Fall precipitation means vivid colors

Greater than normal rainfall and lower than normal temperatures continue to create deep fall conditions in Crittenden County. Last week, local WPSD-TV Weather Watcher Brenda Underdown logged 4.7 inches of rainfall during a four-day period, Oct. 6-9. According to the UK Ag Weather Service, rainfall for the area was 6.25 inches above normal as of Tuesday. Experts say the cool, wet weather should create more brilliant fall colors.

GOP stages rally at fairgrounds Saturday

Citizens are invited to a republican Party rally at 6 p.m., Saturday at the James T. Hatfield Exhibition Center at the Crittenden County Fairgrounds. Local candidates for election in 2010 are expected to be there, plus some state and federal office candidates.

No school Monday

Fall break for Crittenden County schools continues through the end of this week and classes will be out Monday for a teacher planning day. Students will back in school on Tuesday.

Christmas comes early

Craftsmen offer wares at 22nd show

BY PAMELA STRINGER
PRESS REPORTER

Crittenden Countians Liz Rushing and Matt Paris teamed up about a year and a half ago to carve and paint gourds. This weekend, the duo will be freshmen vendors among the skilled artisans selling their wares at the annual Christmas in Marion arts and crafts show.

Saturday marks the 22nd annual Christmas in Marion event at Fohs Hall.

There will be crafts of all kinds, including candles, purses, several jewelry vendors, monogrammed items, ornaments, to name a few, according to Kim Hunt Vince, president of Fohs Hall Community Arts Foundation.

Paris prefers working in the three dimensional art realm. He even spent a summer building his kids a life-size model of a Star Trek shuttle. He handles the carving aspect of their work, while Rushing paints the pieces.

The two became friends about three years ago, when their children wanted to hang out together outside of school. At the time, both were stay-at-home parents and found the craft to be a good way to pass time while their children played during the summer months.

Their pieces are functional and decorative, with prices ranging from $15 to $50.

"We're not exactly money-driven, if we never made a cent, we'd still be doing it," Paris said.

It takes about a year for the gourds to dry out. Paris spends about two to two and a half hours cleaning and carving the dried gourds, using non-electric hand tools. Rushing puts

Senior Center pockets billiards table

PRESS REPORTER

The Pennyrile Allied Community Services Crittenden County Senior Citizen Center benefited recently from Richard and Burnice Maxfield's lack of space for their professional pool table. The Maxfields donated the billiards table to the center late last month and so far it's getting plenty of action.

Another pool table was donated to the center a year ago and ever since there had been a waiting list to play. The game has been very popular among local seniors who frequent the center.

The newly donated table needed some light touch-up and finishing work. Senior players are paying for the repairs themselves. They pooled their money and furnished enough for about $300 of remodeling work.

The center also offers Bingo, cards, exercise and other games, according to Paul Davenport, a senior who plays pool there often.

"We want to get younger people interested, because us older people are dying out," joked C.L. McDaniel, another regular at the center.

On the first Monday of every month, the center hosts an in-house pool tournament. This week, the center hosted a trophy tournament against Livingston County.

The seniors say they're up to a challenge from juniors at any time. The billiards table is open to any adult, they said.

Community Christmas announces changes

Organizers asking donors to spread their cheer around

Community Christmas kicks off its 35th year of philanthropy in Crittenden County, but there will be some changes this holiday season, most notably with angel trees and pick-up on distribution day.

In the past, the effort has strived to ited number of volunteers.

Community Christmas is Crittenden County's program to assist parents with food and gifts for children and is a project of the Crittenden County Inter-Agency Council. Officers for the council are Mona Manley, Lynda Dennis, Nancy Hunt and Mickey Myers.

Individuals in need of assistance can sign up between 9 a.m., and 2 p.m., Friday, Oct. 23 or from 2-6 p.m., on Friday, Oct. 30. Registration on both days will be at The Learning Center located beside Crittenden County Elementary School. Senior citizens, families and individuals without children in the household can register.

In order to qualify, individuals need to bring proof of all household income, which could be a food stamp eligibility letter from Community Based Services, pay stub, Social Security/SSI, and/or Child Support documents. The social security num-

Attorney general ruling: Crittenden violated law

STAFF REPORT

The Kentucky Attorney General has found that Crittenden County has violated the Kentucky Open Records Law, according to a report issued Oct. 7.

According to the Open Records Decision by Assistant Attorney General Amye Bensenhaver, Crittenden County Fiscal Court failed to meet requirements of the state's open records requirements following a request made initially in July by attorney Robert P. Moore of Madisonville. Although the attorney general's decision did not identify Moore more specifically, The Press has learned that he is attorney for Madisonville Waste Disposal, a company that has the school system's garbage contract and wants to solicit more business in Crittenden County.

Last month, Crittenden Fiscal Court renewed its non-exclusive franchise agreement with Freedom Waste for collecting residential and commercial garbage here. Madisonville Waste presented a bid, which provided for lower prices on residential and commercial waste pickup; however, Freedom was awarded the contract for a variety of reasons cited by the court and the county's solid waste committee.

Moore had asked Judge Brown on July 2 for the ability to inspect and copy records relating to solid waste management in Crittenden County. According to the attorney general's report, Crittenden County Treasurer Sue Padgett notified Moore that it would take a few weeks to gather the items requested. According to the attorney general's report, Padgett told the Madisonville attorney that he could come view the records at the courthouse in Marion if he would call ahead first to make an appointment.

In August, Moore appealed to the Kentucky Attorney General, citing Crittenden County's failure to comply with open records laws. Bensenhaver's report said she talked by phone with County Attorney Rebecca Johnson on Oct. 5 regarding the Children need more time at home, church

According to the Associated Press on Sept. 28, "Obama says American kids spend too little time in school, putting them at a disadvantage with other students around the globe."

"The President... wants schools to add time to classes, to stay open late and to let kids in on weekends so they have a safe place to go."

Education Secretary Arne Duncan and President Obama both agree "that kids in the U.S. need more school because kids in other nations have more school. Young people in other countries are going to school 25 to 30 percent longer than our students here, I want to just level the playing field."

As for me, I'm not interested in going backwards to compete with the Europe many of our ancestors died to get unhooked from in the Revolution. Additionally, tens of thousands of our young men and women have given their lives to get their weak, passive and inept tails out of the preverbal crack in two world wars. Now, they're still so jealous of America that they want to whine and whimper about all our faults, perceived and real, as if they don't have any.

This is all very ironic, when the

Oct. 1 Washington Post reported that roughly 1,000 predominately black residents of Washington, D.C., held a rally on Capitol Hill Sept. 30, with Republican Leader John Boehner among others. They were rallying for a conservative cause – school vouchers.

The Washington, D.C. schools have been reported as being the worst in the nation and the most costly. In 2003, President Bush and the Republican Congress created a school voucher test program in the District of Columbia. But this Congress, with the backing of the Obama Administration, has vowed to kill the program, which currently enables 1,700 students to escape D.C.'s failing schools.

There was such an outcry by the parents when Obama announced he was going to kill the program, that he then conceded to just keeping the ones already enrolled and not adding students. This also meets stiff opposition from the D.C. residents.

The Associated Press also noted that the extra time in schools would be very costly as Massachusetts found out their longer school year costs an extra $1,300 per student.

On one of my county tax bills I just received, the school gets twice as much as the state and county combined.

The school system continues to demand more and more money, and more and more of students' time, and yet my last year of grade school at Hebron was from Sept. 4 to Jan. 4 because of bad weather. This did not keep me from climbing the ladder of higher education, success and experiencing the American dream, because all along the way I was made to work, take responsibility for my life and my actions, support myself and help others as I could.

Many of the children, especially the ones in rural America, are having to leave home very early in the morning, and don't get home until well after 4 p.m. That doesn't leave much time for homework, family and rest, which most educators agree are very important for a well-rounded, developed life.

Too, if the administration is so concerned about students getting a better education, then why are they demanding that the charter schools in D.C., that have proven so very effective, be closed?

If you pay close attention to the statements by President Obama and Secretary Duncan, they did not mention a "better education." The only mentioned the necessity of their spending more time in school.

Why does the government want our children under their control more and more hours of their young, formative, impressive and vulnerable years? Why does the government want students sharing less and less time with mom and dad at home and on family outings?

All honest and informed people can answer that. They want the youth to think as they do instead of how mom and dad think.

As for wanting the children in schools on weekends as a pretense of safety is this intimidating that their homes, and with mom and dad, aren't safe. It's like saying that spending time in church on Sunday is not safe, nor important?

Every nation that has gone socialist and communistic has each demanded their children be under their control constantly, usually starting at age three.

In America's case, I guess they also want more time to teach them the songs that are being taught to sing in many schools in the country, according to the news reports, praising Obama over and over. One of them is even to the tune of the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

The failing schools in so many places in this country, the broken U.S. Postal Service, broken Medicare and Medicaid are vivid reminders that we must not let them take over our health care, and demand more control over our most precious possessions, our children.

Letters to the Editor

Congress should make meaningful health care reform

To the Editor:

When President Obama recently mentioned that one big insurer controlled 96 percent of the market in just one state, a collective (and very loud) gulp went down the throats of insurance industry executives. You see, this domination of the small group market, where small businesses are forced to buy insurance, drives costs up at an unsustainable rate.

So, the secret is out, but the question is – will the insurers fess up? As the state director of the National Federation of Independent Business/Kentucky, I hear firsthand from small business owners about their ever-increasing costs and lack of choices. But, the proof is in the pudding, or in this case the Government Accountability Office's research.

According to the GAO (February 2009), 96 percent of Kentucky's small group health insurance market is controlled by the five large insurers, with Anthem Health Plans of Kentucky writing nearly half of all policies.

Yes, there are 1,300 health insurance providers in the United States, but the vast majority of them aren't doing business in Kentucky.

Why not? Because state-regulated health care for small business has become a virtual monopoly for big insurance. Small business owners and their employees have been crushed under this model, while companies like Anthem and a few others have flourished under it.

We are in new times, however. Congress is considering reforms that would allow small businesses to shop for health insurance like each of us buys our car insurance and groceries. A transparent exchange would spur badly needed competition, help contain rising costs, increase pool size and keep big insurance honest.

I urge your readers to encourage our members of congress to make meaningful market-based health care reform a reality.

Would you shoot someone breaking into your home?

As most of you know there are hundreds of laws and decrees beyond the 10 Commandments in the Bible.

One of them in particular is worth noting today. It is found in Exodus 22 and reads in the King James version, "If the thief is found breaking in, and he is struck so that he dies, there shall be no guilt for his bloodshed."

In Kentucky we call it the Castle Law. In Denver it's the "Make My Day Law." Not sure that wasting another fellow, be him a nefarious intruder or not, would make any normal man's day, but nonetheless it's perfectly right in the eyes of Old Testament law and Kentucky statutes to protect your home and family with the use of deadly force.

The subject has arisen several times over the past week as talk of attempted burglaries and break-ins around the county have made their way into the barber shops and pool halls of Crittenden County. Just kidding, there are no pool halls, but if there were, people there would be talking about the same thing.

The landmark Colorado statute named for the famous Clint Eastwood line "Go ahead, make my day," set a precedent. About 30 states have followed suit, making it difficult for homeowners to be prosecuted or held civilly liable for shooting a burglar.

Generally, the statute that provides such protection is called more civilly, The Castle Law in just about every state that observes it.

In our commonwealth, the law is precisely KRS 503.050 and it reads as follows:

(1) The use of physical force by a defendant upon another person is justifiable when the defendant believes that such force is immediately necessary to prevent:

(a) The commission of criminal trespass, robbery, burglary, or other felony involving the use of force, or under those circumstances permitted pursuant to KRS 503.055, in a dwelling, building or upon real property in his possession or in the possession of another person for whose protection he acts; or

(b) Theft, criminal mischief, or any trespassory taking of tangible, movable property in his possession or in the possession of another person for whose protection he acts.

(2) The use of deadly physical force by a defendant upon another person is justifiable under subsection (1) only when the defendant believes that the person against whom such force is used is:

(a) Attempting to dispossess him of his dwelling otherwise than under a claim of right to its possession; or

(b) Committing or attempting to commit a burglary, robbery, or other felony involving the use of force, or under those circumstances permitted pursuant to KRS

503.055, of such dwelling; or

(c) Committing or attempting to commit arson of a dwelling or other building in his possession.

(3) A person does not have a duty to retreat if the person is in a place where he or she has a right to be.

References to KRS 503.055 basically remind us that a person cannot use deadly force when a bank repossess a home for non-payment or a landlord comes to evict us for not paying the rent. It's some common-sense stuff, but we need to be reminded that the law protects neither our ignorance nor apathy.

What it does protect – at least for now – is our right to use deadly force when someone tries to break into our home, steal our car or burn down the house.

The U.S. Supreme Court is currently hearing new arguments regarding whether the Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution gives us all the right to bear arms even if states or local provinces enact laws to the contrary. It's a state's rights argument similar to the one most thought was settled in 1865 when the North won the Civil War.

For now, be it ordained, however, that based on Kentucky law and the Old Testament of the Holy Bible, it is indeed justified if you use deadly force to protect yourself, your family or your property. Thank God.

2 more H1N1 cases reported in local schools last week

Crittenden County School District received official confirmation late last week of two more students enrolled at Crittenden County Elementary School, who have contracted the H1N1 influenza. Four other students were confirmed with the flu last month.

In the newest cases, school officials said one of the students had returned to classes as of late last week. The other student was absent and is expected to return on Tuesday after fall break.

"We will continue with our sanitization procedures both during the school day and in a more intense manner for any classroom where students have been sent home for illness of any kind," said Superintendent Dr. Rachel Yarbrough.

She said this week's fall break has come at an opportune time for Crittenden County as schools continue to battle different strains of the flu. The off week will give sick students time to recover.

"We are continuing thorough sanitization procedures in all schools over the fall break," Dr. Yarbrough added.

State Police arrest 41 drivers for DUI in 6-county Post 2 area

Kentucky State Police Post 2 at Madisonville has released its activity report for September. Last month, state troopers and detectives arrested 41 impaired drivers, they wrote 1,644 citations, issued 776 speeding tickets, 170 seat belt citations and ticketed drivers for violating child restraint laws.

Officers issued 630 court-tesy notices.

They investigated 106 traffic crashes, assisted 187

Continued from page 1 matter. Two days later, the attorney general's office issued its report finding the county in violation of the Open Records Act.

The attorney general's office found that Crittenden County failed to issue a written response to Moore's request within three days as required by law; that the fiscal court offered no explanation for its failure to properly respond; that it failed to meet the required deadline for providing records; that the county originally tried to impose unreasonable fees of 25 cents per copy for records (but later charged only 10 cents); and that the county did not make records fully accessible by failing to delegate someone in the judge's office to find and copy the records.

Crittenden County may appeal the attorney general's decision in circuit court. Otherwise, the decision says that the county's obligation to the Open Records Act will not be fully discharged until it complies with Moore's request for records.

Judge-Executive Brown said the county has been trying to comply with the Madisonville attorney's request. Brown also said that County Attorney Rebecca Johnson has already replied to the attorney general's office regarding last week's decision.

Johnson was out of the office this week and unavailable for comment. However, Brown said the county's response maintains that it is doing what it can to comply with the Open Records Law.

"My office is working with the county attorney in good faith to produce all of the documents Mr. Moore has requested," Brown said.

The judge said the county is not stonewalling. Some of the records requested are already archived in another part of the courthouse. Some are in the clerk's office, he said. It takes time to retrieve them, Brown said.

Late afternoon sun was partly to blame in a two-car accident on Ky. 120 last Wednesday afternoon. Ginger Phillips was turning into her driveway just before 5 p.m., when she was hit in the side by a vehicle driven by a Providence woman, Jaala McVay. McVay told police the bright sun coming in the back glass of her Jeep Liberty prevented her from seeing Phillips' turn signal. One passenger in the McVay vehicle was transported to Crittenden Hospital for treatment of minor injuries, according to the Crittenden County Sheriff's Department.

stranded motorists and responded to 1,162 calls for service.

State police opened 61 criminal cases and made 132 criminal arrests.

There were six deaths as a result of six fatal crashes in the Post 2 area, which includes Caldwell, Christian, Crittenden, Hopkins, Muhlenberg, Todd and Webster counties. The fatal wrecks were in Christian, Muhlenberg, Hopkins and Todd. One victim was not wearing a seat belt, one victim was wearing a seat belt, two victims were not wearing helmets and two victims were pedestrians. Alcohol was a suspected factor in the fatal crash in Hopkins County.

Through September, 29 people have been killed in 27 crashes in the Post 2 District. That is down slightly from last year when 31 had died during the same period.

State police investigate Sturgis armed robbery

Kentucky State Police are investigating an armed robbery at the Quick Stop convenience store on U.S. 60 in Sturgis. At 9:30 p.m., Saturday a masked man entered the store and demanded the employee turn over cash from the register. The robber was wearing a black ski mask and believed to have been carrying a handgun. The employee complied and was not harmed. The suspect left and fled the area. The robber was a white male, 5-foot-9 to 5-11 with a thin build. He was wearing a dark-colored, hooded sweat-shirt and jeans.

State police also said that in the early morning hours Saturday — several hours prior to the robbery — the same Quick Stop was burglarized. Police are not sure if the two incidents are related. Anyone with information is encouraged to call state police at 1-800-222-5555.

Deputy finds stolen trailer near Mexico

A Crittenden County Deputy located a stolen 14-foot trailer on Mexico Road early Tuesday, Oct. 6. The box-type utility trailer was located off the edge of the roadway near a bridge. Deputy Greg Rushing said a neighbor had reported that the trailer appeared suspiciously over night.

Rushing checked but could not find whether the trailer had been stolen. It had a sign on the side reading Cox Contractors.

Two days later, the trailer was reported stolen in Caldwell County, unbeknownst to local authorities. Rushing said he asked around and finally learned that the trailer might have belonged to a contractor doing work at the Dollar General store in Fredonia.

Acting on that lead, Rushing went to Salem early this week where contractors are building another Dollar General. He learned that Cox Contracting of Tennessee was indeed missing a trailer which had been stolen from Fredonia.

The trailer, valued at about $1,400, was not damaged, but a diesel tank inside of it was drained of about half its fuel, Rushing said.

Anyone with information regarding the theft of the trailer can call the sheriff's department at 965-3400 or Crittenden County TipLine at 965-3000 and remain anonymous.

Anticipated state cuts prompt library to curb spending plan

BY PAMELA STRINGER
PRESS REPORTER

Crittenden County Public Library has made a preemptive 15-percent budget cut in anticipation of a reduction in state funding.

Its annual state grant is expected to be 50 percent of the amount received in previous years, which means the library will possibly only get $7,776. The anticipated grant reduction is due to a drop in state revenue.

"When we revisit the budget in January, if we see we were right to cut the budget, we'll keep on with the budget we currently have. If the (money) is there, we'll play catch up," said Librarian Regina Merrick.

The average annual revenue, mostly received from taxes, over the past three years has been $110,176. From that amount, the budgeting committee is deducting 15 percent for the anticipated revenue decline, which would bring anticipated receipts of $93,650. With the state's grant, the total budget for 2010 will be $101,426.

"More cuts come out of the materials budget if we don't cut services, which is our main goal," Merrick said. Without the cut, the library can purchase 75-100 books on average. If spending is reduced, the new book number will be 50-75.

"You look at what you know will be the most requested items and you look for the very best deal you can find on them," Merrick said. "We're being more selective in book purchases."

The 5,000 registered borrowers in Crittenden County check out more than 35,000 books, audio books, DVDs, videos and periodicals per month.

Replacement items, such as encyclopedias, will be one area the cut will affect, as well as periodicals. Cutting replacement items is a way to bring in more current books, according to Merrick.

"The people who really depend on us to get the most current materials might see a little delay in getting those, but we're fairly confident we'll get those eventually," said the librarian. "In a time of economic distress, libraries get busier because they're free."

USPS unveils holiday stamps

The Postal Service started delivering the 2009 holiday season by issuing its Winter Holidays stamps late last week. It also unveiled the Hanukkah and Kwanzaa stamps at the American Stamp Dealers Association Mega Stamp Show in New York City.

"We hope Americans will use these stamps to spread the joy of the Holidays on cards and letters across the nation this holiday season," said David Failor, U.S. Postal Service executive director of Stamp Services.

The Winter Holidays stamps feature a reindeer, snowman, gingerbread man and toy soldier.

These popular figures are seen throughout the holidays, decorating homes, schools and stores from Thanksgiving to New Year's. They also appear in gift wrap designs and are the subjects of several favorite songs and stories. As stamp art, they will add a festive touch to letters and cards sent to friends and family.

This is the first Postal Service stamp project for artist Joseph Cudd. His company, Brushworks Studio, in Greensboro, N.C., is primarily a gift wrap and print design firm. To create these stamps under the direction of Richard Sheaff of Scottsdale, Ariz., Cudd first sketched the designs by hand and then finished them on the computer using a graphics tablet. More than 1.5 billion 44-cent First-Class stamps are available in booklets of 20 and ATM booklets of 18.

Customers have 60 days to obtain the first-day-of-issue postmark by mail. They may purchase new stamps at their local post office. They should affix the stamps to envelopes of their choice, address the envelopes to themselves or others, and place them in a larger envelope addressed to: Winter Holidays Stamps, Postmaster, 421 Eighth Ave., Rm. 2029B, New York, NY 10199-9998

After applying the first-day-of-issue postmark, the Postal Service will return the envelopes through the mail. There is no charge for the postmark. All orders must be postmarked by Dec. 9, for the Winter Holidays stamps and Dec. 10, for the Hanukkah and Kwanzaa stamps.

Liz Rushing and Matt Paris stand next to their not-yet-finished display for Christmas in Marion. The pair are first-time vendors who will be at Saturday's arts and crafts show at Fohs Hall. The two will be selling carved and painted gourds for between $15 and $50.

four to five hours of painting into them.

"We just have a really good time making them, so we hope people enjoy their presence in their homes," Rushing said.

The pair spent a couple hundred dollars purchasing the first batch of gourds. When they cleaned them out last year, the seeds were in Paris' yard and now they have their own gourd patch. There's even a vine climbing up a tree with gourds strewn like Christmas lights.

Rushing and Paris have no plans to partake in other fairs, but are open to the idea.

"We'll keep doing this even if it doesn't go well on Saturday. But if it does, we'll consider other shows," Rushing said.

Other memorable vendors at Saturday's Christmas in Marion show will include Linda Wooley, who's been there since the inception of the crafts show. Wooley makes small teacher gifts, according to Vince. Jackie Freeman fabricates weather vanes with interchangeable tops and she will be there, too.

About 25 percent of the vendors participating in Christmas in Marion are from Crittenden and Livingston counties. Almost all of the vendors come from within three hours of Marion. Most of the money at the show goes back into the local economy, according to Vince.

Christmas in Marion has been featured in several national publications including American Profile, Kentucky Life, various newspapers and Web sites, as well as Southern Living last year.

About 60 percent of vendors return the following year, according to Vince.

She expects about 1,000 people to come out to the lower and main level of Fohs Hall to check out the offerings this year.

The Homemakers Club used to sponsor the event, but were looking to step down, so the Community Arts Foundation stepped up and took over. This is the second year the Fohs Hall Community Arts Foundation has sponsored the arts and crafts show.

The arts foundation was established in the early 1990s to promote arts within the community. It features several in-house productions, speakers, sponsors Panorama and brings one traveling production to Fohs Hall each year, among other things. It offers a variety of activities for all ages.

Some of the 100 members of the foundation will be volunteering at the show, handing out pamphlets, directing patrons and working at the Crafters' Cafe.

Farm & Home Safety Day

Third graders at Crittenden County Elementary School participated in a Farm & Home Safety Day Sept. 29. Above, Jamie Hunt and Corey Payne talked to the students about tractor safety. At left, Sue Parrent with the UK Extension Service led a station on food safety. Other presenters and topics were: Ann Greenwell, water safety; Joan Lang, sun safety; Laura Wood, first aid; Danny Belt, gun safety; and Chris Clarke, horse safety. County Extension Agents Bonnie Baker, Nancy Hunt and Payne coordinated this event for the 94 third graders.

Livingston builds ambulance stations

Two new Livingston County ambulance stations are nearing completion and are expected to begin operations in early November.

The virtually identical stations are located in Burna and on Highway 453 near the Mitchell Store area.

Livingston County Fiscal Court and the Livingston

County Ambulance Board teamed up in constructing these stations.

"The Fiscal Court has put a lot of energy into this project and we are looking forward to being able to better serve our rural community with strategically located ambulance stations," said Livingston County Judge-

Executive Lasher. "The locations of these stations should significantly reduce our response times when a patient is in need."

The Livingston County Ambulance Service is a state-certified Advanced Life Support (ALS) system providing service to the 10,000 residents of Livingston

The two new stations are virtually identical.

County. It is governed by the Livingston County Ambulance Board and directed by Tracy Rudolph, EMT-P.

Fredonia man hurt in accident

A Fredonia man was injured last Wednesday in a tractor accident near Fredonia.

Tommy Baker, 60, of Fredonia was on his tractor and was hit by a tractor-trailer driven by Mark E. Hamby, 51, of Eddyville.

According to reports, Baker was traveling southbound, carrying a hay roll on his Ford tractor, when the tractor was struck by the tractor-trailer.

The semi had come upon the tractor while rounding a curve, and Hamby was unable to stop the vehicle in time to avoid a collision, Caldwell County Sheriff Stan Hudson told the Princeton newspaper.

Baker, who sustained a back injury, was transported by Caldwell County Ambulance to the Fredonia ball park, where a helicopter ambulance flew him from the scene to Vanderbilt Hospital.

Baker was released the following day and returned home, where he continues to recover from a back injury.

Owner spoils truck theft

STAFF REPORT

Marion Police are investigating the attempted theft of a pickup truck from the Five Star Convenience Center parking lot Sunday night at around 8 p.m.

According to Melburn Conner, owner of the truck, he had left the vehicle unlocked and unattended there for about 45 minutes. When he returned, a white male, about 35 years old, 5-foot-9 and 140 or 150 pounds was in his truck.

When Conner approached the man, the suspect told him that he was looking for jumper cables. Conner didn't buy the story and starting asking more questions. That's when the suspect ran and jumped into a black

Grand Prix and sped away, almost running over Conner. Another man was in the passenger seat of the getaway car. Conner said the vehicle went across Main Street and down the one-lane alley behind the funeral home.

Conner said that upon further inspection of his pickup, he found the ignition switch had been forced out of the steering column and the hood was partially up. He and police theorize that the suspect was going to jump the terminals on the starter solenoid with a screwdriver once the ignition switch was bypassed.

Conner said the men were not familiar to him. He suspects they may have been from out of town.

CHANGES

ber for only the head of household is required.

Income will be verified at registration and must meet the USDA guidelines for participation. Anyone interested in receiving assistance from Community Christmas must sign up on either of the two dates. No late sign-up will be offered.

The main change in the program is individuals wishing to sponsor a child will be able to select the child's angel from trees located at three sites in the community. Pamida will have angels from homes with only one child, Marion City Hall will have angels from homes with two children and the Crittenden County Extension office located at 112 W. Carlisle will have angels from homes with three or more children.

"In the past churches, organizations and families called our sponsor contact to find out information for sponsorship, but this year they only need to go to the tree sites and select their angels," said Extension Agent Nancy Hunt. "Sponsors can start looking for the angel trees to be in place by Nov. 11 which should give people plenty of time to shop before the Dec. 17 deadline for gifts to be at the Carson B. Davidson National Guard Armory."

Angels will include the wish list for the child which will be provided by the parent at registration. The planning committee is requesting sponsors limit the amount of spending to $100 per child. Angels will include information on where and when to return gifts. Sponsors will be asked to fill out a contact information form for each angel. This information will only be used to contact sponsors in case there is a change on the child's information or if the sponsor's items have not arrived on set-up day.

"In the past, we have had some very generous sponsors who were able to spend more than $100 and we are hoping this year that they will sponsor more children and keep the limit to $100," Hunt explained.

According to Manley, "When the program was started it was set up to provide some assistance to families with food and gifts. It wasn't designed to provide all their gifts. We know there are families in our community who can't afford to buy anything for their children so to make it fair we are asking sponsors to share what they normally do with more children by keeping the $100 spending limit.

"We know we can't get every child sponsored so that is why funds raised in the county for Community Christmas are crucial this year," Manley added.

If a child isn't sponsored, the parent will receive a gift voucher to be used at a local business. The amount of the voucher will be determined by the funds raised locally. Funds will also be used to give food vouchers for families with children which can be redeemed at local groceries.

Letters to churches, businesses and organizations asking them to contribute to Community Christmas were mailed last week.

"People who want to contribute to the program can either sponsor one or more children, make a cash donation which can be left at The Peoples Bank or donate new toys," Hunt said.

The program will also accept canned food and paper products and these can be dropped off at Marion Baptist Church.

"This year, we will be informing families at sign-up day where they can go for clothing," said Hunt. "There will not be new or used clothing at the armory on distribution day, but items can be donated directly to local clothes closets."

Another change is that only families with children will come to the armory on distribution day, Dec. 18. All others will go to Marion Baptist Church for the food distribution. This is different from last year.

"When individuals come to sign-up we will explain the new distribution and they will receive an appointment time for Dec. 18," Hunt added.

"A five member committee evaluated Crittenden County's Community Christmas program by checking into what surrounding counties provide for families in need at Christmas. From their recommendations the Inter-Agency Council approved the changes to the program for 2009," Hunt said.

Individuals with questions concerning how they can help with Community Christmas can contact either Manley at the Senior Citizens Center or Nancy Hunt at the County Extension Office. Questions concerning income guidelines can be answered by Kathy Penn in the PACS office.

Marion bioprocessing idea seeks funding

BY JOE WALKER
THE PADUCAH SUN

Bobby and Turner Martin say they have the plans, machinery and market for a plant to convert scrap wood from their sawmill into high-heat fuel pellets.

But so far they haven't been able to get financing for the $3.5 million facility to be built at Turner & Conyer Lumber Co., in Marion.

"Funding is a huge issue," said Bobby Martin, who with his son owns the sawmill. "If someone will give us a shot, we'll build this thing and show people it can be done."

Smaller pellets from sawdust, wood chips and other residue would heat homes and small businesses. Larger pellets of densified fuel could be mixed with power plant coal for similar heat output but with lower emissions.

A new study of biomass business potential in the Mississippi Delta region notes the potential for 20 pellet plants at existing coal-fired generators such as Shawnee Fossil Plant near West Paducah. But funding is a problem for all types of start-up bioprocessing because of risk and uncertainty about consistent revenue, the study concedes.

As more and more biomass projects take hold, lenders will eventually warm up, said Chris Wooldridge, a former banker and assistant director of the Murray State University Small Business Development Center. Meanwhile, government and investor dollars will help fill some of the void, he said.

Loretta Daniel, director of the MSU Regional Business and Innovation Center, said Kentucky wants to join four other states in seeking $20 million federally for demonstration projects.

The Tennessee Valley Authority, which owns Shawnee, is pondering how it might use biomass options, said Scott Brooks, spokesman for the Knoxville, Tenn.-based organization.

"Whether or not TVA would make use of biomass at Shawnee or another site would depend upon the economics of infrastructure, type of fuel and which plant can best benefit from the use of biomass in its fuel supply chain," he said.

The Turners made their case in late September before Gov. Steve Beshear's

Executive Task Force on Biomass and Biofuels Development in Kentucky. Among other things, the 21-member group will recommend legislation to support developing the biomass and biofuels industry.

State Sen. Ken Winters of Murray, a task force member, said he was impressed with the Martins' idea as well as plans for a Fulton County plant to gasify various types of biomass to create electricity.

Dycusburg News

Submitted by Michelle Henderson

Happy birthday to the following: Bobby Mayes Oct. 12, Carol Carroll Oct. 13, and Jeff Winding on Oct. 17.

The Dycusburg Community Group did not do the scheduled clean up on Oct. 9 due to rainy weather. Members did an impromptu clean up on Saturday morning. If interested in volunteering your time or money for cleaning supplies, please call 988-2758 before 5 p.m., or email at Dycusburg@yahoo.com. All donations to the group are tax deductible.

For interesting information on Dycusburg, visit Dycusburg.com.

Brian Coleman, son of Jim and Debbie Richardson, left for Fort Leonardwood, Mo. on Oct. 13. He is joining the Army National Guard. Debbie visited with her daughter, Christina Stempien, in Las Vegas Sept. 2-16. Debbie is still recovering from her surgery earlier this month. The community extends get well wishes to her.

Fall Revival at the Dycusburg Baptist Church will be held Oct. 25-28. All are invited to attend.

The Longshore Lamb Memorial Ceremony was a big success.

Approximately 100 people came to the event. It was reported that people from at least 13 different states attended.

A baby shower was held on Sunday, Oct. 11 at the Calvary Baptist Church for Chase and Jennifer Matthews. Refreshments were served and games were played by several in attendance.

In last week's article, I made an error reporting the time of the singing and supper for Justin O'Bryan's benefit. The chili supper was at 4 p.m. and the singing at 6:30 p.m. I'd like to apologize for any inconvenience this error may have caused.

There was a nice turnout and the family would like to thank everyone for their generosity.

Please mail any donations to help pay medical and travel expenses to Richard and Teresa O'Bryan, P.O. Box 59, Dycusburg, KY 42037. According to family members, Justin has had glaucoma since he was about three months old.

Quote of the week: "Without history, we are the prisoners of the accident of where and when we were born," - Donald Kagan.

Elementary Schoolers dunk principals

The students of Crittenden County Elementary School were rewarded for good attendance on Oct. 2. All students who have had perfect attendance received the opportunity to attempt to dunk Principal Melissa Tabor and Assistant Principal Rhonda Callaway in the dunking booth on the windy Friday. Clockwise from bottom left, the fifth-graders with perfect attendance gather in front of the dunking booth; Callaway holds her breath while waiting to hit the water; a group pushes the button when they failed to hit the target with the softballs.

Homemakers looking for new members

Do you like to learn new things? Do you want to improve your life and the lives of those around you? If so, you are probably a potential member for the Homemaker Association. Today, many of us do not think of ourselves as "homemakers" but if you are responsible for a home, you are a homemaker.

This is Kentucky Extension Homemaker Week, and I thought it would be a good idea to share information about the organization. The group is affiliated with the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Homemaker members are no longer the traditional stay at home mom. Today, more than ever information learned in the Homemaker Association is important. The typical person today is taking care of their home and family and sometimes working outside the home and doesn't have enough hours in the days to get everything done. By being a member it will provide information to help make things easier.

Homemaker members are both men and women, young and old.

In Crittenden County, clubs meet monthly and we have a mail box membership for those who cannot attend club meetings. Mail box membership is commonly referred to as members-at-large and costs $10 and clubs set their own dues. Gift certificate memberships are available.

There are five clubs locally and they meet at different times and different days of the week. At this time only one club meets in the evening. A group of five or more can establish their own club. Some counties have specialized clubs such as quilting, scrapbooking, photography, crafts and couples.

Two members from each club attend monthly leader trainings to learn about the lesson topic and present the information back to their club. Members-at-large received the literature through the mail. All receive a monthly newsletter.

This month, members learned about dishes to prepare using one container. In addition to these being tasty and healthy recipes we learned how to make our own homemade soup which can be used in other recipes along with the proportions to make our own casseroles.

The lessons are prepared and presented at the leader training by University of Kentucky Extension Specialist or County Extension Agents for Family & Consumer Sciences. Each agent is assigned a topic which has been selected by the membership and they prepare and teach this lesson in nine counties.

Nancy Hunt
Home Notes
U.K. Cooperative Extension Agent

All lesson information is research based. Today, many people go to the internet to find information but they should be aware of the source of that information. Sites ending in .edu are educational sites as opposed to .com or .org sites.

Lesson topics coming up include Home Energy Conservation, Scams to Watch For, Knowing Your Health Numbers such as cholesterol, Container Gardening, Our State Parks, and Kitchen Spices.

Members are encouraged to have a healthy lifestyle and learn ways to help achieve this. Protecting the environment is stressed which includes recycling with an emphasis on utilizing the local drop-off facility. They help with community service projects for local food banks, students, shut-in's and the nursing home. Members receive training in leadership and utilize this in other groups.

This will be the 15th year for the Crittenden County Homemaker scholarship awarded to a high school senior. Homemakers fundraise for the scholarship by alternating two annual events for the community. In Spring 2009, a Taster's Luncheon was held and coming up in Spring 2010, is the fashion show.

On Oct. 17 we will be at Christmas in Marion Arts & Crafts Show at Fohs Hall selling our new Homemaker cookbook along with homemade bread, candy and cookies.

As homemaker members, we are always serving, leading, and helping those in our community. We strive to improve the lives of Kentuckians. For further information call the Crittenden County Extension Office at 965-5236 or stop by the office at 112 W. Carlisle Street.

Salem Jamboree marked a success

Submitted by Janet Hughes

With the hint of autumn in the air, Salem's Fall Jamboree was the perfect way to start the season. The Salem Garden Club decorated the entrance with cornstalks, hay and pumpkins then directed people past many vendors ending at the petting zoo sponsored by Salem Food Market. The inflatables sponsored by Farmers Bank. Curt Buntin provided the stage and Miracle Word Church provided the sound equipment, which filled the day with music. Many came to hear the bluegrass segment featuring The Sellers Family from Ashland City, Tenn., and The Possum Wranglers of Marion. The Hamptons and One Way closed out the night with gospel music. Because all the singers donated their time, we were able to provide this concert free of charge and it is appreciated. With a wide variety of vendors you could spend the day shopping for anything and eating everything you wanted. Decorated gourds by Pam Buijk appeared to be a hit, and Jason Berry ran out of his famous ribs. Many organizations held raffles and Connie Berry of Salem won the $100 given by the Garden Club. We appreciate the support of local businesses, churches and community as we continue to sponsor these events. Plans are underway for our Christmas Home Tour, Dec. 6. If you are interested in being involved in any of our events, please contact Janet Hughes, 988-3835. Our mission is to encourage civic pride. By planting the first seed we can watch our community grow. We pledge to be the leader in civic beautification, continue the education of gardening and preserve the history of our community. New members are always welcome and you do not have to live in Salem. Many members live in Crittenden County and we have memberships for couples and businesses.

4-Hers bring home prizes from state fair

Submitted by Bonnie Baker

For most people, when they think of the Kentucky State Fair they think of funnel cakes and carnival rides, but not our Crittenden County 4-Hers. They think of blue and purple ribbons. Each year our local 4-H members enter their exhibits in the county fair for an opportunity for their exhibits to go to the state fair. Only the top exhibits from each county are allowed to go to the state fair. At the state fair, competition is very difficult and earning a blue ribbon is even harder. Despite this difficulty, several Crittenden County 4-H members not only won blue ribbons but also championships. Pate Robinson won class champion for goat showmanship in the novice division. In the junior division, Danielle Byarley won a blue ribbon for tomatoes, a red ribbon for cucumbers, a blue ribbon and class champion for alfalfa hay, a red ribbon for apple cake, a blue ribbon and second-place in speech for country ham and two eighth places for market goats; Jessi Brewer won a blue ribbon and a third-place in speech for country ham and seventh and eighth places for market goats; Maggie Collins won a white ribbon for mixed hay and wreath, a blue ribbon for jewelry, photography and colossal cookies, a blue ribbon and champion in horticulture photography and a blue ribbon, fourth-place in speech, third-place ham and overall age division winner for country ham; Emily Hendrix won a blue ribbon and class champion for bicycle rodeo, photography and geology, a red ribbon for painting, sewing, home environment, photography and leadership project; Ashton Hill won a white ribbon for house plants and a red ribbon for brownies; Micah Hol-lamon won a blue ribbon, class champion and department reserve champion for geology; Marcus Hughes won a blue ribbon, class champion and department champion for geology; Billie Moore won sixth place in skill-a-thon; Anna Schnittker won a blue ribbon for dish garden, a white ribbon for wood science and salsa, a red ribbon for arts and crafts, a blue ribbon and class champion for geology and two blue, one red and two white ribbons for photography; Leah Scott won a red ribbon for horticulture and a blue ribbon for photography; Cole Foster, Ruth Gobin and Elizabeth Tosh were also in attendance for the junior division. In the senior division, Chad Bell won a blue ribbon for peppers and beans, a blue ribbon and people's choice award for photography, a blue ribbon, fourth-place in speech and fifth place ham for country ham, seventh, tenth and eleventh places for market goats and ninth place for goat showmanship; Kari Buntin won fourth, seventh, twelfth and thirteenth places for market goats and sixth place for goat showmanship; Kayla Buntin won third, fourth, tenth and fourteenth places for market goats; Rachael Jennings won eighth and eleventh places for market goats and seventh place for goat showmanship; and Matt Papineau won seventh place for market goats and tenth place for goat showmanship. In the goat show classes there were more than 20 goats. In addition to the regular classes our Crittenden County 4-H members also participated in the mannequin modeling and state variety show. Emily Hendrix displayed her dress by modeling it while standing as a mannequin for two 15 minute periods. Some people watching her wondered if she was even real! Hannah and Lauren Berry and Macie Young showed off their talent during the state fair 4-H variety show. They earned the right to participate by being co-winners at the area 4-H variety show. The Crittenden County 4-H council is hosting a fall aluminum can drive. It will be held from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. on Oct. 24 at the Lions Club building at the fairgrounds. Anyone that would like to donate cans may drop them off during that time. Please let us know which 4-H club you would like to donate the cans to or you can make a general donation to the 4-H council. For more information please call the Extension Office at 965-5236.

Cook of the Month returns

It's back. We're bringing back Cook of the Month. Beginning next week, The Crittenden Press will resume an old favorite among our readership with Cook of the Month. For several years, local women - and a few men - were recognized by their friends and co-workers for their tasty treats and interesting creations. Many shared new twists to old favorites, while others gave away secret ingredients for one-of-a-kind concoctions. To nominate someone for Cook of the Month, email allison@the-press.com or call 965-3191. Please provide a phone number of the person you are nominating. The person selected for Cook of the Month will be interviewed and will be asked to share two or three recipes.

Be still, quiet and know God

Jesus said to his disciples, "come with me by yourselves to a quiet place and get some rest" Mark 6:31.

The demands of the crowds were endless, the task of meeting their needs left no time for themselves. Jesus knew that we all need time to rest if we are going to be able to continue with the work he has called us to do.

Today so many things vie for our attention. It is difficult for God to get us alone to a place of quiet rest. Everyone is busy, constantly on the go.

Our world revolves around sports, entertainment, work and many other voices that cry out for action on our part.

Augustine said, "our hearts are restless until we rest in God."

On Sundays, my mother would rise early, prepare breakfast for the family and then prepare the noon meal. She insisted that we go to church early. When we protested, her comment was, "it is the only time in the week that I am able to rest." She needed that time to prepare her heart for worship.

On another occasion Jesus said, "come unto me, all who are weak and heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

The Psalmist wrote, "find rest o my soul, my hope comes from Him. He alone is my rock and my salvation; he is my fortune, I will not be shaken."

So, for us to be able to cope in this chaotic world, we need to closet ourselves with God, spend time meditating on His word and communing with Him in prayer. The hymn writer knew this secret when he wrote, "oh how praying rest the weary, prayer will change the night to day, so when things seem dark and dreary, don't forget to pray."

4th annual youth rally held Nov. 4 at Calvary Baptist

Submitted by TaJuana Davis

Living Hope Pregnancy and Family Care Center, Inc. will be hosting its 4th Annual Youth Rally, at 6 p.m., on Nov. 4 at Calvary Baptist Church in Princeton.

Speaker and Christian Comedian Keith Deltano, who speaks to teens and young adults across the United States in schools and churches, will bring a strong message to teens and parents about the positive effects of abstinence and the severe consequences when not choosing this path. Other topics which Deltano covers when speaking in schools are anti-bullying, and the growing number of teens turning to drugs for acceptance.

Deltano believes that in order to be an effective influence in steering our younger generation away from negative, life-altering choices and instead into making healthy, life-altering choices, that parents must be reached first. During the time spent talking with parents, Deltano teaches and demonstrates ways for parents to join teams with their child while addressing positive, effective ideas that are valuable for getting involved in the change process in which the media and other sources have so strongly influenced our children into accepting as the norm.

Deltano emphasizes the need for parents to attend with their adolescent, teen or young adult.

A meal and music will be provided, and everyone is invited to attend free of charge. Adequate supervision will be provided, groups or individuals are welcome.

Donations are appreciated to help defray the cost of this event.

Please contact Anna Ray at 365-7935, Margie Yandell at 545-3429 or TaJuana Davis 625-5926 for more information and to register.

Marion volunteer firefighter John Robertson took a fire truck to Tiny Tot Day Care last week. Robertson allowed children to see the fire truck up close and discussed with them some rules of fire safety. Day Care students spent all week learning about community works. Pictured with Robertson are (from left) Leauna West, Kailyn Stokes, Collin Epley, Kendyl Drury, Riley Curnel, Carly Towery, Jessie Luttrell, (Lakota Curnel behind her) and Turner Sharp.

Most fire deaths occur in absence of alarm

Residential fires caused by electrical defects account for a significant number of total blazes each year. According to the U.S. Fire Administration, last year home electrical problems accounted for 67,800 fires, 485 deaths, 2305 injuries and $868 million in property losses. Many of these fires are preventable.

Safe Electricity urges consumers to be aware of electrical hazards, take time this month and make it a regular habit to inspect all appliances, cords and plugs.

"Check for loose wall receptacles, loose wires or loose lighting fixtures," says Mike Ashenfelter, building safety inspector and member of the Safe Electricity Advisory Board. "Listen for popping or sizzling sounds behind walls. Immediately shut off, then professionally replace light switches that are hot to the touch and lights that spark and flicker."

Electrical plugs and cords usually deteriorate gradually, making damage difficult to detect. Inspect all appliance cords and plugs for wear at least once a year. Make sure they are not frayed or cracked, placed under carpets or rugs or located in high traffic areas. Do not nail or staple them to walls, floors or other objects.

"Overloaded electrical systems can be a dangerous prelude to fire," warns Ashenfelter. "Dimming lights when an appliance goes on, a shrinking TV picture, slow-heating appliances, fuses blowing or circuits tripping frequently are signals of overloaded circuits."

Overloaded electrical outlets or circuits that supply power to several outlets are a major cause of residential fires. Overloaded outlets and circuits carry too much electricity, which generates heat in undetectable amounts. The heat causes wear on the internal wiring system and can ignite a fire.

To prevent overloading, Safe Electricity recommends the following:

•Avoid using extension cords on a permanent basis and never plug more than two home appliances into an outlet at once.

•Use only outlets designed to handle multiple plugs. Each outlet or circuit should not exceed 1,500 watts, so give special consideration to appliances that use 1,000 or more such as refrigerators, hot plates, irons, microwave ovens, dishwashers, heaters and air conditioners.

•Avoid plugging large appliances into the same outlet or circuit. If a circuit breaker trips or a fuse blows frequently, immediately cut down on the number of appliances on that line.

When looking over electrical wiring and fixtures, look at light bulbs as well. Check the wattage to make sure light bulbs match the fixture requirements. Replace bulbs that have higher wattage ratings than recommended. Make sure they are fastened securely so they don't overheat.

Yarbrough selected to serve on state superintendent board

Crittenden County School Superintendent Dr. Rachel Yarbrough has been selected as a new member of the Kentucky Association of School Administrators (KASA) Board of Directors.

Dr. Yarbrough will represent western Kentucky superintendents from the following school districts: Ballard County, Caldwell County, Calloway County, Carlisle County, Christian County, Crittenden County, Fort Campbell, Fulton County, Fulton Independent, Graves County, Hickman County, Livingston County, Lyon County, Marshall County, Mayfield Independent, McCracken County, Murray Independent, Paducah Independent and Trigg County.

Yarbrough

The superintendent said her service will be another great opportunity for Crittenden County to be represented on an influential state board. Her term begins immediately and expires July 31, 2012. Dr. Yarbrough's first meeting will be Nov. 12-13 at Louisville. KASA pays all of her expenses.

Dr. Yarbrough has been serving as superintendent of Crittenden schools since the summer of 2008. She holds a doctorate of education from Oakland City University in Indiana and formerly taught and was an administrator in the Webster County School District.

Durfey promoted to sergeant in Army

Marion native Ronald R. Durfey was recently promoted to E-5 sergeant in the U.S. Army. Sgt. Durfey is now stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., at this time with an engineer company.

Collins appears in MSU "Sisters" play

Marion native Matthew Collins played a major role in last weekend's production of "The Three Sisters" by Murray State University's Department of Theater. Collins is a graduate of MSU.

Collins portrayed Lt. Gen. Vershinin in the play. He told the Murray State News that although he was an actor, his character and the play taught him a few things about life off the stage.

"I've learned that it can always get better before it can get worse," Collins told the collegiate newspaper. "Never sweat the small stuff. Take what happens and try to make the best out of it."

Local runners finish well at half-marathon

Crittenden County runners Bob Yehling and Stuart Collins both had good runs Sunday in the Evansville Half-Marathon.

Competing in ideal long-race conditions, Yehling covered the 13.1-mile layout in 1:37:02, while Collins finished in 1:48:33. It was Yehling's first race since the Boston Marathon in April, due to a lingering foot problem. He finished seventh in the 50-54 division, and 138th out of 2,185 finishers overall.

Collins also placed well in his age group, taking 32nd out of 110 in the 45-49 division.

Yehling will resume full training for the 2010 USA Masters Half-Marathon Championship, to which he has been invited. The race is Feb. 7, 2010 at Melbourne, Fla.

Thrifty selected as October's Chamber business of the month

Thrifty Home Medical Supply has been selected as the Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce Business of the Month for October. The chamber selects a business each month for recognition.

Thrifty opened in its current location on South Main Street in March 2005. It is one of five Thrifty locations, including others in Madisonville, Providence, Flora, Ill., and Olney, Ill.

Owners Tom and Paula Glover spend most of their time at the Providence location.

The business provides durable medical equipment, which consists of wheelchairs, oxygen, scooters and other aids to daily living, according to Diane Lowe, branch manager.

Its second largest revenue is uniform sales. Thrifty is an authorized dealer of Cherokee brand scrubs which are widely worn in the health care sector.

When a patient is discharged from the hospital, Thrifty takes the referrals and gets the patient what he or she needs – anything from oxygen tanks to hospital beds.

Thrifty gives to the community by participating in Relay for Life as a survivor sponsor. It also supports the Crittenden County Coalition for a Drug-Free Community, Crittenden County Economic Development Corporation and the chamber.

Coyote	Year round

Muzzleloader season

The annual muzzleloader deer season is this weekend. Black-powder gunners will be operating under normal statewide guidelines for harvesting deer, including the one-buck limit.

Youth hunt results

Young deer hunters harvested 50 deer last weekend in Crittenden County. So far this season, archers and youth hunters have taken a total of 152 deer, including 39 bucks with visible antlers. There have been eight button bucks taken and 105 does. Livingston youth hunters took 29 deer. The season total for Livingston County is 72 deer, including 27 bucks.

RUNNING

Union cross country event

The second annual Union County High School Arrowhead Invitational will feature something new this year – an open cross-country race before the elementary, middle school and high school events. The Crittenden County Elementary School team is the defending elementary champion in the invitational. Crittenden County runners of all ages are invited to compete in the 5K (3.1-mile) race, which starts at 8 a.m., Saturday at Union County Middle School. It will be a rare opportunity to run cross-country, which combines varied terrain, hills and turns. Registration will be on-site only, beginning at 7 a.m. The school events will immediately follow the conclusion of the open race. The registration fee is $10. Prizes will be awarded to the top five men and women overall. For more information, call Jim Peak at 389-3232 or Bob Yehling at 917-826-7880.

TRAIL RIDING

Event is rescheduled

The Waverly KofC Trail Ride was rained out last weekend. It is rescheduled for 11 a.m., Sunday. Riders should meet at Collins Farm across from St. Peters Cemetery in Waverly.

New skipper readying for pre-season practice

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER

With pre-season basketball practice set to begin Monday, new Rocket boys' basketball coach Chad Hayes has been pleased in the commitment of his players during off-season conditioning drills.

The first-year coach said that almost a dozen players have been participating in off-season conditioning, which has consisted of running and playing pickup games.

"I'm happy with what I've seen so far. It seems like they are all very coachable," said Hayes.

With five seniors gone from last year's squad that finished 9-12, the new skipper said every returning player is on equal ground when it comes to competing for starting positions.

"I just don't give stuff away, but it's earned," he said.

Defensively, Hayes said he prefers man-to-man halfcourt as his bread and butter defense.

"You've got to be able to stop people in the halfcourt," he said.

Meanwhile, the new Crittenden coach said he does not like applying full-court pressure and will not employ it very often.

Offensively, Hayes said he will use a continuous alignment, running between 15 and 20 set plays out of that look.

Along with the return of Blair and Bryce Winders to the coaching staff, Hayes has added David Perryman and Ben Thompson for the upcoming season.

Hayes is very excited about having 30 middle school players out for the team and praised the efforts of Bryce Winders at that level.

Homecoming game postponed

Fulton County's forfeit sends annual festivities to playoffs

The Rockets' Homecoming football game scheduled for last Friday night was cancelled. Crittenden's scheduled opponent, Fulton County forfeited after school officials decided not to play the game for disciplinary reasons.

Fulton County Superintendent Charles Holliday said he suspended Pilots' coach James Bridges early last week at the recommendation of the principal of the school. Holliday told The Paducah Sun he couldn't discuss personnel issues when asked why Bridges was suspended.

A fight broke out Oct. 2 with four minutes remaining in Fulton County's home game with Calloway County. Several players were ejected and would have been suspended from playing in the Crittenden game.

Homecoming festivities are tentatively re-scheduled for the first round of the playoffs on Nov. 6. In all likelihood Crittenden will host a first-round game in the playoffs. If not, it is unclear what alternate plans will be made to accommodate homecoming activities.

By virtue of its 1-0 win from Fulton's forfeit, Crittenden moved a step closer to earning home advantage for the first round of the playoffs. Crittenden is now 7-0 overall and 2-0 in the Class A First District. If it wins this Friday, the Rockets will certainly have homefield advantage for the playoffs. If Crittenden loses, there is a scenario where it could finish third.

Rockets fall in final regular-season games

Local Junior Pro football teams dropped a doubleheader Saturday at Rocket Stadium. Crittenden's fifth- and sixth-grade squad lost 26-0 to Caldwell County Vegas Gold. The third and fourth graders were also defeated.

The teams open post-season play on Oct. 31 at Sturgis.

Here are individual statistics from

Crittenden's fifth- and sixth-grade game:

Rushing: Ethan Hunt 13-7, Dylan Hollis 10-7, Matt Hassett 10-26, Will Tolley 2-12, Mason Haire 2-3, Alex Cosby 1-3, Nick Castiller 1-1.

Passing: Hassett 2-4, 19 yds.

Receiving: Hollis 1-9, Hunt 1-10.

Defense: Haire 7 tackles; Jessie Belt 6

tackles, fumble recovery; Dakota Koerner 5 tackles, caused fumble; Maeson Myers 4 tackles; Hollis 4 tackles; Hassett 3 tackles, fumble recovery; Paxton Riley 3 tackles; Seth Birdwell 2 tackles; Logan Shuecraft 2 tackles; Travis McKinney 2 tackles; Jacob Greenwell 1 tackle; Tyler Smith 1 tackle; Bobby Glen Stephens 1 tackle; Jayden Willis 1 tackle; Austin Sitar 1 tackle; Shelby Robinson 1 tackle; Austin Janus 1 tackle; Benny Tucker 1 tackle; Travis Fitzgerald 1 tackle; Cosby 1 tackle.

Golf Awards

Awards presented were as follows:

Alec Pierce: Senior Award, 3-year Letterman, Team Captain, Class A State Participant 2007 and Class A Regional Participant 2008 and 2009.

Hannah Brantley: Senior Award, 2-year Letterman, Class A State Participant 2008 (Top 20), Class A Region 2 Girls Medalist 2008 and Class A Regional Participant 2009.

Joey Pluskota: Senior Award, First-Year Letterman, Class A Regional Participant 2009.

Jordan Croft: Senior Award, First-Year Letterman and Class A Regional Participant 2009.

This week's game

ROCKETS VS BULLDOGS

Kickoff
7:30 p.m.
FRIDAY
at Fulton

CRITTENDEN CO. (7-0)

Injury Report: No injuries to report.

Offense: Multiple

Defense: 50

Rankings: Bluegrass Preps: 4th in Class A; Associated Press: 3rd in Class A.

FULTON CITY (1-6)

Class A District 1

Offense: I-Formation, Spread

Defense: 4-man front

The series: Ironically, Fulton leads this series 20-17 since it started in 1957. Most of the Bulldogs' wins, however, were in the early seasons of the matchup. Over the past dozen years, Crittenden has dominated it, winning 11 games. Coach Starnes is 11-2 all-time against Fulton. The Bulldogs won two years ago at Fulton on a last-minute scoring drive. The average score over the past 12 years has been Crittenden 36, Fulton 13.

Game Notes: Fulton is 0-2 in Class A First District action this season, but can still earn a berth in the playoffs by beating either Crittenden or cross-county rival Fulton County. That game is scheduled for next week. The Bulldogs could conceivably still finish second in the league and garner homefield advantage for the playoffs if Fulton County beats Ballard Memorial this week and Fulton City wins this Friday and next. Otherwise, it appears that Crittenden has a lock on at least second place in the district by virtue of all other scenarios and tie-breaking systems. Crittenden could guarantee itself homefield advantage with a win Friday over Fulton.

Scouting Report: The Bulldogs have been thrashed by several teams this season, but they still have one of the most dynamic players in the district. Senior Jacquise Lockett has rushed for 1,066 yards in 7 games. He has also caught 8 passes for 115 yards. Other than Lockett, the Bulldogs have been barely productive on offense. Junior RB Rondell Bransford has gained 237 yards on the ground and is the only player outside of Lockett with more than 100 yards in offense. Fulton has allowed 384 points, an amazing 55 per game while scoring an average of 16. Fulton has allowed 1,838 yards rushing, a 262-yard average, and 984 passing, a 141-yard average. Meanwhile, the Bulldogs have averaged gaining 194 on the ground and are getting about 30 in the air.

Bulldogs' 2009 Scoresheet

Lost 70-19 at Lake County, Tenn.

Lost 50-0 at home to Gleason, Tenn.

Lost 82-6 at home to Murray

Lost 55-26 at South Fulton, Tenn.

Won 42-14 at Todd County Central

Lost 64-22 at Ballard Memorial

Lost 49-0 at Mayfield

Traveling Rockets

Maeson Myers and Ethan Hunt (pictured above) are members of the Hopkins County Rebels 10-under traveling football team. They also participate on the Crittenden County Junior Pro team. Myers plays on the offensive line and defensive end while Hunt is a running back and linebacker. The team opened its season last week with a win over Muhlenberg County. They will play Christian County today (Thursday) and Crittenden County Saturday at Marion. Hunt and Myers will play with Crittenden for that game. The traveling team will go to Somerset and Owensboro for games in November before playing in the state championship series Nov. 21-22 at Owensboro.

CCMS closes season with loss to Caldwell

Crittenden Middle School dropped its final game of the season last week 24-0 at home against Caldwell County.

Here are Crittenden County's individual statistics:

Rushing: Phillips 11-(-2), Gilbert 1-(-5), Tinsley 3-11, Owen 6-32, Stone 3-2.

Passing: Gilbert 2-8-1, 1 yd.

Receiving: Owen 1-1, Phillips 1-0.

Defense: Phillips 12 solos, 2 assists; Owen 3 solos, assist; Caraway solo, assist; Stone 2 solos, assist; Wallace 3 solos, assist; Easley 2 solos; Tinsley 2 solos, assist.

Rocket Role Models

Several Crittenden County High School students are volunteering their time to be mentors to younger students at Crittenden Elementary. Once a month high schoolers go to CCES as part of the Rocket Role Model Program. Project coordinator Vince Clark said the program is an extension of the adult mentoring system made up community leaders. In the student mentoring program, high schoolers go to CCES to perform character education activities for grades 3-5. September's Rocket Role Models included the FFA and CCHS volleyball team. The activity theme was "Respect." This month, the football and golf teams are acting as mentors at the elementary school. Pictured above are (from left) CCES students Michaela West and Evan Stone with mentor Rachel Jennings; FFA members Chad Taylor and Taylor Davis visiting with students; and Kayla McDonald and Stacie Hearrell leading an activity at the white board.

Williams twin remains critical at Kosair Hospital

STAFF REPORT Friends, family and colleagues are rallying with prayers and support for Marion couple Mark and Crissy Williams. The Williams' one-year-old twin daughter Bradyn remains in ICU at Kosair Children's Hospital in Louisville following surgery Sept. 30 to repair a heart defect. Mark, a property manager, and Crissy, a longtime employee of The Peoples Bank, knew when Bradyn was born that she would need surgery, but not until she turned one. As they wrote on their Web site hosted by Caring-Bridge.com, the surgery went well, but Bradyn went into cardiac arrest later that night. Loss of blood and oxygen to the brain caused brain damage, the family was told. "Every doctor and every machine in the world can tell us what they want, but Mark and I will not give up our hope that Bradyn will come out of this," Crissy wrote. "She may not be the same girl we brought into the hospital on September 29, but no matter what, she is still our sweet little baby girl who loves graham crackers, her glow worm, and had just learned to walk." Bradyn remains in a coma. Bradyn's twin sister is Bella, and she has a five-year-old sister Emma. They are staying with relatives in Marion while the Williams are in Louisville. An account has been established at The Peoples Bank for people who would like to contribute funds to be used by the Williamses while in Louisville. Cards may be sent to: Kosair's Children Hospital, 231 E. Chestnut St., Louisville, KY 40202, Room 401 - Williams, Bradyn.

WiFi delays

Free wireless Internet service provided by the City of Marion hit some last-minute snags last week just before it was to go online. The service should be available in a few days, officials said.

Fifth graders at Crittenden Elementary know a little more about operating their own business after Entrepreneur Day last week. Students laid out their business plans, conducted market surveys, projected their profits and calculated the success of their sales - all to benefit St. Jude's Children's Hospital. Some of the products created by the teams of two were quite impressive to teacher Cindy Crabtree, who developed the idea. Among the items sold to third- and fourth-graders throughout the afternoon were lemonade, cookies, brownies, necklaces, colorful door hangers, flip flops, face painting and wallets. Pictured are (top) Cassidy Moss giving a customer some temporary red hair; (directly above) Sam Frazer and Gage Moore high-fiving after a sale; and (at left) Maeson Myers putting the final touch on a Rocket Rock.
