deceased. We hurt even today for those dead fathers and mothers who suffered so much. And some poor parents lost more than one child. There are the names of 31 sets of brothers on that long black wall.

I can still see the image of my father standing at the fence at the airport in Paducah, waving goodbye as my plane lifted off. Looking back through the little window, I saw him getting smaller and smaller, his hand still waving as the huge silver craft got lost in the distant clouds and my face faded into the sky. Not until I had sons of my own would I know the aching heart behind that lonely wave.

Perhaps one of the most soul-wrenching statistics of that Asian war is that 3,103 of those we lost were only 18 years old. There are 8,283 names on the Wall of youngsters who were only 19 years old. Teenagers. Most of them had never known marriage and having children. They hadn't watched color television. None of them would know the joys of the end of the Cold War or the everyday use of computers, microwaves, MP3 players, cell phones and the Internet.

Almost 1,000 of my Vietnam brethren died on their first day in the 'Nam. Almost 1,500 died on their last day there. Tragedy was written with a stabbing exclamation point.

There are the names of

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial on The Mall in Washington, D.C., is home to the names of 58,272 men and women, including six from Crittenden County—Spc. James K. Hughes, Pfc. Bobby J. Jennings, Spc. Charles L. Doom, Pfc. Johnny Lindsey, Spc. Leon Beard and Maj. Billy Joe Williams. The memorial was dedicated on Nov. 13, 1982.

1,057 Kentuckians on that wall of honor. West Virginia paid the biggest price per capita of any state in the blood of their young.

So, there you have it folks. A bloody, old war. The only war we ever lost, they tell us. Maybe so. But I've got news for you. It wasn't lost by the guys I knew or by any of those gallant soldiers whose names are etched on that long black wall in Washington, D.C. We were there, so far away from home, for a reason. And that reason was not the same reason as those who are now safely removed from the bedlam of those dangerous times accuse us of having.

One of those brave souls was Maj. Michel Davis O'Donnell of Springfield, Ill. He was a helicopter pilot killed in action a short time after he wrote these departing words. I leave his farewell with you to consider this Veterans Day as you pause in your peaceful and happy life to pay homage to our vets—our Vietnam vets.

"If you are able, save for them a place inside of you; "And save one backward glance when you are leaving for the places they can no longer go.

"Be not ashamed to say you loved them, though you may or may not have always.

"Take what they have left and what they taught you with their dying;

"And keep it with your own.

"And in that time when men decide;

"And feel safe to call the war insane,

"Take one moment to embrace those gentle heroes you left behind."

and on Thursday, Oct. 24 Winders resigned his position with the school system, citing personal reasons.

Winders, a 1994 graduate of Crittenden County High School, had been employed as a teacher in the school system for the last 14 years. He taught high school math and coached various sports at the middle school and high school levels. He had most recently served as high school golf coach.

The case was investigated by Kentucky State Police Detective Matt Foster and presented to the grand jury by McCracken County Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Raymond McGee.

McGee was assigned to the case after Crittenden County Commonwealth Attorney Zac

School district explains involvement in case

Following is the text of a letter from Superintendent of Schools Dr. Rachel Yarbrough sent electronically Friday to all families in the school district regarding the indictment of Crittenden County High School teacher and coach Blair Winders:

Yesterday afternoon, a former high school math teacher and coach was indicted by a grand jury on several charges brought by the Kentucky State Police related to inappropriate conduct with a student.

The extent of the school district's involvement in this matter is as follows:

- The school district investigation began into this matter immediately upon information being received at the administrative level.
- School district investigation led to the suspension of the teacher from all duties on Sept. 12, 2013.

- School district officials promptly reported this matter to the Kentucky State Police on Sept. 12, 2013.
- Both the school district and the Kentucky State Police have been conducting investigations with regard to this matter.
- Superintendent received a letter of resignation from the teacher on Oct. 24, 2013.
- Grand jury indictment on Oct. 31, 2013, for charges related to this matter.

The district took all necessary measures to address this inappropriate conduct of a teacher in a manner which was prompt and had student safety at the center of all decisions. The efforts by school district administration and the Kentucky State Police in their respective investigative roles and functions were essential to yesterday's indictment. Currently, the matter is in the hands of the criminal justice system.

In the Crittenden County School District, all certified staff participates in required legal and ethical training at the beginning of each school year. Both the school district and the Commonwealth of Kentucky set forth educational professional code of ethics for all educators.

We, as educators, are held to a high standard of personal and professional conduct and we must, individually and collectively, take that responsibility very seriously. When a teacher violates that high standard of personal and professional conduct, there are serious consequences and repercussions.

We will continue to hold the safety and well-being of every student in our school district as a top priority every day.

"We educators are held to a high standard of personal and professional conduct and we must, individually and collectively, take that responsibility very seriously," Crittenden C o u n t y School Superintendent Dr. Rachel Yarbrough said last week after the indictments were handed down.

VETERANS DAY

Donation for care packages honors soldier killed in war

By DARYL K. TABOR
PRESS EDITOR

To Terry Emrick, every day is Veterans Day. And a special donation from his employer for the purpose of sending care packages to deployed troops will make this Veterans Day a little more special.

Emrick, a senior lending officer at Farmers Bank & Trust Co. in Marion, lost a son to America's war on terror. Marine Staff Sgt. Jordan B. Emrick was killed Nov. 5, 2010, in Helmand Province of Afghanistan.

"There's not a day that goes by that I don't think about him," Terry said.

A member of an explosive ordinance disposal unit, Jordan and members of his team were pinned down by small arms fire. Jordan was attempting to neutralize an improvised explosive device when it detonated. He earned a Bronze Star Medal posthumously for his sacrifice to save fellow soldiers.

Terry is reminded of his son each day he walks into his office by a certificate that accompanied the Bronze Star award and an image of Jordan in uniform hanging on his wall. He also checks the Department of Defense casualty reports every day and keeps up with America's ongoing war in the Middle East. He is often frustrated that mainstream media has found it out of fashion to cover the war in daily headlines.

"We must continue to honor those that have given great military service in the past, present time and those that will in the future," Emrick said, stressing the significance of Veterans Day next week.

Emrick lives in Henderson and has commuted to his job at Farmers Bank since beginning work there in January 2012.

Jordan, 26 at the time of his death, never lived in Kentucky. He was born and raised in Hoyleton, Ill., and was stationed out of Camp Pendleton, Calif. Hoyleton is where the young man was laid to rest.

To honor the sacrifice of Terry and his wife Dorie, Farmers Bank last week made a $500 donation in Jordan's honor to American Legion Post 68 Women's Auxiliary in Kuttawa for preparing and sending care packages to deployed troops.

"We've been wanting to do something in memory of Jordan for Terry," said Paja Crider, a vice president at Farmers Bank.

The Kuttawa post is connected to Marion through Lee Carlson, a former resident of Crittenden County who has been shipping care packages to troops since 2002. Carlson, who has a son in the Army, currently lives in Kuttawa.

For his employer to keep in the mind the sacrifices of soldiers and their families and, particularly, for the donation in remembrance of his son, Emrick is grateful.

He and his wife, who have other grown children, continue to be avid supporters of the military, regularly sending their own care packages overseas and communicating with soldiers. But each Nov. 5 since Jordan's death, the couple takes the day off from everything to spend together remembering their son in Hoyleton.

Anyone wishing to donate money or help Carlson prepare holiday care packages for soldier can reach her at (847) 204-2872.

one another," he said.

Crittenden County Board of Education funded the $2,200 training from a team of SWAT-trained instructors.

"We thought it was important for our local law enforcement to be as prepared as they could be," school board chairman Chris Cook said of the reasoning behind funding the instruction.

O'Neal said he and Agent both felt it was necessary to have the joint training exercises on active shooter situations. Though the training last weekend was geared toward a shooter scenario inside a school, O'Neal said the exercises also prepared officers for a similar situation in the workplace.

"We were very thankful that they helped us take care of it this time," O'Neal said of the school board's decision to fund the joint training.

The police chief and sheriff both said they would like their departments to undergo the training every year. Cook said that is certainly something the school board would consider in the future.

"We're going to work with them and support them every way we can," he said.

Agent said the active shooter course was very hands-on. In fact, local law enforcement underwent two days of live-fire scenarios at Jackson Knob Firearms Training Center in rural Crittenden County. The sheriff said the Friday and Saturday instruction at the firing range put officers through exercises simulating an active shooter situation at a public facility.

"We ran through scenarios every time with the shooting," Agent said.

The training was conducted by men who specialize in such instruction. One of them was Dale Willingham, who operates the local firearms training center. He said the exercises have never been more important for law enforcement from communities of all sizes, particularly following last December's mass shooting at Sandy Hook Elementary School in tiny Newtown, Conn.

"It's too common to say it can't happen here," Willingham said.

On Sunday, officers with local law enforcement spent the day inside Crittenden County High School training on-site for a possible mass-shooting situation. Trainers put officers through drills in the hallways, classrooms and in the stairwells.

"To me, it was as real as you could get without being real," Agent said.

Simunition, non-lethal marker rounds designed to be fired through police service weapons, were used on stationary and live targets to simulate active shooter scenarios. Officers, during the shooting exercises, also had to quickly distinguish between friendly and hostile targets. The aim was to create as life-like a situation as possible.

O'Neal said hearing weapons discharge and seeing spent shells on the ground intensified the simulation during the exercises.

"That's about as close as you get to the real thing," he said.

Barrett Belt, a school board member, spent the day Sunday observing the training. He came away feeling the school system's investment was a good one.

"It's some of the best money the school board has spent," he said.

With the nearest responding SWAT team being Kentucky State Police out of Frankfort, Agent's and O'Neal's departments would most likely be the first responders to any gunman situation at a school or workplace, no matter the level of threat. That's why it is important, according to Willingham, for all factions of law enforcement in the county to undergo the same training together. It helps them to function as a team even across different departments, he pointed out.

"We got there in 2006, and we left in May 2007, and the surge had just started up at that point to stabilize all the violence and the civil war that was going on. Basically, it was a civil war between the Shiite's and Sunnis at that point," he said of the warring factions.

While in Iraq, communication with family members back home was often by of computer.

"When we first went to Iraq, we weren't allowed to use a cell phone because they were too unsecure. Later on, we were able to use them a little bit. Primarily, (communication) was by computer, Skype, Web cams... That was the primary way," he said.

"Afghanistan was different. Everybody had a cell phone, and you could call just about any time you wanted to. But with computers and Skype capabilities and Internet capabilities you could pretty much talk anytime you wanted to talk."

Recalling his early days of service, which included driving multi-million dollar tanks at a young age, Bill said the experience allowed him to grow up a lot faster and take more responsibility sooner.

"By my senior year in high school, I'd already been through basic training. I'd already seen some things a lot of people hadn't. I'd already taken on some responsibilities other people hadn't. I went from being a very mediocre high school student to deciding to go to college and doing very well in college. It provided my entire livelihood for my family," he said.

On Oct. 3, Bill had the opportunity to swear in his son Cameron into the Kentucky Army National Guard at a military entrance processing station in Nashville, Tenn.

"I ship out for basic the day after my birthday," Cameron said. "My birthday is May 20, and I ship out for basic May 21."

There, he will travel to Fort Benning, Ga., and continue his family's proud military tradition.

"It is great to have so many of my dad's family to have served our country, and I am proud that I have a grandson, Cameron, to follow his dad in serving," Carol McDaniel said.

DEA initiative collects 4.5 tons of meds

STAFF REPORT
Kentucky collected more than 4.5 tons of unused or unneeded medications during the Oct. 28 U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency National Drug Take Back Day, eliminating their risk of being diverted and abused.
A total of 9,135 pounds were collected at Take Back events, which were held in conjunction with state and local law enforcement agencies throughout Kentucky, according to the Office of Drug Control Policy. Twenty pounds were collected in Crittenden County by Marion Police Department.
"Kentucky continues to make strides in its fight to reduce substance abuse and the devastating toll it takes on our families," Gov. Steve Beshear said. "Since studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, removing unwanted drugs from home medicine cabinets is a critical step in this goal."

LIHEAP sign-ups to begin Tuesday

Enrollment for the subsidy phase of the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) that helps low-income Kentucky families pay high heating bills begins next week. Sign-ups have been delayed due to the federal government shutdown earlier this month.
Applications can be made at the Pennyriple Allied Community Services office on North Walker Street in Marion Tuesday through Dec. 19. Applications will be taken in alphabetical order based on the first letter of the head of household's last name. For further information, contact the PACS office at 965-4763.

Farming classes offered locally

This is a busy time of the year here in the office while we are issuing payments. This means we have started a new crop year. I cannot believe how fast this year has flown by.

CRP, DCP payments

Direct and Counter-Cyclical Program (DCP) and Conservation Reserve Program payments have been processed. DCP payments were subject to sequestration, so they were reduced by 8.6 percent. The payments should have taken approximately three business days to reach your bank if you have direct deposit.

If you have not received your payments by this week, you may want to check to see if you are missing paperwork. Please check with your bank before you call the office, as your funds will more than likely reach your account before you receive your paper statement.

Farming classes

Hopkinsville Community College will be hosting free and open-to-the-public Adult Agriculture/Young Farmer Classes over the next few months at the Ed-Tech Center in Marion. Dee Brasher will be teaching these classes. There are several guest speakers and various topics, including:

- Nov. 18: Animal Health Update with Dr. Brian Williams.
- Nov. 25: Cow/Calf Profit;
- Dec. 2: Farm Service Agency Update with Laura Kessler.

- Dec. 9: Cow Type to Fit Herd.
- Dec. 16: Market Update.
If you have any questions please call Brasher at (270) 839-9791.

Wheat certifications

Please remember than Dec. 15 is the final date to certify wheat and other fall-seeded small grains. This is really not too far away. Last year, late file fees were waived, but they will not be this year. Please remember to certify in a timely manner.

Many producers are planting wheat right now. As soon as you are done planting, please contact the office to schedule an appointment to certify.

As always you are more than welcome to drop off insurance maps.

COC election

County Committee (COC) election ballots were mailed this week. This year,

Local Administrative Area 1 is up for re-election. Please remember to cast your vote. We can receive ballots via mail or they can be dropped off at the office.

Please make sure that you select the candidate you would like to vote for by circling their name. You are more than welcome to write in a candidate as well.

Also, do not forget that you have to sign your ballot. Using power of attorneys is not valid on election ballots.

Upcoming

- Dec. 2: Last day to return COC election ballot.
- Dec. 4: COC ballots to be counted at 9 a.m.
- Dec. 15: Last day to certify fall seeded small grains.

(Laura Kessler is the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farm Service Agency executive director at the Salem service center, which serves both Crittenden and Livingston counties. She can be reached at 988-2180.)

Natural gas prices higher

FROM STAFF AND AP REPORTS

The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) says early season natural gas heating prices will be higher than last year.

The PSC says the average customer can expect to pay about 19 percent more in November than last year if they consume 10,000 cubic feet of natural gas. The average bill is projected to be about $102.

But the PSC says that number is down nearly $49 since the peak of November 2008, a decrease of 32 percent.

PSC Chairman David Armstrong says demand has gone up over last year because more natural gas is being used and the economy has improved. He said the significant increases in production and supply are projected to provide price stability.

About 44 percent of Kentuckians heat their homes with natural gas. For those who heat with propane (10 percent), prices are likely to be about 20 percent higher than a year ago, while those heating with fuel oil (3 percent) will see prices similar to last year.

The 39 percent in the state who use electric heat are likely to see higher bills on average this winter, in part because three of Kentucky's largest electric utilities have had rate increases in the last year.

The slow pace of economic growth has helped keep fuel prices stable, but it also has left many struggling to pay their heating bills, Armstrong said.

Sweet potatoes!

A healthy growing season allowed for some abnormally large sweet potatoes in Crittenden County this year. Above left, Lucy Tedrick of Marion shows off her bumper crop headlined by two 11.5-pound potatoes and one 10-pound spud. Above right, David Arlack of northeast Crittenden County had his own luck with sweet potatoes. Arlack's largest tuber weighed in at just under 5 pounds and the smaller of the two was about 3.5 pounds. Neither Arlack nor Tedrick had any secrets to their green thumbs. Each simply let nature take its course and harvested the vegetables late last month.

Now that bow season is under way, it's important to keep scouting. Trail cameras provide an excellent tool for scouting potential new stand locations. We always like to have a number of stand locations available at any given time. Use trail cameras to check your stand areas while you're unable to be there. Keep a daily log of weather conditions and be especially mindful of wind direction. Compare that information to the data provided by your camera's time and date stamp on each photo. By cross-referencing data, a hunting can build a good pattern of deer movement in his hunting area.

Question answered as to why the heathen rage

"Why do the heathen rage and the people imagine a vain thing?" asks Psalms 2:1.

(A heathen is one who does not believe in the God of Christianity and His laws. The definition of vain means useless, empty, void.)

The answer, which describes what God thinks of the heathens and vain people, is found in Psalms 2:2-3: "The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the Lord, and against his anointed, saying, let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us."

That is the root of heathens' rage against people of faith in America and especially in the military today. This is what the heathens in our nation are saying and doing from the top down.

They demand we Christians either deny the Bible truths on homosexuality and lesbianism, keep our mouths shut or be persecuted by them and their henchmen. They demand we all pay for abortion and its death rendering pills or pay a tax. The Muslim countries demand Christians either convert to their heathen religion or pay a tax.

Look it up.

So where does this tax demand in Obamacare come from? It does not come from the Christian religion which he professed in the far distant past of five years.

God says what He will do about it in Psalms 2:4-5: "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision (ridicule). Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure."

God continues to tell us He is sending His Son who will be the real King, and the next words of God tell the terrible end of these heathens and their deceived followers in Psalms 2:6-12: "Yet have I set my king upon my holy hill of Zion. I will declare the decree: the Lord hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee.

"Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel.

"Be wise now therefore, O ye kings: be instructed, ye judges of the earth. Serve the Lord with fear, and rejoice with trembling. Kiss the Son, lest he be angry, and ye perish from the way, when his wrath is kindled but a little. Blessed are all they that put their trust in him."

This sure wipes out the false and deadly modern doctrine that has brought blasphemy on the truth of the love of Jesus, that He is so loving that He cannot show anger or wrath.

Two occasions that come quickly to mind are:

- When Jesus sat down and braided a scourge and used it to run the money changers out of God's house in John 2:15.

- When in Mark 3:5 He was being rebuked for healing on the Sabbath day "And when He had looked round about on them with anger, being grieved for the hardness of their hearts."

Now on the subject of Jesus' wrath from Revelation 6:14-17: "And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb;

"For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?"

Everyone who knows anything about Bible Christianity knows it is a religion of peace not only in our hearts when truly

Christian, but peace with God and with our fellow man.

Yet the heathens want to deceive unbelievers so they won't accept Jesus as their Savior.

So why are they so adamant against people of faith? They do not want the truth because it cramps their lifestyle and hinders them from getting everything they want from the rest of us. They demand we agree with them so they won't feel guilty or appear to be in the low class God puts them in as abominators and reprobates.

Every nation they have subdued throughout history either has disappeared from the scene of nations or has sunken to a new low.

This is a destructive evil and is accepted by straight but wicked people who they use as a method of controlling reproduction.

The liberals, leftists, Marxists, communists and atheists who claim to be for minorities only to get their votes, know the abortionists kill far more minority babies than white. But they want this hidden from the minds of the uninformed minority community.

All the wicked America-haters who want communism think they will help rule the rest of us. But as I have stated before, the Muslims they are helping to take over this nation will rule over them and kill all of them just as fast as they kill the Christians...only after they have killed all the homosexuals.

Why do you think Obama has reduced our antimissile strength by 16 percent while communist China has tested a mobile missile capable of hitting the continental United States and is preparing to deploy ballistic missile submarines that can do the same?

Plus, our missile defense capabilities have deteriorated and the only one tested the last five years in Obama's reign have failed. Who is looking out for us?

Blind America-haters. Go and figure that!

Discerning the word of man from the Word of God part of Christian maturity

By JOEY DURHAM
GUEST COLUMNIST

I want to bring this thought to your heart, "Receiving The Word Of God," and we'll look in I Thessalonians 2:13 for our scripture text, which reads, "For this cause also thank we God without ceasing, because, when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the Word of God, which effectually worketh also in you that believe."

An identifying characteristic of true believers in the early church was that they received the Word of God. They were not only believers, but they grew into mature Christians who knew the difference between the words of man and the Word of God.

This Godly characteristic is brought out in Acts 17:11, where we read, "These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so."

One device of Satan is to place the words of religious men on the same level of authority as the Word of God, which by the way, is strongly forbidden in the scriptures.

True Christians believe that the Bible is the Word of God from cover to cover, and we gladly receive and believe all of it. God has graciously preserved His Word for English-speaking people in the authorized King James Bible, and we do not selectively believe certain parts of it and ignore other portions.

I, nor anyone else, can say that we understand all of the Word of God, but I believe it because it is the Word of God and not the words of man. In direct contrast, in preparation for the coming of the Antichrist, Satan will turn multitudes away from receiving the Word of God, as II Thessalonians 2:9-10 tells us: "Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders, And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved."

Friend, you would do well to humbly and unwaveringly receive God's Word and beware of anything or anyone who attempts to diminish its importance.

‘Black Friday’ sting nets 3 local arrests

FROM STAFF AND AP REPORTS

Kentucky State Police (KSP) started rounding up nearly 500 drug suspects Friday in what the state's lead police agency called the largest one-day crackdown in its history, aided by tips from Kentuckians reviled by a drug scourge that has caused more statewide deaths than car wrecks. One person from Marion and two from Salem were included in the arrests.

The waves of anonymous tips to included a plea from a western Kentucky woman desperate to help her drug-addicted son. Her information helped lead to the arrest of her son's dealer, said KSP Commissioner Rodney Brewer.

State police received similar letters from people seeking police intervention to stem the flow of drugs reaching their loved ones, he said.

"We hear you and we are responding to the needs of our local communities," Brewer said at state police headquarters in Frankfort. "Your heart goes out to them. They have tried every avenue possible to try to cure their son or daughter of this type of addiction. And oftentimes at the root of the problem is a dealer."

State police personnel, aided by local and federal authorities, fanned out across Kentucky on Friday morning. By mid-afternoon, 300 people had been arrested on 526 charges, state police said. The figures did not include results from several arrest teams.

The roundup, dubbed "Operation Black Friday," was expected to net 479 arrests resulting in at least 774 charges, mostly trafficking and possession-related, Brewer said.

Arrests spanned the state. State police posts in Madisonville and Mayfield combined for 27 arrests. Apprehended locally were:

- Jerrie Rene Garrett, 41, of Marion on Marshall County charges. Garrett was lodged in Marshall County Jail and charged with first-degree trafficking a controlled substance, first offense (meth); and first-degree complicity to trafficking a controlled substance, first offense (meth).

- Harold Hardin, 58, of Salem on Lyon and Marshall County charges. He was lodged in McCracken County Jail and faces a single charge of first-degree trafficking a controlled substance, first offense (meth) in both Lyon and Marshall counties.

- Makaela Franklin, 22, of Salem on Livingston County charges. She was lodged in the McCracken County Jail on the charge of first-degree trafficking a controlled substance, first offense (meth).

The crackdown, in the works for months, mostly targeted street-level drug dealers at or near the bottom rungs of trafficking operations, Brewer said. "These people are really the thorn in the sides of our local communities," he said.

But authorities hoped the arrests would lead them up the command chain to nab higher-ranking members of trafficking rings, he said.

Arrests stemmed from peddling a cross-section of drugs—including prescription drugs, marijuana, heroin and methamphetamine, he said.

Heroin has become a growing problem, with KSP arrest data showing a 200 percent increase in heroin-related arrests since 2012, he said.

Thank You

Prepare your finances for the holidays

As the leaves continue to fall and the nightly temps dip cooler, we know that the holiday season will soon be upon us. It seems the holiday season starts earlier every year and you may not have been ready for dancing elves to be on display at stores in July. To help reduce holiday stress and after-holiday bills, often known as the holiday financial hangover, now is the time to start preparing for upcoming holiday expenses.

Before the holiday season steps into high gear, take time to get prepared. Review your current financial situation and determine a holiday spending limit that works with your family budget. To make certain you are not tempted to increase your limit as the season progresses, develop a holiday budget for gift-giving, food, travel and entertainment expenses. Potential additional expenses which are often forgotten in a holiday budget include gasoline, babysitter fees and eating out more often.

As you work on your budget, start by making a list of everyone you plan to give a gift, including children, loved-ones, teachers, babysitters, hair stylist, etc. Identify a realistic spending limit and possible gift idea for each person on your list. It is important that you not feel pressured to give anyone a gift. If your finances are tighter this year than normal, consider a handwritten note expressing thanks or appreciation. Continue to work your way through your holiday budget estimating other anticipated expenses. If you have receipts or credit card statements from last year, you may be able to use these as a guide in developing a realistic estimate for travel, entertainment and food expenses.

As you are preparing your finances for the upcoming holidays, you will also want to think about how you pay for your holiday shopping and expenses. You are less likely to overspend if you pay with cash, as opposed to using a credit card. If you are using cash, once all your cash is gone, you are finished with your holiday shopping. Many stores are now offering lay-away plans. If you decide to use a store layaway option, be certain to check the return policy and keep track of all payments.

Plan your holiday shopping trips ahead of time, review store ads and know exactly who and what you are shopping for prior to entering the store. Impromptu shopping trips and wondering around a store looking for gift ideas can lead to impulsive purchases, which were not part of your original budget. Do your window shopping at home using catalogs or online, so that you know exactly what you want when are at the store. Finally, remember holiday sales can be tempting, but once you are in the store stick with your original budget.

Marion rebuilds after 1905 downtown fire

Marion was quick to get started on the rebuilding of the business district after the March 28, 1905, fire. Thank goodness, the newspaper was still able to print a weekly edition, for through the pages of The Crittenden-Record Press, the progress and details of the rebuilding are available for us to read and learn much of the history of the buildings on Main Street today.

The Crittenden Record-Press
April 28, 1905

At the called session of the city council Wednesday, a number of applications were made and permission was granted for the construction of new buildings in the burned district.

Adam and Pierce made application for permit to build a brick machine shop on Bank Street. (Bank Street today is East Carlisle Street).

Mrs. Frank Wheeler made application for permission to build three two-story brick buildings on her lots adjoining the Marion Bank lot; and Mr. Harry Carnahan secured permits to erect a two-story brick store building on the lot where the Taylor & Cannan dry goods store stood and a one story frame cottage residence on Bellville Street. E.J. Hayward will rebuild the Yandell-Gugenheim corner. (Frazer, Rogers & Peek law office today). He has secured 10 feet from James H. Orme, and this time, his building will be over 30 feet wide instead of 20 feet as before.

In turn, Mr. Orme will take in the space formally occupied by the Eberle & Hardin saloon and will also erect a larger and much nicer drug store building. (Bowtanicals Florist & Gifts today.) These two buildings will go up together; in each case, the architect having been secured by Boston & Paris. The buildings will be model structures with stone and red brick fronts and will be a credit both to the good name of our little city and the gentlemen themselves. Yandell & Gugenheim Co., Woods & Orme and Levi Cook will all have quarters at their old stands, but with greater opportunity to display their goods.

John Blue, Jr., president of the Marion Bank, stated to a representative of The Record that plans and specification for the new bank building were being prepared. It is understood that this building will be a modern structure and will be stream heated. Mr. Blue also tells us that the new post office building will be constructed after the manner of the former, the plans in some minor points being modified. These plans are now in the hands of the architect—whatever changes are made will have a tendency to make the building more beautiful than before.

Across the alley from this building to the east, the new Record building will stand. Across the street in front of the post office and Record buildings, Messers, Yandell & Orme will erect a splendid two-story hotel building. (The old Crittenden Hotel.) The hotel will be handsome and commodiously arranged. On the ground floor will be the reception office, sample, family and dining room and also the kitchen.

The second story will be comprised of 20 bedrooms, 10x15, properly and conveniently arranged. On the ground floor, there will also be a barbershop, meat market and probably a grocery store. James H. Orme has completed the brickwork on a one-story wareroom to be in the rear of his new building.

We have been requested to call the attention of the public to the fact that anyone building or attempting to build within the corporate limits of the City of Marion without a permit from the city council will violate the ordinances and will be liable to penalties specified therein. Everyone expecting to build should apply to the council for a permit.

There have been a number of transfers in real estate, and by re-arranging and consolidating building lots, many improvements will result to the city of Marion.

May 5, 1905

Mr. Harry Carahan has the rough lumber on the ground for his cottage residence on Bellville Street and he is also getting ready to rebuild a two-story brick store building on Main Street.

Contractor Jennings and his assistants were making excavation on the Wheeler lots adjoining the Marion Bank site and getting ready to lay the foundations for the three-story building that Mrs. Wheeler is to build.

Boston & Paris, who have contracts to build the Hayward store building on the corner where Yandell-Gugenheim Co. kept, and the Orme drug store buildings adjoining made excavations this week and began the foundations for the modern structure to be built thereon. The contractors announced to us that Mr. Orme has made a change in the plans for the interior of his building that will be profitable, economical and very efficient. He will have a gallery in the rear end of the building overlooking the lobby and on which clerical business can be attended to.

Mr. Orme has also purchased the Frank Loyd lot adjoining the site for the above building. He will utilize this lot together with the lot on which the Doss or Billart saloon building stood in erecting the largest store building that has ever yet been constructed in Marion. The building will be a handsome two-story brick structure 36 feet wide and 100 feet tall. It is understood that it is to be occupied by Cochran & Pickens as a hardware store. (The old Cochran's Hardware store.) The plans and specification for this building are now being prepared by Harris & Shopbell, the Evansville architects.

Hon. L.H. James has contracted with Boston & Paris to rebuild his store building on Bank Street near the post office site. Mr. James will have the same number of offices as before and the building will be constructed similar to the former, but special brick will be used and there will be a few small changes in the arrangement that will add to the appearance of the building.

It is very likely that the building will be occupied when completed by its former tenants, attorneys James & James and Champion & Champion on the first floor and Drs. J.O. Dixon and G.E. Shively on the second floor. This building will go right up. The ground has been broken for the foundation to build and the contractors propose to build it right along with the Hayward and Orme buildings. In structure and appearance, the office building will harmonize with the last two burned. (Offices located behind and adjoining Frazer Rogers and Peek).

Mr. Harris, the Evansville architect, stated to a representative of The Record that he made a contract with the local Masonic temple to prepare new plans and specification for the new Masonic temple that will be constructed on the site of the former building on the corner of Main and Bellville, while he was in the city Wednesday. We hope to be able to see the plans and specifications when they are made up in order that we

The above early 20th century photo shows the newly-constructed business section of South Main Street and going east down Bank Street (now Carlisle Street). This area was rebuilt and opened for business in February 1906 after the March 1905 fire completely destroyed this area. From left headed down Main Street are Yandell and Gugenheim Department Store; Orme Drug Store; Levi Cook Jeweler, with large clock hanging out in front; Thomas H. Cochran Hardware Store; Morris and Son Grocery; and Yates Music Store, with second story porch. may give briefly an outline of the building.

Mr. Harris also stated to us that he carried with him the contract to make the plans and specification for the S.M. Jenkins office building to be erected on Bank Street. He stated that the modification in the plans and specifications of Blue & Gugenheim post office and the building had not yet been completed, but that they would be ready in a few days.

The new building will be an improvement over the former in some respects, and by reason of the fact that the physical conditions of the surroundings will be improved more than 100 percent, the building will be more favorably situated this time than before. There will be the brick hotel and business houses across the street and The Record office building and a brick machine shop across an alley on the east.

Numbers of mining companies, lawyers and doctors and other professional men will have headquarters on this street, and comparatively speaking, it might be termed the "Wall Street of Marion" from the standpoint of importance and general location.

The brickwork on the Adams & Pierce machine shop will be completed this week. The dimensions of this building are 45x65. In the corner next to The Record building, Messrs. Adams and Pierce will have their office, and there will be a door leading directly into this from the street. Messrs. Adams and Pierce are to be congratulated, as they will be the first to complete and move into permanent quarters since the big fire.

Fredonia Valley Heritage Society to host annual Thanksgiving meal, meeting

STAFF REPORT
The Fredonia Valley Heritage Society will meet at 6 p.m. today (Thursday) at the Fredonia Lions Club Community Building on Shelby Street in Fredonia for their annual Thanksgiving potluck meal and meeting.

The meeting follows on the heels of the society's "Book Unveiling and Celebration" on Sunday for their new publication, "In Pursuit of Art: The Talent of John F. Rice."

Heritage Society President Pam Faughn welcomed those in attendance, which included special guests Dick Rice—the son of John Rice—his wife Betty and daughter Karen from Pinehurst, N.C.

The new publication includes over 335 pieces of John Rice's art plus history of the Fredonia Valley and other locations. Rice was born in the Fredonia Valley in 1882 and lived there until his death in 1960. He followed his dream and his love of art to France, where he studied art. His artwork reflects his love for the Fredonia Valley and its people and includes art from Kentucky, France and Mississippi. The art spans a unique period in history like no other.

Rice saw the world change more than any other generation before or since. He wanted to see the world, but he always returned to Fredonia, the hometown he loved. To live in a time when there was no radio, no telephone and no television, and where newspapers were our nation's primary information source, Rice was extremely up to date on current events of the day. His political drawings are right on target concerning events around the world. "He knew what was going on," Faughn said. "Whether it was current events around the world or current events in his neighborhood, John told the story with his art."

Many individuals contributed to the production of the book, including Dick Rice and the Rice Book Committee—Chairman Rodney Paris, Dean Akridge, Rita Oldham, Maggie Gammon and Cherri Cunningham. Other contributors of art for the book include Sam J. Young, Rosalind Trigg Crinean, Sandra Brockmeyer Button, Dennis Brasher, Linda and Elbert Bennett, Rodney Paris. Businesses and individuals helped sponsor the production of the book through monetary contributions.

Paris said the book was dedicated to Dick Rice for his efforts to help preserve history for future generations by generously allowing the Heritage Society to use his father's artwork.

"It was my privilege to be the editor and designer of this book," Faughn said. "It has been a labor of love. I love Fredonia, and I am indeed very proud to live here. The people of Fredonia—past and present—are one of a kind. John F. Rice was a very fine example!"

Rockets in playoffs
Crittenden County plays at Owensboro Catholic Friday night in the opening round of the Class 2A playoffs. The Aces are 8-2 this season and were 5-0 in Class 2A Second District play. They won their division by beating Union County by one point.

Owensboro Catholic is led by senior quarterback Houston Hartz, who has thrown for more than 2,500 yards this season. Thirteen players have caught passes for the Aces this season and a half dozen have caught 17 or more. Their leading receivers have caught 53 and 44 passes this year. Jonathan Gardner, their leading rusher, has almost 700 yards rushing.

Crittenden's leading rusher, Lane Wallace, who also has about 700 yards rushing, is healthy again after nursing an ankle injury the last couple of weeks of season. However, QB Travis Gilbert is still out and backup Noah Dickerson will once again be behind center for the Rockets, who started the year 3-1, but finished the regular season at 3-6.

The Rockets have never done very well on the road for playoff games. CCHS is 1-13 all-time in road games during post-season play.

Crittenden's Big Rivers WMA now open for public hunting

The newest section of Big Rivers Wildlife Management Area and State Forest near Sturgis and Marion is now open for public hunting.

The new and old sections of this wildlife management area total 6,812 acres of fields and woodlands at the confluence of the Ohio and Tradewater rivers in Union and Crittenden counties. No special permit is required for entry.

"This area offers excellent deer, turkey and squirrel hunting, plus excellent hiking and wildlife viewing opportunities," said Scott Harp, regional wildlife coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "We also have several habitat projects currently planned to enhance quail and rabbit hunting."

The wildlife management area (WMA) is open under statewide regulations for squirrel, rabbit, quail, furbearer and fall turkey seasons. However, during this weekend's quota gun hunt, the area is only open to drawn quota hunters. All other access is closed Saturday and Sunday. Afterwards, it will re-open to public hunting, although no more rifle deer hunting will be permitted this season, except for free youth season in late December.

Big Rivers WMA and State Forest is otherwise open for archery/crossbow deer season (except during the quota hunt) and is open for the free youth weekend hunt Dec. 28-29. It will also be open for the October youth rifle hunt next year.

While the area offers adequate parking, some of the road infrastructure is still under evaluation and development. Maps of the area are available online at fw.ky.gov. click the maps and online services tab, then the wildlife management areas tab. Boat-in access to interior areas is allowed.

The area is jointly operated by the Kentucky Division of Forestry and Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. The Nature Conservancy, The Conservation Fund, The Forestland Group, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Kentucky Heritage Land Conservation Fund, U.S. Forest Service's Forest Legacy Program, Indiana Bat Conservation Fund and the Stream Mitigation Fund were instrumental in acquiring the property for permanent protection.

Big Rivers WMA and State Forest also will be managed for the protection of watershed and water quality, the security and recovery of endangered, threatened and rare species, and the preservation of existing cultural and geological treasures.

If you plan to use the new Big Rivers WMA here is how the property boundary signs look. Officials are also encouraging users to park in one of the two designated parking areas and avoid parking alongside public roads, such as Bells Mines Road.

Rifle Season Opens

Kentucky's 16-day rifle deer season opens Saturday and runs through Nov. 24. A deer permit allows each hunter to harvest one buck during the entire white-tail deer season no matter what type of weapon is used. The permit is good for two deer, one of which may be antlered. However, hunters who are interested in harvesting multiple antlerless deer have ample opportunity. See the Kentucky Hunting Guide for information on purchasing additional deer permits for does. Most wildlife biologists advocate the harvesting of antlerless deer in order to improve herd quality. Successful hunters are required to log information on their permit immediately after taking a deer. The animal must be checked in by calling 1-800-CHK-GAME. Have a pen ready because the automated checking system will provide the hunter with a confirmation number which must stay with the animal until it is processed and ready for the freezer.

Rogers announces candidacy for family court judge

STAFF REPORT
Marion attorney Brandi Hagan Rogers announced Wednesday that she will be a candidate in next year's election for family court judge in the 5th Judicial Circuit of Kentucky, which includes Crittenden, Union and Webster counties. The seat is currently held by Judge William E. Mitchell, who is retiring at the end of his current term.
Rogers, 32, has been a partner in the law firm of Frazer, Rogers & Peek since 2010. She was admitted to practice law in Kentucky and in U.S. district court in 2006. She currently serves as master commissioner for Crittenden County and attorney for the boards of education in both Crittenden and Webster counties.

Rogers is a graduate of Crittenden County High School, Western Kentucky University and Salmon P. Chase College of Law. While earning her law degree, she clerked for Circuit Judge Rene Williams and Kentucky Supreme Court Chief Justice Joseph E. Lambert.
Rogers believes she possesses a unique qualification for the job beyond her legal experience. The child of a broken home, She grew up in both Crittenden and Union counties. She said she found stability only when she was allowed to live with her grandparents.

During that period, she claims to have had an "up close and personal" relationship with the court.
"Family court is not for the lighthearted," she said. "We deal with tough issues: Abuse, neglect, dependency, custody battles, divorce, parental rights, child support etc. These issues I know, not just because this is my work as a lawyer and I represent families every day, but because that's what I lived. I know homes that need intervention. I know homes that need reunification. I know them in my heart and my history."

"I already make it my job every day to do the best I can to help families as the law allows. As family court judge, I will bring my heart and perspective to continue to do the best I can to help families as the law allows. I will be honest and fair and families will be heard."
Recalling her youth, Rogers added, "A judge once told me, 'It'll be OK; I hear you.' That statement was great comfort and made a difference in my life. I want to share that with others."

Rogers received the 2011 Kentucky Bar Association Young Lawyers Section Community Service Spotlight. She has been co-chair of Crittenden County Coalition for a Drug-Free Community since 2008. She also has volunteered with teen court, with the late-Judge Tommy Simpson and with the truancy diversion programs in both Crittenden and Webster counties.
She is married to Grant Rogers and they have one daughter, Charlie. They are members of Fredonia Cumberland Presbyterian Church and live in Marion.

Book fair encourages reading

A pirate invasion didn't stop the Crittenden County Elementary School (CCES) book fair. Above (from left) Gavin Hunt, a fifth-grader; Hunter Miles, a second-grader; and kindergartners Jason Lineberry and Landon Woodall dressed as pirates on Halloween and to help show there's a fortune of treasure in reading books. The fair will continue today (Thursday) and Friday. Parents are invited to shop at the book fair during their child's library time. The book fair is also open from 3:30 to 6:30 today. "The book fair allows the children to select a book that they want to read," said CCES Media Specialist Carolyn Traum. "It starts a book library at home. While every child's parents may not be able to afford a book, we try to have some contests and things so some children can have books. Money that we make goes to buy books for the classroom and add books to the library." Purchases may also be made online at www.scholastic.com/fair through Nov. 16. All purchases benefit the school.

Church offers boys club

STAFF REPORT
With the success of the Ambassadors for Christ Church's sewing club, which now has 11 participants, church officials decided to organize a similar club for young boys ages 6 to 12.
Church member Mike Campbell said the club is an opportunity to teach basic skills like working with a hammer and nails to build birdhouses.
"So many kids sit and just watch TV or play with Playstation," Campbell said. "They don't really get out and do anything. It's an opportunity for them to learn a skill."

It's also a chance for the boys to learn from a male role model who can create a positive influence on their lives.
The club will meet from 5 to 7 p.m. each Wednesday at Ambassadors for Christ Church located on Court Street in Marion.
For more information, contact the church at 965-9388.
