delayed while appeal is heard

The civil trial of former school superintendent Fredericka Hargis vs. Crittenden County School Board has been delayed. It was scheduled to start this week in Crittenden Circuit Court. The trial was postponed after a pre-trial hearing on Friday in Henderson when Judge Steven Hayden denied a motion by the defendant for summary judgement. The defendant, Crittenden County School Board, will file an appeal to the Kentucky Court of Appeals. The board of education claims that it is immune to civil litigation in this matter. The trial will be delayed until the appeals court decides the issue.

Dollar General will open Salem store

Site is on U.S. 60 next to restaurant

STAFF REPORT

Land surveyors are doing preliminary work before construction begins on a Dollar General in Salem. The small Livingston County town near Crittenden's western border is the second in the immediate area to get one of the new discount merchandising chain's stores. Emily Weiss, media representative for Dollar General's corporate headquarters in Goodlettsville, Tenn., said the Salem facility will be 9,100 square feet and will look like all other Dollar General stores. She said Dollar General stores typically employ between six and 10 people, depending on need. Information on jobs that will be available can be found at the company's Web site, www.dollargeneral.com. Janet Hughes, a member of the Salem City Council, said the store will be located in the vacant lot just west of the former Taylor's Restaurant on U.S. 60, almost directly across from Rudolph Farm Supply. Hughes said members of the community are excited about having a Dollar General in town. Marion's new Dollar General opened earlier this year, and Fredonia is anticipating the opening of its store on Ky. 91/U.S. 641 next month. All of the stores are built to the same specifications. The Marion location replaced a previous, smaller store that was on Main Street between Larry Orr, CPA and Farmers Bank and Trust Co. The previous store was less than 7,000 square feet. Dollar General has stores in 35 states and has aggressively been seeking new locations, many in smaller hamlets like Salem and Fredonia. Dollar General has opened 13 new stores in Kentucky this year and 225 stores throughout its 35-state area. "We are always looking for opportunities to grow in new communities where it makes sense for us," Weiss said. "This location is a good fit for us." Salem, with a population of about 770, is the largest incorporated city in Livingston County. The community of Ledbetter has nearly twice as many people. According to Census information, the median household income in Salem is $29,196.

ANSWERING the CALL

Local dispatchers will handle 911s starting on Nov. 2

Agent

STAFF REPORT

Beginning in November, Crittenden County will be answering the call. Local dispatchers will start handling all of its emergency 911 calls instead of getting them second hand from Kentucky State Police. Local officials say the move will improve emergency response times, open the door to more federal funding and create immediate cash flow from 911 taxes that are already being charged on cellular and land-line telephone bills. To oversee the new emergency response system, the City of Marion has hired Jayde Agent, a certified 911 dispatcher, who currently works for Kentucky State Police Post 1 at Mayfield. She starts next week. Agent, 27, is married to part-time Crittenden County Deputy Ray Agent, and she is sister-in-law to Sheriff Wayne Agent. She is originally from Madisonville. "She has all of the Department of Criminal Justice requirements necessary to be the 911 supervisor and she has multiple years of experience dispatching for state police," said City Administrator Mark Bryant. Agent, who will complete work on her bachelor's degree from Murray State in December, will officially serve as the Marion-Crittenden County emergency communications director. It is a new position necessitated and created because of the new Viper 911 system being installed here. The new system goes on line Nov. 2. It will require installation of new hardware, software and telecommunications equipment at city hall's central dispatching.

Since the inception of a 911 emergency system, Marion has been unable to handle its own phone calls. Those calls that originate from Crittenden County have first gone through a dispatcher at Kentucky State Police headquarters for Madisonville Post 2. After receiving the call, the state police have either radioed or phoned Marion dispatchers at city hall and relayed the vital information. It's a two-tiered system that needed to be one, said Marion Police Chief Ray O'Neal. "It's time for our central dispatching to be updated," the chief said. The equipment and procedures employed by the local dispatching center – while adequate and professional – are outmoded, O'Neal explained. When the new system is up and running, dispatchers will no longer need pen and paper to keep notes on emergencies that are in progress. "Everything will be computer generated," O'Neal said. Information will be keyed into the CAD (Computer Aided Dispatch) system where it will be stored and available for quick reference. Agent said there are numerous sources of federal aid for upgrading 911 systems. She will be spearheading a grant-writing effort to pursue further improvements to the data system at central dispatching. The center handles all dispatches for fire, police, ambulance and rescue. Agent will also work a regular shift on the board, probably afternoons. "There will be a huge new console in here," Agent said, pointing to the current telecommunications

At 96, Nellie Qualls stays on the move by carrying the mail at Salem Springlake.

Qualls stays on go by delivering mail

STAFF REPORT

If Nellie Qualls told you she was 69 years old – as she sometimes does just for laughs – you likely wouldn't contradict the claim. The 96-year-old former kitchen worker at Crittenden Hospital has for some time been volunteering at Salem Springlake Health and Rehabilitation, the long-term care facility where she resides. There, she delivers the daily mail to fellow residents. Qualls told the Activities Director Tammy Crowell that she wasn't interested in just sitting around. Qualls wanted something to do to fill her time. To make do every day after lunch, Qualls loads up the basket on her walker and marches up and down the halls of the place she's called home for nine years, handing out letters, magazines and weekly newspapers. Qualls has outlived most of her close relatives. Some of her family live in Indianapolis and Louisville, so she seldom has a great deal of company. Therefore, Qualls volunteers and participates in just about every activity the center offers. When she doesn't show for something that's going on, someone from the staff always goes looking for her. Qualls can also be found enjoying the fresh air in the courtyard, anything to keep her busy.

Waste contract expires County will have to rebid garbage pickup

STAFF REPORT

Due to an oversight, Crittenden County's franchise agreement with Freedom Waste is set to expire at the end of this month. Freedom Waste is the company that picks up residential and commercial garbage throughout the county. Magistrates realized Tuesday that the county's non-exclusive agreement with Freedom Waste was not automatically renewable unless terms were approved by both parties by Aug. 1. They discovered the deadline while reviewing some other terms of the agreement during the regular monthly meeting of the fiscal court. "I thought it was in November," said Judge-Executive Fred Brown. "I would think Freedom Waste would have contacted us about it. It's their contract."

The county entered into a contract with Freedom Waste last year after it purchased part of Waste Management's operation in western Kentucky. According to the original contract, Freedom Waste was to provide home and office trash services to the entire county and operate the convenience center on U.S. 60. Soon after the contract was executed, Crittenden Detention Center exercised the county's option to operate the convenience center. It has been running the center since last fall and recently raised rates considerably for trash dumping. So far, it's unclear whether the jail's operating the facility is going to be profitable or even break even. Magistrates were questioning those financial concerns this week when the contract expiration was discovered. The timing could be critical for other garbage companies wanted a piece of the local trade. One company, Madisonville Waste Disposal, has filed an Open Records Request seeking information regarding the county's contract with Freedom Waste. The Madisonville firm, not satisfied with the county's compliance with the Kentucky Open Records law, has now filed appeal with the Kentucky Attorney

Dr. Bharne critical at Western Baptist

STAFF REPORT

Dr. R.V. Bharne, a general practitioner in Salem for the past 33 years, remains in critical condition at Western Baptist Hospital. Bharne was stricken by a seizure at his home last week and taken to the hospital where he was on life support for a period of time. He is no longer on life support and is breathing on his own, but has not regained consciousness. Sharon Thompson, a clerk at Dr. Bharne's Salem office, said the clinic remains open with she and nurse Terrie Clinton manning the office. However, no patients are being seen. Dr. Bharne has about 175 patients in Crittenden and Livingston counties. Thompson said that patients who need to see a doctor immediately can pick up their records and take them to another physician. Bharne, 67, is a native of India. He had practiced in New York before coming to Livingston in 1976.

Nation of atheists is foretaste of eternal hell

When will the people wake up and remember that in history every nation that got rid of God had hell to live in on earth?

For some years now, the question has been asked in polls "Do you think America is headed in the right direction?" The majority said no. But they are never asked what it was that made them think that. So the nation was left to assume it was because of former President George W. Bush.

Moral decline was never mentioned.

The change myself and millions like me want is to have our God-fearing and God-honoring America back. We want the crime, hate for God and country, and the Sodom and Gomorrah filth exposed for the sin and destructive, God-debasing, debalchery it is.

We do not want leftist communists running our once great nation that so many of our best died to preserve, and atheistic American-hating billionaires calling the shots.

We do not want far-left judges named to the U.S. Supreme Court.

We did not want to go trillions of dollars in debt to turn this nation into a communist country where not only do a few rule the nation and get paid well for it but control us as slaves.

We did not want a president that says he will build a standing army for inside borders of this nation, apart from the police forces.

The atheists that are coming out of the woodwork don't want Christians trying to force them to believe in Christ, yet they are working every evil trick trying to force us to believe in the nothing they believe in. When they create a nation without God, which hates all, and has no restraint on their passions, they will have a foretaste of the hell they will end up in. They are the fools. The Bible says, "It is a fool that says in his heart there is no God."

They try to make us all think their superior intelligence lifts them up above faith in God. A thought for them to consider: If there is no God then why waste time trying to prove it? True Christians do not spend their precious days trying to prove there is one. We tasted, we liked, we live it, we love it and our lives prove it.

Atheists don't tell their captive-audience students that believing there is no God will cause them to disobey the fifth commandment that God told them to honor their father and mother that their lives might be long on earth. Atheists are assuring them their lives will be short on the earth. Who are the intelligent ones?

Locally, economic engines fueled by brighter future

Our future always seems brighter than the past. Whether we're looking at old black and white photographs or listening to scratched and warped 45s, the past can seem distant and dim.

A windshield is much larger than the review mirror for the same reason. What's in front of us is much more important than what's behind.

While the economy in Marion has been blasted by layoffs and job eliminations over the past several months, it appears we've turned the corner. The future looks a bit brighter from our vantage point.

The local real estate market and retail sales have slumped hard in the past year, although restaurant receipts actually spiked. Many reason that folks were staying closer to home for weekend outings due to higher gas prices and tentative feelings about the economy.

Fall is just around the corner. Many nationwide forecasters have predicted a slow rebound that will start in the fourth quarter. We can certainly see it on the horizon in our tiny hamlet.

Real estate transactions have increased in the past couple of months after a nearly silent first quarter.

Par 4 Plastics has called back all of its laid off workers and is hiring new ones. Safetran continues to expand operations, adding new hires almost weekly. There are even prospects that Safetran will be increasing its payroll more than first expected. The closing of a sister plant in Florida necessitated the original growth, but now another Safetran location is closing in California. General speculation is that some of those manufacturing jobs will end up in Marion.

A major retailer – most suspect it's CVS – is planning to develop the northwest corner at the intersection of U.S. 60 and U.S. 641. Whatever is being built will have a huge footprint, taking every lot from Belt Realty to Tabor's Auto Repair, Woodman of the World, Yarbrough Insurance Agency and three or four other privately owned homes or lots.

Dollar General is completing construction of a new store in Fredonia and another is on the drawing board in Salem.

The construction jobs – although most are contractors who come from out of town – add impetus to the local economy.

Displaced businesses and homeowners will be looking for new places to land; thrusting the slow real estate engine into a higher gear.

Deer season is just around the corner which always brings hundreds of orange-clad spenders that shoot up local retail receipts.

The bottom line is that the bottom line might be just a bit higher than it's been in some time. That's good news for all of us looking through the windshield and white-knuckling the wheel. It's been a rough road the past few months. From all indications, we're poised to send 2009 out with a bang.

Project helping feed orphans in El Salvador

To the Editor:

To date, I, Noah Hadfield, have raised $820.39 of the $2,400 goal to send to the orphanage in El Salvador. The $2,400 will feed 30 orphans one meal a day for 36 days. Thank you to everyone who has supported me in my mission to go beyond to take care of orphans. Please consider helping an orphan.

Silence is hypocrisy

I wish I would find it hard to believe to hear only the sounds of crickets and not an outcry from our fellow citizens about FEMA. Waiting two years for reimbursement of funds used to clean up our area! Not a word of displeasure or strong language stating the unfitness of the president. Not even calling for the resignation of the FEMA director or the Homeland Security Secretary.

Actually, the silence is a resounding clanging cymbal of hypocrisy and should not be mistaken for actual discourse on governing.

Schools didn't show president due respect

To the Editor:

I am writing because I am deeply concerned with the decision of the Crittenden County School Board to not show the presidential address live to the students last Tuesday, Sept. 8 – opting instead to tape, review and decide if it would be suitable to show to students.

Who has given the right to censor the President of the United States to our school system?

Regardless of your political affiliation, the President of the United States is a duly elected official who deserves the respect and attention accorded to the highest office in our nation.

I feel the message was positive in nature, the president urged children to do their best and attempted to spark some civic responsibility in them, which is sorely lacking in today's youth.

Most of the high school students in 10th grade and above will be eligible to vote in the next presidential election. How can we expect them to make informed choices if they are held back from participating in such events?

I feel this is sending the wrong message to our youth, saying that they do not have to show respect to anyone or anything they do not agree with and it advocates anarchy.

Sarah McNeely
Marion, Ky.

Editor's Note: Dr. Rachel Yarbrough, superintendent of schools, responded to this letter, which was also sent directly to her from Sarah McNeely.

The decision regarding the speech was made in an effort to give all of our staff a chance to preview the speech and to make the most informed determination about how to better fit this speech into the rhythm of the curriculum in a purposeful way. We certainly have the utmost respect for the President of the United States but felt that our staff and students were better served by the opportunity to preview the content so that optimum planning and learning could take place. The president's address was incorporated into classrooms in Crittenden County on Thursday, Sept. 10. If after having viewed the video, parents who were still apprehensive about the viewing had an opportunity to "opt" their children out and an alternative learning option was provided for those students.

Ellis plans to run for Dist. 1 magistrate

Jeff Ellis, 48, of the Rosebud community says he will seek the Republican nomination for magistrate in the First District. A sales representative for Rogers Group in western Kentucky, Ellis is a longtime member of the Crittenden County Lions Club.

Helen McConnell, a two-term Republican magistrate from the First District, says she will not seek re-election. Her son, Mike McConnell, has said that he plans to seek the GOP nomination for judge-executive.

Candidates planning to officially file for election in the May 2010 primaries can do so between Nov. 4 and Jan. 26 at the Crittenden County Clerk's office.

One believed dead in Livingston boat explosion Saturday

Local and state officials continue their investigation of a fatal boating accident on Barkely Lake in Livingston County. An older model cabin cruiser burned then sank Saturday morning at Green Turtle Bay. One man died and woman was badly burned.

Nashville resident Alan Donais, 58, had just refueled his boat at Green Turtle Bay Marina near Grand Rivers. Donais was pulling away from the dock around 10:15 a.m., when witnesses heard a loud explosion and saw the boat on fire. A passenger in the boat, 54-year-old Jan Crowell of New Johnsonville, Tenn., escaped by jumping out of the boat. Divers found what is believed to be Donais's remains Monday. They were taken to the state medical examiner's office for further examination.

After the explosion, a towboat owned by the marina managed to fix a rope to the burning boat and move it away from the dock, but intense heat from the fire caused the towboat to erupt in flames as well. Both the operator and the passenger of the towboat escaped without injury. Fire also spread to two nearby houseboats, another small boat and a personal watercraft.

Crowell was airlifted to Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville for treatment of burns. She was last listed in stable condition.

The cause of the explosion remains under investigation. Agencies investigating and assisting in the incident include the Kentucky Division of Emergency Management, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, the Kentucky Medical Examiner's Office, Kentucky State Police, Daviess County Dive Rescue, Grand Lakes Fire Department, Area 2 Dive Team, McCracken County Rescue Squad Dive Team, Graves County Rescue Squad, Marshall County Rescue Squad and the local American Red Cross.

Marion woman charged with theft

Marion police have charged a local woman with four counts of felony theft after an investigation suggested she had been taking items from clients she was cleaning house for and then selling them in Princeton.

Victoria Dawn Collins, 39, is accused of taking more than $16,000 worth of jewelry from four local homes where she was employed as a part-time housekeeper.

Police Chief Ray O'Neal said some of the stolen jewelry was found at Cashland in Princeton where Collins had allegedly sold the items for $700.

Further investigation uncovered additional missing jewelry from another client in Eddyville for whom Collins had been housekeeping.

Eddyville Police Sgt. Jaime Green told the Princeton Times-Leader that Collins is believed to have taken approximately $21,000 in jewelry from Lyon County residents.

Collins was arrested Sept. 3 in Eddyville on two warrants for theft by unlawful taking over $300 and lodged in the Caldwell County Jail.

Lasher will seek 3rd term as judge

Chris Lasher has announced he will seek a third term as Livingston County Judge-Executive.

"I would be very proud to put my experience back to work for the citizens of Livingston County," Lasher said in a news release issued last Thursday. "I have seen many dedicated individuals serve our community during one of Kentucky's worst natural disasters and it was an honor to help lead that team. I have also worked diligently with the fiscal court to secure the financial wellbeing of Livingston County in these difficult times and together we have positioned our community for the future."

Lasher said that he is seeking a third term as judge-executive because he saw the need for leadership to take Livingston County into a new era.

"I believe Livingston County has positioned itself as an up and coming community," he said. "Even though we have done some great projects such as the new judicial center, expanded ambulance coverage and road department improvements, we have more projects to complete. The Fiscal Court is heavily involved in the new county office and library project and I would be very excited to be able to complete these much needed services."

Poverty rate hits 11-year record

The U.S. poverty rate hit its highest level in 11 years in 2008 as the worst recession since the Great Depression threw millions of Americans out of work, a government report showed last week. The Census Bureau said the poverty rate — the percentage of people living in poverty — jumped to 13.2 percent, the highest level since 1997, from 12.5 percent in 2007.

About 39.8 million Americans were living in poverty, up from 37.3 million in 2007.

Reuters news service reported that despite signs the economy was showing signs of crawling out the slump that started in December 2007, the poverty rate would rise gain this year and beyond 2010 as unemployment would stay elevated for a while, analysts and the government warned.

The government defines poverty as an annual income of $22,025 for a family of four, $17,163 for a family of three and $14,051 for a family of two.

With unemployment rising, real median household income fell 3.6 percent to $50,303 in 2008, a 10-year low. The percentage decline was the biggest annual drop since 1991 and snapped a three year streak of annual income increases, Reuters reported.

The longest and deepest recession in 70 years has been marked by escalating unemployment as companies aggressively cut payrolls to cope with slumping demand. The unemployment rate was at 7.2 percent at the end of last year.

As of August, the unemployment rate was at 9.7 percent, the highest in 26 years, and is expected to peak just above 10 percent early next year. Almost 7 million people had lost their jobs since the start of the recession.

Riding mowers stolen in county

Crittenden County Sheriff's Department is investigating separate thefts of riding lawn mowers, both in the Dam 50 area over the past few weeks.

According to criminal complaints filed by victims, one mower was a John Deere L150 15hp mower. The other was a Snapper 10.5 hp mower.

The John Deere was stolen from a shed at Magistrate Percy Cook's home. The other was taken from property owned by Don Alvis. The Cook theft occurred on Old Fords Ferry Road. The Alvis theft was on Dam 50 Road. Both places are in close proximity to another recent burglary at the Dufrey residents on Ky. 135. Several guns were taken in that home break-in.

KY no longer tops in adult smokers

Kentucky has fallen from its dubious post as the state with the most adult smokers. Data recently released from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control say that Kentucky's rate dropped more than three percent to 25.2 percent in 2008. In 2007, Kentucky had the most smokers in the country. Here is a list of the 10 states in regard to adult smokers:

1. West Virginia26.5%
2. Indiana26.0%
3. Kentucky25.2%
4. Missouri24.9%
5. Oklahoma24.7%
6. Tennessee23.1%
7. Mississippi22.7%
8. Arkansas22.3%
9. Alabama22.1%
9. Nevada22.1%

According to the Rural Health Update Summer 2009

issue, the counties in Kentucky where there are the most adult smokers are Boyle, Garrard and Taylor at 35 percent. Bullitt, Carroll, Edmonson, Lewis, Logan, McCreary, Metcalfe, Nicholas and Powell counties were next at 35 percent. Henderson county was among those at 34 percent.

Lane restrictions could hamper area commuters on U.S. 41

Lane restrictions are scheduled on the U.S. 41 Twin Bridges the week of Sept. 28 for a variety of deck and maintenance work.

Transportation Cabinet engineers planned the work to minimize traffic interruptions, according to Kevin McClearn, chief engineer for the Madisonville highway district.

"This primarily takes care of our annual bridge deck cleaning. While maintenance crews are clearing drains and sweeping debris off the bridges, we'll also be inspecting the deck condition and making necessary repairs," McClearn said.

Northbound and southbound traffic will be reduced to one lane from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., daily from Sept. 28 through Oct. 2. The work schedule is dependent weather.

The U.S. 41 Twin Bridges, also known as the Bi-State Vietnam Gold Star Memorial Bridges, carry about 40,000 vehicles per day across the Ohio River between Henderson and Evansville.

Former Crittenden County High School band members pose with their director Eldon Matlick and his wife Pam.

Band reunion brings former students and director together

Thirty-one years later, the bond between former Crittenden County High School band students and band director Eldon Matlick and his wife, Pam, remains strong.

About 50 former band members and boosters, as well as family members, met in Marion on Aug. 15 for a get-together.

For many of the attendees, this was the first time they had seen each other in 30 years or so.

"I think we all realize we share a special bond from a special time in our lives. Even though Eldon spent only five years here in Marion, they were very important years for all of us. His passion for music and excellence influenced all of us throughout our lives," said Jeff Hughes, a former baritone player. "It was great to be able to have Eldon and Pam return to Marion because it gave us a chance to thank them for all their hard work back in the 1970s."

After a morning of coffee and donuts at CCHS, which of course included a walk down memory lane, they toured the "new" band room and then met for dinner that night at Fohs Hall.

"It's been a lot of fun. We never had a chance to thank Eldon for all his hard work, so this was a great opportunity to honor and recognize his contribution to the community all those years ago. As band members, we developed some special friendships and a real sense of belonging to something unique. It has been great to see each other again," remarked Billy Belt, a former trumpet player.

"We had a lot of fun back then, and the CCHS Band really performed well under Eldon's direction. We won awards and attracted the interest of many kids. Band enrollment more than doubled during his tenure. This means Eldon gave a lot of kids a place to belong, sort of a community within the school where we could grow and achieve. It was great. Having Eldon here certainly enriched our lives," according to Melinda Easley Dunlap, a former flutist.

"Eldon's passion and drive for excellence really motivated the kids. It was a great experience as a parent and band booster to be in-involved in the development of the kids. Eldon gave a substantial number of children something to belong to at an important time in their development. The importance of arts education to the development of our young people should never be underestimated," added Margaret Binkley, a former band booster.

According to a former band member, orchestra stage manager and professional percussionist Craig Teer, "It was a special time for the band program here in Crittenden County. Many of us benefited from being part of that program. We just can't thank Eldon enough for all he did for us. I have pursued a career in music, and I studied under Eldon here at CCHS and Murray State University. I can't say enough about his dedication to his students and excellence as a musician and teacher."

"It was a special time for me too," commented Matlick. "My background in public school teaching and dealing with young people in the most formative times of their lives has given me insight into dealing with students from all backgrounds. It also has helped me treat students as individuals and to be aware of conditions in their lives that may affect their education."

"As a teacher, you always wonder what impact you have had and how it may have affected your charges. It is gratifying to see how successful CCHS band graduates have been in both their personal and professional lives. It is also interesting to see how many attended college and now hold college degrees. Former members reside throughout the United States and have been very productive in a myriad of careers. As a former teacher, it was an absolute joy to reconnect after all these years," Matlick said.

Matlick left Crittenden County in 1978 and went on to receive a Doctor of Music from Indiana University.

Since 1983, he has been a Professor of Horn at the University of Oklahoma in Norman, Oklahoma. Matlick also is Principal Hornist of the Oklahoma City Philharmonic Orchestra.

Women's health registry is first state-wide registry

The Kentucky Women's Health Registry is the first state wide confidential, annual health survey for women.

The data collected is used by the University of Kentucky and by the University of Louisville to understand how environment, stress and health behaviors affect women's health over time.

The survey can be done online at or you can be provided a survey packet.

The Registry is simply women helping women of today and tomorrow. It is very important that the Registry is diverse.

So, young women as well as their mothers and grandmothers need to participate. The goal is 2500 women taking the survey each year so they need your help!

Your answers are kept confidential (HIPAA and Certificate of Confidentiality from the National Institute of Health) and anonymous.

They ask for your name and address so they can find you next year and so that they can send you updates on what they are learning about women's health but, your name is stored separately from your answers.

Some women may qualify to participate in subsequent research.

If you are selected you can always call and say you do not want to be in the particular study.

The Registry allows you to choose how involved or uninvolved that you would like to be.

I joined the Kentucky Health Registry two years ago and just recently did my one year update.

Also, I participated in a survey for a research project concerning how high blood pressure affects women in the work place.

The office for the Kentucky Women's Health Registry is located in Lexington and can be reached toll free at 1-800-929-2320.

The Crittenden County Extension Office at 112 W. Carlisle has free survey packets available for anyone who is not able to complete the survey online.

The packets include a postage-paid envelope to return the survey to the Lexington office.

Challengers

Submitted by Micki Crider

Thirteen of our 15 members gathered at Crittenden County Historical Museum Sept. 9 for our first meeting of the 2009-10 year.

We received several awards at the County Homemaker annual meeting on Aug. 25 for our club's achievements during the 2008-09 year.

Our summer outing was held at the home of a club member for a time of fun, food and fellowship.

We have many state, county and club projects and activities planned that will serve our community in the coming year. To name a few:

- Christmas in Marion, Oct. 17, Fohs Hall
- Area Homemaker meeting, Oct. 29, Barkley Lake
- Cultural Christmas trip, December, Nashville
- Advent projects
- Collect 'Pennies for Friendship,' for Kentucky Academy in Ghana, Africa (KEHC project)

Our lesson of 'Grandparents and Children Together' was very informative.

The percentage of children being raised by grandparents is rising every year. More studies on the subject are being conducted.

We welcome visitors. We meet the second Wednesday of the month. For more information call 965-5236.

Share your birth, engagement, wedding or anniversary announcements in The Press. Rates start at $5.

Attention!
Shady Grove 5th and 6th Grade Classes of 1959
Do you remember fifty years ago on September 25, 1959 when your new teacher asked you to be quiet while he filled out his monthly report? I was getting married that evening and was somewhat nervous about the whole thing.
Well, you were quiet - and busy at the same time. When I had finished my paperwork, each of you came to my desk with cards you had made. Some were in pencil, some were in crayon. Some had pictures of hearts. Others had wedding bells. Many said "Happy Marriage." Some even had short poems such as "When you get married and have twins, don't come crying on my shoulder for diapers and safety pins." One even reminded us of God's infinite love by including John 3:16.
You were the very first to wish Nancy and me a "Happy Marriage" fifty years ago, and we have never forgotten it! Those cards have been tucked safely away in a shoebox for fifty years now. Every now and then, we take them out, read them, and think of you.

Old buildings have served many businesses

Forgotten Passages

This is some interesting history about two of our old business buildings. Many of us only know these buildings as they are today.

These sturdy old buildings have housed many businesses and organizations through the years. One sits empty today, but one is fortunate and is being used and well cared for. From the archives of The Crittenden Press we can learn some early history about these buildings.

Jan. 22, 1926 - Local Company In New Home

Crittenden County's military organization, C Company 149 Infantry of the National Guard is now ensconced in its new home built especially for them by A.M. Shelby on the north side of the square.

The building is one of cream faced brick, beautiful large plate glass windows, of ample size for the requirements of the company in drilling and for indoor games as well. The building is modern throughout, hot and cold running water, and everything.

The officers of the local organization are as follows: Clifford M. Braswell, captain, J. Roy Johnson, first lieutenant; Ben H. Price, second lieutenant; Otho A. Allen, first sergeant. There are 65 members, the full quota, enrolled and the company drills each Wednesday night.

Col. B. H. Hensley recently inspected the company and its quarters and pronounced C Company one of the best in the state, and occupying the best quarters of any of them.

There are two platoons in the company and each platoon has organized a basketball team composed of exceptionally smart players. They have a game each Wednesday evening after the drill to which the public is invited to witness.

In order that the Marion High School would not have to wait until the completion of Fohs Hall for interscholastic basketball, Captain Braswell very graciously granted the use of the armory floor for practice and match games scheduled by the high school team this season.

Today this building sits empty on East Bellville Street across from the Courthouse.

Feb. 11, 1949 - Auxiliary Members Plan Home Opening

Early in 1946, the Ellis B. Ordway Post 111 of The American Legion, Marion, launched the "Building Fund" campaign. The basic purpose of this campaign was to establish a permanent Legion Hall, a memorial to those that served in both World Wars.

Back in the day of 1946, it was not an uncommon sight to see a Legion member take out a receipt book and solicit a donation. The climax to this long time campaign came in January 1948 when the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary combined their resources and purchased the old Stephens Garage building, located on East Carlisle Street from Mrs. Maud Rodgers.

Immediately following purchase of the building, careful plans were made to remodel the second floor into a Legion Hall, and the first floor for rental to business interests.

The first inspection of this building made each member realize that it would require superhuman effort to make the project a success.

With much the same ferocity that led the Americans to victory in World Wars I and II, the problem was attacked.

The Legion was not alone in this undertaking; the gallant citizens of Marion were assisting just like in war.

Mrs. Maud Rodgers contributed wonderfully to the plan; the Tradewater Oil Company donated waterproofing paint to completely repaint the outside of the building; Moore & Pickens donated some lighting fixtures; Taylor & Vaughn contributed $50; the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce gave $100; the Young Men's Club of Marion gave $100.00; Mr. J. S. Frazer, long a friend of the Legion, contributed $50; Mr. W. H. Crider contributed $25; and many other business firms too numerous to mention contributed. Each member of both organizations contributed money and long hours of work.

January 1949, one year after the purchase, finds the first floor of the building occupied by business firms; and the second floor has been decorated into one of the most attractive Legion Halls in the area.

This hall is one that can be, and will be used for the promotion of civic programs to better the town and county. It is a place where veterans can meet and relive service experiences; a place where the peace and freedom won on battlefields will prevail at all times.

The Legion plans to have the grand opening soon, and every citizen will be invited.

While the Legion is justly proud of its achievement, each member realizes that the freedom to unite themselves, and meet unmolested, has cost the lives of many comrades. The Legion dedicates their new building as a memorial to those who died that we might live; the Legion members dedicate their lives to the preservation of peace and freedom.

At one time the ground floor was the location of a community recreation room.

Louie Perryman and partner had this floor rented and there was a bowling alley, or actually it was a duck pin alley. With duck pins it had shorter lanes and smaller balls than regular bowling.

Also there was a pool hall on the other side.

Local bowling teams and pool playing tournaments were a popular activity.

It would cost you 10 cents a game to bowl.

Today this section of the building is occupied by a loan office.

Doctors' Discovery Helps Diabetics

PHILADELPHIA — A team of doctors has found that a new formulation of exotic sounding herbs and spices gives new hope to diabetic patients.

The formula, called Cinnatrol™ promotes healthy blood sugar levels by effectively metabolizing glucose into energy. In a research study, all patients taking just one capful of the liquid (one ounce) daily, dramatically lowered their blood sugar levels compared to a placebo group. Another scientific study found that an ingredient in Cinnatrol made insulin 20 times more capable of converting blood sugar to energy.

While individual results vary, one patient in the study lowered his blood sugar from 220-245 to the 100-130 range in only 28 days, despite being instructed not to change his dietary habits or physical activity. Some patients, under their doctors care, have been able to reduce or eliminate their need for diabetic drugs. Scientists say that Cinnatrol actually helps diabetic drugs to work more efficiently. Additional information is available at www.cinnatrol.com.

Cinnatrol is available without a prescription at pharmacies and nutrition stores or call 1-800-339-3301.

Crittenden's team is part of the local Crittenden Youth Soccer Association and has graciously been allowed to play games at Clay, in Webster's Soccer Association League.

"A big thank you goes to both associations for provid-

Volleyball

No match for Caldwell

The Lady Rockets once again proved no match for Caldwell County last Thursday in Princeton dropping the contest in straight sets 25-11, 25-7.

Three of Crittenden's seven defeats have come against the Lady Tigers, who are undefeated against Second Region foes.

Crittenden has not defeated the Lady Tigers since 2006 when they won a hard-fought 25-21, 28-26 match in the Seventh District Championship game.

Soccer

Ladies fall to Trigg

A lack of offensive firepower continues to haunt the Lady Rockets as they dropped a 5-0 fifth district decision at Trigg County Monday.

The Lady Wildcats outshot the visitors 20-2 as they wasted little time taking a 1-0 advantage at the 34:48 mark of the first half.

Simply getting shots at the goal has been a bugaboo for the Lady Rockets recently as they have recorded only three shots on goal in the previous two contests.

The injury bug also has not helped matters as senior midfielder Misty Wallace has missed the last two games with knee trouble.

"We just didn't keep up with their speed," Lady Rocket Coach Andy Walker said after the loss.

Already playing shorthanded without injured starters Misty Wallace and Sammie Jo Quisenberry, things got even worse when the game started as the Lady Rockets dropped a 5-0 decision at Ft. Campbell last Thursday.

It marked the fourth time this year that Crittenden has surrendered at least five goals.

Lady Rocket senior goalie Hannah Brantley tried her best to keep her team in contention amassing 12 saves in the defeat.

Pierce, Enoch have career best

Crittenden County matched up against Lyon County last week. The results are: Lyon County Boys 168, Crittenden Boys 170.

Individual scores for CCHS from the white tees were Alec Pierce 36 (career low), Justin Defreitas 40, Jason Enoch 42 (career low), Joey Pluskota 46, Jordan Croft 47, Cameron McDaniel 47, Jordan Enoch 48, Cole Foster 57, Colin Belt 59 and Tyler Robertson 59.

Hannah Brantley finished with a 44 from the white tees for the girls.

JV scores were Hunter Stone, from the yellow tees, 52, Chase Dempsey, from the yellow tees, 65 and Francesa Pierce from the red tees, 66.

The Lyon County boys scores were Stuart Lipscomb 39, Kell Blackburn 46, Ben Piercefield 40, Trace Pahl 45, Jacob Holloway 44 and Derek Lisanby 59.

Hunter Education

There will be a KDFWR Hunter Education Course at Marion Ed-Tech Center from 6-9 p.m., on Sept. 25 and 8 a.m. to noon on Sept. 26. The course is free.

Barkley blind drawing

The waterfowl blind drawing for Lake Barkley will at 8 a.m., Monday at Barkley Dam in Lake City. Hunters interested in participating in the waterfowl blind drawing must be at least 18 years of age and possess a valid 2009 Kentucky hunting license, a Kentucky waterfowl permit and a federal migratory bird permit (duck stamp) at the time of the drawing.

Wood duck season

The early wood duck season opened Wednesday and runs through Sunday. Hunters may take wood ducks or blue-winged, green-winged or cinnamon teal. Bag limit is four birds with no more than two being woodies.

Early archers get 4 bucks

Local hunters have taken four bucks and 27 female whitetails during the early portion of the archy season, which opened Sept. 5. In Livingston County, hunters have taken nine deer, including six bucks.

Illinois deer changes

Illinois is making several changes for the 2009-10 deer season. Hunters will have more ways of obtaining permits, including over-the-counter purchases and longer seasons. Deer tags not issued in the daily random drawing will be available at retail outlets. The archery season is being expanded by three days, but more significantly is the late winter seasons which will be longer. Those dates are Dec. 31 - Jan. 3 and Jan. 15 - 17. The seven-day Illinois firearm season is Nov. 20-22 and Dec. 3-6 while the muzzleloader season is Dec. 11-13. Illinois DNR says the changes will enhance deer hunting opportunities, make it easier to obtain and permits and improve the herd.

RODEO

Benefit this weekend

A benefit rodeo to raise money for the Jake Hodge Memorial Scholarship Fund will be held at 1 p.m., Saturday at the Crittenden Fairgrounds. Events will include youth and open barrel racing, tie-down roping, break-away roping and team roping. Competition is for all ages, youth and adult.

Rockets 3-0 out of chute

CALHOUN, Ky. - Crittenden County made it eight straight wins over McLean County with a painless 34-12 victory Friday at Calhoun.

The third-ranked Rockets jumped ahead 21-0 and never looked back as J.D. Gray rushed for 93 and threw for 89, including two touchdowns. He completed 9-of-11 passes – a third of them to tight end Dylan Clark. Running back Andrew Freeman caught two passes, including a 41-yard fourth-quarter touchdown.

Crittenden opened the game in a no-huddle, fast-paced offense, working on wearing down the big front line of McLean. The plan was aborted fairly soon as Crittenden was in obvious command of the game.

“I felt like we dominated the game, but McLean was better than I thought they would be,” said Rocket coach Al Starnes, about last week’s Class 3A non-district opponent.

The skipper was especially pleased with the offensive line, which showed marked improvement over the previous two games.

“We matured up front,” said Starnes, himself an offensive lineman during his playing days at Murray State. “For the first time, I felt like we came off the ball as a unit. We still have a lot of work to do, but we’re improving.”

The Rocket defense was also stellar. It forced McLean to punt on five of its first six possessions and rattled loose a fumble on the other series. Brian Berry recovered the ball. It was after that fumble that Crittenden took a 14-0 lead on Gray’s second rushing touchdown late in the first period.

“I felt like J.D. was the difference in the game early on,” Starnes said. The quarterback threw two touchdown passes in the game. It was only the second time in his career that he’d done that.

After Clark caught his TD pass with less a minute to go in the first half, the Rockets got a bad kickoff and McLean ended up with excellent field position. Five plays later, the Cougars scored to make it 21-6 at the half.

The Cougars had managed just 37 yards of total offense before a 38-yard pass in the closing seconds of the half put them in scoring position.

Berry scored in the third quarter before Freeman caught his touchdown to give the Rockets a 34-6 edge. Against the second team defense, McLean posted a fourth-quarter touchdown.

Lineman Aaron Berry became the career leader for tackles for loss during the game. He had two early stops behind the line of scrimmage

Jackie Fletcher (54) and Aaron Berry (53) tag team McLean ballcarrier Spencer Phillips during Friday’s non-district matchup.

CWD prevention starts with hunters

Just as archery deer season kicks into full gear across Kentucky, deer and elk seasons are opening this month in other states as well.

“Some hunters are taking that dream trip to places like Colorado for early season elk or mule deer,” said Tina Brunjes, big game program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. “Hunters must remember that they cannot bring whole carcasses of deer or elk back from states that have Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD).”

Kentucky remains free of the disease. Kentucky Fish and Wildlife has tested more than 15,000 deer and elk for CWD since 2002. All tests have been negative.

The states with CWD include Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Montana, New Mexico, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, New York, Illinois, West Virginia and the Canadian provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

“Hunters can still bring back the meat and antlers from their harvested deer and elk, but they must remove all brain matter and spinal cord tissue,” Brunjes explained. “This means you cannot bring back the caped-out head, you must skull cap the antlers and clean all brain and spinal tissue from the animal before you bring it back into Kentucky.”

Clean skulls, canine teeth, hides and finished taxidermy products may all be brought back into Kentucky.

Chronic Wasting Disease is a neurological disease that is fatal to deer and elk, but does not infect humans. The disease is spread by an abnormal protein called a prion. Prions don’t break down in the environment; they can stay in the soil even after the removal of infected animals. Chronic Wasting Disease belongs to a group of diseases called Transmissible Spongiform Encephalopathies.

Other states surrounding Kentucky enforce importation bans. Those who travel to Kentucky to hunt deer or elk must know the regulations of any state through which they intend to travel when returning home.

Hunters traveling this fall to CWD positive states must know that state’s hunting regulations as well. Some states require that hunters submit a sample of harvested animals before transporting it out of state.

For more information on CWD, consult page 26 of the 2009-2010 Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide. You may also log on the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife homepage at fw.ky.gov.

The Rockets’ biggest win ever was in 2005, defeating Webster 47-6. The Trojans’ biggest win was 54-0 in 1978. Coach Starnes is 12-5 against Webster. The Rockets have not lost at home to the Trojans since 1993, winning the last seven meetings at Rocket Stadium. Crittenden and Webster have met 37 times, fourth most in CCHS history. The only teams the Rockets have played more are Russellville, Caldwell County and Fulton.

Board looks at H1N1 pandemic protocol plans

BY PAMELA STRINGER
PRESS REPORTER

During last Tuesday's Crittenden County Board of Education work session, H1N1 prevention plans and protocol were discussed.

Currently, Crittenden County School District doesn't have pandemic crisis plan, but will be developing a pandemic plan of action, according to Superintendent Dr. Rachel Yarbrough.

Madison County Schools and Paducah Public Schools have developed prototypes that have yet to be approved by the Kentucky Board of Education.

Madison County's proposed Pandemic Response Matrix consists of four levels of school affectedness, with level one having pandemic flu case reported in the county and level four consists of the pandemic flu spreading in the community. In both proposed plans, social distancing, or the idea of keeping a Hula-Hoop's worth of space around each person, is recommended.

Crittenden County schools would be in level three, should it use Madison County's matrix, because it has had four confirmed cases of students who have had H1N1. Level three indicates a pandemic flu case has been reported within the community. It includes the following:

- Faculty, staff and students should monitor their body temperature.
- If temperature is greater than 100 degrees, student or faculty member should stay home.
- Plans should be communicated throughout the school community.
- In-class instruction should be provided to ensure students understand protocol and proper hygiene.

•School remains open per normal school policy unless otherwise instructed by health officials.

- Minimize visitors.
- Social distancing is encouraged.

•Daily homework is provided by teachers for any student staying at home.

•Evaluate the necessity of regularly scheduled activities.

•Employee may return to school after 24 hours have passed with a normal temperature without fever-reducing medication.

- Provide flu shots for on-campus staff.

•Encourage hand washing and healthy living.

•Review food-handling procedures with staff.

•Provide additional disinfection of contact surfaces.

Paducah Public Schools' PanPlan is a very detailed plan including how influenza can spread, emergency plans, preparedness procedures, response procedures and recovery procedures. The problem with Crittenden County schools matching Paducah's plan is the rural setting of Crittenden County, according to Dr. Yarbrough.

To date, the lowest attendance in Crittenden County School District has been in the middle 80 percent range in the high school. The middle and elementary schools have been consistently in the 90 percent range.

The aforementioned plans are not in use by any school district and have yet to be approved by the Kentucky

Board of Education. They are only examples of possible plans that may be implemented. The next school board meeting will be at 6 p.m., Sept. 22 at Crittenden County Elementary School.

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS OF KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on or around September 28, 2009, Kentucky Utilities Company ("KU") will file with the Kentucky Public Service Commission ("Commission"), an Application pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statutes 278.300 for approval of (a) two purchase power agreements for wind power and (b) pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statutes 278.180 a ratemaking mechanism for the recovery of its monthly expense associated with the purchase of wind power under the two purchase power agreements.

The ratemaking mechanism proposed by KU, titled "Renewable Resource Clause," is shown below:

(1) The charge per kWh delivered under the rate schedules to which the RRC applies shall be increased or decreased during each month according to the following formula:

$$\text{Adjustment Factor} = \frac{RP}{S}$$

(2) Renewable Purchases (RP) are the sum of the most recent actual monthly costs of:

(a) The Company's purchases of Eligible Renewable Energy and all other costs imposed on the Company under the Company's contract(s) for Eligible Renewable Energy, less any revenues the Company receives for reselling Eligible Renewable Energy;

(b) The cost of firm transmission service to deliver Eligible Renewable Energy to the Company's control area;

(c) The cost of Locational Marginal Pricing adjustments to transmission service to reflect congestion in the control area of a Regional Transmission Organization (RTO);

(d) Other transmission charges or adjustments imposed by an RTO; and

(e) The amount by which items (a), (b), (c), and (d) were under- or over-collected in the Current Period.

(3) Sales (S) are all kWh sold to the Company's retail customers.

(4) Eligible Renewable Energy is all energy generated using renewable resources and purchased by the Company under contracts or other purchasing arrangements approved by order(s) of the Kentucky Public Service Commission.

(5) The Current Period is the second month preceding the month in which the RRC is billed (e.g., if the RRC is billed in August, the Current Period is June).

KU is proposing the Renewable Resource Clause Rate Schedule become effective on and after October 30, 2009. The proposed ratemaking mechanism, if approved, will allow KU to recover the cost of the contract price of generated energy pursuant to the proposed two wind contracts plus the invoice price of transmission service including adjustments.

The estimated impact on a residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt hours per month is expected to be an increase of $0.92 per month for KU customers in 2009.

The Application and Renewable Resource Clause Rate Schedule described in this Notice are proposed by KU. However, the Public Service Commission may make an order modifying or denying KU's Application or may order a Rate Schedule to be used that is different from KU's proposed Renewable Resource Clause Rate Schedule. Such action may result in a Renewable Resource Clause Rate Schedule for consumers other than the ratemaking mechanism surcharge described in this Notice.

Any corporation, association, body politic or person may, by motion within thirty (30) days after publication or mailing of notice of the proposed Renewable Resource Clause surcharge schedule, request leave to intervene in Case No. 2009-00353. That motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, 211 Sower Blvd., P.O. Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, and shall set forth the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party. Intervenor may obtain copies of the Application and testimony by contacting Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky 40202, Attention: Lonnie E. Bellar, Vice President, State Regulation and Rates, Kentucky Utilities Company. Once they are filed, a copy of the Application and testimony will be available for public inspection at KU's offices where bills are paid.

Bucky now part of Marion’s staff for marketing

STAFF REPORT

The City of Marion has a new member of its tourism and marketing staff. It's Bucky, a full-body, mounted eight-point buck.

Whitetail deer hunting is one of the area's biggest drawing cards. Because of that, Tourism Director Michele Edwards thought "Bucky" could be a major player in promoting and marketing Marion and Crittenden County.

The mount was donated by Joyce Stacy of Cadiz after a friend of hers had read an Associated Press article in the Hopkinsville newspaper regarding Marion's growing popularity as a deer hunting destination. Stacy donated the stuffed animal in memory of her late husband, Riley L. Stacy, who passed away last October at 79.

The Stacys were originally from Ohio, but moved to Kentucky Lake several years ago so he could hunt and fish, said his wife.

Susan Alexander, who works in the Marion Tourism and Welcome Center as director of the Chamber of Commerce and Marion Main Street, said the taxidermy work is a great new asset for the welcome center.

"Every now and then I forget he's in here and walk by," Alexander said. Bucky's presence startles her a bit, but he's been a crowd pleaser for the most part.

"He's put a smile on everyone's face who's seen him," said Edwards. "They think he's cute."

Although the deer is not a huge trophy by hunting enthusiast standards – which is based largely on antler size – Bucky is still a big hit.

"He will be used as a display to promote deer hunting and deer viewing opportunities in Crittenden County," Edwards explained.

Hunting has greater economic impact on the community, Edwards said, than any other tourism related activity.

"The Amish draw more people, but hunters spend more money when they come here," she said. "It's seasonal, but for 90 days deer hunting has a huge impact on our economy."

PREVENTION

Keeping infections away from facility is staff’s primary goal

Health care employees aren't the only ones who play a major role in infection prevention. Visitors to our hospital will be asked to do their part to help prevent the spread of infection. Crittenden Health Systems has joined a nationwide initiative designed to inform hospital visitors about their role in infection prevention.

Porter

"Every year thousands of visitors enter our doors to visit patients or accompany them to receive emergency or outpatient services," said Register Nurse Gaye W. Porter, the infection prevention and control specialist at CHS.

Not all are visitors aware of the steps they must take to prevent the spread of infection, Porter added.

"We have an opportunity, through the program Protect Our Patients (POP) Visitor Information Program, to provide you, our patient/visitor, with this critical information," she said.

October 18-24 is National Infection Prevention Week and the theme this year is "Infection Prevention Is Everyone's Business."

"With that in mind, the staff at Crittenden Health Systems will be looking for opportunities to remind our patients, visitors and staff of their role in preventing the spread of infection – both in the hospital and when they return home," Porter said.

"For example, we at CHS will be encouraging patients and visitors to remind us, the staff, to clean our hands before entering and when leaving a patient's room," she added.

The staff will also be reminding patients and visitors to do the same.

Protect Our Patients posters, cards and quizzes will be displayed in many areas of CHS.

"This is to show you, our patients and visitors, that we care," Porter said.

Following are the basic "We Care" guidelines that CHS will ask patients, visitors and staff to follow:

- Wash your hands or use hand sanitizer before entering and when leaving the patient's room.
- Expect our staff to clean their hands before patient care. It's okay to remind them if they forget.
- Cover your sneeze or cough with a tissue or your upper arm. Do not visit if you're sick.
- Avoid touching anything used to care for the patient.
- Read and follow any instructions posted outside the patient's room.
- Eliminate germs when the patient goes home by using disinfectants, such as spray and wipes, to clean surfaces often.

equipment in city hall.

"We've come a long way in updating our police force. Now dispatching will experience some major changes over the next couple of years," the police chief said.

Among future plans are installation of a direct link to the NCIC (National Crime Information Center) data base. Currently, officers have that technology in their cruisers through laptop computers on wireless Web connections. However, it is still not available in the dispatching center.

"We will not have to make a phone call or rely on state police for so much information," O'Neal said. "Having it at our fingertips will allow us to be much more efficient."

Bryant, the city administrator, said Agent will bring many new ideas to central dispatching that will improve and enhance the service.

Crittenden Judge-Executive Fred Brown, who serves on the North Pennyrile Emergency 911 Board of Directors, said the city and county stand to pick up about $80,000 in revenue after it converts to the new 911 system.

"That will be shared money between the city and county," he said. "We will probably use some of it for telecommunications equipment for rescue and fire departments, too."

Tabor will retire this month as emergency dispatcher

Longtime emergency dispatcher Robbie Tabor of the Frances community will be retiring later this month.

Tabor started working in city hall in 1986 as a dispatcher for fire, police, ambulance and rescue.

A young widow, at only 47 years old, Tabor said she needed a job, and after a couple of years of college and babysitting, she found the dispatching position.

While it's been a challenge and an exciting place to work, Tabor says she is ready to retire.

"It will be nice to enjoy life a little bit," she said.

Tabor has three children, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Therefore, she says she will have plenty to keep her busy.

Relay seeks new Livingston crew members

BY PAMELA STRINGER

PRESS REPORTER

Livingston County Relay For Life is looking to recruit new volunteer committee members.

Relay for Life is the flagship activity of the American Cancer Society. During the event, teams camp at Livingston Central High School and take turns walking or running. 2010's relay will be from 5 p.m., to 5 a.m., on April 30.

The coming relay will be the county's 14th event. Last year fund-raising brought in just over $20,000. The previous year the relay brought in $36,000.

"A lot of the drop was the economy," said Stephanie Elder, an American Cancer Society community representative out of Paducah. "Our sponsorship was down, businesses weren't able to help us a much. There were a number of factors, but I don't see it as a trend. We'll bounce back."

A team consists of eight or more people. There's a $10 registration fee per person. No further money is required to participate, but ACS encourages each team member to raise $100.

The Livingston chapter is in a rebuilding year, according to Elder. The previous committee members have all been there for many years. A new committee will bring new creativity into the chapter.

"We're searching for an entire new committee," Elder said. "We're looking for people with passion for the cause."

To form a team or to become a committee member, contact Stephanie Elder at 444-0744.

Two more cases of H1N1 confirmed among students

There have been two more confirmed cases of H1N1 flu virus among Crittenden County students.

Dr. Rachel Yarbrough, superintendent of schools, confirmed on Tuesday that a Crittenden County High School and Crittenden County Middle School student have had the flu, missed several days of school, been cured and are both now back in class.

So far this flu season, there have been four confirmed cases of the H1N1 virus among students in Crittenden schools.

For the third year, Woodmen of the World's Marion lodge donated flags to all Crittenden County fire departments and three other non-profit organizations last Friday in recognition of Sept. 11. Making the presentation are Woodmen representative Grant Rogers and lodge secretary Orman Hunt (right). Accepting donations were (from left) Malcolm Hunt for Fohs Hall; Brenda Underdown for the Crittenden County Historical Museum; Red Howton for Marion Fire Department; and David Collins for Mattoon Fire Department. Other agencies receiving flags were Crittenden County, Salem, Caldwell Springs, Shady Grove and Tolu volunteer fire departments and Marion's City-County Park.
