

2019 weather could lead to hay shortages

After an unseasonably warm and dry fall, we are facing the consequences of a lack of meaningful precipitation, including dormant pastures and limited forage availability.

Many beef operations have already started feeding hay. A challenging spring for making hay and limited late summer rain could be leading us to a hay shortage this year.

Hay will be cheaper when stocks are higher, shortly after being made, in comparison to February when stocks have declined.

Inventory your hay stores now. This is as simple as counting the number of bales for each type (round, large square, small square, etc.) you have. Hopefully, you have a rough idea of how much each weighs. Weight of round bales will depend on size, forage density, forage type and cutting. Our colleagues at Texas A&M created a nice publication on bale weights. You can find it here, <https://bit.ly/2llaFiL>. From their work, a bale that is 4 feet by 5 feet may weigh 880 pounds while a 5-by-6-foot bale could weigh 1,584 pounds. How dense or tight bales are when made will impact the weight. Bales that are 5-by-5 with a density of 9.5 pounds per cubic foot may weigh 935 pounds, while the same size bales with a density of 12.3 pounds per cubic foot will be near 1,200 pounds.

The point here is that when you can, buy on a weight basis rather than the bale. Also, if you are not certain what your bales weigh, when inventorying, estimate on the low end rather than assuming the bales are extremely heavy.

Determining how much hay you will need is your next step. Hay needs are a combination of storage and feeding losses and animal intake. Hay losses during storage can range widely depending on your storage method. Storage in a barn could be 5-10 percent while hay stored outside on the ground uncovered may have losses of 25-40 percent. A significant amount of loss from outside storage is due to the bale wicking moisture from the ground and having significant rot on the bottom of the bale. If you set bales on a gravel pad, it will allow precipitation to drain away.

Feeding losses can be significant as well. When using hay rings, use rings with sheeted bottoms to reduce waste. Hay saver type feeders can reduce feeding losses 5-10 percent as well. If unrolling, consider using a temporary electric wire over the top to reduce losses from cattle bedding down and/or fouling hay with feces and urine.

You may estimate animal intake by assuming 3 percent of body weight for hay intake. A 1,000-pound bred heifer would potentially consume 30 pounds of hay each day. Mature cows weighing 1,400 pounds would consume about 42 pounds of hay per day. Be sure to account for feeding losses when estimating daily hay allocation. Estimate how many days you will need to feed hay this year. Remember you'll need to feed hay longer because of the lack of fall pasture growth.

Plan now to inventory your hay and compare to your predicted needs. If you are short on inventory, procure hay now rather than waiting. If hay is in short supply, you can feed grain as a replacement for hay. Be sure to talk to your agricultural and natural resources extension agent at the Crittenden County Cooperative Extension service for help developing a feeding program.

A few dozen third-graders from Benton Elementary School visited the Ben E. Clement Mineral Museum last Thursday for an educational field trip. Above, Cole Strait makes a purchase in the gift shop from museum volunteer Thurman King. Teacher Kimberly Anderson calls the museum a "hidden jewel" that her school has visited many times over the last several years to coincide with science lessons. "The kids really love it," Anderson said. "Most have never seen anything like this." A crowd favorite is the room that features luminescent minerals that glow under special light. The museum, known the world over, is a common host to students from districts around western Kentucky.

Last week's Highway 60 Yard Sale that ran across 200 miles of western Kentucky has drawn national attention since it started 12 years ago. Above, Ben Morse (center) reaches for a bargain last Thursday at a sale at the home of Cathy Campbell at the edge of the Marion city limits on U.S. 60 East as his wife Sue (right) and daughter Lisa Meade look on. The Morses are from Orlando, Fla., and made their way north specifically to shop for bargains or just knickknacks. They began in Livingston County Thursday, but Ben Morse said the couple will probably not make it any farther than Morganfield. Each year, hundreds of yard sales along the U.S. 60 corridor from Livingston County eastward to Meade County are held in conjunction with the four-day event.

The Hatfields have been working there in earnest the last few days making some routine repairs and doing necessary maintenance work to get it ready for business.

Sometimes known as Jack's by the Tracks because of its founder, the late Jack Easley, and its location near what was once a railroad, Marion Pit Bar-B-Q opened in 1972. While the Hatfields have never owned a restaurant, all three spent time working at fast food restaurants in their youth.

"In 1962, I briefly worked at DQ in Jackson, Tenn.," Bonita Hatfield recalled, pointing to her sons for experience. "I think they have some talent there."

Carl worked at the former Druther's restaurant in Marion and other regional eateries. He has about 20 years experience in the food service industry. Jason, a former plumber and Marion city councilman, was employed at Dairy Queen when he was in high school.

"I always wanted to own a little place like this, so it's a great excuse to come home," Carl said.

The offering of the barbecue joint for sale piqued the interest of the family, who had close ties with the Easleys. Jack Easley and Bonita's late husband Jim graduated Crittenden County High School together in 1961 and remained friends until their deaths.

The restaurant consists mainly of drive-through and pick-up orders, though an enclosed outdoor picnic area is on site. Hatfield said the name and recipe for the barbecue and its unique sauce will remain unchanged.

"When you've been recognized by Southern Living magazine, there's no reason to change things. We'll keep it simple," she said.

The family does plan to extend business hours, opening Sundays after church will be among those changes. They will also likely add some items and standardize a menu with more regular offerings of ham and ribs.

"We're having fun," she added.

Running the restaurant will be a shared effort, the retired teacher said. Carl Hatfield, the older brother, recently moved back to Crittenden County, and Jason Hatfield, plans to keep his day job with Crittenden County Schools.

Meantime, Tony's Main Street Italian Grill that closed in late August has been purchased by Bill and Kory Wheeler, longtime restaurateurs who currently operate The Front Porch in Marion. The couple is renovating the building, hoping to open in early 2020 as they are continuing to develop plans. They had previously owned and operated the Italian restaurant before selling it the Perryman family.

"Plans are changing every day right now," Kory Wheeler said.

However, the name for the eventual eatery across from the courthouse seems to be set and there are some hints at the menu. In fact, the Wheelers have advertised their intent to apply for an alcohol license to sell mixed drinks, beer and wine at what will likely be called Gameday Pizza and Wings.

Library a hidden jewel downtown

To the editor:
There is an amazing jewel in downtown Marion. It's free, comfortable and entertaining. If you are expecting a boring, uninteresting place you will be pleasantly surprised. It is the Crittenden County Public Library!
CCPL has a welcoming atmosphere and friendly employees anxious to introduce you to all the treasures within the building, such as: thousands of books for all ages and interests, e-books, e-magazines, audiobooks, newspapers, movies, computers with internet access and a comfortable genealogy section.

In addition, there are several programs and activities always happening at CCPL: The summer reading program, trivia night, book club, the Lego club, friends of the library, the bookmobile which brings materials to residents throughout the county, and I even heard about a magic show that had to be moved to Rocket Arena due to the size of the crowd.

I have an idea, what about a class that taught new "wannabe" cooks how to read a recipe to make a simple dish? Sound like fun?
Do you have any ideas for another club or activity? Come by CCPL and speak with Kathleen Guess or Brandie Ledford. They would be glad to see you!

Forever a 4-Her

A long, lost Crittenden County 4-H sign was returned home recently thanks to the thoughtful act of former 4-H youth Andy Fox, shown above with Crittenden County 4-H Youth Development Agent Leslea Barnes. Fox found the sign online and purchased it for $240 so he could bring it back to Crittenden County. "It was time to bring it back home," he said of the donation. The sign was probably hung more than a half-century ago on a post at the county line, welcoming travelers into another 4-H community. While a member of 4-H in his native Livingston County, where he now operates Boyd Funeral Directors in Salem, Fox's loyalty to the youth organization made him want to see the sign return to Crittenden County 4-H. Barnes said she will hang the sign in her office, but it is destined to be seen in public at 4-H events. "It's nice to know there are thoughtful people out there like Andy," an excited Barnes said Monday, the start of National 4-H Week. 4-H serves almost 6 million youth around the country, including more than 500 in Crittenden County. An army of a half-million volunteers and 3,500 professionals like Barnes keep 4-H running smoothly.

PAID DEATH NOTICE

— Qualls —

Charles Henry "Chuck" Qualls, 73, formerly of Marion, passed peacefully Saturday, Aug. 30, 2019, in Glendive, Mont., at the Eastern Montana Veterans Home.
He was better known to his friends as "Sarge" due to his military service as a motor pool sergeant.
Sarge was born Oct. 15, 1945, to the late David Henry and Elizabeth Emmaline Qualls, in Salem. He was the first-born son of five children. He proudly served in the U.S. military. His began his service in February 1963, remaining through 1967 in Korea, followed by a tour in Vietnam. After returning to the U.S. he was an active member of the National Guard until 1977.

Qualls

In March 1968, he married his beautiful wife of 47 years, the late Barbara Jean Rushing. Sarge enjoyed family vacations and traveling.
He never turned down an opportunity to travel. It didn't matter what he was hauling as long as he was behind the wheel. Sarge began his career in trucking and he was passionate about the industry. He continued working in the trucking industry until he suffered two strokes in 2018. If he wasn't trucking you could find him refurbishing buses, campers or semis.
He enjoyed old westerns, country music and visiting friends. He enjoyed his daily meal of beans and cornbread. He more often than not had a cigarette in one hand and coffee in the other.
Sarge is survived by a son, Charles (Lisa) Anthony Qualls of Watford City, Mo.; three sisters, Emmaline Carter of Eldorado, Ill., Bobbie Turner of Wheatcroft and Josie Posey of Henderson; a brother, Jerry Lynch of Madisonville; two grandchildren, Bryan (Madison) Qualls of Marion and Alyssa (Mike) Hodges of Marion; two great grandchildren, Karlee and Harper Qualls; several nieces and nephews; three sisters-in-law, Brenda (Larry) Samuel of Marion; Charlotte Chandler of Marion and Teresa (Howard) Hughes of Fredonia.

He was preceded in death by his wife Barbara Jean Rushing; his parents, David Henry Qualls and Elizabeth Emmaline Rushing; a brother-in-law, Tommy Chandler of Marion; his father-in-law, Denver Rushing; and his mother-in-law, Wanda Rushing Scott.

Graveside services for Qualls will be held at noon Tuesday at Mapleview Cemetery in Marion. He will be laid to rest with full military honors.
In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made in his honor to any veterans home.
A special thank you goes to the staff and hospice at the Eastern Montana Veterans Home for their loving care and support during his final days. The family would also like to extend their sincerest gratitude toward Silha Crematory in Glendive and Gilbert Funeral Home in Marion for their kindness and being very accommodating during this time.

Zoning decisions awaited for commercial properties

STAFF REPORT

Marion Planning Commission will meet at 5 p.m. today (Thursday) to consider zoning designations for two properties, including 17 acres on U.S. 641 that are in the processing of being annexed into the City of Marion. The undeveloped acreage just south of the current city limits is owned by Charles K. and John C. Travis of Fredonia, who are seeking for the property to be zoned as a highway business district.

Planning and Zoning Coordinator Terri Hart said there are no specific plans for the land and the zoning request is primarily indicative of commercial development.

The other property is 3 acres locally owned by Newcom Properties. The wooded lot lies on South Main Street between West Cruce Lane and the former Denny Woodall Used Cars lot. The city is seeking the rezoning to highway business district because, according to Hart, it was incorrectly zoned as residential almost 20 years ago.

She said current plans are to clear the property of its tree cover, but nothing beyond that has been reported.

Commissioners will consider the zoning requests at tonight's meeting at city hall. Marion City Council will then consider the recommendations of the commission at Monday's council meeting. The council is also expected the finalize annexation of the U.S. 641 acreage at the meeting.

Last week, Crittenden County High School greenhouse tech students (center to right) Southern Pate, Emily West and Hunter Robison helped Jamie Hunt (left) of James Hunt Farms and Nicky Dunbar of NuTech Seed harvest the Crittenden County FFA Alumni's corn plot at the corner of Chapel Hill Road and Industrial Drive in Marion. According to FFA Advisor Jessica Abercrombie, NuTech donated the seed and Hunt planted and harvested the corn to aid Crittenden County FFA, which uses money from the test plot for student scholarships; student dues, if needed; the purchase of chapter t-shirts; and other items the chapter/department might need. Larry Duvall, president of the local FFA Alumni chapter, assisted with planting and harvesting.

Independent Auditor's Report

Report on the Financial Statement

We have audited the accompanying Statement of Receipts, Disbursements, and Excess Fees - Regulatory Basis of the Sheriff of Crittenden County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2017, and the related notes to the financial statement.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statement

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of this financial statement in accordance with accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting and budget laws. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of a financial statement that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statement based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statement, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statement.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note 1 of the financial statement, the financial statement is prepared by the Crittenden County Sheriff on the basis of the accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The effects on the financial statement of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles paragraph, the financial statement referred to above does not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the Crittenden County Sheriff, as of December 31, 2017, or changes in financial position or cash flows thereof for the year then ended.

Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and excess fees of the Crittenden County Sheriff for the year ended December 31, 2017, in accordance with the basis of accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the Commonwealth of Kentucky as described in Note 1.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated June 13, 2019, on our consideration of the Crittenden County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the Crittenden County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

Based on the results of our audit, we have presented the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Responses, included herein, which discusses the following report comments:

Peace not only a gift to be received; it’s also a task to undertake

I know people who love steak, but they are thoroughly unwilling (or unable) to slaughter a cow, process it properly, and cook it to perfection. I know people who love vegetables, but if they were not available in the grocery store, they would starve. I know people that enjoy a good meal but have no idea how to make it happen. Of course, we live in an economy that takes care of those things for us. We do our part and others do theirs, either through money transaction or relationship.

But let’s try this with things that are not so easily transferable. I know people who say they love equality but refuse or never learned how to practice it. What about those who crave mercy but are cruel. And what about peace. Most people would claim to love peace. We pray for it frequently, but that is not the same as being a peacemaker. It is one thing to love something and quite another to produce it.

Pope Benedict XVI, said, “Peace, however, is not merely a gift to be received: it is also a task to be undertaken.”

Peaceful homes do not happen because everyone loves peace. Although that certainly does help. Peaceful homes are inhabited by people who pursue peace, and work at it. They are not always quiet, but they are emotionally safe. Peaceful homes are not aggressive but produce strong personalities able to withstand turbulence. Peaceful environments make strong, faithful, trustworthy relationships possible. We all desire peace at some level but putting in the work is hard.

Peacemakers are people of great physical courage when the time arrives. Standing between victim and perpetrator. Befriending those who are vulnerable to the violence of others. Telling truth to those who are resistant to hearing it.

The gladiatorial games of Rome were stopped in 399 A.D. because of the courage of a peacemaker and the emperor Honorius. This is what is recorded by Theodoret, Bishop of Cyrus, Syria (393-458), “Honorius, who inherited the empire of Europe, put a stop to the gladiatorial combats which had long been held at Rome. The occasion of his doing so arose from the following circumstance. A certain man of the name of Telemachus had embraced the ascetic life. He had set out from the East and for this reason had repaired to Rome. There, when the abominable spectacle was being exhibited, he went himself into the stadium, and, stepping down into the arena, endeavored to stop the men who were wielding their weapons against one another. The spectators of the slaughter were indignant and inspired by the mad fury of the demon who delights in those bloody deeds, stoned the peacemaker to death. When the admirable emperor was informed of this, he numbered Telemachus in the array of victorious martyrs, and put an end to that impious spectacle.” (History XXVI)

Peacemakers do not pit one group of people against another, but rather exercise humility, patience, and wisdom. These are the people who seek to de-escalate circumstances but are unwilling to give in to the unreasonable. Occasionally a peacemaker will rise to power but will not seek it. Peacemakers may lead but not because they crave followers. They are recognizable when they walk among us.

The Scottish preacher, Alexander MacLaren (1826-1910) noted the place of the beatitude “Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons of God.” It is after all but one, and I might note just before, “Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness sake.” Here is an excerpt from his Expositions.

“If we give due weight to the order of these Beatitudes, we shall feel that Christ’s peacemaker must be something more than a mere composer of men’s quarrels. For he has to be trained by all the preceding experiences, and has to be emptied of self, penitent, hungering for and filled with righteousness, and therefore pure in heart as well as, in regard to men, meek and merciful, ere he can hope to fill this part. That apprenticeship deepens the conception of the peace which Christ’s subjects are to diffuse.”

He continues, “The Christian who moves thus among men seeking to diffuse everywhere the peace with God which fills his own soul, and the peace with all men which they only who have the higher peace can preserve unbroken in their quiet, meek hearts, will be more or less recognized as God-like by men, and will have in his own heart the witness that he is called by God His child. He will bear visibly the image of his Father and will hear the voice that speaks to him too as unto a son.”

We need more peacemakers, not just lovers of peace.

Blessed is the man who endures temptation... which is not the same as sin

We know that the old way for the high priest to enter into the Holiest was with the blood of calves and goats. Only the high priest was allowed to enter once a year with blood in order to atone for the sins of the people.

When Jesus came into the world, He said, “Sacrifice and offerings thou wouldest not, but a body hast thou prepared of me. In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin thou has had no pleasure. Then said I, Lo I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me) to do thy will O God.” (Heb 10:5-7).

This is basically the difference between the old covenant and the new that Jesus established.

Jesus made a covenant with the Father that He would abolish the sacrifices in which He had no pleasure, and offer His own body instead in order to do the Father’s will.

Sin has its origins in the body. Therefore, in order to do God’s will with this body, a sacrifice had to take place in the body. The sin which otherwise would have come out from His body had to be put to death there. In this way, the devil lost the necessary points of contact through which to tempt and deceive. Through this death, Christ destroyed him who has the power of death that is the devil. It was a totally new death that Jesus brought that is why it is called “the dying of the Lord Jesus.” (1 Cor. 4:10). We too are to carry about with us this dying in the body so that the life of Jesus also may be manifested in our body. Jesus has consecrated this new way for us in order that we should walk in it.

Jesus was tempted in all areas the same as we are, yet He did not sin. “For in that he himself has suffered being tempted, He is able to succor them that are tempted.” (Heb. 2:18). He can give us grace so that we do not give in and do not fail in temptation. When we are tempted, we see the sin that dwells in our flesh, and this gives us an opportunity to put it to death. Many people consider temptation to be the same as sinning, but that is not so, for James writes, “blessed is the man who endures temptation, for when he has been approved, he will receive the crown of life which the Lord has promised to those who love Him.” (James 1:12).

When people neglect or refuse to walk on the narrow way which Jesus consecrated for us, they are left with only the forgiveness of sins, which they already had through animal sacrifice and the law before Jesus came. And the blood of Jesus has no more effect on their life than the blood of bulls and goats.

The lighter side of The Crittenden Press articles

Once again we visit the archives of The Crittenden Presses to find some light-hearted fun articles that appeared many years ago. These articles, I'm sure, made for interesting and humorous reading during those times of long ago. These writers of old had a wonderful way with words and we can still enjoy them all these many years later.

April 1883 - The Weather Liar

There are many kinds of the liar family, but the best known is the weather liar. The older he is the greater his license to indulge in his favorite pastime. Every day of the year furnishes him with an excuse, and all he asks is for somebody to talk to.

The weather liar remembers that the winter of 1879 was exactly like that of 1491; the spring of 1882 puts him in mind of the spring of 1624; the cold waves of the past winter didn't begin with those in 1774.

He can remember winters when not a flake of snow fell, and summers when there was a frost every other night for three months. He has seen the thermometer drop to 47 degrees below in January and climb to 130 degrees in August.

He remembers one year when cherries were ripe in May, and another when they could not be picked until November. No matter what the weather is, the weather liar has always seen worse. If it snows for two days he has seen it snow for four. If it rains for a week, he can remember when it poured down without a break for three. If you have seen it hot enough to fry eggs on a stone sidewalk, he has seen an ax melt on top of a lump of ice.

The Fish Liar
The fish liar ranks second on the list. He goes fishing about once in five years and spends the rest of the time in lying about what occurred. He caught a bass weighing 14 pounds, but the hook broke and let him escape.

He had a bite from a pickerel four feet long, but stubbed his toe and couldn't pull up at the proper moment.

He began fishing with minnows for bait, but the fish bit so greedily that he finally tied a horn button to the hook and pulled'em out as fast as he could drop the line.

He caught an even tubful, but while he was eating lunch the wharf gave way and let tub and fish into the water. The fish liar can be found sitting on the counter at the local grocery store of an evening, all wound up and ready to begin business, and nothing lets the sunshine into his life so quick as to get hold of someone who will gasp out occasionally: "My stars! but is that possible?"

The Horse Liar
The horse liar stands third on the list. He is a man who had a horse which could run the race at 2:20. He hasn't got it now, but that doesn't make any difference. He had driven that horse in a race with an express train and taken first money. And he also had a running horse which once made a dash of 25 miles on a bet of $5,000. He hasn't the horse or the money at the present time, but he can give you the name of a dozen leading bank presidents and Chief Justices who saw the dash.

The horse liar doesn't stop at lying about his own horses, but is ready to put in his best licks on animals he never saw. He is in the confidence of the owners of all the celebrated equines.

In his opinion such a track is short and such a track is long. He doesn't believe Rarus was ever much of a horse and he feels that he could drive Goldsmith Maid in three seconds faster than she ever recorded.

He is the identical man who first saw speed in Flora Temple, and if he had wanted to be mean about it, he could have bought her for $10 and an old plow, and made $5,000 out of the trade.

He knows all about spavins, ring-bones, poll-evil, pinkeye and glanders, and he has sure cure for each one.

His seat is on the head of the second cracker barrel from the stove each evening through the winter, and when he can come across someone who has invested $15 and a cross-cut saw in an old plug of a horse to see in a cider mill, he is in his glory.

He knows all that horse; been an awful good stepper; saw him run away once and killed two women. Rarey tried to tame him, but

Rev. James F. Price, although a very small man in size, had a large interest in our county. A lot of our past history was preserved and shared by him through his many writings about the town and county.

had to give it up, reckon he could go out now and give most of the boys the dust; and so on until the grocer rubs his sleepy eyes, and regretfully says, "Come, you liars, it's time to lock up and go home."

1903 - Bro. James F. Price. Everybody in Marion and the surrounding country always has a hearty welcome for Bro. Price, of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. It is not putting it too strong to say that everybody, men, women and children, have a very true and strong affection for this gentleman.

Bro. Price is built upon very narrow lines physically, nature evidently having it in mind to put her choicest wares in small packages. Anyhow, he is exceedingly spare and thin, and his weight would perhaps not exceed 90 pounds.

In telling of a recent visit to Louisville, Bro. Price said that he has a very good friend in that city, a practicing physician by profession, who has had in a corner of his office for several years a well strung skeleton. Making it a point to always call upon the doctor when in the city, he happened in one day and found that the skeleton had been removed.

One of those sharp little merchants of the street, a newsboy, who had been delivering the evening papers to the physician for several months, and who was well acquainted with the interior of the office, called as was his custom with the latest edition.

As he was turning to leave Bro. Price, who had accidentally taken the same position that the skeleton had previously occupied says: "Here son, give me a paper." The boy looked at him a moment with dilating eyes, and said, as he hurried out: "Go away, go away, I know you even if you have got clothes on!"

1903. - Mr. Perry S. Maxwell's office in the court house yard is a center from which radiates a large amount of financial assistance to those who find themselves in need of money. This assistance is always on tap, in either large or small doses, provided of course that the collateral is beyond reproach. The office is also a gathering place for almost everybody, with the possible exception of Republican politicians.

Mr. Maxwell being the chairman of the county Democratic committee, as a rule he prefers not to listen to the Republicans plan to elect another United States Senator is place of our esteemed townsman, Honorable W. J. Deboe. He naturally believes that such efforts are a pure waste of lung power and muscle.

The other day a farmer from down near the west end of the county dropped in and requested a loan of a $150. As the applicant was well known to be reliable and perfectly good for the amount, Mr. Maxwell while making out a note for the gentleman to sign, incidentally asked: "How many children have you, Sid?" Sid was sitting, one leg crossed over the other, and the question seemed to take him a little by surprise.

"Well, now, let me see," he replied, as he counted on the fingers of his left hand. "It's either seven or nine, Mr. Maxwell, but I declare I forget which. I think it's either seven or nine, he musing said again and an expression of relief passed over his face as he considered. Anyhow its an odd number, and it may be "eleven."

More to the point was the reply of a lady caller in the same office on another day, who was asked if she had any children. Her reply, "Yes, I have five daughters," and before she could complete her sentence she was interrupted with, "and no son?" "Oh yes, she says, everyone one of my daughters has a brother. This seemed rather to stagger her questioner, who exclaimed, "Ten children?" "No, not 10; only six, five daughters and one son," she sweetly replied.

Distracted driving in Kentucky results in more than 50,000 crashes, more than 15,000 injuries and approximately 200 deaths each year.

The odds National Hole-in-One Registry reports that the odds of a PGA Tour player making a hole in one at 3,000-to-1. The average golfer has a 12,000-to-1 chance. The national Double Eagle Club says the odds of an albatross for an everyday golfer are 6 million-to-1. Shoulders has two in his lifetime. The odds of scoring a hole-in-one are 12,500 to 1 on a par-3 hole for an amateur golfer.

STAFF REPORT
When Crittenden County junior golfer Sam Greenwell tees it up Friday at the Leachman Buick GMC Cadillac/KHSAA State Golf Championship at Bowling Green Country Club, he will be dragging a lot of dormant history behind him. Greenwell shot 2-over par last week in the First Region Tournament to become the first Rocket male golfer to earn a state tournament berth since 1995. In fact, last week The Press reported it had been since 1992, but further research found that Ryan Perry went to the state finals in '95. There have been so few to reach the state level that records are old and dusty. Greenwell tees off at 12:42 p.m., Friday. If he shoots well enough to make the second-day cut, Greenwell will play another 18 holes on Saturday, vying for a state championship. Crittenden's Lauren Gilchrist, playing in her fourth state tournament on Tuesday at Bowling Green, shot an 11-over-par 83 and tied for 39th place overall. The top 106 places made the cut. She played Wednesday in the final round. Gilchrist was 7-over at the turn and finished the backside at just 4-over. She shot 9-over 81 last year and made the cut to finish 38th at 81-87-168.

Rocket senior Lauren Gilchrist made the final-round cut after shooting an 11-over-par 83 on Tuesday in first-round play of the girls' state tournament at Bowling Green.

Xander Tabor's 201-yard rushing effort led what was a near Rocket record-setting performance on the ground last week against Trigg County. Tabor has rushed for 599 yards in six games this season. His numbers against Trigg were the best of the season. He rushed for 190 against Webster County. Tabor missed part of the second period against Trigg with a leg injury.

Rockets spring running surprise to catch Trigg County off guard

STAFF REPORT
Not all success springs from the same well and for Crittenden County's football team, a bit of strategic modification worked to perfection last Friday when the Rockets shutout Trigg County 32-0 on homecoming night. The U.S. Marines often chant the phrase: adapt, improvise and overcome. That would be a perfect mantra for the Rockets' win over the Wildcats as Crittenden hooked up the mules and plowed some contemporaneously uncharted ground for what was previously heralded as a pass-oriented spread offense. Pounding the ball on the ground, the Rockets piled up 421 yards rushing led by junior Xander Tabor's 201 and four other backs rushed for 40 or more yards. It was the first time since the opening game of the 2008 season (vs. Lake County) that Crittenden gained that many yards on the turf. The school record for single-game rushing is 482 yards (vs Reidland, 1992), and had it not been for 10 penalties – mostly holds, some on big plays – the Rockets may well have watched that record fall. The defense was just as dominant, however, if not more. Crittenden recoreded its first regular-season shutout since 2017 with a mighty defensive performance that included four points on two safeties, three interceptions, a sack or two and a fumble recovery. The Rockets presided over the first half with a heavy hand while they took command of the game, holding Trigg to just one first down in the first two periods and negative 13 yards total offense. The assertive play continued in the second half as Trigg's generally productive offense was held in its tracks, perhaps partly because the Wildcats' quarterback Cameron Jordan (a Navy commit) left the game in the second period with what appeared to be a shoulder injury. The Wildcats managed to finish the contest with only 11 yards on the ground and 75 through the air. The two safeties registered by the Rocket defense is most likely a single-game record. While historical accounts are not complete in that category throughout the team's 62-year past, only once has a CCHS team done it twice in a season, let alone one game. Xander Tabor rushed for 201 yards against Trigg. "Trigg County is a really good team," said Rocket coach Sean Thompson. "We made the game more about a physical mentality... who was going to be tougher tonight and our guys came out on top. They broke (Trigg's) will to play from the opening buzzer until the game was over." Thompson said talk of a shutout turned his stomach a week ago – speaking of his team's 14-0 loss at Union County – but the tone was more festive this week. "We felt a lot of pressure this week, people doubting what we've been doing, so we wanted to go out and show that we have pride about what we wear across our chest," Thompson added. The Rockets snapped a two-game skid that saw them fall out of the Class A Top 10 for the first time all season. Crittenden lost to Caldwell and Union back-to-back after winning three straight out of the chute. The losses tossed CCHS from a No. 5 ranking in the Associated Press poll to a tie for 13th. "People start to question you when you lose to two good teams back-to-back like that, but then you come out and answer against a really good football team like Trigg County, I think it shows who you are," the coach said. Crittenden will begin its Class A First District schedule this week when it hosts Caverna. SCORE BY QUARTERS

Rocket quarterback Hunter Jones completed just two passes against Trigg, but appeared to get back on track after a tough outing the previous week against Union County.

Crittenden County’s fifth- and sixth-grade Junior Pro football team made it a clean sweep of the league this season, beating Webster County 12-0 on Saturday at Rocket Arena to complete an undefeated regular season at 6-0.

The Rockets scored early and late and played outstanding defensively to shutout the Trojans. Webster got into the Rocket red zone just once and was stopped in its tracks. The Rockets scored in the second period on a quarterback keeper by Quinn Summers. The TD was set up by a long pass from Summers to Avery Thompson. It was Thompson who scored the final touchdown in the fourth period on a pass from Summers.

The young Rockets will host the post-season Junior Pro Jamboree on Oct. 19-20 at Rocket Stadium. Crittenden will have the No. 1 seed in the fifth- and sixth-grade bracket and will play the winner of a game between Union County and Caldwell County Gold .

The third- and fourth-grade Rockets lost 34-6 to Webster County on Saturday and fished the season with a 3-3 record. The third and fourth graders have the No. 4 seed for post-season play and will face the No. 5 Caldwell White squad on Saturday, Oct. 19.

Quickly will be impact player for Wildcats

Kentucky’s backcourt is getting a lot of national attention with the return of Ashton Hagans, last year’s SEC Defensive Player of the Year, and arrival of freshman Tyrese Maxey, who is already being projected as a 2021 NBA lottery pick.

However, Kentucky coach John Calipari couldn’t stop praising sophomore guard Immanuel Quick-ley at UK’s Media Day.

“Immanuel is not even the same player. I mean, I had someone come in and watch us practice and say, he’s not even the same guy,” Calipari said.

The UK coach compares it to the transformation P.J. Washington made last year when he came back for a sophomore season and became a NBA lottery pick. Calipari says Quickley has a “different frame of mind” just like Washington did and has responded and seen things differently.

“Just being around for a year and knowing what everyone expects ... coaches, players, even what I expect of myself ... has really helped,” Quickley said. “I took this off-season to get better on every aspect of my basketball play.

“I know what games are like ... home games, away games, TV games, neutral site, SEC games. Just knowing what to expect each and every game is a huge help. Practices, I know what the coaches expect. Everything is just familiar now.”

Quickley wasn’t even surprised when he found out Calipari praised him so much.

“That is not something that surprises me at all because I put a lot of work in during the off-season training and stuff. Working on the mental aspect of my game as well as physical aspects,” Quickley said. “Nothing has really changed that much except for my mentality. If I miss a shot, I will shoot it again.”

When school bus stops for passengers, all traffic from both directions must stop.

Illegal, dangerous bus passing occurs every day locally, in Ky.

STAFF REPORT

Every day in Kentucky, 9,822 school buses transport over 385,000 students on school buses. Like everywhere else across the state, Crittenden County Schools Director of Transportation Wayne Winters said every day, drivers in other vehicles pass school buses while they are loading and unloading students. These incidents have caused injuries and even death, though none locally to date.

To help remind motorists of traffic laws regarding buses, the Kentucky Office of Highway Safety and the Kentucky Department of Education have teamed up to create the Kentucky Stop Laws Graphic that explains when to stop for a school bus.

If any school or church bus used in the transportation of children is stopped on a highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging passengers, with the stop arm and signal lights activated, the operator of a vehicle approaching from any direction must bring their vehicle to a stop and not continue until the bus has completed receiving or discharging passengers and has been put into motion.

The stop requirement does not apply to vehicles approaching a stopped bus from the opposite direction on a highway of four or more lanes, but no such roadway exists in Crittenden County. However, if there is a center turning lane, all motorists approaching the bus must come to a stop.

One of the chilling rooms inside Tolu's Haunted House features a pigman butcher under red lighting. The spook house at Tolu Community Center returned Saturday after a four-year absence, entertaining 191 visitors who took the 10-minute tour through an array of twists, turns and frights. Dozens more visitors stuck to the cafeteria while friends and loved ones got an early jump on Halloween. More than 20 volunteers staffed the attraction. The haunted house is open from 7-11 p.m. each Saturday in October as well as Friday, Oct. 18. Concessions are available beginning at 6 p.m. Cost is $8 for ages 13 and older and $5 for 12 and under.

Low-flying planes anticipated

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden Countians may notice some low-flying aircraft through the end of the year. It has been announced that small, twin-engine Piper Navajo airplanes will be flying grids over Crittenden and other counties in the tri-state area as part of a research effort to collect 3D imagery of the Fluorspar District in Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky.

The low-level flights of about 260 to 1,000 feet above the ground are scheduled to occur in Crittenden County in October, November and December.

Scientists with the U.S. Geological Survey and the Geological Surveys of Illinois, Kentucky and Indiana are partnering to image geology using airborne geophysical technology as part of the USGS Earth Mapping Resource Initiative (Earth MRI) project.

For this tri-state survey, the USGS is contracting with EON Geosciences and will fly over all or parts of 23 counties in southeastern Illinois, western Kentucky and southern Indiana. The planes and crew will be based out of the Barkley Regional airport in west Paducah. Weather permitting, the survey will be done by December. Planes will be taking imagery while flying a grid pattern along east-west flight lines spaced approximately 650 feet apart. North-south flight lines will be spaced 9,800 feet apart. All survey flights will occur during daylight hours.

Two Piper Navajo airplanes will be mounted with passive sensors that measure variations in the Earth's magnetic field created by different rock types up to several miles beneath the surface. Each plane will also include sensors that measure soil and rock chemistry at the surface. None of the instruments carried on the aircraft pose a health risk to people or animals. The aircraft will be flown by experienced pilots that are specially trained and approved for low-level flying. All flights are coordinated with the FAA to ensure flights are in accordance with United States law.
