Fire hazard season

Forest fire hazard season begins Friday and runs through Dec. 15. During forest fire hazard season, it is illegal to burn between the hours of 6 a.m., and 6 p.m. in or within 150 feet of any woodland or brushland.

County judge issues new burning ban

Due to continued drought conditions, Crittenden County Judge-Executive Fred Brown has re-issued the outdoor burn ban that was in force earlier this summer. The burn ban had been in place for more than a month starting in August, but it was lifted a couple of weeks ago after a rain. Now, the county is experiencing dry conditions again and firemen are being called to a number of field fires. One fire burned several acres last Thursday between Cave Springs Church Road and Ky. 120. The burn ban prohibits all outdoor burning. This should not be confused with the fire hazard season, which begins Friday and prohibits daytime burning only. The judge's countywide ban prohibits burning at any time.

Airport Dedication includes displays, trips over Marion

STAFF REPORT

In planning for Marion-Crittenden County Airport's formal dedication and open house this weekend, local aircraft enthusiasts put a little more lift under their wings.

In addition to the customary glad-handing and speaking, there will be free flights for children, aircraft on display, a classic car show and plenty of food. U.S. Rep. Ed Whitfield (R-Hopkinsville), who local leaders largely credit with securing funding for the community's effort to improve the airport, will be the featured speaker along with administrators from the Kentucky Department of Aviation. They and others will be at the microphone for a short dedication ritual starting at noon. The event is partly to christen a $5 million airport renovation that started more than five years ago, but Jim Johnson, chairman of the local airport board, says it's much more than that — it's a celebration of aviation and an opportunity for youngsters to get off the

About 70 volunteers and members of Marion United Methodist Church spent Saturday handing out dozens of winter coats, collecting 100 bags of garbage from downtown streets, providing personal hygiene and cleaning supplies to about 60 residents and providing light maintenance for a dozen local homeowners. With help from community donations, the local church spearheaded the event called Rethink Church: Impact 10, a community outreach program. Boy Scouts and the high school FBCLA club also pitched in to help. Pictured at left are Wendy Dunham and her son Matthew picking up trash along Main Street.

Hospital CEO tells magistrates EMS will need money

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden Health Systems CEO Jim Christensen told magistrates last week to be prepared to get out the county's checkbook soon to help defray losses incurred by the ambulance service.

Emergency Management Services (EMS) is operated by the hospital although Kentucky law mandates that counties are responsible for providing such service. A longstanding agreement between the fiscal court and hospital has kept EMS under the Crittenden Health Systems' flag. Christensen said the hospital is experiencing financial difficulties this year for various reasons, including growing insurance premium costs for employees, a mounting list of uncollectible patient debts and the continued economic downturn.

The hospital posted a net gain of more than a half million dollars in 2009, but earlier projections forecast a similar loss in 2010. Christensen said cost-saving measures since last spring have trimmed the anticipated loss to about $275,000. The hospital's budgetary cycle ends today.

In his report to the Crittenden County Fiscal Court last week,

Christensen explained that the hospital has gotten control of most of its costs in order to slow the bleeding. However, he pointed out that the ambulance service is hemorrhaging losses. He estimated the net loss for this year will be around $225,000.

In order to cut its own losses, Christensen said the county will be asked to provide a financial subsidy to EMS.

"CHS can no longer afford to singularly subsidize this much-needed program," Christensen said in a written report to magistrates. He also said that Crittenden is one of only two counties in the state that does not currently provide financial assistance for ambulance service.

Magistrate Dan Wood asked whether the projected loss for the ambulance service included financial benefits the hospital receives from patients transported to its facility. Christensen said that had been taken into account.

Judge-Executive Fred Brown said he'd need to further review EMS financial records before passing judgement on Christensen's request for financial assistance.

Deception, destruction coming in last battle

We are taught in Rev. 20:7-10 that the time before the end Satan would gather his pagan and false religions to deceive the entire world and encircle God's people worldwide to do battle against them.

As we look around us, we are encircled with atheistic communism in China, North Korea, Cuba and 12 countries in South America. Those leaders hate America. There are Muslims who hate us in Asia, Europe, Africa, the Middle East and you name it. Many others are in our own nation.

Our government, plus the 36 unauthorized czars and mainstream biased media are full of power-grabbing, ego maniacs who are calling themselves progressives – a pretty name for socialists and a cover-up name for communism.

They want everything and everyone in this nation under their control, and to shove us into a third-rate status global world of nations so we are more easily controlled. Then we have to look to them for our very existence.

They now are trying to put America under a world court, with all weapons in their hands, and one world currency, with the communist and tyrants ruling us from the United Nations.

If the radical muslims win, we all will be required to become one or die. If the communists win we all will be required to be an atheist or die.

How sad that so many are working to take us down for their own power and control, not stopping to read history that tells us when any tyrannical power takes over a people, they get rid of the ones who helped them get into power. For they believe that "if you can help put me in

Rev. Lucy Tedrick

you can help take me out."

The Bolsheviks of the Russian Revolution found that out too late. The leaders of the Reign of Terror in France, and many of Hitler's henchmen, also went the same way. How true the saying, "What comes around, goes around." But even though they get their just desserts, look how many millions suffer and die in the process, and no one wins.

While we are listening only to our party's side, and the bias pied-pipers of the major networks, our country is being sold out. Enemies of our souls and our nation are laughing while we go along with our heads down, and face set like a flint, determined to do it my way, be what grandpa was, do just as I've always done, what I want and my way or nothing. We will not pay attention to who and what is destroying this nation until it is too late.

This nation is heading into unbelievable pain and suffering if millions do not repent and turn to God. "For the nation that will not serve God shall perish, and be utterly wasted." Isa. 60:12.

I may not live to see the worst of it, but I am seeing enough of it to make my heart ache for my precious nieces and nephews, and all the rest of the innocent ones who escaped the murderous abortion executioners, and who will never get to know the America my generation and those before me have known. They will not have many older people around to give them truth and courage.

What a wonderful world I grew up in when we never thought of locking our doors day or night, and could walk for miles even at night and have no fear. When neighbors hurt, we all hurt and helped. We all had to work hard, be responsible for our actions, and do a good job. Our word was our bond.

As an adult, I could drive from Harvey, Ill., to the Loop at night and never had any fear of any kind. If I got sleepy, I would stop as I drove through Jackson Park and go to sleep. I could drive 1,000 miles straight through from Chicago to Wichita, Kan., alone, or to New Orleans, or Florida and never fear of anything. How sad our children will never get to know that freedom from fear and danger in what has been the greatest nation on earth.

Every sinner in America is helping to bring God's judgment upon America. The remedy is to "Seek the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him... for He will abundantly pardon." Isa. 55:6,7.

The wonderful hope for God's true children that endure until the end have the great comfort of Rev. 20:9b,10, "...and fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured the enemies."

Letters to the Editor

Many helped out at accident scene

To the Editor:

I would like to thank those who helped with the accident on Sunday, Sept. 19 at Dairy Queen, especially Officer Parker, Eddie Myers and Sheriff Wayne and Melissa Agent. Thank you also to the manager and employees of Dairy Queen for your help. It shows how much support you get when there is a tragedy like this.

I also ask that you remember, Rick Mills is in this election bid for jailer. He took Pat Hart's wheelchair to Crayne for her after the accident.

Bart Frazer, who is running for county attorney; Lynn Bechler, who is running for state representative; and Perry Newcom, who is running for judge-executive, are great people who all helped. God bless you all, thanks again.

Enjoyed re-visit of Marion's warmth

To the Editor:

My wife, Nancy, and I just had a delightful visit in Marion and Crittenden County. I should say "re-visit" because we were in Marion seven years ago and stayed for two years.

How good and how pleasant it was in Marion. Nancy said that a town with two stop lights can't be all bad; no, it was all good – from the people to the amenities. I can't list all the good changes we noticed, but perhaps one of the best was a fine city building out of a once vacant and unattractive structure. Another improvement was the removal of an eyesore building on a Main Street corner.

Nancy is one of Jehovah's Witnesses and so she, and eventually me, attended all of their meetings. What a nice surprise. The Marion Kingdom Hall has been remodeled and enlarged since we left in 2005.

Nancy, in the past, as well as during our recent visit, went door-to-door with her Bible. You may have had her, or one of the local Jehovah's Witnesses, come to your door and offer to read a Bible passage and/or offer a free home Bible study. She reported that those households she visited with recently were very cordial, very kind and very pleasant.

No, I'm not trying to convert you. There are a variety of Christian religions in Crittenden County. It's just that I must tell you how kind and happy the Witnesses are that I met in Marion. And those in the congregation seemed so pleased to see Nancy again, and even me.

But, back to our first look at Marion. We arrived from our home in Ames, Iowa and leased, for two years, a fine, furnished home on five wooded acres in the south of the city. We even rented the owner's cat and dog while she traveled out of the country. We loved that dog, and she loved us. The only sad part of our return visit was that "Squeaky" no longer lives in Marion. She is in Baja Mexico now, living with her owner and no doubt barking and squeaking in Spanish.

Descending from our Marion house high on a hill to the highway out of Marion, we saw a sign: "Trail of Tears." I am reminded of the time when the Cherokee Indians, living in the eastern part of the United States, were disposed of their land and forced to move out West, mainly to what is now Oklahoma.

I learned that the perpetrator of this crime was none other than President Andrew Jackson, the "Man of War." He ignored a U.S. Supreme Court decision which denied the removal of the Cherokee from their land. Jackson simply assigned his soldiers to the terrible task, and terrible it was for the Native Americans. All of them suffered and many of them died along the forced march.

But the agony of the horrible Trail of Tears is not what sticks in my mind about Marion. What I most fondly recall is the friendliness of all the people – those I met on the street, in the park, and in the confines of the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Finally, I recall the sign we left town – "Visit Again Soon." We will, oh we will.

Congressman has problems with new health laws

To the Editor:

This week marks the six month anniversary of passage of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, sweeping legislation which will dramatically change our nation's healthcare system. Enactment of the measure brought with it a great deal of controversy with lawmakers and concerned citizens from across the country voicing concerns over the impact the bill would have on both the cost and the quality of care Americans receive. This occasion provides an excellent opportunity to review the impact this measure has had, and will have, on our nation's healthcare system as well as steps we can take to improve it.

I opposed the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act when it was passed by congress for a number of reasons. My main concerns were over the impact the bill would have on the quality and cost of healthcare available to Americans; how it will affect small businesses owners and also the impact this package will have on the national debt. Under this new law, businesses with more than 50 employees who do not offer coverage will face a $2,000 tax penalty per employee. In addition, the measure will cost taxpayers $940 billion and includes $569 billion in tax increases. It also cuts $523 billion from Medicare and $132 billion from Medicare Advantage over the next 10 years.

While several of the provisions in the new law will not take effect for several years, the impact of the measure can already be seen. Premiums for many plans have already risen and several health insurance companies have scaled back some of their coverage to avoid having to comply with some of the new mandates. For example, it was recently reported that a number of major insurance companies have decided to stop offering new child-only insurance plans, rather than comply with rules that will require such plans to start accepting children with preexisting medical conditions after Sept. 23. While I support eliminating pre-existing conditions, this is an example of how this flawed and rushed law has impacted coverage.

Regrettably, the Obama Administration, House Speaker Nancy Pelosi and Majority Leader Harry Reid have failed to follow up with oversight and congressional hearings on implementation and the impact of this new law. After enacting one of the most sweeping reform bills to pass congress in many years, it would appear wise to follow this with aggressive oversight and to monitor the effect implementation has on patients, doctors and insurance coverage. However, this has not been the case and house committees with jurisdiction over the law, including the Committee on Energy and Commerce on which I serve, have not held a single hearing on the law following its approval by congress.

While this may seem discouraging, I am hopeful there will be opportunities following this year's elections to make adjustments and improvements to the law. Repealing the measure altogether could prove challenging, but there may be opportunities to block funding for implementation, alter some of the mandates for individuals and small businesses and create more competition in the insurance market. This will be an important first step to producing a new plan for healthcare reform.

Earlier this year I unveiled "10 Steps to a Healthier America," a package of healthcare initiatives that will increase access to quality, affordable healthcare without saddling small businesses with unreasonable mandates that will hurt economic growth and job creation. I encourage you to visit my website at whitfield.house.gov to see my roadmap for improving healthcare and expanding coverage to more Americans.

Soccer problems are of concern

To the Editor:

The state of the girls' high school soccer program is troubling. The team is currently in the midst of its third straight winless season, under its third head coach in three years. The team has had the second highest total of goals scored against it in the entire state, but we continue to use the same defensive strategy game after game.

In high school soccer there is a mercy rule. If a team is losing by 10 goals, the game ends. Currently the Crittenden County team has four such losses, which is the third highest in the state.

As parents, we are not asking for district titles, we are just asking to be somewhat competitive. Being mercy ruled four times, giving up an average of eight goals a game, scoring only two goals this season and seeing nothing change on the field during games or practice causes concern for the program as a whole.

There are girls on the varsity team who have never won a game in high school so the frustration level is very high.

The state of the program affects the recreational soccer program as well, which is the feeder to the high school program. The recreational league has been growing for a couple years and due to the high school program's recent performance, it may discourage the recreational players from continuing on to the high school level.

Johnson didn't give up on me

To the Editor:

I am not a letter writer, so this is not going to be very long or fancy. I am just a person who struggles daily with problems that I have. A lot of these problems were brought on by myself just not caring any more. I wasn't myself for a very long time. I needed rehabilitation and I needed to be the dad that my children deserved. I needed to find a way. I couldn't see over that mountain. It seemed too tall. I had a small group of friends who were there and wouldn't give up on me when I had already given up on myself. I didn't want rehab or to hear about God. I didn't want to hear that I was doing any wrong because guilt was eating me up inside and I thought my life was over as far as being like it used to be.

Rebecca Johnson was one of the people who stepped in and helped me. She helped me get into rehab and actually cared enough to want me to come and see her when I got out. She encouraged me to keep going with the progress I was making. She knew me before, during and after, and treated me no different at any time. She always asks the friends who helped me how I am doing and takes time to ask how she can help. I know she really cares.

I didn't have anything to offer her, and not once did she act like I was less important than the next person. She always treated me like the person that she knew I could be and who I had once been. I am still working on myself and will be for the rest of my life. With God, my children, friends and the church family at Hurricane, I try every day to be better. What I am trying to say is not only should Rebecca Johnson be our county attorney because she treats everyone equally and cares, but also that I thank her for not giving up on me.

Tax problem was solved by Johnson

To the Editor:

Taxes can be a sore subject with anyone, especially when they are for property that you do not even own.

Last year, we received a notice of late property taxes for a property that actually belonged to someone else. Naturally, this was frustrating.

We contacted Rebecca Johnson and explained the situation. She went above and beyond her duty to correct this mix up.

She is an asset to our county with much experience in various legal issues. She is positively involved in our community and a person of integrity and high moral standards. She genuinely strives for the good of each member of our community.

Please join us in supporting her this fall by voting for Rebecca Johnson for re-election as county attorney.

The event is sponsored by the Marion-Crittenden County Airport Board and the Experimental Aircraft Association, which is promoting its Young Eagles Flight Rally. The rally is aimed at generating aviation interest in young people. Since the program was launched in 1992, volunteer EAA pilots have taken more than 1.4 million youngsters on flights.

"Fifteen years ago there were about 850,000 pilots licensed in the United States. Now, there are about 500,000," said Johnson, who is himself a pilot, and has a daughter who flies passenger aircraft.

About 20 planes will be available for public flights. Trips above Marion will be free for children age 8-17. As part of the Young Eagles program, the kids will also learn about aviation, have a photo opportunity with their plane and pilot and earn a certificate following their flight. Parents will need to be present to approve their child's flight.

There will be separate flights for adults. The fee will be about $20 and they will be departing continuously all day long.

it," Alexander said. "With Heritage Days we felt like we should be celebrating our heritage, dressing in costumes and doing things of that nature. Well, we weren't, so we decided to change the name."

Chamber Vice-President Bob Briley came up with the name that Alexander says was immediately accepted by fellow members of the Chamber.

"He had visited several festivals across the country and thought that it would be good to give ours a specific name with a specific purpose," she said.

Going along with the new name are brand new events. A pumpkin bake-off, pets on parade, photography contest and a one-mile fun run are among the added attractions. The festival will be in full swing from noon to 6 p.m., Friday and then all day Saturday.

For more information about the festival, visit www.ccpumpkinfestival.org.

The airport was once a 2,700-foot grass landing strip. Now, it's perhaps the most modern airport of any small town in Kentucky, Johnson said. The paved runway is 4,400 feet long with all-weather instrument approaches. The facility includes hangars, a terminal building, pilot lounge and a fueling station that includes avgas and jet fuel.

Johnson said plans are already underway for another phase of airport improvements, including extending the runway to 5,000 feet to accommodate larger corporate jets.

"The airport is already benefiting the local economy," Johnson said.

He explained that numerous flights come into and depart from the airport each week, including corporate officials visiting the region on business and medical emergency flights scheduled by several area hospitals.

Cadet Jacob Highfil begins final year at USAF Academy

Crittenden County's first Air Force Academy Cadet Jacob Highfil recently celebrated his upperclass status at the USAFA Ring Dining Out and Dance on campus at the academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. Cadet Highfil invited his sister, April Benningfield to accompany him to the event where Highfil received his senior ring and the status of upperclassman or senior at the United States Air Force Academy.

Highfil

Cadet Highfil has completed his busiest summer, serving the United States Air Force. Highfil, a valedictorian and 2007 graduate of Crittenden County High School, was assigned to USAFA Summer Sports Camp as the logistics officer. Cadet Highfil was expected to coordinate lodging for all USAFA sports campers at the Air Force Academy.

Cadet Highfil then continued in his summer serving as an assistant personnel officer for boot camp at the USAFA. Highfil coordinated activities for the newest members of the United States Air Force Academy Class of 2014 during the three-week period of boot camp.

In his final summer at the academy, Cadet Highfil completed a RECONDO program. He had two-a-day workouts in order to prepare for the physical demands of serving as an officer in the U.S. Air Force. In August, he participated in the annual USAFA Acceptance Day Parade where the "basics" were accepted into the Cadet Wing of USAFA as cadets. Highfil began classes at the academy on Aug. 5 as a cadet first class or "Firstie." The status of Firstie is indeed a coveted honor. It signifies the ultimate upperclassman at USAFA because the Class of 2011 is in charge of the daily operations of the entire Cadet Wing of over 4,000 cadets.

Cadet Highfil is now serving as the assistant flight commander for C Flight of Cadet Squadron One while taking 18.5 hours of classes. His physical fitness training continues during the course of his academic day. Military activities are also conducted throughout the school year and on weekends.

Highfil will complete his education at the Air Force Academy on May 25, 2011 and graduate with a bachelor of science as a second lieutenant. Upon graduating, Highfil will enter the active duty part of his commitment to the United States Air Force. Highfil recently learned that he will serve as an information technician for Cyber Space Operations. He is expected to report to Keeler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss., for six months of intense training. He will then be assigned to an active duty unit in the United States Air Force. Cadet Highfil is one of 1,050 members of the Class of 2011. There were initially 1,304 cadets in Highfil's class in June of 2007.

Highfil is the son of Hugh and Shelia Highfil. They along Ed Clement and B.J. May were among local representatives from the Ben E. Clement Mineral Museum participating in the Cave In Rock, Ill., Frontier Day Parade two weeks ago. They rode a float constructed by Bill Frazer, Tina Walker, Ed Clement and May. Andrea Clement and Jennifer Watson also participated in the parade in southern Illinois. The museum's entry won a trophy for the most creative float.

with Highfil's brother, Jesse, recently visited Cadet Highfil at the Air Force Academy for the annual Parent Weekend. Family members were allowed in the cadet area of Air Force Academy to attend classes with their cadet and various squadron activities during the Labor Day weekend. Normally, no one is allowed into the cadet area, which is an increased security measure to ensure the safety of the future officers for the United States Air Force. The general public is only allowed to visit the chapel and visitor's center.

Cadet Highfil is expected to be home in Crittenden County for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Honored teacher Duvall enjoys having an impact

Crittenden County High School teacher Larry Duvall has been recognized as the local school system's Educator of the Month for September.

Duvall

Duvall began working in the Crittenden County School District 28 years ago as an agriculture educator. He has also been recognized for the following achievements:

- 27-Year Ag Teacher Service Award from Kentucky Farm Bureau.
- Teacher of Year Award from Kentucky Association of Agriculture Educators (KAAE).
- Teacher of the Year at Crittenden County High School numerous times.
- Previously served as the Pennyrile Regional President of KAAE.
- Recipient of the Crittenden County Unsung Hero Award
- Recipient of the Outstanding Young Men of America Award.
- Numerous nominations from Who's Who in American Educators.

Duvall has served as vice-chairman on the Crittenden County High School Site-Based Decision-Making Council and in his role as FFA advisor, he has held numerous state FFA offices. He is also an FFA American Degree recipient. For the past four years, he has also coached the high school girls' volleyball team.

Duvall says that his favorite part of his job is teaching students.

"I still enjoy it when a student 'gets it' and I know it is part of a life-long learning or skill," says Mr. Duvall.

He also enjoys it when a student 10, 15, or 20 years out of school comes by to tell him something they did in class or as part of the National FFA organization that has impacted their life.

Annual art, writing contests' deadline Dec. 1

For 66 years young Kentuckians have been participating in the Conservation Writing and Jim Claypool Conservation Art contests. Crittenden County Conservation District will be sponsoring this year's contests. There will be no printed packet available at the conservation district offices this time. Instead, the publication is available on a compact disc from the conservation district office or on the Division of Conservation Web site conservation.ky.gov or the Kentucky Farm Bureau Web site kyfb.com/federation. The sites will also provide a teachers guide, contest entry form and principal and district report forms. Students in grades 6-12 are eligible to compete in the writing contest and students in 1-5 grades are eligible to compete in the art contest. Home-schooled students are encouraged to participate, too. An entry must be created by one student. A writing entry may not exceed 1,000 words and may be written in ink, typed or computer-generated on one side of the paper only. No photographs or artwork may be included with the written work. It is suggested that the written entry take the form of transactive writing — from the perspective of an informed writer to a less informed reader — and may be in the form of a letter, feature article, editorial or speech. It should persuade the reader to take action toward good soil conservation practices. Artwork shall be 9 x 12 inches. Any thickness or color of art board may be used. Art paper may be used, but must be pasted onto art board or cardboard before submitting for competition. No plywood will be accepted. Artwork may be rendered in any medium: pencil, ink, charcoal, crayon, oil, etc., but it must be flat art. 3-D art is unacceptable; however, collages or other art pasted onto your board will be accepted as long as it is flat art pasted securely to the poster board. An art entry may take the form of poster, newspaper advertisement or editorial cartoon. Make sure that the artwork conveys a message at a glance that persuades its viewers to take action toward good soil conservation practices. State winners will receive $250 check for first, $150 check for second and $50 check for third. Each will also receive a personalized plaque and certificate. Regional and county level winners will receive $50 check and $25 check, respectively, along with plaques and certificates. Local prize money for the art contest will be $10 first, $8 second and $5 third. Local prize money for the writing contest will be $15 first, $10 second and $5 third. The county winners in each contest will receive $100 first, $50 second and $25 third. The deadline to submit entries to the conservation district is Dec. 1. For more information, contact the Crittenden County Conservation District at 118 E Bellville Street, Marion, KY 42064 or call 965-3921, extension 3.

Hunters must apply for WMA hunts by today

Hunters have just a few more hours to apply for deer, pheasant, quail, upland bird and waterfowl quota hunts managed by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. The application deadline is Thursday (today). Most quota hunts take place on department wildlife management areas (WMAs). Complete details about the quota hunts, including dates and hunter requirements, are available in the quota hunt section that starts on page 43 of the 2010-11 Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide. The 2010-11 waterfowl quota hunt dates are available online at <http://fw.ky.gov/10waterfowlquotahunt.asp> Hunters must call toll-free 1-877-598-2401 to apply for all types of quota hunts. It costs $3 per hunter to apply for each species, although waterfowl hunt applicants are charged $3 per area if they wish to apply for both the Ballard and Sloughs WMA hunts. Hunters who apply but are not selected will receive a preference point for use in the following year's quota hunt drawing. These points increase the hunter's chances of being drawn. Hunters must continue to apply each year to keep building preference points. Hunters must be aware of some changes to the quota hunts this year. The bonus WMA quota hunt deer permit is no longer available. Hunters must use their statewide deer permit or a bonus antlerless-only deer permit.

USDA stewardship sign-up period underway

Kentucky landowners still have time to sign up for the Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) at their local Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office.

The deadline for the 2011 CSP ranking period is quickly approaching, although it has not yet been officially announced.

According to NRCS State Conservationist Tom Perrin, now is the time for landowners and producers who have considered applying for CSP to sign up and submit the required documentation. USDA will be announcing the national cutoff date for CSP within the next few weeks. The national cutoff date for this ranking period will be posted on www.ky.nrcs.usda.gov immediately after it is announced.

CSP is a voluntary program that encourages producers to maintain existing conservation activities and adopt additional practices on their operations. The program is popular for producers who go the extra mile with conservation and sustainable operations — whether they've accomplished goals on their own, with other conservation partners, or through USDA and NRCS programs.

"If you've heard about the new CSP and talked with other local producers or read about others involved with it, now is the time to get your conservation operation on the list of those recognized for a quality conservation commitment," explains Perrin. "It's important that you get your application and paperwork submitted so you can be part of the 2011 CSP ranking period and funding cycle."

Perrin said NRCS teams like the office at 118 East Bellville Street in Marion and others across the state are ready to work with producers and start the process.

Ag producers or landowners who are new to NRCS or USDA will need to schedule an appointment to ensure that the necessary paperwork is completed in order for the application process to proceed smoothly. While CSP applications are accepted on a continuous basis, at this time only applications received by the national cutoff date will be considered for funding in fiscal year 2011. Check www.ky.nrcs.usda.gov frequently for updates and information.

To apply, or for more information about CSP, including the eligibility requirements, contact Larry Starr, District Conservationist, at the Marion or Salem NRCS offices or call 965-3921, extension 3. in Marion

Babies need stimulation to develop skills

Parents may need ideas for playing with their newborn baby. It would be easy to think that such a young baby is not very responsive. She sleeps a great deal, sometimes when the rest of the world is awake.

She cannot talk or even smile. Her cries may be difficult to understand from the communication standpoint. However, there are helpful ideas for playing that advance the very young baby's development and responsiveness. A few play ideas from Carole Gnatuk, UK Extension Child Development Specialist are described below.

Strengthening vision. The newborn's ability to see objects and people is not well developed at birth. With practice, the baby's vision improves to nearly adult level by less than one year of age. During the first few weeks, you are your baby's best plaything.

Stay about 10 inches above your baby's face while he is awake and alert. His eyes can focus on your face at that distance. Talk to him softly and smile while you look into his eyes. Call him often by his name. He especially likes gazing at your moving mouth and your bright eyes. By four to six weeks of age, he will begin to imitate your smile.

To strengthen your baby's eye muscles to improve focusing at longer distances, try hanging infant toys that are brightly colored above the crib and to start with, about 8 to 10 inches above his face. The toys should have no sharp edges. The baby may try to bat or swipe at them, especially if they make pleasing sounds.

Strengthening muscles in the head and upper body.

Spread out a blanket on the floor. Place your baby face down on the blanket. Sit on the floor beside the baby. Place a rattle in front of the baby's head and shake it. Call her by name and say, "Here is a blue rattle. Can you raise your head and look at it? Listen to the sound it makes."

Watch her try to raise her head and shoulders to look at the rattle. Praise her for her effort and tell her what she is doing. "I see you can raise your head a little bit. Good for you!" If you play this game regularly with various toys or small books, she will improve her ability to raise herself. Be sure to notice when she gets tired, and stop the play.

Developing the sense of touch, awareness of body parts, and well-being. Place baby lotion within easy reach of the changing table or a blanket on the floor. After you have changed your baby's diaper and while the baby is lying face up on the table or the floor, place yourself in front of the baby.

Reach for the baby lotion and place a small amount on your hands. With soft, gentle stroking motions, message the baby's body from the center to the outside. Then do the same for each arm and each leg.

You may name the body part you are stroking, count the strokes out loud, or sing a slow lullaby or counting song. Smile and look at the baby's eyes as you nurture your child in this way. You are helping your baby become wonderfully aware of his body. He will also feel relaxed and nurtured, and may even fall asleep.

These are only a few of the many games you can play with your young baby. Even at this young age, you are your baby's first and most important teacher. You are helping your child develop that essential trust in you and the world around, the foundation for all further development. You will also feel nurtured as you play with your baby in these ways.

Blessings surround us in His presence

"In thy presence is fullness of joy." - Psalms 16:11

During an early morning wak I was captivated by the sights, sounds, smell and even the silence all around me. The earth had awakened in a blaze of glory. It was a clear, cool day and the air smelled fresh after an early morning rain. The silence was broken by the honking of geese overhead. There they were in perfect V formation, using their God-given radar system steering them onward to their destination. Robins were searching for the illusive worm – they had mouths to feed. The rain crow could be heard in the distance.

Climbing the hill, I noticed a cluster of bright yellow jonquils which had emerged from the carpeted floor of our woods. My husband and I had planted bulbs there many years before. By now the geese were out of sight and the rain crow had ceased its call. There was only silence – a solemn hush. In those quiet moments I felt such peace and experienced a wondrous sense of God's presence. My heart overflowed with gratitude and praise.

It was humbling that the creator of the universe would enter our work-a-day world and bless our lives with a sense of His presence.

See you at the pole!

Over 200 students in the Crittenden County School District participated in the annual See You At the Pole on Sept. 22. With students gathering at the elementary, middle and high schools, knees were bent and heads bowed as everyone said their silent prayers. More memories of our county's lost spar miners

This is the third and last part of a series devoted to the memory of Crittenden County spar miners who lost their lives on the job.

May 9, 1924

Grady D. Chambliss, 15-year-old son of Hayes Chambliss, residing near Mexico, this county, met with almost instant death about 10 o'clock Saturday morning by an accident at Haffaw Mines owned and operated by the Aluminum Ore Co.

Young Chambliss was at work at the spar mill, engaged in washing ore when by some misstep he fell into the vat and was drawn under the wheel the second time badly crushing his body before the machinery could be stopped. Dr. Sory of Fredonia was called, but the young man lived but a short time after being taken out. The body was taken to the new cemetery at Mexico for burial.

Sept. 21, 1928

James Rushing, locomotive engineer at the Haffaw Mines at Mexico, died at five o'clock Tuesday morning at Walkers Hospital in Evansville of burns received at the Haffaw Mine shortly after noon Monday. Mr. Rushing accidentally broke some steam pipes, it is said, in tipping a crane at the mines, and the steam rushing forth scalded nearly every portion of his body, even his feet. First aid was administered at the mine and the injured man was taken immediately to the Evansville hospital. The deceased was 38 years old and is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Ethel Hopkins; two sons, Paul and Ross Rushing; three brothers, Leman Rushing of Princeton, Marshall Rushing of Fredonia, and Coleman Rushing of Mexico; and three sisters, Mrs. Mat Woodall of Fredonia, Mrs. Jennie McCree of Mexico, and Mrs. Charles Williamson of Mexico. Funeral services were held at the Mexico Baptist Church with burial in the adjoining cemetery.

Sept. 7, 1934

John Crouch, age 38 years, was instantly killed at the fluorspar mines of the Hughlett Company, near Salem Wednesday, Sept. 5. Crouch was an employee of the mines and had gone into the shaft, a depth of 80 feet preparatory to mining spar. He remained at the bottom for some time, having sent up several buckets of spar. Crouch decided to come to the surface and was riding a bucket which is used for the removal of spar and as an elevator by the employees of the mine when the accident occurred. Dynamite had been used at the bottom of the shaft the day preceding and as a result a residuary of gas might have been in the shaft causing Crouch to return to the surface. The mine has two levels, the first being 45 feet in depth and the second 80 feet, a distance and drop of 35 feet from the first level. Upon reaching the first level and having ascended 35 feet, the miner either attempted to alight from the bucket or was overcome from the gas remaining in the shaft from the previous day. The body of Crouch was found at the bottom of the shaft having fallen 35 feet, the distance from the upper to the lower level. Death was believed to have been instantaneous as Crouch was dead when other employees found him at the bottom immediately after he failed to appear at the surface. Officials of the mine attribute the cause of death to the gas and not to the fact of alighting from the bucket as was first reported. The Hughlett Mines are located near the town of Salem. Surviving Crouch are his wife and seven minor children. Burial was at Tyner's Chapel cemetery.

Aug. 14, 1936

Glenn Martin, aged about 26, was crushed to death between 8:15 and 8:30 last night at the Davenport Mine in the southwest portion of the county, about eight miles from here. He and a companion, Poindexter, were working in a stope and in attempting to remove a boulder overhead, a portion of the rock and spar dislodged and fell and struck him in the face and temple. The fall was sufficient to knock him from the stope and causing a fall of about 35 feet to the bottom of the mine. Dr. J.R. Perry found fractures over the right temple and at the base of the neck in addition to a broken neck, each sufficient to cause death. Martin is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Martin of the Crittenden Springs section, two brothers and one sister. Burial was in Love Cemetery.

Dec. 17, 1937

Carmel Elton Freeman, 38, an employee of the Pigmy Mines, died as the result of a fall from an ascending bucket about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. In some manner the bucket on nearing the surface slipped several feet as the downward flight was stopped. The sudden jerk is reported to have caused Freeman to lose his grip on the guide. He plunged from the bucket into the bottom of the shaft, a distance of approximately 90 feet. Freeman was injured in a mine accident about 18 years ago and suffered a permanent hand injury as the result and it is supposed that he was enabled to grip the bucket with only one hand. He is survived by a wife and four children in addition to his parents. Funeral services were at Deer Creek Church with burial in Deer Creek Cemetery.

April 10, 1942

Black damp at Blue Mines was the cause of death of J.E. Asbridge and Henry Owen Adams last Thursday afternoon. The men were lowered into a new shaft by hoistman Ed Butler and within a short time after descent Butler failed to see the lights attached to the helmets. Summoning aid, the bodies were found by Lem Conger and Rob Gibbs a few feet from where the men alighted in the newly opened shaft. Adams was brought to the surface first and both pronounced dead by Dr. T.A. Frazer. The mines are operated by Cumberland Fluorspar Co.

The Haffaw Mine was located in the Mexico community. James Rushing and Grady Chambliss lost their lives there.

Asbridge, 21, was born in the Frances community, entered the fluorspar industry after attending public school in the section, and had been actively engaged in mining for the past four years. His entire life was spent in Crittenden. Survivors are his wife, formerly Anna Mildred Simpkins; two children, Doris Ann and Verna Belle; parents, W.B. and Mrs. Asbridge; three sisters, Mrs. Ona Belle Sunderland, Misses Jean and Joan Asbridge; and two brothers, Kelley and Shelley, all of this county. Burial was in Asbridge Cemetery.

Henry Owen Adams, 30, was born in the Frances community, had been employed by fluorspar industry for several years. Survivors are his widow; two children; mother and two brothers, all of Crittenden. Burial was at the Matthews Cemetery.

(Black damp, as noted in this obituary, was hydrogen sulfide gas which causes unconsciousness and respiratory failure. The symptoms usually occur within a few seconds after exposure and the reaction is paralysis of respiration, followed in five to 10 minutes by cardiac failure. There are no warning symptoms and no pain. Death from acute poisoning is due primarily to asphyxia. Death is as rapid as in poisoning by cyanide, according to resource material.)

May 28, 1943

Tom Fuller, 60, was instantly killed last Friday morning at Tabb No. 2 Mine of United Sates Coal & Coke Co. The mine is located near the residence of Irvin Woodall. Fuller, in company with Claude Campbell and Bill Thompson, was en route to the surface with the latter two in the lead. The falling rocks from a cave-in caught him as Campbell and Thompson were uninjured and within inches of the body of Fuller. Campbell rushed to the telephone at the mine and notified the office at Mexico and also men working in another mine nearby. A large timber, known to miners as a bridge tree, fell across Fuller's head and an eight-inch cap stick timber struck him across the shoulders. He was instantly killed as a part of the body fell on Campbell's leg and foot. Campbell thrust his body free within a few seconds after.

Fuller had been employed by the company for the past 20 years and was one of the most skillful miners and foremen in this section. He had planned to retire on his birthday, Aug. 24. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at Fredonia Presbyterian Church with burial in Fredonia cemetery.

May 1944.

No Press available for this date, but information from daughter Carolyn Redd Travis, and the death certificate, confirms that Wilber Redd, born June 2, 1903, died May 5, 1944. Death was from an accidental explosion in the Keystone mines. His parents were Luther and Mattie Flanary Redd. Carolyn remembers that she was told they had set off a shot of dynamite in the mines. When it didn't go off, her dad went back to check on it and the charge exploded while he was inside.

Feb. 1948

No Press available for this date, but information from grandson Victor Polk and the death certificate, confirms that William Clyde Baily Polk, born Oct. 19, 1911, died Feb. 17, 1948. He died from a timber falling on him in mines and crushing his chest. The accident occurred in Mine No. 22 at Frances. His parents were John M. and Lula Griffin Polk. Burial was in Matthews Cemetery.

These are the Crittenden County deaths that I have found in the archives of The Crittenden Press and from people sharing their family history. I apologize if I have missed others who lost their lives working in the fluorspar mines during the period when the mines were active here.

Ceremony Saturday to mark graves of area's Revolutionary War soldiers

The Fredonia Valley Heritage Society along with the Governor Isaac Shelby Chapter of the Kentucky Society of Sons of the American Revolution and other groups will conduct an historic event Saturday near Fredonia.

An official Grave Markings and Dedication Ceremony will be held starting at 12:30 p.m., for at least three of the area's early pioneers, who were Revolutionary War patriots.

Other local groups assisting with the ceremony will include the Ohio Valley Chapter of Indiana Society of the Sons of the American Revolution of Evansville, Ind., and the Gen. John Caldwell Chapter, Kentucky Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution of Princeton.

A grave marking ceremony will be held for Robert Leeper at the Old Fredonia Cemetery, which was near the pioneer town of Centerville (see informative inset) more than 200 years ago.

Afterwards additional ceremonies will be held at another cemetery about 150 yards away.

The Centerville Livingston Presbyterian Church Cemetery is where patriots John Elder, James Hawthorn and William Hamilton are buried. Elder's grave is the oldest documented tombstone in Caldwell and Crittenden. He died on Oct. 21, 1799.

Because both cemeteries are located off the road and in the woods with limited access, transportation to and from will be furnished from the Boone home at 21804 U.S. 641 in Fredonia. The home is located one mile north of Fredonia, on the east side of the highway. Plenty of parking will be available. Some seating will be available, but guests are encouraged to bring lawn chairs.

The grave-marking ceremonies will include a variety of activities of historic significance. William Ralph Paris will be supplying the music.

"We are also making plans to have Jerry Clift's old team hearse on site," said Don Boone, one of the organizers. "This is a unique piece of yesteryear and only available for special occasions."

There will be teams of mules pulling wagons to carry some guests to the ceremony thanks to John Hughes.

Sixteen hundred American flags will mark the path to the two cemeteries. Troop leader Pat Wright's Boy Scout Troop 75 and Samantha Paris' Cub Scouts 289 from Princeton will be among the volunteers participating in the ceremonies.

After the grave markings, plans are for the Gen. John Caldwell Chapter KYSDAR and the Fredonia Valley Heritage Society to hold a reception at the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church of Fredonia. Everyone is invited to the ceremonies and the reception.

Boone said there is a great deal of information about the Area volunteers have worked tirelessly in the past few weeks to prepare the old cemeteries near Fredonia for this weekend's ceremony. cemeteries on a Web site created by Ken and Peggy Gilkey. It is located online at westernkyhistory.org.

"They have done a wonderful job of documenting information and pictures on the Revolutionary War patriots at the Old Fredonia Cemetery and the Centerville Livingston Presbyterian Church Cemetery. The church was built in 1797," Boone said.

Biographical Sketches of Patriots

Biographic sketches of three of the documented Revolutionary War soldiers whose graves will be marked at Saturday's ceremonies.

John Elder

After the Revolutionary War, John Elder's family, along with his brothers who had distinguished records as Revolutionary War patriots, sold their holdings in South Carolina and claimed land in Kentucky.

Five Elder brothers and their families traveled east, stopping first at Campbell Station 15 miles west of Knoxville, Tenn. There they heard of Indian depredations to the west where the main caravan stopped. A group of men including David Hill, George Mayes and five of the Elder brothers immediately resumed the journey to Kentucky. After reaching their destination, they cleared land, grew a crop, harvested and stored it, and then returned to Campbell's Station to get the rest of their party.

They built a boat and launched it on the Holston River after loading it with their household goods, the women and children, and enough men to navigate the boat. They floated to the mouth of the Tennessee River and poled the boat up the Ohio and Cumberland to where present-day Dycusburg is located. They camped there until the men with the stock brought teams to carry them to their new homes near today's Fredonia. The year was 1798.

Capt. John Elder was Presbyterian by faith. He and his wife Mary were members of the Livingston Presbyterian Church. John Elder's tombstone is the oldest documented gravestone in Caldwell and Crittenden counties. It is located in the Centerville Cemetery also known as the Livingston Presbyterian Church Cemetery. Gerald Elder, who today lives near Fredonia, is a seventh generation descendant of John Elder.

James Hawthorn

James Hawthorn was born in County Armagh in Ireland about 1750. While he was still a young boy, his family moved to America and settled on the South Carolina frontier. He was captured by Indians along with his mother and two sisters about 1762. According to tradition, his mother and sisters were killed while he was either released or escaped.

When the American Revolution began, he enlisted on July 10, 1775, as a private in the local militia. He ascended to the rank of lieutenant

Centerville

Historic information: Centerville was the county seat in 1804 of the original Livingston County (later split into Crittenden and Caldwell counties). A Presbyterian Church was started in 1797 by the Rev. Terah Templin. The county seat moved to Salem in 1809. U.S. Army used earlier buildings as supply depot on the "Trail of Tears." Cherokee relocation from 1834 to 1838. By Civil War days little remained of the town. Landmarks today are only the foundations and earth depressions.

colonel by 1780 and participated in the Battle of Kings Mountain, commanding a regiment. He also fought in the following battles: Florida Campaign of 1778, Rocky Mount, Hanging Rock, Carey's Fort, Fishing Creek, Fish Dam Ford, Blackstock's Plantation, Cowpens and Camden. He was wounded twice.

Around 1796, Hawthorn organized a group of family members, and they all moved to Livingston County, settling on 370 acres near the town of Centerville. His house is recorded as having been half a mile southeast of Centerville. He donated a parcel of land for the establishment of the Livingston Presbyterian Church (Centerville) and a public cemetery next to the church. He died in January of 1808 and is buried in the cemetery for which he donated land.

Robert Leeper

Robert Leeper arrived in Livingston County sometime before 1800 as part of a group of settlers reportedly organized by Lt. Col. James Hawthorn, who was married to Leeper's wife's sister. The Leepers settled east of Centerville on 400 acres between Livingston Creek and the Piney Fork of the Tradewater.

This land is now located in present day Crittenden County. Leeper was Presbyterian and member of the Livingston Presbyterian Church. He died Jan. 25, 1823 and is buried in the Old Fredonia Cemetery.

Area News Briefs

Jury finds grandson guilty of assault

A Crittenden County District Court Jury convicted a grandson of assaulting his grandfather after a trial last week in Marion.

The jury of four women and two men recommended the maximum fine of $500 for Mark A. Lowe, 33, of Marion, but it recommended no jail time. Special Judge Kenton Watson imposed the jury's verdict of fourth-degree assault and formally sentenced Lowe immediately after the Wednesday afternoon trial.

Lowe was accused of grabbing his 84-year-old step-grandfather's arm after a verbal argument, causing his skin to be torn away. Robert Coleman was taken to Livingston Hospital for treatment following the incident.

County Attorney Rebecca Johnson prosecuted the case. She said the grandson had ample opportunity to leave his step-grandfather's home before the verbal confrontation escalated.

Public defender Paul Sysol represented Lowe in the trial. Lowe alleged that he was simply trying to keep the elderly man from hitting him when he grabbed his arm.

County okays cash for memorial rock

Crittenden County Fiscal Court approved a request from Dan Witherspoon for money to buy 30 tons of rock for a parking lot at the Blackford Veteran's Memorial Bridge & Veteran's Walk of Honor in rural Crittenden County.

Rogers Group is selling the rock to the veterans group at a reduced rate, Witherspoon said. He estimated total cost at $1,650.

County road department vehicles will load and transport the aggregate from the quarry to the memorial site.

Water hazard on Main Street may now be mitigated

The City of Marion believes it may have solved a water drainage issue that often creates a driving hazard on Main Street near West Mound Park.

What city officials call a wet-weather spring is about two blocks away. During periods of heavy precipitation, the spring's waters overflow the normal drainage system in the area. The result is water running across Main Street, and in the winter it freezes. There have been accidents there in the past.

City Administrator Mark Bryant said recent drain and tile work in the Jarvis and North Maple Street area should prevent excessive water from running onto Main.

City council gives initial approval to floodplain plan

The City of Marion is putting together a plan to participate in the Flood Insurance Program as established by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the Federal Insurance Administration (FIA).

Currently, flood insurance is

Hospital and EMS staff race to evacuate make-believe patients to the school multi-purpose room Monday as part of Monday's mock disaster training exercises.

Hospital evacuates to train

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden Health Systems, Crittenden County School District and the Crittenden County Health Department conducted the second phase of a disaster planning program that started last month. As part of the mock disaster – a tornado strike in Marion – hospital personnel went through the routine of evacuating patients across the street in the school's multi-purpose room.

The multi-purpose room had previously been officially designated as an alternate site for the hospital in case an evacuation of patients is needed.

"We utilized some of our staff's children and auxiliary volunteers as patients that were being evacuated," said hospital marketing director Donnetta Travis.

The training exercise included moving essential equipment and supplies that would be needed in the event of a major disaster that required hospital evacuation. A plug-and-use connection has been installed at the multi-purpose room. A new portable generator can be connected quickly to supply power if electricity is out. The generator was purchased through a joint effort by the school system, hospital and health department.

About 12 years ago all patients were moved to the multi-purpose room during a real emergency – a bomb threat.

"A lot has changed since that time in equipment and how patients are cared for," said Travis.

"We tested the load on the generator, with the additional hospital equipment," Travis explained. "Plus, we tested other needs the health department might have in the event of a disaster."

Regular training exercises are necessary as needs change, officials said. Response is different in summer and winter and whether children are in school, Travis said. This week's exercise was done while school was out for a scheduled professional development day.

"Drills such as this will always result in areas for improvement which is why we do them two or three times per year," Travis added. "We will be working through some of issues that we need to be thinking about should something really happen."

not available for city residents because a formal floodplain has not been established and adopted by the city. A measure to approve just that received unanimous approval by the Marion City Council last week. The mapping has already been done by FEMA. Participation in the Flood Insurance Program is also necessary in order for residents to qualify for federal aid in the event of a major flood.

The city council will hear a final reading on the proposed plan at its October meeting. Approval at that point will mean adoption of the ordinance establishing the floodplain management regulations.

The county adopted a similar set of plans a few years ago.

Public asked to judge stamp contest at city's post office

Marion Post Office has teamed up with several local businesses to sponsor artwork designed by the kindergarten classes at Crittenden County Elementary School. After a tour of the Marion Post Office on Sept. 17, students were given a picture of a blank stamp and ask to create a new stamp design.

The artwork will be displayed by class at the Marion Post Office Oct. 8-23.

Marion Postmaster Barry Chandler is asking the public to judge the artwork. There will be four classes with a ballot box for each class.

Judges may choose one student from each class. The students were asked not to put their names on the artwork. Each student will be assigned a number for the judging. After all judging is complete, four winners will be awarded an array of prizes donated by local businesses, including Dairy Queen, Farmer's Bank, Fifth Third Bank, McDonald's, Hickory Heaven, Just-a-burger, Pamida, The Peoples Bank, Pizza Hut, Subway and Superior Trophies.

Jobless rate up one-tenth in Crittenden County

The unemployment rate in Crittenden County went up one-tenth of a percent from July to August, but it was still much lower than the same period a year earlier (see accompanying chart this page).

Jobless rates fell in Crittenden, Livingston and 96 other Kentucky counties between August 2009 and August 2010, according to the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training, an agency of the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet.

In August of this year, Woodford County recorded the lowest jobless rate in the Commonwealth at 7.6 percent. It was followed by Webster County at 7.9 percent; Boyd County 8.2 percent; Fayette and Oldham counties 8.3 percent each and Livingston County at 8.4 percent. Magoffin County recorded the state's highest unemployment rate in August at 18.2 percent.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working. Civilian labor force statistics include non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who are actively seeking work. They do not include unemployed

Kentuckians who have not looked for employment within the past four weeks.

Local woman gets into trouble at Caldwell County Jail

An incident at the Caldwell County Jail on Sept. 17 led to a charge of promoting contraband against a Crittenden County woman who was lodged there.

According to the Princeton Times-Leader newspaper, police arrested Christy D. Smith, 31, of Marion on a Livingston County warrant charging her with violation of conditions of release.

Officers also charged her with having a prescription controlled substance in an improper container after they found a quantity of Valium pills in her possession, the newspaper said. She was taken into custody and jailed.

Three hours later, officers were called back to the jail where deputies had reported that Smith, while being interviewed by Pretrial Services officials, had stolen a pack of cigarettes and concealed them in an attempt to smuggle them into the jail.

She was charged with promoting contraband, second degree.

Free county dump days Oct. 15-16

Crittenden County will have free dump days on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 15-16 at the convenience center on U.S. 60 East. County residents may take unwanted furniture, appliances, metal or other items and dump them free of charge. Tires and household garbage will not be accepted.

I-69 plans coming along well say highway officials

Kentucky Transportation Secretary Mike Hancock brought encouraging news about the progress of the Interstate 69 highway project to a gathering of over 50 regional representatives last week for the West Kentucky Regional Chamber Alliance (WKRA) meeting at Columbus-Belmont State Park.

Natalie Tabor of Crittenden County serves on the alliance as a representative for Lyon County.

"Advocating with one voice can not be underestimated," said Hancock in response to the efforts by the regional Chamber alliances involved in advocating for the I-69 project. "This is the most critical component and one that helps projects like this move forward."

The I-69 project has been referred to as America's "last great American highway" in a recently published book. When complete, the highway will utilize several existing highway sections in the Commonwealth, including I-24, West Kentucky Parkway, Purchase Parkway and Pennyryle Parkway. The northern point of the I-69 corridor will start at Port Huron, Mich., at the Canadian border. The southernmost point will split to serve three Texas border crossings into Mexico at Brownsville, Pharr and Laredo. The superhighway is ultimately planned to run through Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, estimated to ultimately cover 1,250 miles.

Citing the I-69 various component projects underway in many of the states involved, Hancock remained optimistic. "All of it is coming, but it's simply slower than we'd all like."

Portions of I-69 are complete in Indiana. The highway will run 156 miles south through Kentucky from Henderson to Fulton. Early plans showed it possibly coming through Crittenden County, but those were scratched years ago. The total cost of the bridge and 13-mile section near Henderson is estimated at $1 billion, according to Ted Merryman, the I-69 Project Manager for Kentucky.

"Kentucky will be responsible for about two-thirds of the funding and Indiana will be responsible for a third of the funding," Merryman said in his overview presentation.

Hancock said another big step for the Kentucky portion of I-69 took place this spring when the state legislature included $51 million to "make tweaks to existing parkways within the corridor to conform to federal highway standards" when the project moves forward.

Ruby Frantz Household Sale

In spite of all of our best efforts, Mom has had to make a change of residence. Rather than let her things lay idle and unused, we are having a household sale. If you know Mom, you know this sale will have a lot of item to choose from. She's 86 so she has accumulated a lot of goodies, including several antiques. There is everything to outfit a complete kitchen including pots and pans, Tupperware, dishes of all kinds, rolling pins and sifters as well as lots of glassware. Several pieces of furniture will be scattered through the rooms, including an antique 3-piece bedroom suite. Lots of her hand crocheted items and supplies will be offered as well; including a cabinet of exquisitely dressed Barbie dolls. If you can, there are several boxes of fruit jars plus very sturdy, almost like new shelves to set those jars on or to place in a garage or workshop. Do you need household appliances? Come by and look them over. Some of the odd little treasures are an old tobacco can, some of our circa 1950 childhood toys and an old softball. Among the items for sale are old suitcases, cigar boxes of goodies, odd miniature bottles, several cameras, folding chairs and tables.

Selling at a later date will be a collection of approximately 1,500 sets of salt and pepper shakers. Some of these are very old, including some made in occupied Japan. Look them over while you are here and make an offer.

The sale is inside, rain or shine, cash and carry, no credit, sold as is. Since everyone will be roaming from crowded room to crowded room in her house, we can't be responsible for any accidents. If you like nosing through a mix-mash of goodies please come out and join us.

It will be a one day sale starting early on October 2 and going as long as people keep coming by or the house is empty. The house is located at 802 Reuters View Road, just out of Crayne. Turn right at the bottom of Crayne hill; it's right on the road and easy to find. Watch for the signs.

Lots of movement round Marion

There are several new things cooking round town. Several warrant a mention in this week's Press.

•There's a new accounting firm going in on Main Street next to Louis's Flowers. Michael Overby from Providence will be setting up shop there. He recently attended a Chamber function in Marion.

•Farmers Bank has sold Hometown Loan Company to Personal Finance, which has numerous consumer finance companies under its umbrella. The office personnel didn't change.

•Airgas has moved to Princeton. The welding supply shop had been here for many years. Both employees are transferring to the new Princeton location.

•EZ & Js Restaurant at the old drive-in property on U.S. 60 West is being well-received in Crittenden County. Union Countians Josh and Vanessa Shouse own the restaurant, which features buffets for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

The restaurant's specialty is barbecue, including ribs, pulled pork, chicken and barbecued ham. Friday and Saturday nights feature fish and steak dinners.

How did they come up with the name? One letter each for their children – Ethan and Jerica and the late Zach Shouse.

The business opened

Sept. 2 at the former site of S&J Barbecue.

•The Italian restaurant that opened recently in Marion is moving a couple doors down.

Owners of the Italian grill, George and Joan Mangano, have purchased what has become basically a Main Street landmark – The Coffee Shop restaurant. The Coffee Shop has long been a popular place for morning regulars who discuss everything from sports to politics. KET once filmed a Comment on Kentucky episode there.

The Coffee Shop has officially been labeled Main Street Coffee Shop and Grill for the last few years, but everyone still uses the shorter version of the name. Its current owners, Bill and Kory Wheeler, also own The Front Porch restaurant so that's where you will be able to catch them after the real estate deal is complete.

Within a couple of weeks the move should be done. The Italian restaurant will not be serving breakfast, however. The new name will be Main Street Italian Grill and Pizzeria.

•The restaurant at Marion Country Club has closed again. Club leaders are trying to find another contractor to run the restaurant.

•Cole Lumber in Mott City is closing and relocating at another yard in Eddyville – the former Fugate Lumber location on U.S. 62.

Those a few of the happenings round town. If you know of something else that's going on, drop me an email at evans@the-press.com.

Marion resident, sheriff discuss scam phone calls

FROM STAFF & STATE POINT

In the day and age where technology is becoming ever more powerful, scam artists have kept up with the times, figuring out new ways to scam an unsuspecting victim either by telephone or over the computer, and fraud targeting senior citizens has also become a growing concern as millions have fallen victim nationwide. Roughly, 20 percent of Americans aged 65 or older already have been taken advantage of financially by inappropriate investment opportunities, unreasonably high fees or financial services or outright fraud, according to a recent survey by Investor Protection Trust.

Some common scams include:

•The Grandparent Scam preys on the emotions of seniors who believe a grandchild is in trouble. A local grandparent lost $12,000 when scam artists contacted her, posing as her grandchild in distress seeking money for a supposed arrest in Haiti. If faced with such a call, indicating an emergency situation, the Better Business Bureau (BBB) advises seniors to verify the identity of the individual, check out the story with other family members, and be wary of any requests to wire money.

•Colton Financial, a company claiming to be located in Farmington Hills, Mich., informs consumers they are approved for a secured loan for $5,000 if they wire a down payment first. Consumers wire the money, never receive the loan, and then are unable to contact anyone with the company. The company has an "F" rating with the BBB for not responding to several complaints. BBB warns consumers to be wary of bogus loan brokers impersonating legitimate lenders.

•BBB recommends exercising caution when hiring companies to do home repairs, driveway re-paving, etc. that solicit business door-to-door. Be wary of companies claiming to have "leftover materials" from a recent neighborhood job and offering services for advance payment. Always research the company first with the “Scamming happens more times than people know so it's always good to play it safe if you question even the smallest thing about a call or situation, especially if you didn't initiate the call,” the sheriff said.

Agent

BBB at www.bbb.org.

•Homeowners should use care when choosing a roofing contractor. BBB has received several complaints against American Shingle & Siding Inc. across the South and Mid Atlantic regions. The company often solicits door-to-door and requires homeowners to sign a contract with payment due upfront. Consumers complain that after payment, work is often poorly executed, not completed on-time, or never completed. BBB tips: Get at least three bids, beware of low estimates, and avoid high pressure sales tactics.

•National Magazine Exchange, a company that appears to go by at least 13 other names, calls consumers to solicit magazine sales and asks for credit card and bank account information. Invitations are also mailed to consumers inviting them to enter the Million Dollar "Strike It Rich" Sweepstakes, a promotion aimed at boosting subscription sales. The company has an "F" rating with the BBB for not responding to several complaints.

•Scholarship scams – Parents and college students should be wary of private scholarship scams offering "a scholarship guaranteed or your money back." Legitimate scholarship foundations don't charge application fees or ask for credit card or bank account information in order to "hold" a scholarship. Research the foundation or financial institution with the BBB at www.bbb.org.

Cathy Hunt of Marion had a run in not too long ago with two different types of scams, with one caller posing as a credit card representative and another dealing with magazine subscriptions.

"The first call I received was from a company called Credit Card Services, and I knew right off that something wasn't right," Hunt said. "I've heard of this type of scam before where this so-called company will call and try to get your information so I just hung up on them."

She received a phone call from a magazine company a few days later, claiming to have lost her subscription information.

"A man called and said that their systems were down and needed to know information to get my subscriptions renewed," Hunt said. "I wasn't too sure about the call so I had asked him what magazines they were for and he hesitated before saying, 'Sports Illustrated' and a few others, all of which I don't get."

Hunt went on to tell the caller that she didn't subscribe to those magazines to which the caller responded by becoming very rude, a sign that Crittenden County Sheriff Wayne Agent says is an indicator of a likely scam.

"Usually scams like this are pretty evident when callers start asking personal questions about bank accounts and other information that typically isn't given over the phone," Agent said. "They'll also try to use intimidation when dealing with an older person or start getting hateful and impatient if the person they're talking to starts to figure them out."

If a call is received that you're not sure about, Agent says the best rule is to never give any personal information over the phone. Either hang up or ask to speak to a supervisor.

"Scamming happens more times than people know so it's always good to play it safe if you question even the smallest thing about a call or situation, especially if you didn't initiate the call," the sheriff said.

And for those emails or letters that claim a person has won the lottery – for which they didn't buy a ticket – Agent says, "If it sounds too good to be true, then it probably is."

Stout captures Mr. MSU title

Murray State senior Logan Stout of Marion has officially become "big man on campus" with his capturing of the Mr. MSU competition Friday at Lovett Auditorium on campus at Murray.

The annual competition is based on academics, extra-curricular activities, a personal interview, essay writing and culminates with a live talent portion at the auditorium. Stout was accompanied by fellow student Stevie West for his rendition of Patrick Swayze's famous dance routine from the movie Dirty Dancing with actress Jennifer Grey.

Medley returns to Marion to head 2011 Bobcats

As the closer for the Bobcats in their inaugural season, Kyle Medley drove his former skipper to nervously gnaw is thumb to the quick. When the 2011 season starts for the Bobcats, Medley will be getting a taste of his own medicine, reversing those roles.
Earlier this week, General Manager Gordon Guess announced that Medley will be replacing Steve Fowler as manager and head coach of the Marion squad. The 23-year-old Kentucky native will Tanner Nix outran the Caldwell defense for a while, but the Tigers eventually caught up to Crittenden's offense and stopped it cold. Nix rushed for a team-high 131 yards.

Caldwell capitalizes on five turnovers in 44-7 blowout

PRINCETON, Ky. – Crittenden County piled several week's worth of mistakes onto the field at Caldwell County and the Tigers scooped them up in a surprisingly lopsided 44-7 victory.
The unranked Tigers shredded Crittenden's pass defense for 252 yards through the air as the fifth-ranked Rockets fell for the first time in five games this season.
Four interceptions and a fumble stymied a Crittenden County offense that had posted 114 points the previous two weeks.
"We just couldn't get anything going because of the turnovers," Rocket coach Al Starnes said. "We didn't take care of the ball and Caldwell capitalized on that."
Three first-half interceptions and a fumble helped the Tigers jump ahead 21-7, but the Rockets still believed they were in the game going into the third period. However, that's when Caldwell poured on the pressure, using playmaker Brandon Sigler to pound the ball on the ground and QB Blake Hodges (who set a career-high for passing yards in a single game) went to work on the secondary, throwing two more touchdown passes as Caldwell scored 37 unanswered points to win going away.

Rocket backup quarterback Bryce Willis had played well in his first two games since starter Brian Berry broke his thumb in the second week of the season. Against Caldwell, Willis struggled as Caldwell applied pressure on the rookie QB. His first pass was picked off and returned 26 yards for a touchdown and he ended up throwing three more, including one in the end zone late in the game, spoiling Crittenden's chances of making the score a bit more respectable. Willis was also sacked three times.
Caldwell County, which has dominated the series 33-10 since the teams first met in 1957, evened the border war record at 6-6 over the last dozen years with its fifth win in six seasons.
"You have to give Caldwell credit. They exploited our inexperience," Starnes said. "What troubles me most is that we didn't play very hard the whole game for some reason and that's on me. I didn't have us ready to play."

The Rockets open district play Friday at home against Ballard Memorial.

The series: Crittenden County leads the series 23-9, which started in 1975 with a 30-0 Rocket home victory. Ballard's wins have come in streaks, taking six straight from 1976 to 1981 then three straight in 2001 and 2002, including a playoff victory. Coach Starnes is 14-3 against the Bombers. Seven of Crittenden's wins have been by shutout, the last coming in 1999. The Rockets have outscored Ballard 41-14, on average, over the past three meetings.
Game Notes: The Bombers are coached by Chris Cooper, a former Tilghman lineman... Crittenden is averaging 7 penalties per game, the highest average since 2002 when the Rockets had 7.6 per game... Crittenden's 4 interceptions thrown last week were the most by a quarterback since J.D. Gray threw 4 in the 63-0 loss to Massac County to open the 2007 season... Crittenden is averaging 332.6 total yards per game, the most since 2005. This is the first season since 2006 that Crittenden has not had a running back with at least 150 yards in a single game during the first 5 contests of the season.
Scouting Report: Ballard's quarterback-receiver tandem of Alex Mallory and Alex Hill is one of the best in the state. The seniors rank among Kentucky's best in their respective categories with Hill having the best per-game average in the state (157 yds). Mallory is 8th in passing yards per game (235 yds.). The Bombers rely heavily on their passing attack which has netted 1,040 yards in 5 games. The running game has provided just 307 yards with Nick Crist the team leader at 109 yards. RB Tyler Gough is also a tough runner and Mallory has elusive feet and will run at times. Six Ballard receivers have caught passes for 50 or more yards this season. Behind Hill in total yards and most catches is Chris Jones who has 10 for 141. Hill has caught 33 passes for 644 yards. Mallory (the son of WPSD-TV morning newscast host Mike Mallory) has completed 70 of 136 attempts, thrown a dozen TD passes and 6 interceptions. Senior Andrew Dorch is key defender and a big lineman at 6-4, 240.

Impressive showing by Owen in and out of the goal

Despite the outcome not being what the Lady Rockets wanted Monday at Central Hopkins in a 7-1 setback, junior Emily Owen put up some impressive numbers from her goalie position.

With 12:00 remaining in the contest, the talented junior had already recorded 21 saves at Mortons Gap.

Needing to spark the offense, Crittenden coach Ken Geary put Owen on offense at that 12:00 mark and she did just that.

Trailing 5-0, she drilled a goal from 40 yards out to put them on the scoreboard.

Despite another setback, Crittenden (0-12) continues to show improvement heading into the final two weeks of the regular season.

"They're getting better," Geary said after the loss.

He was impressed with the athleticism of the Lady Storm's five senior players and found them hard to stop during the game.

After transferring Owen to offense to help give his team a spark, Geary was also happy with the play of reserve goalie Whitney Williams.

On a bright note, the Lady Rocket JV team recorded its first win against the Lady Storm winning 3-1.

Anna Schnittker scored two of the goals in the win while Ellen Merrick recorded the other goal.

Mercy rule bests Crittenden

After remaining scoreless during the early going last Thursday, host Union County went on top 1-0 at the 31:56 mark of the first half and dominated the game the rest of the way en route to a 10-0 mercy rule win.

Owen did her best to keep her squad in the game, amassing 15 saves in the defeat.

Unfortunately, the Bravettes tallied seven more goals in the opening half to enjoy a comfortable 8-0 advantage at intermission.

Despite not being able to dent the scoreboard, one bright spot for the visitors was that they did have four corner kicks. Although they were unable to get any through the Bravette goalkeeper, the quartet of Adrienne Phelps, Casey Stallion, Zoe Black and Schnittker all got scoring chances.

The hosts scored with 31:13 left in the contest to bring the game to a close by the mercy rule.

VOLLEYBALL Lady Rockets resume winning streak at UHA

The Lady Rockets got back on the winning track last Thursday after beating University Heights with an easy 25-5, 25-19 two-set triumph.

After dominating the first set against the inexperienced Lady Blazers (1-16), it gave them the luxury of inserting several JV players in the second set.

Lady Rocket coach Larry Duvall was pleased with the way his team came out and took care of business, not giving the Lady Blazers any hopes of springing an upset. "That was a pretty easy win," the Crittenden coach said after the triumph.

He continues to be pleased with his squad's consistency this year. They have only dropped consecutive contests once through 19 games.

Livingston County upsets Lady Rockets in Smithland

Fifth District archrival Livingston Central spoiled the Lady Rockets' plans for an unbeaten march through league play last week in Smithland, dominating the game in straight sets 25-9, 25-18.

After unpending the Lady Cardinals in the first meeting of the year, Crittenden has come up on the losing end the last two times. The second encounter was in the opening round of the Class A Second Region Tournament at Princeton.

"The girls did not come ready to play," Duvall said, after the disheartening setback.

With the loss, both teams finish Fifth District play with identical 3-1 records. The number one seed will be determined at the meeting for the district tourney, which starts in two weeks.

With a golden opportunity to claim the number one seed as well as record the program's first undefeated district mark, the Crittenden coach was disappointed that his squad did not play with a greater sense of urgency.

"We played terrible. That game stunk," Duvall said.

traveled to Lebetter Tuesday where it participated in the Boys' First Region Tournament at Drake Creek Golf Course.

Crittenden finished 18th out of 20 teams with a score of 374. Livingston finished 19th at 386.

Individually for the Rockets, freshman Aaron Owen led with a 91 followed by Jason Enoch 92, Jordan Enoch 97, Cameron McDaniel 94 and Colin Belt 100.

While they didn't qualify to play in the state tournament, Rockets' coach Blair Winders was pleased with the overall effort that his team demonstrated, not only during regionals, but throughout the season as well.

"The number one thing that I always look for is improvement," Winders said. "It's not always about winning but how well they've improved over the season. It is a young team that is getting varsity experience and next year's scores will reflect that."

Only losing two seniors to graduation in May, Winders will have eight returning players that will help build strength and experience next season. Winders also had 10 players earn varsity letters this season.

"These kids will bring their experience back with them next season and that will be an overall boost to the team," Winders said.

TO PREVENT INJURY FROM RAKING, BE SURE TO:

- Warm up for at least 10 minutes with some stretching and light exercise.
- Use a rake that is comfortable for your height and strength. Wear gloves or use rakes with padded handles to prevent blisters.
- Keep your vision free of impediment, like hats or scarves and beware of large rocks, low branches, tree stumps or uneven surfaces.
- Vary your movement, alternating your leg and arm positions often. When picking up leaves, bend at the knees, not the waist.
- Wet leaves can be slippery; wear shoes or boots with slip-resistant soles.
- Do not overfill leaf bags, especially if the leaves are wet. To avoid back injury, you should be able to carry bags comfortably.
- Never throw leaves over your shoulder or to the side. The twisting motion required to do so places undue stress on your back.

Footsteps on the Trail of Tears

PHOTOS BY JERRITT HOVEY-BROWN
1. Signs like this one are placed along the trail, showing the distance from one point to the other. 2. People stop and admire the natural bridge that is known as Mantle Rock. 3. Acrylic signs such as this are also placed along the trail, providing a brief background and a slight glimpse into the hardships that Cherokees faced when making their forced 900-mile journey to Oklahoma. 4. Marion resident Stella Brown (pink shirt), points out Mantle Rock's natural eagle formation on its underside to Charlotte Posey of Union County.

New signage part of Trail's friendly change

Historic Mantle Rock and its two-mile hiking trail, part of the original Trail of Tears, were refitted with new visitor-friendly signage and interpretive information booths recently. A dedication was held last week on location in Livingston County.

The path to Mantle Rock has been tamed with acrylic signs giving a brief history of the federal Indian removal policy and the trail that about 12,000 Cherokees took as they were forced from their homeland to what is now Oklahoma between September 1838 and March 1839.

Partnering with several agencies, tribes and organizations, the Nature Conservancy planned and developed a Trail of Tears National Historic Trail retrace-ment opportunity along the Salem to Golconda historic road at Mantle Rock in Livingston County. With newly improved parking, the site also features the ability to hike the trail, retracing Cherokee footsteps.

Mantle Rock itself is a 30-foot high natural sandstone bridge that spans 188 feet. It served as shelter when many tribes were forced to camp there for two weeks when the Ohio River nearly froze solid in December of 1838.

WORKING FOR YOU!

AS YOUR COUNTY ATTORNEY, REBECCA JOHNSON IS PUTTING CHILDREN FIRST.

Under Rebecca's leadership, Crittenden County Rose To #2 In Kentucky For Child Support Collections

Recipient of the 2010 Child Support Service Award

"Johnson has been very innovative in her collection efforts while at the same time displaying compassion and commitment to those grandparents, parents and children in her county."

Greg Vincent, President
Kentucky County Attorney Association

Last year Rebecca and Brenda started working my child support case. At the time I was trying to work two jobs to support myself and my 14 year old son. They located my son's father in New England and for the first time, I started receiving support. My son now has health insurance and is able to have badly needed orthodontial braces. Rebecca and her staff spent a tremendous amount of time on my case and have allowed us to have a better standard of living.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Mammography is an x-ray picture of the breasts. It is the single most effective method to detect breast changes that may be cancer, long before physical symptoms can be seen or felt. Because risk factors vary in everyone, each woman and her doctor should discuss the plan that's right for her. The American Cancer Society recommends that women 40 and over have a mammogram every year. Mammograms save lives. Make an appointment today.

FREE GIFT WITH EVERY MAMOGRAM

Everyone receiving a mammogram in October will be entered into a drawing at the end of the month.
