21st Christmas in Marion Saturday at Fohs Hall

STAFF REPORT

You know the holidays are quickly approaching when Christmas music and craft vendors fill Fohs Hall.

Those two things indicate one thing – it's time to shop at Christmas in Marion.

The annual arts and craft show in Marion takes place Saturday from 9 a.m., to 6 p.m.

This is the first year the Community

Arts Foundation coordinated the event, which was begun 20 years ago by the Crittenden County Homemakers.

This year's coordinator, Kim Hunt Vince, said little has changed at the event with the exception of making it a one-day show. Past vendors have said crowds were minimal on Sunday, so organizers extended the show's hours until 6 p.m., to accommodate more one-day shoppers.

"We have several returning vendors, but nearly one third of the vendors are new and are bringing unique products to the show," Vince said, noting that booths will be in the auditorium, Nunn

Vince

Room, Conrad Room and lower level. Entrances will be open on both the lower level and main floor.

One of the mainstays of the 21-year-old show will be the sale of Homemakers baked goods, including bread and candy.

"They will be doing a fundraiser for their organization by continuing the

Winn laid to rest Monday

Retired Marion police chief remembered as family man

By DARYL K. TABOR
MANAGING EDITOR

Though he spent more than half of his life as a police officer, retired Marion Police Chief Kenneth Winn was most remembered this week by his friends as a family man. His successor as chief of police, Ray O'Neal, said Winn loved to share his family photos and wanted nothing more than to see his youngest daughter graduate high school and continue her education.

"He couldn't wait to move her into college," O'Neal said, speaking of Sandra, a senior at Crittenden County High School.

But the retired police officer never got that opportunity.

Winn, who retired a Marion Police Chief in July 2007, died last Thursday at his rural Crittenden County home after a year-long battle with cancer. He was 63.

Winn leaves behind Sandra, his wife Dorothy "Dottie" Winn of Marion and two grown children, John E. Winn of Hickory, Ky., and Karen Gibson of Gilbertsville, Ky. He was buried Monday.

Winn grew up in Michigan but visited the area as a young man. His family was from the "Frankly, I wanted to live in the country and I picked Marion," Winn told The Crittenden Press in July 2007 after announcing his retirement plans. "I had visited here in the summers growing up and really liked it."

Bobcats will return for 2nd KIT League season in 2009

By DARYL K. TABOR
MANAGING EDITOR

When the summer sun begins to bear down on Marion, the umpires will be back to dust off home plate for another season of Bobcats baseball.

Follow the 'Cats

News and updates on the Marion Bobcats baseball club can still be found online at the team's Web site, Marion Bobcats.com.

The decision was finalized over the weekend with support from an overwhelming majority of the team's 21 investors.

"It looks like the experiment has pretty much worked," Guess said of the effort to field and keep a squad in an organized baseball league.

He said it appears the Bobcats will join the rest of the KIT League line-up from last season – Owensboro, Fulton and Tradewater (Dawson Springs) in Kentucky; Union City, Tenn; Farmington, Mo. – with the additions of Sikeston, Mo., and Olney, Ill., possible. Depending on the number of teams in the league, the Bobcats will likely play a 49- or 50-game schedule in June and July.

Steve Fowler will return as manager for the Bobcats, as well as eight or nine players from the final 2008 season roster.

One of the returning investors calls the decision a win for the community.

"We feel like it has more benefit than the dollars reflect," said Charlie Hunt, co-owner of Marion Feed Mill. "I think the community enjoyed having the team here."

And judging by the response of Towery, who could be found last summer in the grandstand along the third base side of virtually all 26 of the Bobcats' home games, Hunt is right.

"I think it's the best thing to happen to the summertime in Marion since Dr. (Richard) Brandon was practicing," Towery said of the late physician.

Little will change from 2008, said Guess. The game will be played under the same rules as last season – 22-man roster, wood bats, designated hitter, nine innings, etc. – but the outfield fences at the park which bears Guess' name will be deeper and the new concession stand should be completed.

"That'll give us the opportunity to sell pizza and popcorn," the general manager said.

Fowler already has tentative agreements with 16 players, Guess said. One of those will be right-handed pitcher Joey Haston, who joined the team late last season but

Break-ins appear to be linked

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Sheriff's Department is investigating two burglaries on the west side of the county. Deputy Greg Rushing says they appear to be linked.

"The M.O. is the same in both of them," Rushing said. "In both cases, the perpetrators kicked in a side door to gain entrance into the home."

The crimes took place Oct. 7 and Oct. 8, both in the early to mid afternoon hours. Both break-ins were on main highways and both were in areas with a limited number of homes.

The first burglary was on Ky. 855 North. Homeowner Billy Howard told authorities that he was gone from his house for only about 45 minutes last Tuesday afternoon when someone broke in and took about $200 in coins. Stolen were a set of quarters and other miscellaneous collectible coins.

The following day, James Bebout, who lives at the corner of Ky. 2123 (Glendale Church Road) and Ky. 297, reported that his home had been burglarized. Deputy Rushing said the burglars entered the home by kicking in a garage door then took three firearms and some change. Drawers and dressers had been rifled through by the intruders, Rushing's report said.

The guns taken were a Ruger .357 magnum stainless steel pistol with a 10-inch barrel, a Ruger single-action revolver with a six-inch barrel and a Mauser .30 caliber pistol.

Rushing said it appears that each home was targeted at random. He urges homeowners to use deadbolt locks and be more vigilant by watching for suspicious vehicles in their neighborhoods.

Crittenden County TipLine is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of anyone involved in these crimes. Call 965-3000 and remain anonymous.

Winn always straight shooter

Kenneth Winn was an imposing fellow, about 6-foot-6 with long arms that fit well into his blue policeman's uniform. Big guys always command respect and Winn was no different.

Although his frame and physical features were arresting, Winn was a gentle giant with whom I had spent hours over the past 20-plus years while working as a newspaper man in Crittenden County.

In 1986, fresh out of college and not too familiar with the landscape in Marion, I was trudging down East Bellville Street one fall morning when a cop car pulled up behind me with the driver craning out of the window and motioning for me to step over to the cruiser.

Now, you have to understand that I was 22 and not too far removed from my rabble-rousing youth. A policeman in the rearview mirror or on the periphery of my vision was not a welcome sight.

Uh, oh!, I thought as my mind began doing a data search of recent events, trying to recall why a lawman might be pursuing me.

Did he have a warrant? This is going to be great, I thought; patted down on the corner of Bellville and Main.

Turns out it was Winn, an avid archer who had been reading some of my outdoors columns in The Crittenden Press.

"Get in," he said. Still a little skeptical, I jumped into his cruiser – the front seat mind you – and we drove out to the Big Buck Bowhunters archery range near the old county dump. Winn, just a patrolman at the time but later to become chief of police, showed me around and invited me to the next target shoot. From then on, we were buddies.

I always appreciated my friend's approach to dealing with the media in this rural town. He understood that in most cases, it's better if the newspaper knows what's going on rather than keeping us in the dark. Newspaper people tend to get suspicious when governments and police agencies go out of their way to hide information. Winn was always up front. He might say, "Now you can't print this yet, but here's what's going on..."

In a small town, you're able to develop relationships like that. And for that I am grateful, because my life has been enriched by the friendship I had with Kenneth Winn, both on and off duty.

It's tough to be a nice guy and make friends when you're wearing a policeman's uniform, especially the chief's. However, most people will tell that Kenneth Winn was genuinely a good man. And that's quite an accomplishment for a person in a position of authority.

Kennth Winn was always a straight shooter. When he told you something, it was as close to gospel as he knew it.

A lover of the outdoors, I know his spirit is somewhere out there rustling in the leaves, riding this cool autumn breeze and flexing the limbs on his long bow.

I'd also bet that he and Fred Bear are flinging arrows at some tiny target. Shoot 'em straight, chief. So long.

Data helps instructional decisions

Making instructional decisions based on data serves the school district well in that we can more accurately determine an appropriate course of action when we examine the facts about our current state of affairs. We want to be a school district that embraces making instructional improvements to the system based on what the data is telling us. We use multiple sources of data to make decisions in the school district. Some of our assessments are summative (of learning) and some are formative (for learning).

Kentucky test

In September, all of the Crittenden County Schools and the District were provided with results of the Commonwealth Accountability Testing System (CATS) scores from the spring of 2008. The CATS data is a look at assessment of learning. The CATS as-essment is administered at the end of a school year (end of April). Individual student scores will be sent to our school district in mid-October and made available to parents.

District assessments

Our students also participate in a minimum of two Measures of Academic Progress (MAP) assessments (fall and spring). This data helps us gain an accurate instructional level for each student in grades K-11. For grades K-10, reading and math are assessed. For grade 11, math is also assessed. For grades 4, 6, 7, 8, and 9, science is included in the assessment. We use this data to inform instruction, prescribe remediation and enhance the skills of all learners. These results help us to better individualize instruction for all students. This is an assessment for instruction.

At the elementary level, we use curriculum based measurements from AIMSweb. These are quick progress monitoring probes which allow us to diagnose the success of our interventions.

At the middle and high school level, we also utilize COMPASS Learning to individualize instructional activities based on MAP results and student learning needs.

Our district utilizes Kentucky Core Content – like common assessments which gauge student performance on the content taught. This directs the teacher's planning connected to content that has been mastered or needs to be re-taught.

Our district also supports the use of Data Notebooks for each student to track all of their assessment data. This is one way that our students can see the progress made in all of the content areas. We want our students to own their learning and know how they are progressing toward the standards set by the state and the district.

As Crittenden County's Schools continue to set high expectations for our performance, it is critical that we use data effectively to assess our performance. What matters most to us must also get measured. This keeps us on track toward our goal of proficiency for all.

(Editor's note: Dr. Yarbrough is superintendent of Crittenden County schools. Her guest column will appear periodically in The Crittenden Press.)

When God asks, what will your answer be?

When God asks you parents, "How did you train my child?" What will your answer be?

He said, "All souls are mine, as the soul of the father so is the soul of the son."

Have you trained His children to love Him with all their heart, soul, mind and strength? Have you done so to the point that they will never depart from loving Him? Have you raised them so that they will not sin against God with their heart, soul, mind or strength (actions)?

His word says: "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Prov. 22:6. Training is not just telling, teaching, showing, but it is the same as when you toilet trained and weaned your child. You used everything it took – time, teaching, showing, telling – convincing them of the value of leaving the diaper and bottle alone, until you saw to it they were trained so well that when they are grown they will never go back to the bottle and diaper.

You saw to it they were trained to compute that two and two made four until they will remember it all their lives. You see to it that they get an education, even the state mandates it, but what about loving God, obeying Him, learning His words and the immense value of obeying them all their lives?

God will ask you the questions: "Why did you vote for a leader that votes to kill my children even before they are born and half born, and if one survives the killing, he still votes to let it die on a dirty operating table and throw it into the garbage can? Why did you vote for a leader who supports the sins of homosexuality and lesbianism, which I hate and curse, and supports requiring school children to think favorably about homosexuality even in kindergarten? And why did you support a leader who would not vote to protect marriage to be between one man and one woman?" What will your answers be?

God plainly tells us to not be partakers in another man's sins. 1st Tim. 5:22. Also, He tells us "Abstain from all appearance of evil," and "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them." 1st Thess. 5:22; Eph. 5:11.

Is there little wonder that at the Judgment Bar of God men will "hide themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; and cry to the rocks and mountains to fall on us and hide us from the face of Him that sits on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb; for the great day of His wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?" Rev. 6:15-17

Look closely, it talks about the wrath of the Lamb! So many are convinced that the loving Jesus will not show any wrath at the judgment. When we ignore His words in the face of all He suffered for our being able to escape His wrath, we will deserve His saying, "Depart from me, I never knew you."

The Word is very plain also, that if anyone departs from the faith and does not come back to God they will be destroyed. Please take His word for it and not some man's doctrine, regardless of how old it is.

Always remember the Apostle John's words: "He that says I know Him, and keeps not His commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him." 1st John 2:4.

Oh, that all men would study God's words and follow them! What pain, loss, heartbreak, and grief we all would be spared.

That is why I constantly obey Him and reprove, rebuke and exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine in keeping His commandment to "Love my neighbor as myself."

Ecotourism: If state serious, it will buy land

If Frankfort is serious about providing economic opportunities to western Kentucky and promoting healthy lifestyles among its residents as the state's No. 2 man has said, an ideal opportunity to further both efforts lies just ahead.

During a visit to Marion two weeks ago, Lt. Gov. Daniel Mongiardo told The Crittenden Press that Kentucky has its eye on purchasing a 12,000-acre plot in Crittenden and Union counties that could satisfy a number of initiatives in the state. The undeveloped land along the Ohio River owned by furniture-maker Kimball International could act as a nature conservancy as well as home to world-class hunting opportunities, recreational trails and access to one of America's mightiest waterways, all opportunities to draw visitors and get Kentuckians off the couch.

"If we use that property the right way, then it'll be a huge tourist attraction," Mongiardo said.

Adventure Tourism is the Madison Avenue label state officials have placed on emphasizing ecotourism in Kentucky, a goal the state's second in command said could connect the commonwealth's counties through a system of outdoor recreational opportunities.

Right now, Crittenden County grabs a tiny portion of Kentucky's $10.7 billion tourism industry, accounting for only $4.6 million of the 2007 statewide total. Most of that revenue is funneled our way through tourists and hunters looking to take advantage of the offerings from the largely rural nature of our county.

Acquiring nearly 19 square miles of undeveloped land and preserving it for eco-tourism and nature conservation would bolster the county's economy by playing to its strengths, not mimicking those of other counties.

"We don't have to go out and beg a company to come here and bring jobs," Mongiardo explained to The Press of the Bluegrass State's economic possibilities. "We have so many natural assests, natural strengths here."

Perhaps no place in the state better fits the lieutenant governor's statement than Crittenden County. And if Gov. Steve Beshear's promise to not forget about his native western Kentucky are genuine, the chance to prove so lies with the Kimball property.

The administration – if serious about ecotourism, preservation of nature, improving western Kentucky's economy and encouraging healthier lifestyles – now has a chance to put its money where its mouth is.

As Kentuckians, we've had plenty of lip service such as promises to improve education, transportation, personal wealth and reform in Frankfort. Year after year, campaign after campaign, our politicians promise to improve education. So far, we've suffered grossly inadequate spending for primary, secondary and post-secondary schooling. Kentucky ranks 48th out of 50 states in the number of residents with a bachelor's degree. We rank among the nation's worst in education. Our highways are among the poorest in the region and corruption is pervasive in state government. Meanwhile, Kentucky is sixth in America in the number of people living below the poverty level. And since 1990, Kentucky's leaders have been promising a major highway through Crittenden County.

We don't need any more empty promises. Right now, Kentucky has a chance to buy the most unique piece of property in the state. An opportunity like this will never be available again if the Kimball tract is broken up into pieces and sold to the highest bidders from Florida, Alabama, Indiana and the like. Make no mistake, if Kentucky fails to put together a plan to purchase and manage the undeveloped property in northern Crittenden County, then it is not serious about adventure tourism.

This is a watershed opportunity. We'll either be washed away or find a means to capture it.

$68 million to help with heating costs

FROM STAFF AND AP REPORTS

State and federal leaders in Kentucky say the state will be receiving federal money to help low-income and senior residents with winter heating bills. Kentucky will receive more than $68 million in federal funds this year, more than double the anticipated $30 million the state was to receive. Kentucky's Cabinet for Health and Family Services (CHFS) will disburse funds to Community Action Kentucky, who, in turn, will distribute the money to families requiring such assistance. State officials are working with those agencies to determine the parameters of distribution.

Gov. Steve Beshear says the additional funds would allow the state to help up to 159,000 more families than last year, when 45,000 were turned away after funding ran out. This year's money will be distributed through the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP).

"As we grow closer to the coldest part of the year, families face a greater challenge – the increasing cost of heating their homes," said Beshear. "Through programs like this, government leaders must continue to be aggressive in finding ways to protect Kentucky families in this time of crisis."

Community Action Agencies will take applications for LIHEAP assistance beginning Nov. 3. In Crittenden County, applications will be taken at the courthouse through Pennyryle Allied Community Services.

Call 965-4763 or visit www.kaca.org for more information on the program.

Suspect flees after crashing into fence

Crittenden County authorities are still looking for a man who crashed an allegedly stolen car on Ky. 723 last week then fled the scene.

The suspect ran off the highway and through a fence owned by Carroll Berry. Berry talked to the driver of the 1995 Red Pontiac before he got away.

Police say someone picked up the suspect, whom they believe was intoxicated.

Deputy Greg Rushing said the vehicle was registered to a Paducah woman, but it had been reported stolen by someone else in Livingston County. Rushing said the case remains under investigation in Crittenden and Livingston counties.

Free dumping of large items nears

Free dumping of large items will be allowed later this month at the county's convenience center on U.S. 60 east of Marion. Oct. 24 and 25, according to Judge-executive Fred Brown, have been set aside for disposal of large items such as furniture and appliances, though some restrictions apply.

Deadline nearing for mail-in ballots

Voting on the county's absentee machine inside the courthouse continues through Nov. 3, but less than two weeks remain to request a mail-in absentee ballot.

Crittenden County Clerk Carolyn Byford said several early ballots have already been cast on the machine inside her office since it was set up last week. But voters registered in Crittenden County who are unable to leave their home or will remain out of the county prior to the Nov. 4 election have only until Oct. 28 to request an application for a mail-in ballot.

"(Those are) normally used by disabled or someone who is out of county or state and won't be here anytime while the machine is set up in the office," Byford said.

Mail-in ballot applications must be received in her office by Oct. 28.

Marion begins leaf collection Oct. 22

The City of Marion will begin its annual autumn leaf collection next week, said City Administrator Mark Bryant. Collection begins Oct. 22 and runs through Dec. 12 on weekdays only.

If collection seems earlier than usual, Bryant said the schedule change was intended. He pointed out that the early shedding of leaves due to the late-summer drought coupled with several holidays and scheduled off-days for crews led to an earlier-than-usual schedule in order to complete collection before Christmas.

The city is divided into eight separate areas where collection will take place on different days. For a complete schedule, see the city's ad on Page 12.

Christmas program will feature DVD

The last of the fund-raising efforts for a film documenting Crittenden County' history was held last week, generating about $1,300 toward the ultimate goal of $50,000 to fund the film.

A raffle for a weekend stay at a Lake Barkley condominium and chocolate buffet hosted by the Woman's Club of Marion last Thursday was quite a success, said club member Judy Winn. Winn is also a board member of Fohs Hall, Inc., the community organization funding the documentary by Sam Koltinsky of Princeton.

Joe McDaniel won the raffle for a two-night stay and meal.

Winn said the film will be ready by Christmas and will be the centerpiece of the annual community Christmas presentation at Fohs Hall. The hour-long film will debut Dec. 12 and an encore presentation will follow on Dec. 14. The DVD should be available for sale at the showings.

The affair will be casual dress, with refreshments, music and mingling accompanying a discussion and presentation of the film.

The Christmas event is sponsored by Fohs Hall Inc., Crittenden County Historical Society, the woman's club and Fohs Hall Community Arts Foundation.

Ky. 654 North shut for maintenance

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet plans to keep Ky. 654 in Crittenden County closed through Friday.

The road was closed Monday and will continue to be closed during daylight hours near the six-mile marker to allow a highway maintenance crew to replace one cross drain and install two new cross drains to help improve road drainage in the area. This is on Ky. 654 North in the Crittenden County Amish community near the Mt. Zion Church Road intersection north of Mattoon.

To make the job site safer for workers and the traveling public, Ky. 654 North will be closed to all traffic between the hours of approximately 7 a.m. and 4 p.m., each day. If all goes as planned, the highway will reopen to traffic at the end of each workday, said Kentucky Transportation Cabinet spokesman Keith Todd.

There will be no marked detour. Motorists who regularly travel this section of Ky. 654 North should make advance alternate travel plans.

Mine blasting set to occur Monday

Residents in the northern portion of Crittenden County may hear a few loud explosions next week.

Crittenden County Coal Inc., which owns a mine off Ky. 365 near the Union County line, will be blasting Monday during daylight hours on about 135.3 acres. Richard E. Parks, Regulatory Compliance Manager with the company, said the blasting is "for reclamation only" and no mining or coal removal is anticipated at this time."

A warning signal of a one-minute series of siren blasts will be given five minutes prior to the blast. The all-clear signal will be a prolonged siren after the blast.

Kentucky 25th in deer crash chances

You're more likely to hit a deer driving in New Jersey than in Kentucky according to data from State Farm Insurance.

Motorists in Kentucky have a one in 195 chance of colliding with a deer over the next year, estimates the Bloomington, Ill.-based insurance company. That ranks 25th in the nation, one spot behind New Jersey, where the chance of a deer-vehicle crash is one in 179. The data, using deer claims from the last half of 2007 through the first half of 2008 and registration counts by state from the Federal Highway Administration, places West Virginia atop the herd in likelihood of such a collision.

For the second consecutive year, West Virginia leads the nation in chances a driver will file a claim over the next 365 days due to a deer-related crash. The one-in-45 chance is even higher than last year, when the chances were one in 57.

The state in which deer-vehicle collisions are least likely is still Hawaii, where you could drive 243 years and still have less likelihood of hitting a deer than in West Virginia.

Nathan Martin (left) and his wife Barbara were among more than a dozen special guests at the Ben E. Clement Mineral Museum last weekend. Nathan Martin is a member of the Boston Mineral Club. Nine of his fellow club members and other associates from across the country attended a four-day tour of what was once known as the fluorspar capital of the world. While in Marion, the group went on a field trip and dig to the old Columbia Mine area off Crittenden Springs Road. A mineral museum board member, Bill Frazer, hosted the dig, where the "rock hounds" scratched and dug around for precious minerals. Martin has made the 1,300-mile trip to Marion five times over the past few years. He said the Clement mineral collection is better than the Harvard collection. Pictured with the Martins is Ed Clement Jr., whose father Ben collected almost all of the specimens on display at the museum. "What makes this collection so special is that all of these items came from this immediate area," Martin explained.

There was nothing like the ‘big game’ on T-day

Customs and styles change over the years, but one thing that never changes is the excitement of high school students as they prepare to meet a rival team in their favorite sporting event.

Remember the pep rallies, led by our cheerleaders and the pep band, or the big night at the game when the boys would come busting through the paper hoop at the end of the field? What an exciting time.

Another thing that hasn't changed is the rivalry that began with the Caldwell County Tigers and the Marion Terrors, and now includes the Crittenden County Rockets.

Captured in the archives of The Crittenden Press is the excitement of the big Thanksgiving game rivalry between the Princeton Butler High School Tigers and Marion High Terrors.

Crittenden Press, Nov. 24, 1939

Activities getting ready for the game.

On Wednesday, Nov. 29, at 10, a pep assembly hour will be held at Fohs Hall with various clubs and civic organizations participating.

This is on the eve of the annual Princeton-Marion battle and is known as "A Day" in Marion before a game. The seven periods of classroom and daily work will be dramatized on a stage set as a classroom.

Beginning with the first period, the music period will be in charge of the band, POG hour will be featured by a football scene with Coach Organ speaking for the 11; the third period history, reveals the past records of the games between the two teams; the fourth, mathematics, is a lesson in how to keep score; fifth, English Expression class, the cheerleaders are in charge; the sixth, shorthand, is to present signals and the signs of the game; the final, news writing, is to write headlines and feature stories describing the outcome of the game. The band concludes the program.

Kickoff at 2:30 at Rochester Field

Marion's Terrors meet the Tigers of Butler High on the local field Thursday, Nov. 30, with the kickoff being scheduled for 2:30.

This event is one of the oldest in the history of athletics in the state and bids fair to be the outstanding event of the year for both schools.

Previous Game Scores

Former scores of the long-standing feud are:
1926 Marion 13, Princeton 0
1927 Princeton 13, Marion 6
1928 Marion 13, Princeton 0
1929 Marion 6, Princeton 0

Curtis Woodall

Roy Lemon

1930 Princeton 12, Marion 6
1931 Princeton 13, Marion 6
1932 Marion 13, Princeton 7
1933 Marion 19, Princeton 7
1934 Princeton 32, Marion 6
1935 Princeton 32, Marion 0
1936 Princeton 13, Marion 12
1937 Princeton 24, Marion 6
1938 Princeton 7, Marion 7

Out of the past 13 games, Princeton has won seven, Marion five and one tie.

The Terrors have had a successful season and are pre-game favorites by two touchdowns. However, Butler High Coach Simms, usually keys his men for the Marion game and upsets are not uncommon when the final whistle has blown.

Marion School Band

Marion School Band will appear during the course of the game, resplendent in new uniforms. The band will make its first appearance in their new uniforms and will enter the field preceding the team, playing a football march.

Immediately behind the band will be the squad with mascot "Baby Lou" Williamson in the rear. The team will be escorted to the bench and then begin warm-up exercises.

Ardell Holmes is the local band director. The new uniforms will arrive Monday and consist of blue whipcord capes lined with white satin and a jaunty overseas cap. Band members are to furnish trousers or skirts and they must be white. At the half, Holmes said the band will form a B in front of the Princeton stands and later an M for Marion, concluding with a bell formation in mid-field and from this the Bells of St Mary's will be played.

Are you wondering about the outcome of the big game? So was I, as I re-typed the history from the pages of the old Crittenden Press. My fingers were flying on the keys, anxiously waiting to see who the winner was. I was right there with the community cheering the Terrors on to victory.

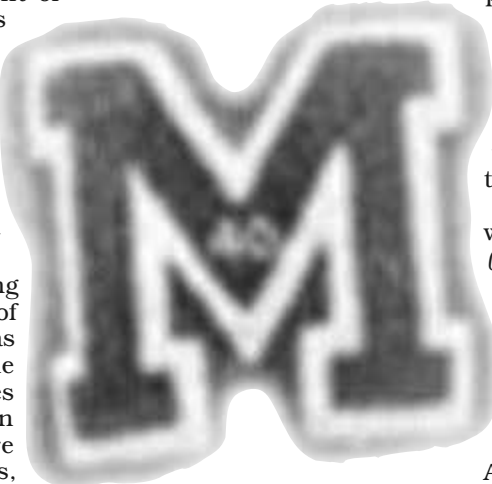

The big game, Nov. 30, 1939

Opening the afternoon was a parade by Marion School and Butler School bands followed by the presentation of a bouquet to the Tiger captain by Mary Alice Chick, the Terror football queen.

Marion kicked to open the battle and the ball returned about 29 yards to the Terror 46 where a fumble turned the oval to the Tigers.

Princeton failed to gain and punted, where Mose Johnson started the first touchdown drive on the 50-yard stripe. The Tiger line could not stop the plunging Terror captain nor solve the plays built around the fleet Terror backs. Johnson placed the ball on the two-yard line where he plunged over for the first score. Collie Hodge converted by a plunge thru the line.

The second score came in the second period on a pass that Collie Hodge took from Lemon. The Terror back went wide around the Tiger left end and cut to the right. Lemon took the pass from Hall, feinted, stepped back about four yards and rifled a throw that Hodge took without looking backward. All that was necessary thereafter was for Hodge to cross the goal line. The play was the outstanding feature of the game and the Terror back was not thrown from stride so accurate was the toss.

At the half, the Tiger band took the field and formed various formations. After this, the Marion school band, making its first appearance in snappy new uniforms formed a B in front of the Princeton stands, playing the Butler loyalty. Next was an M for Marion, concluding with formation of an immense bell and playing Bells of St. Mary.

Princeton's tally came late in the last period as a Terror pass was intercepted. The try for conversion was off and the game ended with a 13-6 score.

The last half was an even battle with neither team able to seriously threaten the goal lines.

The series now stands 6-6 with two ties being recorded (editor's note: which is inconsistent with the scores reported earlier). No roughness beyond that of ordinary play was noticed and the crowd was orderly at all times.

During the game, Aubrey Shaver kept the crowd informed of all the action from a speaker system provided by the Western Auto Associate Store.

Wrap-up of the game

Marion defeated Princeton's Tigers 13-6, in the annual Thanksgiving battle. Mose Johnson and Collin Hodge proved too much for the depleted Tigers to stop.

Marion gained more yardage, completed more passes, and completely outplayed the opponents in all phases of the game, especially in the first half.

The Terrors also suffered more penalties than did Princeton.

It was an exciting day for the Marion Terror fans.

Graham home from hospital after fall

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham was released from the hospital Saturday, sore and bruised but not seriously injured, after he tripped and fell over one of his dogs at his North Carolina home, hospital officials said.

The 89-year-old Graham stayed overnight at Mission Hospital in Asheville with discomfort and bruising. X-rays showed no broken bones, spokeswoman Merrell Gregory said in a news release.

For six decades, Graham led a worldwide crusade-based ministry that packed stadiums with believers and allowed him to counsel every U.S. president since Harry Truman.

The Southern Baptist minister fell late Friday at his home in Montreat, N.C.

The accident happened when Graham bent over to pet Sam, his golden retriever, and the dog got under his feet, Graham spokesman Larry Ross said.

"He's a loyal dog. He follows Mr. Graham wherever he goes," Ross said. The dog was a gift two years ago from friends of one of Graham's children, Ross added.

Creation Museum claiming big crowds

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The museum exhibits are taken from the Old Testament, but the special effects are pure Hollywood: a state-of-the-art planetarium, animatronics and a massive model of Noah's Ark, all intended to explain the origins of the universe from a biblical viewpoint.

The Creation Museum, which teaches life's beginnings through a literal interpretation of the Bible, is claiming attendance figures that would make it an unexpectedly strong draw less than a year and a half after it debuted. More than a half-million people have toured the Cincinnati area attraction since its May 2007 opening, museum officials said.

For creationists — Christians who believe the Bible's first chapter of Genesis is the literal telling of the universe's start — the museum is a godsend. Many have returned with family and friends, some from far-away states arguing it's one of the few with a Christian worldview.

Many scientists say they fear damaging effects on science education when young people tour the museum and fail to square its lessons with what they're learning in school. One display shows humans coexisting with dinosaurs — despite the two species being separated by 65 million years in most science texts.

"We're depressed, I think," said Dan Phelps, head of the Kentucky Paleontology Society, who toured the museum shortly after its opening. "There's been such a push in recent years to improve science education, but stuff like this still hangs around."

Phelps said he fears some teachers, shying away from the origins controversy, may choose to omit mentioning evolution studies in the classroom.

Kennedy

Don W. Kennedy, who had a distinguished legal, political and judicial career in Missouri that spanned almost 50 years, died at his home in Marion, Ky., early Friday, Oct. 10. He was 82.

Kennedy had been in declining health in recent years, suffering from Parkinson’s Disease as well as post-polio syndrome.

Judge Kennedy served on the Missouri Court of Appeals in Kansas City from 1980 until his retirement in 1995. He previously was a circuit judge in Vernon County in Missouri where he began his legal practice in Nevada in 1947.

He was a member of the Missouri House of Representatives from 1960 to 1972. Before his election to political office he served as a prosecuting attorney in Vernon County and as an assistant attorney general for the State of Missouri. He also served terms on the Nevada city council and as mayor of Nevada, Mo.

Judge Kennedy was born in Shell City, Mo., in 1925. He was stricken with polio at the age of 11. He frequently said that having polio was a life-changing experience because he knew he could never make a living using his body and would have to develop his mind to the fullest. He graduated from Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, Mo., in 1943 and the University of Missouri School of Law in 1947.

In his later years, he took complete delight in being in the company of young children and especially his own grandchildren. He authored a children’s book, “Oliver the Weak-Tailed Possum,” based on a story he often told his children when they were young. The story had its roots in his own disabilities as a child with polio.

He was a loyal Southern Baptist for more than 60 years. He served as a Sunday School teacher and deacon in the First Baptist Church of Nevada and Wornall Road Baptist Church in Kansas City. He served on countless committees and boards in his churches and for the Missouri Baptist Convention.

Judge Kennedy was preceded in death by his parents, Don and Cleta Kennedy of Nevada, Mo., and by a son, Roger Quin Kennedy, who died of leukemia in 1973 at the age of 17.

A Celebration of Life Memorial Service will be held in Kansas City, Mo., on Oct. 25 and in Nevada, Mo., on Oct 26.

Survivors include his wife of 60 years, Audrey Kennedy of Marion; three daughters, Julianne Pederson of Dallas, Texas and Jennifer Kennedy Dean and Priscilla Graham of Marion; five grandchildren, Brantley Dean of Raleigh, N.C., Kennedy Dean

New stage Path from baby bottle leads to new challenges

With a clink of the empty container in the kitchen trash can, I felt a rush of opposite emotions – relief and sadness.

The noise I heard was the last can of baby formula I ever intend to purchase banging against another piece of trash in the receptacle. With it came the end of that sucking sound that cost me $26 a week for a liquid diet that nourished my daughter for the majority of her first year of life.

Sad though I am that the initial baby stage has come to an end for a third and final time, I'm more than glad to buy "red top milk," as the other kids in the house call it. Here, in a time when many adults complain about a gallon of milk being close to $4, it may seem odd that someone would talk about a gladness in carrying it to the grocery store scanner.

But as I walked away from the trash can that day, I couldn't help but wonder how I would better spend the $26 a week in formula savings. I know what Suze Orman would say. Start a savings account. Apply it toward your mortgage. Put it in an emergency fund. Don't use it. Save it.

I know that with the instability of the New York Stock Exchange and its trickle down effect to Main Street, Orman's best advice is to save, save, save. Darn it.

Who isn't inclined to spend, spend, spend, a $20 windfall that suddenly wasn't being funneled into a baby bottle?

Seriously, look what $26 will buy – new make-up, nail polish, a manicure, hair products, a new shirt (or two), a pair of shoes (at the right place), a couple of magazines, junk at Wal-Mart, magazines, several gallons of gas... shall I continue?

Truthfully, the transition from powdered formula to red-topped milk signifies a rite of passage we both hate and love to see coming. No more bottles. More sippy cups. No more infant. Welcome toddlerhood, and all that comes with it – an increased vocabulary and mobility as the infant in our lives steps closer to the trendy clothes and hair accessories and all the begging and complaining associated with those purchases.

As we move one step further away from the expenses of infancy – formula and diapers – we move a step closer to experimentation with bad language, bad attitudes, bad study habits, poor nutrition and bad judgment.

With the end of one stage comes the beginning of another; therefore, of course, just as we're proud to survive sleepless nights and expensive feedings, we dread the steady succession from toddler to teenager. Makes you wonder – would we rather buy formula?

Stock market issues no reason to panic

Most of us are aware of the financial troubles that have been plaguing Wall Street over the last several months. The failures and mergers of major financial institutions along with the big drops and brief gains of the stock market during the last several weeks have caused many Americans to become concerned about the state of their investments and retirement funds.

While the market is down right now, you do not need to panic and withdraw your money. The stock market is a long-term investment, and since its introduction into society more than 100 years ago, it has steadily risen. It has had periods of highs and lows, but charts of the market's progress from the past 10, 20 and even 100 years show the market always has risen.

Another point to consider is while the Dow Jones industrial average is the global standard for measuring stock performance, just because it goes up or down that does not necessarily mean the company in which you hold stock will follow suit. The Dow Jones industrial average contains 30 large cap companies representative of all U.S. industry and is only one of several indexes. Many more companies are represented on other indexes like Standard and Poor's, Nasdaq, Lipper and Russell 2000.

With prices being down, now is the time to buy into the market. Many quality stocks are available now. However, first-time buyers should understand certain things before they buy into the market. Research the company in which you are interested. Most have information on their Web sites about how you can become a stockholder. While there are many companies that you can invest in on your own, some may charge a fee or require a broker to purchase the stock for you. You may want to consult a financial adviser if you do not feel comfortable investing on your own.

Regardless of how you invest and what companies you invest in, remember to only be as risky as you can afford to be. While risky investments can return big profits, you can lose a lot as well. For more information, contact the Crittenden County Cooperative Extension Service.

Southern Crittenden News

By Michelle Henderson and Matthew T. Patton

Dycusburg Day was held on Saturday with quite a few in attendance. A silent auction and several raffles were held throughout the day, while Jeannie Griffin and Michelle Henderson grilled. The Dycusburg Baptist Church passed out free water and tracts. Carol Strilko of New Lenox, Ill., had an impressive display of Avon products.

At noon, a parade went through town three times, with sirens blaring from fire trucks and the sheriff's vehicle while candy was thrown to people along the streets. Children enjoyed playing on the inflatables throughout the day, and also were mesmerized by the magician, Tommy Rushing. In the afternoon, gospel group "Living Proof" performed.

A Little Miss and Master Dycusburg contest was held, and Dylan Strilko (son of Tom and Becky Strilko of New Lenox, Ill.) and Aliyah Frutiger (daughter of Jenny Patton) took home a trophy and $50 savings bonds.

The Crittenden County Genealogical Society held the second half of its meeting at the Dycusburg Methodist Church where Matthew T. Patton gave a brief talk on the history of Dycusburg. After the talk, the group headed to the Dycusburg Veteran's Memorial site where city hall once stood. The next stop was the Dycusburg Cemetery to look at interesting graves throughout the graveyard. It was a neat sight to see so many people in the cemetery at one time walking around and looking at the graves. A number of graves are in need of repair at the cemetery, and the group also noticed a peculiar moss on many of the stones.

At 6 p.m., the group "Gunner T" came back to rock the town. Several sat on lawnchairs and haybales to enjoy their music, while many danced in the streets.

The Dycusburg Community Group would like to thank all of the numerous sponsors who helped make the day a success.

Several attended Sunday School at Seven Springs, with more arriving for preaching.

Gary Dycus and Renata Smotts of Cameron, Texas drove an RV up to Dycusburg, arriving on Friday. Gary is studying his ancestry, found dycusburg.com and decided to motor the more than 800 miles to partake in Dycusburg Day.

Participants in the Delta Rural Health project participated in a variety of activities and recorded their activity and were rewarded by being recognized for their efforts from local sponsors. Sponsors of the program were the Crittenden County Health Department, 88 Dip. Heart to Heart Center and Marion Subway, all of whom encouraged children to be active and healthy. At the end of summer break, students returned activity logs to their teachers and were eligible for a drawing for a $100 shopping spree with U.S. Games. Winners of the drawing were Brandy Book and Cassie Starrett. Participants also had an opportunity to write an essay and compete against other participating schools to win a DJ for a day. Bailey Barnes was the winner of the essay contest. All children that participated in the Kentucky Delta Rural Project 2008 Summer Challenge received a T-shirt.

Marion native Milburn addresses library group

Want to become a published author? "Keep trying," romance writer Trish Milburn advised the crowd at the Crittenden County Library's book-signing party for her.

Nearly 50 local residents overflowed the library meeting room to greet Milburn, renew friendships with her, ask questions about writing and snap up autographed copies of her newly published book, 'A Firefighter in the Family.'

Milburn has been writing books since fifth grade in the Crittenden County school system. Her first work was self-illustrated, bound with twine and enhanced with a fabric cover. "I still have that book. It was the beginning of my writing career" she laughed.

"I began writing my first book aimed at publication while I was in college in the early 1990s. I started submitting to publishers in 1996. It took me 11 years to sell my first book."

"How many books have you written in all?"

Milburn answered, "I wrote 17 full manuscripts and parts of two more before selling any. I've since completed the 18th full book, 'Heartbreak River,' which was my first sale."

"Where do you get your ideas?" Milburn was asked.

"Anywhere and everywhere. A story idea can be sparked by something I read in a newspaper or magazine, or by something I see on TV. I have a fat file full of ideas - everything from potential book titles in need of a plot to go with them to detailed synopses of stories."

The library audience included some of Milburn's classmates from Crittenden County High School's Class of 1989. Her former German teacher asked that Trish personalize her book with a message in that language. "Don't ask me to do that unless you want it to say 'Guten Tag,' Milburn joked. "I've forgotten everything else."

Patricia Cash was Milburn's maiden name. "It sounds like voices from the past when people call me Patricia now," she remarked.

After graduating from CCHS, Milburn went to Murray State to study journalism. Allison Mick Evans, Press assistant editor, was a classmate in the journalism department.

Besides 'A Firefighter in the Family,' a Harlequin American romance novel published last month, Milburn has sold two other novels.

They are 'Her Very Own Family,' another Harlequin American novel, and 'Heartbreak River,' a young adult story. Both are due to be published in the spring of 2009.

Library Director Regina Merrick was delighted by the large and enthusiastic crowd. "I am so pleased with the turnout," she said.

"We weren't scheduled to begin until 6 o'clock, but people started arriving by 5:30. It's a good thing we started early, because otherwise we never would have finished."

For those interested in writing as either a career or a hobby, the library is hosting a four-part workshop starting Thursday (today). It will be presented by local author and fitness guru Bob Yehling. See the press's Community Calendar or the library's website www.crittendenlibrary.com for more information, or contact the library at 965-3354.

DYCUSBURG & BEYOND

By Tina Cochrum

Fall revival services began at the Baptist church Sunday morning. Following a moving sermon by Bro. C.C. Brasher, a potluck fellowship meal was served. There was a good crowd for the morning service and special singing was held by Bro. James and Karen Oates. I am proud that five generations were represented in my family at church on Sunday including my grandmother, Virginia Peek; my mother, Sue Bailey; myself; my daughter, Shawna McCoy; and my grandbabies, Brian and Christian McCoy.

The Bookmobile has a new name - Books on Wheels (BOW) - and a new driver, Nancy Brock. Everyone is invited to stop by the Bookmobile Oct. 23 and welcome Nancy to town. Tabby Padgett is now the children's librarian and will be doing Story Hour. We will miss Tabby but we are happy to meet Nancy. The bookmobile will be at the Post Office every other Thursday arriving around 11:30 a.m.

First Tee golf was cancelled last week due to weather conditions, but will meet Oct. 21 at Deer Lake golf course in Salem. Everyone is invited.

Happy belated birthday to Payton Bailey who was 14 on Oct. 9. I messed up his age and birth date last week - sorry.

Happy birthday to Debbie Joiner (Oct. 12).

We wish Sue Peek a speedy recovery.

The annual Fall Celebration will be held at the Baptist Church at 6 p.m., Saturday. A western hoe down will be the theme this year and a potluck chili/soup and sandwich supper will be served. Following the opening, games like a cake walk, gift walk, bingo, duck pond, fish pond, and two liter ring toss will be available for all ages with prizes for everyone. Everyone is invited to grab their bandannas and boots, dress western or country (scarecrows, farm ladies—bib overalls and no shoes is my favorite!) and come on down to the hoedown. The annual fall celebration is a free event hosted by the Baptist church as an outreach ministry.

"Trunk or Treat" will be hosted by Dycusburg Baptist Church on their parking lot Halloween beginning at 4:30 p.m. Trunks will be decorated and candy passed out as long as supplies last. Everyone is invited.

The Hunter's Moon Festival was held in Grand Rivers this past week, Tabatha and Southern' Fryd performed and it was reported to be great entertainment as usual. An arts and craft show was held at Kentucky Dam, the vendors had many nice things to offer including wooden crafts, homemade soap and spoon and fork wind chimes.

Dycusburg Day was smaller than usual this year, but fun for all. Several in the area hosted cookouts and gatherings at their homes.

Donations for the upkeep of the cemetery may be mailed to Faye Stinnett at PO Box 4, Dycusburg, KY 42037.

Welcome home to Tim and Candace Downing, who have recently moved back after living in Kuttawa.

Congratulations to Tim and Kristi Matthews on the birth of their baby boy, Mason Isaiah.

Conservation's annual contests are going green

For 64 years young Kentuckians have been participating in the Writing and Jim Claypool Conservation Art contests. And this year, with only a few changes, students will once again have that opportunity.

Partners in the project, the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts and Kentucky Farm Bureau, decided there was no more appropriate time to "go green" than for the 2008 edition - Working Trees: Kentucky's Renewable Future.

So there will be no printed version made available at the conservation district offices, as in years past. Instead the publication will be placed on the organizations websites at www.conservation.ky.gov and www.kyfb.com. The sites will also provide a teachers guide, contest entry form and principal and district report forms.

Rules and guidelines for the contests will see little or no changes with the writing contest featuring works from students grades six through 12, and the art contest highlighting first through fifth graders.

A writing entry may not exceed 1,000 words and may be written in ink, typed or computer-generated on one side of the paper only. No photographs or artwork may be included with the written work. It is suggested that the written entry take the form of transactive writing (from the perspective of an informed writer to a less informed reader) and may be in the form of a letter, feature article, editorial or speech. It should persuade the reader to take action toward good forest management practices.

Artwork must be 9x12 inches. Any thickness or color of art board may be used. Art paper may be used, but must be pasted onto art board or cardboard before submitting for competition.

No plywood will be accepted. Artwork may be rendered in any medium including pencil, ink, charcoal, crayon, oil, etc., but it must be flat art. While 3-D art is unacceptable, collages or other art pasted onto the board will be accepted as long as it is flat art pasted securely to the poster board. An art entry may take the form of poster, newspaper advertisement or editorial cartoon. Make sure that which ever form is used, the artwork conveys a message at a glance that persuades its viewers to take action toward good forest management practices.

Prizes will increase slightly, awarding $500 U.S. Savings Bonds to the state winners, $300 bonds for second and $100 bonds for third. Each will also receive a personalized plaque and certificate.

Regional and county level winners will receive $100 and $50 savings bonds, respectively, along with plaques and certificates.

Local prize money for the art contest will be $10 first, $8 second, and $5 third; for the writing contest will be $15 first, $10 second, and $5 third. The county winners will receive $100 first, $50 second, and $25 third. The deadline to submit entries to the conservation district is Nov. 1, 2008.

For more information contact the Crittenden County Conservation District at 118 East Bellville Street, Marion, KY 42064 or call 965-3921, extension 3.

Corn estimates could lower commodity price

The government has increased its monthly crop forecast for this year's corn and soybean harvest due to wetter weather, potentially lowering commodity prices. The U.S. Department of Agriculture says this year's corn production is now estimated to be 12.2 billion bushels, up from September's estimate of 12.1 billion. Soybean production is projected to be 2.98 billion bushels, higher than last month's forecast of 2.93 billion bushels. The corn crop benefited from September rains in many corn-growing regions, the department said. However, there was little moisture for Crittenden County farmers. Last week's rain measured from a half inch to more than an inch in some parts of the county. It was the first sizeable rainfall in several weeks.

Underground mining class offered here

The Marion Ed-Tech Center is offering this winter an Elements of Underground and Surface Mining Class in cooperation with Madisonville Community College. After completion of the class and upon passing the test, each successful student will receive an Inexperienced Miner Card which is a prerequisite for getting hired at a coal mine. The class begins on Jan. 12 and ends Feb. 5. A drug test is required as part of the certification process. For more information, contact Dulcie Hardin at 965-9294, extension 103.

Crittenden eligible for Ike disaster relief

President Bush on Friday declared more than 30 Kentucky counties hit by a severe wind storm when remnants of Hurricane Ike blew through Kentucky last month eligible for federal disaster relief money. Crittenden, Livingston and all surrounding counties were included in the order for public assistance through the Federal Emergency Management Agency. With the declaration, local governments are eligible for federal money to help with cleanup from the Sept. 14 storm. Crittenden County Judge-executive Fred Brown said the current estimate for damage to municipal facilities and cost of overtime to clear roadways of debris is $70,000 to $80,000. Marion City Administrator Mark Bryant said the city suffered little damage and will not be applying for aid.

The federal assistance, according to Courtney Norris with Sen. Mitch McConnell's office in Washington, D.C., is not open to individuals affected by Ike. Farmers, however, may be eligible for aid related to crops damaged by Ike's winds. Gov. Steve Beshear requested a disaster declaration from the U.S. Department of Agriculture at the time he requested the order from President Bush. If the USDA approves the declaration, funds would then be open to farmers.

State has about 730 acres of wine vines

Agriculture Commissioner Richie Farmer invites all Kentuckians to visit a Kentucky Proud winery during Grape and Wine Month in October. Kentucky wines earned 164 gold, silver and bronze medals in a series of five state competitions judged by out-of-state experts earlier this year. Kentucky wines also earned gold medals in national and international competitions. Kentucky's grape growers are harvesting a "bumper crop" this year, said John Strang, fruit and vegetable specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Strang said the warm, dry weather of recent months enabled the grapes to stay on the vines. "We're expecting some pretty high-quality wine to come out of these grapes," he said. Kentucky has approximately 730 acres of grape vines, some of which are young vines not yet in production.

The Hunter's Moon, prevalent in the fall sky this week, is the moon that immediately follows the Harvest Moon.

Hunter's Moon bright in sky

The Hunter's Moon is the one you've been seeing in the sky the last couple of nights. It's the full moon that immediately follows the more popular Harvest Moon. In fact, the two are often confused with one another.

The Hunter's Moon and Harvest Moon are not brighter, larger, or yellower than during other times of the year, according to various sources. However, all full moons have their own special characteristics, based primarily on the whereabouts of the earth's path in the sky. The full moons of September, October and November, as seen from the northern hemisphere, are well known in the folklore.

You may have noticed that the moon has looked extraordinarily big and orange this week and that it spends more time in the sky, rising at dusk and setting at sunrise.

Youth hunters score 29

Harvest numbers were down for last weekend's youth hunt. In Crittenden County, young gunners took just 29 deer. Harvest figures are generally twice that. Warm weather may be largely to blame as deer are not as active and hunters tend stay inside rather than fight the heat.

In Livingston, the story was basically the same with hunters taking just 24 deer Saturday and Sunday.

This weekend is the annual two-day, early muzzleloader hunt. To date, archers have taken 93 deer in Crittenden County.

Rocket receiver Dustin McConnell (85) lunges across the goal line for a fourth-quarter touchdown as Ballard Memorial's Tyler Gough (8) makes a late stab at the tackle.

Defense wins title
Rockets capture 7th league championship

Defense won another championship.

The Rockets stifled Ballard Memorial's running game and held its passing attack in check at critical points en route to a 41-19 victory which sewed up first place in the Class A First District.

It was a sweet victory for the Rockets – their first league title since joining the far western Kentucky district with Ballard, Mayfield, Fulton City and Fulton County.

"This was a big one," coach Al Starnes said after the game. "This gives us home field advantage for the first two rounds of the playoffs."

While the Rocket offense got stellar performances by running back Rodney Robertson and quarterback J.D. Gray, it was the defense that kept Ballard on its heels. Robertson back in the lineup after breaking his hand in the second game of the season, rushed for 164 yards and three touchdowns on 25 carries. Gray scored twice running the ball and finished with 121 yards on the ground. He threw for 85, including one touchdown to senior Dustin McConnell, who had a season-high four catches for 48 yards.

Crittenden's defensive front smashed the Bombers, holding them to just 15 yards rushing. On 14 of Ballard's 25 running plays, Crittenden caught the Bombers in the backfield or stopped them right at the line of scrimmage.

Although Ballard's sophomore quarterback threw for 233 yards, much of that came late in the game with Crittenden back up playing a prevent defense. Ballard scored twice late in the fourth period to make the score more respectable. Crittenden led 34-7 early in the fourth period.

"Our defense played very well.

FINAL SHOWDOWN

Friday's football game against Union County will be the last for at least two years. Scheduling conflicts will prevent the teams from meeting in 2009 and 2010. Coach Starnes would like to renew the neighboring rivalry in 2011.

They kids were well prepared thanks to defensive coordinator Vince Clark, and they executed the game plan. It was that simple," Starnes said. "The big difference was that our front seven whipped their front seven."

Gray and Aaron Berry picked up a couple of Ballard fumbles. The Rockets scored behind Berry's recovery late in the third period. Crittenden got into the end zone on its first two possessions of the game for a 15-0 lead, but went flat in front of a large homecoming crowd.

Ballard grabbed some momentum late in the first half after scoring on an 83-yard drive, but Crittenden came back in the third period and posted three quick touchdowns before the Bombers answered the bell. The Rockets scored on four of their second-half possessions.

Although Crittenden, 5-2 overall and 3-0 in the district, has one more league game against Fulton County, the Rockets have mathematically captured the championship. Fulton County is winless in the district and Crittenden goes to Hickman to play the Pilots on Oct. 24, its next to last game.

Ballard Memorial, 2-5 overall and 2-2 in the district, is much improved this season and came into the game with hopes of getting a share of the district crown and avoiding a road trip in the first round of the playoffs. None of that worked out for the Bombers. Two Ballard starters were out of the game, one for breaking team rules and the other was involved in a minor vehicle accident earlier in the week.

Ballard finishes third in the district behind second-place Mayfield.

CRITTENDEN COUNTY (5-2)

Rankings: Rockets 9th in Bluegrass Preps poll. Rockets 10th in Associated Press poll.

UNION COUNTY (3-3)

Offense: Multiple, mostly spread
Defense: 3- and 4-man fronts
Results this season:

Won 50-33 at home vs. Muhlenberg South
Won 41-35 (OT) at Tilghman
Lost 38-28 at home vs. Caldwell County
Won 21-0 at home vs. Webster County
The series: Crittenden County is 4-19 all-time against Union County with all but one win coming in the past six years. The Braves won 13 straight from 1964 to 1985 until Crittenden's Class A state champion team beat them. Since 2002, the series is tied 3-3. Coach Starnes is 3-4 against the Braves. Recent meetings have been slugfests with at least one team scoring 40 points in 5 of the last 6 meetings.

Game Notes: Union is 12-29 on the road since 2002. Crittenden is 4-2 in Week 8 games after starting the season 5-2. Gaige Courtney needs 17 tackles to become the school's all-time leader. Rodney Robertson needs 10 carries to move into second place all-time in that category and needs 86 yards to reach 2,000 career rushing yards. J.R. Adams is in seventh place in career PATs. J.D. Gray needs 86 passing yards to become the seventh player ever to pass for 1,200 yards in a career.

Scouting Report: QB Jordan Robison throws the ball around well and sophomore RB Devin Foster is the go-to guy on the ground. Look for a lot of toss sweeps and plays designed to get Foster into open spaces. The Braves are physical up front and will pose a real challenge for the Rockets. NG Drew Curtis used to play for the Rockets. Other players to watch are Nathan Hedgepath and Aaron Hedgepath.

Girls face Caldwell for title

CCHS reaches third straight v-ball final

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER

Having already defeated Seventh District archrival Livingston Central three times this season, the Lady Rockets knew they would out for revenge Tuesday night in the opening round of the district tournament in Smithland.

But Crittenden (19-5) was able to weather two hard-fought sets defeating the Lady Cardinals 25-21, 25-22 to set up their third straight championship game appearance tonight (Thursday) against Caldwell County.

It will be the rubber match of sorts in the championship game as the Lady Rockets captured the program's first ever league title against Caldwell back in 2006 by grueling 25-21, 28-26 scores.

The Lady Tigers returned the favor last year in Marion upending Crittenden in the title game.

There was never more than a six point difference in the opening set as the two squads exchanged competitive volleys mich of the way. With the visitors leading 17-11, the Lady Cards started cutting into the lead even more. But they could not get all the way over the hump to put the pressure back on the Lady Rockets.

However, they did not let it affect their effort in the second set getting off to a 12-9 lead. Behind the strong serving of Meredith Lanham, Tiffany Haerell and Olivis Adams, Crittenden came from behind to take a 19-17 lead and never trailed again on the way to the game-clinching set.

Lady Rocket skipper Larry Duvall knew the Lady Cardinals would be a tough foe and give his team all they would want in the opening round contest.

"Livingston wanted this game very bad," he said.

Despite not playing as well as he would have liked, Duvall attributed some of that to the school system being on fall break which had his team out of their regular routine.

Besides the glory of trying to capture the program's second postseason title in three years, tonight's matchup also holds great importance for two other reasons.

Under this year's format, the winner of the district championship game will get to host a first round game in next week's regional tourney. The drawing for the regional tournament will be held Sunday.

The second reason is the Lady Rockets are trying to record their second 20-win season in school history.

Duvall will be leaning heavily on the continued leadership from the upperclassmen, who were on the Seventh District Championship squad two years ago to show up big again in tonight's clash.

"The girls are going to have to play to their potential. Hopefully we'll play a really good game," he said.

Despite dealing the Lady Rockets three of their five losses, Duvall hopes his team will be in the proper frame of mind when the title game rolls around.

"They've got a really tough frontline. We're going to have to go around them and not through them," he said.

Lady Rockets are eliminated from district soccer tourney

For the winless Lady Rockets, Monday night's 6-0 Fourth District Soccer Tournament defeat to Caldwell County in Princeton proved to be a capsule of the entire season both offensively and defensively.

It marked the 10th time this season that Crittenden (0-13-2) allowed five or more goals. Meanwhile, it was the sixth time the girls had suffered a shutout.

Those factors were too much to overcome for the Lady Rockets' hopes of springing an upset against the homestanding Lady Tigers.

Having battled their district rival to a 2-0 loss a little more than two weeks ago, the Lady Rockets were hopeful for something closer. The Lady Rockets have never won a post-season game and that trend continued Monday.

Lady Tiger Savannah Pepper scored her team's first goal – the only goal it would need – just 1:55 into the contest. Pepper went on to place five more shots in the net, and had an assist on the game's only other goal.

Lady Rocket senior Anna Jimenez was injured a few minutes into the contest and did not return until the second half. Her absence was sorely felt by the team.

As has been a continual problem much of the year, the Lady Rockets were unable to keep the ball on their side of the field very long.

Junior goalie Hannah Brantley tried to keep her team in the game, but Caldwell's crisp ball movement and sharp passing allowed it to tally four first half goals.

A determined Jimenez re-

turned in the second half to try and help her team make a miraculous comeback, but the deficit was too great to overcome as the Lady Rockets went winless for the first time in school history.

The Lady Tigers outshot Crittenden 20-7 on their way to a berth in the district championship game.

Lady Rocket coach Michael Gibson praised the effort that seniors Jimenez, Mary Hollaman, Katie Head and Nancy Maclin have displayed during their high school careers.

He also had some telling comments after his squad's season-ending setback.

"We did not play as a team the majority of the year. We have to have a new team attitude next season," he said.

He hopes his returning players will be more intense during their off-season conditioning and come back with a stronger determination.

FALL SPORTS ROUNDUPS

JV stopped at goal line

Time ran out on the Rocket junior varsity football team Monday at Ballard Memorial. Crittenden was at the goal line trailing by eight when the buzzer sounded. Ballard won the game 42-34.

The Rockets were down 22-6 at the half, but came back when the eighth graders joined freshmen and sophomores for the second half of play.

Running back Andrew Freeman and quarterback Tanner Nix played very well for the Rockets.

SOCCER

U-10 girls undefeated after 2 wins at P'ton

The Crittenden County girls' U-10 soccer team beat Caldwell County 7-3 and 6-3 Saturday at Princeton. The Crittenden girls are now 8-0 on the season.

Francesca Pierce scored three goals in the first game and Kalie Travis and Kristen Perryman scored two apiece. Perryman also had an assist on one of Pierce's second-half goals. Alexis Tabor had five saves and Meredith Evans had three while sharing time at goalie.

In the second game, Pierce and Travis scored three goals each and Evans had six saves at goalie. The team closes its

Crittenden soccer boys win 3-0 over Slaughters

The Crittenden County Soccer Association's middle school team defeated Slaughters 3-0 on Friday. The score was tied at halftime, but Crittenden dominated the play, keeping the ball in the offensive end for most of the half. In the second half, Marcus Hughes opened the scoring with an assist by Anna Schnittker. Both Hayden McConnell and Micah Hollamon scored to extend the lead to 3-0. Holloman's goal was assisted by Cole Foster.

Crittenden's defense was rarely tested because of excellent play by midfielders Hayden McConnell, Noah Hadfield, Marcus Hughes, Austin Dunkerson and Anna Schnittker. Daniel Waggoner at stopper also had an excellent game.

The team is now 2-3-1 and will play Dixon on Friday and Union Saturday.

Other upcoming games include an 8 p.m., start on Oct. 24 at Clay; and an 11:15 a.m., match Oct. 25 at Union County.

CROSS COUNTRY

Elementary runners capture tourney title

Five Crittenden County Elementary School boys traveled to Union County Saturday for their first competitive cross-country meet and hauled off the championship trophy.

The CCES boys defeated host Union County on the 1.2-mile course to win the elementary team title at the Arrowhead Invitational, which featured schools from throughout Western Kentucky.

Will Tolley led the way, finishing fourth overall in 8:30. Jesse Belt was fifth in 8:36, followed by Cruce Collyer (7th at 9:02), Justin Morris (9th at 9:43) and Cody Belt (10th at 10:39).

The CCES boys weren't the only local athletes to run well at the meet. In the boys' high school open race, CCHS freshman Chris Sitar took a one-day break from the Rockets' victorious football team to finish an impressive 12th overall in his first-ever cross-country race. Sitar, the Rockets' distance ace in track, trimmed nearly a minute off his previous best over a 5K (3.1-mile) course, covering the difficult Union County layout in 19:18 despite heat that approached 100 degrees on parts of the course.

Union County's Aaron Carr won the race in a course-record 17:21.

In the girls' elementary race, CCES third grader Destiny Nolan cracked the top 10 with a time of 10:20. She will be in action again Saturday at the Indianapolis Marathon's kids one-mile race.

The other local entry at the Arrowhead Invitational, CCMS seventh grader Faith Sitar, finished fourth.

Chaylee Wolf, pictured with her step-father Shaun Riley, took her first deer, a spike buck, on her mamaw's farm Sunday. She harvested the deer with a .243 rifle during the youth hunt. Youth hunters bagged 29 deer, about a third of the normal two-day youth weekend harvest.

School, Allstate team to urge safe-driving

STAFF REPORT
There'll be fun and games before Friday night's football kickoff, but it's designed to convey a very serious message.
Friday Night Blue Lights, a Kentucky State Police program aimed at lowering the high number of crashes on Friday nights each autumn, will make an appearance in Crittenden County before this week's football contest against Union County. Troopers will be on hand from 5 to 7 p.m., on the board of education's central office parking lot to discuss vehicle safety and demonstrate driving simulators in a carnival-like atmosphere.
The program, undertaken before Friday night games across the state during football season, will feature a KSP rollover simulator, as well as one that shows teens what it is like to drive under the influence of drugs or alcohol. Face-painting, carnival games, concessions and an inflatable slide will also be set up to supplement the information that will be offered to parents, teens and children of all ages.

"It's just to remind people to drive safe," said Mary Hollamon, president of the high school's Family, Career and Community Leaders of America chapter.
FCCLA has teamed with KSP and Allstate insurance to bring Friday Night Blue Lights to Marion. FCCLA is acting as the host organization for the program, but the expense of setting up the displays and attractions was underwritten by a $5,000 grant from Allstate insurance.
Holly White, the school system's community educator and wife of a state police officer, applied for the grant. She said the program will make teens aware of the dangers on the road and help lower the state's ranking as 10th deadliest for teen drivers.
Friday's program is the most recent initiative by the local FCCLA chapter to address driving safety for teens. Several more initiatives are also planned.

Marion police force, 19 as the city's top police officer, Winn became a fixture around town, though he preferred to call a rural setting outside of the city home. He loved the outdoors and spent many hours away from the job either hunting, fishing or perfecting his aim with a bow and arrow. He was a member of Michigan Long Bow Association.
"He was my hunting buddy; my shooting buddy," said Crittenden County Sheriff Wayne Agent, who served under Winn on the Marion Police Department for seven years. "He was different on the range."
Agent called Winn one of the best bosses and friends he ever had. That expression was not uncommon as loved ones recalled the man.

"He treated me more like a son than a co-worker," O'Neal said.
O'Neal recalls being one of the teens Winn used to run off of parking lots in the late 1970s before becoming his newest addition to the police department in 1999.
"I started begging him for a job in 1997," said O'Neal, who was working in a coal mine at the time. "He finally gave in."
Winn's influence will remain for years in law enforcement in the county. Besides Agent and O'Neal, two of Agent's deputies – Greg Rushing and Don Perry – worked for Winn at MPD. And four of O'Neal's current officers worked under Winn at the department.
"He will definitely be missed," O'Neal said after Monday's funeral.
A giant of a man at 6-foot-6, Winn was also mourned this week by other longtime co-workers.
Melinda Gipson worked with the former chief for almost 17 years at City Hall.
"I've always known him to be a fair man," Gipson, a former clerk and current city treasurer, said. "He was always good to the people he worked with."
Gipson grew close to Winn outside of the office, too. She and Dottie went to school together in Crittenden County and the two remained close friends over the years, visiting one another's homes. And besides their close family ties, Gipson remembers the couple's faith and involvement in Marion United Methodist Church, where they held their membership.
The saddest part of Winn's ordeal with cancer, Gipson said, was that he never got to fully enjoy his time away from work.
"He was so looking forward to retirement," she said.
When Winn left the police force in July 2007, he was slowed by a foot surgery. He was soon diagnosed with cancer, but returned to work part-time as the city's code enforcement officer before accepting the position as trial commissioner for the county. He gave up that job just days before his death, but he never lost touch with the city's police force.

Agent

O'Neal gave Winn the keys to his office the day he took over from his mentor. Winn reluctantly accepted the offer and would occasionally stop by the office to use the phone, check his e-mail or just show off pictures from his weekend with the family.
"From time to time, I'd have to call him for advice," the chief said. "He'd say, 'Oh don't worry about that; do it like this.'"
"I'm gonna miss having somebody like him to draw on," O'Neal said.
A lifetime member of the Kentucky Chief of Police Association, Winn will be missed across the state. On Monday, officers from several neighboring police forces attended his funeral in Marion. A long line of police cruisers with their lights flashing followed in procession to the Caldwell County cemetery where he was laid to rest.
"He would have really, really been proud," O'Neal said.

Powderpuff battle

Crittenden County High School battled it out on the gridiron last Thursday in the annual Powderpuff flag football game as part of homecoming week festivities. Above, Madison Travis of the freshman team takes the offensive in the first game against seniors but the first-year high schoolers could not overcome a powerful senior running game led by Anna Jimenez. The seniors faced the sophomore team in the finals, winning on a last-second touchdown and point-after kick by Jessica Gatton.

made a big impact with a 1.80 earned run average in 35 innings pitched. Guess said Haston will likely serve as a player-coach, leading the team in the dugout when he's not on the mound.
One thing that will change will be the approach to marketing the team, said Marion Tourism Director Michele Edwards.

"I think we learned (last year) that we can draw people from out of town if we advertise it," she said Monday from a state tourism conference in Bowling Green.
Baseball gives Edwards a unique weapon in her arsenal to draw out-of-town money to the county.
"People are looking for different types of entertainment they may not have in their community," she said.

"Tourism is all about bringing in new dollars."
But Towery, who stuck with the team through the thick and thin of a 20-28 debut season and was not above grumbling about some lackluster play on the field, is not concerned with the bookkeeping aspect. He's got his eye on another set of numbers – wins and losses.
"You tell Gordon we need two more good left-handed hitters," he said.
