Fire station bid takes project over $1 million

STAFF REPORT

Unless city leaders can find a way to trim a few hundred thousand dollars from the current design, Marion's new fire station will cost well over $1 million by the time it's built.

Marion City Council met in special session at 5 p.m., Wednesday to discuss bids on the project.

Five general contractors submitted sealed bids a few days ago and all of them came in well above the projected price tag city leaders had discussed earlier in the year. B.H. Green of Paducah submitted the lowest bid at $942,000. The same contractor also built the Crittenden County Detention Center and Senior Citizens Center addition.

Although it never had a firm projection for a price, council members had tossed around a few numbers when talking about the fire station last spring. Those figures were around $600,000 to $750,000.

The city already has about $200,000 invested in the corner lot at Main and Bellville where the proposed fire station will go. It paid $130,000 for the property, $32,000 for demolition and site preparation and about $50,000 so far for architectural and engineering fees.

"This is well beyond what we'd talked about," City Administrator Mark Bryant said after reviewing the bids.

Bryant confesses that the building was designed as a state-of-the-art fire station that should be a modern facility well into the future. While cutting corners is not an attractive proposition, there may need to be some cutbacks in order to fit the project into cost expectations, he said.

"We had the architect design a facility that would have everything our firefighters will need for many years to come," he said. "I don't think we would want to significantly deduct from that."

The scope of the project has changed somewhat in the past few months. Original plans called for a 6,900-square-foot building. In order to accommodate everything the city wants in the building, the station has grown to 8,100-square feet. Bryant attributes much of the additional cost to the larger building and some of the cosmetic detail of the building.

The current design calls for a three-sided clock turret on top of the fire station. Bryant said that feature alone will cost between $80,000 and $100,000.

"The council may want to consider some of the finishings," Bryant said.

The station will have three bays and will be able to hold at least six fire-fighting vehicles, including the department's newest rig, a 75-foot ladder truck.

Once a bid is awarded, the contractor will have 380 days to complete construction. Bids ranged in price from Green's low figure to $1.26 million. Two bids were over $1 million. The second lowest bid was $954,000 by Pinnacle Inc., of Paducah.

Tinsley's family still awaiting answers

BY CHRIS EVANS
PRESS EDITOR

It's been over two months since 47-year-old Glenda Tinsley died in a tragic fire at her rural Crittenden County home. Although investigators say it was intentionally set, there have been no charges filed and no suspects or leads publicly disclosed.

State police spokesperson Stu Recke said Tuesday that the investigation is indeed ongoing, yet no new details are available.

While investigators say they continue to gather and review information in the case, Tinsley's family and the community ache for information about who set the fire and what really happened on that hot Sunday afternoon Aug. 1.

"There are way too many questions and not enough answers," said Teena York, who worked with Tinsley on the ambulance service for several years. "All Glenda did was help people. Everybody wants to know what happened."

Theories and rumors abound and Tinsley's family says some of them hurt.

Pat Tinsley, the 49-year-old widowed husband, goes to the cemetery every day, sometimes twice. He visits the site of the fire, seeking his own answers.

"I go out to the house and clean up a little, that was our home," he said. "I go there and to the cemetery to be alone, and because I feel closer to her."

There is little left of the two-story brick house. It was a total loss, but Tinsley is still making mortgage payments. Until there is resolution in the case, there will be no financial help from insurance companies.

Tinsley's death certificate remains incomplete. An autopsy right after the fire indicated that she died of smoke inhalation. However, that report was only a preliminary one, subject to further investigation and other details of the case.

Crittenden County Assistant Coroner Bill Myers says the death certificate is pending until state police complete their investigation.

"There is no closure," said Crystal Rittenberry, Glenda Tinsley's younger sister. "It's like we're still living in that day in August. We're stuck."

What the family does know is that kerosene covered much of the house and there was a trail of the flammable liquid leading into the garage. Police have said the fire was indeed arson, but have provided no further details. "I wish they'd hurry up and tell us something,"

God's love covers a multitude of sins

Yes, love covers a multitude of sins, but that is God's love that is granted to us that we might confess (name) our sins and be forgiven. This love never covers unconfessed and unforsaken sins.

We all constantly hear about God's love for us, but how long has it been since we heard a sermon on how much we are to love God and why?

Jesus tells us, we are to love God with all our heart, soul, mind and strength, and our neighbor as ourselves.

If we love God with all our heart, soul, mind and strength, we do not have anything else to sin against Him with. If we love our neighbor as ourselves, we will not commit sin against any human being, even our enemies.

And why should we love God? We love Him for what

He has already done for us, and He lets us have everything we have, even though we have sinned against Him. We don't love our parents because of what they are going to do, but because of what they have already done for us.

That is what John is talking about in 1st John 3:1-3 when he said to the redeemed, "Behold what manner of love the Father has bestowed upon us that we should be called the sons of God... and every man that has this hope in Him purifies himself, even as He is pure."

Yes, we have a responsibility to clean up our act after God has forgiven us, and John said to the extent that Jesus kept Himself pure.

The old flesh doesn't want to hear that it has to do something against its carnal desires, but the Bible is our only authority on how to make Heaven our home. Jesus said, "The word that I have spoken, the same will judge you in the last day." John 12:48.

The Hebrew writer tells us, "Without holiness, no man shall see the Lord." 12:14. Now, you hear the old flesh cry out, "No one can live holy!!!" If that truly is the case, then no one will see the Lord.

When Jesus said "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect," He was on the subject of loving God supremely and your neighbor as yourself, even your enemies.

"But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you; that you may be the children of your Father which is in heaven. For He blesses the good and the bad... so be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." Matt. 5:44-48.

It is a very vividly proven fact that no one can live holy on their own and love God or man as we should. We must first confess (name) all our sins, asking God to forgive us, looking at those hateful, shameful and embarrassing sins and see them as God sees them, and then He will forgive us.

Then we must do as Paul tells us in Romans, "I beseech you therefore brethren, by the mercies of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy (clean) and acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind that you might know what is good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God." 12:1,2. He wants to use us to help others in this world and to get to Heaven.

We are only truly converted when we do this and to the full measure that God changes us then and there. If we have not been changed by God's transformation – from a sinner to a Christian with a true change to where we begin to hate sin to the point we won't want it any more – we are not redeemed.

That redemption and change comes from the fact Jesus shed His innocent blood for the guilty sinner, suffering atrocious agony being beaten almost to death, then nails driven through His hands and feet.

As He hung there for six long hours, in order for Him to breathe He had to pull against His nailed torn hands, push against His nail torn feet, and rub up against that old rugged wooden cross with His riveted and brutally lacerated back.

All of this horrific suffering for the likes of us! Yes, none of us were worth it, but He thought we were, because we were made by His Father in His image.

Letters to the Editor

Rallying around team is best plan

To the Editor:

I am writing, as everyone would expect, in response to the letter printed last week from the Cosby family regarding the Crittenden County High School soccer program.

First, I would like to commend the hard work and dedication of this year's soccer team and its coaches, Ken Geary, Dan Brady and Tom Hinton. I believe a correct coaching strategist would consider this year a rebuilding season.

This team has come from previous seasons with heartfelt losses, yet has embraced hope. The courage these players have displayed – during games and now through public embarrassment from the previous letter – exemplifies strong and articulate young ladies. If our measure of success is based on a win or loss, then the Cosbys are correct about how recreational soccer will be affected.

However, the true scale of success as parents, coaches, etc., should be based on building character and instilling positive self-confidence and esteem. We together will accomplish this through motivating our team and teammates, not tearing it down with a letters about the team's losses and mercy rules.

Let's face it, the root of this problem is Title IX mandating the number of sports the school must offer; therefore, minimizing participation in any given sport. The sport is still so new to this area; we do not have generations of experience to offer to our youth such as football, basketball, etc. In order to overcome this, your coaching staff is working tirelessly, educating themselves on different strategies and methods for their team.

It is very easy to stand aside – and write on Facebook – offering thoughts and suggestions which could lead them to victory, yet not offer that advice to the coaching staff. I have always been asked, "Do you want to be a builder or on the wrecking crew?" As a recreational soccer parent and youth soccer board member, I recommend we rally around our soccer team and coaches, and focus on being builders.

Appreciated time for reminiscing

To the Editor:

Just wanted to thank Linda Schumann and all the others who helped put the recent reunion together for the high school band. It had been many years since I had seen some people and it was a good day for reminiscing. Think we all enjoyed it. It was good to see Mr. and Mrs. Croghan, too.

Here is why I will support Frazer

To the Editor:

Here is why I support Bart Frazer for county attorney.

Over the past few years, I have had the unique opportunity to get to know both candidates for Crittenden County Attorney. Our county is in a unique position because we have two qualified candidates, both of whom are very nice, and active supporters of our community.

So how did I decide to vote for Bart?

First, there is no question in my mind that Bart is more than qualified to represent our county in court. Bart has run a successful local law practice for years and he understands the concerns of Crittenden County. He has a clear vision to how he can save money for taxpayers. Bart has surrounded himself with an excellent team of individuals who are prepared to step in and go to work on day one.

Ms. Johnson has done an excellent job as county attorney, increasing child-support collection and I applaud her for her efforts. However, reality is that Bart would also do an excellent job with child-support. Bart has made it clear that he would continue building on the work that Ms. Johnson started, and he also recognizes that our county faces many other issues that cannot be ignored! In addition to child support, Bart would implement a new electronic system to make it easier for local businesses to collect on cold-checks. He would also implement a new ankle-bracelet program that would save thousands of dollars for Crittenden County taxpayers.

My vote in favor of Bart goes much deeper than the issues although they cannot be ignored. Bart has personally opened many doors in my life and for that I am grateful.

I want to thank Bart for hiring me as a co-op student when I was in high school, he always went above and beyond to teach me about law and encouraged me to go for my dreams no matter how big or small. I had the amazing opportunity of working with Bart and his staff for over two years. During that time, I learned how much Bart loves our community. Anyone who takes a moment just to sit down and talk with Bart can see the sincere passion that he has.

In my introduction, I made it very clear that both candidates are very nice individuals and I sincerely do mean that. However, as a county, we need to look at where we are and then where we want to go. No one can deny that the economy has been slipping over the past few years. Bart has many excellent ideas that will help save taxpayer money. Why not give him a chance to prove to Crittenden County that he is the best individual for the job?

Water board is changing meeting without notice

To the Editor:

I'd first of all like to thank The Crittenden Press for the article on the water situation on Emmaus Church and Butler roads. The residents here continue to try to get something done but it keeps falling on deaf ears. Some of us took time out of our schedules to go to the water board meeting on Sept. 27 and found out the meeting had been changed to an earlier date without proper notice. This is totally against Kentucky's Open Meetings laws and has happened several times in the past. This is just some of the opposition we continue to go through as we continue to fight for water.

Back in March, the head of the water department board came to my house and told me what a huge mistake they made by not running water to us in 2008. He told me that he would take care of it and see that we got water. Four months later, he changed his story and said they are not going to help us.

We are so upset because of the broken promises. I was told that they in fact ran two lines over a mile each that nobody hooked onto, because the board wanted them run. Why didn't they run a line to us, where we have 10 homes wanting 14 hookups. We will continue to stand up for our rights, and to have a water line run to us. My grandmother is in her 80s and her well went dry. She hasn't had water in over a month and is very shaken by all of this.

My grandfather, the late Orlin Long, served on Kenergy's board of directors for years. He was all about the small person and making sure that they had the same rights as the big guy. I saw him on many occasions stand up against other board members on what was right and fair for the little guy. That's the way it's supposed to be. It seems like whether you get water or not depends on your last name or how popular they are in this area. It's time something is done about it.

Ballard attorney supports Johnson

To the Editor:

I am writing on behalf of your County Attorney Rebecca Johnson. I am county attorney in Ballard County and we came into office at the same time. During the past three and a half years, we have come to know each other quite well. When I need advice from a fellow county attorney, Becky is someone I can always rely on to help. Becky has done an excellent job as Crittenden County Attorney, and she is well respected across the state for the work she does.

I am particularly impressed with the way she has handled child support enforcement in your county. In her brief period in office, your county's statewide ranking has drastically improved. The office consistently ranks in the top 10 and is currently ranked second among all 120 counties. With Becky at the helm, the Crittenden County Attorney's office was recognized as the most improved office in the state in 2008.

Becky is dedicated and hard-working. It is an honor to write this letter on behalf of my friend, Rebecca Johnson. I urge you to keep her in office by voting for her on Nov. 2.

Setting the record straight on county's Child Support office

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to set the record straight about misinformation that is being told to the voters of this county. I am the Crittenden County Child Support Coordinator and handle the administrative duties of the office which includes the budget. The facts are as follows:

We provide a service to the custodial, noncustodial parents and grandparents of this county absolutely free of charge, even though we could charge, and other counties charge non-public assistance parents for collection services.

The Child Support office receives no funds from the county. The money that is allocated to operate our office comes from a combination of state and federal funding.

We operate the child support office with a budget that is established by the State of Kentucky, and our budget is smaller than counties of comparable size which means when we go over budget because a copier breaks down or when the state is late with our contract payment, Rebecca must make up the difference, often times from private funds.

Since January of 2007, our child support has saved the county approximately $38,000 as the Crittenden County Fiscal Court no longer pays the employer's portion of the Kentucky State Retirement for the child support employees as it had during previous county attorneys' terms.

In closing, I would like to say your Child Support office is only as good as its leader. I have seen in Rebecca, hard-working ethics, determination to do the right thing, and a willingness to go above and beyond to put the children of this county first. I urge you to keep Rebecca working for you.

Funeral home adds names to chapels

Gilbert Funeral Home has put a personal touch on its funeral chapels, naming them for three men with long histories in the funeral business.

Brad Gilbert, co-owner of Gilbert Funeral Home, said the idea sprung from discussions about adding dignity to the funeral home's two chapels. Before they had non-descript names.

The main 120-seat chapel is now known as the Tucker-Hunt Chapel, named for Thomas N. Tucker and Wilbur Hunt. Both men are deceased. Each had funeral homes in Marion for many years.

The secondary chapel that seats 80 is now the York Chapel, named for longtime funeral director Clinton York.

Terry and Sandra Gilbert purchased the Hunt Funeral home from Wilbur Hunt in 1976. In 1981, they purchased the Tucker Funeral Home. They consolidated them in 1983 and now their sons operate the Marion funeral home and others in southern Illinois.

"We thought this would be a good way to pay our respects to these men and their legacies," Brad Gilbert said.

The funeral home has also added a children's room with a television and play area.

Here are brief profiles of the men for whom the chapels are now named:

•Thomas Tucker was a graduate of Marion High School and the Cincinnati College of Mortuary Science. He was a World War II veteran, serving in the U.S. Navy. After returning home, he joined the funeral business which his father established in 1904, and operated Tucker Funeral Home until 1981 when it was sold to the Gilberts. He was also a noted historian. He died Aug. 24, 2001 at the age of 86.

•Wilbur Hunt, a U.S. military officer during World War II, was cited for bravery during the attack at Pearl Harbor. He founded Hunt Funeral Home in October 1951 and operated it until the business was sold to the Gilberts in 1976. Hunt died at age 74 on Sept. 5, 1985.

•Clinton York was one of the first EMTs in Marion and the county coroner for more than four decades. He got his start in the funeral business with Hunt Funeral Home and later worked at Hunt-Gilbert Funeral Home following the merger. He had been associated with the local funeral homes for more than 40 years when he retired shortly before his death. York was also in the flower business with his late wife, Louise. He died on June 28, 2008 at the age of 74.

CCHS yearbook wins top honors at MSU

Crittenden County High School won Best Overall Yearbook Award and the staff also captured the award for Best Sports Section at the 36th annual Journalism and Broadcasting Workshop at Murray State University. This year's workshop had a record number of 427 high school media students and advisors from 16 schools. Crittenden students brought home two awards.

Event partners included GEAR UP Kentucky of the Council on Post-secondary Education, GEAR UP and SOAR managed by the West Kentucky Educational Cooperative, the MSU office of regional stewardship and outreach and the MSU department of journalism and mass communications housed in the college of business.

The one-day workshop was funded by a grant from the Kentucky College Access Network and offered nine different programs to the students for the one day class. A wide range of newspaper and yearbook media topics were covered including, sports reporting and sports columns and designing and selling of high school yearbooks.

"The students learned how to do business with the community and it builds a sense of pride for the school and students," Crittenden County yearbook advisor Deonna McCord said. "It was a great opportunity for the students to take an idea from the real world and see it go into an actual finished product."

The Gainesville newspaper also said that witnesses told authorities that Segarra's vehicle hit the small trailer the Edwards were pulling, causing them to be thrown off their motorcycle.

Linda Edwards landed on the inside northbound lane and died at the scene, the newspaper reported. Her husband landed on the east side of the guardrail and was rushed to South Georgia Regional Medical Center. He was later transferred to Tallahassee Memorial Hospital.

Segarra was not injured. The Florida newspaper said the case was still under investigation.

Edwards had worked for many years at the nursing home, hospital and most recently at Family Practice Clinic in the laboratory.

This weekend's hunt is for gunners age 15-under

Youth deer hunting is this weekend

Kentucky's youth-only firearms season for deer is timed for success with the latest snap in fall-like temperatures.

"It's not too cold, and it's the first firearms season of the year, so deer are relaxed," said Kristina Brunjes, deer biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "They haven't been gun hunted and they're in an early fall feeding pattern."

Kentucky's youth hunt for deer, first held in 1996, is this weekend, Saturday and Sunday.

The season was created to offer resident and non-resident boys and girls ages 15 and under an introduction to deer hunting with the maximum opportunity for success. Youth hunters must be accompanied by an adult. This adult might be a parent, grandparent, relative, family friend or mentor at least 18 years of age. The adult must be in position to take immediate control of the youth hunter's firearm at all times. Non-hunting adults accompanying youth during this season do not need a valid Kentucky hunting license or deer permit. Adults who plan to hunt with a youth during this season must use archery equipment only.

"Youth hunters must be able to handle and control

Provide rest for sleepy children of all ages

Many of us are surprised by how much sleep our children need. Adults need between seven to nine hours of sleep each night, and many of us often run on far less. Because we need less sleep, we may think our children can get by with the same amount as we do, but that's not the case.

The American Academy of Pediatrics offers the following sleep guidelines for children:

- Newborn to 6 months- 16 to 20 hours
- 6 to 12 months- 14 to 15 hours
- 1 to 3 years- 10 to 13 hours
- 3 to 10 years- 10 to 12 hours

Nancy Hunt Home Notes

hours
•11 to 12 years- about 10 hours
•Teenagers- about nine hours
Keep in mind that these numbers reflect total sleep hours in a 24-hour period. For example, 12-year-olds who get up at 7 a.m. should be in bed by at least 9 p.m. to get their full 10 hours of sleep.

Children who are regularly sleep deprived are often exhibit behavioral problems. They may be irritable, overly emotional, have difficulty concentrating, forget easily, wake up several times during the night and may exhibit hyperactive behaviors.

Be firm about a bedtime routine. A routine could include giving your children choices about which pajamas to wear, the stuffed animal he or she wants to take to bed, etc. Try a warm, relaxing bath. Playing soft and soothing music can help. Tucking your children into bed snugly can give them a feeling of security. Follow through with your plan consistently each evening, even if your children protest and test you at first. If you are firm, they will come to respect your guidance.

Moving their bedtime up a half hour is another way to help them get enough sleep. To do this, try including a winding-down period in the bedtime routine. Your child may enjoy cuddling while being read a bedtime story or playing a quiet board game with you.

Avoid permitting your child to drink caffeinated beverages near bedtime. Caffeine is a stimulant and can disrupt a child's normal sleep rhythm.

An hour or two before bedtime children might enjoy a light snack like some crackers, a handful of cereal, fresh fruit or vegetables, popcorn or a small portion of sherbet, but they should not eat a heavy meal just before going to bed.

Don't give your baby or toddler a bottle to aid sleeping. This can cause "baby bottle tooth decay" because the fluids tend to pool in the child's mouth.

Remind younger children about their approaching bedtime by giving them a heads-up a half hour before and a 10-minute warning.

Encourage your older children to set and maintain a bedtime that allows for the full number of hours needed for their age. Some firm limit setting may be necessary here if your children are not able to discipline themselves to go to bed on time.

Just remember that every child is different, and there's not just one way to raise a good sleeper. As active as children are, most have the ability to sleep well. The key is for parents to help them establish healthy sleep habits and have a routine of winding down before heading for bed.

Salem Garden Club President Janet Hughes, Vice President Donna Howard (center) and City Clerk Hazel Croft cut the yellow ribbon to the city's new pavilion and garden area.

Salem dedicates new pavilion during Bicentennial and jamboree celebration

With a hint of fall in the air, the Salem Garden Club held its Bicentennial Courtyard dedication service on Sept. 18th. Vice President Donna Howard had the honor of cutting the ceremonial yellow ribbon. Contractors Israel Sanders of IS Custom Building, Larry Tinsley Electrical Service, James Gingerich Masonry, Larry Gibson of Action Fencing, Doug Thomas and Marty and Joe Kaiser were recognized for their work on the courtyard and pavilion.

Two beautification awards were presented also. Mr. Ralph Barnes of N. Hayden St., was presented the most improved property award. In the past few months he had purchased two lots next to him with houses that were beyond repair. J.D. and Wilma Gilland of Howard Lane were presented the best maintained property award. They purchased a home in Salem five years ago with no trees, shrubs or flowers in sight. Today it is fully landscaped. These winners were nominated by the citizens of Salem and were judged by members of the Salem Garden Club who live outside of the county.

The courtyard and pavilion are for the community to use, free of charge.

Phase II of the courtyard will begin with a memory brick walkway in the lower garden area. This will be your last chance to contact Carolyn Howard at 988-2033 and purchase a brick.

The Salem Garden Club's next meeting will be at 6:30 p.m., Oct. 11 at Salem City Hall. Visitors are welcome.

New events to come to Cave In Rock

The Opry House Committee in Cave In Rock, Ill., has started to get things underway after kicking off its first event, a gospel singing, in September.

With the singing leading the way, other events are soon to follow as the committee is working on "The Return of the Beans," a talent show, a style show, drama dance team and a special about the Harper Brothers with the history of Cave In Rock.

Although the committee started out with little to no money, June McDowell is happy to report that the committee received a donation from a person in Salem, Ill.

"They said that they had heard of our efforts and wanted to help us get started," McDowell said. "This shows us that God is working through strangers to help us in our effort."

As the dates for the events are confirmed, they will be announced later on in the paper. Everyone is welcome to attend the events.

Crittenden schools hosting food drive through October

The Crittenden County Elementary, middle, and high schools will be sponsoring a community food drive in conjunction with Make A Difference Day and FRYSC. Collecting began at all three schools on Monday and concludes Friday, Oct. 22. The elementary school will also be collecting food items at its Fall Festival on Oct. 23.

Student Council members and AmeriCorps members will be counting the ounces in the collected food.

The classes are competing for a reward for raising the most food. Donations can be dropped off at the schools and receipts can be given for tax-deductions. Contact the AmeriCorps members at your school if you have any questions.

PUBLIC MEETING

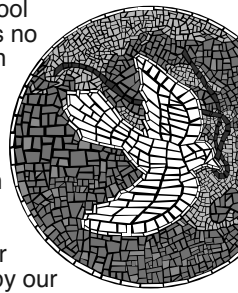

On October 8th at 11:00 a.m., Pennyrile Allied Community Services, Inc. (PACS), will hold a public meeting to discuss and determine the needs of low-income families of Crittenden County. This meeting will be held at the Crittenden County Senior Citizens Center, 210 North Walker Street. We, at PACS, need the residents of the community, and/or individuals served by their local PACS Community Office, to attend this meeting. We need to know what they see as the local needs and what their concerns are. This will assist PACS in setting priorities in addressing the needs/concerns of the residents for the upcoming year 2011-2012.

"This project funded, in part, under a contract with the Cabinet For Health and Family Services with funds from the community service block grant act of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services."

Let’s visit some historic locations on U.S. 60 East

Our county has scenic views and items of historical interest and also things that are interesting just because they were part of our past that we remember from years gone by. This week’s article takes a pictorial visit in the northern part of the county on U.S. 60 East.

Winlow Park
(This article about the park was written in July 1931)

“Winlow Park, having been the scene of the majority of enjoyable picnics given in Marion during the last few summers, has become a by-word with every Marion resident. Not so many years ago, it was a rather bare, uninviting tract of land with a few trees, a small house in the center of it, an unusually high trestle at the rear, and a sluggish creek that meandered through it unmolested.

Today, the many benches, tables, and electric lights make it possible for a picnic to be given there with as much ease and convenience as a meal served in the dining room of one’s home.

Mr. Virgil L. Stone, who is responsible for the many changes and improvements which have taken place at Winlow, has spared neither time nor money to make the park an attractive and inviting place for picnickers and tourists.

A tourist camp containing three bedrooms and three garages has been built, a self-generating electric light plant has been installed, benches and tables have been constructed, swings have been hung from the limbs of the large trees and a 9-hole miniature golf course has recently been completed. Surely no city park boasts more attractions and conveniences.

Mr. Stone makes no charges for the use of the park, but leaves the matter of whether they will pay or not entirely up to his guests. He says that the park was improved for their use and enjoyment and it is his pleasure to have them there.”

Although the park is no more, I’m sure many people remember having picnics at Winlow Park. It was well known for family reunions, church picnics and just good old-fashioned family outings. Many of the attractions such as the swings and miniature golf course were not there in the 1950s. The Harrison train trestle can still be seen from the highway today. It is the only train trestle left in Crittenden County and a landmark.

Within the past few years the old grocery store, which was also the family home of the Stone family, has been taken down due to years of lack of use and weather deterioration. Although the appearance has changed a little, you can still see one of the cabins that Mr. Stone built for people to stay in many years ago.

King Cemetery
A little farther down the road you will come to the Rogers Group Rock Quarry. Have you ever noticed sitting in the middle of this rock quarry is a piece of land, now looking much like a lonely wooded mountain top in the midst of a sea of gravel?

Before the land was a rock quarry it was regular farm land. On top of this odd looking sight is located the King Cemetery. At one time this cemetery was well used by the local families living in this area. The most prominent family names that you will find on the markers are of the King and Brantley families.

The cemetery can be reached by stopping at the front office of the business and asking for assistance in reaching the cemetery since it’s like a maze of gravel and roads finding the right entrance. You climb a rather steep incline to reach the top where the cemetery is located. As a sign of hard times during the use of this cemetery, there are many, many, unmarked grave sites.

Roadside picnic areas
I wonder if there are many that remember the little roadside picnic tables and grills that use to be scattered across the state. I remember the one that was located on U.S. 60 East right before you get to the Rosebud Cemetery.

As we visited with kinfolks that lived in Sturgis, this would be a halfway stopping point to have something to eat and drink and let me and my brother stretch from riding in the car so long. In the 40s and 50s, a trip to Sturgis was a long way when you had to sit still in the back seat.

The state of Kentucky advertised these roadside picnic areas as a pleasant place to stop and rest, eat, check routes and make vehicle repairs and prevent and relieve fatigue. Dixie Belt Watson, who lived across the road a short distance from the stopping place, remembers that it was used frequently by people with car trouble and also as a resting place to catch up on lack of sleep from traveling.

The picnic tables at first were made of wood, but later were replaced with concrete ones as shown in the picture. This picture was made in 2005, and although the area was fenced off from the highway you could still see the once used table and grill. Today the table has almost completely disappeared from sight as deterioration has taken its toll and weeds have covered the area.

Past voting house for District 1

Across the highway from the picnic area sits a well kept white looking store building, maintained by the Percy “Sam” Belt family. This little building was built by Warner Mayes many years ago. Although never a true country store, it did at one time store feed sold to local farmers. It is now mostly remembered as the voting place for District 1. A few years ago when the voting place was moved to the Mattoon Fire Department building at Mattoon.

Rosebud Church
Continuing a short distance down the road you will see the Rosebud church and cemetery on the right. Another one of Crittenden County’s pretty rural churches is the Rosebud Methodist Church located about 10 miles from Marion on U.S. 60 East.

Here is some history of this church. The first church was a log church build on 1 ½ acres of ground donated by Mr. Ira Nunn. The exact year is not known. In 1898 a new church was built and was called Rosebud Methodist Church.

Mrs. Nida King, a member of the church, painted a glass window pane with a rosebud for the new church. It was dedicated July 29, 1900.

In 1956 the church was remodeled with brick and looks like the picture you see above. The church is still being used today. On the hill beside the church is the Rosebud Cemetery. It is a very large and well-kept cemetery and has many Crittenden County pioneer family members buried here.

Dear Voters of District 5 (Precincts 3, 6 and 12)

It has been my honor and privilege to serve on the Crittenden County School Board representing the voters of District 5 (Precincts 3, 6 and 12) for the last eight years. Throughout those eight years I have always put our students and their education first. I have strived to make decisions that would improve the quality of education our students receive so they are prepared for the future. I have also made every effort to be a good steward of your tax dollars and have continually voted against tax increases when I felt they were unnecessary.

I am currently running for re-election to the Crittenden County School Board. When I was initially elected, I campaigned door-to-door and enjoyed meeting you and listening to your concerns about our school district. I also went door-to-door prior to my re-election four years ago, although I was unopposed, because I felt it was important to speak with those I would be representing.

My re-election campaign will be a bit different this time. My husband was recently diagnosed with a life-threatening illness and is currently undergoing treatment for that illness. Due to my husband’s health and the needs associated with it, I will not be able to do as much door-to-door campaigning as I would like. However, it is my intent to personally contact as many of you as possible. I look forward to meeting and speaking with you. I would also like to make it clear that my husband’s illness will not affect my ability or capability to serve on the Board.

I ask for your vote on November 2, 2010
I will be #2 on the ballot.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Orr

City plans to sewer U.S. 60 West homes

City officials are seeking right-of-way permission from residents along U.S. 60 West where a new sewer line will be built.

Plans are to extend city sewer services west to where EZ&J's restaurant is located. The original plan for running sewer to that area was precipitated by a request from a former owner of the restaurant and RV park, who had talked about building a motel.

City Administrator Mark Bryant said that although the motel is no longer planned, the sewer project is still on schedule and phase one could be completed this year. A second phase would add homes along Airport Road and farther west on U.S. 60. About 25 homes total would be added to the city sewer system.

The project is being funded with grant money. It will cost about $250,000 and some of the areas added would be subject to annexation into the city, Bryant said.

Magistrate hurt in accident in Mattoon

Crittenden County Magistrate Curt Buntin of Sheridan was injured in a two-vehicle collision on U.S. 60 East in Mattoon Friday afternoon.

Buntin and his father, Wade, were in one vehicle. Larry Manness of Marion was driving the other. All three were taken to area hospitals with minor injuries.

According to police reports, the Buntins were turning onto Ky. 654 North when Manness' vehicle hit them in the rear.

Reward offered in 60 wreck

Witnesses say victim was run off highway

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Tipline is offering a $500 reward to anyone with information leading to charges against the person who caused an accident on U.S. 60 East Friday afternoon.

Crittenden County Sheriff's Deputy Don Perry said investigators are looking for the driver of a gray Ford Focus. The driver was a middle aged man, witnesses told the deputy. After allegedly causing the wreck, the driver of the Ford stopped briefly, but then left the scene headed toward Sturgis.

The accident happened at 5:26 p.m., 11 miles east of Marion near the intersection of Blackford Church Road. Witnesses told investigators the Ford Focus was passing two other vehicles on a straight stretch of the highway when it allegedly forced off the road a 1997 Ford Ranger driven by Willard L. Oliver, 78, of Marion.

Oliver was driving toward Marion and had to take the ditch to avoid a collision, investigators said. Although his vehicle was not badly damaged, Oliver suffered serious neck and head injuries. He was taken by ambulance to Crittenden Hospital and later flown to Deaconess Hospital in Evansville where he was in serious condition early this week.

Anyone with information can call Tipline and remain anonymous. Call Tipline at 965-3000 or call directly to the emergency dispatching center at 965-3500.

Deputy Perry said the driver of the Focus may face charges of leaving the scene of an accident or something more serious if the victim does not recover.

about. Students will also be writing essays in the classroom with winners earning cash prizes paid by Marion Tourism Commission.

The walking tour ends with a program at Fohs Hall featuring local author Ethel Tucker. Coloring books for the project were designed, written and illustrated by Kathleen Guess and Underdown. They are available to the public for $5.

Schools out next week for fall break

Crittenden County students will be on fall break all next week. Classes will not resume until Tuesday, Oct. 19. Monday, Oct. 18 will be a professional development day for teachers and staff.

Chamber will host after hours event

Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce will host a Business After Hours event from 5-6 p.m., Monday, Oct. 18 at the local law firm of Frazer, Rogers and Peek on South Main Street in Marion.

Rockets weather passing assault to win 34-18 against Ballard County

Defensive coordinator Vince Clark draws up a new strategy during a timeout.

MARION, Ky. — Wad up the stat sheet and toss it in the trash. Ballard Memorial's statistics to the Rockets in virtually every category except the place where it counted. The scoreboard read: Rockets 34, Ballard 18.

"We came up with the plays in the red zones," said Rocket coach Al Starnes. "We just played harder the whole game and made plays when we needed them."

Despite yielding 389 yards to the opposing Bomber offense, Crittenden County won a classic bend-but-don't-break victory in its first district matchup of the season. The win almost assuredly means homefield advantage in the first round of the playoffs. It was also a homecoming triumph for the Rockets.

On paper, Ballard's numbers were awesome. Quarterback Alex Mallory, one of the top passers in the state, threw for 297 yards; and his favorite target, caught eight balls for 108 yards. The statistical imbalance didn't stop there. Ballard kept the chains moving all night, racking up 25 first downs to Crittenden's nine, but couldn't close the deal.

The Rocket defense — saddled with trying to stop perhaps the most formidable passing tandem west of Owensboro — fisted up nearly every time its back was to the wall, stopping the Bombers on downs twice and forcing three turnovers at critical junctures.

Senior Robert Cudnik had a fumble recovery and interception to go along with a touchdown pass he caught in the first period. Classmate Jacob Long gathered up another loose ball.

The sixth-ranked Rockets capitalized on the Bomber mistakes, scoring after one fumble, the interception and once after stopping Ballard on a fourth down.

Mallory was practically unstoppable in the first half, driving his team down field with pinpoint passes, but he hit a hulk in the second half, missing on five straight throws and giving the Rockets some breathing room. Crittenden responded with two second-half touchdowns from a strong running game as senior Andrew Freeman finished off a three-touchdown performance with rushing scores in each of the last two periods.

Mallory completed 23 of 43 passes. He got back on target near game's end, connecting on eight straight in one stretch, including his second TD pass to Hill. Still, it wasn't enough as the Rockets (5-1) overcame the aerial assault with timely offensive spurts.

"Those two guys (Mallory and Hill) are for real," Starnes said. "But that's what happens with a lot with passing teams. They go from the 20 to the 20. We did what we had to do in the red zone and ran the ball to control the clock."

Tanner Nix opened the game by returning a kickoff 88 yards for a touchdown and Cudnik returned another Ballard kickoff 35 yards to the Ballard 26, setting up his own TD reception later in the first period.

Junior Dustin Hernandez broke loose on a 67-yard run in the second half to frame the Rockets' final touchdown early in the fourth period.

Winning the game gives Crittenden an edge over Ballard in the district race. Some had picked the Bombers to finish second in the league. Now, Crittenden has the edge. It needs only to win two of its last three district games to garner a home game in the first round of the Class A playoffs. A pair of those upcoming league matchups will be against winless Fulton and Fulton County. What's shaping up as the district title game will be at Mayfield on Oct. 22.

The Rockets travel this week to face 0-6 Fulton County.

The series: Crittenden County leads the series 20-9 since the teams first played in 1971. The series was actually tied until Crittenden won in 1996 to begin an 11-game winning streak against the Pilots. The 11 straight Rockets wins is the longest current winning streak against any team. Coach Starnes is 12-4 against Fulton County. Crittenden won by forfeit last season because of an illness in the Fulton County school. Prior to that, the Rockets had outscored the Pilots 40-9, on average, in the previous 10 games.

Game Notes: Fulton County is one of two schools in the county. It is actually located in the town of Hickman, on the Mississippi River. Through 6 games, the Rockets have scored 200 points, 4th most in history through that many games. The Pilots have not won a game since Week 2 of the 2008 season, losing 24 straight. Fulton County has just 1 victory in its last 32 games.

Scouting Report: The Pilots may be winless at season's end for the second straight year. They dressed 15 players in their last game. After the starting QB got hurt 3 weeks ago, sophomore FB Cody Chessor has taken over. Chessor, a fire-plug-looking player, is a kicker, punter and linebacker. Another 10th grader, DeMontrell Pierce, is about the only other offensive threat.

Rockets move to 2A class starting next year

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County will be playing football in Class 2A starting next year.

The change was officially announced Monday when the Kentucky High School Athletic Association unveiled its realignment of classes and districts for the 2011-2014 seasons.

The Rockets will join Caldwell County, Murray, Reidland and Ballard Memorial in the Class 2A First District. Union County will also be in Class 2A, but will play in the Second District alongside Hancock County, McLean County, Owensboro Catholic and Todd Central.

Periodic realignment is necessary to keep classes competitive and to assure that schools play against teams with similar school populations. The KHSAA classifies teams based on a school's male student population in grades nine through 12.

Crittenden County, which has almost 390 students, had 211.5 male students from the two-year enrollment average used by the KHSAA. Crittenden will be the fifth smallest school playing in Class 2A. Ballard is even smaller with 210 male students. Meanwhile, Caldwell is the second largest in the 2A division with 324.5 students. Union County is the largest with 330. Murray has 230 male students and Reidland 255.

Reidland is a team much improved under new head coach Jon Hedges (a former Murray High and Western Kentucky University player). However, the Greyhounds will be in the league for only one year before its scheduled consolidation with other McCracken County schools.

Rocket coach Al Starnes said the new district alignment will give Crittenden an opportunity to compete for a championship every year.

"There are no Mayfields in there," he said.

However, the Rocket coach said the district will be much more competitive top to bottom than the current Class A First District where Crittenden has finished first or second the last four years against Mayfield, Fulton City, Fulton County and Ballard Memorial.

With five teams in the new district starting next fall, Crittenden will have to win at least one district game to get into the playoffs. That will be a tough chore in the balanced league.

"It will be very competitive. Getting that one win will be huge because it's not like you will be playing teams that are really bad. Reidland is much better. Ballard has improved. Caldwell is always a thorn in our side and Murray is a traditional power that is always big and physical," Starnes said.

Mayfield will stay in class A as its largest team enrollment wise.

Coach Starnes is still working on the non-district schedule for next year. There will be five games outside of league play and right now Starnes is talking with Muhlenberg County, Massac County, Ill., Trigg County, Hopkins County Central, Madisonville and Union County. Crittenden will likely play some combination of five of those six teams next season. Webster County and McLean County have dropped the Rockets from their schedules, Starnes said.

Crittenden County seniors gave a beating to the lowerclassmen, claiming the powderpuff victory last week during homecoming. After defeating the freshmen in their first match, the seniors then took on the juniors, coming out with a second win.

Scholastic Sports Roundups VOLLEYBALL

Homecoming hampers volleyball line-up
Crippled from not having a complete lineup due to the powderpuff football game during Homecoming week last Thursday, visiting Union County took full advantage, sending the Lady Rockets to only its second two-game losing streak of the season 20-25, 18-25.

Missing eight players from a roster of 20, the Lady Rockets could never find any rhythm in either set and the Bravettes split the regular season series.

"I was disappointed that we didn't have a full lineup, and it showed in the final week," Crittenden coach Larry Duval said after the loss.

Lady Rockets fall to McLean County in two straight sets

After splitting two earlier meetings during the season, the Lady Rockets failed to get any consistency going at Calhoun last week and fell to McLean County in straight sets 12-25, 24-26.

Duval said the Lady Cougars were brimming with enthusiasm on their Senior Night and simply outplayed his team in the rubber match of the season.

"They were pumped high and heavy," he said.

But he was still unhappy that his team did not play as well as they should have.

"We just did not play to our potential," said the Lady Rocket coach.

With the Fifth District Tournament coming up next week, he hopes his team will get back on the winning track and finish the regular season on a positive note.

Lady Rockets fall to Lyon County in last week's game

Despite falling to Fourth District Lyon County last Thursday at home 8-1, the Lady Rockets continued to show improvement heading into the final week of the regular season.

Crittenden's defense showed tremendous effort the entire way, turning the Lady Lyons away several times deep in scoring territory.

Nonetheless, the visitors broke through, taking a 4-0 lead at the 16:16 mark of the first half.

Less than 1:00 later, Lady Rocket Zoe Black scored the first varsity goal of her career making it 4-1.

While keeping Lyon at bay the rest of the half, the hosts had chances of tightening the contest up some more. Unfortunately, they could not capitalize on some great scoring chances and still trailed by three goals at halftime.

The Lady Lyons recorded another goal only 2:02 into the second half, taking a 5-1 advantage.

During a winless season when even getting shots on goal has proven difficult, the Lady Rockets had five last Thursday.

Lady Rocket junior Emily Owen had two saves before being moved to offense. Reserve goalie DeDe Hinton came in and gave a great effort, recording three saves of her own.

Despite not yielding a win, Lady Rocket coach Ken Geary was pleased his team played as one unit and not as individuals.

"That was the best show of heart I have seen in two years," he said.

FIRE

Pat Tinsley said.

"I just can't get on with my life without some type of closure. I know they're busy and have other things going on, but it ain't getting any easier for me."

Tinsley went back to his job at the rock quarry in Fredonia a couple of weeks ago. He said that's helped occupy his mind a bit, but he still thinks about his wife of eight years almost nonstop.

"I had to go back to work. I was going crazy staying at home. This is on my mind constantly. I don't know how much more I can take."

Tinsley is no stranger to tragedy. His first wife, Denise, was killed in a freak ambulance accident in 2001. His special-needs son, Caleb, died the following year. That was his only biological child, but he has three step-children.

Tinsley and his step-daughter, Brittany, have been staying with family members since the fire.

"This has just been devastating to our mom (Connie Cowan), step-father and Glenda's three children," Rittenberry said. "My mother was one of the first ones there at the fire and had to stand there and watch this happen to her child. They were very close."

Local authorities have been tight-lipped about the investigation. They say state police detectives are handling the case. It's no secret, however, that local law enforcement had been notified several times about mysterious intruders at the Tinsley home in the months leading up to the fire.

Rittenberry said her sister had told her about several things that had happened. Once an unidentified person ran from the house while the Tinsleys were out back cleaning out their pool, she said. Another time, one of Glenda's daughters believed she saw someone in the house, and moments later a car alarm went off in the garage. Glenda had talked to local authorities about the incidents, but no suspects were ever identified.

The entire case includes a bizarre set of circumstances, including two cell phone calls from Glenda while the fire was burning downstairs – one to a police dispatcher and another to a co-worker. She first told the emergency dispatcher that she was upstairs and she thought an intruder was downstairs in the home. Later, she told the dispatcher she smelled smoke. That information was relayed by police radio to authorities heading toward the home after the call came in.

Sheriff's Deputy Don Perry was the first on the scene. He radioed back that he couldn't get into the house because of the raging flames, but had yelled for the victim to get to a window. For some reason, Tinsley never responded to his orders. Her remains were found in the charred rubble several hours later, after the upstairs of the house had collapsed.

Her husband was in Tolu when the fire broke out. He'd gone to his mother's house. He wonders if she tried to call him. Cell phone reception is poor in Tolu. Maybe she tried and couldn't get through.

"I looked through the phone bill to see, but they don't itemize every call like they used to," he said.

He is assistant fire chief on the Mattoon Volunteer Fire Department and heard the call come in on his fire radio. By the time he got back to the house, it was too late.

Pat Tinsley and his wife's family have discussed countless scenarios, trying to figure out for themselves what might have happened.

"I don't know anyone capable of doing this, but the fact is someone did," said Rittenberry, Glenda's sister.

"Nothing like this has ever hit this community before."

Answers to their questions will not bring Glenda back, but they might give this family a peace of mind for which it desperately longs. For now, the family continues to wait and wonder.

"I know she's in heaven. That's the only comfort I have," Pat Tinsley said.

CLEAN UP THAT LAWN:
It will soon be time to store the mower until spring, but chances are you will mow the grass a few more times before the snow falls. Or, you may use it to collect leaves and lawn clippings. You may love your lawnmower, but keep in mind it is a powerful tool, one that can cause significant injury. In 2007, more than 225,000 people were injured by power, manual and riding lawn mowers, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission.
