Fifth-graders tour downtown Friday

A fifth-grader tour of downtown which was rained out a couple of weeks ago is rescheduled for this week. Almost 100 students will be shepherded through town Friday morning by four historic interpreters. The tour will feature 16 historic buildings. It will end at Fohs Hall. Marion Main Street, Inc., Crittenden County Schools and local volunteers have partnered to present this heritage lesson to Crittenden Elementary students.

Food bank distribution

Crittenden County Food Bank will be distributing free food from 10 a.m., until noon Wednesday, Oct. 28 at the Senior Citizens Center.

No burning before 6

Kentucky Forestry Department reminds residents that it is illegal to burn within 150 feet of any woodland or brushland between 6 a.m., and 6 p.m. The burn prohibition continues through Dec. 15. The ban is issued twice a year – spring and fall – when conditions make outdoor burning a potential hazard.

Pay city tax bills by Oct. 30 to avoid 25 percent penalty

City tax bills are due Nov. 1. Because this falls on a Sunday, all bills need to be paid by Oct. 30 to avoid a penalty. Tax bills paid Nov. 2 will be considered delinquent and have a 25% penalty attached.

Investigators probe details of Tuesday morning fire

STAFF REPORT
State and local investigators spent much of Tuesday sifting through the remains and gathering details of a fire and apparent suicide on U.S. 60 East near Mattoon.

A 911 call from a passing motorist alerted firemen to the blaze just before 8:30 a.m., Tuesday. The Mattoon Volunteer Fire Department and Crittenden County Volunteer Fire Department were dispatched to the scene.

The house was fully engulfed in flames when firemen arrived and the small frame, farmhouse was a total loss.

Sheriff Wayne Agent said that the motorist who initially phoned for help told investigators that a man ran from the Melissa Guill, pictured here thumbing through her well-organized coupon binder, has become an astute coupon collector. She and a small group of other thrifty savers will be hosting a class next Thursday at the senior center on using coupons to save money.

DOLLARS OFF

Coupon craze takes off with savings tips class

STAFF REPORT
In the highly sophisticated and competitive coupon collecting business, getting something for nothing – or nearly nothing – is the name of the game.

No one is better at it than Marion's Melissa Guill. She and some family and friends have turned saving money into a science, and they are going to share their strategies and ideas with the public from 6-8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 29 at the Crittenden County Senior Citizens Center.

Some people save a few cents, or maybe a few dollars, by using manufacturers' coupons at the department store or grocery. Guill saves hundreds, and that's on only one trip.

She recently carried more than $700 in items to the checkout counter at K-Mart and walked out of the store after paying only $160. She remembers another recent trip to Conrad's Food Store in Marion when she put $72 worth of items into a shopping cart and paid only $19.02.

"Sometimes the girls at the checkout just look at me with their mouths open," Guill said. "They can't believe it."

There's more to saving money than just clipping coupons out of the newspaper or magazines. There are dozens of Web sites that promote the coupon craze. Afulcup.com and Coupons.com are a couple of the sites Guill recommends.

"Conrad's, Food Giant and Dollar General all accept coupons printed off the Internet," Guill said. "Sometimes you find coupons for free items. If the manufacturers didn't want you to use them, they would quit offering them."

While there are opportunities to save cash using food coupons, Guill says the real savings are in home and personal products such as detergent, shampoo and even pet food.

"You can save a lot of money on those type items which

Hatfield lifetime achiever

STAFF REPORT
After devoting countless hours for more than half of his life to volunteer community service, Jim Hatfield has earned his place in Crittenden County Lions Club history.

Hatfield, 66, was honored last week with the Lions Club's prestigious Lifetime Achievement Award. No more than 800 are presented each year throughout the Lions Club International program worldwide.

It is the first time anyone from the Crittenden County organization has received the international award. It was presented to Hatfield by Nole Hardwich, past district governor.

Hatfield, who helped resurrect the county fair under the Lions Club flag in 1973 and served for 33 years as fair chairman, was given the local club's Lifetime Achievement Award last year. In August, the club's exhibition center at the fairgrounds was rededicated and named in his honor.

Jim Hatfield was presented with a lifetime achievement award from the Lions Club last Monday for outstanding service to the community. Nole Hardwich, past district governor of the Lions Club, presented the award.

Health care workers first to get vaccine

STAFF REPORT
Local health care workers and pregnant women can be first in line to receive a free H1N1 flu vaccine at Crittenden Health Department. Inoculations are available now on a first-come, first-served basis.

While it is best to call the health department at 965-5215 ahead of time to make sure a nurse is on duty to administer the vaccine. Appointments are not necessary.

Pennyrile District Health Department, which services Caldwell, Crittenden, Livingston, Lyon and Trigg counties received a limited supply of the H1N1 vaccine late last week.

"Currently we are targeting health care workers for the nasal spray that are 49 and under and healthy," said Allison Beshear, public information officer for the area health district. "As more vaccine is available it will be offered to others."

Crittenden received 100 doses of the vaccine. At the local health department, Alfreda Wheeler says the limited supply will not last long.

Do you know who the safe school czar is?

How many of you know the following facts which the biased media will not report?

We have President Obama demanding our children have longer school days all year, even go to school on weekends for their safety. This, as if moms and dads can't keep them safe. Plus, it's like saying church on Sundays is not important.

On top of this President Obama has appointed Kevin Jennings, a highly-influential homosexual promoter, as the United State's Safe Schools Czar.

How can this be, when he is the cofounder and executive director of the Gay, Lesbian and Straight Education Network (GLSEN)? In keeping with that organization's mission, he concentrated his energies on developing and advocating classroom curricula for public schools that would re-educate school-children to embrace homosexuality.

As a key part of their strategy to advance this agenda and change the culture, GLSEN leaders say they specifically target children as young as kindergarten in order to begin a saturation process that forms the imagination with positive impressions of the homosexual lifestyle, and so pre-cognitively influences the way a child perceives the world and makes judgments on right and wrong.

Rev. Lucy Tedrick

In a 1995 speech, Jennings admitted that the rhetoric about safety was a political device, saying that it threw opponents on the defensive, and stole their best line of attack. This framing short-circuits arguments and leaves them backpeddling, he said, according to the Human Events article by Tony Perkins.

In Jennings's book, "Always My Child," he calls for a diversity policy including lesbian, gay, bi-sexual and transgender themes in the curriculum. He also stated in that book "Ex-gay messages have no place in our nation's public schools. A line has been drawn. There is no 'other side' when you are talking about lesbian, gay and bisexual students."

He wrote the forward for a book titled "Queering Elementary Education: Advancing the Dialogue about Sexualities and Schooling," which includes essays by radical gay rights activists who believe adults and children must be taught to think queerly, according to an article by Linda Harvey in World Net Daily on Oct. 13, 2008.

In one of those essays, written by a lesbian mother, the author boasts of teaching her seven-year-old daughter to do ugly things to herself and declares that queerly raised children are agents using strategies of adaptation, negotiation, resistance and subversion.

On March 25, 2000, GLSEN, where Jennings was the executive director, hosted a "Teach Out" for teachers and teenagers at Tufts University. Scott Whiteman, a pro-family activist, attended the conference and recorded several of the workshops. One workshop was titled What They Didn't Tell You About Queer Sex and Sexuality In Health Class. In this workshop, two lesbians and a male homosexual taught children a very dangerous and horrible sex act (can't include it here) to do to one another.

In his book, "One Teacher In 10: Gay and Lesbian Teachers Tell Their Stories," Jennings wrote that while he was a teacher in Concord, Mass., a 15-year-old boy came to him with the confession that he was having sexual affairs with an older man whom he met in a bus restroom.

Jennings said, "I listened, sympathized, offered advice that, 'I hope you used a condom.' He left my office smiling and every time I see him in the hall he is smiling." Jennings never reported this to the authorities, disobeying the state law to report sexual abuse of minors.

In his memoir, "Mama's Boy, Preachers Son," he speaks of his using marijuana in high school and college.

He also states in that book, "Before, I was the one who was failing God; now I decided He was the one who had failed me. I decided I had done nothing wrong; He had, by promising to 'set you free' and never delivered on His promise. What had He done for me, other than make me feel shame and guilt? Squat. Screw you, buddy. I don't need you anymore, I decided."

In one of his speeches to fellow activists in 2002 he said that conservative-minded Christians were "hard-core bigots" who should "drop dead."

Now, just how safe can our children be in government schools, especially if they're required to be there more often? Yes, President Obama knew all about Kevin Jennings. He has assured us in his campaigning that we could judge him by the company he keeps. He has Jennings as one of his personal advisors.

It is so heart-breaking to see how we are surrounded and inundated with filth and filthy-minded people whom the Bible promises will bring God's wrathful judgment down on all of us. May God please have mercy on our vulnerable children.

Schools connecting with community on various fronts

Crittenden County schools have partnered with the City of Marion Tourism, the local historic society and local artists to create a new and unique civic experience for fifth grade students that they will not soon forget. We have developed, "Downtown Marion: Experience the History."

This experience will allow all Crittenden County Elementary fifth-grade students to participate in a walking tour of approximately 20 historic sites in the downtown Marion area. Tour guides will be available to each student group who will discuss the history of each building, original pictures and stories of interests. The walking tour will end at Fohs Hall and each student will receive a coloring book of each site, city maps, crayons and other local favors.

Dr. Rachel Yarbrough

What an exciting collaboration between so many concerned community members and the school district to create a rich historic experience right here in Marion for local students! As you are aware, civic awareness is one of the essentials for the 2020 Vision of the Crittenden County School District. Our tour will take place Friday. Thanks to all who have made this a one of a kind experience for students.

Learning Lunch Initiative

In addition to this downtown Marion project, this semester the Crittenden County leadership team has invited community leaders together for a couple of "Learning Lunches." These are sessions sponsored by the school district to exchange ideas and information between the schools and various business and community leaders. Lunch is provided at each session and we discuss the status of the school district, assessment information, projects, plans and partnerships. These types of forums allow for open communication and strengthen the community and school relationship for positive growth. We plan to have at least four "Learning Lunch" sessions this school year.

Council of Councils Session

Each school year in the fall and spring, the Crittenden County Board of Education and leadership team sponsor a Council of Councils meeting in the school district. This year's fall session will be held at 6 p.m., on Monday, Nov. 2 at the Rocket Arena conference room. We invite all school SBDM council members, each student council group, school and district administration, booster club parent leadership and PTA leadership. This gives us a great opportunity to share district information, school and district plans for improvement, progress toward identified goals and exchange suggestions for continuous improvement. We look forward to the first Council of Council's session for the 2009/2010 school year.

The Crittenden County schools do not operate in a vacuum. We are connected to our community and should be a strong reciprocal partner with it. These are just a few of the ways that we continue our commitment to improving relationships with stakeholders with whom the school is connected.

We want our community to know that the school district is open to the honest exchange of ideas that will enhance the total quality of education for all students in Crittenden County.

Letters to the Editor

Tire funds need to be spent where intended

To the Editor:

Martin Tire Operations, LLC is a tire processor in western Kentucky that's been collecting and processing tires for 16 years. We process Kentucky scrap tires for beneficial end use at facilities in Marion and Sturgis.

Why is Kentucky tire money going to help big, out-of-state waste companies when solid waste landfills only pay 15 percent of permitting cost? Examples of this are Waste Management, Inc., and Republic Services, Inc. The law allows the state to charge 100 percent of these permitting costs; therefore, a shortage results from paying permit reviewers from the tire fund. We need to quit robbing the tire fund and make landfills pay 100 percent of permit fees.

This Kentucky tire program is a good program funded by the people of Kentucky. Please do all you can to stop robbing this money out of the tire fund.

Authorities recover another stolen trailer, Kawasaki 4-wheeler

Crittenden County Sheriff's Department has recovered a second stolen utility trailer within a matter of days, and a stolen ATV.

One box-type trailer was found abandoned on Mexico Road early last week. Another was found on Hebron Church Road Tuesday after a passerby called the sheriff's department.

Sheriff Wayne Agent said the 16-foot trailer was recovered and returned to its owner in Burna. The thieves took an air compressor and tools off the trailer before abandoning it.

Two other utility trailers remain missing from a hunting camp and a home, both on Ky. 91 North.

Sheriff Agent said trailers are sometimes easy targets for thieves because they seldom have a serial number on the frame.

"Over the past couple of weeks we've recovered three stolen trailers, two mowers and a four-wheeler," Deputy Greg Rushing said. "I would strongly encourage everyone to keep things locked up. If you have a utility trailer, keep a lock on it and, if you can, etch your name or some identifying mark underneath it where it can't be easily found by thieves and removed with a grinder."

Rushing recovered an ATV behind Baker Church in rural, northern Crittenden County. The Kawasaki 250 four-wheeler was found on Oct. 8, but wasn't reported stolen until several days later. The ATV had been stored in a nearby barn when someone took it then abandoned it behind the church. It belonged to a Caldwell County man, Rushing said.

Ky. 70 closed for two days in Caldwell County

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet is closing Ky. 70 in Caldwell County on Wednesday and Thursday, October 28-29.

This daytime closure is to allow the replacement of cross drains at mile point 6.5 and milepoint 7.2.

There will be no through traffic during the work. Local access will be maintained for property owners on each side of the closures.

Motorists who regularly travel this section of Ky. 70 in Caldwell County should be aware of this planned closure and make advance alternate travel plans.

In case of rain, the project will be moved to the following work day.

Local fire department mailing dues notices

Crittenden County Volunteer Fire Department will be mailing out its fire dues notices in the coming days.

The fire department asks property owners to pay $20 for annual fire protection. Dues should be mailed to Crittenden County Volunteer Fire Department, P.O. Box 324, Marion, KY 42064.

Cemeteries and churches are exempt; otherwise, everyone is asked to pay their fire dues. If your annual fire dues are not paid and the department responds to a fire at your property, a $500 fire run fee is charged.

Assistant Fire Chief Billy Arflack said dues are a way to support the fire department so that equipment can be properly maintained and firemen can be ready to fight area fires.

"Other than the dues, we receive very little funding," Arflack said.

The state provides the department with about $8,250 each year. That money cannot be spent on fuel or fire department facility costs. It can only be spent on new equipment.

Without fire dues, Arflack said the department could not continue to provide volunteer fire protection to the community.

If in doubt of the fire district in which you are in, call Orman Hunt at 704-5501.

Burglars damage Marion Country Club, Glenn's restaurant

Conger's Country Kitchen and Marion Country Club were attacked by burglars last week. The intruders did more damage than stealing, however.

They broke through several doors, including an expensive glass door leading into the restaurant. Once inside the club's pro shop, the intruders used a fire extinguisher to spray around the room, leaving quite a mess.

They did get away with about $200 to $300 in cash and some $200 in candy.

Marion Police Officer Chuck Hoover was called to the scene at 5 a.m., Thursday morning when the restaurant cook found the broken door.

"They made a big mess and we have some fingerprints that we're sending off," Hoover said.

Anyone with information regarding the break-in can call Marion Police Department at 965-3500.

Farmers struggling to harvest crops against continued rainfall

If you see farmers racing into their fields as soon as the weather breaks, find no alarm in their actions; although it is later than normal for the rush to harvest.

Recent rains have prevented a great number of acres of corn and soybeans from being harvested. Therefore, it means a later opportunity to plant winter wheat, thus lower yields at harvest time. A drying spell early this week was little respite from the continuous showers, which helped produce bumper crops this year, but leaves farmers struggling to get their grain out of the fields.

According to the National Agriculture Statistics Service, less than 50 percent of the state's corn has been harvested and less than 20 percent of its soybeans. Those figures are well below the five-year average for harvesting of crops at this time of year. The corn crop is considered to be 93 percent good or excellent while soybeans are 89 percent good or excellent.

According to University of Kentucky Agriculture Weather, Crittenden and the immediate area has received 1.44 inches of rain over the past week or so and 9.55 inches in the past month. That brings the annual total of 47.17 inches, which is seven inches above normal.

"Everybody is behind," said Crittenden County Agriculture

Extension Agent Corey Payne. "Some are having big problems with corn molding and I have heard of some cases, even in the county, where the kernel on the ear is starting to spout it has been so wet."

Payne says that corn must be at 13 percent moisture to go to market. Right now, much of the county's standing corn has greater than 20 percent moisture content.

DeFreitas to seek Sixth District seat

About 50 party loyalists attended a Republican rally Saturday at the Crittenden County Fairgrounds. Heaters were brought in to battle the unseasonably cool temperatures as hot dogs and drinks were served with a taste of politics.

Candidates or their surrogates for local, state and federal election spoke briefly.

Local real estate agent Jim DeFreitas officially announced his candidacy for magistrate in the Sixth District. Current Sixth District Magistrate Greg West is running for judge-executive. Right now, West and Mike McConnell, son of Magistrate Helen McConnell, are the only two GOP candidates seeking the nomination for judge-executive.

Helen McConnell has said that she will not seek re-election in the First District. Instead, she will devote her time toward helping her son get elected. Her husband, the late Hayden McConnell, was also magistrate in the First District.

DeFreitas, 54, is a Paducah native who is a longtime Crittenden County landowner. He moved to the Frances area almost six years ago and works in Marion for Belt Auction Realty.

Sheriff investigating burglary near Irma

Crittenden County Sheriff's Department is investigating a burglary in the Irma community Sunday night.

According to police reports, someone gained entry into the home of Herman Reed on Irma-White Road between Sunday afternoon and Monday around noon. Taken were antiques and a .22 rifle. The items were valued at about $1,500.

Criminal charges filed in 2 illegal dump cases

Two people will face criminal littering charges as a consequence of throwing household trash onto roadsides or an illegal dump.

Crittenden County Sheriff's Department has served a summons on one local individual and has charges against another person in connection with separate cases of illegal dumping.

"In the past they've only been made to clean up the sites. Now, we're filing charges," said Sheriff Wayne Agent.

The county's new toughness against criminal littering could cost violators around $500 by the time fines, court costs and court-ordered cleanup fees are paid.

One of the charges already filed stems from an investigation of a dump site on Crooked Creek Church Road. Sheriff Agent said the second location cannot be disclosed at this time because the suspect has yet to be arrested.

One of 2 escapees caught here has local connection

A pair of inmates who escaped from the Webster County Jail at Dixon last Wednesday evening were captured within hours by Marion Policeman Chuck Hoover.

Jackie L. Beasley, 19, and Brian A. Schwartz, 21, were apprehended about 1 a.m., while driving a stolen Nissan Altima.

Officer Hoover had been notified earlier in the night about the escape in Webster County, which occurred at the restricted custody center of the jail at about 8 p.m. Police suspected that Beasley, who is from the Frances area, might head this way.

Hoover was patrolling on East Bellville Street when he recognized the vehicle reportedly taken from near the jail after the escape. The officer met the car coming from Marion and heading out of town. He turned around in his cruiser and followed the vehicle which turned left at Marion Feed Mill onto Old Shady Grove Road then onto Carr Street, a dead end.

Marion Police Chief Ray O'Neal, who had been notified at his home as soon as Hoover reported seeing the vehicle, was responding to the scene as Hoover made contact with the escapees.

"He was on full alert,"

Beasley

Schwartz

O'Neal said about the officer making the stop. "He fully expected a foot chase after they turned onto the dead end street."

Ironically, Hoover was able to take the men into custody without any resistance whatsoever, O'Neal said.

"It was raining and they never got out of the car until (Hoover) ordered them out," O'Neal said. "He had them both under arrest when I arrived, which had only been about 10 minutes from the time I got the call. Everything went well."

Beasley was in jail on a theft charge and Schwartz was incarcerated on a burglary charge.

In April, Beasley pleaded guilty to complicity to the theft of two vehicles in Marion in July 2008. Beasley had a role in the taking of a truck belonging to William Sanders from the Conrad's Food Store parking lot and an SUV from the home of Kara Hatfield. Beasley was also believed to have been involved in auto thefts in Princeton.

Crittenden Circuit Judge Rene Williams ordered Beasley to pay restitution to the vehicle owners and to serve two years and 48 days. Precise information was not available, but it appears that Beasley was actually serving time in the Webster County Jail due to his conviction here last spring.

Last week's brief escape led to charges of second-degree escape and auto theft against the two men. Both are Class D felonies.

State police reports say the two men were able to make it outside of a fenced area at the Webster County Jail and get away initially on foot before stealing a car. During their escape, a surveillance camera was disturbed which alerted jail staff. The facility was quickly put on lockdown and a head count was conducted.

It was immediately discovered that one inmate was missing. Further investigation by the staff and the Kentucky State Police revealed that a second inmate was also gone. About five hours later, the escapees were caught in Marion.

Writing workshop is Thursday

The Crittenden County Writing Workshop Series returns for its fourth year Thursday night with a special two-hour workshop on "Sense of Place: Bringing Your Settings Alive."

The workshop will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., at Crittenden County Public Library. The workshop will be facilitated by local author Bob Yehling, who has been promoting his newest book, "The Write Time: 366 Exercises to Fulfill Your Writing Life," at conferences and signings nationally since its release in September.

Every story, poem, article, essay or journal entry begins at a place – a scene, a setting, a landscape. The workshop will show writers of all ages and genres how to turn those settings into living, breathing parts of the overall work. It will show ways for writers to more deeply embed themselves, their narrators or characters into relationship with their places and settings. Also, the workshop will cover specific wording and phrasing to create images that foster an immediate association with place and landscape.

"When we read good pieces of writing, we not only connect with the emotional side of the work, but in all likelihood, with the setting and landscape as well," Yehling said. "This is the basis of almost all good writing – and this workshop will give everyone a chance to deepen their writing of place."

"We live in a wonderful part of the country for writing place and landscape ... now, we can bring these images to our readers, and write them to our pleasure." There is no charge for the workshop. Copies of "The Write Time" and Yehling's other books will be available.

Glorious Green

Deer Creek Baptist Church in Sheridan held a "Green Sunday" on Oct. 11 to show its appreciation for Pastor Marty Brown. Teenagers provided breakfast and refreshments at the 10 a.m. service. In the worship service, most church members wore green, which is the pastor's "favorite" color (not really, some in the church admit). The pastor's wife, Debbie and daughter, Elizabeth, sang one of his favorite songs, "I am Crucified with Christ." At the end of the service, the pastor was presented with a cheese sandwich and a piece of cheesecake, his favorite foods (that might be a stretch, too). Pictured are some of the churchgoers who participated by gearing up in green (from left) Kayla Buntin, Kari Buntin, Amber Notestine, Debbie Brown, Micki Crider, Hope Sherrill, Elizabeth Brown and Pastor Brown.

FIRE

Continued from page 1 house with a long gun and went around to the rear of the home out of sight.

When the sheriff arrived, he found Mark W. Pierson, 53, dead of a single gunshot wound. The body was found behind a barn in the rear of the house. He is believed to have been the man the motorist saw leave the house as it was burning.

Crittenden County Coroner Joe Myers said the body was sent to the state medical examiner and an autopsy will be conducted. He could not confirm the nature of Pierson's death. He said the case remains under investigation.

Deputy Sheriff Greg Rushing, who investigated the scene, said the case is being conducted as a "non-criminal death" at this time.

"If they find something in the autopsy, that could change," Rushing said.

A .22 caliber rifle was found beside of the body, the deputy said.

Phil Fogal, a state fire marshal from Owensboro, was called to the scene. Rushing said the fire marshal's preliminary investigation did not find anything conclusive in regard to how the fire was started.

"It started on a bed. That's all we know," Rushing said. "The cause of the fire is undetermined."

No other details were available at press time.

According to reports, Pierson lived at the home alone. A neighbor said that Pierson's father had been living there, too, but recently moved to a nursing home.

Crittenden EMS, Mattoon Fire Volunteer Department, Kentucky Department of Transportation and Kenergy responded to the scene.

City urged to change street closing policy

STAFF REPORT

Marion City Council met in regular session Monday night and disposed a short agenda.

Among the items discussed was the closing of East Carlisle Street during the recent Heritage Days event. Two business owners whose operations are on East Carlisle voiced their malcontent with the closing of the one-way street without any notice to merchants.

Frank Pierce of Coach's Cleaners and Beverly Guess of Stems and Twigs say they were never notified in advance that the street would be closed to traffic in order to host the antique tractor and car show during the local festival on Oct. 3.

"Saturday is an extremely busy day for us," Pierce said. "Just please, if possible in the future, give us a heads up so we can work our schedule around."

Pierce told the council that he and his customers were frustrated by the inconvenience. Guess questioned why merchants on the street were not notified. Both suggested creating a new policy with merchants in mind.

City Administrator Mark Bryant explained that the city does not have a formal process for closing streets. In fact, in this instance, the city was not notified either. That street and a couple of others were closed, as customary, for Heritage Days.

Both Pierce and Guess are virtual newcomers to East Carlisle, and were not aware of the events commonly scheduled in that area during the annual festival.

City officials were empathetic with the issues created by the closing and discussed creating a better process for handling closings, and notifying those who might be directly affected.

In other business, the council discussed street lights, the proposed private development at the corner of U.S. 60 and U.S. 641, building a new fire station and other issues.

Bryant said the city is still not certain what entity has proposed buying several properties, including and those around Tabor's Tire and Repair. Although nothing is official, Bryant says he believes it is indeed a pharmacy. There is some indication that it could be where CVS plans to move its store, but that is unconfirmed, Bryant said.

After spending several months last year discussing a new fire department building, the council tabled the idea following unexpected costs of dealing with last winter's ice storm. Now that FEMA has reimbursed the city for much of its ice storm expenses, the council discussed exploring the fire station idea again at its November meeting.

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.

Producers approved goat, sheep check-offs

Agriculture Commissioner Richie Farmer has announced that Kentucky sheep and goat producers voted in favor of check-offs to assess themselves at a rate of one-half of one percent (.50%) of the net market price of their animals.

In separate referenda held Oct. 1 in county Extension offices throughout the Commonwealth, goat producers approved check-offs by a 75-41 vote, and sheep producers approved by a 32-12 count. A date when check-off funds will begin to be collected has not been determined. Ray Bowman, executive director of the Kentucky Sheep and Goat Development Office, said the start date will be set after consulting with stockyards. The collection of check-off funds will be mandatory, but reimbursement of funds paid will be an option to the producer. The Kentucky Sheep and Wool Producers Association and the Kentucky Goat Producers Association will administer the funds in the areas of promotion, consumer information, producer communication, industry information and research.

Health care workers who qualify for the inoculations include anyone who comes into contact with patients and even others who work in a health care environment such as janitorial or dietary employees.

"We consider it to be a very broad definition," said Beshear. "It can be anyone who works in a clinical setting, an eye doctor or dentist, or in a pharmacy."

The health department added pregnant women to the list of initial qualifiers this week.

The shot or nasal spray is free. Beshear said the federal government has paid manufacturers to produce the vaccine because it is considered a national health risk. Seasonal flu shots are $20. That vaccine has been purchased by the local health departments; therefore, patients are charged to receive it.

When more vaccine is available, which should be in the coming days, different risk groups will be allowed to get the shot. Next in line are caregivers of infants less than six months old, children and young adults six months to 24 years old and people ages 24-64 with underlying or chronic medical conditions.

What would Mom say...

Memories remain Marion florist industry loses a cornerstone

Marion's floral business isn't the same without Louise York, who died unexpectedly Sept. 27 at her home.

For nearly 50 years, Louise York was a name synonymous with flowers – especially if you were a customer of Louise's Flowers.

Certainly life behind the counters at the Main Street business are not the same without Louise, a quiet lady with a distinct chuckle, a kind soul with a generous giving spirit.

Louise started her career in 1962 at Cottage Flower Shop, working for Vonelle Sturgeon. She worked at Frazer Flowers for a few years until opening Louise's Flowers in 1975.

"She opened Easter weekend and she sold flowers right out of the buckets because the cooler hadn't been put in and people were lined up on the sidewalk trying to get in," Teena recalls. "She opened her own shop from the ground up and we have been blessed every since that day."

If you didn't know Louise, you most certainly knew her husband Clinton who died last year. Together, the two served the florist and funeral industry in large fashion. For many years as soon as Louise or her daughter Teena would finish a funeral arrangement, Clinton would have his van parked at the back door of the family business, ready to drive it to the funeral home, where he also worked part time.

Though perhaps not very vocal, Louise York was a strong supporter of her community, helping charitable causes from Relay for Life to purple ribbon campaigns in support of military personnel.

With her daughter Teena at her side, Louise York put in thousands upon thousands of hours in floral design. One could never venture to guess the number of silk flowers she glued into green florist foam or the number of red roses she delicately arranged for the shop's annual Mother's Day mega-orders.

As other florists can attest, the work doesn't stop when the clock strikes five. Quitting time isn't measured by the clock, but by getting to the bottom of the "to-do" list – especially when flowers are ordered for weddings or funerals or special occasions. Just because everyone else is heading out to eat on a Friday night or planning to catch a movie on a Saturday afternoon, didn't mean Louise York was out the door. Instead, she and Teena – as well as the business' other dedicated employees – worked until all orders were filled.

Obviously, her shoes will not be filled, her company not replaced or her sweet nature forgotten. But those who knew her and frequented Louise's Flowers will always see her at her stool, at her table in the back of the room.

Our thoughts are with Teena York as she carries on her mother's heritage.

Protect yourself against consumer fraud

Reports of consumer fraud have risen in these tough economic times. In 2008, more than 1.2 million cases of consumer fraud were reported to various government agencies across the United States. This figure is five times higher than the number of complaints filed in 2000. It's important for you to know about different types of consumer fraud and ways to avoid them.

Identity theft is the most common reported type of consumer fraud.

By some estimates, as many as one in five families are affected by this crime. Your social security number and mother's maiden name are all that's needed to steal your identity most of the time. Too many people are fooled into giving out personal information to complete strangers, especially over the phone. Unfortunately, most people are unaware they are victims of identity theft until debt collectors start calling their home or they're turned down for credit.

Identity theft may take some victims years to straighten out, especially if not caught early. Luckily, there are many good practices that can help you avoid becoming a victim. Keep your social security card in a safe place rather than carrying it in your wallet. Shred any items that contain personal information before discarding them.

Keep your mail secure. Contact your banks, credit card companies

Nancy Hunt Home Notes

U.K. Cooperative Extension Agent

and other financial institutions and ask to "opt out" of the company sharing your personal information. Remove your name from national mailing lists and financial institutions that send out pre-approved credit offers.

Thoroughly check bank and credit card statements when they come in and report any unusual purchases to your credit agency. Annually request a free credit report from each of the three credit reporting bureaus, TransUnion, Experian and Equifax. If you suspect fraud, contact your local law enforcement, the Kentucky Attorney General's Office and the Federal Trade Commission.

Credit card fraud is one of the most common causes of identity theft. Individuals can obtain your credit card information several ways but over the phone is the most common. Be leery of callers that claim you've won a large prize, such as a car or trip.

Many times thieves will ask you to verify your social security number to claim the prize and then ask for your credit card information because you have to pay taxes on it. Another warning sign of a scammer is if the person on the phone claims they will have to find an alternative winner if you don't immediately give them personal information.

Most legitimate promotional firms will give you at least 24 hours to check out the company. Do not give out your credit card number over the phone until you check with the Kentucky Attorney General's Office to see if the company has any unresolved complaints. Odds are if the offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

Bob Flashman, Financial Management Specialist for the UK Cooperative Extension Service said, "In the past couple of years, reports of home repair scams, another type of consumer fraud, have risen in central and eastern Kentucky.

Most often these con artists strike in older neighborhoods and tend to prey on the elderly." Be cautious of any repairman that just shows up at your home saying "he was just in the neighborhood" and would like to provide you with a service. A common scam involves the con artist saying he just finished a paving job and has some left over to repave your driveway. He could put it on your driveway at a discounted price, but it turns out not to be a bargain after all. In another scam, a con artist offers to seal your driveway but the "sealant" washes off after the first rain. Another warning sign is a contractor that claims his business is certified by the Federal Emergency Management Agency. FEMA does not certify or endorse any private contractor.

Always ask for references from any person or business in home repair. Get a couple of estimates from different businesses before having any work done to ensure you're getting a fair price. Do not sign any contract related to home improvement until you've entirely read it.

At 3:30 p.m., on Jan. 4, Lori Farris from the Kentucky Attorney General's Office will be presenting a program on scams at the EdTech Center in Marion. This class was included in the list of current community classes being offered at the EdTech Center and registration is now open. Call either the EdTech Center at 965- 9294 or the County Extension Office to sign up for this class.

For more ways you can protect yourself from consumer fraud, contact the Crittenden County Cooperative Extension Service located at 112 W. Carlisle Street in Marion.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Baptist official apologizes for Nazi comparison

ATLANTA (AP) – A key Southern Baptist official has apologized for comparing proposals to overhaul the nation's health care system with Nazism.

Richard Land is president of the Southern Baptist Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission. The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reports he also apologized for bestowing a "Josef Mengele Award" on President Barack Obama's chief health care adviser.

Mengele was a Nazi doctor who conducted cruel experiments at the Auschwitz death camp during the Holocaust.

Land said in a letter dated Oct. 14 that he did not intend to "actually equate anyone in the Obama administration with Dr. Mengele."

The Anti-Defamation League had criticized Land's remarks, calling them "inappropriate, insensitive and unjustified."

U.S. church plans to burn Bibles, Christian books

CANTON, N.C. (AP) – A North Carolina pastor says his church plans to burn Bibles and books by Christian authors on Halloween to light a fire under true believers.

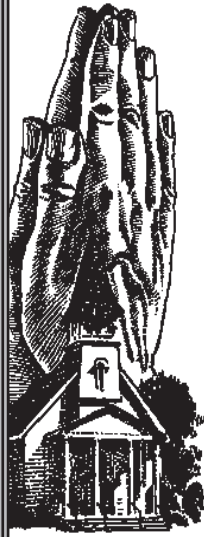

Pastor Marc Grizzard told Asheville TV station WLOS that the King James version of the Bible is the only one his small western North Carolina church follows. He says all other versions, such as the Living Bible, are "satanic" and "perversions" of God's word.

On Halloween night, Grizzard and the 14 members of the Amazing Grace Baptist Church also will burn music and books by Christian authors, such as Billy Graham and Rick Warren.

Telephone calls to the Amazing Grace Baptist Church and Grizzard's home were not immediately returned Wednesday.

Jewell performing in Transylvania theater

Crittenden County High School graduate and Transylvania University senior Amanda Jewell is playing the roles of Guildenstern and Laertes in Transylvania's production of Tom Stoppard's brilliant comedy "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead." The play opens Nov. 5 in the Lucille C. Little Theater at Transylvania.

Jewell

The play puts Shakespeare's two hapless losers from "Hamlet," at the vortex of an unpredictable universe, in which reality becomes make-believe and theatrical death becomes reality. Adding to the uncertainty is a case of men and women exchanging roles on alternating performances. One night, men will read Shakespeare's lines while women read Stoppard's. The following night, the two gendered casts will switch roles.

Rustin attends rally for home designers

Jan Rustin, a Fredonia resident and designer for Celebrating Home, recently attended the company's 2009 rally and conference in Nashville. The rally was designed to re-energize designers with a spirit of enthusiasm to make their businesses successful.

"The most beneficial attributes to the rally included the camaraderie among designers, the educational training sessions and the informative workshops. I was able to learn interesting tactics other designers are using with their businesses, and I learned about the strong direction the company is taking," Rustin said.

Celebrating Home, headquartered in Marshall, Texas, offers high-quality products to decorate and enliven homes, including stoneware pottery, candles, wall decor, gourmet food mixes, dining and entertainment pieces and accessories for your home and garden.

Guill also buys coupons off the online auction site, eBay. At first blush it may sound a bit awkward, but Guill explains that there are deals to be had.

"The other day there was a $3 off coupon for Snuggle fabric softener on eBay. A bottle of it costs $3 at the dollar store so if you have that coupon you can get it for nothing and just pay the tax. Bidding went like crazy on that coupon."

Guill said such coupons often sell for around 40 cents.

"I bought 10 coupons online the other day for $4.99," she said.

The savings far outweigh the costs, explained Guill.

"Anyone can do this. You can find really good deals if you just take your time and look for them," she added.

Sue Parrent, Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program assistant for the Crittenden County Extension Service, says Guill, her family and a small circle of thrifty friends are coupon experts.

"They really know what to do. They get a lot of great deals. They've helped me save a lot of money, too," Parrent said.

Guill, Parrent and perhaps other experienced coupon savers will direct the special class at the senior center next week.

"They have some amazing stories," Parrent said, "about how they paid very little or nothing for products."

The class is free and open to everyone.

Undergraduates get grant to study drums

Brooke Phillips, a Murray State University senior applied mathematics major from Marion, was recently awarded a $460 grant from the Office of Undergraduate Research and Scholarly Activity (URSA) for a proposal entitled "Optimal Design of Drums."

Phillips and Lauren Schmidt, a senior mathematics and computer science major from Prospect, Ky., will be analyzing the design of two ancient Indian drums, the Mridangam and Tabla, which are considered be the "ideal drums," as they are the only known drums with harmonic properties. Using a computer program called Maple 13, they will be able to digitally tweak various characteristics of the drums to determine if the historical ideal drum is mathematically optimal. Dr. Maeve McCarthy, professor of mathematics at Murray State, will serve as faculty mentor on the project.

Phillips and Schmidt plan to present their findings at several conferences, including the Kentucky Mathematical Association, the Nebraska Conference for Undergraduate Women in Mathematics, Posters-at-the-Capitol, and Scholars Week, which will take place on Murray State's campus April 19-23, 2010.

Parker returns to head Kentucky State Prison

The longest-serving warden at the state's only maximum security prison returned to the post last week. Crittenden County resident Philip W. Parker, a 25-year veteran of the corrections profession, has been appointed warden of the Kentucky State Penitentiary (KSP).

Parker retired on Aug. 1, 2002 after serving nine years in the warden's job at KSP. He also began his career at the prison, first as a correctional officer in 1978. He quickly worked his way up through the ranks, and within six years, was promoted to deputy warden at Northpoint Training Center. Four years later he returned to work at Eddyville as deputy warden of security after a mass escape.

Parker

In 1989, Parker transferred to Ohio where he served as warden of a new prison in the suburbs of Cleveland. He was then appointed to the position of deputy director in charge of 11 prisons in the southern region of Ohio in 1992.

He returned to his home state and was named warden of KSP in 1993.

"I am very pleased to announce the return of Warden Phil Parker to the Kentucky State Penitentiary," said Corrections Commissioner LaDonna Thompson. "I had the pleasure of working with Warden Parker for many years and he has always proven to be an effective leader, an insightful decision maker, and an example of correctional professionalism. The penitentiary is a very challenging institution and requires experienced leadership. Warden Parker previously demonstrated he was able to meet the challenge and he is fortunate to return at a time when he has excellent deputies and institutional staff to work with him during his transition back to the department."

Parker and his wife Katie operate a small woodworking business and drying kiln on Lily Dale Road south of Marion.

During his time as warden at KSP, Parker led the institution through two executions: the execution of Harold McQueen in 1997, the first in Kentucky in 35 years, and in 1999 he was at the helm of the prison for the state's first by lethal injection, Edward Lee Harper. Parker was hailed during these challenging times for his effective, calm and level-headed direction of the prison.

Farmers Bank earns Bauer 5-Star rating

Gareth Hardin, CEO of Farmers Bank and Trust Company of Marion, has announced that the bank has recently received a distinguished 5-Star Superior rating from Bauer Financial, Inc., of Coral Gables, Fla.

A 5-Star rating for financial strength and stability is the highest rating attainable from Bauer, a bank rating firm for over a quarter of a century. The ranking is based on the overall financial condition of the bank. Earning a 5-Star rating denotes that Farmers Bank and Trust is one of the strongest banks in the nation. Achieving this designation for 18 consecutive quarters, like Farmers Bank and Trust has, is an even higher honor.

Farmers Bank and Trust was established in 1899 and has been serving the banking needs of its neighbors and friends for 110 years.

Three named to serve on Tourism Commission

Marion City Council has appointed three new members to the City of Marion Tourism Commission.

New board members are Melissa Tabor, representing Jones' 88 Dip; Lori Holeman, representing, Conrad's Food Store; and Karen Woodall, representing Grace House Bed and Breakfast.

The three new members replace outgoing commissioners Vicky King, Mike Crabtree and Valerie Conger. King is moving out of the area, and Crabtree and Conger's terms expired.

The Marion Tourism Commission is the governing body for the city's tourism effort. It oversees the spending of local tax dollars derived from the three-percent restaurant and motel tax.

Mammograms save lives

Mammography is an x-ray picture of the breasts. It is the single most effective method to detect breast changes that may be cancer, long before physical symptoms can be seen or felt. Because risk factors vary in everyone, each woman and her doctor should discuss the plan that's right for her. The American Cancer Society recommends that women 40 and over have a mammogram every year. Mammograms save lives. Make an appointment today.

HUNTING

Muzzleloader results

Crittenden County deer hunters took 64 bucks Saturday and Sunday during the early muzzleloader season. They also harvested 43 antlerless deer. In Livingston County, blackpowder hunters harvested 63 deer, which included 26 bucks.

Archery hunters will have the woods to themselves while deer hunting from now until the rifle season, which opens Nov. 14. All other weapons are not permitted until the gun season starts.

Doves out, turkeys in

The first segment of the dove season ends Saturday and the seven-day turkey shotgun season begins. Gunners may take two turkeys of either sex, but no more than one per day.

TRAIL RIDING

Event this weekend

Western Kentucky Back Country Horsemen will host a trail ride starting at 11:30 a.m., Saturday. The event will start at the Uniontown ballpark. For more info call 270-952-5186 or 2389-2574.

FOOTBALL

Rockets save homecoming

The Rocket football team's victory Friday at Fulton saved homecoming. Because Fulton County, the homecoming opponent scheduled for Oct. 9 forfeited, Crittenden school officials were forced to tentatively reschedule the annual homecoming festivities on Nov. 6, the first week of the playoffs. Crittenden's win at Fulton assures that the first postseason game will be played at Rocket Stadium; therefore, homecoming will be held in conjunction with that game.

Pregame tailgate party

Rocket football fans will be tailgating in the upper parking lot on the west end of the field before Friday's game against Mayfield. Cookers will be provided. Anyone interested may bring their own food and drinks.

Rockets play Rebels close

The Hopkins County Rebels, a traveling youth football team, came to Marion Saturday and escaped with an 8-6 win over Crittenden County's B-team, comprised mostly of fifth-graders. The Rockets scored once on a 70-yard fumble recovery by Shelby Robinson in the second period.

Here are individual statistics for Crittenden County:
Rushing: Paxton Riley 5-7, Ethan Hunt 5-5, Alex Cosby 2-1, Will Tolley 1-5.

Passing: Paxton Riley 0-1
Tackles: Maeson Myers 11, Ethan Hunt 9, Nick Castiller 9, Daniel Riley 8, Dakota Koerner 8, 1 fumble recovery; Paxton Riley 7, Robinson 6, fumble recovery; Elijah Wring 5, Will Tolley 4, Bobby Glen Stephens 2, Tyler Smith 2, Cody Belt 2, Ben Brown 1.

Junior Pro Standings

3rd & 4th Grade
Caldwell 4-0; Morganfield 4-1; Caldwell Gold 3-2, Webster County 3-2, Sturgis 1-4, Crittenden County 0-6.
5th & 6th Grade
Morganfield 5-0, Caldwell Gold 4-1, Crittenden 3-2, Caldwell VG 2-2, Webster County 1-4, Sturgis 0-5.
Post-season jamboree is Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 at Sturgis.

Josh Tabor, 12, took a deer on the last afternoon of early muzzleloader season.

DISTRICT SHOWDOWN

Undefeateds meet with championship in balance

STAFF REPORT

Tension has been building since last fall when Crittenden County upset perennial district champion Mayfield twice en route to the Class A semifinals.

Cardinal fans say last year's Mayfield team was the worst in years, but this season the nucleus of that team returns and is ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press poll.

The Rockets are flying high, too. They have not lost a game this season and have been victors in 17 of their last 19 games dating back to early last season. Crittenden is currently ranked No. 3 in the Associated Press poll.

This week's clash of the western Kentucky Class A titans has drawn plenty of attention since way back in August when the season kicked off with both clubs predicted among the state's best.

"I predict it will be the biggest crowd to ever see a game at Rocket Stadium," said longtime football observer and WMJL football radio commentator Zac Greenwell.

The Rocket faithful will be there for sure, Greenwell said, "but Mayfield will bring a big crowd and there will be a lot of people from the area who will come just to see a good football game."

A big turnout for a high school football game in Marion is about 1,500 people. That's the type of crowd generated for a normal regular-season rivalry game against Caldwell or Union counties. This week's showdown could draw upwards of 2,000.

"It's the biggest game since I've been here," said Rocket coach Al Starnes. "It's big because it's No. 1 versus No. 3 and we're both undefeated, not just because it's Mayfield."

Jody Porter, the public address announcer at Rocket football games says it's certainly as big as the regional championship game last year when Crittenden defeated the Cardinals 26-13 at Rocket Stadium. That was the playoffs though; this is still the regular season.

Never before has Crittenden been ranked so high in the Associated Press poll, and never before have the Rockets hosted the No. 1 team while it's been ranked among the top five in the regular season.

The winner of this game will have a homefield ticket throughout the playoffs right up to the state championship game, which will be at Bowling Green.

Everything is on the line from pride and prejudice to playoff ramifications.

Coach Starnes says his team will try to neutralize Mayfield's speed. The Rockets must avoid giving up big plays, especially early, Starnes said.

"We're going to be ready," the 19-year Rocket skipper said. "We're going to get after them. It's going to be like two bulls. I can promise you that."

Rockets topple Fulton with ease

The only thing that stopped the Rocket offense Friday at Fulton was the back of the end zone and the game's final horn.

Crittenden County (8-0, 3-0) scored on every possession except its last drive when time ran out on a 57-0 road victory in the Class A First District.

While the offense was unstoppable, Crittenden's defense dismantled the hapless Bulldogs who were playing without star running back Jacquise Lockett. With Lockett out for disciplinary reasons, Crittenden held Fulton to just 51 total yards. Fulton is 1-7 overall and 0-3 in the district, but could still qualify for the playoffs with a win this week over Fulton County.

The only black mark of the night was the loss of receiver Tanner Nix, who dislocated his left elbow during a 22-yard run late in the first period. Nix had scored earlier on a 49-yard touchdown pass from quarterback J.D. Gray. He was taken to a nearby hospital. Dr. Johnny Newcom said Nix had no fractures, but will likely be sidelined for two to three weeks.

Nix is the starting cornerback, also. His loss in the secondary will be sorely felt this week against Mayfield.

Fulton was unable to pose any type of a threat as Crittenden scored four first-quarter touchdowns. Gray passed for three scores and rushed for one. Rocket running backs scored four times.

Senior Allen Kirk caught the first touchdown pass of his career in the first half and freshman Bowe Wallace rushed for his first TD ever in the fourth period.

Dyllan Thornton, Devin Wallace and Dustin Hernandez each had interceptions in the game as Fulton's quarterbacks completed just 1 of 6 passes.

The series: Crittenden has played Mayfield a dozen times since 1972, but most meetings were during postseason. The teams have traditionally been in the same region, but only became members of the same district a couple of years ago. The Rockets are 1-2 against the Cardinals during the regular season and Mayfield holds an 8-1 advantage in playoff games. Mayfield leads the series 10-2, but Crittenden has a two-game winning streak after beating the Cardinals 27-14 in the regular season last year then knocking them off 26-13 in the regional championship game. Coach Starnes is 2-9 against Mayfield. The average score of the past 11 games during Starnes' tenure is Mayfield 33, Crittenden 15.

Game Notes: The winner of this game will earn homefield advantage through the entire playoffs, except for the state title game, which is at Bowling Green.

Scouting Report: Mayfield has the most talented team Crittenden has seen this season. Here are its individuals leaders.

Seven-year-old Gabriel Sowash of Flowery Branch, Ga., took this eight-point buck with a 21-inch spread during the youth hunt. Sowash said he had buck fever, but calmed down while waiting 20 minutes for the deer to come within range. He shot it at 120 yards. The deer scored 142 on the Boone & Crockett measuring formula.

Sissy Collins harvested her first deer on Sunday during the youth hunt while hunting alongside her father, Larry Collins. She shot the six-pointer with her mom's .223 rifle.

Soccer eliminated 10-0 in district play

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER

A lack of offensive firepower hampered the Lady Rockets all season and it wasn't any different in the opening round of last week's Fourth District Tournament in Marion. Caldwell County attempted 31 shots on goal compared to none for Crittenden and eliminated them 10-0.

The contest was called with 21:48 left to play due to the 10-goal mercy rule in high school soccer.

The upset-minded Lady Rockets hung tough for a while before falling behind 2-0 at the 21:37 mark of the first half. Things began to worsen from there as the Lady Tigers added four more scores before intermission to put the game away.

Although not ending her career the way she would have liked, Crittenden senior goalie Hannah Brantley set a career-high with 22 saves in the loss.

Brantley and the Lady Rocket defense were forced to hang tough as the Lady Tigers continually got shots at the goal. Conversely, the Lady Rockets spent less than 3:00 of the game on offense and did not have a shot.

Despite going winless for the second consecutive season, Crittenden coach Andy Walker appreciated his squad's effort during a tough season.

After not accepting the job until July, Walker believes it will be an advantage for his returning players to have an off-season to further learn his system.

He is excited about a talented JV group that should help out tremendously over the next few years.

Rockets out of tournament, Leet honored

BY CHRIS HARDESTY
PRESS SPORTS WRITER

After a sluggish start last week at Cadiz in the Seventh District Tournament, the Lady Rockets could never fully recover and were eliminated by archrival Livingston Central in straight sets 13-25, 18-25.

In a performance which Crittenden coach Larry Duvall described as slow, the Lady Rockets dug themselves a quick early hole by dropping the opening set by a wide margin.

However, they seemed to regain some composure in the second set jumping out to a six point lead and had things going their way.

But after Lady Cardinal coach Jered Myers called a timeout, his team responded with better play and swept the contest in two sets.

"We just didn't swing it. We should have played better than we played," Duvall said.

Erika Leet

Baker, Olivia Adams and Erika Leet.

"The seniors have been very beneficial to us," he said.

That trio never had a losing season and laid the foundation for a successful program to continue.

"That is a pretty good starting point," said Duvall.

Erika Leet was selected as a member of the All-district volleyball team.

She was one of nine players from Livingston, Caldwell and Trigg counties. Leet was the only Crittenden County player selected.

Boys lose first game this season

The Crittenden Boys Recreational Soccer team lost its first game of the season to a very good Slaughters team last Monday night.

Logan Owen scored on an assist from Patrick Neilson midway through the first half to give Crittenden the 1-0 half-time lead.

Slaughters controlled much of the second half, scattering three goals for the 3-1 victory.

Crittenden came back with a victory Friday night 3-0 over Dixon Yellow.

Patrick Neilson scored the only goal in the first half as both Dixon and Crittenden played excellent defense.

Neilson scored again midway through the second half followed by a score from Jonah Sitar a few minutes later for the 3-0 victory. Crittenden now stands 4-1 and will start tournament play Oct. 26 in Clay.

HISTORY
From The Press
Archives

News from 1984:
•Three Crittenden County couples were being recognized during he Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce at a Farmers Appreciation ceremony. They were Easley and Rose Hill, Bruce and Carolyn Guess and Aubrey and Donna Belt. Hill farmed more than 1,700 acres near the Deanwood community, while Guess and Belt had herds of nearly 200 cattle.
•An estimated 1,500 people attended the dedication of the new Livingston Central High School in Smithland.
•Doug Sullenger, president of Farmers Bank and Trust Co., in Marion, was named to the Community Bankers Council Advisory Board of the American Bankers Association.
•In an ad promoting Halloween pictures, Goad Studio offered a prize of $25 for the best costume.
•Sugar Grove Cumberland Presbyterian Church set a granite marker at the site of its original log cabin church. More than 80 people were in attendance.
•Ben Waide, the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sullivan of Marion, was pictured at the end of his reign as Mr. Murray State University. Waide was youth director at Marion United Methodist Church.
•Twilight Homemakers met at the home of Dolcie Croft. The club reported making four quilts throughout the club year.
•Calvert and Clara Small sold their insurance agency on North Main Street after 38 years in business. The business was purchased by Gareth Hardin and Joe Yarbrough. Yarbrough operated Yarbrough Insurance, and Hardin was an employee of First Federal in Marion.
•Kurt Phelps, manager of Druther's Restaurant, presented a check to Quarterback Club president Richard Holloman representing the number of cups of "Rocket Fuel" sold for a quarter each during CCHS Homecoming.
•Tolu Elementary School's fall festival raised more than $4,000. Royalty included king and queen Scott Champion and Libbi Buntin; prince and princess Jason Berry and Jamie Arnold; and little Miss and Mr. were Dustin Hill and Brook Johnson.

News from 1959:
•The Woman's Club of Marion mailed letters to local clubs encouraging them to endorse the library referendum on the Nov. 3 ballot. The issue at hand was whether to establish a library tax, and thus create an independent library.
•Crittenden County freshmen won first place for its Homecoming float which depicted a Rocket football player seated on a swing, flanked by two girls in evening dresses reclining on a miniature gridiron with the theme "swinging to victory."
•A full-page ad appeared in The Press advertising the grand opening of Southside Gulf Service, featuring a set of four antique car glasses given away with the purchase of eight gallons of gasoline and free lollipops for children. Operators were Monroe Hollamon and Vernon Bridwell. The business was located at the corner of Main and Gum streets.
•Society writer LaMont West, who worked at The Crittenden Press, had a long list of personal and social announcements, including the travel plans and visits of numerous Crittenden County residents.
•The grand opening of Dutch Maid coin-o-matic laundry was announced, and featured 20¢ washes and 10¢ dries 24 hours a day.

School children invision millenium in essay contest

Here we are living in 2009, and when this article was written it was pushing the students' imagination to try and think what the year 2000 would be like. They probably thought it would never be a reality.

On Jan. 24, 1901 The Press advertised for two essay contests. Students under 14 could submit an essay on the subject: "The Best State in the Union and why it's the best." Students under 18 could submit an essay on the subject: "Kentucky in the Year 2000."

Here are the winning essays:

Feb. 14, 1901
On "Kentucky in the Year Two Thousand."

That the veil of another century may, as it were, be lifted, its possibilities and probabilities touched upon, or pictured by youthful minds, we must draw aside time's curtain and look backward over the century just ended now dead in all save its grand results, so prolific of victories of heroes and their accompaniments of triumph, heartaches and tears.

The nineteenth century, with its miraculous achievements in science, in wonders of art, in its rapid strides toward the accomplishment of all ends desirable.

Whose funeral notes are still sounding in the corridors of time? Contemplating its people in our fair state, left to contemplate that century's grandeur of thought, mechanical skill, art and science in this, we must, perforce, predict for the birthyear of the next century a period in which all of these are marvelously intensified by the steady march of time.

Kentucky can bring to the year 2000 no Daniel Boone, man of destiny that rescued her from the wilds and barbarism, because, thank to progress, we do not need one, nor can another Jefferson Davis come to make proud her people.

Mayhap a Henry Clay will rise to bless the state that fostered him, or a Lincoln, in his purity and ostentatious goodness, to reproach a corrupt administration or stay imperialism.

Electricity, by its might magic, will draw within its stretching wires all nations, however remote, nearer and nearer, until voices reverberate over the sea, and faces dear are definitely portrayed as we speak heart to heart with those we love.

Electricity's crowning victory will be to indicate, by an abridged and rapid method that all of youth may not be spent toiling over books and conning problems.

Electricity will be the bloodhound to track the red-handed murderer, and to accomplish all things with dispatch; religion, the Reformer, that in the next century, regenerates the rugged Kentuckians of the cast, where crag and chain now overshadow and embrace a people of lawlessness and feuds; the tall mountaineer, pugnacious, resentful and unforgiving – a tool for crime.

Kentucky in the year 2000 will witness all these and more. She will be liberated from all thralldom, her institutions live amidst the rage of mammon, and all her interests blend in one harmonious song.

Kentucky then lifts up her flag unfurled, not as now with bowed head and blood stained garments trailing in the mire of political crime, as sadly she weeps for wayward sons, but with joyous face she defies the world to produce a race like hers; her "tall men, sun crowned, who arise about the fog in public duty" her women, tall willowy, graceful, heads poised like that of a Greek goddess, the light of intellect and womanly virtues illuminating her fair face and who, if misfortunes come, bow uncomplainingly to the rod.

Kentuckians! Proud and true, the very embodiment of all that fills the heart with native pride.

The year 2000 is what this century makes it, as the rushing river widens by the flow of its tributaries, and time, brother of space, will see our state brought out of shadow and gloom, and on her pedestal of honor and worth, a pedestal so high that no man or race may ever reach it.

Written by an eighth-grade student, Miss Sadie Thomas.

The Best State in the Union, and Why it is the Best.

This country of ours, the United States, is broad and long, containing many divisions, different in soil, climate and people.

Kissed on the extreme north by the breath of the Frost King, fanned on the south by the soft breezes of the great gulf, girdled on the East by the magnificent Atlantic, on the west by the snowy peaks of the Rockies and the perfumes of California's flowery valleys.

It is true the New England states have their fine schools, the middle states their manufactories, electric railways and millionaires, the western states their fine mines, big trees and health-giving climate; the southern states cotton fields and manufactories of fine cigars, and where the Father of Waters goes flowing by rich cities on and on to where the Crescent City's tropical beauty entrances the senses; but to the central states belongs Kentucky.

It is true that the older and wealthiest States cry "Progress! Progress!," but in the future drawing night Kentucky will rank with the greatest.

So our Kentucky, we claim, is the best state in the Union. She has rivers broad and long, tall mountains, rich valleys, untold wealth in minerals, stately trees, fair maids, brave men and swift horses.

She was the land loved by the red man when he hunted for "cane and turkey," her climate is temperate, her soil is the soil of every other state in the Union, besides all this, Kentucky was the home of Clay and the birth place of Breckinridge, Lincoln and, last but not least, our own martyred Goebel.

The moon beams clear, the grass grows bluer and the sun shines brighter in our Old Kentucky sky.

NOTICE OF PASSAGE AND

SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE

ORDINANCE NUMBER 09-09 AN ORDINANCE AMENDING CHAPTER 38 OF THE MARION CODE OF ORDINANCES RELATING TO

MODEL PROCURMENT CODE

Notice is hereby given that the City Council of the City of Marion, Kentucky, at its regular monthly meeting held on October 19, 2009, at 6:00 o'clock p.m., gave second reading and passed and adopted an Ordinance relating to the Marion Code of Ordinances, which Ordinance had been given its first reading at a regular meeting of the City Council held on September 21, 2009, at 6:00 p.m. A summary of the Ordinance is as follows:

This Ordinance amends Chapter 38 of the Model Procurement Code by incorporating the Kentucky Model Procurement, KRS 45A.345 through 45A.460. It is the intent of the city to comply with the letter and spirit of the statute in making all contracts and purchases, except for procurements used in relation to Community Development Block Grant money, through competitive negotiation unless specifically excepted whether or not each requirement of the statute is specifically referred to in this chapter.

The full text of the Ordinance is on file in the Office of the City Clerk in the City Building, Marion, Kentucky, where it is available for public inspection.

NOTICE OF SALE

By virtue of a Judgment and Order of Sale entered in the Crittenden Circuit Court on September 25, 2009 I, as Special Master Commissioner for the Crittenden Circuit Court, will on October 30, 2009, at the hour of 10:00 a.m. prevailing time, at the Courthouse door in the City of Marion, Crittenden County, Kentucky, proceed to offer for sale to the highest and best bidder, the real estate (hereinafter described and all the right, title, and interest of the parties hereto, to-wit:)

Parcel No:

058-20-10-002.00

Legal Description:

A certain house and lot in the town of Marion, Crittenden County, Kentucky, and in what is known as the Blackburn-Weldon Addition to said town and fronting on the south side of West Gum Street 80 feet and running back South 200 feet to an alley, and being Lot No. 4 in Block C as shown on the plat of said Addition - Less however a lot of 50 by 80 feet off of South end of the original lot which was sold to Walter Love on the 17th day of July, 1948, by Deed of record in Deed Book No. 80, page 419, Office of the Clerk of the Crittenden County Court.

LESS AND EXCEPT the following described property conveyed to Mae Belle Easley, by Marie Willis, a single person, by Deed dated August 12, 1994 and recorded in Deed Book 174, at page 690, and described as follows:

A small lot 3 feet by 150 feet off the East side of a certain lot in what is known as the Blackburn-Weldon Addition to town of Marion and being Lot No. 4 in Block C as shown on the plat of said Addition.

SOURCE OF TITLE: Being the same property conveyed to Effie Louise Gerard by Independent Properties LLC, a Kentucky Limited Liability Company by Deed dated October 11, 2007 and recorded in Deed Book 209, at Page 567, Crittenden County Clerk's Office.

The description provided herein was provided by the parties and is contained in the Judgment and Order of Sale.

Address: 320 West Elm Street, Marion, Kentucky

1. The Special Master Commissioner will sell same at public auction to the highest and best bidder at the Courthouse door for cash or a deposit of 10% of the purchase price with the balance on credit for sixty (60) days. The successful bidder shall be required to give a bond with good surety for the unpaid purchase price with said bond bearing interest at 12% per annum from the date of the sale. In the event Plaintiff is the successful purchaser, Plaintiff shall be entitled to a credit of its judgment against the purchase price and shall only be obliged to pay the Court costs, fees and costs of the Special Master Commissioner and any delinquent real estate taxes payable pursuant to the Order of Sale.

2. The Purchaser shall be required to assume and pay any ad valorem taxes and all taxes assessed against said property by any City, State, County or any school district which are due and payable at any time during the year 2010 or thereafter. Said sale shall be made subject to: all easements, covenants and restrictions of record; assessments for public improvements; and any facts which an inspection and accurate survey may disclose. Said property shall be sold with the improvements thereon "as is."

3. The purpose of this sale is the satisfaction of a Judgment entered on September 25, 2009 on behalf of the Plaintiff against the Defendant, Effie Louise Gerard for principal, plus interest and late charges; also accrued interest at the rate of 8.1459 percent per day from January 26, 2009 until date of this Judgment as of January 26, 2009 until date of this Judgment and interest at the rate of 12 percent per annum thereafter, attorney's fees and costs herein expended.

4. That the Plaintiff, Farmers Bank & Trust Company of Marion, Kentucky may apply toward payment of its bid, if any, and take credit therefore, the full amount of this judgment with interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum to the date of sale, if it should purchase the property at such sale. Furthermore, the Plaintiff will not be required to post a bond in the event it is the successful purchaser.

5. Upon confirmation of the sale and after payment of costs and attorney's fees, the Special Master Commissioner shall distribute the proceeds of the sale to the Plaintiff, Farmers Bank & Trust Company of Marion, Kentucky, in satisfaction of this judgment. Thereafter, the remaining proceeds of the sale, shall be held pending further orders of the court.

Dated this the 2nd day of October, 2009

Connecting flight

Tennessee couple makes unexpected, lasting friendship with airport caretaker

BY ALLISON EVANS
PRESS ASST. EDITOR

As caretaker of the Marion-Crittenden County Airport, Harry Nation's daily duties include monitoring and testing aviation fuel. Earlier this fall, his airport routine ushered in a personal relationship with a Tennessee couple who flew into Marion.

As next-door-neighbor to the airport, Nation was a natural choice as a part-time ambassador to check on travelers landing in Marion, be it with fueling, finding restaurants or local accommodations. The Tennessee couple he met this summer had a situation unique to the usual medical or business needs of airport patrons.

"I saw right way they were great people determined to get their son," said Nation, explaining how Dan and Linda Leonard flew a borrowed plane to Marion then sought a taxi ride to southern Illinois, where their son was attending the annual Juggalo gathering. They believed he had gotten in with the wrong crowd and had come to get him. Of course, Marion has no customary taxi service.

Realizing the couple's need, Nation took the Leonards to Cave In Rock, Ill., where they arranged to meet their teenage son.

"They thought God put us in the right place at the right time and wanted us to have a lifelong friendship," said Nation, who lives next door to the airport.

To show their appreciation for Nation's assistance, the Leonards treated Nation and his family to a vacation in Gatlinburg, Tenn., last weekend, including tickets to Dollywood and the Dixie Stampede.

Jim Johnson, chairman of the Marion-Crittenden County Airport Board, says the airport is fortunate to have Nation. Not only does he keep an eye on the fuel gauge, he is an asset to people – like the Leonards – who have transportation or other needs.

Johnson said traffic at the airport is increasing. One day in recent weeks, three jets were parked on the runway at one time.

One of the most common uses of the airport is for air medical transport companies which fly jets as opposed to helicopters. Johnson said jets can fly in weather that commonly grounds helicopters. On several occasions, a Crittenden County ambulance has met air medical teams at the airport and taken them to the hospital to pick up patients.

Corporate planes are also regular guests of the airport, either picking up local workers for travel or bringing corporate personnel to Marion on business.

Oct. 26 Red Ribbon Week Oct. 30

Promoting school and community

Area businesses and citizens are being asked to participate in Red Ribbon Week. It kicks off Monday with everyone wearing a red shirt to work and school.

Each October, Crittenden County School District observes Red Ribbon Week. It is a collaborative effort between the community and school district to promote a drug-free community. This year, the school district is going a step further and including health and wellness components to the awareness program. The week-long promotion is being called Red Ribbon Wellness Week in Crittenden County.

School counselors Robyn Taylor and Stefanie Hardin are spearheading the effort, but so far they have received a great deal of support. The Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce has pledged to help promote awareness and the Marion Tourism Commission is donating large red banners that will hang in town and at the schools. Red balloon bouquets and large red bows are being donated. Tambco Convenience Center is donating balloons, the Chamber is providing helium and local flower shops – Louise's, Stems and Twigs, Bowtanicals and Daisy Patch – are providing ribbons.

"Last year, the support was unreal," said Taylor. "The community really gets involved and that's great because the kids really need to see that support."

There will be themes each day at school and the week will culminate with a wellness fair at Rocket Arena next Friday. All sectors of the local health care industry are participating in the health fair. The public is invited to attend, Taylor said. The events will be from 8:30 a.m., to 2:30 p.m.

Tourism Director Michele Edwards works on one of the three signs promoting Red Ribbon Week. Two signs will go in the schools and at the courthouse gazebo.

Roads consolidated into one; new name Valley View

STAFF REPORT

Three roads in the Amish community between Fords Ferry Road and Turkey Knob Road have been consolidated into one and it will have a new name.

Crittenden County Fiscal Court approved the plan on Tuesday during its regular monthly meeting.

The court okayed the creation of a 1.8-mile thoroughfare named Valley View Road.

The road includes a new bridge built last year across Crooked Creek.

The county has two other roads with similar names, View Road and Valley Road, but magistrates figured there wouldn't be any great confusion between those and the newly named one.

There are about five residences on the road, mostly Amish families.
